Mildred Younger, KABC's new radio personality, speaks her mind on equality for women.

WHO SAID IT'S A MAN'S WORLD?

By Larry Lichty

MILDRED YOUNGER is a political party's hope, a housewife's inspiration, and a mere male's dream.

Which is reason enough that her radio program is simply billed as "Mildred Younger." Any resemblance, however, between the glamorous political personality of a certain political party who recently came within an ace of being elected to the California legislature as a senator, and the glamorous radio personality now being heard daily over KABC is purely coincidental.

"Mildred Younger" is non-political. Mildred Younger says so. KABC says so. Following no day-by-day format, the program features interviews with community and national leaders, discussion of topical affairs, and answering the letters of listeners who bring their problems to her. A recent interviewee was Mrs. Alice K. Leopold, Assistant Secretary of Labor for Women's Affairs.

Letter response to the program is equally divided between men and women.

Male vs. Female

"I can think of no greater compliment than the fact that both men and women consider me as a person who may be of help to them," Mrs. Younger said. "This confirms my feeling that people should be judged on an individual basis rather than being categorized as a male or female.

"A host of meaningless cliches has been set up as a barrier to women playing an equal role in the world with men. I am not an ax-wielding feminist, but I do believe there should be an equality between men and women—not based on condescending gallantry, but on merit, performance and mutual respect."

Mrs. Younger recounted the tale of an executive (male, of course), who appealed to her to recommend someone to fill an important, high-paying position. Carefully he recited the qualifications the person must have for the position . . . "and, of course," he concluded, "it must be a man."

"To women the irony is perhaps too typical to be amusing," Mrs. Younger said. "Though a woman is asked to choose a person to fill a very responsible position, one of the qualifications for the job was that the chosen individual could not be a woman."

Mrs. Younger observed that for twenty years the California legislature has failed to pass a "fair-payment" law which would insure a woman receiving the same pay as a man, in the same line of work.

Barriers Imposed

"I don't think one can say that women have failed to accept their responsibilities in meeting the complexities of the modern world," Mrs. Younger observed. "Essentially I believe it is their own lack of confidence in their abilities, a frustration that has arisen from barriers imposed against their developing and using their full range of talents.

"Probably the most effective way for a woman to develop confidence in herself, and to develop her consciousness that she can play an important role in the world, is to take an active part in community life. Every community needs volunteers to carry through its many projects. Look about you and you will see many tasks that would benefit your community. Plunge in. Some of them you will find dull and tiresome, but by faithfully following through you will find yourself not only gaining self-confidence, but the horizons of your knowledge of the world about you will be broadened, preparing you for increasingly important posts."

Community Leader

Bearing out this thought, Mrs. Younger, a native Angeleno, was Los Angeles County chairman for the Women's Division for the March of Dimes in 1953, and is the 1955 county chairman for the Sister Kenney Drive. In 1950 she, herself, was a victim of polio and lost one child to the dread disease.

Participation in community affairs began early. Faced with the prospect of being unable to go to college during depression years, she obtained a scholarship to USC where she was active in school events and a campus leader. Thirty-four years old, she is married to Judge Evelle Jansen Younger. The couple has an eleven-year-old son, "Butch."

"For a woman with responsibilities to both home and community, there are two important things—first, (and this is essential to the second point) that she carefully budget her time; and, secondly, that she does not permit her outside activities to penalize her husband, home and family."

Does this work?

Said Judge Younger: "Butch and I don't care what Mildred does — as long as it doesn't show."

And what more could any woman ask for—or man, either?

LIKE MOTHER, LIKE SON — An artist of professional excellence herself, KABC-Radio's Mildred Younger instructs her young son, "Butch," in his work at the easel.

If It Hadn't Happened To Her

Nanette Fabray might not be the top TV star she is today if it hadn't been for these moments that changed her life. She is one of the big attractions now in the super-spectacle, '1976'.

By Jack Holland

NANETTE FABRAY is one of the stars in the NBC special, "1976." She also goes back with Sid Caesar this fall on his show. She would not be on top of the heap now if it hadn't been for a series of fortunate breaks and right decisions.

PAT WEAVER is not only an important executive with NBC but he is also one who likes to let his imagination take over on TV. As such, his recent "Wide, Wide World" was a departure. Now he's going in for the long-range world in "1976," a flight into the future.

Starring are Sid Caesar, Arlene Francis, Wally Cox, and Nanette Fabray. Much has been written about Sid, Arlene, and Wally, but little has been known about Nanette, a young and personable lady who picked Sid Caesar's show out of the doldrums last season and gave it a hefty boost.

Yet, Nanette would not now be in "1976"—nor would she be a top star of screen, stage, and TV—if it hadn't been for some important moments in her life and for some significant decisions.

Lucky Moves

"The biggest decision in my life came after 'Meet the People' closed in New York," Nanette said with a big smile. "I had a choice of going into Danny Kaye's 'Let's Face It' show or of doing the lead in the straight dramatic play, 'Claudia.' The Kaye one sounded more exciting. Somehow the glamour of the musical field impressed me, so I decided to do his show, even though my part wasn't terribly big. I realize now that it was the move which established me in a musical career.

"I'd always liked dancing and singing, although I had done some straight dramatic things with Max Reinhardt. Even as a kid I was dancing. I can remember one time when I was three or four. I was in a dancing contest around Christmas. I was supposed to dance backwards in one part of the dance but as I was doing the step I looked behind me and saw a huge Christmas tree heavy with decorations. I had a choice of doing one of two things—going on with the dance as I had rehearsed it and bumping into the tree or changing the step. I simply went on dancing—right under the tree. And, you know, I won the contest! I also got a week's engagement at the theatre."

Nanette's first big break came in the local engagement of "Meet the People." She had also done a small part in a Bette Davis picture, "Elizabeth and Essex." She took the part in "Meet the People" primarily because she wanted to go to New York and she was assured the show would land there.

"When I finished the Danny Kaye show I had to make another decision," Nanette went on. "I had a chance to take over the lead with Ray Bolger in 'By Jupiter' but at a salary less than I had been earning. I couldn't make up my mind but I decided to do the audition anyway, for Richard Rodgers. It was the first one I had ever done. He told me to sing something, and my mind went blank for several moments. Finally, I thought of one number, sang it in about four different keys, and when I finished Dick Rodgers told me it was the worst audition he had ever heard. He added further, 'If I hadn't seen you work on the stage before I'd never give you a second thought. As it is, you have the part if you want it.' So my mind was made up for me about the show—but it was a bigger opportunity than I realized."

There was another show Nanette wanted to do later on Broadway. And here was a lucky break.

