A Letter to Martha

▲ CURT MASSEY IS TRYING to figure out just the right things to say in his letter to Martha Tilton. He ought to be quite an authority on how to give a marriage a glow since he just celebrated his twenty-first wedding anniversary.

▲ IF YOU WANT TO KNOW why Martha and her husband, Jim Brooks, seem to be getting such a bang out of Curt's letter, take a look at what he wrote. Martha and Curt have been keeping the CBS and KHJ radio lanes happy with their liltin' music. (Photos by Robert Perkins.)

Dear Martha:

Now that you're a married gal I decided you needed some expert advice from an old married man on how to handle a husband. Of course, I could tell you these things after our CBS and KHJ shows but I'd rather do it the hard way. Besides, think what a treasure this letter will be in years to come.

Let's start with the threshold. I suppose your jet-pilot husband, Jim Brooks, carried you over the thing when you were married. Now, he may try that again, but if he does you make him put you down and you carry him over. That will establish your authority right off the bat and he'll say to himself, "I've a wife who has strength as well as beauty."

Once inside the house you must, of course, see that he has his favorite chair in the living room. Edythe, my wife of twenty-one summers and more winters than she cares to associate with me, got one for me. It's a big chair made of two-by-fours and is covered with a lovely burlap. Nails are coming out here and there to give it a rustic look. But it always keeps me in my place. Once Jim has his favorite chair he won't want to get out of it, so to enable him to make a move in a hurry, have it equipped with an ejector seat. He can then be jet-propelled out of the thing with ease.

Then there's the matter of smoking. I gave up smoking but I love to smell cigarette smoke so Edythe got some bellows, filled it with smoke, and she pumps it back and forth in front of me. If you can't find any bellows, get a box of good cigars, smoke them yourself and exhale at Jim.

Naturally, you must learn what his favorite foods are. By all means give them to him and get someone to cook them for him. Should you get in a jam and have to do the cooking yourself, don't be the sensitive type. If he gets upset when you burn the water, just smile and understand that he's only being typically male.

If Jim should get mad at you—and all men have erratic tempers—don't argue with him. Just put him in a strait jacket, dunk him in the tub, and turn the cold water on him. This will cool him off nicely. And it will establish you as the dominant factor in the house. All men, you know, like independent women.

Jim is bound to have peculiar habits too—like squeezing the tooth-paste from the top of the tube. You must understand there is a psychological reason for this—and immediately buy him a can of tooth powder.

If he leaves his clothes around and doesn't hear when you tell him to pick them up, simply incinerate them one at a time. Of course this will create another problem. Hmrrr.

You'll naturally be faced with the problem of his reaction to your buying clothes. All right, if he likes small hats, get big ones with feathers on them. This will keep his mind so occupied with the hat that he'll forget what you paid for your dress and shoes. By all means, too, act as though you have nothing to wear. This will make him feel sorry for you and he'll insist on your buying much more than you would have otherwise.

Comes now the one room in the house we haven't discussed—the bedroom. Be sure the walls and carpeting colors match. I'd recommend a soft shade of green and, obviously, there must be blonde furniture. This type of decor will give Jim a sense of security and is naturally restful.

My last word is that I hope I'm 5000 miles away when Jim reads this.

But seriously, Martha, I wish you all the luck in the world. May you have as many happy years with Jim as I have had with my wonderful Edythe.

Affectionately,
Curt

Will TV Kill Baseball?

BASEBALL is a sport. It is also a business; big business. The men who count the gate receipts are worried. Television, they say, is ruining the game.

"Who wants to travel to a ball park, sit in uncomfortable seats, and then ride home, when they see essentially the same thing—in greater comfort and for less money—in their own living room?"

KHJ-TV announcers Bill Brundige, Tom Harmon, and Lyle Bond want to see TV continue, naturally. But they also want to see fans come to the ball park. After all, if baseball dies because of lack of attendance, their jobs will be in jeopardy. Will TV kill baseball? Listen to what these three men have to say on the subject:

Tom Harmon

"The argument of 'Will TV Kill Baseball?' is one that probably will go on for a long time, but personally, I do not believe any top sport is hurt by television. Statistics have proved very little in the past. Baseball as a sport is our national pastime and through television coverage will, I believe, go on to even greater heights, the same as did baseball with radio.

"Folks who have never seen a baseball game are now being exposed to this exciting contest. Players who were known only to the fan are now well known by fans across the nation rather than in the immediate area in which they play. All of these things, in turn, can only help to build baseball fans of the future. No medium known to man is as potent as television when it comes to selling a product. This, in turn, to my mind, means that television is also selling baseball. I am still not convinced that television has ever hurt any first-rate sports event."

Bill Brundige

"Will TV kill baseball? I say NO, definitely. Television will help baseball.

"Every night we have fans stop us at the park saying they are there for the first time, having become interested through television. These fans, too, will be back, for we play exceptionally good baseball in the PCL.

"The migration of fans from the living room to the park won't come overnight, but we will certainly notice a gradual development of new patrons. As this cycle gains speed, attendance figures will reflect the gains.

"I am, naturally, interested in fans in the stands. For, the more we have at the park the more we will have watching on other nights. I cannot be convinced that through a diligent application of salesmanship over TV attendance won't improve. The field of potential customers hasn't even been scratched, as proved by the small number of people among the vast populace who go to ball games anywhere. If we can interest the casual fan to the extent that he will come to the game, to see what a difference there is, then we are on the right track."

Lyle Bond

"I'm really too young to remember when radio entered the baseball scene but I've been told the opinion of many at the time was that the broadcasting of baseball games would reduce attendance to the point where baseball could not survive.

"You know quite the contrary is true. I'm convinced the telecasting of baseball will likewise make millions of new fans.

"Everywhere I go, baseball sooner or later becomes the topic of conversation. Every business enterprise has its lean years. Baseball has been no exception and never before has it had so much competition from so many forms of entertainment, but I contend that if it were not for television, this year would be an even more lean one at the box office. Baseball needs television to maintain the interest of old fans and create new ones.

"The question is not 'TV or not TV?' It is 'TV or not to be'."

▲ PAT BENOIT, who plays the role of nurse "Nancy Remington" on NBC-TV's "Mr. Peepers," tells some very unusual things about her "boyfriend" in this exclusive story.

▼ ONE OF "MR. PEEPERS'" most appealing traits is his great love for animals. Here he combines geography (that's a map of the United States he's looking at) with a study of the cow. Progressive education!

▼ IN REAL LIFE, Wally Cox spends a great deal of time at his country place in Rockland County, New York. (NBC-TV photos.)

WHAT I SEE IN Mr. Peepers!

By Pat Benoit

("Nancy Remington" in NBC-TV's "Mr. Peepers")

WHAT DO I see in Mr. Peepers? I just consulted Nancy Remington, my television "me," and she promises not to object if I speak for both of us. That includes Pat Benoit, the real-life me. You see, we both know Robinson equally well and (entre nous) we're both mad about him.

Now, I (we) like Robinson Peepers because—Gee. I don't know off-hand. I just like him, that's all. Maybe it's his blue eyes. I have a weakness for liquid blue eyes. But then . . . a lot of people have blue eyes.

Or maybe it's his taffy-colored hair (with that obstinate cowlick in the back). I always have an urge to brush his hair and smooth down that cowlick. But, lots of people have taffy-colored hair, too . . . and like as not, with cowlicks in the back.

Comfortable With Him

One dislikes people for a specific reason or a pet peeve, but doesn't one just like a person because he's himself? How can I single out the things that first attracted me to him? Maybe the way he walks without lifting his feet almost; his smile; his sympathetic attitude toward everyone else's problems; that gentle, soft voice; innumerable elements that all together mean one thing. I feel comfortable with him. Yes, that's it! I get so involved in how to help Robinson that I completely forget about my own problems.

In fact, I worry about him sometimes. Has he eaten? Do his socks match? And he's always missing a button or two. And I want people to understand he's not really sloppy or thoughtless. His mind is just always occupied, and he doesn't have time to think about himself. That's what I like, too! His complete selflessness.

He is not important to himself . . . just how he can help someone else, how he can make biology a living thing to his pupils; how to preserve a . . . well, a butterfly to us. You see he needs someone to worry about him. And I like doing that.

Romantic Too!

He's romantic too, you know. Oh yes! You might not recognize it as such, but I do, perhaps only because I want to. One night he told me all about the courtship of the jackdaw, a crowlike bird that actually marries only once and stays with that mate forever. An unromantic person would certainly never have appreciated that characteristic of the jackdaw. So you see?

Have we convinced you that he's a man worthy of being admired, loved and taken care of? You can find a bit of Robinson in every man, and a woman who loves him for just those things whether she knows it or not.

In short, we like Mr. Peepers!

▼ LOVABLE, ABSENT-MINDED "MRS. GUERNEY" (Marion Lorne) offers some advice to "Peepers" and "Nancy" of the younger generation. Ever since it began as a summer replacement last year—and was brought back by popular demand—"Mr. Peepers" has been one of NBC-TV's most successful programs.

