ALBERT McCLEERY, RIGHT, DIRECTS SIR CEDRIC AND LADY HARDWICKE (Mary Scott) in "The Inca of Perusalem" by George Bernard Shaw. The high calibre of McCleery's "Hallmark of Fame" offerings will be the standard for the new daytime dramas called "NBC Matinee Theatre."

Matinee For 10 Million

"NBC Matinee Theatre" to offer bonanza for drama lovers

By Bill Weber

NBC Matinee Theatre" is the biggest bonanza in the history of the theatre—or television. As a bonanza for television an audience of ten million is expected by the end of the first year.

As a bonanza for talent "NBC Matinee Theatre" calls for 260 hour-long dramatic scripts, 4,600 acting jobs, 10 directors and a sizeable host of assorted talents and technicians, plus a million dollars or so to put over what virtually amounts to a National Theatre via TV.

Now in preparation for its debut over the NBC network, "NBC Matinee Theatre" is one of the most daring concepts to hit TV—the presentation of top-notch dramas Monday through Friday during daytime hours.

Scheduling at this time, hitherto limited to the mediocrity of soap opera and equivalents, marks a radical departure from the hitherto sacred dicta of radio and TV that the finest dramatic fare could win an audience only during evening hours.

"We're out to recapture the matinee audience which was once the backbone of the theatre and motion pictures," said Albert McCleery, producer-creator of "NBC Matinee Theatre."

Matinee For 10 Million

McCleery's thinking is bold. And the impact of his thinking has flushed a covey of questions among the less daring of TV seers as to whether the audience, on which McCleery has set his sights, really exists.

"Since the matinee audience is as old as the theatre, our thought in presenting such a series of plays can hardly be called 'experimental,'" answers McCleery. "The fact that the theatre, radio and then TV has forgotten such an audience during the past years does not mean that the audience has gone out of existence.

"As the time indicates, we will reach predominantly feminine viewers—an anticipated audience of ten million. On this score it is well to remember—whether the males like it or not—that women have always been the cultural leaders of America.

"Whether it be theatre, music, dance, or any other project of the arts, you will always notice that the list of the most active patrons are always women. And it is in this sense, and on this level that we will reach our matinee audience—recognizing them as cultural leaders.

McCleery is in a position to speak with authority. Behind his brilliant success in television as a producer-director of the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" and other productions is a rich background in the theatre. Out of this background of theatrical erudition as well as the rough-and-tumble experiences of theatre production, he became known as a leader in the development of community theatres in America, and was noted as the author of "Curtains Going Up," a chronicle of civic theatres throughout America.

Out of such a background the idea of "NBC Matinee Theatre" first took shape four years ago on a scribbled memo.

"To present our idea at that time would have been premature," McCleery observed. "We had, first of all, to wait until we felt television had reached the maturity to put over such an enterprise—not only from the technical points of production, but audience-wise. It was essential that audiences get far enough away from TV as a novelty, that they could appreciate the limitless resources of the medium for bringing adult drama, such as might be seen in the theatre, into their homes.

"Our 260 productions will represent quality—quality in scripts, casts and production values. Respecting the matinee audience as we do, we don't propose to spend over a million dollars to perpetuate the soap-opera concepts of radio.

"In television terms, the closest approximation I can give as to subject matter and type of production is that 'NBC Matinee Theatre' will be in the category of the finest TV dramas now limited to night viewing.

Albert McCleery is a practical idealist—and an organizational wonder when it comes to putting together his idea.

"I didn't serve a stint in the Army for nothing," he smiled.

Janis Paige is sitting on top of the world with her new TV show and says it's all because

"I'M A Cockeyed Optimist"

By Jack Holland

JANIS PAIGE was practically floating. She breezed into the room smiling like "Oh, what a beautiful morning," and then said enthusiastically, "I've always been an optimist, now more than ever. And has it paid off for us!"

Janis, who is now starring for CBS-TV in "It's Always Jan," may be a newcomer to the TV scene but she isn't to show business. She has been a star at Warner Bros., she has starred on Broadway in such hits as "The Pajama Game," and now she's riding high on television.

"I never had any special ambitions," Jan went on. "I just wanted to be happy more than anything else in the world. What's more important than waking up happy and finding good things in a day? I don't mean to sound Pollyannish—it's just the way I feel.

Yesterday and Today

"When I left California a few years ago I left with a feeling of failure. I didn't like that feeling, and I was determined to come back a success. That inborn optimism of mine came roaring back in short order and everything began to happen for me. All kinds of good things. Now I'm back and I'm having a ball. I get up in the morning, look at the view from my apartment, and everything looks so wonderful to me. When I was here the last time I could have seen the same view—and seen nothing.

JANIS PAIGE now adds TV to her laurels. Already a noted stage and screen star, the personable young lady is starring in CBS-TV's "It's Always Jan." It won't be hard to keep your eyes on her.

"My TV show looks just as wonderful to me as does each day, partly because I have a wonderful producer and writer in the business. His name is Arthur Stander—and I owe my TV program to him."

It was around 1953 when the ball actually started rolling for "It's Always Jan." Jan had done an ABC Playhouse film, which was designed as a possible pilot for a regular series. Nothing happened to it. Then in October of 1954 when Jan was in "The Pajama Game" in New York, Arthur Stander happened to see the pilot film and said, "Who is this Janis Paige?" He was promptly told who she was. He flew to New York to talk to her about doing a regular series. It was that simple.

"I'm glad I didn't go into TV before this," Jan remarked. "I wouldn't have been ready for it. I've worked harder in the last five years than I ever have. It was during those years that I suddenly realized I had no experience, that I knew little about my business, that I had had all the breaks handed to me on a silver platter. Being in pictures was like a dream to me. People call you a star and yet I never felt I was one. To me, stars were people like Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Clark Gable. I soon learned that I had to start first in believing in myself. Others can say you're great but it means nothing until you believe you know something. I could always believe it a lot faster when someone said I was not very good.

"For a while I couldn't get a job. I couldn't even get arrested. But I wasn't really down. I still looked at things optimistically. I felt, 'Okay, so maybe I don't belong in show business. Maybe I should be doing something else.' But I had to find out for myself if I had any chance in this business. I had to stand on my own two feet, stick it out alone—and it can be lonely at times.

"Fortunately, the breaks came—and not before I was ready for them."

Janis is almost always a happy person. It's easy for her to get to know people. As she says, "The only person I've had a hard time knowing was myself."

Before Jan went into TV she had only a nodding acquaintance with the medium. She hadn't even heard situation comedies were dying on the vine so she wasn't afraid to tackle one. She was working in the theatre so much in New York that she was always on her way to a performance when the TV shows were coming on.

"I only saw two 'Lucy' shows in one year," Jan laughed. "Once was when I had the virus and the other was when I had poison ivy; I adored that program.

"Doing a TV show is really exciting for me. For the first time I'm in on the ground floor of a new medium. I have to do more on my own here, and I like it. I like the digging and probing that are necessary, and I only hope people will like what I do. I'm especially happy about the show because this is the first time I've been able to be myself."

Jan added with a slight sigh, "There's only one thing wrong—I'll never be able to see my show. I'm filming the night it's on."

Jan had to rush back home for an appointment. She lives in an apartment—alone. She's not married and doesn't seem to be heading in that direction.

"But I'm looking all the time," Jan grinned as she bounced out of the room.