The show was "Bonanza Bound." At the same time she was offered one of two parts in "High Button Shoes," the mother or the daughter. She held off making any decision for a while, hoping to get the part in "Bonanza Bound." Another girl finally got the role. Nanette still hoped she'd get in the show, though. Figuring that the other girl might not work out she agreed to do the mother role in "High Button Shoes" because it had two good songs—but only on a two weeks' contract. This, she thought, would enable her to step into the other show should she get a later chance. Well, "Bonanza Bound" was a huge flop and "High Button Shoes" was a hit.

WHEN NANETTE JOINED SID CAESAR the comedian's show got some new life. She sparked the proceedings so much that she has become a regular fixture. Nanette and Sid seem to be the perfect combination—so the public thinks.

It also taught her she could do stylized comedy.

Things went pretty smoothly then. Hit after hit came in New York and then she was signed to a five-year contract at MGM. However, when the studios began cutting down she was the first to go since she had made only one picture and was making a terrific salary. After that she tried night clubs—unsuccessfully, as she says. "But I'll lick it yet," Nanette assured me.

"I finally decided to try TV," Nanette commented. "I had done a few guest shots—and they are the hardest thing to do in show business. I'd never done anything like it before. I was supposed to do a Max Liebman spectacular but it was postponed, and that was where the break came. I was in California at the time and had been set for another spot, but I didn't want to go back for just one show. Since the Liebman show was delayed I asked my agent to get me another spot. He did—with Sid Caesar. I did one show with him and he asked me to do another—and then six more. Max Liebman was kind enough to let me out of my commitment to him to enable me to do the things with Sid. I stayed with Sid and will be with him again this year.

"Working with him has been a real joy. If he and I didn't have such a good time together we couldn't work under the kind of pressure we have. We work seven days a week—and hard. But this show has been a real thrill. It has brought into focus all the things I have learned about show business.

"I'm just glad my decisions and my breaks turned out so well. Believe me, nobody has ever had it so good."

A DRAMATIC MOMENT from Rex Harrison's new picture, "The Constant Husband," which gets a TV release before it hits the movie theatres.

TELEVISION FIRST

THE ENGLISH motion picture industry has always been rather free in giving its movies to TV, but it certainly pulled a real scoop when it decided to release "The Constant Husband," starring Rex Harrison, Margaret Leighton, and Kay Kendall, before it went into first-run theaters.

This Frank Launder-Sidney Gilliat production is a sophisticated comedy done as only the English can do them.

Rex Harrison

Rex Harrison is one of the most accomplished actors around. He entered pictures in 1937 in "Men Are Not Gods." In 1942 he joined the R.A.F., but he had already piled up some notable movie credits, among them "Storm in a Teacup," "School for Husbands," "The Citadel," "Major Barbara," and others. He left the Air Force in 1944 and with his wife, Lilli Palmer, went on to become one of the most in-demand actors in England and America. He achieved wide recognition for his performance here in "Anna and the King of Siam." He and his wife have made several TV appearances in America.

The release of "The Constant Husband" to TV first, does not necessarily mean that this will be a regular procedure from here on in. In fact, no other similar move is even being contemplated. But certainly "The Constant Husband" must stand as an answer to all those who have bemoaned the current crop of old, old, old movies on TV.

Significantly, no American motion picture studio has decided to make such a gesture. But you can be sure our companies will be watching the grosses of "The Constant Husband" when it hits the theaters. This could be the beginning of something quite provocative!

Have Educators Caught Up With TV?

By Bill Weber

EDUCATIONAL television isn't a thing of the future — it's here," said Mrs. Florence Thalheimer, producer-moderator of "Families Are First," seen on KCOP, Channel 13.

"It's simply a question of educating the educators as to what may be done. Aside from programs specially prepared for instruction as in the case of the remarkable Dr. Baxter and other programs, many general programs today are instruments of learning which require only imaginative techniques on the part of teachers. Many great works of literature are being presented with outstanding casts, productions which many areas have never before had the opportunity of seeing.

Lesson from a Queen

"Consider, for example, how an instructor—teaching any age group—could utilize the coronation of Queen Elizabeth as seen on television, a slice of living history with significance reaching from the earliest days of England to modern times. What text or lecture can surpass witnessing history as it actually takes place?"

Mrs. Thalheimer speaks from a wide background both in radio-television communication and education. A member of the Beverly Hills Board of Education for several years, this year she heads the group. Named Educational Director of KTHE, the short-lived G. Allen Hancock-USC educational television station, she served in that capacity until the station shut down. She is chairman of the California Committee for the National Audience Board.

Originates Programs

During her stay at KTHE, Mrs. Thalheimer originated three programs: "Backyard Science," a program for youngsters featuring easily accessible scientific phenomena such as might be found in the backyard of any home; "French Is Fun," followed by other language programs, using the same technique; and a third program which, in collaboration with the Los Angeles city school system, was to present a comprehensive science program for use in classrooms. Unfortunately, due to curtailment of the station's activities, this program never hit the air waves.

"Psychologists have shown us that a person learns only when he is interested," Mrs. Thalheimer pointed out. "What more effective means of stimulating interest can be found than by use of television? It permits us to remove the four walls of the classroom and eliminate the purely academic approach by showing the practical functionalism of the subject in actual operation. Although television should not be thought of as eliminating the textbook, it is well to remember that a major portion of learning comes through observation as well as reading and doing.

Industry Points Way

"It is interesting to note how quickly industry and business have seen the possibilities of television for instructional purposes. One firm recently reached 3,000 distributors and dealers in eighteen cities across the country through a one-hour teleshow via closed-circuit TV. It is a bit ironic that the businessman is pointing the way to the educator in the practical use of special programs for communication of learning."

"Families Are First," Mrs. Thalheimer's present TV show, covers a wide range of problems and issues affecting the modern family. Discussions, led by Mrs. Thalheimer as moderator, include teen-age problems resolutely handled by a teen-age panel, and prominent guests from all walks of life.

Mrs. Thalheimer is currently trying out a music appreciation program for youngsters designed to bring them classics in simple terms which they can understand . . . "so they can learn that music is to be enjoyed rather than dreaded."

"In an informal sense television is already a tremendous medium of education," Mrs. Thalheimer observed. "Whether it achieves the as yet untouched possibilities through programs specially designed to communicate learning is for the professional educator to determine. To achieve this ultimate goal will require an understanding of the medium, imagination and hard work—lots of it."

Plus individuals with the vision, creative ideas and enthusiasm of Mrs. Thalheimer.

MRS. FLORENCE THALHEIMER, right, hosts actress Joan Leslie and Dan Gann of St. Ann's Foundation, a Southern California charitable organization, on her program "Families Are First," seen three times a week over KCOP.

Show Biz Splash

Four years ago Abel Green and the late Joe Laurie, Jr. wrote an encyclopedia of entertainment and appropriately tabbed it Show Biz. Little did they think then that their tome would be the subject of an NBC color spectacular.

