Lucky Gary?

Some people think Gary Crosby is a guy who stepped into a field of four leaf clovers. He agrees—but with reservations.

By Jon Bruce

GARY CROSBY, pudgy little guy loaded with talent and personality, was being interviewed over CBS way for another CBS radio show—and, at the same time, for this story. He had just finished doing his nimble chores on tape for the Tennessee Ernie show and was in rare good humor. He was also relaxing as only a Crosby can.

Bing's Influence

Speaking of Crosby, Gary has had many people ask him, not too subtly, "Does being Bing's son make it easier for you in getting your own career launched?" Gary, not one for flowery words or subtle evasions, has one reply to that one:

"In a way, this throws a challenge at me," Gary remarked. "It puts me on the spot to an extent. Yet, it's an undeniable fact that being my Dad's son is an advantage too. I get better breaks, the start of a career isn't so tough, but people watch me a lot closer than they would some other fellow who started on his way without any outside help. I sure have to prove myself because if I laid a few eggs it wouldn't make any difference who I was—I'd be given the heave-ho.

"My Dad lets me alone as far as my career is concerned. He doesn't even give me any advice unless I ask for it—and when I do ask for his comments he is honest and constructive. Invariably, what he advises is good."

Gary is now determined to click in show business. He left college—but only because he had made up his mind as to the career he wanted and he couldn't see how any further college training could help him with that profession.

All Out For Career

"I want to be able to do anything pertaining to show business from here on in. I got some very good training and experience last summer when I had my own show and I'm getting my feet wet more and more now with each new thing I try. I still have a lot to learn, but I'm all for learning!"

Gary has been the subject of much discussion in some circles. The moot point has been, as to be expected, marriage. Is he in a romantic mood yet? Is he marriage-minded?

"Not this old house!" Gary cracked. "I have no marriage plans at all. Oh, I haven't anything against marriage, but, believe me, I can wait. Tennessee Ernie has been pushing this a little on his show. In fact, the whole company are on a marriage kick—with me as the prime target.

"Sure I like to date. I like girls—especially those who can carry on a fairly decent conversation and those around whom I can feel at ease, but they are few and far between.

"I've never understood why everyone wants a young guy, who is just getting started, to get married. What is the rush?"

Gary isn't even living the complete bachelor's life yet—he lives at home and has no intention of dashing out to get his own apartment.

In addition to his radio shows,

Gary is also making more recordings for Decca. He considers "Jamboree Jones" his most successful platter, but has high hopes for the two he just finished with Louis Armstrong—"Struttin' With Some Barbecue" and "KoKoMo."

He likes to sing almost any kind of song—including rhythm and blues. As he says, "What's the difference what you call the song—as long as it's good?"

All in all, it looks as though Gary Crosby is going to do all right. At least, he seems to be feeling no pain at present.

Peggy's Other Love

Everyone thinks of Peggy King as just George Gobel's singer, but to another young man she's a lot more. This is the other life Peggy leads—her favorite life.

▲ WHEN KNOBBY AND PEGGY have time off from their busy TV schedules, they like to run over new arrangements and try out new songs.

By Jack Holland

SOME GUYS have all the luck. There's a young man, a musician, running around town these days looking very smug and contented. He ought to be. He's married to Peggy King, the pint-size bottle of champagne who keeps a smile on everyone's face.

Knobby Lee, whose real name is Norbert, is the lucky man. While others may sigh and drool over Peggy, he's only married to her. And the girl who is also known as George Gobel's girl-friend singer couldn't be happier over the whole set-up. You see, she likes being Mrs. Lee.

"I wasn't sure at first that the Mrs. Lee would look too good," Peggy smiled happily. "The minute I saw Knobby I knew I was going to marry him. I admit—I chased him. And I remember thinking to myself, 'Peggy Lee? . . . Peggy Lee? . . . No, that won't do, there's another Peggy Lee who is a singer.' But I married him anyway.

"We've been married two years. I met Knobby when I joined the Ralph Flanagan band. Knobby was already with the organization—and he was the first person I saw when I reported for work the first night.

He Was It

"From the beginning he was what I wanted—and yet we fought all of the time. After all, though, I saw him about twenty-four hours a day and anyone could argue a lot being together that much. When we weren't working we were traveling on the bus with the band, so we were thrown together constantly, a situation I most heartily approved of.

"I guess we fought most about other girls. When we got to the West Coast about three girls called him up and I just went up in smoke. Then when we played at the Palladium here several girls came up to see him. I'd get so mad! I'd walk to the mike glaring at him. Well, I was young then and didn't know any better.

"I remember trying to make him jealous once. I sat with another fellow from the band on the bus one day instead of with Knobby. It was the first time I hadn't sat with Knobby in over a year. He got almost too jealous. Then, another time he got very mad and we were going to stop seeing one another. However, it did not take me long to know he was it and I had to face up to it. We agreed to get married—and we did, three years later.

"We had such a long wait for many reasons. At the time I had a job and Knobby was without one, so he wouldn't marry me. Then he went to New York and I came to Hollywood on an MGM contract. He arrived some months later with the Ray Anthony band. There were other problems too. Knobby wanted to work in Hollywood but he couldn't get a union card here until he had been in residence for six months so he got a job teaching people how to drive during the six months. As for me, I was still at MGM. All I did was put on and take off wigs. I was the official wig-tester, I think. Oh, I did get to sing one song in 'The Bad and the Beautiful.' I've since figured out my salary for that one song. I got around $6000 for it since that was my pay while I was under contract to MGM. The studio was keeping me under wraps—what for, I don't know.

"I left MGM on February first and on February second Knobby and I were married. And still there were problems.

"I wasn't doing anything in 1953, the year we got married. And he had to be out of town a good deal. All I did was go to about one hundred auditions. Things were very rough for us. There wasn't much money and we were apart six months out of the first year.

"It was during this period that I cut my hair. It had been long when I met Knobby. You know how women are—they get in a mood, so they buy a new hat. That's if they have money. When you don't have money you do what I did—cut your hair. When Knobby came home from being out of town and saw my short-cropped hair—he almost flipped. It took him about a week to get used to it. Now I'm going to let it grow a little because people seem to like it better long.

"Knobby and I are now on a pretty even keel in our marriage, but if the separations had continued I don't think our life together could have lasted. Being apart is too lonely an existence. I can't stand it at any rate. But now things are looking up. Knobby is working with Liberace, I have my TV show, and I also have made a test at Paramount Pictures."

Peggy did quite a test too! It was in color and was one of the longest ever made. The studio is more than high on its possibilities. However, Peggy was afraid to see it. In fact, when the studio called her to come give it a look, she got so nervous she was ill and had to go to bed. She finally did see it and she thought it was really fine.

Nervous

"Being so nervous is one of my troubles," Peggy admitted. "I'm terribly high strung. I'm so keyed up I can't even drive an automobile. I'm also very career conscious now which doesn't make me too easy to live with. Three people actually live in our place—Knobby, my career, and I. Plus two dogs and two birds.

"I'm also a problem to live with because I'm a worrier. I worry whether I've done a good show, about what may happen in a day or two, if I look right, anything and everything. I should stop being such a worry bug too. That Paramount test was an example. I fussed and fumed and then I loved it and was proud of it. In fact, I'm thinking now more of acting than I am of singing."

↑ ONE OF THE HIGH SPOTS of the George Gobel Show is Peggy King's delightful singing. She's come a long way since she made a certain sponsor's tomato sauce a household byword.

Domestically speaking, Peggy is much less complicated.

"I'm terribly neat and clean—almost to the point of driving people crazy." Peggy laughed. "I'm a good cook too, but I put too much salt in everything. Knobby and I went to a movie not long ago and I got some popcorn. Naturally, I added salt. When he tasted it, he said, 'This tastes just like the first dinner I had at your place.' But I can cook.

"Knobby is a good cook too. In fact, on several occasions I have arrived home late from work and have found that he has prepared dinner. But he's a good husband in every respect. He had to be out of town for three days last Easter—and early Easter morning he sent me some beautiful flowers.