▼ KUKLA AS SIR GEORGE and Fran Allison as the Princess meet for the first time in the Kuklapolitan Players production of "St. George and the Dragon."

▼ SIR GEORGE and the Dragon clash in mighty conflict. The opera, an original for TV, was joyously received by KNBH viewers and "Kukla, Fran and Ollie" fans.

This Week in TV

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Around TV Row

Betty and Jane Kean, song-and-dance satirists, have been signed by NBC to a five-year contract for TV and radio . . . Leland Hayward's production on the Ford Anniversary program made such a hit that NBC is negotiating with Hayward for a possible producer's berth. (Even The New Yorker had favorable comments to pass along on the Ford show and Mr. Hayward). . . . Hal Roach has just completed four pilot films—"White Collar Girl," starring Laraine Day; "Tales of a Wayward Inn," with Brian Aherne; "Guns of Destiny," with Ron Randell and "Passport of Adventure," with Cesar Romero. It will be interesting to see how many of these pilots find a niche in your television logs.

Eddie Cantor and Jimmy Durante are set to do ten "Colgate Comedy Hour" shows each next season. . . . KNBH's Lenore Kingston is testing her viewers' observation powers with her "What's in the Kitchen Cupboard" contest. . . . Fred Rickey has been named producer for the "Omnibus" series. . . . Jack Owens has inked a two-year renewal with ABC and KECA-TV. . . . Don Porter, who co-stars with Ann Sothern in "Private Secretary," has been nominated for the title of "Mr. Boss" by a group of New York secretaries. . . . RCA Victor will record the stirring score of NBC's "Victory at Sea" tele-series. . . . "TV Recital Hall" presents a summer series of classical music viewed locally on KNBH. . . . Vivian Vance ("Ethel Mertz") has been made a colonel on the staff of the Governor of New Mexico.

Congratulations, Queen Cline!

We Point With Pride

. . . To the excellent coverage of the Angeles National Forest fire by the entire crew at KTTV, Channel 11. During the early hours of the Fourth of July, and continuing over the week end, the TIMES outlet was the first to bring local audiences both the sound and picture of the disaster. The engineering work of Ed Binham and his crews, and the announcing chores of Roy Maypole and Bill Welsh provided viewers with the type of on-the-spot coverage that the entire television industry can be proud of.

In addition, Jackson Wheeler back at the Hollywood studio co-ordinated his late-movie show with the remote telecast. As Director Sam Mattison exclaimed on more than one occasion during the night: "This is television, real television!" And he was right, too.

To the improved format of KNXT's "Ten-Thirty News." Increased usage of film inserts, better production and over-all organization makes this a fuller, far more interesting telenewscast. Thank you, Bill Whitley.

To "Candid Camera's" soft pedaling of its unsuspecting "talent." Allen Funt doesn't carry his pranks to the extremes he did previously. The laughs are still there but the embarrassment of the "unsuspecting" is not quite as keen. The addition of the guest-emcee to the format is a delightful variation.

Queen Taylor

Mrs. Ted Taylor of San Diego, winner of the first weekly "Queen for a Day" contest conducted by TV-Radio Life, paid the Hollywood office of the magazine a visit last Thursday. She was happier than any real-life queen could ever be.

Of course, we wish ALL you nice people who wrote in for the first week might have been chosen Queen. But inasmuch as the choice had to be narrowed to one lady, selection of Mrs. Taylor seems mighty fortunate.

"Sweet" best describes her. She's from Indiana, mother of three, works nights in the TB ward of San Diego County Hospital, lives very modestly in a small apartment. Most important, she is a completely unselfish person.

She admitted, "I can certainly use the prizes," but actually was more thrilled over granting of her wish, which concerned her elderly parents.

Mrs. Taylor enjoyed a laugh at her own expense. Seems that when TV-Radio Life's San Diego representative, Marion Garber, knocked on the Taylors' door to tell the good news about winning, Mrs. Taylor thought Mrs. Garber was a door-to-door saleswoman.

"I represent TV-Radio Life," said Mrs. Garber.

Mrs. Taylor, who buys her weekly copy of the magazine at Piggly Wiggly or Thudium's in the University Avenue district, thought Mrs. Garber was selling subscriptions so said, "I don't believe I'd be interested."

"You WILL be when you hear what I have to tell you!" exclaimed Mrs. Garber.

And sure enough, Mrs. Taylor was, and how!

So with Winner Number One checked off, and Winner Number Two just announced, we have four more weeks to go in the contest.

These will be anxious weeks for thousands of would-be Queens and difficult weeks for those screening the huge pile of entries, some of which are very pathetic and depressing. Only the smile of a winner can take away the sad feeling of knowing so many of you are in want or distress. We wish we had millions to make all of you smile!

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

Mary Ellen Baker, 703 S. Palm St., Anaheim, Calif.

I read NBC has a daily program entitled "Glamour Girl" which is based on a similar format to Rita La Roy's "Glamour Session." I don't know who the MC is but I think Rita would have been ideal for it. She deserves a break after her hard work on a sometimes too-sponsored program.

Pat Baker, 2628 N. San Gabriel Parkway, El Monte, Calif.

I think Alice Lon, the new "Champagne Lady," has a wonderful personality, and a really sweet voice. What do the rest of your readers think?

Mrs. Virginia Carter, 13131 Hope St., Garden Grove, Calif.

I have looked for the May Company's program which you recently had an article on, but as yet I have not been able to find it.

The May Company show referred to, previously seen on KMAC-TV, has been discontinued.

Meredith Siegrist, Sunset Beach, Calif.

Isn't there an enterprising sponsor who is farsighted enough to restore the Cliff Arquette—Dave Willock show to its many friends?

Nancy A. Westley, Lawndale, Calif.

I have three nominations for the most pleasing speaking voices: disc jockey Gene Norman, and announcers George Fenneman, and Tony Marvin.

Mary E. Zornow, 308 40th St., Manhattan Beach, Calif.

Dick Stewart is the most exciting singer to come along in a good long time.

TV-RADIO

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

IN THESE DAYS OF RADIO'S faltering (and for no good reason so far as this Lifeliner can see) it's truly gratifying to salute Marvin Miller on his one-thousandth broadcast on KHJ's "Behind the Story." This good-round-number milestone is passed on July 21. On this and the two succeeding days, Marvin will tell the story behind the story "Behind the Story"—he'll give listeners a glimpse of how the program is put together, methods of research, samples of difficulties encountered and will divulge some of the wonderful leads from listeners which have resulted in top air fare.

Marvin Miller

IF YOU COULD SPEND, AS I DID, even a brief luncheon period with Marvin to discuss "Behind the Story," you would realize that this tall man with the infectious laugh has the time of his life with his program. Though he is busy year 'round with assignments on the "Railroad Hour," "The Whistler," "Beulah," TV and movies, this man Miller (who really wanted to be an English teacher) needs no encouragement to en-thus over some of the fabulous yarns he has told on "Behind the Story." Many of them, and perhaps the most interesting to Marvin, have been the ones debunking a popular notion—like the one that Paul Revere was responsible for rousing the inhabitants of Concord, or that poison gas in warfare is something new (the Turks used it in 1600).

MARVIN REFUSES TO TAKE ONE AUTHORITY on a subject like the ones mentioned above. He has found that even three authorities can be in error. So he and his program assistants check and re-check to make certain the stories presented are accurate. Some of the popular concepts which "Behind the Story" has debunked are so interesting and important that Marvin almost feels that they should be made available for educational purposes. His own son has taken Miller's script to school to substantiate a disputed point with the teacher.

TV-RADIO LIFELINES

SOME DAY MARVIN WOULD like to do a show with his dark-haired wife, Elizabeth. Eight years ago the two of them auditioned a very informal but informative type of news program. Marvin feels that it would have been readily accepted, both with sponsor and listeners, had it not been for unfortunate timing—they cut the audition record a few days before Pearl Harbor. Then, of course, when a clamp was placed at once on news, the Millers' show was automatically shelved. An actor of considerable talent, Marvin enjoys playing several roles during the vignette portion of the show. There is one thing he won't do though. He says, "I won't try to imitate a woman's voice."

HIS LONG RECORD OF ANNOUNCING HAS had very few fluffs. One that's printable occurred in St. Louis when he had a line about rain and hail. It came out "hain and rail." Marvin's second attempt to sputter out the words was even more unsuccessful and he kicked the thing around so brutally that it wound up in complete collapse.

SEE WHERE THE MOVIE BOX of life is thriving, now that summer is here. For the 'steenth time, I'd like to go on record saying it's sheer stupidity to build TV and radio shows thirty-nine weeks of the year and wash 'em down the drain the other thirteen. And for those in TV who are smug and think the whole world lives, eats and breathes TV, go a few evenings, as I've done recently, to some good pictures and you'll be astonished to see packed houses and waiting lines. Not everybody, by a long shot, is staying home glued to a set. And whose fault in TV is that? Or are picture people finally the wiser for the competition?