On October 9, NBC presents a 90-minute extravaganza pegged on the engrossing book. The redoubtable wit, Groucho Marx, whose own career in show business goes back a half century, will preside as Grand Marshal over the highlights of 55 years of theater in "Show Biz, from Vaude to Video."

Groucho will have more lines in this production than at any time since he quit motion pictures. He will also have several costume changes. It'll be a Groucho that hasn't been seen since the early 30s.

The mustached Grand Marshal will lead the way for Rosemary Clooney, Dennis Day, Paul Gilbert, Phil Harris, Eartha Kitt, Beatrice Kay, Buster Keaton, Bert Lahr and little Melinda Marx (his daughter) as they trace this history of show business in song, dance and skit. Shirley McLaine, in the original lineup, had to bow out of the production because of a movie commitment. Eartha Kitt will do her dance numbers. . . . the Charleston and Black Bottom. This is the first time Miss Kitt will dance on television, though she is a former member of the Katherine Dunham Dancers.

Show Biz is being staged and produced by Ernest D. Glucksman, a veteran of the entertainment world for more than 40 years. Ernie has studied the 613-page book until he practically knows it by heart. But much of it was familiar to him because of his background.

Summing up the forthcoming production Ernie said: "All the important milestones will be underscored for the more perceptive students of the theater, but no entertainment values will be sacrificed. If any one area of show business will be underscored it will be that of comedy."

Second Glances (Critical Comment)

Caesar's Hour

KRCA
8 p.m., Monday

Once upon a time there was a big TV show called Show of Shows. It starred two people who are rather well known—Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca. We don't know where Imogene is but Sid is back again with Caesar's Hour.

Sid had a good deal of trouble getting this show off the ground last year and then Nanette Fabray came along to help things considerably. This year she is lending a noble and personable assist, but, based on the opener, it's going to be a long climb.

What Sid hasn't seemed to realize is that the skits that once were amusing on Show of Shows are no longer so amusing. Each of the acts fell short. The take-off on the gangster movie was much too long, it was repetitious, and it just never got anywhere. The opener dealing with the new rug was funny for a few minutes and then was simply painful. The payoff was nothing.

One of the most embarrassing moments of the show was the dance routine staged as an accompaniment to a piano solo. Not only were the routines completely unimaginative and prosaic—they didn't even go with the music. And the pianist obviously believed that the louder he played the better he sounded. 'Twasn't so.

Sid is a very clever comedian, Nanette is wonderfully talented, so it's a shame that his first Caesar's Hour must draw a "No, thanks." Maybe it'll pick up later on. J.H.

Medical Horizons

KABC-TV
9:30 p.m., Monday

Medical Horizons can only be classified as public service. It is not entertainment.

A recent show dealt with tests made on three young children to determine the rate of their dependency or independence. With an authorized doctor on hand to explain the various tests, there were moments of interest, but, on the whole, it was, at least to the casual observer, pretty dull. There was little or no attempt at production. The first little girl, for example, who was working with model figures, was completely unintelligible as she explained her actions. One hadn't the vaguest idea what she was talking about.

A show like Medical Horizons can attract considerable interest, but not in its present format. Any show to educate must first of all be entertaining enough to hold a viewer. You cannot be so clinical that audiences tune you out, because then there is no chance even to inform.

Medical Horizons has a good idea. All it needs is someone behind it with production know-how. As it stands, it is ponderous, tiresome, and uninteresting. J.H.

Garland Follow-up

CBS's Ted Wick sent a recording of what these TV editors had to say about Judy's show and the glowing reports perked up the tired performer. Rumor has it that Judy may now do a Shower of Stars after the first of the year.

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

Four, count 'em, four first run movies to report on this week and every one of them cost more to produce than any spectacular yet shown on TV. Which means, of course, that . . . well . . . that quality isn't everything.

"Hitchhiker." (13) Oct. 11, 8:30. This is a tightly-knit, suspenseful movie about a hitchhiker, William Talmán, who terrorizes two vacationing fishermen, Edmond O'Brien and Frank Lovejoy into helping him elude the police, who are on his trail for a series of wanton killings. The three evade the road blocks and finally arrive in Lower California where alert team work by the U. S. and Mexican police brings the murderer to justice, but not before the characters of the men have been brought into focus by the pressures of danger. O'Brien cracks under the strain, while Lovejoy rises to the situation with a courage that matches the hate of the kidnaper, a psychotic who hates the world and cares not for his actions or their consequences. All three actors contribute nicely controlled performances to this 1953 Filmmakers production, which was ably directed by Ida Lupino and was based on the Cook case, an actual parallel of several years ago.

"Island Rescue." (7) Oct. 9, 7:30. A rather precious premise sets this 1952 release off on a promising farcical trip, but before long the picture decides for some reason to treat everything quite seriously and thus loses whatever note of humor it may have established in the beginning. The Nazis occupy the channel island of Amorel during World War II and while the British foreign office is concerned for the human inhabitants, it evidences much more worry over the fate of a rare pure bred cow and sends Major David Niven and island girl Glynis Johns to effect a rescue. There are many complications, including that of the cow's impending motherhood, before success crowns the Empire's efforts.

"Caught." (9) Beginning Oct. 11, 9:00. Robert Ryan is a neurotic multi-millionaire who marries plain, simple Barbara Bel Geddes because his psychiatrist tells him he's not in love with her. Confused? So's the picture. Barbara sticks it for a year and then takes off, gets a job as receptionist for Dr. James Mason and falls in love. She discovers that she is going to have Ryan's baby and goes back to him, but Ryan has a heart attack and the baby is stillborn, which leaves Barbara free of Ryan's hold and able to pursue further her feeling for Mason. Mason gives an unimportant performance in his first U. S. picture, made in 1949, while Barbara suffers nobly.

"The Secret People." (5) Oct. 9, 7:30. If you think this last one was confusing . . . Two sisters, Audrey Hepburn (no kin to Katharine) and Valentina Cortesa escape to London from an unidentified country in 1930. After seven years they are naturalized citizens and then Valentina meets an old beau who involves her in the machinations of the "Organization," as it is called throughout, although not otherwise identified, and she is duped into taking a bomb to a ball being given for a visiting dictator. The thing kills a servant, instead, and Valentina is appalled. She goes to Scotland Yard and is furnished with a new identity in order to escape the organization, which has somehow become the villain of the piece, but is finally forced to reveal herself in order to save her sister and is killed and the picture was released in 1952 and the people responsible shall remain unidentified.

"Men Are Not Gods." (7) Oct. 8, 1:45. Who says?

GEORGE AND GRACIE INTRODUCED son Ronnie to press people with a beautiful dinner party in the Persian Room at the Beverly Hills. When Ronnie came to sit next to me during dinner I had a chance to be quite won over by this realistic, poised and gracious young man. He's landed a steady part on his parents' TV show, where his real talent was demonstrated in the episode screened for the guests. Ronnie's not a greenhorn in showbiz. Naturally he has absorbed the traditions and know-how at home. But he has also worked as cutter on the Burns and Allen TVer for three years and has had brief schooling at Pasadena Playhouse. Twenty-year-old Ronnie likes to paint and loves to skin dive.