"I'm fairly practical as a wife. At least, I don't have many extravagances. Oh, I'm always buying curtains but I can't sew at all. It took me six months to make an apron when I was in high school, and I'm not much better today.

"My only extravagances now are shoes and hats—and giving people presents. This is a throwback to the days when I was a little girl and went to parties and couldn't take any nice presents to my friends. I also like to give parties now because I couldn't afford to give any before.

"I'll buy anything that's pink, however—even a pink car. And I like Pinky Lee because his name is Pinky. I'm just having fun buying things I could never afford to buy before. But I'm still keeping myself under control—with my business manager's help."

And how are things at the Lee home now? Well, they still have arguments—just as does any couple.

"We don't argue much any more, though," Peggy smiled. "Our two dogs can't stand arguments. They carry on and whine terribly. I fly off the handle quickly and am over it just as fast, while Knobby stays hurt for days. Of course, I'm sensitive too. I cry at the drop of a hat. I'm so weepy I could even cry at menus."

But Peggy and Knobby are a happy combination these days. They are obviously deeply in love and both are pinching themselves to be sure that they're not dreaming. They deserve success. And it will rest easy on them.

We Call Her

MOMMY

Gale Storm may be known as CBS radio's "My Little Margie" and NBC's TV "Margie" but to Philip, Peter and Paul she's just plain "Mom."

(Scene: The Lee Bonnell house, a Chinese modern that is the last word in the unusual and the distinctive. Resident at the house are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bonnell (Gale Storm of "My Little Margie" seen on CBS radio and on NBC-TV), Philip, 12, Peter, 9, Paul, 7. At the opening of the scene Paul is having a piano lesson. Philip conducts a tour of the house and then he and Peter sit down in the den for some chatter about their mother, all prompted by the interviewer.)

Philip: You asked us if mommy was particular about our being neat. Well, habits of health matter to her and she insists on our keeping our nails clean. She's trying to break me now of biting my nails, and I'm doing some better. She's also strict about our keeping our rooms neat and she keeps after us about stepping on the ivy outside. She also won't let us horseplay around or in the pool. But when it comes to punishment of any kind, it's Daddy who usually takes over.

Peter: We don't get spanked very much.

Philip: No, we don't. Mommy and Daddy don't ask us to do unreasonable things anyway. We're even allowed fair times for going to bed—like Peter and Paul staying up until eight-thirty and if I'm lucky I can stay up until nine-thirty.

(There was a pause while Lee came in the house. Philip got up to show him his report card which looked very much okay. After Lee left, Philip continued:)

Philip: Mommy and Daddy never get upset if my grades aren't too good. They say, "You can do better if you want to, but it's up to you. If you think that's the best you can do, it's all right." Because they feel like this I work twice as hard. I have a B average now. (To Peter). You ought to study more than you do.

Peter: (He just smiled).

(The conversation switched to the kinds of foods the boys liked and didn't like.)

Philip: Mommy doesn't force us to eat cooked vegetables, but we eat a lot of raw carrots and celery. We all hate asparagus, and I don't like artichokes.

Peter: I like artichokes a lot. But my favorite is dessert. I don't like ice cream, though.

Philip: I like our Sunday family dinners most. That's when we all just sit around our pool or play shuffleboard. We go to church, of course, almost every Sunday. I like my Sunday School class a lot. Mommy doesn't exactly make us go to church but we've been raised in a way that if we don't go we get a very bad conscience. We always talk over our problems—when we have any—at the dinner table. Sunday is a good time for that. I find it easier to talk to Daddy than Mommy because he has had some of the same

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Claribel Anderson hands Arline Dixon gavel.

Queen's Installation

The ninth annual Queen's Club installation was held last week at the Knickerbocker Hotel. The club is comprised of ex-Queens of Mutual's "Queen For A Day" program.

Impressive ceremony was conducted by outgoing president Claribel Anderson, who turned over her gavel to the newly elected Madam President, Arline Dixon.

The club is noted for its many activities but of special significance is their pet project the Ranchos Los Amigos hospital which they visit every month. Eleanor Powell and Glenn Ford visit Ranchos next month with the Queens Club contingent.

Relays Queen

Joan Weldon, co-star with Byron Palmer on KNXT's "This Is Your Music," is being honored as "Miss California Relays" at the important track event being held this Saturday, May 21, at Modesto, California.

Participating in the meet will be athletes from all over the entire United States, and even one from Brazil. Miss Weldon will be honored guest at a luncheon at which Governor Knight will be in attendance, and will make some of the highest relay awards during the Saturday evening competitions.

"This Is Your Music" is seen not only in Los Angeles, but also over KJEO (47) in Fresno, KHSL (12) in Chico, which are viewed in the Modesto area, and over Stockton's KOVR (13) which is televising the relays.

Doug Does It Again

Jack Douglas has done it again. The man behind "I Search for Adventure" and the "Golden Voyage" both seen on KCOP, Channel 13, has sold another adventure series to Sears-Roebuck stores.

This one is called "Kingdom of the Sea," which is the first and only TV program series devoted entirely to the world of water. It will be seen on Wednesday nights from 9 to 9:30 on KCOP, Channel 13.

The amazing part about this story—and a great testimonial to Douglas himself—is that the purchase was made without the show being seen! How convincing can you get?

Critic Wins Award

No matter what happens in the future, TV-Radio Life columnist Aubrey Dahl can always say, "I was the first."

Last week KHJ-TV honored our "one and only" TV-movie critic by awarding him the First Annual Critics Award on behalf of popular "Channel 9 Movie Theater" for his weekly "Pick of the Pix" column. The award consisted of a beautiful gold camera mounted on an engraved plaque.

After Mr. Bud Coulson of KHJ-TV made the "surprise" presentation, the usual verbose Mr. Dahl exclaimed, "I'm speechless."

Benny Gets Serious

Jack Benny wasn't looking for laughs when he spoke in Boston last week and said these words at a dinner of the Massachusetts Committee of Catholics, Protestants and Jews:

"While your organization has been pounding away at discrimination since 1936, ironically your cause was given its greatest impetus during the last war. When men are fighting and dying together, color and creed become relegated to their proper place of unimportance. A soldier lying wounded on a battlefield does not care whether the hands that lift him onto a stretcher and carry him to safety are black or white, nor in the hospital does he ask whether the life-saving blood he is getting came from a Catholic, a Protestant or a Jew. A bullet has no name on it. It merely says, to whom it may concern."

Benny was rightfully honored for "fostering good will and better understanding among all races and creeds."

"Mr. and Mrs." Entry

Jayne Meadows, panelist on "I've Got a Secret" and Steve Allen, star of "Tonight," plan to be TV's latest "Mr. and Mrs." team but in an entirely new type of series. The program is titled "The Psychiatrist" and Jayne will do the acting with Steve as producer and unseen narrator of the telecasts. It is planned as a fall entry inasmuch as Steve will be extremely busy in Hollywood for the next couple of months filming the Benny Goodman story in addition to his "Tonight" chores.

RADIO*Lifelines*

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

AT RISK OF AROUSING THE IRE OF Liberace's countless admirers, I'd like to mention that several fans have said that it was a nice surprise to hear him include one new number ("Davy Crockett") in his "Comedy Hour" repertoire. Everyone fully realizes how busy Lee must be with all his musical activities, picture preparations, and new suit fittings, but many are also of the opinion that some of his numbers are wearing rather threadbare and that "Warsaw Concerto," "Beer Barrel Polka," and similar offerings need to be replaced by some fresh ditties. What used to last for months, yea years, in nightclubs is now devoured in nothing flat, coast to coast, on television. It's the smart cookie who realizes this—we all hope "Smiley" does, all the way, every day, as he staggers to the bank.