ALL THOSE WHO SAW OR HEARD about the wonderful Ford Anniversary Show produced by Leland Hayward must certainly hope that if a network lands Hayward, he will be given a bankroll fat enough so that the fine style exhibited on the Ford opus won't be cramped.

SO VINE STREET'S OLD glamour spot, CBS's Theatre, has been sold to be re-converted into a legit place! Shades of "Lux" and The Green Room lounge of the guesting celebrities! Another "landmark," the food stand adjoining the theatre, is being demolished. Will never forget Red Skelton when he first started broadcasting from Hollywood. Every Tuesday afternoon when rehearsal broke, he'd skip over to the stand and order hot-dawg sandwiches.

GUESS MRS. L.V.J. OF Rivera holds our TV-RL subscription record. She just sent in renewals for eight subs. Love you, Mrs. J. I envision your whole family sitting around reading TV-Radio Life.

THURSDAY

TV RECITAL HALL, (4), 7:00 p.m. Nadia Reisenberg, pianist, and Gerald Warburg, cellist, both distinguished concert artists, are heard playing Brahms' "Sonata in E Minor for Cello and Piano," and the Andante Movement from Rachmaninoff's "Sonata for Cello."

CHANCE OF A LIFETIME, (7), 8:30 p.m. Dennis James presents Bambi Lynn and Rod Alexander as his celebrity guests.

PANTOMIME QUIZ, (2), 7:00 p.m. Panelists Angela Lansbury, John Barrymore, Jr., Jackie Coogan and Dave Willlock play the parlor game of charades. Guest panelists appear weekly to match wits with permanent panelists. Summer replacement for "Mama." (Bowed July 10.)

"Working My Way Through College"

"My blind master and I go to school at the famous Eye Dog Foundation. Our education is paid by folks like you who send EASE box tops (that wonderful detergent for laundry and dishes) to Eye Dog Foundation, Azusa, Calif. These box tops are redeemed by the makers of EASE as donations to pay for our education."

If this magnificent Guide Dog could talk he probably would add "Better switch to EASE for laundry and dishes because it does a better job and goes twice as far."

The Eye Dog Foundation, oldest institution in the west to give "eyes" to the Blind, restores blind people to active, normal life.

Send EASE box tops to give "eyes" to the blind.

PICK of the PIX

by Aubrey Dahl

A couple of weeks ago I said that a picture called "Woman in the Hall" was a hodge-podge of clattering hoofs, reeling carriages, flickering candle-light and piercing screams. Well, the Roman Gray family of Long Beach has let me know in no uncertain terms that it strained its collective eye trying to discern these happenings in the movie mentioned and that not even one clattering hoof could it find. The by now myopic Grays demand an explanation, and rightly so, so how about this: The whole thing was the aftermath of a bad dream I'd had the night before about the devil bat's daughter and I apologize. Even so, it was only the first mistake I've ever made in my life.

"Small Back Room." (13) July 20, 9:30. David Farrar is a scientist whose mission is to find, isolate and render harmless a small booby-trap-type bomb which has been dropped by the hundreds in England, killing dozens of civilians who have happened to pick them up. An interesting facet of the scientist's character is that he drinks heavily because of the pain of an old battle injury and this factor generates a good deal of suspense in the final scenes showing him trying to dismantle the bomb while desperately in need of a spot of liquid courage.

"T-Men." (11) July 18, 9:00. Here is a taut, well-done melodrama about the treasury agents and their never-ending war against counterfeiters. Dennis O'Keefe uses the old ruse of posing as a crook to catch the crooks and finally succeeds in rounding them all up after a wild gunfight aboard a yacht.

"Easy Money." (7) July 24, 11:00. Dennis Price plays a fellow whose job it is to check the entries in England's famed football pool. His girl, Greta Gynt, desires a few baubles so he gets the bright idea of planting an entry after the scores are known and making a killing. It was such a sweet set-up I was kind of sorry he didn't get away with it.

"Magic Bow." (7) July 20, 10:45. Stewart Granger here portrays the great violinist, Paganini, as a moody, passionate, lovable rogue who has the devil's own time getting anyone to listen to him. When he finally does gain an audience, three of his strings break and he is forced to continue playing only on the g-string, and for you doubters, there really is such a string on the violin. In his spare time, Granger fiddles around with Phyllis Calvert.

"Devil Bat's Daughter." (4) July 24, 11:15. Did you ever see a dream flying? Well, this one's a real flapper.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL
 DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

It's getting to be a familiar story. It has happened with the motion-picture stars and now the TV boys and girls are on the same kick. That is, there are certain television stars who have become so important or so busy that they no longer are available to the press for interviews. At least, they're not available within a reasonable length of time. It only takes two or three months to line up an appointment with these people. The mere fact that they're not interested in being interviewed, at times an understandable habit, isn't important—it's the attitude behind the whole thing. Most personalities on their way up are only too anxious to do whatever is asked of them but once they hit the top rung of the ladder they suddenly haven't the "time" for some of the demands that are part and parcel of their job. Why can't these people remember, even as busy as they are, that if the public weren't interested in them they'd never be bothered for any kind of attention and they'd have no career. Come off your excuses, kids, and remember that fame is, at its best, a fleeting thing. I am talking about two network stars: one a female singer; the other a popular leading dramatic actor.

number of people involved in their surveys. This is a good step, but this whole rating system is one great big mystery. Who is called on these things? Do you know of anyone who was ever contacted by a survey? And how come the various systems are always at such variance? Anybody got any answers?

Idle thoughts: Frank DeVol has been approached to emcee an hour-and-a-half variety show in the fall. This is great, but just how much can Frank take on? . . . Looks like "My Friend Irma" is off TV. For a show that started off with so much promise, what fouled up the works? The same thing has happened to the on-again "Life With Luigi." And yet the panel shows continue to stay with us—unfortunately. . . . Seems we started something when we reported Del Moore was unhappy about billing on "Life With Elizabeth." One lady even wanted to know what Del had done to deserve this billing. These people have overlooked one thing—Betty White, one of the nicest gals in the business, is not making any objections and as to what Del has done on her show, she'd probably be happy to give out a few fast answers in his behalf. And this ends all references to the whole thing.

American Research Bureau, an organization that sets up ratings on TV shows, announces a new system whereby they're going to count not only the number of homes reached but the Nomination for future TV star: Remember the name of Joan Shawlee. She's going to be one of television's

DIAL DATA

By Maurine Skinner

SAN DIEGO—(Special)—Marj Hume made no bones about it the other day on her Cooking Show on Channel 8—Marj was cooking up a good beef stew but had a little difficulty chopping the bones down to size. After several swings with the meat cleaver the bones still didn't give in—much to the amusement of the cameramen on the job. Marj decided to give one last hefty swing and wham! The bones flew in several directions—one at the cameraman, the other some place beyond the view of the camera. After the show, Marj had a call from a viewer who said her dog was having himself a time trying to find the bone that got away. The dog would really go crazy with 3-D!

Mary Joe Egan of Fallbrook was last week's winner in the Junior Cook contest. Her prize-winning recipe, which won her a Junior Mixmaster and a chance for the grand prize of an Amana Home Food Freezer, was "Upside-Down Berry Cobbler." It's real excellent dessert and if you'd like to try it, here it is:

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 cups cooked boysenberries
- 1 cup juice in which berries were cooked

Cream shortening and half cup sugar until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Beat until smooth. Pour batter into greased casserole. Pour berries, remaining half cup sugar and berry juice over batter. Bake at 375 degrees 45 minutes. The batter rises to the top and browns, while berries and juice reverse position and sink to the bottom. Mary Jo is 16 and the guy that gets her will get a terrific cook.

Julie, one of the cute switchboard operators at KFMB's Radio-TV Center, is also an excellent warbler—she waxed many records before coming to the West Coast. She made her debut on the Smokey Rogers Show the other day and did such a fine job she is now singing with Smokey's Band at Bostonia on Saturday and Sunday.

Monte Hall has another trophy to add to his trophy room which is full and running over—he was Honorary Grand Marshal at Coronado's Fourth of July Parade. . . . Come July 26, Channel 8's viewers will have a chance to "Ask Your Doctor" and learn more about the afflictions that plague us. This is a medical forum consisting of four of our local doctors with Ray Wilson as moderator. The first show will deal with polio.

THE AMES BROTHERS

Fortunately—and unfortunately—one of the nation's top quartets, the Ames Brothers, is in town.

The fortunate part is that their act can be seen and heard nightly at the famed Mocambo on the Sunset Strip. They also made a guest appearance at KLAC's Big Five charity show at the Hollywood Bowl.

The unfortunate part is that, to date, these boys have not been lined up for any TV appearances. Their clean and entertaining act, especially the work of the featured singer, Ed Ames, would be a big treat for local TV fans. With the right kind of material, they could easily fit into the formats of many musical shows on the air. The Mocambo's luck is the TV fan's misfortune.

