HAS RED
SKELTON
CAREER?

A photograph of Red Skelton is the central focus. He is wearing a brown fedora-style hat and a bright red pinstriped suit jacket over a light blue shirt and a yellow tie. He has a surprised or earnest expression, with wide eyes and a slightly open mouth. His right hand is placed over his chest. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

Satisfies the "Ham" in Us!

CBS Has Come Up with A New Radio Show Smacking of Greasepaint, Foot-Lights and Glamor of Old Broadway

▲ HOST MIKE WALLACE INTERVIEWS "Wonderful Town" star Rosalind Russell who guested on "Stage Struck" premiere.

BECAUSE EACH of us has "ham" in him—some more, some less—the stage seems to carry an inevitable lure for practically everyone. There's a fascination about greasepaint, foot-lights, dressing rooms and such, and about the performers whose happy lot it is to associate with these symbols of laughter and tears.

CBS's new show, "Stage Struck," is pinned on this assumption—that most of us feel a natural curiosity and delight in knowing more about the theater and its people. Since its October 2 debut, the show has done an excellent job of satisfying listeners' interest.

Talent roster has been tops: Rosalind Russell, star of "Wonderful Town"; Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II in an engaging review of their collaboration which began with "Oklahoma" in 1943 and progressed to "South Pacific," "The King and I," and "Me and Juliet"; Eva Saint Marie, star of "A Trip to Bountiful," doing a bit from the play with Lillian Gish; George S. Kaufman and Howard Teichmann, authors of the smash, "The Solid Gold Cadillac," in an intimate, informal discussion of their hopes and fears; Fritzi Scheff, Fred Astaire, Billy Gaxton, and Vivian Segal in a panoramic resume of musical comedy the past fifty years.

Inside Stuff

Another broadcast went behind scenes to demonstrate how a ticket broker operates. Theme for a still more recent program was the country's road companies—the groups fanning out from Broadway to bring the Great White Way's success to the world outside Manhattan. To demonstrate the caliber of road companies, various groups were brought in, via tape recording, for musical numbers.

Field reporter for these tapings and host of the weekly hour-long broadcast is Mike Wallace, whose pleasant voice and easy manner contribute noticeably to the show's appeal. Wallace, married to Irvin S. Cobb's granddaughter, Buff, does "legman" duty by prowling backstage for color interviews and star slants. He also joins the crowd on the other side of the footlights to see the performance and select portions to be broadcast on "Stage Struck."

"I get to go to every Broadway show free at least once," he quipped. "This means much more than saving money. It means special privilege, always a thrill to anyone even remotely stage struck."

Getting to hear radio's "Stage Struck" actually adds up to the same special privilege. And when one ponders the toils and tribulations of getting tickets for Broadway smashes, being able to listen free to a radio show embracing the spirit of all the hits seems almost too good to be true.

↑ GUARDS LEO GOULD AND TOM ARMSTRONG of CBS-TV give Red Skelton the heave-ho, but in definitely a kidding fashion. CBS is still mighty happy over its coup of getting the noted comic to their stable. The change seems to have helped Red a lot too.

has RED

IT WASN'T too long ago that Red Skelton was the number one attraction on TV. Today, he is not having it so easy. His new show for CBS-TV has been a vast improvement over last year's efforts but it has not yet attained the popularity he once enjoyed.

The answer is not that people tired of Red Skelton. He's far too great a comedian. The answer is, rather, that Red was the victim of unfortunate circumstances before and that now he is going back to the kind of comedy that he knows so well and that made him so popular. He has learned his lesson.

Lessons Learned

"My first year on TV I used up 365 routines," Red explained. "That was material I had gathered for twenty-four years. You speak of TV's ravenous appetite. My case is good proof. In my new set-up I'm able to spread out my routines more.

"I used to be on all of the twenty-six minutes in the half hour. And that's just too much for any performer. On my CBS show I have other excellent stars working with me and occasionally I use an act in which I don't appear at all. I got so bored seeing myself on TV last year that I didn't watch any programs after the first five.

"I think the biggest change is going back to live shows. I have always wanted the feel of a live audience. I need it. A lot of the things I do depend on audience reaction and I don't like playing to empty seats."

Health

Last year, Red was actually too tired and ill to do his best work. He was struggling on energy he didn't really have. He had no incentive to work because he was doing too much. Not only did he have his TV show but he had radio and motion pictures to do too. Now he is only doing TV—and he's having a chance to be with his family and to relax. And, frankly, he's loving it.

His health is much improved too. After his very serious operation last year, during which he said that about ninety ulcers were cut out of him, some thought Red would never be able to hit the TV trail again. But he has come back—and with a vengeance.

With his new show Red has more of a chance to ad lib—and that's a specialty of his. To watch him during rehearsal is to see a master comic at work. If only the things he does then could be on the show! Some of these ad libs in rehearsal do find their way into programs at a later date. Lucille Alex, Red's secretary, writes down every one of ## saved his career?

TV has taught Red Skelton plenty. But has he learned his lesson too late? Can he again hit the top or has he "had it?"

By Jack Holland

his spontaneous cracks, puts them in a book, and then goes over them with Red. They have formed the basis for new routines.

As for his renewed popularity, his sponsor, Geritol, is mighty happy with him. In fact, the company picked up the tab on his show well in advance. And for a program that hits the $65,000 bracket that's more than confidence.

Loves Work

"I love to work," Red said. "I love to make people laugh. Sure I lay eggs at times but I learn from them. I'm now anxious to do a show. I get a big bang out of the rehearsals. Oh, I'm meeting myself coming and going so much that at times I forget what day it is, but this kind of life is fun. It's what I've always wanted. This is show business!

February 19, 1954

"TV needn't kill off performers if the stars themselves will use some good judgment on how much and how often they are 'on.' There won't be any more of this business of my being the whole show for the full twenty-six minutes. I want a rest occasionally and I want to give the audience a rest.

"I know I have a job—and finding new material is one of them. But as long as I love what I'm doing as much as I do now I'll get the material. It's when you feel dead inside that you begin to lay those eggs. I feel plenty alive!"

