FLASHBACKS

BACK THROUGH THE YEARS WITH JACK

Jack Benny may want to forget the fact that he has seen thirty-nine summers and a few winters but we won't want to stop remembering some of the events that have made his life a real contribution to show business

Remember the famous Jack Benny-Fred Allen feud . . . the "I Can't Stand Jack Benny" contest . . . the day he joined CBS? These are only a few of the memorable incidents in the famous comedian's life that we are recapturing here in pictures that will take you happily back through the years. They will also remind you, as they did us, of the very real contributions Jack has made to your entertainment for lo! these many years—all thirty-nine of his.

There's Fire in "Gunsmoke"

Radio will always be alive and kicking with shows as good as this knockout Western

By Jon Bruce

FRANKLY, it's amazing that "Gunsmoke" ever got on radio. This CBS show which airs Saturdays at 6:30 p.m. is so lacking in formula stuff and cliches that it's a miracle it wasn't dismissed in the beginning with the typical reaction, "It'll never go—it's too different."

And it certainly is original. Its Western hero, Matt Dillon, is not the All-American-boy type—in fact, at times he sounds like a heavy; he doesn't win all of his fights; he doesn't barge into a saloon, take on six or seven guys and knock them all out cold; he isn't in love with some poor little lassie whose father owns a ranch on which the mortgage is past due; he is friendly with a dance-hall girl of questionable reputation; the dialogue in the show is literate and has none of the tired old lines like "How'rya podner?" or the "he went that-a-way" drivel.

No Conventional Hero

In almost every instance, the stories of "Gunsmoke," all of which center around the exploits of Marshal Matt Dillon of Dodge City in the 1870's, defy convention. Matt is no stock heroic but a human being with his own particular emotional problems. In one script he was faced with the decision of whether or not to amputate a man's leg. The man was dying of blood poisoning, no doctor was available, so Matt was asked to do the operation. After debating the matter, he decided to try the amputation. So you think Matt saved the man's life. He did not. The man died.

Another time Matt met two men who looked familiar to him. All during the half-hour show he made references to the fact that he knew those men but couldn't remember their names. At the end he remembered. They were the James brothers. Can you imagine a Western with a marshal who wouldn't recognize such noted outlaws?

How Show Was Born

Norman Macdonnell, producer-director, and Johnny Maston conceived the idea of "Gunsmoke." They had long wanted to do a Western that would appeal to adults. One script was tried out on "Escape," a show Norman was directing, and later another was done on "Romance."

Both were so successful that the two men tried to sell the idea to CBS, but with no luck. It was too diametrically opposed to all conceptions of Western shows on radio. Also, at about the same time CBS was working up a rather typical formula Western to be called "Gunsmoke."

"I guess we used subtle and sundry means," Norman remarked, "but the first thing we knew our scripts went on as 'Gunsmoke' instead of the ones originally set by the station. I think we had such a difficult time selling the show at first because radio was in such a state of flux that no one wanted to try anything different. That's why we're so gratified to see how fast the program has caught on."

"Selling the show was one problem. The other was convincing those in charge that William Conrad was the perfect Matt Dillon. Bill had been playing a lot of heavies on radio and no one could see him as the hero type—simply because he didn't sound like the young Western guy. Those who objected to him on those grounds are now praising him for the same reasons."

As for Bill Conrad, he thinks "Gunsmoke" is the greatest thing that could happen to an actor as do regulars Parley Baer, Howard McNear and Georgia Ellis.

Mail Pull

The mail that comes into Norman's office is excellent testimony to the show's realism.

Several amusing letters have come in. One was from some people in Dodge City who wrote that they knew Matt Dillon was a real character who had come from Dodge City but they couldn't place the exact years in which he was Marshal.

THE TWO MEN who make "Gunsmoke" the hit it is: left, producer-director Norman Macdonnell and Bill Conrad, who stars as "Mat Dillon." If you think all Western shows are alike, listen to this one and you'll have a few surprises. The regulars on the CBS radio show are, left to right, Parley Baer, Georgia Ellis, Bill, and Howard McNear. They certainly prove there's still a lot of talent on radio.

As a matter of fact, Matt is a purely fictitious character.

Then there was the Governor of Kansas, who appeared on a broadcast of "Gunsmoke" and thanked CBS for such an authentic picturization of Dodge City as it used to be. But he hastily assured listeners that the city had become quite civilized since then.

Apparently a couple of boys in Montreal, Canada, didn't hear the Governor because they wrote about their plans to tour the United States and mentioned they had thought of passing through Dodge City. However, since hearing the show they decided they should skip a visit to this wild and dangerous city. Norman Macdonnell, of course, assured them that the place was perfectly okay now.

Don't look for "Gunsmoke" to hit your TV screens. At least, Norman and his co-workers are against the idea.

"Our show is the perfect one for the medium of radio," he said. "Besides, we couldn't be as accurate as we are now in details. For example, marshals in Dodge City at that time wore derby hats, watch charms, button shoes, and other such fancy trimmings. Can you see a Western hero dressed like that on TV?"

As long as shows like "Gunsmoke" stay on radio, the medium will never have to count itself out. TV should, as a matter of fact, immediately enlist the services of Norman Macdonnell and Bill Conrad. Maybe they could bring some life to an often ailing youngster.

The Problems of a Press Agent

Behind all the glowing words written about the TV stars are those people whose job it is to sell the pretty words to the public. But oh! the ulcers they get!

HAL BOCK, now a leading independent Hollywood publicist, has a unique slant on the Problems of a Press Agent, for Hal started with NBC in San Francisco in 1933 and during the past twenty years has noted a change of emphasis. "Over a period of years," he commented, "it's interesting to see a gradual and definite change of talent from just entertainers, troubadours or buffoons to solid and important business corporations. The trend in our national living has made it necessary for them to do this, rather than be itinerant artists." Bock points out that expectancy of a "career life" is extremely short, especially in regard to TV, which he tabs "a man-killer."