★ ★ MUSCLE MAN

Tommy DePauw, of KTLA's "Frosty Frolics," spends two days a week working out in a gym. No, he doesn't want to be a muscle man, it just helps him in his skating figures, he claims.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

BY JACK HOLLAND

most prominent personalities. Given her start by Bob Hope on the Comedy Hour, she has been very much in demand by practically every TV producer in town. Once you see her you won't forget her—not with that sexy chassis and ability.

If you happen to catch some of the new "theatre" programs on TV this summer, don't be surprised if the shows seem familiar. Three out of four of them are re-runs of telecasts seen last season—but with a different title. Is this playing cricket with the public or is it fashionable now to fool the people as much as possible? Here's a good lesson in how to lose an audience.

Since TV can run old movies there's no reason why movies can't run oldies too. MGM has put out "Trader Horn" and "Sequoia" without making much reference to the fact that while they were good they're real oldies. In fact, "Trader Horn" goes so far back you'd have to be a little ancient to remember it. TV puts on repeats of old shows and runs old movies and people go to the theatres to escape, so the movies run old antiques and the audiences run home to their twenty-four-inch set.

CBS Radio's "General Electric Playhouse" looks like a good bet—even though the stories will not be new. The idea here is to take some of the top hits in the years past and redo them with the original stars. Among those lined up are Ronald Colman in "Random Harvest" and Irene Dunne in the memorable "Penny Serenade." Patachou, the remarkable French chanteuse who made her debut on TV on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town," opens at the Cocoanut Grove July 15. This woman is simply sensational. Even if you don't go to clubs, go to see her.

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Radio Ramblings

NEC and KFI have renewed their affiliation contract for two years. . . "Crazy Legs" tapes his daily KECA sports program from various movie locations. . . Jimmy McHugh celebrates thirty years as a songwriter with a musical salute from "Pops" Whiteman and others in the industry. . . Grant Park Symphony Concerts from Chicago will be broadcast via KNX.

Jean Hersholt has been re-elected President of the Motion Picture Relief Fund. . . "Brighter Day" sudsier starts its fifth year of broadcasting. . . Procter and Gamble, one of the biggest daytime radio sponsors, has renewed its entire line-up on NBC. . . Rebroadcast of sixty-five top Bob Hope shows is scheduled for summer airing. . . Taylor Grant substituted for vacationing Walter Winchell. . . Jack Pearl ("Baron Munchausen," teller of tall tales) returns to the airlines after a lengthy absence in the quiz stanza "The Baron and the Bee." . . Jascha Heifetz has been added to the list of soloists on the New York Philharmonic-Symphony (CBS) broadcasts. . . We have it from reliable sources that last week's mention of Coca-Cola renewing negotiations with Mario Lanza was all a press agent's pipe dream.—M.R.

HELEN HAS PART

Helen Gerald has won a running part on NBC's radio program "The Doctor's Wife," starting with an appearance July 16 as "Jenny." The program is heard on KFI, 2:45 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The Reverend Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, now in his twenty-fifth year as presiding minister of NBC's "National Radio Pulpit," is author of a new book, his fifteenth. It is called "How to Believe."

Mary Pendleton, 2018 Walnut St., Huntington Park, Calif.
 This letter is with reference to the recent "Dragnet" show concerning a teen-age dope addict. I admire Jack Webb and the work he does on this top TV program.

However, I think Ralph Votrian, who portrayed the young dope addict, should have been allowed to enact the "withdrawal" period of an addict as it really must be—agonizing torture. No matter how bad it would have appeared, I think every teen-ager should see just what the result must be if they, too, get "hooked."

I am a teen-ager with fine parents. Perhaps I do not fully realize what it means to a boy or girl when their parents do not give the proper love and guidance so necessary to young people. Even so, if the kids know what the consequences of dope will be and still use the vile stuff just to be tough or one of the gang because they have an unhappy home life, I find it hard to sympathize.

On the Ball

With Ted Hilgenstuhler

The Tragic Triangle

This is a story concerning the famous triangle. Only it's not a love story. It's a hate story.

Now in the usual triangle, three people are involved: a man and a woman, and then the third party. The triangle I am referring to involves (1) Major League baseball clubs, (2) Minor League baseball clubs, and (3) the television industry.

In the stereotyped love story, at least two of the people are fond of each other. The other guy or gal is just making a pest of himself.

In this baseball triangle there's a slight twist to the plot. Nobody don't like nobody. So far, it's each man (or business) for himself. It's the age-old Darwinian law of the "survival of the fittest."

The Major League clubs (namely Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia of the American League) proved this recently when they gave TV rights to ABC to telecast their Saturday games. The contract stated specifically that the telecasts were not to be carried in cities where major league games were being played that day. The big leagues didn't give a hoot about the minor league teams such as our local Stars and Angels.

ABC-TV is out to make money for ABC-TV. That's okay. Learned economists kick the same theory around with lots of fancy figures and formulas, but that's the simple, honest-to-goodness way our free-enterprise system works.

It is known, however, that if Hollywood and Los Angeles did not agree to permit the telecasts, ABC-TV—very subtly mind you—could have put a lot of public pressure on the local clubs. "You're not giving the public what it wants," they would have screamed, and plenty loud, too.

In addition, KECA-TV lined up paid sponsors even before they notified the local clubs about their plans. Good business, granted; but poor sportsmanship, double-granted.

The Stars and Angels haven't been letting any daisies grow under their wings, either. They admit they are still waiting for two things: (1) for Congress to pass the Johnson law, which would outlaw major league telecasts in minor league communities and (2) for the baseball convention this winter when they hope some action will be taken to protect themselves.

On the surface, all is lovey-dovey at the moment. Channel 7 is plugging the local clubs during the Saturday Page Thirty-eight

Wrestling

Is My Business

By Jules StrongBow

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE WRESTLING "WAR"

Newspaper columnists and sports commentators are leading people to believe that there is a wrestling war on. This is not true. There is a legal dispute now going on but it is in no sense a so-called "wrestling war." Wrestling matches, like boxing matches, are made by matchmakers or booking agents—not by promoters. There are three booking agents in Southern California, John J. Doyle, Pat O'Brian, and Nick Lutze.

A wrestling war develops when one booking agent tries to steal another's clubs or towns. In this case, I talked with both Doyle and O'Brian and they are on very friendly and amiable terms. Lutze is temporarily inactive and devotes full time to the operation of his garage and service station in Beverly Hills.

Actually this affair over the Wednesday night wrestling which has received so much publicity is a fight between promoters—not matchmakers and wrestlers. Promoters do not make matches. This entire dispute is based on a technicality as to whether or not the San Diego Coliseum could run on Wednesday night.

For the past six months, KECA-TV, Channel 7, has been televising the wrestling matches from the Olympic Auditorium. For some reason, Olympic officials decided that they did not want to continue televising from the huge 18th and Grand plant via the American Broadcasting Company network. I do not know their reasons, but there are many arguments pro and con on the advantages of televising wrestling.

Consequently ABC, wishing to continue their wrestling programs, looked around for a good suitable club. They began negotiations with San Diego Coliseum officials, because it is one of the top-ranking clubs in the State and has a new name and location.

In order to complete the deal, San Diego had to change its running night from Tuesday to Wednesday night, in order to conform with ABC programming.

San Diego asked the permission of the State Athletic Commission and stated that it intended to televise wrestling matches. The Commission cast a vote 100 per cent in favor of allowing such a change to San Diego for televising purposes.

It was at this point that the public was led to believe a wrestling war was shaping up. Cal Eaton, long-time promoter of the Olympic Auditorium, entered a protest requesting a reversal on the San Diego case on the grounds that it would be detrimental and harmful to his promotion in Los Angeles. Also he questioned the legality of the Commission's telephonic vote.

The Commission now consists of four men—two in Northern California, Commissioner Phillips of San Francisco, the chairman of the board, and Archie Clauson of Lodi; and Everett Saunders and Norman Houston of Southern California.

Jake Erlich of San Francisco represented the Olympic and Jules Covey of Los Angeles represented San Diego.

Erlich, trying desperately to block the San Diego deal even temporarily, hinged his protest on the legality of a telephonic vote by the Commissioners.

Covey, the Coliseum's representative, stated that telephonic votes had been the policy of the Commission for the past 25 years when the issue of changing an arena's night of operation was concerned. Covey, a former chairman of the State Athletic Commission, is well versed in parliamentary procedure.

So you can see that the gossip of a wrestling war is merely a smoke screen to hide a technical dispute between promoters of the Olympic Auditorium and San Diego Coliseum.

How and when will this happen? What's the solution to this baseball problem, which in essence applies to all human evils? Brother, I wish I knew. I'd be wiser than the author of Ecclesiastes; richer than Rockefeller; and would waste the rest of my days writing the Great American Novel.