It's the fool who counts Red Skelton out now. He was on the top once and it looks from here as though he's heading right back up there again.

Rise and Shine

Wake Up With Harry Babbitt's Early AM Airing

By Donna Scott

LISTENING to The Harry Babbitt Show is a familiar habit for many early risers. After getting one eye open it always helps to tune in Babbitt's CBS-KNX show while yawning your way into a new day.

The members of the program wake you up in a warm, enticing, friendly but not too lively manner. Harry and his cast have become a "good morning" habit for many families in the past six years.

Babbitt is accompanied by Billy Wardell, pianist and organist, and Art Wentzel, accordionist. The trio adheres to sweet melodies and light ballads . . . nothing overly romantic or too jumpy for their early morning stanza.

A segment of the program is devoted to a personal platter which is dedicated to a specific person. The platter most frequently requested is the song "Always" with "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You" running a close second.

Interspersed with the music and announcer Johnny Jacob's humorous chit chat is the most unusual "Breakfast of the Week." The circumstances surrounding some of these unusual broadcasts are rather unique.

One listener wrote to Harry stating that she established her own United Nations by way of a matrimonial alliance. Her husband, it seems, is Croatian and was raised in the "Little Italy" section of his home town. The wife is of Mexican, Indian, German, Scotch, Irish and English descent. With that as a build-up, she proceeded to tell of their favorite Sunday breakfast. It is called Polenta, which is a cake of steamed cornbread . . . seasoned with onions and topped with cubes of round steak simmered in tomato sauce that's highly spiced and liberally flavored with garlic. Ice cold milk completes the bill of fare. Fruit juice served two hours before breakfast fortifies the couple, and Sen-Sen served after the Polenta permits them to mingle with their friends after church.

Another unusual breakfast concerned a couple who had been fishing in a wooded stream until after dark. They got lost in the woods while trying to find their way back to civilization. Suddenly they came upon a log cabin which was occupied by a grizzled old character right out of a Western novel. He was quite frightening in appearance and insisted that they stay for breakfast. Having read many Western novels, they shuddered . . . but accepted. The meal he set before them was: tomato juice cocktail delightfully spiced, French pancakes, which were tissue thin, rolled around wild berry jam and dusted with powdered sugar, and coffee brewed to perfection.

Although Harry Babbitt has his own TV program, he is loyal to his first love, radio. He characteristically sums up his feelings by claiming that he would be very unhappy without radio. He believes that television's voracious appetite eats up talent too quickly. Viewers are more apt to remember what they see on television than recall what they hear on radio. Most people only half listen to radio, but in TV they are concentrating with both their audio and visual senses.

Conversely, radio would be very unhappy without the Harry Babbitt program. The cast have much in common off mike. They golf together . . . visit each other's homes regularly . . . and spend endless hours conversing about their children. "Even our wives get along famously with each other," exclaims Harry, "and that's something to be cheerful about even during an early ayem broadcast."

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Around TV Row

Rumors concerning the switching of "Lux Video Theatre" to a rival net were squelched when sponsor renewed stanza on CBS-TV. Competition from top-rated "Dragnet" made the "Lux" people unhappy; therefore "Lux" will have a time change next season in addition to extending stanza to hour-long dramatizations. . . . John Carradine will become a permanent member of the "My Friend Irma" cast.

"That's My Boy" bows on CBS in April with Gil Stratton Jr. playing the Jerry Lewis role, Eddie Mayehoff repeats as the proud father. . . . Many viewers will be sorry to learn that the battle of the chefs caused Lenore Kingston to lose out at KNBH. When Milani moved from Channel 11 to 13 he bumped Mike Roy. Consequently, Mike stepped into Channel 4's "Key To Your Kitchen."

"I Love Lucy" responds to spring cleaning time by rejuvenating its series. "Lucy" is enlarging its sets and its cast, adding more than twelve new characters. Although "Lucy" is number one on most ratings, the growing competition from other family comedy shows is keeping the "Lucy" outfit on its toes. With the expanded format Lucy and Desi can be put in more diversified situations.

Joan Crawford appears as correspondent in her upcoming TVairer. . . . KTTV's "Twenty Questions" celebrates its eighth anniversary. . . . Donald O'Connor's choreographer, Louis Da Pron, opens the Red Shoes Dance Academy on La Cienega. . . . Talent and crewmen alike were busy playing ping-pong on the "Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" set recently, all because Ricky Nelson has a scene in a forthcoming telecast in which he plays ping-pong.

"Adventures of Blinkey," a new tele-series on KNXT, tells of the imaginative journeys of a boy into the world of the Mighty Mixed-Up Forest. It's a satire of many things and it's a mighty mixed-up-show. Who knows but the kids might even like it. It's a change from the cowboy plots.

Robert Paige is becoming a leading man on the video lanes these days. He's taken over the reins on KHJ-TV's "Scoop The Writers" and is planning to kick off his own coast-to-coast TV program, "Thanks A Million," sometime in May. . . . Milton Berle has set Gale Storm and Charles Farrell for guest spots on an upcoming airer.

Pinky Lee claims he's making up for a "lost" childhood on his NBC telecast. The comic's display of uninhibited fun keeps his audiences laughing. Registration for the second semester of KNXT's and U. S. C.'s Shakespeare on TV" ends February 26. Lo you lazy students: Hurry up and register before it's too late.

"Annie Oakley" series has caught on like the proverbial prairie fire. A recent entry in the video field, the syndicated show is seen in 80 markets.

The windup of this TV season will represent another miss in the video career of Fred Allen. "Judge For Yourself" is being axed at the end of May. Unfortunately television hasn't found the right format for his unique talents. The writer who comes up with successful material for Allen will hit the jackpot. Where is he?—M.R.