"ISN'T IT DANGEROUS?" I asked. "Not if you know what you're doing," he replied. "I took a regular course so I'd know." George and Gracie's obvious pride in their boy is merited. When George came past our table to ask how Ronnie was doing, he gave the young man a gentle clap on the shoulder and a fond chuck under the chin. This party, plus George's This Is Your Life, made last week a big one for the Burns household.

LUCY AND DESI HOSTED A PARTY, too, where two of their shows from the new series were screened. This season they'll be up to their same old tricks with Fred and Ethel—only more hectic and hilarious, judging from the preview. John Wayne, the Arnazes' guest star, drew quite a bunch of autograph hounds at the stage entrance to the Desilu gathering.

AT THE LUNCHEON FOR PEGGY WOOD, star of I Remember Mama, two of the guests were a CBS-TV janitor, Godik Jensen, and his wife, who came to this country from Denmark last Christmas. Jensen was asked because he had found Miss Wood's treasured St. Olaf's medal after she had lost it at the Judy Garland show. It was on the floor of the studio which had already had two going-overs before Jensen came along.

I CAN'T GET OVER THE NETWORK press release which came out Wednesday afternoon with full details of George Burns' life to be done that evening on TV. Isn't the identity of the subject supposed to be a secret any more?

NBC IS STILL KEEPING MUM about its give-away to end all, The Big Surprise. Don't they know what it's going to be or are they afraid to expose their ideas to eager brain-pickers?

THAT WAS QUITE AN ELABORATE apology delivered to Godfrey by Perry Como for the remarks made on Como's opening show. Perry blamed the whole thing on first-night jitters.

CBS ISN'T PUBLICIZING IT, but Lola Albright in the first Bob Cummings show is really Mrs. Jack Carson. . . . Chucko, The Clown, visited TV-Radio Life's office and had everybody agog when he made all kinds of animals from colorful balloons. He was letting us know about his new cartoon series on KABC-TV.

LEO DUROCHER, LEAVING N.Y. baseball, will be tied to NBC Hollywood in a talent and public relations berth. . . . But Elroy Hirsch, all set to forsake football and carry the ball on TV, has reversed his decision, so his KABC-TVer is scratched. . . . Guess I'm one of the few who didn't go overboard for the first Frontier show. I wish the pilot film on Omaha's founding had been used, instead, for I think it typifies more accurately what the series is about. . . . If Eddie and Debbie had gotten married this time last year, people would have cared much more than they did. Now most everybody is glad it's been decided one way or another. . . . A reliable source tells me that Jeff Donnell will be back as Alice on George Gobel's show.

REASON YOU SAW A RERUN on Danny Thomas' show last week was because the scheduled film's entire theme was based on a visit to a TV-radio press dinner at the White House. Out of deference to President Eisenhower's illness, the substitution was made. However, the only gag in the original show about the President was Danny's reference to their being no advancement from the job of President.

Fabulous Forty

KTLA has acquired television rights to a group of forty top films which will be shown to Southern California TV viewers for the first time. Some of the features are still playing in movie houses around the country. Among the titles of the films to be shown on Sundays at 7:30 are: Tales of Hoffmann, The Thief, Tony Draws a Horse, The Secret People, Captain's Paradise and Breaking the Sound Barrier.

Channel 5 is slotting this new film package opposite KABC-TV's Famous Film Festival. Anyone for a movie?

Horse Story

My Friend Flicka, a horse saga, was yanked off the videolanes before its much heralded debut and Adventures of Champion was slotted in its time spot. CBS reports that sustainer Flicka was pulled because there were only five shows "in the can."

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

Now that all the after-show talk has died down about the Judy Garland production for Ford Star Jubilee, a couple of things are apparent. It was obvious from the start that Judy was having a hard time getting those Garland tones out. That her voice was not up to par was common talk. The reasons for the condition were naturally being discussed, and some were as wild as they were ridiculous. Laryngitis and a cold were the causes. For the most part, this was a good show, even though it was much too long. David Wayne was a stand-out as the emcee and his routine with Judy in the clown number was great. The Goofers were very amusing, and as for the star herself she showed what a fine showman she is. How she ever got through "Over The Rainbow" is a miracle. Everyone thought she'd not be able to finish it, and yet her innate sense of showmanship carried her over a tough hurdle.

To me, the disturbing thing about reaction to Judy's work was the almost frantic desire on the part of some to rip her and her job to shreds. They seized on every little mistake and gleefully built it up as if to prove that Judy was kaput. Why there is this type of human nature only a psychologist can answer. But it does seem that the higher up a person goes the more anxious some are to knock her down. Well, it will take a lot to count Judy out. She may not have used her God-given gift properly in the past, she may have not taken care of herself, she may have led a confused life, but she certainly proved on this show why she has been called a star. The lady had courage that night—and plenty of it. The kind of courage that her would-be detractors could never match. It is to be hoped that Judy will see to it that her talent is given better care.

Saw the Milton Berle-Esther Williams show on a color set at NBC and thought it was a fine production, with the possible exception of a rather anemic take-off on The $64,000 Question. Miltie seemed more relaxed than he had in some time and his buffoonery in the satire on the picture, "Summertime," was a howl. Esther was also very funny in the same skit. She handled comedy with such ease that it was the topic of conversation after the show. Miltie's opening patter was completely lost to the studio audience the best Berle style. However, those who did hear him said he was back in the Best Berle style. However, those who saw it in black and white at home reacted differently to the show. Complaints were particularly loud that you couldn't see Esther in her swimming scene, that the whole production was lost. This was a charming highlight on color. All I can report on is what I saw—and I liked what I saw. But if the black and white offering was less than satisfactory, it merely points up again that more care must be exercised to be sure that home viewers get at least a reasonable facsimile of a color job. With more and more important productions being done on colorvision, the vast majority of audiences are getting a short shrift.

From the Mail Bag: In answer to the Bill Ballance item here a few weeks ago, Mollie Gibbons writes: "On one radio show he said 'I awakened to the sound of a bell this morning and who do you suppose it was? It was Amelia Earhart and she said, 'Where is everybody?' Such remarks are bad taste in any language. In the same talk he said, 'Of course you know that Gypsy Rose Lee is Estes Kefauver's mother.' I do not happen to be a Democrat as far as political affiliation is concerned, but I think you'll agree that Mr. Kefauver has a tremendous sense of dignity. And the continuous use of 'grimfackle' in all of his (Bill's) writings and talks is getting pretty monotonous."

(I still think Bill, who is a highly intelligent man and a rather deep thinker, would be fine with a more serious kind of show. And he'll hate me for saying that.)