SINGING ANNOUNCER

Tom Hatton, staff announcer for KTLA, began his career as a singer-actor, graduating from the Pasadena Playhouse in 1949.

It Pays to Volunteer

Jack Narz debunks an old Army slogan

By Mildred Ross

AFFABLE JACK NARZ had one weak moment—he volunteered to do TV while others scoffed at the idea. In 1949, he was KLAC-TV's announcing staff, and for his efforts he reaped $3.50 per show.

That moment, however, has paid off handsomely for Jack. He has long since traded in his '41 Ford for a spanking new Cadillac and a Hillman Minx. Home was once a modest triplex apartment. Today it's a lovely house in Encino complete with a pool.

Fortunately, Jack's success hasn't gone to his head. Even if he is one of the busiest free-lancers in town his heart belongs to his alma mater, KLAC-TV, where he shared the mike with charming Betty White. When Wally Imes left Channel 13 to start his own TV show in Phoenix, Jack jumped into the vacated spot much to everyone's delight. Pretty Betty claims: "He's completely capable and fun at the same time. His sense of humor enhances the program. The day he made his debut on my show was my birthday, and what a wonderful birthday present he turned out to be!"

Jack's dramatic-club and debating-society experience at school sold him on the life of appearing before the public. After the Kentuckian's discharge from the service, he enrolled in Don Martin's Radio-TV School in Hollywood, where incidentally he met his lovely wife Mary Lou.

Starts Career

After completion of his course, novice Jack headed for El Centro and bluffed his way into a job at KXO. With three months of "experience" under his belt the ambitious Jack returned to Los Angeles and a staff job at a local station. But it wasn't until the camera focused on his smooth delivery that the public became aware of Mrs. Narz's boy Jack.

July 17, 1953

A boyish smile and a youthful enthusiasm are his trademarks. With infinite bounce, announcer Narz extolls the merits of a brand-name soap, coffee, cereal and what have you. His delivery is crisp and easy; his manner self-assured. At the risk of cutting his own throat, Jack openly denounces TV pitch commercials. "Give it to them slow and easy," he says.

Thirty-year-old Jack has worked hard for his success. But when his four-year-old son Johnny asked, "When is daddy coming home for a visit?" he decided to cut his announcing chores from twenty-three to fourteen weekly shows.

Jack spends his spare time puttering around in his garden. He loves steak and corn, charcoal-broiled. His favorite color is green. Some day he and his wife hope to take their belated honeymoon. "We should have taken it five years ago," he smiled, "but when Johnny, Mike, and Karen came along they delayed our plans somewhat."

Jack is a firm believer that there is no substitute for hard work. "The only time opportunity knocks at your door is when you go out and look for it," he says. "You've got to meet it halfway."

Jack's modesty is commendable; he's grateful for the breaks he's had and succinctly sums up his six busy broadcasting years with: "Volunteering never hurt me, it got me where I am today."

says Mrs. Dorothy Taylor of Arcadia, California, one of 91,890 women who prefer White King's Real Soapsuds over no-rinse chemicals.

Mrs. Taylor used the first granulated soap White King ever made in the first washing machine she ever owned. Today, the soap that goes into her modern automatic washer is the same brand that has served her so well for over three decades. In combination with White King Soap she uses White King Water Softener. She finds this new "1-2" way-to-wash with White King's wonder-working soapsuds is safe for everything she washes—from her colored things to her lace cloths and fine nylon curtains. Take a tip from Mrs. Taylor!

IN HARD OR SOFT WATER...
TRY USING WHITE KING'S "1-2"

1. Soften your wash water with WHITE KING WATER SOFTENER
2. Add just enough WHITE KING SOAP to give you sufficient suds

Betty White, like any popular young lady, has her moments when she wonders

WHAT'S WRONG WITH Men?

By Betty White

DON'T GET me wrong. I like men — for the most part. And I'm surrounded by such wonderful guys as Dave Street, Jack Narz, George Tibbles, Del Moore, and Cliff Whitcomb at KLAC-TV. But I have run into some rather strange characters.

The Egotist

If there's any one type of man I can do without it's the egotistical fellow. You can spot him easily at any time. And usually you can tag him for what he is on the first couple of meetings. He may be smooth and try to be what he really isn't, but it doesn't take long for the phony veneer to wear thin and for a girl to see his one basic quality — the "I Am."

The egotistical male usually is the type to say one thing and mean another. He dotes on insincere flattery too. He fully believes the girl will swoon if he says something nice about her, even though he may have a hunch she doesn't believe him.

I met such a man once. He immediately told me how much he liked me on my show and what an interesting television personality I was. I asked him just enough leading questions to prove what I had thought—he'd never even seen me on TV. Frankly, it was fun to see him trap himself in his own insincerity.

The great ego is also the type to start calling a girl "Baby" when he first meets her. This is supposed to establish the fact that he's a man-about-town. It's the phony approach that makes my hair curl. I hate to have anyone call me "Baby" but when it comes from a man who is just tossing about the words, I really get annoyed.

The Amorous Ones

Then there are those men who believe in the automatic good-night-kiss routine. Those who go in for the amorous pyrotechnics are trying to prove something—and what it is I don't know. I do know I can nicely do without these Handy Andys.

They're about as bad as those with the wandering eyes. I scratch them off my list right away.

Such men who indulge in across-the-room flirtations are so completely obvious they're funny. They usually operate best on a double date. They think they're being so smooth but they're only laying a bomb when they start flirting with the other fellow's girl—and always so you can see what they're trying to do. You can place bets that these wandering males will be on the phone the next morning trying to get a date with the girl.

There is also the Primper type—the one who spends five minutes combing his hair and who almost trips looking into his reflection in the mirror.

They say women are vain. Well, all I can say is that when a man is suffering vanity pains no girl can hold a candle to him.

The Monologue Boy

The last type who is a bore is the one who goes into a monologue on all his old girls. He's the Conquest Casanova. He naively believes that by giving a long account of his great prowess as a lover he's impressing you terrifically. Whenever I have heard this kind of chatter I have always felt rather sorry for the man because he must be so insecure. Besides, how could any girl trust him? If he's going to gossip about his past dates he's certainly going to have you on the pan soon.

There may be other types who are annoying, but these are my favorites. Fortunately, I have found that the average man is a really great person. It's the exceptions who are the complete and utter bores.

KTTV's George Putnam comes to the defense of the males and tells

WHAT'S WRONG WITH Women?

By George Putnam

I'VE ALWAYS maintained that it's only the foolhardy male who would ever attempt to dissect, analyze, or criticize the not-so-weaker sex. So here I am doing what I always said I'd never do.

Like any man I think women are a great institution. They are indispensable—and while we men may gripe we couldn't do without them. However, there are a few shortcomings that any woman could do without.

Coy Cutie

First and foremost among my womanly dislikes is the coy lady—the sweet, helpless little thing who clings and clings and clings and makes a production out of being feminine in a phony way. I think any man likes a girl to have some independence, to be a real pal to him. And he can also stand for just the right amount of sophistication to go along with a definite individuality. A man may like the helpless creature for a while, but I don't think he'd want her as a steady diet.

The Career Girl

The typical career woman is another who leaves a little to be desired. It does seem that far too many are making a lifetime of a career these days and are not spending enough time trying to be real women. What better goal in life is there for a woman than to be a good wife and a good mother to a man she loves? If she must work, she can still keep her mind on her primary job—which is to build a home and to give her own existence a rich meaning.

The Gossip

Naturally, I don't expect to be considered unique when I say that another type of woman I don't like is the one who tells all she knows. I can't see how anybody could trust that kind of person. It's bad enough for a lady to gossip about men but it's worse when she starts raking over her women friends. To me, gossip is the product of an idle mind. To say nice things about others is the characteristic of a mind that has no room for pettiness or viciousness.

The Glamour Girl

Which brings me to the glamour girl. Don't get me wrong — I love glamour, but not when it's the only contribution a woman can make. If she's not a good conversationalist, if she's entirely self-centered, if her every thought is on her glamour she is too shallow and uninteresting. Personally, my idea of real glamour is the girl who can look as good in shorts and with her hair blowing in the wind as she does in the most exciting evening gown imaginable.

I just don't feel glamour girls are the lasting type. There are no sweeter girls of sixty, but a woman should be as charming at sixty as she is when she's young. It may be old, but it's a good bromide: "When the bloom is off the rose, brother, it's off!"

I think one of the primary requisites for a basically fine woman is that she treats others of her sex as decently as she does men. If she can't be fair and considerate to other women she's not much good.

There is one other requisite too. I think it's a good idea for all women to have worked at some kind of job. It certainly doesn't hurt any fair one to have had the experience of living in a routine. It makes her better able to run a house efficiently and it gives her a sense of responsibility.

I'm a fortunate guy, though, because I seldom run into the types of women I don't like—and for a good reason. I only spend my time with those whose company I enjoy.

I'm happy to add that the really exceptional ladies are in the vast majority. Bless 'em!