Sullivan Sweeps Southland

Ed Sullivan's whirlwind trip to the Coast was extremely hectic. His itinerary matched that of visiting royalty. In addition to putting on a stupendous "Toast" telecast, he was booked solid for public appearances and emceed the annual Academy of Television Arts and Sciences Awards Dinner. When asked if he were planning to bring his show to the Coast permanently in the near future, the weary Mr. Sullivan shook his head in a negative manner.

"Emmy" Awards

It's all over except the shouting and drying of tears. The sixth annual "Emmy" awards of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences were presented on Thursday evening at the Hollywood Palladium. KHJ-TV, Channel 9, covered the event from 9:30 p.m. to 11:00 p.m.

Ed Sullivan emceed. CBS-TV and the local station, KNXT, had the highest batting average, coping eleven of the twenty coveted awards.

San Diego
DIAL DATA

SAN DIEGO . . . (Special) . . . In keeping with its increasing importance as a seaport, San Diego—through Channel 8—will soon see another appropriate television series. This is "Waterfront," to be presented every Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock. It follows by three days the advent of another series, "Victory at Sea," seen Thursday nights on Channel 8.

Appointment of Charles E. Jackson as local sales manager of KFMB-TV has been announced by Robert B. Hoag, general sales manager. A pioneer member of the station's sales staff, Jackson recently received an award from the Sales Executives' Club of San Diego as the city's outstanding salesman of 1953.

Beginning Feb. 13, Channel 8 added another feature to its strong news program with the new "Channel 8 News, Saturday Edition," following the boxing bouts.

As a result of a recent program exposing medical quacks, the San Diego County Medical Society has had inquiries from medical groups in the United States, wanting to know how they can present a similar program.

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

Mrs. Arthur A. Jenkins, San Bernardino

Just looked over your selections of the "Best of 1953" and was so thrilled about the Roberta Linn selection as the top feminine personality. I used to live in the South, 110 miles from Alexander, Baton Rouge. So I knew of Roberta very well. She's had a hard pull to make 1953 her year. Also I am an ardent Lawrence Welk fan. But Roberta did make Lawrence famous because of her abilities.

Kathryn G. Wisslen, Inglewood

Whose idea was it to promote listeners for Drew Pearson Sunday by taking a slice of time away from "Ask the Doctor"?

I listened attentively when we "went to Washington" to hear Drew Pearson because I expected what he had to say would have some bearing on the program to be presented by the doctors who had already been introduced. Not only was I nettled to see I had been duped into listening to an irrelevant program, but I felt it was rude to the doctors to keep them sitting there unseen and unheard for one-half of the time they had given out of their busy lives.

When people tune in a program they want to hear that program. Teleview-ers are frustrated enough without deliberate ruses being used to assure their listening. "Ask the Doctor" is a public service disseminating accurate medical knowledge to an inestimable number of people. Fifteen minutes is not long enough to cover a subject as big, as vital, and as dangerous as tuberculosis, and this listener heartily resented the intrusion of Drew Pearson's controversy with Joe McCarthy.

It programs are going to be interrupted for the insertion of others, at least let's keep them relevant.

S. Gaskell, South Pasadena

Why do the sponsors of various TV programs continually tell you that everyone is buying their product? If what they say is true, and everyone is buying their product, why should they advertise?

Fay Brockett, Costa Mesa

The home should be a sacred and a secure place for each member, child or adult with a weakness which the insidious glamour of liquor advertising might prey upon; therefore, slick ads should be banned on TV or radio, for the public good.

Ear, Eye Inspire

Bee Humphries, Los Angeles

Did you chance to see Jane Withers on "Place The Face" recently? Her many fans must have been delighted with the way she looked, big, gracious and charming—and her little girl Wendy is adorable!

Evidently Jane Withers Moss doesn't want her little girl to be in show business. Janie has forgotten! But I remember her in Atlanta, Ga.—a sizzling four-five-year-old, bubbling with talent and fire—and desire to be an actress. I remember when she came out here with her Mama living near Hollywood and Western, attending Professional School while Daddy stayed home in Atlanta and sent them money to live on. I saw Janie almost daily going to school sometimes with little Mary McCarty. I saw her perform at various benefits. Her imitations were out of this world, saw her once on a program with Trixie Friganza. Then she stole a picture from Shirley Temple and she was IN!

Now evidently she has determined that her children shall not work. How about that, Janie? Suppose Wendy doesn't want a life of ease? Suppose she is touched with the magic of talent? She seemed to have the SPARK to this old trouper.

How about Jane Withers coming in to TV? She'd be good on talent show or panel show or just any old show. TV could sure use her vibrant personality.

Judy Blower, Santa Ana

I am only eleven years old. But I think the monkey "Cheeta" on "Western Varieties" would be much cuter if she would stay out of other people's acts.

And another thing. Why don't they put "MY FRIEND IRMA" on so children my age can watch her? I hope other children feel the same as I do.

LANDS ROLE

Anne Whitfield has been set to do the role of "Claudia" in the TV version of "One Man's Family." She played "Penny" on the radio.

joyment from the broadcast of either set. We enjoy reading the likes and dislikes of the patrons, which proves that no one person or program can please all persons. Therefore, we beef and criticize the other person because he or she likes a certain person or program or show. Yet, we are not forced to sit and swallow any person's ego, like in a theater, for we are blessed with the little switch-buttons, placed directly on the body of all sets, to give us variety. However, some of the more directly aimed beefs seem to smell of a commercial nature.

We would like to vote for our 1st and 2nd choice, of the actors of the past year. 1st choice, Jack Webb; 2nd choice, our Miss Brooks. Non-human actors, Cheeta. 1st place for the best conductor of a show, Ted Mack; 2nd place, Jack Bailey.

Mrs. Al Taylor, Long Meach

Why does KTLA feel they have to resort to pettiness at times? Remember the parade a couple of years ago when they gave the "Space Patrol" gang a snub? The recent brush-off of Johnny Grant at the "Cease Fire" premiere was the absolute low. His face is more familiar to the frontline G.I. in Korea than many of their C.O.s are!