THIS MARRIAGE MAKES NEWS

Mary Roberts, Clete's wife, reports from the homefront on a new angle to the old story of male vs. female.

By Bill Weber

I WONDER what's doing in Rome tonight?—or maybe it is Ankara, Berlin or Tokio.”

“Don't think for a moment that thought doesn't run through your mind when you sit down to dinner,” said Clete Roberts.

Clete and Mary Roberts, his wife, were kicking around the idea of what it was like to have an international correspondent, accustomed to poking around the hinterlands of the globe, poking around his Beverly Hills garden and warming his feet by the home fires.

Clete Roberts is home. But not as a domesticated warrior of world news fronts seeking a retreat for gentle puttering. Despite the quiet of the well-ordered garden, green lawn and shade trees of the Roberts' Benedict Canyon home, you get the impression that you are interviewing Clete between planes—that he arrived just a few minutes ago from Seoul, and after a quick shave and shower he will be winging his way to London.

But for the moment, at least, Clete has settled down for his KNXT stints. “The Big News” and “Clete Roberts News.”

“Sure I get restless. I'm not trying to kid anybody. You don't just settle down to a normal routine of home life after covering a world news beat.”

However, there is an easy-going serenity to Clete and Mary Roberts' home life, the sort of permanence and security known to any American family that has lived for years in one neighborhood and has built a pattern of living centered around the daily coming and going of working fathers, growing children, and wives tending the needs of their homes.

Two-year-old Heather Roberts, Clete and Mary's youngest, kept a wary distance on being introduced and then disappeared into the house. Christopher, their seven-year-old son, was off at a public pool getting his swimming lesson; and Penny, a beauty of seventeen was visiting friends in the Valley. Buckahudry, the family's big and black Labrador Retriever ambled about and finally came to rest. “Buckahudry”, by the way, is the Cherokee word for “Chief”.

“A father spending so much time away from home sometimes has problems”, Clete said. “When I came home this last time, Heather came down the steps to greet me. I must have been a jolt to her. She had no idea who I was. It came as a bigger jolt to me, however, when I couldn't remember her name.”

Mary Roberts moves quietly, deftly, which may stem from her background as a registered nurse. You wonder if she has much to say. Then slowly, almost imperceptibly, you realize that Mary is the fusing element creating a home about which the lives of her children and husband center.

“How do you stand it with Clete away so much of the time?”. Mary Roberts began, repeating an old question. “And women aren't very subtle when they ask that one. I can only answer that I am in love with the man I married. I respect his profession and the demands it makes on him and our home life. I guess it's just that simple.”

“I'm afraid that much of the difficulty of modern marriages lies in the fact that many American women are indulgently self-centered, selfish. They have married a husband, a breadwinner—rather than an individual. They know little, and care less for the life work of the man they have married other than it relates to them and serves them.

“Many women believe their destiny is to mould the men they have married, to make them over into figments of their imaginations. When I see men traipsing along behind their wives I am reminded of a well-trained poodle padding along, on a leash, behind his mistress.

“Some men will acquiesce as the price to be paid for at least a quiet marriage; others rightfully refuse to be subjugated. But, whichever the course, a marriage in its truest sense is impossible. A marriage license is not the license of one partner of a marriage to dominate the other.

“Where did I get such a philosophy of marriage?” Mary smiled. “Living, learning, loving, I guess, grafted onto the ideas I must have learned as a child from my mother. She was born in Norway, where, as in most European countries, the husband is the head of the home.”

And in the Roberts' home, Mary is the heart.

Around TV Row

Laura La Plante makes her video debut on It's a Great Life November 20. The former movie queen does a stint about, you guessed it, a former movie queen... Sarah Churchill does three upcoming NBC Matinee Theater colorcasts... Chevrolet is considering a color to be called Dinah Blue for their new models. It will be the blue that Dinah Shore wore when she did her first show of the season from Detroit.

Colgate has inked the Alberghettis for their Thanksgiving and Christmas programs... Jack Holland has a feature role in the James Mitchell, Rosemarie Bowie starrer, The Peacemaker... This Is Your Life's next will be a San Francisco not in show business... Red Skelton and George Raft pull a type switch on Red's October 18 airer... The late James Dean had been signed to do The Battlers on the Pontiac Hour just two days before his fatal accident.

KTLL's Y-Knot Twirlers are booked into a Las Vegas nitery for four weeks... John Nesbitt's Passing Parade goes into production in November at Hal Roach's... Frontier needed a skinny cow but couldn't find one. The ingenious makeup man solved the problem by painting ribs on the side of a well-fed cow... Home drops its color-cast features.

Juke Box Jury celebrates its third anniversary on KNXT... John Conte has been signed to host the NBC Matinee Theater... NBC will televise the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences nominations on February 18 and the Oscar presentations March 21.

Les Paul and Mary Ford offer five-minute musical treats on KNXT eight times a week... Groucho Marx is coming out of political retirement and would like to be honorary mayor of Hollywood. "If I can't be mayor," says the NBC quizmaster, "I'll be happy to serve as honorary treasurer just as long as I'm not paid in honorary money." M. R.

Betty White's New Show

TV-Radio Life readers who have been clamoring to have Betty White return with her daytime TV show will be glad to hear the news which NBC released this week.

The network has announced that on Wednesday night, October 12 at 8 p.m., Betty and the members of her regular cast—including Frank DeVol and his orchestra, singer Byron Palmer, and The Sportsmen—will make a pilot film at the NBC Studios, Sunset and Vine, Studio D, at 8 p.m. Naturally, being a pilot film, it will not be seen on your home sets.

The best news: the show is open to the public. Tickets can be obtained by contacting the NBC Guest Relations Department (HOLLYWOOD 9-6161) or by requesting them in person at the NBC Ticket Booth. As always, the doors will close 15 minutes before air time.

If the pilot is successful, it shouldn't be long before Betty and the entire cast will once again be doing "live" TV. A good turnout on Wednesday night will help it come to pass.

So all you Betty White fans who have been writing to TV-Radio Life asking when she will return with her own daily show—here's your chance to do something about it.

I Love Lucy

CBS, Channel 2
Monday, 9 p.m.

The "Ricardos" and the "Mertzes" are back with their special brand of slapstick, a brand that has kept the I Love Lucy show in the top ratings for four solid years.

Once again Lucille Ball proves herself the mistress of comedy as she adeptly handles one exaggerated situation after another. In the opening show Lucy, aided and abetted by Vivian Vance, steals John Wayne's footprints from the forecourt of Grauman's Chinese Theater to take back to New York as her prize souvenir of Hollywood. An exasperated Desi insists that she return the footprints and the usual amusing complications follow.

Yes, the I Love Lucy cast is back with all the familiar gestures, situations and dialogue and millions of viewers wouldn't want them any other way. M. R.

Rookie Markham

Producer Mary Markham visited the county jail last week in conjunction with her new Rookie series, now in preparation. Rookie is both a TV program and a documentary training series which is filmed in co-operation with the Riverside Police Department.

Rookie dramatizes actual case histories but each episode has two different endings... one for the viewing public and one for the rookie cop. Marvin Miller narrates and Elbert Walker scripts.

Bible Grandma TVer

Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer, the grandmother of $64,000 Question fame who knew her Bible so thoroughly, is readying a five-minute telefilm syndication. The series, The Bible and Mrs. Kreitzer, is being produced by a Baltimore firm. "Grandma's" readings are also being taped for sale as a radio show.