Accordingly, the networks, agencies and sponsors now deal with "talent" as they would with any other business concern. This practical attitude has brought about a change in publicity, which has turned from the fantastic milk-bath, guinea-hen-under-glass-for-breakfast type stories to more realistic publicity. In other words, as Bock puts it, "the days of the out-and-out baloney are gone. Today's publicist with a client feels he has a piece of merchandise—and so you have to figure out how to sell it. It's like selling a can of beans. First you determine what kind of beans you have and then what kind of market for them."

Temperament

In line with the more realistic approach to publicity, the problems of the publicist have changed. Temperament is seldom displayed, though Bock claims he has never found anybody big ("with a capital B") with temperament. He has had ample opportunity to witness any outbursts, for he successfully headed up NBC's Western Division Press

Department for many years (and was the first Westerner to win the annual Billboard Award for exploitation in the radio business—in fact he was a two-time recipient, both in 1940 and 1941).

Gone, then, are the days of the actress "with ninety per cent temper and ten per cent mental." Though Bock seldom had to deal with such persons, he does recall a couple of incidents. One involved a bit of hoity toity on the part of a famous movie star appearing weekly on a big radio dramatic series. It was the duty of Bock's department to get publicity photos of this star, but the actor continually refused to pose. Finally he magnanimously consented to stand still for "just two pictures." On the appointed day, Bock sauntered into the studio and got his two pictures—two apiece, that is, from eight photographers he assembled for the great occasion! "I never had any trouble with the star again," Bock remarked.

A well-known singing star who repeatedly gave trouble by refusing to pose because she didn't have on make-up was also handled neatly. One day Bock appeared in the studio to make his tired bid for pictures. Just as the diva started voicing her customary dodge, one of Bock's assistants produced a complete make-up kit. All the star could do was to take the kit and capitulate to the camera.

One of Bock's rules is always to straighten out misunderstandings with the people with whom he is dealing. "I've always felt that if you don't understand or have a misunderstanding, you can work it out by talking for a minute," he stated.

For stars whose hat size becomes enlarged his stock remedy is the silent treatment. It has never failed.

One of the smartest publicity men in town is KTLA's Howard Wormser. Howard came to the station with an extensive background which included publicizing such famous names as Red Skelton, Benny Goodman, Kay Kyser, and many more.

Other Press Agents

"Oddly enough, one of the biggest problems a publicity man in a motion-picture studio or TV station faces is other press agents," Howard commented. "The independent publicist gets in our hair more than a little by his happy habit of double-planting stories. I know of one press agent who makes a habit of sending the same idea for an article to as many as three magazines. Then when the identical story appears in two books—or maybe even three—he concocts all kinds of excuses to explain away the mishap. Usually he places the blame on the station, which had nothing to do with the whole thing."

Nursemaid to Stars

"Most publicity men, however, get their man-sized headaches from playing nursemaid to stars. A few of the satellites can get into some royal messes. One big name I once handled got into a sordid affair involving a soldier. The outcome of the deal was that the soldier robbed the star. I was given an emergency call by the performer, who had foolishly called the police to report the theft. He suddenly realized he would be at a loss to explain the whole situation without putting himself in an awkward light. I managed to turn the story around enough to take any embarrassment off the star. In short, he emerged as something of a heroic character.

"A press agent, like anyone else, can be fooled by a personality he is to plug. That's why I think it's better to forestall any future problems by knowing the star well before taking on the job. There is one TV name I once worked for—and it wasn't until I had been with him for a few months that I realized he was not the sweet guy I had thought he was. In fact, he was a no-good person. But I had a contract and I had to continue 'selling' him.

"It's easy to publicize someone whose talents you respect. I was never very fond of Benny Goodman as a person but I could 'sell' him because he had great talent. In the case of Sigmund Romberg, whom I also publicized, I had an easy job because he had talent and also a likeable personality."

Skelton a Top Guy

"My favorite, however, is Red Skelton. Red, to me, is the greatest comedian in the business and he's a regular guy. But I can never forget a boner I pulled once while I was with Red.

"He was doing one of his regular Sunday evening previews of his radio show and I had decided not to go that night to the studio. I told his wife to let me know, however, if I were needed for anything. I was sitting at home that evening when the phone rang. It was Red's wife telling me that the curtain in the studio had caught on fire. The fire had been put out but the room was full of smoke and Red had dragged out an overcoat usher from the place. This was a story worth a couple of paragraphs so I called it in to the various papers. All but one city editor took it and he lambasted me for bothering him with such a silly story. I got mad and told him he was a fool for passing up this big yarn. 'Here I am standing in the studio with fire raging all around me,' I said. 'The beams are falling and Red has just pulled an usher from the flaming room—and you refuse to take this story!' The guy bit and ran the item with banner headlines on the next edition. His was the only paper that gave it such a spread—and he was promptly fired. Red was also a little unhappy because it had made him look silly. I don't know what got into me that time."

Klaus Landsberg

"Fortunately, I'm working now for Klaus Landsberg at KTLA and I'm glad I am. Klaus is, to me at least, the C. B. DeMille of TV. Before I got this job I had several other fine offers from stations in town but I had a real respect for Klaus's talent and I wanted to work with him. It took me three months to see him and then I had to corner him at eleven o'clock one night. I talked to him for five minutes and got the job.

"My desk is not exactly free of problems but at least I'm able to publicize KTLA and Klaus with honesty. It's no routine job."

Another sharp publicist is Pat McDermott, manager of press information of CBS-TV, who works for another master publicity man, Norman Siegel.

More Headaches

"One of our biggest problems," Pat began, "is supplying plentiful and new pictures every week for all the magazines that are now entering the TV field. To get the stars to take the time to pose for the art, to be sure that pictures are kept exclusive for the various publications—all this is a headache. It's even worse when so many times the magazines don't like what you've shot. Then they want a whole new set immediately.

"We press agents are very anxious to cooperate with magazines and newspapers because that's our job, but we do get a little irked when we're asked to write the stories for certain publications. We feel, perhaps naively, that the magazine should be sufficiently staffed with writers to handle this chore themselves.

"Editors, too, give us headaches. They are, in some cases, a class of people who get easily upset. Most of them are cooperative but we do have those who get imagined hurts and dash to the network vice-president with a complaint. If we have failed to do our job, we deserve such complaints, but it is hard to please everyone all the time.