ACCORDING TO KBIG's BOB McANDREWS, local radio stations are swamped with orders for new car advertising and have been, ever since the latest models debuted. Auto commercials currently comprise the biggest wad of a station's "spot" income. Last year, according to McAndrews, the product was beer. The year before, TV sets. As Meredith Willson's talking pimple used to say, "Interesting, hmmm?"

A COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO, This Week in TV "viewed with alarm" a bit of business Marguerite Piazza had done on "Toast of the Town." She came onstage dressed like a medieval princess and finished her act doing a strip like a naughty queen, meanwhile shouting jazzily. I didn't see the act, but our reporter thought it much too sexy and berated her for her "low-brow exhibitionism."

SINCE I HAD SEEN MISS PIAZZA recently when she appeared at the Coconut Grove, it may be assumed that what Marguerite did on the Ed Sullivan show was her nightclub routine. It is not my intention to take the stand on her behalf, but I'd like to point out a couple of things. Her nightclub act, obviously formatted to show most possible facets of Miss Piazza's voice and figure, did not seem offensive in a nightclub setting. Apparently it did to many who witnessed it on TV. Which accentuates the fact now and then overlooked by even the best of producers: television is an intimate, family-type medium. That which seems innocuous or mildly exciting in the sophisticated atmosphere of a floor show may very well be disillusioning and perhaps even disgusting to parents and children gathered in the privacy of their own living rooms.

DON FEDDERSON'S PARTY AT ROMANOFF'S to preview an Edmund Gwenn TV teleshow in "The Millionaire" series was highlighted by a door prize: a sack of cash (approximately $90, supposed to be one day's interest on $1,000,000 at 3½ per cent). Chatted with Mr. Gwenn, who though enjoying his participation in the TV film, was of the opinion that television was pretty rugged compared with motion pictures. . . . Jim Morgan, formerly "Queen For A Day" producer now busy wrapping up new TV packages for the Fedderson operation, told me he thinks his new Edward Arnold series, "Do You Trust Your Wife," will be an interesting participation show. It will be shot and edited within three weeks. Then Jim starts on a daytime participationer. . . . Jane Wax, who used to warble so sweetly on Chef Milani's radio program, has one of the leads in the new MRA musical, "The Vanishing Island." She goes on tour soon, first to the East, then India and other important countries. . . . Be-turbaned Korla Pandit stopped by the TV-Radio Life office last week while on a short visit from his Santa Cruz home (P.O. Box 817). He has a new booklet, "Universal Language of Music," which he is pushing. According to Mrs. Pandit, "People are still chasing him on the streets from San Francisco to Hollywood."

DON'T KNOW WHEN I'VE ENJOYED anything more than "Oh, Men! Oh, Women!" at the Carthy. Franchot Tone and Gig Young are fine, of of course, but for me the most interesting performance is that of Ann Jackson, who should be a big TV attraction.

DAVID SARNOFF, CHAIRMAN OF RCA, had some pretty interesting TV and radio comments sandwiched into his annual report to the stockholders a few days ago. Scanning his remarks, I discovered that television (manufacturing, servicing, telecasting) accounted for fifty-two per cent of the corporation's gross in 1954. To date, RCA has spent more than $50,000,000 on color TV research and development and at this time there are almost 100 NBC-TV affiliates equipped to handle color programs.

MR. SARNOFF ALSO REVEALED something which the program heads hadn't mentioned much: Next autumn, NBC plans to expand its color schedules and the Maurice Evans dramatic series, featuring plays by Shakespeare and Shaw will receive the full treatment. Also, an afternoon color show for children is being blue-printed for the 5:00-6:00 p.m. period (this sounds like NBC's answer to ABC's "Mickey Mouse Club"). Color will be used on several football games which will employ the mobile unit to be stationed at the field.

GENERAL SARNOFF STATED THAT PRODUCTION is beginning on two newly-designed RCA 2-inch color receivers. These will use 26 tubes in a simplified set-up. Prices he quoted were still much too high for the averproblems I've had. But Mommy is very understanding.

Peter: I can talk to either of them. But I like Sundays for another reason. Mommy and Daddy fix the dinner and we get to eat on trays and watch TV.

Philip: Yeah. We don't eat and watch TV at the same time as a rule—only when there's a big exception.

Peter: I like it when we go on trips on Sundays together—like the time we went to Big Bear and it was snowing.

(At this point Paul finished his lesson and joined the group.)

Philip: How are the lessons coming?

Paul: (an energetic young man) Fine. (To the interviewer). I started taking lessons because my brothers already knew how to play and Mommy thought I should learn. But my brothers don't play so much now. They don't have the ambition. Mommy thinks I have talent for music.

Philip: You don't practice much, though.

Paul: I have too many things to do.

(They were asked about their opinions of the way their mother dresses—and this really started something).

Paul: I don't care what mother wears as long as she wears clothes. I like to see her get dressed up—at times.

Philip: But I don't see why she has to be so fussy about how she looks. She has three closets full of clothes. She's always wanting somebody to zip her up, too.

Paul: It takes her about three hours to get ready.

Philip: That's not so. She can dress fast. She's used to that working in pictures all the time.

Peter: She's fussy about how we look when we go anywhere nice.

Philip: (who had decided to change the subject) The first time I saw mother on TV I got so embarrassed age family: Consolette, $795; console, $895.

TWO OTHER STATEMENTS ON THE report bear repeating: NBC is now field-testing its TV magnetic tape recorder for both black and white and color; and RCA is hot on new portable radios and pocket-sized radios equipped with transistors which will be much more receptive and durable.

WORD IS THAT THE NEW "Mickey Mouse Club" will make "Disneyland" look like child's play. Camera crews are shooting all over the world. More information on this later.

We have just one point to make!

It is better to be safe than to be sorry.

Don't wait until your TV set breaks down, it might cost considerable money to have it repaired.

The most reasonable service plan was worked out by Television Industries in 1949 and is still considered the best available.

Call PR. 0301 and make an appointment to have a representative inspect your set and explain their contract to you. This is done by the company free of charge and without any obligation to the customer.

Television industries will write a Parts Warranty on your set for only $15.00 for one full year, on a two year basis covering any and all parts including the large picture tube up to and including a 21 inch screen.

All house calls are charged for at a flat rate of $3.50.

For further information call PR. 0301 or write to Television Industries, 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 5, California.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

Nobody ever thought it would happen—a satire on Ed Sullivan on a "Comedy Hour" show. Yet, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis pulled a terrific routine on their last program. Jerry did such a perfect imitation of Sullivan that some people, tuning in late, thought he was Ed and were confused. The whole act, however, was a stand-out, particularly the take-off on the introduction of prominent people in the audience. This was all topped, though, by Jerry's comment towards the end in which he thanked his sponsors for letting him do a satire on "that wonderful guy, Ed Sullivan." When two such fighting rival shows as "Toast" and "Comedy Hour" can go in for things like this, TV is really growing up.

What gives at KTLA? With the talk around that Lawrence Welk will go on the ABC-TV network, this leaves KTLA with little or nothing to offer viewers. The station, however, as of this writing claims that it will still carry Welk, but if KABC-TV gets a hot kine of the show, as is now the story, what will this do to KTLA? It's amazing that Channel 5, which once had so much imagination and know-how in its programming, has let itself settle into a rut with so little to attract an audience. The same shows still plod along and any new ones are of the same old formula. It does seem that KTLA can do more to move ahead with television. It's not a matter of the station's not having the men with brains to chart new courses and introduce provocative new shows. It's just that someone is either not giving a hoot or closing the eyes to the fact that TV of five years ago is vastly different from TV of today.