He Can Take It

Mel Baldwin burns the midnight oil on his CBS "Music Till Dawn" ailer

By Donna Scott

CAN YOU imagine a guy liking a midnight-to-5-a.m. shift? Well, Mel Baldwin, the 'official owl for KNX, loves it and even manages to live a normal life.

Mel hails from Portland, Oregon, where he held a series of radio jobs that included writing, producing, acting and announcing. After writing and directing seventeen shows a week, Mel takes his midnight-to-dawn schedule right in his stride.

If it weren't for Mel's admiration for Steve Allen, he might still be up in the timber country. Mel listened faithfully to Steve's KNX midnight broadcast when he was a station manager of KTIL, Tillamook, Oregon. He sent Steve some Tillamook cheese at various times, with appropriate remarks, and later, in August 1950, looked him up during a visit to Los Angeles.

Approximately one year later, Mel sent an audition record to KNX that won him a contract immediately. His all-night "Music Till Dawn" show features light music for the nocturnal interlude, interspersed with news on the hour, weather reports and general information. The sponsor, American Airlines, signed six CBS radio stations for this unique program.

According to Mel's mail pull, a cross-section of people in all kinds of occupations listen to the sweet and low notes on to the wee hours.

Their letters also comment on his casual, easy-going commercials. One doctor writes: "My thanks for the fine program you are presenting... on behalf of my patients and self." An artist states: "... I am an artist and I paint mostly at night so I can remain up and listen to your music." Another listener sets his radio-clock alarm so that he can be awakened by the soft, sweet music. All-night service-station attendants find company in "Music Till Dawn's" offerings.

He Does Sleep

Mel's composure is refreshing. Normally you'd expect a man who's been up all night to be irritable and cross. But Mel arranges his upside-down routine so that he gets his required sleep. He retires at 7:00 a.m. and sleeps until two in the afternoon. No matter how much noise his youngsters (Carol, seven, and Curt, five) make he's oblivious to their shout's and yells. A lovely pair of ear plugs enables him to blissfully slumber. Even the noise from the school play-yard area, which is directly across the street from the Baldwins' valley home, doesn't penetrate these impervious plugs.

Despite Mel's all-night show, he now has more time to spend with his family than ever before. After awakening from his noise-defying slumber, he has the remainder of the afternoon and early evening hours to spend with his wife and little Baldwins.

▼ ALL-NIGHT MICROPHONE DUTIES don't seem to dampen Mel's enthusiasm for fishing. Sign-off time, 5:30 a.m., on his broadcasting days usually finds him able and willing to cast that line. Young Curt watches his Dad with avid interest.

Hobbies

Mel's hobbies are flying and out-board boat racing. He also plays drums and bass, having worked his way through high school as a member of a local jazz band. He loves fishing too, and can truthfully boast nowadays that he's up at the crack of dawn ready to try to outsmart a smart trout. From all indications, Mel Baldwin burns the midnight oil without any visual strain on his disposition or personality. When he says: "I can take it," he really means it.

 THURSTON GILBERT FRAZIER, choirmaster of the Victory Baptist Church, leads this stirring group of singers in a hymn. KTTV scored a scoop in landing this show.

 DR. ARTHUR PETERS, pastor of the church, believes religion should be happy. He sends his congregation home with a lift in their hearts.

 IF YOU THINK you've heard everything, give a listen to these "Voices of Victory" and you'll agree that here is something new.

"MAKE Heaven HAPPY"

"Voices of Victory" is TV's "sleeper" show of the year. It'll bring a smile to your heart.

By Marty Burns

GOD IS IN this church! If you've looked for Him in fashionable churches . . . in today's sermons on politics and the world situation . . . or in the faces of your fellow man and found Him not, do not be discouraged, for God is the motivating force behind this great church and its equally great choir.

Ten years ago Victory Baptist Church was little more than a dream in the heart of young Dr. Arthur A. Peters. The message that burned within him was filled with the joy of living and a promised hope for the future, and the fire of his convictions has spread to his congregation and choir. This is the secret of the "different" quality that pours from KTTV, Sundays at 8:30 p.m. It also accounts for the beautiful new church building and the Victory Baptist Nursery School in which more than one hundred pre-school youngsters are given daily Christian care and training by seven professionally trained teachers. Members of the church know that God is responsible for their prosperity and, not being reluctant to return part of it for His work, have provided $100,000 for a building fund.

Mr. Thurston Frazier, a very wonderful and talented young man, has over two hundred volunteer voices to choose from as Choir Director. He not only leads, arranges, and writes music for this organization but works with the soloists and smaller vocal groups as well. As he leads the choir, a hymn that is intended to last three minutes may build in joy, momentum and volume till at the end of ten or fifteen minutes it will have become such an exquisite expression of happiness and faith that the tears and emotions of the congregation are wholly understandable. It is because of the lack of time that this part of the service is lost to television viewers.

Dr. Peters, or the Shepherd, as he is known to the members, has a beautiful singing voice himself and weaves music and song into his sermon as he implores the choir to "sing until you make heaven happy." He, along with the choir, may "re-write" a number as they begin to feel the music. If someone's heart becomes so full that he must express himself, he takes the lead in the singing and the others go along with him as though it had been practiced in this manner for hours. Robbie Lee Peston, the pianist, and Helen Perkins have at least a sixth sense and accompany these changes as expertly and beautifully as they do the prepared passages.

Other church choirs were tape-recorded by producer William Johnson but the Victory Baptist Choir was considered the best, and after many years of radio programs, KTTV presented them last Easter Sunday in their television debut. The presentation met with such instantaneous approval that they were retained on a sustaining basis. They are now sponsored.

These people sing and worship from the heart. Robert Breckner, Program Director, is to be commended for the manner in which they are presented, but the real tribute should be paid Dr. Peters, who took a dream, a small frame building, and a deep and abiding faith and built them into a church so large that a special detail of police is needed to handle the crowds who surge to hear his happy triumphant message. Truly this church is well named—The VICTORY Baptist Church.

There's Fire in "Gunsmoke"

Radio will always be alive and kicking with shows as good as this knockout Western

By Jon Bruce

▲ THE TWO MEN who make "Gunsmoke" the hit it is: left, producer-director Norman Macdonnell and Bill Conrad, who stars as "Mat Dillon." If you think all Western shows are alike, listen to this one and you'll have a few surprises. The regulars on the CBS radio show are, left to right, Parley Baer, Georgia Ellis, Bill, and Howard McNear. They certainly prove there's still a lot of talent on radio.

FRANKLY, it's amazing that "Gunsmoke" ever got on radio. This CBS show which airs Saturdays at 6:30 p.m. is so lacking in formula stuff and clichés that it's a miracle it wasn't dismissed in the beginning with the typical reaction, "It'll never go—it's too different."

And it certainly is original. Its Western hero, Matt Dillon, is not the All-American-boy type—in fact, at times he sounds like a heavy; he doesn't win all of his fights; he doesn't barge into a saloon, take on six or seven guys and knock them all out cold; he isn't in love with some poor little lassie whose father owns a ranch on which the mortgage is past due; he is friendly with a dance-hall girl of questionable reputation; the dialogue in the show is literate and has none of the tired old lines like "How'rya podner?" or the "he went that-a-way" drivel.

No Conventional Hero

In almost every instance, the stories of "Gunsmoke," all of which center around the exploits of Marshal Matt Dillon of Dodge City in the 1870's, defy convention. Matt is no stock heroic but a human being with his own particular emotional problems. In one script he was faced with the decision of whether or not to amputate a man's leg. The man was dying of blood poisoning, no doctor was available, so Matt was asked to do the operation. After debating the matter, he decided to try the amputation. So you think Matt saved the man's life. He did not. The man died.

Another time Matt met two men who looked familiar to him. All during the half-hour show he made references to the fact that he knew those men but couldn't remember their names. At the end he remembered. They were the James brothers. Can you imagine a Western with a marshal who wouldn't recognize such noted outlaws?

How Show Was Born

Norman Macdonnell, producer-director, and Johnny Maston conceived the idea of "Gunsmoke." They had long wanted to do a Western that would appeal to adults. One script was tried out on "Escape," a show Norman was directing, and later another was done on "Romance."

Both were so successful that the two men tried to sell the idea to CBS, but with no luck. It was too diametrically opposed to all conceptions of Western shows on radio. Also, at about the same time CBS was working up a rather typical formula Western to be called "Gunsmoke."

"I guess we used subtle and sundry means," Norman remarked, "but the first thing we knew our scripts went on as 'Gunsmoke' instead of the ones originally set by the station. I think we had such a difficult time selling the show at first because radio was in such a state of flux that no one wanted to try anything different. That's why we're so gratified to see how fast the program has caught on."

"Selling the show was one problem. The other was convincing those in charge that William Conrad was the perfect Matt Dillon. Bill had been playing a lot of heavies on radio and no one could see him as the hero type—simply because he didn't sound like the young Western guy. Those who objected to him on those grounds are now praising him for the same reasons."