"Then there are some sponsors who give us a few trials. Sponsors may put the pressure on us if a show isn't doing so well—and then we have to start beating the drums. More than once we in the press department have kept a show on the channels."

Not Appreciated

"I don't want to sound as though we press agents are only an inch removed from being martyrs, but in all honesty I think that we haven't a well-appreciated job. We hear plenty when there are complaints but seldom do we hear anything about a chore well done. Talent is equally disinterested in admitting when a publicist has done rather well by them.

"But we stay in the business because it's always a challenge. We may get ulcers and nervous breakdowns but we're hams enough to get a glow when we see a story of ours hit the front pages or get a big layout in an important magazine. Maybe we're all just frustrated actors."

Does anyone want to go to work as a press agent?

IF YOU think Fate works in an amazing way, listen to the story of Elizabeth Patterson.

This exceptionally talented actress who is now playing the much sought-after role of the baby sitter to Lucy and Desi's baby on "I Love Lucy" might never have had the chance for the part if it weren't for a performance she gave on another "Lucy" show about six months ago. And it was that performance that had convinced her she would be a royal flop.

"I was asked to do this role," Patty explained, "and since it involved a broad kind of comedy I hadn't been used to playing I was positive I would be terrible. I begged to be relieved of the assignment. Instead of heeding my pleas, Lucille and Desi and Jess Oppenheimer, producer-writer, kept telling me how good I was going to be in the part. I finally went ahead and played it—still convinced I was not good and with everyone else still saying I was.

yet remain genuine, honest, and humble. They're never too busy to pay a compliment or to make your job easier. The same is true of Mr. Oppenheimer and writers Madelyn Pugh and Bob Carroll.

"I must confess that for a while I was worried when I began playing Mrs. Trumbull, who became the baby sitter. I was told I wasn't speaking loudly enough. This confused me, since in the many years I'd been an actress on the stage I'd never had to worry about projection. I was having lunch with Bill Frawley one day and mentioned how concerned I was about this. He laughed and said, 'Don't let it bother you, Patty. We're the loudest-mouthed foursome in the business—Vivian, Lucy, Desi, and I.' So I raised the voice and haven't had any trouble since.

"Being on 'I Love Lucy' is so much fun it's hardly to be classified as work. If only all jobs were this pleasant!"

Patty is, of course, no newcomer to television. She has appeared on such shows as Studio One, Pulitzer Prize Playhouse, and Lux Video Theatre. Her very definite talents have also been used many times in countless motion pictures, her most notable performance perhaps being in "Intruder in the Dust."

She is a native of the deep South, having been born in Savannah, Tennessee. When she was still a young girl she embarked on a theatrical career that saw her doing Shakespearean roles and then went on to some of the most famous hits ever to hit Broadway. As a result of her work on the stage, Paramount signed her to a contract. That was over twenty years ago, and she's been here ever since.

"I've played many different kinds of parts in my life," Patty concluded with a warm smile, "but seldom have I had such a wonderful opportunity as I have now. To be playing the baby sitter to the most famous baby in the most widely known family in America is something like seeing a dream come true. In fact, I keep pinching myself to be sure I'm not dreaming."

The Million Dollar BABY SITTER

Introducing Elizabeth Patterson, veteran character actress, who happily joins Lucy and Desi as their favorite infant caretaker

By Jack Holland

"You can be very sure now that I'm eternally grateful that I was overruled then. My performance seemed to be all right, but the important thing was that from it I got the part of the baby sitter. All of which goes to prove that no actress can tell one solitary thing about any performance she may give. I only wish that the other times I had thought I was not doing well had had such wonderful results.

"Working with Lucille and Desi is an exciting experience. In fact, everyone connected with the show is a dream. In all my years in the theater and in motion pictures I have never known people to be so kind and so helpful. It's a thrilling thing to see people like Lucille and Desi hit such terrific heights and

"Ebony Showcase"

The first TV showing of "Ebony Showcase" will take place on Thursday, June 11, at 10:30 p.m. over Channel 11.

Featuring an all-Negro cast from the "Ebony Showcase" legitimate-stage theater at 2182 W. Washington Blvd., the half-hour variety show is headed by Nick Stewart, well-known stage and screen comedian.

They Like Linn

A TV fan club and 50,000 homeless refugee children in Korea will get together this week. How is such a thing possible? This is the story:

All week, members of the Roberta Linn Fan Club have been collecting old blankets for the children. On Saturday, June 13, starting at 1 p.m. at Griffith Park at the Pepper Tree Lane, the persons who bring in the greatest donations will be awarded prizes. Goodwill Industries are collecting the blankets for the club. Those who are unable to give blankets can make donation for a Roberta Linn School in Korea.

Roberta, her entire "Cafe Continental" cast, and a 105-piece band from the 7th Division of the Army will be on hand to entertain. Refreshments will be free. Best of all, everyone and anyone—that includes you—are invited.

Sounds like fun, and for a good cause, too.

Records—Played and Broken

Les Brown played records and set records in his opening at the Palladium last week.

Over 3330 loyal rooters danced to the music of the "Band of Renown" for its fourteenth engagement at the famed Hollywood dance hall. Besides Les's own playing on the alto sax and clarinet, the crowd applauded the singing of Lucy Ann Polk, Butch Stone and Stumpy Brown, Dave's Pell's sax solos; and swooning renditions of Ray Simms and his trombone.

Celebrities in attendance included Marilyn Maxwell, Margaret Whiting, Kay Starr, Roberta Linn, Eileen Wilson, Russ Morgan, Vic Schoen, and Jimmy Wakely. TV fans can enjoy this same show on "Palladium Party," Channel 2, Sundays, at 8 p.m.

According to the Hooperatings for Los Angeles for May, "I Love Lucy" is in the number-one place for the sixth successive month.

"You Bet Your Life"—with Groucho Marx—in second place for the sixth successive month; (3) "Dragnet," up from fourth place in April; (4) "Colgate Comedy Hour"—with Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis; (5) "Burns and Allen," which rose from seventh place in April; (6) "Our Miss Brooks"—with Eve Arden; (7) "Your Hit Parade"; (8) "Your Show of Shows"—with Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca—which rose from tenth place in April; (9) "Treasury Men in Action," which rose from sixteenth place in April; (10) "The Red Skelton Program," up from eleventh place in April.