Ear, Eye Inspire

Miss Marilyn Hutchinson, Los Angeles

Such unjust accusations! In references to the letter asking if Liberace is getting swell-headed? Just because "one" Wednesday, Liberace didn't devote his usual time and talent to his audience in an aftershow. Just think, one week from one hundred weeks that he was unable to give his masterful showmanship, charming personality, and talent of a genius to his public. The one little lady doesn't realize how fortunate she is to have been able to see each one of his television shows for almost two years. How can the public be so demanding, selfish and unappreciative? It must be very discouraging to an artist who is so sincere and so unselfishly gives his time so freely to his audiences and his public to enable them to enjoy almost a complete concert after every show, to discover they are so ungrateful. He isn't about to lose his audience and popularity just because he once was unable to fulfill his obligations to his public in which he himself has bestowed upon them through his own generosity.

Mrs. Richard A. Sedwell, Ontario

I have begun to feel that I am about the only one in California that does not possess a TV set, and more especially since so many of our good programs have deserted us for TV. Why, I wonder, do the good plays—when we have them—occur at the same time, and nothing much on from 9 o'clock? We don't all like jazz. However, as long as my favorite program "Gunsmoke" stays with us I shall not complain. But may I also say so many of our returned Vets cannot see or enjoy TV, but can and do listen to radio, that it is a shame to deprive them of many of their favorites. This I know, for in my patriotic orders, we visit these hospitals, and know whereof I speak. Let us just keep on hoping not all will leave us for TV. For many reasons not every one can enjoy TV.

FORMAT FOUND

It took a lot of time and a lot of different writers' ideas, but they finally found a format for comedian George Gobel. In March, Gobel will take a few weeks off from his night club circuit to make a pilot film for NBC. The format, and we quote, will be "a relaxed informal type of variety."

As to what George will do and who his guests will be, well, your guess is as good as ours. Ed Beloin is the boy whom George and his personal manager, Dave O'Malley, can thank for coming up with an acceptable idea. If all goes well, TV fans will get their ha-has from Gobel this coming Fall. And from what we have seen and heard of dry-humored George, there should be plenty of them.

"WATERFRONT"

The TV premiere of KTTV's "Waterfront" last week was certainly a unique occasion. For the first time in TV history, at least to our knowledge, a station did a telecast of a Hollywood press party.

On camera, the TV critics overflowed in their praise of Preston Foster's new series. Off camera, some of them thought the program was only so-so, but that commercially it would pay off. For comments on the actual film see Holland's Tunnel on page 27.

Foster, incidentally, lived in a trailer right on the Roach lot during the shooting. All exterior scenes for "Waterfront" were filmed aboard a real tugboat in Los Angeles Harbor. For interiors and closeups, the "Cheryl Ann" was built at the Roach studios.

COMPOSER

Lester Lee, who composed the Academy Award contender, "Sadie Thompson's Song," has written "Samba Fan" for a forthcoming Bob Hope TV show.

PICK of the PIX

by Aubrey Dahl

I thought that TV movies were going to be recognized at last the other night during the Emmy awards when John Ford, director of such TV successes as "Stagecoach," and "The Long Voyage Home," was called to the stage. But his function was merely, alas, to award a prize to "Dragnet" as the best mystery show. I disagreed. I thought the best mystery show on TV last year was "Badge 714."

"Wanted For Murder." (5) Feb. 20, 9:00. Eric Portman, one of Britain's foremost exponents of villainy, here portrays an executioner's son who is a chip off the old block... he just can't seem to keep from strangling passersby. Scotland Yard chief Roland Culver and assistant Stanley Holloway finally trap him, however, which was good noose for everyone. A fairly typical but nevertheless entertaining suspense film.

"Raw Deal." (11) Feb. 24, 7:15. Dennis O'Keefe crashes out of prison with the help of Claire Trevor, who is crazy for him, but he falls for Marsha Hunt, who wants him to give himself up,

LUCY BALL, WITH HER PALE pink dress and pinker hair was there. So was Jack Webb, looking very suave in his dark suit, and very happy with blonde Dorothy Towne seated at his right. Irrepressible Ralph Edwards and his tiny wife Barbara. Statuesque Sarah Churchill, drifting around in dove grey chiffon. Dinah Shore, one of the most photographed, in a very sophisticated black gown and long white kid gloves. The creme de la creme of Hollywood TV showbiz at the Emmy awards. Then along came a hulking, benign-faced U.S.C. professor name of Dr. Frank C. Baxter to accept the award for "Shakespeare on TV." He stole the show right out from under all the "pros" the minute he opened his mouth and said, "I'm sorry to announce that the person most responsible for our success cannot be here. I mean, of course, William Shakespeare. I also thank my writer, who, by a curious coincidence, is also named William Shakespeare."

TWO TIMES DR. BAXTER WAS CALLED upon to mount the stage to receive a glittering Emmy: once for the Best Local Public Affairs Program and again as Most Outstanding Local Male Performer. Accepting the latter, Dr. Baxter observed: "It is curious in life how you sometimes feel that something has happened before. When I go to the studio and see all that concrete and steel and people running around in circles with pads and lead pencils, I suddenly think of one broken-down school teacher doing what comes natural and it seems incredible. What I'm doing here among you pros I shall never know."

DR. BAXTER SHOULD FEEL PROUD to headline the bill at the Academy of TV Arts and Sciences Sixth Annual Awards. This one was by far the best yet . . . the most scintillating socially, the best planned, most smoothly run. To be sure, there were faults and hitches (mention of these in a constructive way later) but first the color and fun.

GALA AIR ENVELOPED THE ENTIRE EVENING. The Hollywood Palladium swarmed with photographers lensing beautifully dressed women. Mink stoles galore. Ropes holding back autograph seekers. Impeccably groomed gentlemen. Music from two bands—Ralph Flanagan's and Manny Harmon's. The stage banked with pastel spring flowers. Flash bulbs flicking like corn kernels in a hot popper. Excitement and suspense.