Some reader clipped from this magazine the last ARB ratings which showed "Person to Person" in twenty-fifth spot. A note was written on the clipping which made reference to Edward R. Murrow as "your pinko friend" and adding that no patriotic American would vote for his show. This is a bunch of hogwash! Just what facts does this reader have to prove that Murrow is even a faded pink? Just what right does anyone have to brand someone with this tag without concrete facts? Murrow may not be popular to all. No TV personality is. He may be controversial, but this department still believes in the old-age American habit of not tagging any person with any name unless there are facts that cannot be disputed. We can offer plenty of facts to prove Murrow is as good an American as anyone. We can cite example after example of his patriotism. So why let the action of one person raise the blood pressure? Simply because it had seemed that responsible people in our government, including our President, have tried to curb this business of assassination by inference. If anybody can prove Murrow or anyone else on TV is a pinko, we'll be the first to pass on the word, because we have as much contempt for the Commie clan as any other decent citizen. As for Murrow, if you don't like him, turn to another show!

NBC is starting what should be a far-sighted move in its campaign to get new writers. The most promising young writers will be brought on salary to Hollywood, and to New York, and will be given every opportunity to prove their worth. This is part of the multi-million-dollar talent hunt program of NBC and deserves every possible kudo. At the present the network is enlisting the help of colleges and universities, little theatres, drama schools, and NBC-affiliated TV and radio stations in an effort to find comedy writers. The top comics are cooperating with this, too, since they are the ones who will benefit the most by the move. At last—new life for the television industry!

- 1 Pkg. Armour's cut-up chicken
- 1 Cup tomatoes
- 4 Tablespoons olive oil
- 1 Tbsp. salt pork—pounded to paste
- 1 Tbsp. parsley—chopped
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- 1 Tbsp. wine vinegar
- 1 Clove garlic—chopped
- 1 Cup sauterne wine
- 2 Tbsps. raisins
- 2 Tbsps. pine nut seeds
- 1/4 Tsp. red pepper—crushed
- 1/2 Cup warm water
- Salt and pinch of rosemary

Clean chicken and cut into small pieces. Place olive oil and pounded salt pork in a thick pot with parsley, garlic and crushed pepper. Add chicken and brown well for 30 minutes. Add salt, rosemary sugar and vinegar; stir well. Pour 1/2 cup sauterne wine over it. Cover. Simmer for 10 minutes. Add tomatoes blended with 1/2 cup warm water. Lower the flame. Add pine nut seeds and raisins. Cover tightly. Simmer 20 minutes or until chicken is tender. Add rest of the sauterne. Let boil for 1 minute. Serve piping hot.

I hid behind a chair. Now it's just like watching any show.

Peter: I think "My Little Margie's" best when it's funny. I like it best when Mommy does the gurgle noise in her throat. I even like to hear her sing to us at home, too.

Philip: I don't like to hear women sing. Mommy sings that opera stuff a lot. I like the popular music. My brothers like her to sing lullabies to them, but I'm past that stage.

(The boys were getting a little tired of being asked questions so the scene closed. Conclusion: here's a happy home where love lives.)

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

As is reported in another section (there are others, you know) of this mag, I was awarded last week the Channel 9 Movie Theater First Annual Critic's Award. Lest anyone think this prize was awarded in a spirit of prankishness, I should like to remind him that every TV feature picture reviewer in Southern California was fighting for this recognition, and I want to extend my condolences to the loser, whoever he might be. Also, I want to thank this progressive station for the honor it has bestowed on me, and assure it that I shall be waiting eagerly for its next batch of cinematic triumphs. In the meantime, I think it should stop showing the same movie every night . . . that baseball plot is wearing a little thin and the costumes are lousy.

"Open Secret." (13) May 24, 8:30. This picture presents a worthy theme in the sickness of anti-Semitism, and a good cast, including Roman Bohnen, Sheldon Leonard and John Ireland, but manages to negate everything with bad writing, sloppy production and meaningless direction. It was released in 1947 and tells the story of a returning GI who becomes incensed at the anti-Semitic activities of a local Fascist political group and after a Jewish citizen is murdered, helps the police track down the leader of the mob. A cheap little melodrama that attempted to cash in on the appeal of such good movies on the same subject as "Cross-fire," and "Gentleman's Agreement."

"Confidence Girl." (5) May 22, 7:30. Well, last week Channel 5 changed its weekly first run movie at the last minute, and, as far as I'm concerned, they can do it again this week. Tom Conway and Hillary Brooke are a couple of con artists who work a clairvoyance racket in a nightclub equipped with bugged table lamps. Hillary has to confess their evil doings in order to save a man falsely accused of murder and she and Tom go to the pokey and this movie bugged me.

"Body And Soul." (9) May 26, 10:50. Here is a re-run of one of Channel 9's movie series (hats off to Channel 9 . . . they know what they're doing) and I'm happy to report it is one of the best fight films ever made. John Garfield is a pug who fights his way to the title and then discovers that he has compromised too many principles along the way. The excellent cast includes Lilli Palmer, Canada Lee, Joseph Pevney and Anne Revere.

"One Wild Out." (13) May 23, 11:15. Stanley Holloway and Robertson Hare, two of Britain's leading actors and a pair of fine comics as well, star in this ancient comedy about a couple of feuding families whose offspring become enamoured of each other. Hardly an original plot device, but it suffices to present Holloway and Hare in some typical shenanigans and I like to watch Holloway in anything.

"One Touch of Venus." (9) May 22, 8:30. This is another of Channel 9's re-runs (Hurray for Channel 9! They can do no wrong . . . except perhaps present this thing, again) and it offers Robert Walker as a department store window dresser who falls in love with a statue of Venus, Ava Gardner, which comes to life and complicates things for Dick Haymes, Tom Conway, Eve Arden and Olga San Juan. And best wishes to Bill Barron and Bud Coulson of KHJ-TV and all other publicity directors who want to give me things.

"I Accuse My Parents." (7) May 23, 2:00. Well, somebody's to blame.

If Disaster Strikes—Your Radio Dial Will Be Your Best Life Insurance

This story tells how radio will be vital to our community in case of an air raid or other emergency. What went wrong with "Conelrad" during the recent test? What is being done to correct the faults? It's all here—for your benefit, and maybe your life.

By Evelyn Bigsby

Next time, if the yellow or red alert is real, radio might save your life. A yellow alert, as most persons now know, indicates probable attack; a red alert means attack is really imminent.

It was called a false alarm a couple of weeks ago when the yellow alert flared, and radio schedules went haywire, but in accordance with Civil Defense law, which requires the Air Force to alert the broadcasting industry immediately upon receipt of a flash, Norton Air Base did exactly the right thing in alerting the key station of Southern California's Conelrad system, KFI. Conelrad started to proceed according to schedule, but along the way it faltered in several instances. The subsequent confusion was minutely and pointedly detailed in many newspapers.

To help give its readers a clearer idea of what Conelrad is, how extremely important radio is to our Civil Defense system, what listeners may expect of Conelrad and what steps the radio stations of Southern California have taken since the scare of recent days, TV-Radio Life enlisted the aid of Frank Crane, managing director of the Southern California Broadcasters' Association.

Crane's Job

Mr. Crane, whose job it is to maintain constant contact with the radio outlets of this area, reported on a meeting held last Tuesday at which managers and chief engineers of some thirty radio stations in Southern California were present. Purpose of the gathering was twofold: first, to determine what errors radio had made when the yellow alert had come through; and second, to uncover the misunderstandings which had led to these errors. Presiding at the session was Tom Baxter of KABC, Conelrad coordinator for the Los Angeles area.

Also present were Conelrad Liaison Officer James A. Holmsy, (the FCC representative at Norton Base) Major Shattuck, and Captain McKeever.

Procedure

Before reporting on the meeting, it might be opportune to tell again how Conelrad is supposed to work. Then we will explain what it did and did NOT do when the false alarm occurred.

If an alert is received at Norton, it is required that broadcasters be notified immediately. The importance of radio in such an emergency is so great that the FCC director at the base goes right into the control center with the commanding officers. Conelrad, or our radio defense system, takes its place in alert significance along with alerting of ground anti-aircraft, Civil Defense headquarters and commercial planes (which are required to land at once).