"Strange Things Are Happening"

Borrowing a popular phrase from CBS's Red Buttons, we note that strange things are happening. Two CBS-TV shows are exiting their home berth for the summer in favor of a rival network. NBC is slated to carry Ann Sothern's "Private Secretary" and "The Big Payoff" starring Bess Myerson and Randy Merriman during the summer season. When the leaves begin to fall, "Private Secretary" returns to CBS and from all indications "The Big Payoff" will duplicate the switch.

The Alvino Rey-King Sisters Show

KNBH, Saturday, 10 p.m.

KNBH seems to have a sure winner in "The Alvino Rey-King Sisters Show." This is an entertaining, well-produced program that should draw many viewers to Channel 4. It features no mammoth production but each number is thoughtfully presented. As for the music itself, it's the kind that local audiences seem to love.

Actually, Harry von Zell's name should be added to the title of the show, for he carries the entire proceedings—and does so with an easy charm. His many years experience in radio and on TV certainly add a lot of class to the production.

Alvino Rey's masterful musicianship, his amazing "talking steel guitar," and the King Sisters' expert vocalizing combine to make the program one that should be heartily recommended. It's a standout among locally produced shows.

The commercials for H. J. Caruso are frequent but are also quite amazing. If Caruso continues to make car deals like this, he'll be lucky if he has enough money left to pay for the TV show. Harry von Zell makes the plugs interesting—and that's more than can be said for most commercials.—J.H.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

BY JACK HOLLAND

Maybe we've had just too much of this chlorophyll business—but our biggest laugh of the season is Palmolive's campaign to convince you soap users that the green in its product is chlorophyll and has been so all these years. Isn't this stretching a point just a little too far? Before chlorophyll was brought out to a panting public, nobody worried about the color of Palmolive. We think the hoopla is possibly the creation of ad men who are having sleepless nights trying to put a new look on an old face.

Since we're all for honest and legitimate religious shows on TV and because we're solidly "agin" anything that uses faith as a come-on, we're happy to see the growing spiritual emphasis on television. The newest is the "Fireside Bible Hour," which goes out on KTTV on Sundays from 10:15 to 11 a.m. From all that can be gathered, this is a non-denominational show that will primarily feature the reading of the Bible. It sounds good. Let's hope it is.

CBS-TV, under the capable guidance of Norman Siegel, threw a star-studded party Coronation day to show the Coronation films. The party had all the finesse long associated with (Please Turn to Page 25)

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

Judith Goldberg, 410 N. Gardner St., Los Angeles, Calif.

My friends and I would like to see Virginia Hewitt on "Space Patrol" have a show of her own.

This letter had seventy names signed to it.

Barbara Dildine, 2365 Queensberry, Pasadena, Calif.

Congratulations to Bill Hall for photographing such a wonderful cover of Roberta Linn. I've heard Roberta had beautiful legs; this cover proved it. Her dogs posed just like professionals. The picture of Bert and her mother was swell.

M. Faris, 11706 Alberts St., North Hollywood, Calif.

Lawrence Welk has "the" show of the week for me. He has everything—real musicians, fast-moving entertainment, and he himself is something special in the way of a band leader. Myron Floren, Rocky Rockwell, and Bob Lido deserve top honors in my opinion.

Agnes Maher, 733 N. Topoka St., Anaheim, Calif.

I would like to see Joanie O'Brien from "Hometown Jamboree" on Lawrence Welk's program before she tells her voice away. She is a good singer, nice looking and an all-around fine performer. She would be a fine match for Garth Andrews's soft voice. Will you suggest this to Mr. Welk?

What about it, Lawrence? A gentleman named Cliffie Stone would also have to be consulted in this matter.

Mr. and Mrs. Foy, Arcadia, Calif.

I have never written a "fan" or

NO LESSONS

Merle Travis long rated as one of the world's greatest guitar players, has been receiving fan mail on the show he does daily with his wife, Judy Hayden—"Merle Travis and Company"—asking him about giving guitar lessons. Merle turns down such requests. He feels he isn't qualified—mainly because he never took any himself!

"Working
My Way Through College"

"My blind master and I are going to school at the famous Eye Dog Foundation in Azusa, California. Our education is being paid by folks like you who send the box tops of Ease, that wonderful detergent for laundry and dishes, to the Eye Dog Foundation. These box tops are redeemed by the makers of Ease as donations which pay for our education."

If this beautiful Eye Dog could talk he unquestionably would say something like this. Perhaps he might even add that you would be doing yourself a favor too if you switched to Ease for your laundry and dishes.

The Eye Dog Foundation is the oldest institution in the west which provides "eyes" for the blind, restoring blind people to active normal lives. It is a non-profit charitable institution, incorporated under the laws of the State of California.

"pan" letter before, but after viewing for the second week the Al Herman show, I'd like to say that we feel that TV has reached a new low. It is hard for me to believe that an intelligent woman like Caroline Leonetti would allow her name to be used in connection with such an indecent show.

The idea of the show is good. We all enjoy looking at pretty girls in bathing suits, but surely there is some censorship at KLAC to clean up the very unfunny jokes that Herman tells, and to make Greta Thyssen wear gowns that cover her bosom. We are not prudes at our house, but we find this show absolutely disgusting. We don't care to have Main Street "entertainment" in our living rooms.

Mrs. H. R. Willitt, Burbank, Calif.

A couple of times I have read in your column that someone hates to look at the half-dressed wrestlers. They look all right; but what about the half-dressed females on all TV shows. Is there anything more disgusting? It certainly seems dangerous for young girls to be half-dressed all the time.

Jackie Webb, 1827 N. Wilcox Ave., Hollywood, Calif.

I sure do like those singing station breaks on KXLA. I tune in that station just to hear them.

F. O. Barber, 1209 Stone St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Thank you and thanks for putting the "Flicker Fare" on the page of the day's listing. It is a vast improvement.