HIGHLIGHTS AND IMPRESSIONS: Like the way Miss Emmy (Sally Mansfield) understated her costume. Her bright red dress was severely simple, neckline was modest, sleeves long, almost as if she were determined there'd be no censorship here . . . This year, Lucille Ball fairly bounced onto the stage to grasp the Emmy. Last year when Desi III was yet three weeks old, Lucy attended the Awards against doctor's orders and was pretty shaky . . . Vivian Vance rated a rousing hand and I was glad. Until she won TV-Radio Life's Popularity Poll a few weeks ago, she never had a speck of award recognition . . . Danny Thomas likewise pulled audience applause. He's popular both in and out of the industry, a noteworthy feat.

After the Awards were over, talked with Dinah Shore while ever-lovin' George (black string tie) hovered. Our gal is crazy about color TV, which she just did in N.Y.

TALKED WITH RALPH AND BARBARA EDWARDS, whose happiness was reflected by an admiring group of co-workers. Jack Webb was also flanked by "partners in crime," including faithful sidekick, Ben Alexander. Many of these men, Jack told me, were going to work on his feature-length "Dragnet." Happy over Webb's newest success was screenwriter Richard Breen, first to write Jack's simple, happy scripts of the old "Pat Novak" show in San Francisco when Dick and Jack were first starting their careers.

TALKED WITH ROBERTA LINN, who was beside herself with joy. (The pink eyelet, bouffant dress she was wearing was made by her mother.)

TALKED WITH ED ("ARCHIE") GARDNER and wife Simone, recently returned from a long residence in Puerto Rico. All this TV business overwhelmed Ed, who is now busy making a "Duffy's Tavern" series for video (he has eighteen completed already). The Gardners sold the gorgeous house they built in P.R., are in quandary about re-locating. Their two boys like Hawthorne School in Beverly Hills, so it'll probably be there.

COULDN'T SEE JACK BAILEY FOR THE crowd. Wanted to tell him his line reading was very funny. It was late when the telecast ended. Many left immediately.

NEXT YEAR I HOPE THIS TIMING is changed, along with a few other things. With all due respect to the fine jobs turned in by all the hard workers at the Academy, and in all due humility, I'd like to suggest:

1. There should be no speeches. None. Any attempt to thank for an award at a gathering like this, on camera, is inane.
2. Stars who are nominated should show up, unless they are at death's door, in which case they should ask a star of stature commensurate with their own to accept for them should they be lucky enough to win. Why overwork the network's vice-presidents? And while on this subject, what's with this star O'Connor? He was the only one out of thirty who did not show up last year at TV-Radio Life's awards when he was voted Outstanding New Male Personality and again the other night, where was he? At home, watching on TV. What gives? Maybe he doesn't like awards, in which case . . .

3. To keep the affair strongly TV, ask winners (unless they are nominees) from the previous year to make presentation, in their category, to new winners. This insures names and glamor interest. There's no reason this telecast, if properly done, can't go coast-to-coast, sponsored. But it has to be done with the same attention to detail and showmanship that the Motion Picture Academy exercises.
  4. Before the telecast starts, all participants should be briefed as to procedure—which steps to use, which side of the mike to stand, from which side to take the Emmy. There was some unnecessary milling around which might have been avoided the other night.
  5. Timing on the evening's events was best ever, but could have been tightened to one hour so that the affair would have built from the installation through local winners to the grand climax, national winners. Instead, the show went in exactly the other direction and I'm sure lost a proportionate share of audience on its course. Hollywood Palladium strikes me as being so far the best of all spots used for the Emmy affair. Room for cameras and fine big stage. Awards publicity head, Bob Pelgram, said to credit Palladium's Sterling Way with great cooperation with ATAS. And someone else who barely got mention was ATAS's office manager, Isabelle Pantone, who ran herself ragged in preparations. Harry Koplan must have worked hard on the elaborate souvenir book and I am sure Hal Hudson and his Awards committee must be glad their king-sized headache is over.
  6. The categories this year showed improvement, but there's room for more. Imagine putting the following nominees for consideration in the same category (Most Outstanding Local Male Performer): Newscaster George Putnam, Professor Baxter, Singer Jack Owens, Band-leader Lawrence Welk, Columnist Paul Coates! And when, oh when, will they not label "Kukla, Fran & Ollie" a "children's show?"
- ED SULLIVAN WAS IDEAL emcee. I'm sure at wind-up of Hollywood's Sixth Annual Emmy Awards, he had an answer to his 1948 question, "What happens to TV when Gorgeous George dies?"

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

BY JACK HOLLAND

Roland Reed is one of the most ac- tive producers around TV—and cer- tainly one of the smartest. He has done much towards bringing good en- tertainment to the public. All this is said in preface because it's a fairly good guess that he'll also make his newest venture, "Waterfront," a tasty dish for many viewers. This new KTTV show, however, on the basis of its initial showing is going to need a lot of work and certainly better ma- terial. For one thing, its star, Preston Foster, is much too fine an actor to be wasted in a role that has so little character. The key figure in any drama should be well-rounded, but the part of "Captain John Herrick" is a nebulous kind of person. Naturally Foster does all that is possible with it and gives a good performance, but future scripts should be centered more around him. The other characters in the first script wandered in and out without any motivation or understand- able reason. In fact, to be blunt, the story was not only a hodge-podge but it was noted primarily for its medi- ocrity. The direction was on a par with the script. Harry Lauter and Billy Chapin managed to deliver competent jobs but "Waterfront" needs to have some barnacles taken off. Knowing how Mr. Reed works, this column can only assume that he's going to start delivering some top-rate efforts in this series. This can be something different for TV if the temptation to follow the ordinary can be resisted.

Speaking of "Waterfront," some good names are being lined up for future stories. Jack Lambert, one of the better actors on TV and the movies, is going to play his first heavy in an upcoming issue and others are Douglas Dick, Kathleen Crowley, Frank Wilcox, Pinky Tomlin, Frieda Inescort, Ralph Dumke, and George Chandler.