Radio Vital

Radio is vital as the vehicle for information; but even more so, when the alert is first received, radio is in an extremely critical situation in the opposite way. Nothing can be more helpful to an enemy plane in pointing out its target than to be able to ride in on a radio station's beam. Since locations of all of our transmitter towers is common knowledge, it is quickly seen how very desperate the need is to silence our radio transmitters as fast as possible. TV transmitters in this area, all huddled on Mount Wilson, would all have to shut down in case of alert and due to their proximity, would probably be worthless in assisting the populace.

Radio transmitters, however, scattered as they are over the entire Southland area, present a different story. Suppose Norton received a red alert. Immediately, through an open one-way line, Norton's FCC director informs our key Conelrad station, KFI. The message is carefully worded in advance and must be received, word for word, exactly the same as the pre-arranged message. There is also a code, frequently changed, which must come over exactly. If message and code check out accurately, KFI then goes through a procedure: it leaves the air at once and comes on with a carrier or tone signal. Then a previously prepared recording makes the announcement that KFI is leaving the air at the request of Civil Defense and that listeners should tune to 640 or 1240.

Meanwhile, all other radio stations, which monitor the key Conelrad station, have left the air. (In case anything has happened to KFI, it may be reassuring to you to know that there are four other local stations which are also named as Conelrad keys, but whose names we cannot divulge in the interests of security.)

Now the important part of confusing the enemy begins. One by one, from their various transmitter locations, the stations take turns broadcasting, staying on the air for only seconds so that their signal may not be used as a navigational aid. This procedure continues until the white, or all-clear signal is given.

It is unnecessary to enter into the detail of post-attack broadcasting. Needless to say, radio, through its mobility, is essential here to dissemination of public information as to damage, evacuation, warnings and other matters.

This is the way Conelrad is supposed to work. Now let's delve into the things which happened during the recent scare.

What Happened

According to Mr. Crane, Norton Base did exactly the right thing in alerting KFI. The Civil Defense law insists upon this procedure. KFI was alerted at 10:45. It took the five men on duty a little time to realize what was happening; then they started their prescribed procedure and went along until the prepared recording was to be broadcast. Something went wrong with the turntable and the men were readying another one when the all-clear came at 10:55.

Meanwhile, KABC, KNX, KHJ and KMPC (for a short time) had left the air. There may have been others. Admittedly there was much confusion (but no more in the broadcasting industry than in Civil Defense) and subsequent criticism of radio.

Radio admits that it did not do the kind of job it wishes it had. There was some evidence of lack of training, despite the fact that two Conelrad tests are made weekly—one scheduled and one surprise. Radio also confesses that in some instances the human element entered into the picture to distract procedure.

Office of Southern California Broadcasters called six different switchboards during the alert and there were six different reasons handed out for the radio disruption. One switchboard said a B-47 was coming in from the west; another reported an unidentified plane flying over Los Angeles. Apparently no one knew. At one station the operator refused to answer the question unless the inquirer's name and address were given.

At one station the regular engineer was on vacation and the relief man had not been adequately trained. At another outlet the man in charge was reported to have exhibited a "high emotional state." A junior engineer was on the job at another post.

"The whole incident was probably a good thing," observed Frank Crane. Now we have corrected the errors. In the future, all personnel is to be trained. All stations will use as much automatic equipment as possible, thus eliminating the human element. A PROUD PREXY AND WINSOME WINNERS—Sam Zelman, president of the Radio and Television News Club of Southern California, presents two of the "Gold Mikes" awarded by the Club at its Sixth Annual dinner for excellence in reporting the News. Bill Stout (left) copped award for "Consistent Enterprise in Radio and Television News Reporting on his "Special Assignment" segment of KNXT's "The Big News." CBS Radio's Ruth Ashton (right) won for "Best Women's News Program."

Seven TV and Radio Programs Honored With "Golden Mikes"

TV and radio reporters are always on hand every hour of the day to report the news, but they seldom cash in on the glory.

Last week was an exception when seven TV and radio programs received "Golden Mike" awards for outstanding contributions to the radio and TV industry. The awards were presented at the Sixth Annual dinner of the Radio and Television News Clubs of Southern California.

For the first time in the club's history, an award was made to a woman's program—"The Women's News Desk" with Ruth Ashton, newscaster, according to Sam Zelman, president of the club.

Carson Emcees

Johnny Carson, popular television comedian emceed the program which was preceded by a cocktail party and buffet supper.

Among the honored guests was Leo Wilhelm, vice president of the Bing Crosby Minute Maid Corporation, donor of the trophies for the fourth consecutive year.

The faculty of UCLA's Graduate School of Journalism selected the award winning programs from hundreds of entries submitted by radio and television newsmen in the Southern California area. Awards are based on achievement and merit in the fields of newscasting, newswriting and commentary.

Winners of the awards were as follows:

Best Radio News Presentation:

NBC—Richfield Reporter
Newscaster—John Wald
Writer—Wayne Miller

Best Radio Special Event Coverage:

KABC—"Bunker Hill Report." A documentary
Newscasters—Bill Spargrove and Len Beardsley
Writer—Lorin Peterson

Best Radio or Television News Writing:

KABC—"Smog Scoreboard." A review of the smog situation.
Writers—Bill O'Hallaren and Jim Bull

Newscaster—Jack Latham
Writer—George Martin

Best Women's News Program:

CBS—"The Woman's Newsdesk"
Newscaster—Ruth Ashton

Consistent Enterprise in Radio or Television News Reporting:

KNXT—"Special Assignment." A segment of "The Big News."
Reporter—Bill Stout

Conelrad Story

public campaign is being set up to inform the public of how Conelrad works and why. There will be closer cooperation between stations on Conelrad and we are tackling the problem of what to do about going on the air after a real attack. According to present rules, any station may start broadcasting as soon as the all-clear sounds. This might not be feasible.

"Southern California Broadcasters are also investigating the possibility of using a device such as Sigalert, created by KMPC's Loyd Sigmon, to eliminate the necessity of repeated phone calls and checking between Conelrad stations."

That's the story to date on radio and its significance in the A-H-bomb era. Every person in Southern California should know what to expect from his radio in case "the real thing" happens. Radio, having had an opportunity to check and repair its procedures, is now in better position than ever to be, should eventuality arise, your comfort, your guide and perhaps even your savior.

TV Commercial Submitted As Evidence For First Time In Legal History In Case Against Used-Car Dealer

*Case Against "Farmer Jack" still unsettled.
Channel 13 cancels used-car dealer's contract.
Pertinent quotes from TV-Radio Life story two years ago warns against misleading used-car advertising.*

TV Commercials jumped out of the living room into the law court last week for the first time in the history of American legal procedure.

It happened on Tuesday when a member of the Los Angeles Police Department crime lab wheeled a motion picture projector and a tape recorder into the Municipal Courtroom of Judge Byron J. Walters.

The projector and recorder were synchronized to reproduce a commercial of Farmer Jack's Used Car Sales Corporation seen on KCOP, Channel 13, on January 30 and February 6.

The Better Business Bureau charged the used car dealer with false advertising. The BBB maintained that the dealer had offered the TV audience an automobile for $999. BBB investigators claim that when they went to the lot to buy the automobile the price had been increased to $1495 and they finally made the purchase for $1300.

The TV commercial was shown in court to try to prove that the commercial was used as "bait" to attract customers.

The equipment for reproducing the TV commercial was developed by Sergeant D. N. Phillips, Supervisor of the Traffic Photo Section of the Los Angeles Police Department, and his staff.

License Number

The charge of fraudulent advertising was submitted by the BBB against the head of the used car firm, Jack Tankersley, and a salesman, Gene King.

Ernest B. Baldwin and E. Kirkbridge, investigators for the Bureau, testified that they took down the license number of the car offered for sale on KCOP and then tried to make the purchase at the Lynwood lot located at 10749 Long Beach Blvd.

Mr. Tankersley denies that it was the same car shown on KCOP.

KCOP Cancels

When KCOP learned of the suit, in order to protect itself, it took immediate action. According to a KCOP executive, "When this happened, the station did not renew the sponsor's contract."