Burns and Crosby

If current plans materialize, Ronnie Burns and Gary Crosby will co-star in a teleseries. Writers Hugh Wedlock and Howard Snyder were so impressed with the chaps' performance in CBS's "Time Out For Ginger" that they are scripting a potential series for the two. Story line will be written around college escapades of two fraternity brothers, with Ronnie being the serious-minded lad and Gary the gay comedian.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

NEARLY EVERYBODY ENJOYED GEORGE BURNS on This Is Your Life. In fact the only complaint I heard was that his bosom pal, Jack Benny, took over a little too much, though these same critics did admit that the Waukegan wag was pretty amusing. Lots of lookers said they frankly wished Gracie's life had been done, for they figured she'd have reacted more strongly than George. Gracie herself was so suspicious that Ralph Edwards was going to review her career that she refused to leave the Knickerbocker Hotel until time for her entrance on stage.

ANOTHER RALPH EDWARDS ENTERPRISE, Truth or Consequences, was staking $100,000 on a hypnotic stunt last week. As we go to press there are assurances that USC freshman Pat Morris won't be able to pick up her $100,000 after hypnotist Arthur Ellen casts the spell over her when she reappears on the show. All last week a good friend of ours, Betty Mills Goode, who used to write here at TV-Radio Life, was serving as constant companion for the Morris miss to be sure that no spellbinder other than Ellen could get near the contestant. I hear that a lady hypnotist messaged Pat, offering to place her in a state to pick up the money if Pat would give her $25,000 of it. Too bad the T. or C. bunch decided to pull this shenanigan too close to show time to do some top-notch ballyhooing.

CBS-RADIO, STILL IN A HAPPY glow over success of its Birthday Bonanza celebration, is softly mulling an occasional, elaborate live program similar to the anniversary gala. I think such would get a hearty welcome from fans.

INSTEAD OF HOSTING THE USUAL party for kick-off of its new Monday night programming, KTTV pulled a cute switch and sent dinner to my home, along with a cateress to prepare, serve and clean up. My guests, among whom were Zuma Palmer of the Citizen-News, Bud Goode of TV-Radio Mirror, and Bob Fisk, recently of KPHO, Phoenix, ate from TV tables which the station had painted and decorated appropriately. Doolies carried the evening's Channel 11 log. We were indeed a captive audience, but enjoyably so.

AFTER VIEWING WAS OVER AND DURING a stimulating conversational hour, it was agreed that best of the new line-up was Highway Patrol. Next day a wire from KTTV stated that a special ARB rating showed Highway Patrol garnered a 17.4 against Lucy (23.9) and Medic (11.9). Count of Monte Cristo came in for favorable comment, but Life of Riley provoked considerable head-shaking because of its flimsy story line and contrived antics. Let's hope Bill Bendix will come up with better.

AH, THE FAME OF TV! Ben Feit, the mogul from Manufacturers' Trust Company who is flanked by the armed guards on $64,000 Question, now boasts fan clubs. He also has a stand-in, a Page Eight

Mr. James B. Agnew, another bank official, who, with Feit, knows the combination of the safe holding the questions.

MRS. KREITZER, THE BIBLE-KNOWING grandma who was the first sensation on Revlon's blockbuster, has enjoyed quite a lot of post-show success, but I think it's time to call a sharp halt. She's to have a show of her own and guess what the title is to be? The Bible and Mrs. Kreitzer! Equal billing vet! Wouldn't it be more seemly if the "and" were changed to "with"? Even at that I think the title presumptuous, to say the least.

AM I WRONG, OR HAD IT HIT you that the filmed TV shows in the new fall crop seem to have more irritating laugh tracks than their predecessors? I resent other people telling me where I should register mirth!

JIMMY DURANTE IS VISITING a college campus for the first time in his life when he appears at the UCLA Homecoming Rally Oct. 19. He'll lead students in his famous Inka Dinka Doo ditty.

CONDOLENCES TO BILL STULLA, who lost his father. Congrats to TV-RL columnist Aubrey Dahl, who married a doll, Josephine Stewart, last Friday in Las Vegas.

VARIETY PUBLISHED A "HIT PARADE" of the canned music being piped into President Eisenhower's room and I noted with amusement that final selection on the list was "Time on My Hands."

GENERAL ELECTRIC THEATER

CBS, Channel 2
Sunday, 9 p.m.

Ann Harding's magnificent acting surpassed the well-worn plot in G. E.'s presentation of "Tryout." The script concerned an aging retired actress who despite her partial blindness felt the urge to do one more role.

She tries desperately to impress the young director who is to decide whether or not to cast her in the coveted part. After a temporary setback she proves her mettle with a staged reading and convinces the director that she never has missed a line in her thirty years of acting.

General Electric has signed some top-notch stars for the fall season and if the opening show is any indication of what's on tap, this series should be one of the top-rated weekly dramatic shows. M. R.

WILL COLOR TV BE THE BIG DIFFERENCE?

Information gathered from trade publications and other well-informed sources shows the long-awaited appearance of Color Television Receivers with large screens will reach the consumers market by the end of 1956.

The manufacturers of Color TV sets are still working on the basic scientific developments of circuits and the simplification of the production of Color TV Picture Tubes. There is, however, unanimous understanding between all concerned that no matter how soon or late Color TV may reach the market, your black and white TV set will be used for many years to come.

Now all you have to worry about is to keep your present set in a condition which guarantees satisfactory performance.

The wise thing to do is to make sure that your TV set is in good operating condition. It is better to be safe than to be sorry.

Call Television Industries at RI. 9-0301. They will inspect your set without obligation and write a parts warranty for only $15.00 per year, on a two-year basis, covering all parts, tubes, transformers, channel selector unit, speaker, and of course the large picture tube, up to and including a 21-inch screen, regardless of make or age.

This warranty also incorporates a service agreement which provides that all labor charges are to be limited to a fixed price. All house calls for repair are charged at a flat rate of $3.50 per call. This is not an hourly rate but a fixed price.

Television Industries covers all districts of Greater Los Angeles, San Diego, San Bernardino, Riverside, Pomona and nearby communities, Monday through Saturday, six days a week.

For further information, simply call RI. 9-0301 or mail the coupon below to Television Industries, 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 5, Calif.

Label Talk

By TERREA LEA

You should see the back room at Label Bank. There are piles of labels everywhere. On the tables, on the floor and stacked in every corner. And you know what? The folks at Label Bank are thrilled to death! You see, when you send in labels from products such as Chick-en of the Sea Tuna, Yak Yaks, XLNT Spanish Foods, Morton House Canned Meat Specialties, Tom Piper Corned Beef Loaf and Baker Boy Confection Rolls, plus all of the others, it shows that you think Label Bank is just as great as I tell you it is.

There are some other things in that back room at Label Bank that are mighty interesting, too: steam irons, dry irons, blankets, stainless steel mixing bowls, sheets, pillow cases, towels, bicycles and many other premiums. Premiums that might very well be going out to you . . . if you are saving labels, that is.

How about it? Have you sent for that catalogue yet so you'll know what labels to save and see pictures of the premiums? If not, better do it right away. Just write to Label Bank, Dept. TVRL, 727 N. La Brea Ave., Hollywood 38, Calif.