As our regular readers are well aware, TV-RADIO LIFE constantly makes changes in format to meet the demand of our loyal following. Just recently, for example, we expanded our TV logs to two full pages for each day to give us the best and most complete TV logs in Southern California. Please keep the comments and criticisms coming. We want to always do what YOU want.

M. A. Pearson, 1220 W. Pico, Los Angeles, Calif.

I want to call your special attention to a Saturday morning program on KECA that is devoted, apparently, to stimulating young Americans' interest in baseball. It is by far the best series of sports talks aimed at juveniles that I have ever heard. Phil Rizzuto deserves a boost for his little show.

Mrs. Mabel Asmus, 373 Algrove St., Covina, Calif.

I am a yearly subscriber of TV-RADIO LIFE, and want to let you know that by the way of printing "Flicker Fare" on each day's program is so much handier.

TV-RADIO

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

SO THAT I WON'T BE CONSPICUOUS by my absence, Lifeliner hereby tosses a few Coronation condensations into the already-stuffed hopper. First, a salute to good old radio for a bang-up job. Because there's a distinct thrill about listening to an event while it is occurring, I tuned in my portable at 2:15 a.m. and stuck with Coronation proceedings until conclusion (6:00 a.m.). This supplied a basis for comparison with later-released radio transcriptions and televersions.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS: Full impact of the Coronation ceremonies was dissipated by condensation, both on radio and TV. There was a sweep, a momentum, that built steadily from start to finish. To cut it was a crime.

SINCE THE NETWORKS HAD GONE to such extravagant lengths to do research, expend man-power, and fly the films back to this country, I think: (1) They should have cut out the nonsense of making it a time race to get the film back and concentrated, instead, on a quality telecast. (A few hours more wouldn't have mattered to most lookers.) (2) They should have pooled their film arrangements and set their energies to doing their own sharpest editing. (3) They individually should have chosen a reasonable cross-country time to do one telecast and one only and to make this of sufficient length that damaging cutting would not have to be resorted to. (With money in six figures being thrown around, why stop at a mere matter of cancelling a few more regular programs?) (4) They should have realized that the music of the rites was an integral part and some of the most magnificent ever broadcast. Coordination of the full orchestra, superbly trained choir and the Abbey's tremendous pipe organ provided incomparable richness and significance. The many fanfares created a rare excitement and expectancy in themselves and the Te Deum was truly inspiring. (Hope an album will come out with this majestic music on records.)

SO MUCH FOR THE DEBIT SIDE. On the credit, TV turned in an unexcelled job in research and commentation. To those unable to hear the actual ceremonies, the TV film served adequately to give the plain citizens here an idea of what it was all about. I'm sure many of them must have reflected on the gracious and solemn young lady, who, because of birth, was the center of international attention; and then in contrast recalled a recent January morning when our President-Elect spoke his brief and simple vows to become the actual, not figure, head.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Every day, thousands of persons are being victimized by fraudulent and misleading advertising. YOU can be forewarned of these firms and individuals — know them by name — if you read FRAUDS — the national monthly magazine edited for your protection.

Send $1.00 to FRAUDS, Dept. TVRL, La Crescenta, California, for 6-issue trial subscription.

More than 66,000 circulation . . . bought by people who want to save THEIR money.

I. D. Lacy of Beverly Hills has just sent me a postcard which states simply and charmingly, "You dog." I am assuming, of course, that this is meant as a compliment to my heavy-footed badinage, but in that case I think he at least could have said, "You sly dog." If you think I'm a dog, Mr. Lacy, you should have seen the one I was with last night.

"Voice in the Wind." (5) June 19, 10:00. Here we have a turgid melodrama about an eminent Czechoslovakian pianist, Francis Lederer, who plays Smetana's "Moldau" at a concert in defiance of the occupying Nazi authorities. For this he loses his wife, is thrown into prison, escapes, goes mad and generally has a hell of a time. The picture is quite soggy for the most part, but the theme of courage in the face of totalitarianism is always stimulating and when the film is thus concerned it acquires an integrity that makes it worth watching.

"Heart of New York." (5) June 16, 10:00. Al Jolson made five or six pictures in the early thirties and this is one of them. In it, he plays a scallawag who does his best to get along without working so that he can enjoy the ineffable delights of being a completely irresponsible man. He sings "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," gives up the girl he loves, Madge Evans, to a millionaire, Frank Morgan, and when last seen is sitting in the park wondering what the poor people are doing.

"To Be or Not To Be." (13) June 16, 7:00. This is a pretty funny farce about a famous actor in Czechoslovakia who poses as a Gestapo agent in order to help his theatrical troupe get out of the country. The late Ernst Lubitsch has given this film his usual deft touch and drawn good performances from Jack Benny and the inimitable Carole Lombard.

"Back Door to Heaven." (2) June 18, 11:00. This is the familiar but always poignant story of the boy who never had a chance, becomes a gangster, tries to go straight and fails. It stars Wallace Ford and Van Heflin and is, in spite of its age, pretty good.

"The People's Enemy." (2) June 15, 10:00 a.m. Preston Foster is a no-good guy who kills people for a living and tries to bring about the demise of Melvyn Douglas, who, he thinks, has double-crossed him. He is thwarted, however, in a smashing climax that left me limp with ennui.

"Wife Wanted." (5) June 15 4:00. The titles of the pictures reviewed in this column do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the reviewer.

"Tango." (7) June 15, 10:45. What it takes two to.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

Norman—and was a real success. As for the TV coverage of England's greatest event, for the most part it was a difficult job well done. But the real drama was in the Queen's dignity and charm. It's too bad that her voice wasn't heard more frequently. The one huge sour note was the awful way the commercials were integrated into the impressive ceremony. To go from the solemnity of the Coronation to a soap jingle is asking too much.

Stanley Murphy Productions announces a search for a girl to play "Dixie Dugan" in the projected TV series of the same name. The girl should have theatrical experience and should bear a close resemblance to the comic-strip lady. Interviews will be conducted at General Service Studios on Las Palmas. Do not call us! The producers are the boys to see. They're used to headaches.