John and Gwen Begni, a couple of TV's best writers, are back at work on more scripts. John had been very ill for a while and it's good to see the two of them banging away at the type- writer once more. When it comes to imaginative and original stories, these two just can't be beat and producers should beat a steady path to their doors.

What types of shows do your kids prefer? Just would like to know. My youngster is twelve and he's still in the stage where he goes for Westerns, "You Asked For It," and more West- erns. The horse operas are really amazing. Even though the plots are all alike, the kids seem to love riding those ranges. And yet some organiza- tions feel that the Westerns are bad for the young fry. Strikes this depart- ment that this isn't so. Some of those so-called space and comic shows are a lot worse. But the problem of what to let the kids see still reverts to the parents and their discretion—or lack of it.

Radio in Review

Radio Ramblings

"But We Were Born Free," an outspoken new book by Elmer Davis, ABC commentator, hit the bookstands last week. His first book in four years, "Free" is a distillation of his speeches and writings in recent years. In it Davis pours his educated scorn on the McCarthys, Jenners and Veldes. . . . Jim (Fibber McGee) Jordan may turn songwriter. His home town, Peoria, Illinois has asked his help in revamping the tune, "Oh, How I Wish I Wasn't in Peoria."

The "Metropolitan Opera" broadcasts have added two additional performances to their spring schedule. . . . Red Barber bows out as the Dodgers' TV and radio sports-caster for this season and Andre Baruch takes over. . . . Martin Block's specially built ABC "Studio MB" has double-locked cabinets which house his personal collection of some 60,000 records. . . . Jack Benny is enroute to New York for a two-week stay. While in Gotham he tapes two radio shows and does his first New York-origination telecast.

Barbara Britton, star of CBS radio's "Mr. and Mrs. North," is remodeling an old Spanish house and making it into one of contemporary design. . . . Richard English, creator of NBC's "Last Man Out," has had his article, "Uncle Sam Rushes the Bums," written into the Congressional Record. . . . Spring Byington is the only member of the original "December Bride" cast set to appear in the video version.

The response to Andy Mansfield's KFI program on which he featured two hours of "The St. Louis Blues" was so tremendous that Andy is planning a repeat session. They received over 400 letter on the show. All in all a nice birthday present for Andy and Virginia when both of them celebrate the occasion this week. M.R.

Women and News

We called RUTH ASHTON, KNX's fem newscaster, and asked her what kind of news women listeners preferred. Since Miss Ashton aims her across-the-board broadcasts at the feminine population, we thought she might have a few ideas on the subject. She did!

"I don't think that women's tastes in news have changed—at least not since the beginning of World War II when everyone became more interested in news. Women continue to be interested in just about everything that men are . . . and quite a bit more besides.

"The change has been with the esteemed gentlemen responsible for radio and television programming. It wasn't long ago that radio and television executives believed that women viewed news in approximately the same way that a Brooklynite is supposed to think of a map of the United States—as seven-eighths like the territory around home, the rest a remote desert somewhere.

"But some brave individuals finally ventured to give news to women—directed specifically toward them, sometimes by women reporters; and surprise! The ladies were interested! News programs have gained success during the day, not just by talking to women about the "territory around home"—fashions, household tips and gossip, but by presenting the whole news file.

"Women follow medical developments. More stories about schools and education would interest the fair sex, I am sure, if educators would only learn to express themselves in simple, colorful language. Even atomic scientists do better. And women are also interested in what other women have done with their lives.

"Sprinkle, not pour, in a few fashion stories, news of the latest in home equipment; and what psychologists have to say about men; and you have the answer to what kind of news continues to interest women . . . ALL KINDS.

No official announcement has been made yet as to who will announce the Angel and Hollywood Stars baseball games this coming season over KHJ-TV, Channel 9. From this corner the best bets look like the same three men who did the games last season: Tom Harmon for the Stars; Bill Brundige for the Angels; and Lyle Bond for the color for both teams.

If and when Major League baseball comes to Los Angeles it will be very interesting to see if any of the local boys get "the call," or if they "import" announcers from the East—as they do for the big events out here such as title matches, bowl games, etc. Local sportscasters don't like to get on the air and squawk about not getting the big network assignments. Would appear too egotistical. But in private you can be sure that most of them are pretty sore over the way the moneybags back East have overlooked West Coast announcers

Aubrey Dahl, our Pic of the Pix columnist, disagrees with this, but from this corner it looked like Jed Black had the nod over Chico Vejar in their 10-round draw last Wednesday night. Aubrey did agree on one thing: Referee Joey White, who voted for Vejar, 97-90, must have been thinking about his income tax instead of concentrating on the fight. On a ten-point-per-round system, and with Black flooring Vejar in both the first and seventh rounds, how could Vejar have possibly totaled 97 points? The seventh round itself was at least 10 to 7 in favor of Black.

One good thing has come out of the Vejar-Black draw—they are scheduled for a rematch at an early date. Probably a few weeks after the coming championship bout between "Bobo" Olson and "The Keed" Gavilan April 2.

This great fight will be on TV; Channel 4 at 7:00 p.m. Don't miss it. And that's for sure.

Wrestling fans can see their favorites in action for nothing (that's right, won't cost you a dime) any Saturday afternoon at the Hollywood Legion. Tickets may be obtained from Columbia Square on Sunset Boulevard. Reason is simple: CBS-TV teeves the show from coast to coast and wouldn't make peanuts on admissions, anyhow. At least this way they get more people in the place.

The "Emmy" awards dinner was certainly a great occasion this year. (For details see page 7 and "Lifelines" on page 26.) Sport fans, however, do have one legitimate beef. What in heaven's name was "Gillette Cavalcade of Sports," "NCAA football games," "Pabst Fights," and "Pro Football" doing in the same category with "See It Now?"

Ed Murrow's "See It Now" won the award, and deservedly so. But how can anyone compare this show with the other strictly sports programs listed? The comparison is unfair and ridiculous. The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences should have one category solely for "Best Sports Program," or else none at all.