As TV-Radio Life goes to press, a verdict on whether or not the car dealer is guilty of "untrue and misleading advertising" has not been reached.

However, this entire case recalls a feature story which appeared in TV-Radio Life over two years ago warning our readers about incidents with used cars. The story ran on page twenty-two of our April 3, 1953, issue, and was titled: "USED CAR TRICKS EXPOSED!"

At the time, it caused a great deal of excitement. For the benefit of those who do not remember it, here are some excerpts:

"We all know there are some used-car businesses which are legitimate. This article does not apply to them. It applies to those trying to cheat the public.

Sly Salesmen

"Hundreds of 'takers' make their headquarters on acres of used-car lots in Southern California. Employing showmanship technique, using banners, pennants, bright-hued paint and other attention-getting devices, these firms try to outdo their competitors and undo their customers. Salesmen slyly await the arrival of victims lured by cleverly contrived, smooth-sounding advertising claims . . ."

"Before making any deal, shop around. Then, if you find a car you want, check with the Better Business Bureau and the Los Angeles Police Commission. Ask them how reliable the firm is that you intend doing business with. Find out how many complaints, if any, have been entered against the firm . . ."

"Los Angeles is the biggest used-car market in the world, due mainly to its spread-out geographical position and the longer distances traveled. Competition is fierce and the whole bag of tricks is used to get the public's dollar.

Drive Shyster Out

"Purchase of used cars is a necessary part of our daily business life. TV-Radio Life wishes those honest business men in the automotive trade would police their industry and drive the shyster out of business.

"TV-Radio Life further hopes its readers will take the advice, so as not to fall prey to false advertising, and to remain out of the Barnum 'sucker' list."

The type on that original story may be pretty old, but the ideas behind it are just as strong as ever.

TRAIN TALK

by

"Engineer"
Bill Stulla

I've just received some fine news from the boys at the roundhouse. You all know how hard little Mo has been working on the show, and starting next Monday the roundhouse crew has decided to send his big brother, "Large Mo" down to help us out. Watch for him!

You know, it's a lot of fun to have a train layout of your own, but it will be even more fun for you if you run it just like a real railroad does. The way to do this is ask Mom to let you use her electric clock, one with a sweep second hand. Then, get a couple of your friends and run your train to see who can come the nearest to five complete trips in one minute. It may sound easy to do, but just wait until you try it for yourself.

I'm very sure that everyone knows that the last car on a freight train is called a caboose, but I'll bet you didn't know that it's also called a "crummy" by real trainmen. Since the early days of the railroads no women were ever allowed in a caboose as it sometimes wasn't as neat as it should have been. That's why a real railroader calls a caboose a crummy.

Stored away in my Track 9 roundhouse is a complete HO Gauge kit containing a locomotive, three cars, track, and a transformer. This kit, as you can see, contains everything you need to start your own layout at home. Now, I would like you all to write and tell me just what kind of a contest you would like to have here in TV-Radio Life. I've got a special prize for the Junior Engineer who suggests the contest we use, and of course the first prize will be the complete HO Gauge Kit.

My address is: Engineer Bill, c/o KHJ-TV, Hollywood 28.

This Saturday, May 21 I'm going to be at Bonds North Hollywood Village Market located at 7500 Lankershim Blvd. in North Hollywood. I'm planning on bringing one of Little Mo's brothers out with me to give away to some lucky little engineer. I'll see you there.

Terry W. of Alhambra asks this question: DO TRAINS HAVE EARS? I'll tell you the answer next week.

"Happy High Ballin"
Engineer Bill

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

New Sports Show

Good news for sports fans: Hal Shideler started a new sports series Monday on three stations, KGFJ, KFVD and KFOX. The show consists of two broadcasts daily on each station, a total of thirty-six broadcasts weekly, all under the single sponsorship of Lew Williams Chevrolet in Hollywood.

Hal was selected to do the show because of his varied background of twenty years broadcasting all types of sporting events. He is probably best known in Southern California for his play-by-play coverage of UCLA and USC football and basketball during the past ten years.

He has also broadcast and televised boxing, wrestling, golf, horse racing and track and field events.

The program, known as "Today in Sports," will emanate from KFOX.

Morning times are KGFJ, 7:30; KFOX, 8:30, and KFVD, 8:45. The afternoon coverage: KGFJ, 4:00; KFOX, 5:00, and KFVD, 7:00 p.m.

The entire package is produced by Lisle Sheldon Agency of Hollywood, under the supervision of Jack Young.

Scott, Harmon, Kelley, Balter, Brundige and company now have added competition—all of which makes for better listening for the sports fan.

A House, No Less

"Queen for a Day" is still the "king" of radio when it comes to giveaways.

Currently Jack Bailey and newscaster Frank Hemingway on KHJ are offering a lavish four-bedroom, two-bath home in the White King "Name the Dream Home Contest." The contest which lasts for six weeks, requires listeners to name the Rheem Dream Home and then tell in twenty words or less, their reason for choosing the name.

The right name plus the right words could result in a very nice future for some lucky family.

Battle of the Ballads

The walls of Studio 6 at KNX Radio have ceased vibrating, the dust has settled and quiet reigns once again. The "Battle of the Ballads" with Mel Baldwin and Ralph Story participating has ended. The winner? In this case it was the listeners.

The purpose of the "Battle" was to determine, with the aid of the listeners, which was the best music—that of the 1950's (represented by Story) or that of the 30's and 40's (represented by Baldwin).

The "Battle" was held on Mel's Saturday afternoon record show on KNX, starting at 12:45 and running for two full hours. Ralph led with some of the selections of the fifties which he considered the greatest; Mel countered with the "clams" of the same era. Then Ralph returned with silly songs of the thirties and forties and Mel came back strong with the favorites of those two decades.

Interspersed in the proceedings was the reading of letters sent to each of the two personalities by their listeners, praising or rapping their ideas of music.

Following the broadcast the listeners were to send in their votes for the best music—with the winner receiving a Columbia three-speed hi-fi record player. Judges of the contest hadn't reached a decision on the winner at press time, but Story and Baldwin each know who won. "I did," they chorused in unison.

Davis Does Double Duty

Hal Davis, manager of KWIZ, the Orange County station, is one boss who more than doubles in brass. He begins his day, six days a week, with a slam bang, get the bad out-of-you type of show from 7 to 10 a.m.

Then he puts on his executive hat and goes to work stimulating the happy people at radio KWIZ into making the station the "biggest sound for miles around."

Hal has done what many people said couldn't be done. He's built a successful station under the competitive guns of the nation's top radio stations in Los Angeles. KWIZ is sold out, advertising wise, nearly 100 per cent of the time.

KWIZ's programming is aimed at busy people who can absorb the inspiration of good musical entertainment and local news while doing something else. The active manager, dee jay, entrepreneur, says he has the finest radio staff ever put together in one operation and their constant interest and hard work go to make radio KWIZ, "Top Banana in Orange County . . . the Best of the Bunch."

PROFESSIONAL

A Hollywood wedding, according to "My Little Margie," is one in which the woman has been married six times and the man six, and the invitations read, "Be sure to attend—this is no amateur performance."

LAS VEGAS OBSERVER

Newsman Charles Collingwood, waiting in Nevada for the A-bomb test, took his microphone and camera to the Sands Hotel, asked a croupier: "Do these explosions upset the dice?" "Mister," he was told, "nothing upsets our dice!"

Consider for a moment the possibility that there may be another side to the sad, sad story of the aging, arteriosclerotic Archie Moore, the IBC and its hand maidens of the sports writing and sports casting fraternity have described him to be.

Let us admit, at the outset, that the record books, which list his birth on December 13, 1916, are somewhat in error.

Old Arch isn't 38 to the extent that Jack Benny isn't 39 but there is good reason to believe that Mr. Moore has turned time backward in its flight to the extent of 4 or 5 years.