As for Bill Conrad, he thinks "Gunsmoke" is the greatest thing that could happen to an actor as do regulars Parley Baer, Howard McNear and Georgia Ellis.

Mail Pull

The mail that comes into Norman's office is excellent testimony to the show's realism.

Several amusing letters have come in. One was from some people in Dodge City who wrote that they knew Matt Dillon was a real character who had come from Dodge City but they couldn't place the exact years in which he was Marshal.

As a matter of fact, Matt is a purely fictitious character.

Then there was the Governor of Kansas, who appeared on a broadcast of "Gunsmoke" and thanked CBS for such an authentic picturization of Dodge City as it used to be. But he hastily assured listeners that the city had become quite civilized since then.

Apparently a couple of boys in Montreal, Canada, didn't hear the Governor because they wrote about their plans to tour the United States and mentioned they had thought of passing through Dodge City. However, since hearing the show they decided they should skip a visit to this wild and dangerous city. Norman Macdonnell, of course, assured them that the place was perfectly okay now.

Don't look for "Gunsmoke" to hit your TV screens. At least, Norman and his co-workers are against the idea.

"Our show is the perfect one for the medium of radio," he said. "Besides, we couldn't be as accurate as we are now in details. For example, marshals in Dodge City at that time wore derby hats, watch charms, button shoes, and other such fancy trimmings. Can you see a Western hero dressed like that on TV?"

As long as shows like "Gunsmoke" stay on radio, the medium will never have to count itself out. TV should, as a matter of fact, immediately enlist the services of Norman Macdonnell and Bill Conrad. Maybe they could bring some life to an often ailing youngster.

The Problems of a Press Agent

Behind all the glowing words written about the TV stars are those people whose job it is to sell the pretty words to the public. But oh! the ulcers they get!

HAL BOCK, now a leading independent Hollywood publicist, has a unique slant on the Problems of a Press Agent, for Hal started with NBC in San Francisco in 1933 and during the past twenty years has noted a change of emphasis. "Over a period of years," he commented, "it's interesting to see a gradual and definite change of talent from just entertainers, troubadours or buffoons to solid and important business corporations. The trend in our national living has made it necessary for them to do this, rather than be itinerant artists." Bock points out that expectancy of a "career life" is extremely short, especially in regard to TV, which he tabs "a man-killer."

Accordingly, the networks, agencies and sponsors now deal with "talent" as they would with any other business concern. This practical attitude has brought about a change in publicity, which has turned from the fantastic milk-bath, guinea-hen-under-glass-for-breakfast type stories to more realistic publicity. In other words, as Bock puts it, "the days of the out-and-out baloney are gone. Today's publicist with a client feels he has a piece of merchandise—and so you have to figure out how to sell it. It's like selling a can of beans. First you determine what kind of beans you have and then what kind of market for them."

Temperament

In line with the more realistic approach to publicity, the problems of the publicist have changed. Temperament is seldom displayed, though Bock claims he has never found anybody big ("with a capital B") with temperament. He has had ample opportunity to witness any outbursts, for he successfully headed up NBC's Western Division Press

Department for many years (and was the first Westerner to win the annual Billboard Award for exploitation in the radio business—in fact he was a two-time recipient, both in 1940 and 1941).

Gone, then, are the days of the actress "with ninety per cent temper and ten per cent mental." Though Bock seldom had to deal with such persons, he does recall a couple of incidents. One involved a bit of hoity toity on the part of a famous movie star appearing weekly on a big radio dramatic series. It was the duty of Bock's department to get publicity photos of this star, but the actor continually refused to pose. Finally he magnanimously consented to stand still for "just two pictures." On the appointed day, Bock sauntered into the studio and got his two pictures—two apiece, that is, from eight photographers he assembled for the great occasion! "I never had any trouble with the star again," Bock remarked.

A well-known singing star who repeatedly gave trouble by refusing to pose because she didn't have on make-up was also handled neatly. One day Bock appeared in the studio to make his tired bid for pictures. Just as the diva started voicing her customary dodge, one of Bock's assistants produced a complete make-up kit. All the star could do was to take the kit and capitulate to the camera.

One of Bock's rules is always to straighten out misunderstandings with the people with whom he is dealing. "I've always felt that if you don't understand or have a misunderstanding, you can work it out by talking for a minute," he stated.

For stars whose hat size becomes enlarged his stock remedy is the silent treatment. It has never failed.

One of the smartest publicity men in town is KTLA's Howard Wormser. Howard came to the station with an extensive background which included publicizing such famous names as Red Skelton, Benny Goodman, Kay Kyser, and many more.

Other Press Agents

"Oddly enough, one of the biggest problems a publicity man in a motion-picture studio or TV station faces is other press agents," Howard commented. "The independent publicist gets in our hair more than a little by his happy habit of double-planting stories. I know of one press agent who makes a habit of sending the same idea for an article to as many as three magazines. Then when the identical story appears in two books—or maybe even three—he concocts all kinds of excuses to explain away the mishap. Usually he places the blame on the station, which had nothing to do with the whole thing."

Nursemaid to Stars

"Most publicity men, however, get their man-sized headaches from playing nursemaid to stars. A few of the satellites can get into some royal messes. One big name I once handled got into a sordid affair involving a soldier. The outcome of the deal was that the soldier robbed the star. I was given an emergency call by the performer, who had foolishly called the police to report the theft. He suddenly realized he would be at a loss to explain the whole situation without putting himself in an awkward light. I managed to turn the story around enough to take any embarrassment off the star. In short, he emerged as something of a heroic character.

"A press agent, like anyone else, can be fooled by a personality he is to plug. That's why I think it's better to forestall any future problems by knowing the star well before taking on the job. There is one TV name I once worked for—and it wasn't until I had been with him for a few

IF YOU think Fate doesn't work in amazing ways, take a listen to the story of Elizabeth Patterson.

This exceptionally talented actress who is now playing the much sought-after role of the baby sitter to Lucy and Desi's baby on "I Love Lucy" might never have had the chance for the part if it weren't for a performance she gave on another "Lucy" show about six months ago. And it was that performance that had convinced her she would be a royal flop.

"I was asked to do this role," Patty explained, "and since it involved a broad kind of comedy I hadn't been used to playing I was positive I would be terrible. I begged to be relieved of the assignment. Instead of heeding my pleas, Lucille and Desi and Jess Oppenheimer, producer-writer, kept telling me how good I was going to be in the part. I finally went ahead and played it—still convinced I was not good and with everyone else still saying I was.

yet remain genuine, honest, and humble. They're never too busy to pay a compliment or to make your job easier. The same is true of Mr. Oppenheimer and writers Madelyn Pugh and Bob Carroll.

"I must confess that for a while I was worried when I began playing Mrs. Trumbull, who became the baby sitter. I was told I wasn't speaking loudly enough. This confused me, since in the many years I'd been an actress on the stage I'd never had to worry about projection. I was having lunch with Bill Frawley one day and mentioned how concerned I was about this. He laughed and said, 'Don't let it bother you, Patty. We're the loudest-mouthed foursome in the business—Vivian, Lucy, Desi, and I.' So I raised the voice and haven't had any trouble since.

"Being on 'I Love Lucy' is so much fun it's hardly to be classified as work. If only all jobs were this pleasant!"

Patty is, of course, no newcomer to television. She has appeared on such shows as Studio One, Pulitzer Prize Playhouse, and Lux Video Theatre. Her very definite talents have also been used many times in countless motion pictures, her most notable performance perhaps being in "Intruder in the Dust."

She is a native of the deep South, having been born in Savannah, Tennessee. When she was still a young girl she embarked on a theatrical career that saw her doing Shakespearean roles and then went on to some of the most famous hits ever to hit Broadway. As a result of her work on the stage, Paramount signed her to a contract. That was over twenty years ago, and she's been here ever since.

"I've played many different kinds of parts in my life," Patty concluded with a warm smile, "but seldom have I had such a wonderful opportunity as I have now. To be playing the baby sitter to the most famous baby in the most widely known family in America is something like seeing a dream come true. In fact, I keep pinching myself to be sure I'm not dreaming."

WHEN ELIZABETH PATTERSON was selected to play the baby sitter to Lucy and Desi's baby on "I Love Lucy" she was the envy of every character actress in town. This was really a coveted role.

The Million Dollar BABY SITTER

Introducing Elizabeth Patterson, veteran character actress, who happily joins Lucy and Desi as their favorite infant caretaker

By Jack Holland

"You can be very sure now that I'm eternally grateful that I was overruled then. My performance seemed to be all right, but the important thing was that from it I got the part of the baby sitter. All of which goes to prove that no actress can tell one solitary thing about any performance she may give. I only wish that the other times I had thought I was not doing well had had such wonderful results.

"Working with Lucille and Desi is an exciting experience. In fact, everyone connected with the show is a dream. In all my years in the theater and in motion pictures I have never known people to be so kind and so helpful. It's a thrilling thing to see people like Lucille and Desi hit such terrific heights and months that I realized he was not the sweet guy I had thought he was. In fact, he was a no-good person. But I had a contract and I had to continue 'selling' him.