Now if you have written and not received yours yet . . . please be kind and patient. Label Bank is working day and night to answer all the requests and should be caught up very soon. Every time they think they are going to catch up, a new batch of names comes in and there they are behind again. They even stuck a pen in my hand and made me address 100 before they would let me leave. So yours should be arriving any day now.

Oct. 22 I'll be at Greater Central Market at 17308 Bellflower Blvd. in Bellflower at 2:00 in the afternoon. I'll have those 50 giant bags of groceries, a Motorola Portable Radio and a Westinghouse Portable Laundromat to give to some lucky people. Sure hope you can make it.

Remember the TV show Friday at 3:30 on Channel 9 and Monday through Friday there's the radio show on KABC at 11:00 p.m.

More Label Talk next week but for now . . . bye.

IN THE ACT

Columbia Studios is getting into the act with other major studios with an hour-long entry. New format will operate separately from Screen Gems, Columbia's TV subsidiary. Plans are still nebulous but Columbia will take advantage of their top talent a la Metro, Warners and 20th Century-Fox.

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

Must take a couple of stations to task this week. First, Channel 13 for scheduling "The Hitchhiker," obliging me to write a glowing review of it and then cancelling it because of a mixup with the agency. Nobody's fault I guess, and negotiations are on for its acquisition, so maybe they'll show it someday. And the back of me hand to Channel 7 for not allotting enough time to its J. Arthur Rank series. They had to cut some of "Odd Man Out" to fit it in and I think that's little short of sacrilege. There are some excellent films coming up on this program and I hope they find some way to show us the whole picture. One very good way I know of doing this is to show the whole picture.

"Letter To Three Husbands." (5) Oct. 16, 7:30. Intended as a sort of reverse sequel to the famous "Letter to Three Wives," this 1950 opus really owes its inspiration to a short story of Arthur Schnitzler, who probably filched it from some other source, so what does it matter . . . At any rate, millionaire bachelor Emyln Williams dies and through a heavenly concession is allowed to watch the havoc wreaked by the letters he has written to three husbands informing them that each of their wives had been a romantic adventure in his life. The husbands are understandably distraught upon receipt of this information and we see through a series of flashbacks that the millionaire's claims seem to be well founded. Just before the three marriages are scheduled for the divorce courts, the couples involved are summoned to a lawyer's office and informed that the millionaire had left all his money to the three wives and had also left a letter confessing his deception. The cast includes Eve Arden, Vanessa Brown, Ruth Warrick and Billie Burke, who play everything for laughs. An objective, non-partisan informant assures me that this is a very humorous picture and so I recommend it unreservedly. Oh, yes, unlike other reporters, I always reveal the source of my information . . . the objective, non-partisan informant is Howard Wormser, publicity head of KTLA.

"Madonna of the Seven Moons" (7) Oct. 16, 7:30. Phyllis Calvert suffers a traumatic sexual attack during her childhood days in a convent and as a result develops a classic case of schizophrenia. In her conventional life she is a respected wife and mother, but every once in a while something happens to her and she rushes off to take up her life as the mistress of a Florentine thief, Stewart Granger. No one is aware of her transgressions, including herself, and it is not until enough complications have occurred to permit the thief's brother to stop her that she recovers her sanity and her religion and dies in peace. The title refers to a cafe she frequents during her wanton periods and the film was first released in 1946. I think I saw it but I can't be sure . . . it was during one of my forgetful periods.

"Three for Bedroom C." (9) Beginning Oct. 18, 9:00. After her smash in "Sunset Boulevard," Gloria Swanson reportedly turned down offers waiting for just the right vehicle to properly exhibit her talents. She finally settled on this little slice of salami and all I can say is that Miss Swanson turned down too many offers. She plays a famous film star (what else?) who is rushing to Hollywood to protest a role she has been assigned. (She should have protested this one). She can't get a train reservation, it seems, and she appropriates a bedroom in the hope that the owner won't show up. He does, however, and of course turns out to be a shy professor of biochemistry who gladly retires to the men's washroom in favor of Miss Swanson's comfort. A romance blooms, of course and naturally, and even though manager Fred Clark tries to foul things up, everything is peaches and steam by the time the train arrives in Pasadena. A fellow name of James Warren plays the professor as if he didn't want to and Miss Swanson is just as cute and cuddly as she can be as the movie queen. I could say something good about this picture but I don't have the space to get to it.

"Second Face." (5) Oct. 21, 2:00.
"Double Profile." (13) Oct. 15, 11 a.m.
Twin features?

JACK BENNY

CBS (Channel 2)
Sunday, 7:00 p.m.

Jack Benny returned to television with a program more suitable to radio than it was for the video screens. Dennis Day and Verna Felton were on hand, in their usual roles, to help Jack warm up the picture tube. They offered the only visual skit in the program. Jack was caught between timid Dennis, appearing in a robe and skin diving outfit, and the bellowing Verna. All the old tricks and nuances the trio has used for years came into full play.

Other regulars, Rochester and Don Wilson, rounded out the cast. Benny's opening show may have lacked screamingly funny skits but it did present the old familiar gang and Benny with his stock-in-trade, can't-miss routines.

Director-producer Ralph Levy and the writers have set the mood for the season. Undoubtedly greater concentration on the video aspects will be evidenced in the rest of the series.

Behind-the-Scenes With A Groucho Marx Contestant

It all began with a letter . . . and it ended with the correspondent being a Star for five minutes on "You Bet Your Life." Here's a hint on how anyone can be just as lucky.

By TRUDY FORSHER

It was really a letter I wrote that made the change. I am a housewife, an average housewife, and the mother of two boys, Jeffry who is eleven years old, and little James, only two.

Though we live in Los Angeles, it seemed as if the glitter and glamour of Hollywood and the excitement of facing the movie cameras were certainly not meant for me; that was, until I wrote that letter to Groucho Marx.

I don't know who was more surprised, myself or my friends, when I appeared on the TV screens in their homes.

"Well, how does it feel to be a star?" they asked. "I saw you on Groucho's show, and so did another 40,000,000 people." "It felt just fine to be a star for five minutes." I said.

"Tell us how you got on!" they all clamored

There was the letter I wrote to Groucho, telling him that I wanted to be on his show. There was the visit to his office in Los Angeles, where I had my first interview. There was the questionnaire to fill in and mail to the production office. Finally the telephone rang and there was the invitation to appear on the show.

I knew at once that this was a challenge. The money to be won really did not matter! I just wondered if I dared to talk to Groucho. I made lists of reasons why I should not be afraid! One on that list was that Groucho resembled a boy who greatly admired me when I was fourteen and the boy fifteen. From this I deducted that Groucho must be human, too.

Big Day

As is the way, time passed. The day so greatly looked forward to, yet feared, arrived.

I reported to the artists' entrance of the NBC studio at Hollywood and Vine, about an hour before show time. There I said good-bye to my husband and older son.

I was ushered into a room where the other contestants were waiting. After a while, Mr. Bernie Smith, the co-director of You Bet Your Life, came up to wish us luck and to reinforce our courage by saying: "Now, don't be afraid. None of the people in the audience would change places with you tonight." After this reassuring remark we were introduced to our partners. Mine was a dignified and handsome 73-year-old astronomer.

Audience Enters

Then we were asked to appear on stage, so the cameramen could get the right angle on us, the microphones were prepared to catch our voices at the right range. This done, we left and the audience entered the studio.

As we returned backstage we were given star dressing rooms and someone came around with a list of categories. My partner and I chose spelling. We then waited our turn to be made up for our appearance on the show.