Former triple champion Henry Armstrong, for example, told me that Arch was either Armstrong's age or a year older when the two started in the proboscis pummeling pastime back in St. Louis, Missouri . . . and Hammering Hank admits to 42.

But whether Moore is 38, 43, or even 93—and born on a mountain top in Tennessee in the bargain—there appear to be very few sound arguments to contradict the fact that he is the number one contender for the heavyweight championship of the world.

This gives rise to the question of why the well qualified Mr. Moore isn't given a chance to win that title . . . and the answer is found in three well-chosen words . . . International Boxing Club . . . and, oh, yes . . . three others, plus an initial, James D. Norris, President.

The IBC, you see, has a contract with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano that specifies in not too fine print that the IBC shall tell Rocky whom to fight, when to fight and where to fight.

Naturally, with the heavyweight championship being just about the most valuable asset a promoter can have, the aforementioned IBC isn't about to take any chances on losing this priceless chattel . . . and its matches are made accordingly.

Boxing's experts say that the man who whips Marciano will have to be a good boxer who can avoid the Rock's bullish rushes and also a hard hitter who can hurt the champ.

This description hardly fits such Marciano opponents as Jersey Joe Walcott, Roland LaStarza, Ezzard

Charles and the upcoming Don Cockell.

Of course, Moore doesn't exactly fit the description perfectly, either, but he comes close and the few of us who have blasted the balderdash about Archie's aorta have never guaranteed he could beat Marciano.

We just think he's entitled to a chance to try.

And the way the IBC is avoiding him strengthens the conviction that Archie must be fairly well qualified for the assignment.

Even Truman Gibson, the IBC's executive secretary, admitted that Moore's win over Nino Valdes, a lady in waiting in the IBC court who was standing next in line for Marciano before the explosion of the Archonic Bomb in Las Vegas, was "impressive" enough to make it imperative for the Rock to meet him.

However, while Archie's waiting, the IBC has arranged for Moore to pick up the champion's share of the loot in risking his light-heavyweight title against middleweight champion Bobo Olson.

Arch can't very well refuse, since he still numbers himself among the few who can use money.

But since Moore has to take off 21½ pounds for his fight with Olson, there's a good chance he'll lose not only his title, but also the prestige he has built up so carefully to gain his present stature.

And even if he wins, it's going to take a while for him to gain back the weight it would be necessary for him to carry into the ring with the Rock.

Meanwhile, the IBC and Marciano will roll on, past Don Cockell and anybody else the fertile mind of an inspired press agent can build into what appears on paper—and it will appear in plenty of papers, almost verbatim—to be a worthy contender for the crown.

At the same time, Moore will be getting older and wiser.

But there isn't much satisfaction in getting smarter when you know the answer before you started.

And the answer is—the IBC controls big-time boxing for better or for worse, and for richer, 'til death or somebody like Governor George M. Leader of Pennsylvania do them part with an edict like that 90-day suspension of the sport in the Quaker State.

Maybe a fellow named Eisenhower will have to take the same kind of action on a slightly broader scale.

If you're a person like Jimmy Durante you know what friendship means. At any rate, Eddie "Struttin'" Jackson thinks Jimmy is the best friend any man could have.

By Jon Bruce

WHAT KIND of a friend are you?

Do you possess all the qualities that seem to go hand in hand with real friendship? Are you loyal, unselfish, do you make demands, are you happy to see a friend get a break you'd like to have, do you honestly do all you can to be of assistance when your friend is in need?

Well, you can call yourself a good friend if you have the characteristics Jimmy Durante has.

Eddie Jackson has been a friend of the NBC-TV star for thirty-nine years and he sums up his feelings for Jimmy in this way—"Jimmy? Oh, I love that man."

"Jimmy never lies to me," Eddie said. "He's completely honest. I think if you're honest with a friend you really love each other. At times it's hard to be honest. You feel like flattering someone instead of saying the truth when the truth is needed. But Jimmy isn't like that. He advises me about my work on the show and if he thinks I'm doing something wrong he'll tell me in a minute. I do the same with him. But Jimmy never gives me any personal advice unless I ask him for it. That's another good trait of his—his honesty doesn't make him feel he has the right to run anyone else's life.

LONG TIME FRIENDS JIMMY DURANTE and Eddie Jackson do their stuff on one of the NBC-TV shows. They have been together for many years and are the perfect example of what friendship should mean.

What Kind of a Friend are You?

"Jimmy is completely loyal. I'd rather work for him than for anyone else at five times my present salary. I have a sneaking hunch that one of the big reasons Jimmy goes on working instead of taking life easy is his concern over what would happen to his 'gang' who work with him on the shows. I've heard him say, 'What'd happen to them if I quit?' Of course, I have to admit that Jimmy couldn't stand being idle. He's like a race horse. He has to keep running. I'm the same way. I'm never happy when I'm not working.

"Along with Jimmy's loyalty is his complete lack of any jealousy. He loves to hear me get laughs on the show. In fact, he often builds scenes around me and has even done some entire shows centering on me. When he's playing piano for me, I've seen his face. It really lights up—he's so happy for me. When he introduces me as 'my partner' I feel like seventeen. Jimmy takes care of me as though he were managing me.

"But that's Jimmy. There's nothing selfish about him. He only thinks of others—seldom of himself. And yet, because he is so sensitive of the feelings of others, he is also easily hurt himself. But no one ever really tries to hurt Jimmy. Everybody likes him too much.

"If you are a good friend, you're like Jimmy in that you're generous with your time and with your money. No matter how many problems Jimmy has he always has time to help you with yours. He has said to me over and over, 'Don't keep your troubles to yourself. Make your troubles my troubles.' He gets mad if I don't tell him when anything is bothering me.

"As for the money side, he's too generous. He's always a good bet for a soft touch. He doesn't mind handing out money but he doesn't like to be taken advantage of—or to be used. Once we were doing a benefit in Milwaukee and a couple of guys came up to Jimmy. He thought they were the stage hands and he tipped them about twenty dollars each. They thanked him and left. Later a couple of fellows said to Jimmy, 'Hope your show is good, Jimmy. If we can do anything, let us know.' They were the real stage hands, as Jimmy found out. He was really mad about the other guys. Not because he had given them the money but because they had taken it under false pretenses.

"Jimmy knows when a friend needs money. And he doesn't wait for that friend to ask him for help. He just gives it to him, without any fanfare at all.

"Everyone knows what a soft touch Jimmy is. People from all over the country even write him and ask him for money for mortgage payments, teeth, and what-not. Naturally, he can't fill these requests."

Eddie pulled out a cigarette and rolled it around with his finger. Then he put it, unlit, into his mouth for a few moments. He doesn't smoke but has to have a cigarette in his hands. After a moment he said intensely, "Everybody should have Jimmy Durante for a friend.

Look What TV Has Done To Florian!

Since hitting the television trail, Florian ZaBach has really been meeting himself coming and going. But he thrives on such intriguing confusion.

By Jack Holland

FLORIAN ZaBACH, KCOP's personable and talented violinist, wasn't exactly an inexperienced and unknown musician before he went on TV. In fact, he had a good deal of fame stacked up on his side. But since his show went on KCOP and has been syndicated to over ninety stations across the country, his whole life has changed.

Florian is getting the same fan treatment, a bit on the hysterical side, that Liberace has been getting. Fan clubs have been formed for him, women storm him when he goes on concerts and now he is planning a series of concerts across the country.

All this acclaim and success have not come just because Florian happens to be a good-looking guy who can make a fiddle talk. It's because he also worked hard at his job.

The Breaks

"It's kind of hard to believe all this has happened." Florian commented recently. "When my name was first suggested as a possible artist for a TV show, the producers said, 'Za-Bach? What's that—a new kind of cheese?' When they were told I was a violinist they thought my agent was crazy. 'A violinist! We got 'em—in the orchestra!'