One of the most delightful evenings you could want to spend anywhere is offered at the Carthay Circle Theatre where "The Tender Trap" is playing.

Label Talk

By TERREA LEA

Folks, did you know that Christmas is just around the corner? Well it is. There are only 73 shopping days until Christmas . . . but . . . there are 86 saving days left. By "saving days" I mean to save labels of course.

What better way for you to shop for friends and family than at Label Bank with L/B Premium Points you've received in return for grocery labels. Labels such as Rain Drops Water Softener, Sioux Bee Honey, Orabella Olive Oil, Reddy Fruit Pie Filling, Walker's Austex Chili Products, and Tropical Jams and Jellies . . . plus 30 others, 400 items in all.

You can really stretch that Christmas budget by shopping at Label Bank for some of those gifts. There are over 300 Nationally Advertised Premiums to choose from. Toys, sporting goods, luggage, cameras, silver, linens, radios, electrical appliances . . . golly, I could fill a whole column with premiums you can have in return from grocery labels. But better than just reading a list . . . send for a Label Bank premium catalogue that shows pictures of the premiums, gives a list of products and complete information. Send your name and address to Label Bank, Dept. TVRL, 727 No. La Brea, Hollywood 38, Calif. A free catalogue will be sent to you.

I hope you'll come to the Grower's Ranch Market Oct. 15 at 2:00 in the afternoon. It is located at 436 So. Atlantic in East Los Angeles. I'll be there to award those 50 giant bags of Label Bank Products, a Motorola Portable Radio, and a Westinghouse Laundromat. When we were at Arvo's Market a couple of weeks ago Gloria Torres of 10709 Everest, Norwalk, won the radio and Mrs. M. E. Dent of 133 E. 16th St., Costa Mesa, won the Laundromat.

About all for this time . . . except another reminder for you to join Label Bank and turn those labels into something of value. More Label Talk next week. Until then . . . bye for now.

THE PUBLIC AREN'T DOPES

Chester Erskine, producer of TV Reader's Digest, refuses to believe in the old-age story that the average public has a twelve year old mind

"Anybody who tries to sell the public the mediocre and who underestimates the mentality of the average viewer is only cutting his own throat."

So spoke Chester Erskine, mild-mannered man who is at the producing helm of KABC-TV's TV Reader's Digest show.

This series, based on articles in the popular national magazine, covers all possible subjects. For example, one show dealt with the story of a boy of thirteen who found himself the head of the family of six children when his father and mother died during the early stages of the long trek to the West by covered wagon. Another story presented the amazing case of "The Brainwashing of John Hayes." The emphasis in the program has been on variety, subjects of general interest, and especially on stories that impart information and, if you'll pardon the expression, education.

Education

"Producers say audiences don't want to be educated," Erskine continued, "but they just don't know the people. The only twelve-year-old mind I ever met belonged to a producer. I think I have a pretty good idea of how alert audiences are to the better types of shows, how advanced are their interests. Our company asked viewers to send in suggestions for shows based on articles they may have liked in Reader's Digest. You'd be enlightened to see how erudite and informed are these suggestions. You can't look down your noses at the public.

"We try to educate while we entertain—but that doesn't mean we go entirely high brow. We hit a happy medium, we hope, between the high brow and the low brow. But our shows always say something that will be of value to almost everyone. We have found that the large part of the public likes to be instructed. They have a desire to learn. One thing is certain—the public is certainly getting more and more mature and sophisticated.

"I feel a great responsibility towards that public in doing the series. TV, unlike motion pictures with which I have also been associated, has a personal approach in that it comes right into the living room and is part of the family. I don't want any of our viewers to see a show we do and feel that they have wasted a half an hour."

TV Reader's Digest is one of the most expensive shows around, largely because it takes on subjects that demand intricate production. Meeting the budget is more than a headache to Chester Erskine—it's almost an impossibility.

Another problem is reading all the necessary material to find the right subjects. He has read every story in the magazine for the past twenty years, however, so he has a good background. He gets advance copies of the Digest and now writers who are working on stories for the book often send him copies of their original stories at the same time that they send them to the magazine.

Sold the Idea

"It took some persuasion and salesmanship to get an okay from the magazine to do these stories on TV," Erskine said. "They had been approached before but I stressed the kind of a job I hoped to do instead of how much money I could make for myself and them. They seemed to appreciate this viewpoint.

"At any rate, the magazine and I have both found that the public wants the best and the most intelligent. It's just that they've been having a hard time getting it."

Mr. & Mrs. Thomas Proctor, St. Louis, Mo.

There's a lot of controversy about quantity and quality of commercials. I'm happy to tell you we heard a program Saturday night that had the absolute perfect balance between program and commercial. We're told that program has been on with the same sponsor for two years, so it must pay. It was the Cart Johnson program (live) on Radio KXLA, Saturday nights, 9:15-9:30. Such sponsors should be commended.

Miss Joanne Hilek, Mar Vista

Whoever said that Jimmie Fidler was trying to be another George Putnam was nuts. They are two entirely different types of newscasters.

Mr. Putnam, whom I watch every night at 11, broadcasts news events, sports, etc., and it has always seemed to me that Mr. Jimmie Fidler was a "Hollywood" reporter. I watch him also, and he never mentions news events, except those concerning Hollywood movie stars. So the person who wrote "that" letter better know what she is talking about, before she starts shooting her mouth off.

By the way, what Mr. Fidler had to say about the wonderful talents of Miss Carmen Miranda and Miss Susan Ball, was very nice. We should have more reporters on TV just like him.

ROSEMEAD HIGH TO APPEAR ON CAMPUS CLUB

The Panthers of Rosemead High School are scheduled to appear on Campus Club on Tuesday, September 27. Taking their appearance last year as a barometer, we may expect to see some of the outstanding musical and vocal groups in Southern California going through their talented paces during this return appearance. Because they will be seen after this issue of the News goes to press, a review of the show will follow in the next issue.

All students in Southern California high schools, junior colleges, and universities are cordially invited to drop into the Club House on any Friday afternoon, starting at 4:30 p.m., to meet 'n' mix and generally have a good time. There will be dance sessions, games and prizes, so practically everybody has a good chance of going home with a fist full of loot. It's wide open and it's all for you—so come on down. The address is 1313 No. Vine Street, in the heart of Hollywood. Doors open at 4:15 p.m.

The Rams of Temple City Union High School stormed into the studios of KHJ-TV last Monday and put on one of the finest Campus Club shows ever seen, as they kicked off the 1955-56 Fall season.

Complete with a 25-piece marching band and a full complement of over 300 members of the student body, these enthusiastic youngsters took over the entire hour without once letting the fast opening pace slacken. This is a remarkable performance especially in view of the fact that all details were handled by the students themselves, according to Mr. North, principal of Temple High.