The bright lights, the important-looking make-up chair, all looked very glamorous as I admired my reflection in the huge mirrors. The glamour increased as the make-up artist informed me that he also worked in the major studios where he made up the stars.

By the time he had finished with my face, I was so impressed with his art. I realized that a good make-up artist was probably a good part of the glamour of the stars. As far as I was concerned, I vowed to myself that I would not wash my face in the foreseeable future.

No Rehearsal

There was no rehearsal. We met Groucho only when we were introduced to him by Mr. George Fenneman.

As we came on stage I heard George Fenneman say:

"Groucho, there is a housewife waiting outside. This lady's name is Mrs. Bruno Forsher. Her partner is Mr. K. P. Walton."

"Bruno," Groucho answered, "is the name of a bulldog I owned many years ago." Then he turned to us and said:

"Welcome for the De Soto-Plymouth Dealers. Say the secret word and divide a hundred dollars. That's jive talk for smakoolas."

"Mrs. Bruno Bulldog, no, Mrs. Bruno Forsher and K. P. Walton—Mrs. Forsher, I have to start with one of you." Then Groucho started to sing to me "And it might as well be you."

"What is your first name, Bruno?" "My first name is Gertrude, but everyone calls me Trudy."

Groucho made it seem very amusing that I had met my husband on a scouting hike in the Vienna woods. We discussed waltzes and apple strudel and after a few minutes of this I started to have a perfectly good time.

We started with the $80 question, did well, went down to $70 and again answered correctly. Then we chose the $60 question, as the $100 seemed too ambitious to us. We answered it

The Life Of A Newscaster Is Not An Easy One

If you think a TV newscaster has it soft, read Michael Hinn's daily routine and see if you still agree. This is the first feature on KABC-TV's new reporter.

THE GENERAL misconception about a newsman like Michael Hinn (seen Monday through Friday at 11 p.m. over KABC-TV, CHANNEL 7) is that he has a breeze of a job: sleep to late afternoon, leisurely swim and drive to the studio after golf for a simple 15-minute news show.

Nothing could be further from the fact. Not to a news-hound like Hinn. To whip up an intelligent, up-to-the-minute news show in the hotly competitive 11 p.m. time position, Hinn is shaved and into the newsworld by 7 a.m.

First, it's check the overnight news wire and read 10 newspapers including an airmail edition of the New York Times for the latest world reports. Then Hinn drives to the news room of the American Broadcasting Company for a conference with staff newsmen and news chief Ed Conklin.

Together Conklin and Hinn check over their news calendar. What dignitaries are arriving? What news conferences have been called? Who might be suitable for a timely guest interview that night?

Plans Attack

Then, with an idea of what can be expected from the day's news, Hinn leaves for a tight schedule of visits to the day's sources of news, sometimes far away from the city.

For instance, early some morning with nothing but a doughnut and a cup of coffee to fortify him, Hinn may get into his '49 Ford and trek clear up to the Oxnard Air Force Base for a few exclusive quotes from a military personality on the latest warfare equipment.

To illustrate again, Hinn some afternoon might attend a Biltmore or Town House press conference, and although choose not to use a single bit of news from such a conference (it might be stale by 11 p.m.), he attends on the off-chance that it will add color to his nightly newscast, fit into some future news event, or give him leads into more exclusive news.

Then it's straight to the KABC-TV newsroom at Prospect and Talmadge for a 2 p.m. conference (the second of the day) with Ed Conklin and his capable staff of newswriters. At this time Hinn reviews additional news breaks and finally decides on whether a guest for that night's news report would be timely, and puts the wheels in motion.

When, for instance, the stock market took a dip over Eisenhower's heart attack, Hinn quickly brought on a market expert to explain graphically just why stocks took a dip.

Straight Sources

And that's just how Hinn operates. When there is a point of public interest, he goes right to the horse's mouth or talks directly to the trainer. And the viewer is informed.

Another Hinn trademark is clear, concise visual illustrations and explanation on highly generalized points of news, such as Iron Curtain and NATO defense line. In such cases, Hinn, with nothing more than chalk and blackboard, simplifies many of these confusions for a more intelligent, easy-to-understand report on the news.

Hinn, a Lieutenant Colonel in the United States Air Force Reserve, is tall, friendly and proudly mustached. His wide news experience makes Hinn the perfect newsman to step into the competitive 11 p.m. news period.

Hinn was born in Virginia, Minn., September 10, 1913. He attended the University of Wisconsin from 1931 to 1934, majoring in speech and political science. His first newspaper job was with the Asheville, North Carolina, Citizen-News, in 1935. He also served as an Esso reporter-copywriter-announcer on Station WWNC. Two years later, Hinn became program director at KFJM, Grand Forks, N.D.

In 1938, Hinn transferred to WLW in Cincinnati as the station's first news writer-broadcaster. He remained at WLW until 1941, when he joined the British RAF. Later he transferred to the US Naval Air service, serving both in England and aboard carriers in the Pacific Theater as a fighter pilot. He destroyed six enemy ACs. He was released to inactive duty in 1945, as a Lt. Cmdr.

Hinn first came to California in 1951 as a news analyst for KFAC and KLAC, then later for KFI. He served as news director of the Liberty Network in Dallas until 1952, and then later held the same position for WFAA-TV in Dallas. He is now back in Los Angeles, serving the community well with his incisive late-night news reports

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

There are a few people at NBC who are not particularly happy about the rumors that The Soldiers may be re-activated. Considering all the trouble this Hal March-Tom D'Andrea production had before, what with all the inane temperament involved, it is completely mystifying as to why anybody would want to dive back into the mess. If The Soldiers had registered a resounding hit, such a plan might have some logic, but it was not one of the TV stalwarts of the past summer season. Frankly, I wouldn't think Hal March would want to tie himself in knots by having to do both The $64,000 Question and The Soldiers again since the experience was anything but pleasant or relaxing. If NBC does go ahead and put the show back on, then it must like headaches—and I can't believe that anyone there is that anxious to take up aspirin for a hobby.

The New Shows: Alfred Hitchcock may have only appeared as host for his Alfred Hitchcock Presents CBS show, but he was the star. His sense of humor, his satirical references to sponsors, and his generally amusing approach to his program were delightful. As for the first production, "Revenge," starring Ralph Meeker and Vera Miles, it was a routine affair with no real surprise punch. Many people have objected to the morbid tone of the show. It may not have been the most uplifting subject matter in the world, but the main trouble was that the story itself did not deserve the Hitchcock stamp. He'll probably see that future shows are better, but as long as he's on we'll keep watching it.

20th Century-Fox made an auspicious debut with its production of "Cavalcade." It was particularly good to see a major studio turning out a class effort with no attempt to cut corners just because the film was made for TV. The job of condensing the long Noel Coward play was a masterful one and the writing, as a whole, was exceptional. The performances of Merle Oberon, Nora O'Mahony, Michael Wilding and Marcia Henderson were first rate. This show obviously cost a hunk of dough. It was good to see that the money spent also resulted in a stand-out production. If this is to be the standard for other 20th Century-Fox films, then audiences are in for a treat.

The new Justice show on NBC was okay, although not especially unique. It followed the tried and true formula and held up well enough. However, aren't there just too many shows like this? Aren't they all just a little too pat and devoid of originality? The documentary treatment employed in Justice too is now quite threadbare. William Prince makes a personable central figure and Ed Begley was excellent but the one impression still remains—after you've seen the show you get the strangest feeling you've seen it all before.