"All this was an old story to me. Even before I went on Arthur Godfrey's 'Talent Scouts' show in 1951, which was the beginning for me, I've had a battle convincing people that a man can play the fiddle—alone—and still be a hit. At first everyone wanted me to lead an orchestra, which I did for several years. Then I decided to go out on my own. It was tough. Real tough. My wife and I hocked everything we owned to make ends meet, but I wouldn't back down on my determination to be a single. I can still remember the time I was offered a two-week deal at the Strand Theatre in New York at a good price. And I needed the money. But the manager wanted me to lead the orchestra. I refused. He finally called me back and let me emcee and do some solo work. I learned later why he did call me back—his wife had seen me on TV and wanted him to hire me. Well, I was signed for two weeks and stayed for thirty-three, which is still a record for the Strand."

Florian has recently had a couple of albums released by Decca too—and everything is looking up for him. All of which means he has to work harder.

"It takes me about five days to put together a show," Florian remarked. "When I decide to do certain numbers I can't do them just because they're pretty—they have to be the kind which will be effective on the violin. For example, a viewer wanted me to play 'Listen to the Mocking Bird.' It took me five hours to find a way to do that number right," Florian laughed heartily, and added, "but the funniest request I ever got was from a wrestler who wanted 'The Swan.' He got it.

Music Alone?

"A musician has to do more than just play an instrument if he's a solo attraction on TV. He has to resort to gimmicks to an extent. For instance, on one show I played all parts of a string quartet. It was a real hard one to film. In order to hear what I was playing on the screen on one instrument so I could come in on another instrument on time I wore a hearing aid. However, I couldn't turn my profile because the wire from the aid wou'd show, so the camera had to stop to allow me to turn my head, and then the aid would be transferred to the other ear while I was photographed from a profile shot.

"Another time I did 'Ida, Sweet As Apple Cider'—and played eleven fiddles. That one took two months to do. It's one reason why I don't like apple cider."

There was a time when Florian thought if he could make fifty dollars a week he'd be very happy. He now has a violin insured for $75,000 and Guild Fi'ms, for whom he is making the films of his show, insured his life for $1,000,000. He also has his hands insured for $100,000. No wonder Florian has such a broad smile these days.

Whether it's food or TV fanfare:
"57" Means Variety
 By Ted Hilgenstuhler

New stars and new stories are used each week on KABC-TV's "Studio 57." Some of the stars who have appeared include (starting in the upper left and counter-clockwise): Hugh O'Brian, Jay Novello, Dorothy Green, Gene Reynolds, Mala Powers, Marguerite Chapman, Paul Langton, Olive Sturgess, and Brian Keith.

ORDINARILY, "Studio 57" would sound like a pretty silly name for a TV show, especially if it didn't come from Studio 57. In this particular case, the program does not come from Studio 57, but there are many good reasons, fifty-seven of them, in fact, why the title was selected for the half-hour syndicated series.

Besides the fact that it lies between the relatively insignificant numbers of 56 and 58, the number 57 (along with Fred Allen) would probably have followed the "treadmill to oblivion" if it hadn't been for the men and women of the Heinz company. They produced not one, and not fifty-eight, but fifty-seven different varieties of food.

Besides pleasing the public's appetite, over a period of years the company filled its own pocketbook. Consequently, like so many other advertisers, they soon turned to TV and Revue Productions, Inc., which specializes in half-hour film anthologies.

Surprise, Surprise

The Heinz company decided to call the series (surprise, surprise!) "Studio 57." It would have been full poetic justice but poor business and impossible arithmetic to show fifty-seven first-runs. In TV, contracts are usually set up on a thirteen-week basis, or multiples thereof.

At the time we talked with Vice-President Mr. George Stern, of Revue, thirty-three of the contracted thirty-nine shows were completed.

Mr. Stern, a candid and outspoken gentleman who, unlike many executives does not hedge on certain "verboten" subjects, brought out some very interesting facts about half-hour shows such as "Studio 57":

The initial cost of producing one program averages around $15,000 to $17,000. It is impossible to make a profit on first-runs. If you can recover thirty or forty per cent of the total cost you are fortunate, and you usually cannot get even until the third run. In brief: the profit on TV films can only be gauged by the number of re-runs.

Saved Movie Industry

Whereas it has been commonly claimed that TV has killed the motion picture industry, actually the reverse is true; it has saved the motion picture business. "I would judge," Mr. Stern commented, "that about fifty per cent of the people who were formerly employed by the movie studios are now working at the same jobs—only they are doing it for filmed television shows.

"For an anthology series, without any doubt, the toughest program to do is a good comedy. It takes too much time to establish the new and different characters and situations in each play.

"There is a definite need for good scripts. Once you have that, and add to it a good cast and direction, then you can make an excellent show. But you need the script first."

Mr. Stern should certainly know what he's talking about. To date, Revue has produced over 600 half-hour programs, about half of which have been anthologies.

Finally, concerning "Studio 57," with a new script and a new cast each week, "57"—in food or TV fanfare—still spells "variety" for the hungry public.

What's Different About TV's "Sherlock Holmes?"

The producers and station KTTV have come up with some new angles for the TV version of the super-sleuth of all time.

▲ ALWAYS WILLING to try some thing new—and also trying to please its audience—KTTV, Channel 11, has a different "Sherlock Holmes" story on the air every night in the week.

▲ DONALD HOWARD as "Sherlock Holmes" and H. Marion Crawford as "Dr. Watson" are offering TV fans a new and fresh interpretation of the famed who-dun-it team. (KTTV photos.)

SOONER OR LATER it had to happen: "Sherlock Holmes" has come to TV!

Ordinarily, except for the die-hard Holmes' fans, this news would cause nothing but a few hohums, goody-goodies, and so-whats.

But leave it to TV—and especially KTTV—to come up with a few new angles.

First, there's the show itself. It was filmed in London and Paris to provide authentic atmosphere. Producer Sheldon Reynolds reasoned that since the background and characterizations were to be European, why shouldn't he go to Europe to film the series? During the past three years, for "Holmes" and other TV programs, he has crossed the Atlantic fifty times.

All of the setting, costumes and props of the Victorian period used at 221b Baker Street in London have been duplicated as accurately as possible.

Comedy Yet

Probably the most astounding aspect of Reynolds' "new" approach to the greatest fictional detective who ever lived is his concept of "Holmes" and his sidekick, "Dr. Watson."

"Sir Conan Doyle, the original author, didn't make Watson a buffoon," Reynolds explains. "Dr. Watson was an intelligent man, and Holmes a brilliant eccentric. They worked as a team. One never would have functioned without the other."

"I portray them that way, and believe it or not, I emphasize the comedy."

After watching a number of these Channel 11 films, the viewer will be amazed at just how much comedy—and very good comedy—Reynolds has included.

The next innovation revolves around the two central characters: Donald Howard as "Sherlock Holmes" and H. Marion Crawford as "Dr. Watson." While retaining much of "Dr. Watson's" humor, Mr. Crawford has a much more honest approach in portraying the role of the indispensable sidekick. He makes mistakes, but he seldom makes a fool of himself.

For many reasons, the toughest job of all was left to Ronald Howard. Ronald is the son of the late and great Leslie Howard. Because he bears such a striking resemblance to his father, Ronald has had a tough time convincing people that he is a fine actor in his own right. "Sherlock" has proven his talent once and for all.

Each Night, New Show

With a subtle sense of humor and a twinkling smile, his performance of "Holmes" has been described as a "clean departure from the saturnine, beady-eyed tradition of William Gillette, John Barrymore, Clive Brooke and Basil Rathbone."

In addition to these things, when KTTV bought the first-run films, they came up with a new night-time idea. Instead of putting on one show each week, station officials decided to try something revolutionary: a new show every single night in the week. The results brought pleasure and profit to both the station and the vast TV audience.

One final point to prove that TV's "Sherlock Holmes" is really different: you can watch every film and wait patiently, but you will never hear those famous but certainly over-used words, "It's elementary, my dear Watson."

Reynolds' reason: the original author, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, never wrote such a line.