Brooke Holmes, student body president, pointed out in an interview with Gene Norman that Temple City was in its first year as a senior high school and had 800 students enrolled. It was pointed out that while they had lost their first practice football game, there wasn't much doubt but what the Rams would be able to defeat Arcadia High School when they meet on Saturday, October 1st.

Decathlon winners Julie Hein and Bob Beachboard racked up an impressive 37½ points to emerge as the winners for the day and Julie and Bob automatically became eligible to represent Temple City High in the run-offs to come at the end of October.

A special word of thanks goes out to Carol Spell from Campus Club for handling all the details of Temple City's appearance. The Temple Belles, Francey Gaspey—in fact, everybody on the show was in great shape.

It looks like the Rio Hondo League had better mend their fences in a hurry—they've got a tough young Ram in the pasture who might tear things up this year. Go, you Rams, GO!

Radio had one of its biggest nights this year during the recent Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore world's heavy-weight championship fight when radio carried the blow by blow account but television was barred to home-viewers.

Only fight fans here who were lucky enough to get seats in 17 south-land theaters, where the fight was shown by a closed circuit arrangement, saw Rocky knock out Moore to retain the crown. Theaters were sold out days before the telecast. Some downtown theaters had hundreds of persons milling around hoping to get seats.

Minute before the fight started the disappointed fans hustled to the nearest bar or rushed to their cars to hear the fight on radio.

Arm chair sport fans, too, who had been watching the Pabst Blue Ribbon Thursday night fight on TV minutes earlier shut off television and clicked on their radios for the championship tussle.

Radio had its big night, and Southern California sports fans were glad that their radios were kept close at hand. Through radio they got the thrill of the announcer describing the knock-downs and even though they didn't see the blows, they could use their imaginations.

CAREERS THROUGH MATH and SCIENCE

Parents... do you want to help your children choose their careers wisely? Then encourage them to take enough math and science in high school to qualify for any college courses.

Most professions now require training in these subjects. To work toward a career as an engineer or scientist a good preparation in math and science is essential.

Remember—America needs engineers now and will for years to come.

MONDAY PRECASTS

Who's Guesting

"VOICE OF FIRESTONE," KABC, 8:30 p.m. Mildred Miller, Metropolitan Opera mezza-soprano is guest. Her selections include "Habanera" and "Gypsy Song" from "Carmen," "Alice Blue Gown" and "I'll Take Romance."

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

Mrs. J. Jackson, Redlands

In our opinion Disneyland reeks so of commercialism, it has no atmosphere whatsoever. Like the movies it portrays, there is no realism—gaudy tinsel only—we were sadly disappointed. The prices are much too high. If we were getting value, it wouldn't matter, but we didn't. Drive right on by to the Berry Farm, folks. That's one place that seems to be more enjoyable each time you visit it.

Janet Beery, Los Angeles

Our family enjoys the Gas Company's Evening Concert so much! What a fine announcer Mr. Cassidy is! We saw him announce at the Hollywood Bowl recently and want to say how nice it was, after listening to his program for so many years. He has such a wonderful personality and speaking voice. Wish we could see him on television. He certainly adds dignity and quality to any program.

Looks like someone is missing a bet by not landing him for a mood musical show on TV.

Wanda and Low Sands, Gardena

We read about Ralph Portner with great satisfaction in TV-Radio Life. He deserved some commendation and through your efforts, he has received it. We thank you for your nice mention and a swell magazine.

Mrs. R. Kruggel, Ontario

Gee! I must be awfully dumb! Here I've been humming and singing all these cute songs like—"Tree Top Tall" and "Teach Me Tonight" and thought they were perfectly respectable songs. In fact, nothing ever sounded vulgar at all to me in the lyrics. Guess it's all the way you look at it. Or perhaps it's like my grandmother always said about "trouble." If you go looking for it, you'll find it all right. Anyway, Bob Crosby uses them on his programs. He's a good judge of songs and I don't think he'd allow anything to be used on that program of his that wasn't above reproach. I think he's tops. And that Jack Narz!! Isn't he wonderful?

Russell and Betty Ely, Compton

Thanks a million, for the well written article on Ralph Portner, the Welk radio announcer. It was so aptly publicized, the "unsung hero" of the Welk organization. Ralph is a grand fellow and SO deserving of your commendation. His mind moves like a jet, and there seems to be no end to his ingenuity.

Many people at the Aragon approached Ralph Portner and remarked about your publicity and he was almost humble in his appreciation of your kindness and their remarks.

C. York, Glendale

In reference to a recent letter in TV-Radio Life, I wish to make these comments. Songs such as "Teach Me Tonight" may be termed as "smutty" by the person who likes to think of them as being such, and who won't or can't look at them any other way. In other words, it is the person who thinks of the songs as being dirty or smutty, and not the song itself. (There are a few exceptions on popular songs.) If you want to pick a song apart, even songs such as "Dance with Me, Henry" and "Melody of Love" can be made smutty.

The spotlight at KHJ has swung from baseball to football . . . what with Don Lee broadcasting Pacific Coast Conference games as well as the thrilling schedule of the Los Angeles Rams. And, we get the San Francisco 49'er games locally, when they play at a different time or day than Sid Gillman's crew.

I'm working with Bob Kelley on the Rams' games, and it appears we're going to have some pleasant things to talk about this season, if that 49'er game is a harbinger of what will come.

Many fans have asked me which sport I'd rather broadcast on KHJ-TV and Don Lee . . . baseball or football. Frankly, I can't choose between the two. Baseball is, obviously, the more sustained due to the number of games. And, you have more time to fill with background and color on baseball, because of the nature of the game. Although there are actually only 12 to 13 minutes of action in a football game, there is something going on virtually all of the time . . . which lends itself to comment.

It takes approximately the same number of hours to prepare for each . . . if you break down the total hours spent compiling baseball averages . . . and compare this with the work spent in getting ready for a football broadcast.

Most of us use spotting boards to call a football game, with the number and name of each player set down in the proper position on our boards. I usually include the height, weight, and number of years in pro ball in my player square. This means that at a glance I have a fairly complete background on the player . . . for I include his college, as well.

Imagine filling in some 50 squares for each team on each game . . . and you can visualize how much time is required to do the job. The offensive players are printed in black . . . the defensive unit in red. This is done so that when calling a game my eye will focus immediately on the black when I'm looking for an offensive player . . . and on red when I want the name of the tackler or player who made an interception.

Once these boards are completed, the concentration starts. I would estimate two days are needed to completely associate numbers with players so that they're more rapidly recognized during the game. Then, too, it's desirable to associate players with their positions, so that you're familiar with where they should be on each play.