Bob Cummings went to Hawaii recently for a vacation. Ha! While he was there he and his writer-producer, Paul Henning, decided it would be a most pertinent idea to do some shows on the islands, so they filmed three. Then Bob took a trip to Lake Tahoe—again for a vacation. And so what happened? Someone got the bright idea it would be unique to have him do a show in which he did some water skiing. Of course, he had never been on skis, but he learned. What's more—he proved to be quite competent.

Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante, Milton Berle, and Danny Thomas got up on stage after the opening show of the new Moulin Rouge production and let everyone know what a great evening Frank Sennes had given the customers. And they were right. The new Moulin Rouge offering is one of the most colorful, one of the brightest, fastest-paced, and entertaining shows you'll see in a long time. It has something for everyone from the Peters Sisters, a knockout act, for the sophisti-Golly, it sure is great to be back here in TV-Radio Life Magazine writing for all of you. Since it's been a while since we've talked I guess I better get started with news from the world of railroads.

As I've told you before, railroads have been linked with our history almost from the birth of the United States. I think, though, that you all might be interested in knowing that the first road of rails is said to have been a short incline of wooden tracks or rails used about 1795 to carry material to and from brick kilns located on Boston's Beacon Hill. What was the horsepower of this early road? Why one horse, of course.

You might think that with all the modern advances in use on today's railroads, speed records are being continually made and broken. But actually today's railroad speed record was set on June 12, 1905, when the Pennsylvania Special of the Pennsylvania Railroad (a train by the way that is still running although its name has been changed to Broadway Limited) ran three miles near Ada, Ohio, in 85 seconds or a speed of over 127 miles per hour.

I'll bet many of you have heard about "Shoo Fly Pie," but how about a "Shoo Fly Track?" Want to know what it is? I'll tell you next week.

This Saturday, October 22, we are going to be out in Inglewood, at Shoppers Market, 825 W. Arbor Vitae Avenue. This is our very first visit to the Inglewood area and I'm very anxious to meet and greet all of our Cartoon Express fans in that area. Until Saturday, I'll be with you every night at six on Nine, Track Nine for "Cartoon Express."

cates to the Marquis Family for all ages. Of the lavish numbers staged by Donn Arden the one of the two lovers who are drowned in a storm was the most spectacular. Folliot Charlton was highly effective in this act. But it's difficult to select any one highlight in a show that is full of smash hits. So get yourself over there and see this production.

Odds and Ends: Read where Tony Travis has promised not to get married for at least a year. Seems RCA Victor, for whom he records, believes marriage would hurt his popularity. This is old hat stuff. That idea went out of fashion years ago. An artist can command attention whether he's married or not—as long as he can deliver the goods.

Radio Ramblings

Bing Crosby's new theme "Something in Common" was penned by Johnny Burke and Jimmy Van Heusen . . . KBIG's Carl Bailey heads for a three-week Canadian vacation. . . . The irrepressible Bob and Ray switch from NBC to Mutual with a five-a-week format. . . . KUSC-FM, the University of Southern California station, increases its broadcasting time and is on the air from 4:00-8:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

MDL's traveling news commentator, Cedric Foster, celebrates his 15th year with the net. . . . Bill Cunningham received the "Texan of Distinction" award last week at the Texas State Fair. . . . The New York Philharmonic-Symphony starts its 26th year of broadcasting on CBS, October 23. . . . Larry LeSueur, noted United Nations correspondent for CBS News, is doing a nightly five-minute news analysis broadcast.

Eddie Fisher's program can now be heard on Mutual as well as NBC. . . . William Kenneally is on a four-week vacation in Italy. . . . "The Answer Is God," the first factual life story of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, will be on the bookstands Monday. . . . Church of the Air celebrates its 25th year of broadcasting with a recap of the program's history on CBS, October 30, M. R.

Special Broadcast

NBC carries the special broadcast from Carnegie Hall on October 13 being presented by the Save Carnegie Hall Committee. The committee is trying to raise funds and publicize the fact that the great music auditorium is in danger of being dismantled. The hall, which was opened in 1891 with a concert conducted by Tchaikovsky, may be torn down to make way for a commercial hotel.

The broadcast will feature the Symphony of the Air, formerly the NBC Symphony, with batoneer William Strickland, Eugene List, pianist, and the New York Oratorical Society. Ben Grauer will act as narrator.

Historical Note

In 1936 a Wurlitzer organ costing more than $50,000 was installed in NBC's Chicago studios. For the past twenty years it has helped make radio history. Last week, NBC donated the famous pipe organ to the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colorado. There'll be no more musical bridges for radio's soap operas on this Wurlitzer now that it belongs to the Air Force.

My Son Jeep

CBS-KXN
Monday-Friday, 9:15 p.m.

Presenting soap opera fare as a nighttime strip isn't going to help radio's cause very much. My Son Jeep stars Paul McGrath as a widowed doctor with two "lovable" children, an understanding secretary-nurse and a devoted housekeeper. Members of the cast were presented in stock characterizations right down the line.

The opening stanza revolved about getting a birthday present for the doctor and keeping it a surprise. The entire script in our opinion was quite unimaginative.

If the situations improve, it's possible that My Son Jeep could grow on listeners. There are many who still eagerly twist their dial looking for something entertaining on their radio sets. M. R.

Radio Assists C.D.

Last week in the midst of broadcasting the World Series, KHJ faded the game broadcast for a brief announcement urging listeners to volunteer for Civil Defense.

In co-operation with the state-wide attack warning siren tests, radio alerted listeners. A survey by volunteers monitoring radio stations revealed approximately 100 percent coverage through newscasts or public service spot announcements informing their listeners that the siren test was planned and that there was no cause for alarm. The Civil Defense office in Los Angeles credited radio for allaying public fear and confusion.

FISHING FAN

Jack Johnstone, producer-director of CBS's Johnny Dollar adventure series, is a rabid fishing enthusiast. He recently devised a synthetic worm as bait for trout fishing.

SUCCESS STORY

Bing Crosby modestly claims to be responsible for Bob Hope's success. "The man was nothing," CBS Radio star Bing maintains, "until we played an exhibition golf match one day. I teed off Hope's nose. The neat bit of surgery I performed gave Rapid Robert's proboscis that scooped out look, and he's flourished ever since."

MONDAY PRECASTS

Who's Guesting

"TELEPHONE HOUR," KFI, 9:00 p.m. Lucine Amara, Metropolitan Opera soprano, is guest. She sings selections from music of the 17th and 20th centuries.
"VOICE OF FIRESTONE," KABC, 8:30 p.m. Baritone Jerome Hines is guest tonight. His selections include "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody," "The Whiffenpoof Song" and "Into the Night."

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

I had a shock yesterday when I was told Smoky Rogers was to lose his place on TV in short time, and I want to protest. I know our dear old U.S.A. has gone insane over cigarettes and liquor (beer especially) but Smoky has the cleanest, finest program of any on TV. And I have never listened and watched a one, but that I always felt happier and glad I had heard it. Recently he has added two or three wonderful singers and an especially fine guitar player that will be noticed all over the U.S.A. for he is handsome and especially gifted on the guitar. Just wanted to tell you my husband and I are past 85, our minds are keen yet, and can appreciate fine music and singing and clean programs, but don't care for any of the programs that at least half of them are ads, especially cigarettes or beer.