Maybe the local papers don't give basketball a fair shake in this town, but if TV ratings mean anything, the sport is certainly popular at home with the viewers. The basketball ratings for the KHJ-TV telecasts have been very good this year—even on Saturday night when they are bucking some good network shows and the Legion Bouts. So to heck with the local sport scribes who do not give the local basketball teams the publicity break they deserve. Who needs 'em, with TV and radio! (That's telling 'em, eh Sam?—meaning Mr. Sam Balter, of course, who is a former All-American basketball player from UCLA and who has always been a big basketball booster in our community.)

Pick of the Pix

and then he tries to kill Raymond Burr, who had him framed in the first place, and then there is a fight with Burr's henchman, John Ireland, and lots of people get killed in the ruckus and nobody has any luck and let's go on to the next one.

"Army Girl." (11) Feb. 26, 1:10 a.m. This is a movie of rather ancient vintage which concerns itself with the problems of transition from horses to tanks in the U.S. Cavalry. Madge Evans is the colonel's daughter, Preston Foster is a fugitive from O.C.S., and Big Boy Williams is the old line sergeant who puts a tank on the blink during maneuvers because he's crazy over horses. A nostalgic film outlining the relatively simple dilemmas facing the armed forces before uranium.

"Vogues." (13) Feb. 24, 9:00 p.m. Another oldie, this one about a couturier (that's French for travel agent) who has trouble keeping his dress designs in vogue. Warner Baxter is the Dior of his time and Joan Bennett is... well, she's... well, she's mighty perty.

"Ten Little Indians." (2) Feb. 25, 11:00. Don't let this title confuse you. This is really a movie entitled, "And Then There Were None," which was adapted from Agatha Christie's mystery novel, "Ten Little Indians." Why change back? Why change in the first place? For that matter, why even make the picture?

"Admiral Was A Lady." (2) Feb. 24, 11:15. In that case, I'll keep a sharp lookout on the bow.

8:30 p.m.	13	Wrestling bouts from Ocean Park. Gary Goodwin announcing.

ONCE AGAIN this year, KHJ-TV, Channel 9, is giving basketball fans a break by covering all of the home games of USC and UCLA. On Friday nights, Lyle Bond does an excellent play-by-play job, while Bill Brundige handles the color and half-time interviews.

THERE ARE approximately 2,123 chances for trouble in a television set.

With its some 1,543 separate parts and 580 hand-soldered connections, television is the most complex electronic device ever produced for the home. A four-tube table model radio, by comparison, seems as simple to build as a picnic basket.

That's why television produced by Zenith Radio Corporation in its two great Chicago plants undergoes almost an unending series of tests and inspections.

Raw materials entering the plants are carefully scrutinized since stockpiles of steel and sheets of aluminum, in time, become precision parts for a receiver. Purchased items such as resistors, crystals, wire, small tubes and the like are closely examined. Even speakers, condensers, turret tuners and other components manufactured by Zenith for its own use must meet rigid technical specifications and pass stringent performance tests.

Trained crews of inspectors located at intervals throughout both mammoth plants, keep close tab on the condition of parts and components as they flow from one work station to another. Equally critical attention is directed to the main production line where the fabricated parts, components and major sub-assemblies are joined to the steel framework of the chassis.

Once the "works" of the set or chassis is complete, picture and sound are balanced electrically. Using either or both Zenith-generated TV signals or commercial broadcasts, each channel is precisely aligned for "peak" reception. When the chassis has been installed in a cabinet, performance tests begin again. These end only when final inspectors OK the receiver for home use and shipment to a Zenith sales outlet.

The Inside Story of

Few inventions are more complicated than your TV set. And once the set is completed, the tests it is put through are both tough and detailed. This is what Zenith does to its product to protect you from inferior workmanship.

As further protection for the quality of its TV, Zenith has a "pilot run" of about 1000 sets before the company permits full-scale production of a new line of receivers. These "pilot models" are critically examined and tested by engineering, production and quality-control experts before the "go ahead" is given for mass production.

Many of Zenith's "special" tests are often more exacting than those considered standard by the industry. For example—to check the durability of small ceramic condensers, sample lots are "cooked" for forty-eight hours in an oven at 185 degrees Fahrenheit.

Similarly, an entire television chassis is often removed at the termination of the "pilot run" and subjected to an intensive heat treatment. The ovenized chassis complete with picture tube must withstand the effects of 104-degree heat for a two-day period—or engineering wants to know the reason why.

Zenith is also one of the few television manufacturers to make extensive use of "life tests." In addition to those conducted on models still in a stage of engineering development, quality-control inspectors select one model of every TV set in the "pilot run" for a life test. Each receiver is operated continually for a period equal to three months of in-the-home service. If performance problems are encountered with a pilot set, immediate corrections are made before that model is placed in mass production.

The "drop" method is another test used to determine how well Zenith products are packed and will withstand shipment. A table model or console is chosen at random from those packed and awaiting shipment. The set is held eighteen inches above the floor and then dropped — not once but five times. Each side as well as the bottom of the carton, in turn, receives the full impact and weight of the receiver inside. The set is then unpacked and examined in detail. Any damage is immediately corrected.

↑ THIS IS THE FINISHED CHASSIS—and it has already passed many inspection points. Here in the screen booth the chassis is electrically balanced. Next step is the final assembly where it is installed in a cabinet and subjected to a last series of performance tests.

↑ THE BIG QUESTION IS—will the TV set last? One of every "pilot model" built by Zenith is tested for a period equal to at least three months of average customer use.

Another technique carried out in a laboratory is to place a packaged set within a giant revolving drum. For as long as an hour, the receiver is jolted about in the drum, subject to many times the stresses and strains of "in transit" movement. If weaknesses develop, these too are quickly remedied.

Not all Zenith tests are as drastic as the "drop" or "shaker" methods. Others are less spectacular but equally purposeful. The existence of each is especially significant to the television viewer for—in large measure—the beauty of the picture that is seen and the rich, clear tone that is heard, to say nothing of thoroughly trouble-free service, is governed by the care and science applied to assembling the receiver. Quality is not part of a production—quality is the product.