The most harried moments for me are on the day of a game. It's necessary to check with both coaches for last minute changes, prompted by injuries or other physical ailments, such as headaches, colds, charley horses, etc. This will not change the number or position . . . but will mean that if you have one player spotted as first string tackle, and he comes up lame, another will have to be moved into that spot. Another player, for some reason, might be listed only as offense material on Wednesday, but on Sunday the coach might warn that he'll go both ways. This means his name must be spotted in the defensive position he will play.

I normally take about 15 minutes after going to the broadcasting booth to re-check the numbers and players . . . saying them over to my spotters, so that the three of us are as thoroughly familiar with them as possible.

A spotter covers one team on both offense and defense and believe me the spotters are indispensable. . . . even though a sportscaster might be completely familiar with all players . . . they point up good blocks . . . as well as other phases of the game. Many times they'll spot things we cannot see, for we have to stay with the ball . . . whether it be carried or thrown.

I don't mean to sound like broadcasting sports is a chore. To me, when working on KHJ-TV with the Angel telecasts or Don Lee-KHJ on the Rams' games, is a pleasant way to spend an afternoon or evening. I merely meant to point out a bit of the before-game preparations necessary to a good broadcast. This part could be called a chore.

The fun really starts when the game begins . . . for I'm a fan, just like you. When the pitcher throws the opening pitch or a player moves forward to kick-off . . . I really live it up.

And, the best part of all this is that I get paid for having this fun.

➡ THE PCL season is over. Here we have Hollywood announcer Fred Hessler reviewing the season with Hollywood manager Bobby Bragan, as well as chatting about the World Series.

➡ DURING THE PAST SEASON, Fred worked out regularly with the Hollywood Star ball players. He's crossing bats with Dick Shad as Irv Kaze watches and shouts, "It'll never work."

➡ RECOGNIZE THIS FELLOW? No it's not a pitcher warming up for the World Series. It's KHJ TV's sportscaster Fred Hessler getting his regular Sunday morning workout at Gilmore Field.

AROUND THE SPORTS CIRCLE WITH FRED HESSLER

➡ THIS PAST SEASON was the first time Fred Hessler was given a top TV assignment in calling the play-by-play of the Hollywood games. Judging from the general excellence of his work, and judging from the fans' reactions, it won't be the last time TV fans will hear him yell: "It's a hit!"

DISNEY BUILDS A New Mouse

Walt Disney's new show, The Mickey Mouse Club, is almost certain to create as much excitement as Disneyland. It's another ambitious undertaking for this man of imagination

By Jack Holland

YOU CAN START feeling sorry right now for any TV programs that are on between five and six Mondays through Fridays. Walt Disney is taking over that spot with his Mickey Mouse Club—on KABC—and that means another TV smash as only Disney can smash 'em. His competition will be mowed down for sure. Walt is an amazing person. He always seems to have something new and different up his sleeve, and certainly his Mickey Mouse Club is going to be not only different but a real break for kids who have long since tired of things like phony space heroes, gallopin' western heroes, and so-called comics for children.

Four Parts

The show is in four separate fifteen minute segments. Only two are regulars, The Mouseketeers and Mickey Mouse Newsreel.

The Mouseketeers is made up of three kids' teams—the red, white, and blue. The red team has eleven youngsters and the white and blue have six each. The stars of the series are Jimmy Dodd and Roy Williams, who are adults. Roy, incidentally, had been a cartoonist at Disney's for years. One day Disney walked up to him and said, "Roy, do you want to be an actor?" The startled 300 pound fellow did a double take and said, "After all these years as a cartoonist?" And then he said, "Sure." Jimmy Dodd has been an established actor for some time.

The Mouseketeers segment features production numbers for the most part. There are song and dance skits—in short, a juvenile variety show. It also emphasizes new talent as a showcase at times.

The Mickey Mouse Newsreel is a regular newsreel along the lines of newsreels for adults, but only subjects of interest to children are shown. Camera teams are now all over the world filming various subjects. For example, one film was shot in West Berlin showing Berlin policemen teaching kids how to drive on a model freeway. The freeway is quite similar to Disney's Autopia at Disneyland Park except that it is much smaller than Walt's creation. Another newsreel featured the capture of a hippopotamus.

A third segment deals with careers children would like when they grow up. It's done in an eight part series and will run eight days straight. The stars are Alvy Moore, prominent motion picture comedian, and youngsters Pat Morrow and Duncan Richardson. One sequence shows Pat acting as a TWA stewardess and Duncan as a pilot of a big plane flying to Europe and Egypt. Youngsters will learn a lot about the careers and lives of those who take up commercial flying for a career.

Then there's the Explorers' Club. This will not be on every day and will appeal primarily to teen-agers. It consists of a complete fifteen minute film showing how teen-agers participate in various adventures, such as the one done about a shark-hunting expedition.

Another segment that will appear about twice a week, at least according to present plans, is the I'm No Fool series and will probably star Jiminy Cricket. It is a complete cartoon series.

One of the most interesting of the segments is Spin and Marty, starring Tim Considine and David Stollery. Based on a novel by Larry Watkin, the series shows the lives of two boys on summer vacation at a western ranch. Spin, played by Tim, is the popular kid and the leader at the ranch while Marty, played by David, is the rebellious type who is always causing trouble until he learns a few important lessons. This is expected to appeal to adults, too, in that the stories are dramatic and present facts of interest to parents.

Also on the agenda is the Foreign Correspondent series which shows boys playing correspondents in Europe. Their various exploits and experiences provide plenty of suspense besides showing youngsters how foreign correspondents actually work.

Huge Job

Altogether, about twenty different series are in the planning stage. This is a tremendous undertaking since every inch of the film will be new. Even the cartoons will be new. With the Mickey Mouse Club already launched, Disney is still open to any new ideas for the show. Every time he sees some footage he thinks up something else to add.

The new Disney offering is bound to captivate the children—and possibly a good many adults. Disney has a way of doing shows that are not limited in their appeal to any one age. As he has said before, he never makes anything just for children. That explains why he has produced so many hits.

Now everyone is speculating. "Just what will Disney come up with next?" You can bet he'll not stop here.

THE MOUSEKETEERS take time off from work to check on the world's smallest horse and its colt. The animals live on the Disney lot.

DUNCAN RICHARDSON in a scene from another Mickey Mouse Club feature—careers youngsters hope to pursue. Duncan is learning how to be a pilot.