We are praying you will not let Smoky Rogers go, for we enjoy our TV because of him, but if he stops we will just close up ours (a gift from our daughter on our 50th wedding anniversary.)

Bobbie Warner, San Bernardino

This is a reply to the correspondent who spoke very heatedly against certain popular tunes of today. I am a senior in high school and, as my parents have mentioned often, a very typical teen-ager.

It seems to me that the people who object the loudest to certain songs ("Teach Me Tonight" as an example) are the ones that seem to have the minds that find these songs "nasty."

I think "Honey Love," "Roll with Me, Henry" and others certain people have branded "lewd" are swell songs with a good beat. I don't think of the lyrics as being "dirty". That is, I didn't until people started making a big fuss about it.

Putting it that way, wasn't the Charleston suggestive???

Mrs. J. Wood, Los Angeles

I have never written in before to Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen but read it regularly. Never miss that portion especially. And I wish to say I agree heartily with a recent letter concerning the Orrin Tucker Show. We love Roberta Linn. She is a wonderful performer. Such a sweet personality, would love to see her dance on the show, though, as she is very good. Lawrence Welk let two of his best performers go when he let Roberta Linn and Gene Purcell leave. Two places very hard to fill. Yes, I think Lawrence Welk has a very fine program, but as I said—we certainly miss Roberta there, and also Gene Purcell. Have hoped Orrin Tucker would get Gene, as he has Roberta and that good bass violin player. We look forward now to Orrin Tucker's Show on Channel 5 on Friday nights as we did Lawrence Welk's show some several months ago.

Carolyn Moffatt, Los Angeles

I have just finished reading a recent letter on such awful recordings. I am a teenager, 16 years old, and listen to radio 75 percent of the time.

I have been listening to rhythm and blues for approximately five years on such radio programs as Hunter Hancock, and I think that they are terrific and if there is any kind of dirt or grime, I'll stop listening to any kind of music at all. Oh yes, just as a reminder, this isn't 1926.

It was General Douglas MacArthur who pointed out the value of competitive sports as training grounds for the good soldier. It is indeed the lessons gained from competition in football, baseball, basketball, golf, tennis, track, that guide many a man to success in business or career. But even more important, I think, are the simple lessons to be gained by every sports follower from every big game.

When the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Yankees in the World Series, it was an example of rare courage by pitcher Johnny Podres and the entire team—a team that refused to be beaten by tradition, by the odds being against them after losing the first two games, or by the ineffectiveness of their two "name" hurlers, Don Newcombe and Carl Erskine.

Millions of fans shared the drama and gained a subconscious "lift" in meeting their own daily battles. When the Los Angeles Rams upset the 49ers and then gained an even more thrilling win over the Pittsburgh Steelers, it proved again what a strong will to win can accomplish. The team with the most desire to win usually comes out on top. The parallel can be found in college football in almost every game. On the junior college or high school level it's equally true, and sometimes even to a greater degree.

People often ask me at luncheon gatherings I address just how important is the element of luck in winning a key event. I can only say that luck is important, but of no consequence to a team that isn't battling to the hilt to win a game. Using the World Series again, there are those who would say that the Dodgers were lucky in that final game when Amoros made his sensational catch of a ball that might have been a two-run double. Yet, suppose Yankee Hank Bauer had hit a three-run homer in the eighth instead of fanning with two men on base? That great catch would have been forgotten entirely, and so would Amoros instead of being a Cuban national hero that he now is. It's the fact that the Dodgers were going all-out to win that made victory possible. They refused to be beaten.

Even the Rams' victory over the Steelers, incredible as it was, could not have been made possible by a penalty alone, though to hear some people talk the penalty gave the Rams the win. Had not Richter kicked the field goal from 33 yards out when he had the chance in the final second, the Rams would have still lost. Had the Steelers made good two seldom-missed tries for point after touchdown the Pittsburgh club would still have been the winner. But the Rams were good enough to take advantage of the break when it came their way, and that's the mark of a good team.

The breaks can go against you time after time, but most athletes agree they'll balance up in the long run. It's the team that takes advantage of the breaks, the team that refuses to be beaten that comes out on top most of the time.

There's another factor to winning, which in football especially seems to be important. That is the emotional "up" or "down" cycle which plagues the coaches. A team which cannot take its weekly opponent seriously is "down" for the game. A team which loses a tough game and is knocked out of contention is "down" the week following.

During a recent half-time interview which you may have heard via KHJ-radio, veteran coach Curly Lambeau named emotional attitude as one of a coach's biggest worries and tasks during the season. Lambeau, who now resides on his ranch at Thousand Oaks, coached the College All Stars to a big win over the world pro champion Cleveland Browns this year. He coached the Green Bay Packers to six National Football League titles, and won many divisional honors in addition. He knows whereof he speaks. Curly may be responsible indirectly for the many upsets in NFL ranks this year. When he coached the College All Stars to victory he instilled in the newcomers to the pro ranks not only a will to win, but a feeling of confidence that they could hold their own with the best the league had to offer. It's the rookies in the league who are causing the upsets, and their mental attitude is a big factor.

Certainly one of the big factors in the Los Angeles Rams' success thus far is the sound coaching of Sid Gilman, who has maintained the highest team morale in years for the colorful Los Angeles entry. Rival coaches and scouts have watched his work with admiration.

This year of 1955 is another year of big thrills and courageous performances. The University of San Francisco provided many big moments in basketball. The tight pennant fights in the Coast League and the American League made it a big year for baseball. Jack Fleck, the unknown who won the U.S. Open golf title, and Ben Hogan who did not, showed true courage. And every football game seems to produce bigger thrills than the preceding one.

But the important thing as the late Grantland Rice once said is "how you play the game." I'd like to amend that famous writer's thoughts. I think it's playing the game to the hilt that determines that you win or lose most of the time. As you follow the games in person or the many collegiate and pro games on KHJ-radio see if it doesn't apply.

HOW WOULD YOU like to see Garbo on TV? Or Jean Harlow? Or Marie Dressler and Wally Beery? And how about Gene Kelly, Ann Blyth, Susan Hayward? How would you like to see scenes from such hits as "Mutiny on the Bounty" and "The Good Earth"?

This may sound fantastic but it is now a reality. MGM, one of the greatest motion picture studios in the world, is opening up its vast treasure house of stars and hit pictures and is offering them on its TV program, "The MGM Parade."

MGM isn't, of course, the only motion picture studio to go on TV, but its approach is entirely different from that of 20th Century-Fox and Warner Bros. Where the latter two are filming their own series, "The MGM Parade" is not following this formula. There will be no definite format. It will be informal in nature, and will cover every possible subject. It will plug its current movie product, as the others are doing, but not just for the sake of a plug. Entertainment and not commercialism is the keynote.

Les Peterson

Leslie Peterson, one of this town's most likable and talented men, is in charge of the "young man's team" which is producing the series. The company consists of Jack Atlas, associate producer, Bob Narvet, John Benjamin, Ira Heyman, and Al Sarno. They are responsible only to their own outfit and not to MGM. The studio is giving them such latitude that they don't even have to abide by any budget.

Movies' All Time Greats On TV.... At Last

MGM opens up its treasure house of stars and films for its ABC-TV series, "The MGM Parade." This should really be an important event.

As Les Peterson said, "How can you set a budget for a show like this? How do you budget all the films and stars we have at the studio?"