Dots and dashes: Nice to see that Tom D'Andrea, who does those GI sketches on Donald O'Connor's show, has been signed by NBC to develop this comedy sequence as a new radio series of fifteen minutes twice a week. This man's talent has deserved recognition long before now. . . . No matter what you may read, all is not sweetness and light in the Lawrence Welk-Roberta Linn situation. It's too bad these two likable people had to dissolve their association with so much unpleasantness—but that's show business. . . . Did you happen to catch that "chimp" act on Ed Sullivan's show recently? Here was a real delight. Bet this isn't the last you'll see of that monkey.

Art Linkletter was asked recently what he considered the most common mistake contestants on TV and radio shows make. His answer: "Once some of these people are chosen for the show, they start thinking they're comics. Audiences inevitably do not appreciate this humor." So—leave the funny stuff to those who know how to be funny. Be yourself on these shows.

Question of the week: What has happened to Peter Potter's suit against CBS? With "Platterpanel," the bone of contention, still on—what's the set-up?

SAN DIEGO TV PROGRAM FINDER

San Diego DIAL DATA

By Maurine Skinner

SAN DIEGO—(Special)—So many of you women viewers have asked for a sewing class on television—now you have it. Starting June 11 on TV University Mrs. Phlew will present instructions in sewing. You can watch her every Thursday but don't forget the change in time. TV University is now presented each day at 12:45 p.m., 15 minutes earlier than usual, and will continue at that time for the summer schedule. On Monday you can learn all about Geography with Mr. Tennant and on Tuesday Dr. Kaplan presents the Study of Aging. Mrs. Alice Young gives you tips on Infant Care and Family Health each Wednesday and on Friday Mr. Everett Jackson presents an Art Appreciation course.

The Junior Cook Contest looks like it will get under way with a big bang. The contest opens June 22 but already Marj Hume has received many entries which indicate much interest from the teen-age group.

By the way, winners in the "What I Would Do If I Ran Channel 8" contest were Mrs. Lorene Miller, 2604 Covington Road, who won first place and received a 21-inch Hallicrafter console TV set with a three-speed record changer and AM radio combined; Frank Bidwell, 99 Torrey Pines Homes, won second place receiving a Hallicrafter 21-inch console TV set; Mrs. Dorothy Simon, 1076 Archer Street, won third place and received a 17-inch Hallicrafter table model TV set.

Channel 8 presented an image-orthicon tube to the San Diego State College for use in their closed-circuit television station. . . Don't forget the Rent Decontrol Hearing June 11 at 8 p.m. on Channel 8.

NOVEL IDEA

A Burbank inventor has come up with a fool-proof cigarette dispensing device known as the "Cig-Ejector." This useful and handy item is made in lustrous plastic in several colors to fit any decor and will not mar furniture. Holding a full pack, serving them one at a time as needed, you'll find "stale" cigarettes a thing of the past. Comes gift boxed at $2.00. Order from MIELKE PRODUCTS CO., c/o TV-RADIO LIFE.

Radio in Review

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Radio Ramblings

Actress Jeanne Cagney has been added to the "Queen for a Day" show as a fashion commentator. Original songs and background music have also been added to the show. This marks the first change in the Mutual-Don Lee stanza since its inauguration eight years ago. . . . Meredith Willson received a doctor of music degree from Parsons College in Fairfax, Iowa (his home state) . . . "General Electric Playhouse" is set as the Bing Crosby summer replacement beginning July 9. . . . Elliott Lewis takes a vacation from "Suspense" to produce and direct "Crime Classics," a series of true crime stories. . . . KECA launches a public-service program "Man of Color," which points up the L. A. Negro's cultural contributions to the community. . . . Top brass has joined the broadcasting industry. Robert A. Lovett, former United States Secretary of Defense, has joined CBS as a director of the network. . . . Summer replacement for NBC's "Dragnet" is "I Confess," a documentary type of crime-case presentation. . . . Bob Hawk ankles his "Walk a Mile" Camel show after a twelve-year association. . . . "The Baron and the Bee," a spelling-bee quiz with Jack Pearl and Cliff Hall, is set as the summer replacement for Martin and Lewis. . . . "Curt Massey Time" blew out four candles on its birthday cake last week. . . . "National Vespers" originates in Hollywood (over KECA) for the next thirteen weeks. Rev. Louis H. Evans will deliver the sermons. . . . Lowell Thomas and Ivory Soap are washed up after a long relationship. The veteran newscaster's new sponsor, Kaiser Motors, picks up the tab June 29. . . . One of the best Coronation quotes of the week came from CBS's Eric Sevareid: "At the rate you're going TV (competition between nets to see which one would get the Coronation films on the first) you'll never know about ulcers. You'll start with a cardiac."—M.R.

Viola H. Chambers, 7701 Emerson Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.
 It is encouraging to view such programs as "Omnibus," "Voice of Firestone," "Meet the Press" and Dr. Fifiel's "Straight From the Shoulder."

Have often felt that all sponsors tailored their TV shows for a mentally deficient child and am delighted to find more and more stations and sponsors awaking to the fact that adults can and will enjoy quality shows if given the opportunity.

My long-time radio favorite remains KFAC with all its delightful music.

B. Zitzmann, 383 Lola, Pasadena, Calif.
 I got so sick and tired of cheaply recorded (blurry) programs of top shows on the big TV stations that I went out and bought a new FM radio and am listening to good music for a change and resting my eyes.
Dick Martin, 2894 Randolph St., Huntington Park, Calif.
 Three cheers for Red Buttons. He is really terrific.

Moments That Changed My Life

By Tito Guizar

As Told to Mildred Ross

THE MOST important thing that has ever happened to me was losing my voice.

It happened in 1942 when I was filling an engagement at the Chicago Theater. Lillya, my youngest daughter, caught her finger in a stage door and cut it badly. I rushed out of the theater to get a doctor. In my excitement I completely forgot about using the telephone. I also forgot to wear my topcoat in sub-zero weather. I ran to a doctor who lived several blocks away and stood shivering outside his house, yelling hysterically for him to come quickly. I screamed at the top of my lungs, straining my voice heedlessly.