"It's easy to publicize someone whose talents you respect. I was never very fond of Benny Goodman as a person but I could 'sell' him because he had great talent. In the case of Sigmund Romberg, whom I also publicized, I had an easy job because he had talent and also a likeable personality."

Skelton a Top Guy

"My favorite, however, is Red Skelton. Red, to me, is the greatest comedian in the business and he's a regular guy. But I can never forget a boner I pulled once while I was with Red.

"He was doing one of his regular Sunday evening previews of his radio show and I had decided not to go that night to the studio. I told his wife to let me know, however, if I were needed for anything. I was sitting at home that evening when the phone rang. It was Red's wife telling me that the curtain in the studio had caught on fire. The fire had been put out but the room was full of smoke and Red had dragged out an overcoat usher from the place. This was a story worth a couple of paragraphs so I called it in to the various papers. All but one city editor took it and he lambasted me for bothering him with such a silly story. I got mad and told him he was a fool for passing up this big yarn. 'Here I am standing in the studio with fire raging all around me,' I said. 'The beams are falling and Red has just pulled an usher from the flaming room—and you refuse to take this story!' The guy bit and ran the item with banner headlines on the next edition. His was the only paper that gave it such a spread—and he was promptly fired. Red was also a little unhappy because it had made him look silly. I don't know what got into me that time."

Klaus Landsberg

"Fortunately, I'm working now for Klaus Landsberg at KTLA and I'm glad I am. Klaus is, to me at least, the C. B. DeMille of TV. Before I got this job I had several other fine offers from stations in town but I had a real respect for Klaus's talent and I wanted to work with him. It took me three months to see him and then I had to corner him at eleven o'clock one night. I talked to him for five minutes and got the job.

"My desk is not exactly free of problems but at least I'm able to publicize KTLA and Klaus with honesty. It's no routine job."

Another sharp publicist is Pat McDermott, manager of press information of CBS-TV, who works for another master publicity man, Norman Siegel.

More Headaches

"One of our biggest problems," Pat began, "is supplying plentiful and new pictures every week for all the magazines that are now entering the TV field. To get the stars to take the time to pose for the art, to be sure that pictures are kept exclusive for the various publications—all this is a headache. It's even worse when so many times the magazines don't like what you've shot. Then they want a whole new set immediately.

"We press agents are very anxious to cooperate with magazines and newspapers because that's our job, but we do get a little irked when we're asked to write the stories for certain publications. We feel, perhaps naively, that the magazine should be sufficiently staffed with writers to handle this chore themselves.

"Editors, too, give us headaches. They are, in some cases, a class of people who get easily upset. Most of them are cooperative but we do have those who get imagined hurts and dash to the network vice-president with a complaint. If we have failed to do our job, we deserve such complaints, but it is hard to please everyone all the time.

"Then there are some sponsors who give us a few trials. Sponsors may put the pressure on us if a show isn't doing so well—and then we have to start beating the drums. More than once we in the press department have kept a show on the channels."

Not Appreciated

"I don't want to sound as though we press agents are only an inch removed from being martyrs, but in all honesty I think that we haven't a well-appreciated job. We hear plenty when there are complaints but seldom do we hear anything about a chore well done. Talent is equally disinterested in admitting when a publicist has done rather well by them.

"But we stay in the business because it's always a challenge. We may get ulcers and nervous breakdowns but we're hams enough to get a glow when we see a story of ours hit the front pages or get a big layout in an important magazine. Maybe we're all just frustrated actors."

Does anyone want to go to work as a press agent?

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Around TV Row

Faye Emerson, video's first Queen, is back on the telescreens as a panelist. She's a regular on CBS-TV's "I've Got a Secret" and can also be seen on ABC's "Quick as a Flash" stanza. . . . Summer replacement for Ann Sothern's "Private Secretary" series is a dramatic format entitled "Your Play Time." . . . Cliff Whitcomb, musicologist on the Betty White show, celebrated his second anniversary on the stanza with nary a day off since he started. . . . The nursery furniture seen on the "I Love Lucy" set is due to hit the retail stores in the near future. . . . KECA-TV has announced it will televise all American League baseball games, Saturdays at 10:45 a.m. First of the series is the Yankee-Cleveland game, June 13. . . . John Daly has been named TV Father of the Year, by the National Father's Day Committee. Daly has two sons and one daughter. The family resides in Rye, New York. . . . "Noah Webster Says," an old-time radio favorite, makes its TV bow with Haven MacQuarrie at the helm over KTTV. . . . Edward R. Murrow's "Person to Person" series has finally been consummated. In the planning stages since last summer, the stanza has been set for October 2. It's a news-feature program which deals with people in the news, and it will introduce many new remote-pickup techniques. . . . When actor Phillip Ober revealed during an interview that his wife was Vivian Vance of the "I Love Lucy" show, he became a "rediscovered" press attraction. . . . Dick Stewart takes over the Saturday segment of "Cartoon Time" so "Sheriff John" can have a day off. . . . "Ebony Showcase"

The first TV showing of "Ebony Showcase" will take place on Thursday, June 11, at 10:30 p.m. over Channel 11.

Featuring an all-Negro cast from the "Ebony Showcase" legitimate-stage theater at 2182 W. Washington Blvd., the half-hour variety show is headed by Nick Stewart, well-known stage and screen comedian.

They Like Linn

A TV fan club and 50,000 homeless refugee children in Korea will get together this week. How is such a thing possible? This is the story:

All week, members of the Roberta Linn Fan Club have been collecting old blankets for the children. On Saturday, June 13, starting at 1 p.m. at Griffith Park at the Pepper Tree Lane, the persons who bring in the greatest donations will be awarded prizes. Goodwill Industries are collecting the blankets for the club. Those who are unable to give blankets can make donation for a Roberta Linn School in Korea.

Roberta, her entire "Cafe Continental" cast, and a 105-piece band from the 7th Division of the Army will be on hand to entertain. Refreshments will be free. Best of all, everyone and anyone—that includes you—are invited.

Sounds like fun, and for a good cause, too.

Records—Played and Broken

Les Brown played records and set records in his opening at the Palladium last week.

Over 3330 loyal rooters danced to the music of the "Band of Renown" for its fourteenth engagement at the famed Hollywood dance hall. Besides Les's own playing on the alto sax and clarinet, the crowd applauded the singing of Lucy Ann Polk, Butch Stone and Stumpy Brown, Dave's Pell's sax solos; and swooning renditions of Ray Simms and his trombone.

Celebrities in attendance included Marilyn Maxwell, Margaret Whiting, Kay Starr, Roberta Linn, Eileen Wilson, Russ Morgan, Vic Schoen, and Jimmy Wakely. TV fans can enjoy this same show on "Palladium Party," Channel 2, Sundays, at 8 p.m.

According to the Hooperatings for Los Angeles for May, "I Love Lucy" is in the number-one place for the sixth successive month.

"You Bet Your Life"—with Groucho Marx—in second place for the sixth successive month; (3) "Dragnet," up from fourth place in April; (4) "Colgate Comedy Hour"—with Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis; (5) "Burns and Allen," which rose from seventh place in April; (6) "Our Miss Brooks"—with Eve Arden; (7) "Your Hit Parade"; (8) "Your Show of Shows"—with Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca—which rose from tenth place in April; (9) "Treasury Men in Action," which rose from sixteenth place in April; (10) "The Red Skelton Program," up from eleventh place in April.

"Strange Things Are Happening"

Borrowing a popular phrase from CBS's Red Buttons, we note that strange things are happening. Two CBS-TV shows are exiting their home berth for the summer in favor of a rival network. NBC is slated to carry Ann Sothern's "Private Secretary" and "The Big Payoff" starring Bess Myerson and Randy Merriman during the summer season. When the leaves begin to fall, "Private Secretary" returns to CBS and from all indications "The Big Payoff" will duplicate the switch.

The Alvino Rey-King Sisters Show

KNBH, Saturday, 10 p.m.

KNBH seems to have a sure winner in "The Alvino Rey-King Sisters Show." This is an entertaining, well-produced program that should draw many viewers to Channel 4. It features no mammoth production but each number is thoughtfully presented. As for the music itself, it's the kind that local audiences seem to love.

Actually, Harry von Zell's name should be added to the title of the show, for he carries the entire proceedings—and does so with an easy charm. His many years experience in radio and on TV certainly add a lot of class to the production.

Alvino Rey's masterful musicianship, his amazing "talking steel guitar," and the King Sisters' expert vocalizing combine to make the program one that should be heartily recommended. It's a standout among locally produced shows.

The commercials for H. J. Caruso are frequent but are also quite amazing. If Caruso continues to make car deals like this, he'll be lucky if he has enough money left to pay for the TV show. Harry von Zell makes the plugs interesting—and that's more than can be said for most commercials.—J.H.