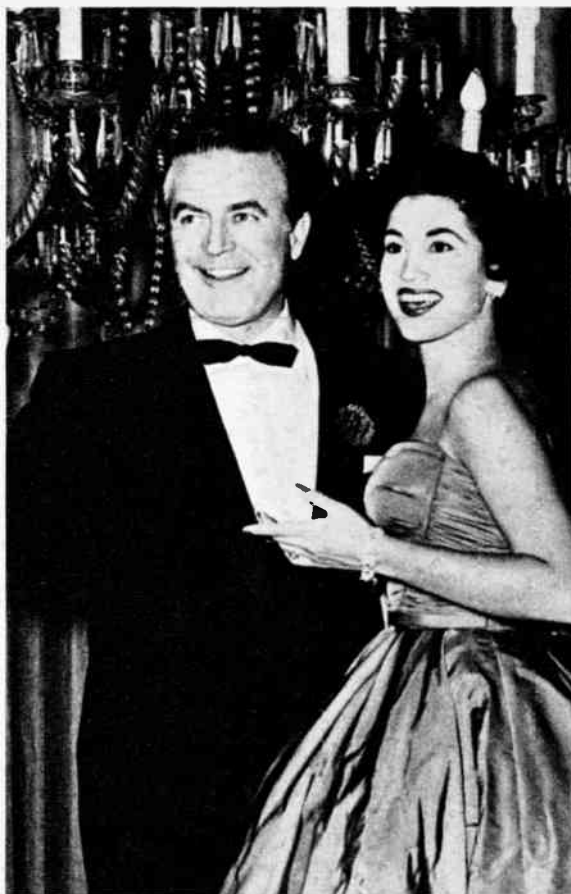

DUNCAN, ALVY MOORE and Pat Morrow are featured in the new ABC-TV offering from Disney's studio. Alvy is one of the few adults in the show.

STARS OF THE MOUSEKETEERS segment are Roy Williams and Jimmy Dodd. Roy was a cartoonist at Disney's when Walt decided to make an actor of him. (Walt Disney photos.)

Orrin Tucker, headman of KTLA's "Crystal Tone" orchestra, isn't kidding when he says:

"I'm Not A Second Lawrence Welk"

▲ TWO MEN AND A GIRL are the three main principals behind the new KTLA "Crystal Tone" Orchestra: band-leader Orrin Tucker (left); lovely vocalist, Roberta Linn, and the creator and producer of the group, KTLA's headman Klaus Landsberg. Both Orrin and Roberta can be seen in person each week at the Hollywood Palladium.

ORRIN TUCKER looks you square in the eye, smiles politely, gets right to the point:

"No I'm not a second Lawrence Welk. If there is any similarity between our programs, I am not aware of it. Lawrence and I are not only both from the Middle West, but we have been friends for a long time," he exclaims.

(Just in case you hadn't heard, Orrin Tucker is the leader of KTLA's new "Crystal Tone" Orchestra, and Lawrence Welk is the maestro of the famous "Champagne Music." They both specialize in playing the type of smooth, sweet music that the masses like to listen to and dance to.)

Actually, you couldn't blame Orrin Tucker if he got good and sore one of these days.

You see, everywhere poor Orrin goes, the same questions follow him:

"Are you trying to copy Welk's style and format?"

"Doesn't your KTLA 'Crystal Tone' sound almost exactly like Welk's 'Champagne Music'?"

"Aren't you really trying to be a second Lawrence Welk?"

No Polkas

Ever since he began his show on KTLA in June, the easy-going, congenial bandleader has been hounded by this type of question, and, understandably so, he's getting pretty tired of them.

"Welk is doing a certain type of job, and so are we," Tucker explains. "I am not copying any of his arrangements or style. As a matter of fact I am purposely staying away from polkas and other specialized types of music which have been closely associated with the Welk orchestra.

"I am also well aware of the fact that no matter who or what kind of a popular dance band comes to Los Angeles, the leader will be called a 'second Lawrence Welk.' If Fred Waring or some other well-known organization were to come here, I wouldn't doubt it a bit that sooner or later he would be accused of copying Welk."

No Feud

If the truth were to be known, Orrin Tucker is really a "middleman," and in some ways, a helpless scapegoat in the whole Welk-Landsberg-KTLA setup.

Klaus Landsberg is not only the veepee and general manager of KTLA, but he is the creator, brains and bossman behind the whole KTLA "Crystal Tone" orchestra. To put it in words of one syllable: What Klaus says, goes. Period.

With this background you can understand why orchestra leader Orrin Tucker says, "I am just trying to do things the way producer Klaus Landsberg wants them. As far as I am concerned the producer is always right!"

And you can also understand why the curly-haired, pleasant bandleader means it when he says:

"As far as I'm concerned, there is not, nor ever will be a feud between Lawrence Welk and myself."

WHAT MAKES "Climax!" DIFFERENT?

CBS-TV producer Martin Manulis explains the formula which has made "Climax!" so popular during the past year.

TELEVISION has its shortcomings. Even the most ardent TV fan or executive would have to admit that.

However, there's another side to this argument — perhaps a much stronger side. "Fabulous" is an over-used word in the Hollywood vernacular, but that's about the only way to describe the improvements which have been made in TV programming during the past five years.

In our opinion the greatest single improvement in TV programming has been in the dramatic field. Several months ago, award-winning Dr. Frank Baxter—who has always been one of the industry's most astute and severest critics — was addressing a meeting of the National Association for Better Radio and Television. His remark—"I think we can all agree that by and large the best programs on TV are the dramatic shows, particularly the hour-long programs"—brought a round of applause and nods of approval from the critical audience.

Behind Scenes

On the basis of recent performances (and we might add on the basis of recent ratings), CBS-TV's "Climax!" has developed into one of the top hour dramatic shows on the air.

Naturally, there are many reasons for this. In the case of "Climax!" one of the most important centers around a man named Martin Manulis. Young in appearance with a list of TV and theatrical credits stretching from The Bahamas Playhouse in Nassau to Broadway to Hollywood, he's the producer of the show—the brains behind the project.

"I think everyone will have to admit that 'Climax!' did not get off to a very good start," Mr. Manulis explained during an interview. "But I also believe that our show can now rank favorably with any in its field.

"Our main purpose can be stated very simply: we are interested in presenting strong dramatic material for popular consumption. You'll find no personal romance or light comedy or musicals on 'Climax!'"

While romance is usually essential to a good story, and while such persons as comedian Red Skelton and musician Bob Crosby have been featured on the program, the main emphasis is always on a "strong" story. That's where Manulis's chores begin.

Want Smash, Not Trash

First of all, he must select the stories to be used—subject to approval by CBS-TV and the sponsor. Approximately forty per cent of the plays are originals; the rest are adapted from novels, the theater, and standard classics, such as "Huckleberry Finn." "Climax!" has even gone into the documentary field, with such outstanding shows as "Fear Strikes Out" and "The Deliverance of Sister Cecilia."

After the story has been selected, Manulis's next big job is to line up the actors and actresses. This is another "key" to "Climax!'s" success.

"It's a definite part of our format," he explained, "to have a multiple star cast. This applies to each and every show.

"We're going to try and keep up the standard we have set," Manulis concluded. "Of course, TV is so changeable that the handbook of a year ago is already outmoded. Neither we nor anyone else want to do trash. However, even with our format you can't be certain of producing a smash hit every week," he smiled.