The doctor's stitches mended little Lillya's finger, but I lost my voice.

I had to cancel my engagement at the Chicago Theater and for the next six months I was unable to sing a note. The doctors could do nothing for me. It was a matter of time, they said. The specialists refused to comment on whether or not I would ever be able to sing again. All I had were my prayers and faith.

Singing My Life

But singing was my very life. It had always been by means of self-expression. If I were sad or happy I would sing about it. Until this had happened there was no silencing my laments or gay melodies.

During the next several songless years, time seemed endless. But gradually my voice returned and I tried singing again. However, after every performance my voice weakened and I had a relapse. This lasted for about three years. It was the most nerve-racking thing that ever happened to me.

Rest, medication to relieve the irritation, and mild vocal exercises to forestall losing my voice completely became a daily chore. Although physical pain was absent during my convalescence, spiritual frustration was always with me. Finally in 1946 I regained my singing voice, and fortunately there wasn't even the slightest change in tonal quality or range.

June 12, 1953

TITO GUIZAR, JR. (familarly known as "Butch"), shows real talent as both a musician and a composer. Tito, Sr., listens enthusiastically to "Butch's" newest musical accomplishment.

I have never told this story before. At the time it happened I was panic-stricken, but later I realized that it was the turning point of my life. Sometimes it takes such a tragedy to give one a truer perspective of things. This incident has always been a family secret, but fate has been good to me and I am happy to tell it to you now. It was my lesson in faith and it strengthened my belief in God.

exciting man. Of all the nice boys on TV here are my favorites.

George Burns. He's a pet of mine because he knows how to get along with an intelligent woman.

Bob Hope. He's so generous. Just let four people gather in any part of the country and he'll play a benefit for them.

Jerome Thor. He's that wonderful man on "Foreign Intrigue" and he's my favorite kind of foreign actor— an American.

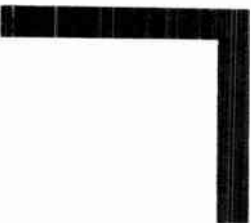

Jack Benny. Because he is so tal-

Arthur Godfrey. He's so relaxed all the time you'd never think he's a millionaire. I understand he just started collecting miniatures, and yesterday he tried to buy Rhode Island.

Jackie Gleason. He's a jim-dandy fellow. He's really dynamic. In fact, he's the only person I know who can slam a cigaret into an ash tray.

Alan Young. I love him because he's so humble and charitable. He once told me that the checks for each of his TV shows go to a poor family of which he is the head.

Donald O'Connor. He's a perfect ented and so rich and so handsome and so rich and so funny and so rich. He is also very thoughtful. Why, I just learned that Jack heard the little boy next door didn't own any trains so he bought him some—the B. & O., the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Santa Fe.

Ken Murray. You know I'm his prototype—or is it protegee? Ken gave me my big chance in "Black-outs" and taught me so much about show business. He knows everything there is to know about the entertainment field. I understand that his first words ever uttered were "Mama," "Papa," and "Don't drop the option."

Sid Caesar. He has such an interesting delivery. He tells jokes so fast. Bing Crosby, on the other hand, tells them slowly and, regardless, Milton Berle tells them the next week.

I could go on and on about the men I like but guess this will have to do. But I do think I should add one more since I don't like the number ten. My eleventh favorite is make-up man Perc Westmore. Any man who spends his time making women look beautiful has to be exciting!

The Path of Dave Street

Back Home from Broadway

↑ WHAT BETTER WAY to enjoy a TV career than to work with everybody's favorite, Betty White? Dave adds some pleasant vocalizing to the delightful afternoon show.

IN SHOW BUSINESS Broadway symbolizes the big time.

But not to Dave Street. To him, Broadway is just another main drag in an oversized city.

He's not rationalizing, either. He's not a guy who says he dislikes steak just because he's never tasted any. On radio and TV and in the theater, the smiling Irish tenor has had his full share of fame.

"I was on Broadway for three and a half years," Dave explained one afternoon before his KLAC-TV show. "I did all right for myself during that time in New York. I was making good money. Around $1500 a week. But it wasn't worth it. Back there, it's too dirty, too noisy, too crowded, too much of everything. It's not for me. I'll work for less money out here, and live a lot happier life."

Not New

Although Dave is a newcomer to Channel 13 viewers, he certainly is not unknown to the public. In addition to his own network show on NBC, he was also the featured vocalist on the Joan Davis show and "Meet Me at Parky's." Later he moved to New York, where he appeared on "Broadway Open House" (Dagmar's old hangout), and with Arthur Murray and Ken Murray.

Now he's back home doing his own afternoon program on KLAC-TV and also co-starring with Betty White on her show.

Actually, Los Angeles is Dave's original home town. He was born here December 13, 1918.

His father was a carnival man who did a daredevil bicycle act. In high school Dave applied some of his father's abilities by participating in gymnastics on the horizontal bar and flying rings.

Private Life

He has one brother, Phil, and a sister, Mary Jane Lutz. Five years ago he married Lois Andrews, but the marriage ended in divorce. He later married Mary Beth Hughes.

Today he lives in Sherman Oaks. His pet dog is George, a basset hound. He drives a Nash-Rambler convertible.

To keep in shape, the brown-haired, hazel-eyed singer plays handball regularly at the "Y." He diets by staying off bread and desserts.

His favorite spectator sports are football, bike races, and midget races. His favorite indoor sport is ping pong. One of his hobbies is collecting match-box covers.

Although he is thirty-four years old, you could never tell it by watching him on TV or seeing him in person. Both in mannerisms and appearance he maintains his boyish characteristics.

Musically, the curly-haired six-footer plays the piano, string bass, tuba, drums, and "a little saxophone."

Dave's big ambition in show business is to do a musical comedy. Television-wise, his plans include a show with an easy, informal format similar to "Broadway Open House."

No matter what his future may be, Dave intends to continue to make his home in Southern California. Broadway is "not his beat."

↓ DAVE STREET, popular young TV singer of KLAC, goes over the technical aspects of his show with engineer Joe Otis. Dave is definitely heading towards the big time.