About the only set format, as such, on the show is the opening which presents George Murphy as host in the MGM trophy room. This room is to be used as a springboard for the various features on the program. In it are some of the awards, citations, and honors given MGM pictures and stars. Noted props and scripts are used at times, too, such as Garbo's necklace, Elizabeth Taylor's parasol, Van Johnson's helmet from "Battle-ground," and other typical items. The trophy room is also an interesting setting because here guest stars can drop in for a chat and reminisce. They can also delve into the treasure chest of the studio.

Some of the Academy Award performances by MGM stars are shown, too, but only in connection with a scene from the picture for which they won the Oscar. For instance, when a discussion is going on about Lionel Barrymore's award for "A Free Soul," a clip showing him giving his famous address to the jury in that picture will be shown. Award-winning shorts by Robert Benchley, Pete Smith, "Passing Parade," and cartoons will be shown when they fit into a situation.

Humble Approach

"We are definitely approaching this series with real humility," Les Peterson remarked. "We are not out to show up TV at all. Anyone in movies who goes into television with the attitude of 'We'll show TV' is silly. We only hope that TV will accept what we are trying to do.

"Our show will have something for the whole family with the emphasis entirely on entertainment. Our decision to go into television wasn't sudden. I had been making a survey for MGM about TV for some time in my capacity as executive in charge of radio and TV. We went into the medium for one reason—we felt the time was right. Certainly we will make references to our current pictures but only when such references fit into a segment of our show. We are not going to make movie trailers for TV. Clips will be used as acts in a show, not just as film clips.

"It was natural for us to choose George Murphy for our host. He is Hollywood's Ambassador of Good Will, president of the Hollywood Coordinating Committee, and a prominent civic personality. In addition to being host, he also directs the TV shows.

"We have high hopes for another feature of the program—Little Leo, a cartoon character who will talk to George about problems and do some gentle ribbing. He should become a well-known personality."

There is no mistaking the enthusiasm Les and his staff have for this TV series. Yet, they are facing problems realistically. Everything is being done on a strict schedule. Nothing is hit or miss about the deal. And all realize the responsibility that is theirs.

It's good to see a movie company not looking on TV as the black sheep of the family.

What Makes A Star?

By Lynn Castile

▲ LYNN CASTILE'S GOOD FRIEND BERT LAHR knows well the price of being a headliner. His own career suffered many ups and downs before he rated a star's dressing room.

Contrary to popular opinion, stars are not always discovered at soda fountains, drive-ins and lumber camps.

HOW DO newcomers crack into show business? Is it possible to become a big star of television or motion pictures overnight? How does new talent get "discovered"?

During the past seven years that I have aired my "Lynn Looks At Hollywood" programs over KHJ-Radio, I have heard these questions hundreds of times. During my luncheon dates with the stars an endless trail of youngsters seems to turn up at our table and repeat the queries over and over again.

The popular conception among most fans is the idea that the entertainment industries' headliners were whisked out of soda fountains, drive-ins and lumber camps to be made into stars.

Nothing could be further from the truth.

As a show-world veteran, I starred on Broadway at the age of sixteen. I can speak with authority when I say that today's box office kings and queens built their triumphs through many, many years of hard work.

Many was the day that Joan Crawford, Barbara Stanwyck and I sat from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the famed Schubert reception room back in New York—waiting for a chance to simply see either J. J. or Lee Schubert.

Lean Days

Jack Benny. Bob Hope and Bert Lahr can also look back upon "lean days" when agents and producers weren't interested in "just another comic." Their respective successes were far from overnight skyrockets to stardom.

All the top stars will agree on this one point—there is no substitute for hard work and tenacity.

To be an entertainer the newcomers of today can do well by following the advice of such top celebrities. If one feels that show business is for him, he must study, and study the "trade," until it literally comes out of his ears. He should never miss an opportunity to step out upon a stage, be it high school or little theatre, to ply his talents and polish his style.

Bottom Up

The main reason agents and producers turn hands-down on a neophyte is because of a lack of experience—and experience isn't acquired over a night, or over a year for that matter. It is that intangible something that sets a "professional" apart from all others at an audition. It is that feeling that can only come from knowing the business from the bottom up.

There will always be a flash of good-looking girls and handsome men on the headline horizon; however, it is only that talent which can apply itself to a specific medium—and do it well—that remains a headliner year after year.

Show business is no place for the faint of heart, but, if you would rather be in the spotlight—even though it is a benefit performance—and if you get that "I want to be up there" feeling every time you are at an opening night; if you believe with all your might that there is no other profession with which you could be happy—then show business is for you.

As for directing your talents toward the top, there is only one key to success that can possibly open the door for you. It's simple, and it can work for you. Just remember three words—"stick to it."

TV Gives New Life To "OLD SALTS"

The public, particularly the men and women who have served and are serving in the U.S. Navy, are glad to know that TV has finally come up with a series which humanizes the American sailor. It's CBS-TV's "Navy Log."

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

AMERICA is a land inhabited by millions of "old salts." Just in case you land-lubbers don't know what an "old salt" is—it's simply a Navy expression to describe a veteran sailor. In other words, a member of the U.S. Navy who has worn out more seabags than most civilians have worn out socks.

These lovers of the briny deep have always had a legitimate gripe. (There's an old saying in the Navy that a "happy ship is a 'gripping ship,'" but it doesn't apply here.) According to most movies, novels, plays, etc., a sailor in the Navy is a cross between a modern wolf and a low-class moron. He drinks too much; he talks too loud; and about the only words he knows are "Hi, Babe," and "I'll see you the next time I'm in port." Of course, we all know that the men of the U.S. Navy, both active and inactive, are not that way. However, the American people have been led to believe this through the media mentioned.

TV On The Ball

TV made its first and truly great attempt to show what valiant efforts the men of the Navy made during World War II with its award-winning documentary "Victory at Sea."

But now, CBS-TV, with its "Navy Log" program (which debuted on September 20) has gone one step further. This show is giving new life to the old salts. It's humanizing the Navy. It's showing the American public from coast to coast that above those bell-bottomed trousers a sailor has a heart and a brain.

Mr. Sam Gallu, the producer and creator of the series, and a former Lieut. Commander himself, explained the purpose and some of the behind-the-scenes material to us during an exclusive interview at his Hollywood studio.

True Stories

"I actually got the idea about two years ago. I thought it was about time someone did a dramatic series showing the human side of the men who sail the ships of the U.S. Navy. The same could be done with the Army or Marine Corps, but naturally I picked the service with which I am most familiar.

"The stories are taken from the logs of Naval vessels. That's where the name comes from. And they are not just war stories, either, as you might expect. They are any and all types of true stories in which the men of the Navy took part," Gallu explained.

Although Gallu has the full facilities of the Navy available—including some 50 million feet of Navy film—most of the footage is original and all the main characters are professional actors. "Location" in this series includes jaunts to Hawaii, Key West, San Diego, and even Naples, Italy.

Although the main purpose of "Navy Log," as Gallu pointed out, is "to provide good and entertaining TV," it should also be a welcome relief for both the present-day Navy men and the ex-gobs to look at themselves—and be proud of what they are seeing.

ON ANOTHER "Navy Log" episode Dick Jones as "Eddie" plays the role of a sailor, stationed aboard a U. S. cruiser, who leaves his ship on a strange mission into the Korean battlefield to find his soldier-brother.