↓ THE "DROP" TEST IS JUST ONE of many inspection procedures used to determine the effectiveness of the cartons. This packaged TV console has been withdrawn from a group scheduled for shipping and is dropped five times so that each side receives the full impact and weight of the set inside.

Don't Frown at TV Commercials!

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

EASTOR OIL, Communists, and TV commercials have a lot in common. Nobody likes 'em.

Maybe it's a bit unfair to put the TV commercials in such a category, but judging from our own mail, from press clippings, and from general conversation, this seems to be the over-all feeling.

Actually, however, when you really scrutinize and analyze the situation you will see and discover many strange and pleasant facts about TV commercials.

Bad Side

First of all, the bad side. Some advertising on TV just plain stinks. The announcer, or businessman who dreams of himself as a TV personality, talks too loud and too long about too little. They are as common and unwanted as a cold.

Some people say that we should never squawk about sponsors on TV because after all they pay the bill and if it weren't for them we would not have any shows at all. This is a fallacy.

The American system of free enterprise does, thankfully, sanction privately owned rather than government-controlled TV stations. Eventually, TV advertisers pay all the bills. Nevertheless, this is still no excuse for cheap, annoying, and abusive commercials.

Good Side

Now for the other side. The good side. There are many TV commercials on the air today which are in exceedingly good taste. When you see them, you sense, almost unconsciously, that a lot of time, a lot of creative thought, and a great deal of well-planned energy have been put into their production.

Oddly enough, many times they are as entertaining and enlightening as the show itself. And in the long run, it is the qualitative commercial which will do the quantitative business.

Some Examples

Name a few? Okay. Each year, the Gillette Cavalcade of Sports gives TV viewers big fights each Friday night; the World Series, the Rose Bowl Game, and many other leading sporting events. Between rounds, between innings, and during "time outs," Gillette gets in plenty of plugs for its product. The animated cartoons, the jingles, the tunes, and the story idea behind the whole sequence make the Gillette commercials some of the best in the business.

Then there's Ed Murrow and the job he does for Alcoa. The film clips used during CBS-TV's "See It Now" are as interesting and educational as portions of the actual program.

In the cigarette field, Old Gold is one of the few that doesn't try to jam the butt between your lips. The pitches by announcer Dennis James are particularly effective. Don Wilson also does a nice job when he's selling Lucky Strikes.

Another veteran announcer, Harry Von Zell, makes Goodrich tires look good and helps Goodrich get richer with his commercial comments during the Burns and Allen Show. The Minute Maid and Paper Mate cartoons are cute. The advertising, or "subscriptions," as they are called on "Omnibus," are well handled and informative. There are many, many other TV commercials that are easy to take.

A Breathing Spell

There's another great factor about TV commercials. It happens night after night in every American home. TV advertisers don't like it, but there is little they can do about it. This is it: whenever a commercial comes on TV, that's the cue for a "break" in the home. That's the time to get some beer, or a snack, or to chat with your friends; to do anything and everything, except to look at the TV set. Psychologically and socially, then, TV commercials serve a very useful purpose.

Last, but far from least, you do not have to pay directly for TV advertising unless you actually go out and buy the particular product.

The first concrete evidence that TV-RADIO LIFE got on the acceptance of TV commercials occurred during the first test of TELEMETER, one of the pay-as-you-see systems for TV. Any TV program that the viewer has to pay cash for naturally excludes any type of advertising.

We polled many of our readers. We asked: "If you had a choice of a special event on TV with regular commercials, or the same event without commercials, which you had to pay an additional price for, which would you choose?"

The answer was typical and surprising: "Me? I don't mind commercials!"

▲ THE PRODUCERS OF "BIFF BAKER, U. S. A." selected their stars Alan Hale Jr. (Biff Baker) and Randy Stuart (Louise Baker) because they felt they would accurately represent a typical young American couple possessed of vitality, the urge to travel and the spirit of adventure.

LOVELY Randy Stuart, co-star of "Biff Baker, U.S.A.," has more than her share of adventure in the popular KTLA telefilm series.

However, Randy feels that portraying the role of "Louise Baker" is not entirely make believe because the series is based on authentic facts. Randy and her co-star, Alan Hale Jr., play a typical young American couple who encounter startling experiences while traveling abroad on business ventures. "Louise" takes a very active part in all these exciting adventures. She isn't the kind of a helpless, dependent wife frequently depicted in such series. Wherever black markets, political intrigues and iron curtains exist both "Louise" and "Biff" are sure to be found. And they do get around. Their tele-episodes have taken the pair to such exotic locales as Cuba, France, London, Hongkong, Pakistan and Italy.

February 19, 1954

Blue-eyed Randy cites that the writer of the series, Fenton W. Earnshaw, was an undercover agent during World War II with behind-the-lines experience. His experiences as an espionage agent was replete with fiction-like excitement. Fenton draws freely upon these authentic experiences for his "Biff Baker" story lines.

Discriminating care has been paid to all phases of the series. A special camera crew was sent to Europe to take authentic background shots. Using doubles for Randy and Alan, the cameramen posed sequences in front of the various Embassies in all the major European capitals. On one occasion added excitement was inserted in the series when a cameraman landed in jail for shooting film in front of the Russian Embassy.

Researchers on the series verify minute details because of the program's political significance. Whenever "Biff Baker" is negotiating a sale or purchase for some theoretical American firm, the producers first check with the State Department to ascertain if such an item is being bought or sold in that particular locale.

With all the checking and double checking it isn't any wonder that Randy Stuart feels strongly about the credibility of the series.

This isn't the first time Randy and Alan Hale Jr. have shared their billing. They've co-starred in the movie "Night Train to Danger." They are both offspring of veteran show business parents. Randy states that both their parents had exciting theatrical adventures during vaudeville's heyday. "The senior Hales and Stuarts found their adventures the hard way. They got it first hand, but the 'Biff Bakers' do it more casually on video film," says Randy, "and that's the way for me."