What Guy Is Really Like

In which some of the mystery about Guy Madison is cleared up

▲ TV GAVE GUY MADISON A BRAND NEW CAREER in motion pictures. Here he goes into action in Warner's new 3-D color Western, "The Charge at Feather River." He claims TV was the greatest break he ever had. (Warner Bros. photo.)

▲ OF ALL THE WESTERN SHOWS "Wild Bill Hickok," seen on KTLA, continues to be a top favorite. Guy's performance as "Wild Bill" has much to do with the show's popularity.

Guy Madison is a lone wolf. . . . He prefers solitude most of the time. . . . He doesn't talk much, but when he does he speaks with a purpose. . . . As Wild Bill Hickok on TV and radio he's close to his own character because in real life he moves quietly and quickly and gets the job done with a minimum of hullabaloo. . . . When he's working he stays hard at the job with no clowning around. . . . When he's relaxing, he believes in blocking off anything associated with his work. . . . For instance, he loves to hunt and fish, but he won't allow a publicity photographer to come near him for shots of this outdoor life because he thinks that would be a close connection with work. . . .

He has an uncanny intuition about people. . . . He can judge a person accurately in five minutes. . . . On this basis some people get the life-long friend treatment from him almost at once. . . . Others never get anything more than cordiality from him. . . . He places a high value on friendship. . . . He believes politeness and humor are necessary if friendships are to last. . . . He doesn't look upon himself as an actor but as a performer. . . . He believes the word "actor" should apply to people like Jose Ferrer, Montgomery Clift, and Marlon Brando, who do varying characterizations. . . . He sees himself in a category with John Wayne, Randolph Scott and Gary Cooper, who basically remain themselves in all their pictures even though plot situations may vary greatly. . . . He's the only big-time TV personality with a 3-D picture coming up. . . . Warner Brothers produced it ("The Charge at Feather River") and chose Guy to star in it on the strength of his success as Wild Bill Hickok. . . .

His tastes are simple. . . . Though his yearly earnings are enormous from TV, radio, movies and the sale of shirts, boots, hats and other merchandise items put out under the "Hickok" brand, he drives around town in a Ford pick-up truck. . . .

He once was easy-going about his work, allowing others to make decisions for him. . . . Now he firmly guides every phase of his career—from publicity to script writing—and he doesn't hesitate to demand changes when his own judgment tells him something is in bad taste. . . . He is not a "know-it-all." . . . He's quick to ask guidance. . . . The two people from whom he most often seeks advice are his agent, Helen Ainsworth, and Andy Devine, who's his co-star in the "Hickok" series. . . .

He feels uncomfortable wearing a tie. . . . This protest against formality is his guide in accepting invitations. . . . If he thinks the party will be the type where he can relax and take off his tie, he's likely to accept. . . . Like all men who are celebrities he constantly encounters aggressive women. . . . He resents them because they are a blow to his male ego which demands that he take the initiative. . . . He is conscientious about answering letters. . . . Even fan mail which shows unusual thought gets his personal attention. . . .

He hates to shave. . . . When he's not working he grows a beard. . . . He never unloads his problems on his friends. . . . He feels they have enough troubles of their own. . . . His personal antidote for worry is the thought that hardly any of his present problems will be important a year from now. . . . Everybody who works with him predicts he'll soon be one of the biggest names Hollywood has ever known.

of the world's most powerful nation. Many listeners and lookers must also have been cogitating the wistful ways of people, their love of tradition, glamour, pageantry, and above all their fundamental humanness and equality.

THE QUEEN IS TO BE ADMIRIED FOR allowing the cameras such free access to this, the greatest day in her life. Feelings of endearment must have been stirred in those who saw Her Majesty making small gestures to help the Wardrobe Mistress adjust the Queen's gown or who noted little Prince Charles on the balcony, when he reached out to touch his mother's gleaming new bracelets. In essence, the story was one of Human Belings and their universally appealing qualities. Even Charles Collingwood, a crack speaker, evoked my warmly sympathetic response when he muffed the sign-off a little — with a remark something like "We have just heard the rites queening a crown."

JOHNNY MERCER, WHO'S BEEN SO busy writing for movies, for Broadway (and writing period) that he hasn't done a regular radio show for a blue moon, is back this week on CBS-KNX, nightly, Monday through Friday, from 9:45 to 10:00. It had been nine years since I'd interviewed Johnny, but the other morning when he was cornered backstage at CBS, he appeared to be the 'same likeable chap, easy with the conversation and full of shrewd comment.

JOHNNY, WHOSE HITS HAVE BEEN stimulating contributions to our music, thinks songwriting today is in a bad way. About five new songs out of 100 are any good, in his opinion. He considers the period from Victor Herbert to 1941 the golden-era and lays the blame for much of our present circumstances on the big grab for the Yankee dollah. He believes too many people are compromising their artistry with "what is commercial."

HE EVEN FEELS THAT TODAY'S CROP OF extremely young and unprepared record performers is largely due to the influence of money-minded managers whose foremost desire is to make a quick buck. Some of the unseasoned youngsters who have shot to fame on a single record are caught short. They've no real experience and scanty means of gaining it the way the old timers did—onstage, where poise and polish were acquired in the tedious but irreplaceable hard way. Johnny feels that many of today's record hits are not bona fide smashes, in that some clever manager, for example, can promote a disc, flood the juke boxes and other mechanical devices with it, and force acceptance. How unlike the days of "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby" and the unbeatable "Star Dust," whose composer, Hoagy Carmichael, and Mercer collaborated on the Award-winning "Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening!"

IF A RECORD IS GOOD, in his judgment, Mercer will spin it on his new platter and chatter show. He's typically relaxed about his five-a-week broadcast series, just the way I remembered him when he and the Pied Pipers were on NBC during World War II (and Johnny used to slay 'em with "G.I. Jive" and "Doo-ration Blues"). I asked him if he still played the piano the way he used to—with one finger. "No," he replied, "I've progressed backward. "Don't play at all, any more."

MY NOMINATION FOR A GAL TO play the "Jane Stacy" role on "Friend Irma" which Cathy Lewis is vacating on TV: Joan Banks, Frank Lovejoy's talented wife.
