Vanessa Brown was once known as a mental wonder. Now she's playing the delightful wife of My Favorite Husband. And so who is smarter than clever wives?

VANESSA BROWN takes over the role once played by Joan Caulfield in My Favorite Husband. Until she began her current KNXT series Vanessa had been doing a good deal of stage work on Broadway.

By Jack Holland

WHEN JOAN CAULFIELD decided against doing any more of the My Favorite Husband shows for CBS-TV, things were slightly up in the air for a while. There was even talk about the whole affair being canceled. But then Vanessa Brown was contacted, agreed to do the part of the delightful Liz, and the show rolled once more—this time on film.

Vanessa is no new figure to TV. She has done several dramatic shows and she was also one of the regular panelists on the former stalwart, Leave It to the Girls. However, it was her performance on Broadway in "Seven Year Itch" that led to her getting the nod for My Favorite Husband. Producer William Dozier saw her work and asked her to take over the vacated role of Liz.

"Actually, the present series is an all-new one with no relation to the other show," Vanessa remarked quietly. "Besides, all this talk about my replacing Joan is a little pointless. When she did My Favorite Husband on TV, wasn't she taking over for Lucille Ball who had done it on radio? It didn't make any difference then who played the part so it certainly makes no difference now.

"I'm having a ball doing the role. I especially like it because each week there is something different to do. Certainly there's a lot of work but I love to be busy. It's not work when you're having fun.

"My Favorite Husband is, to me, a delightful slice of life. Movies usually stop after 'and they lived happily ever after.' Our show goes on to show what 'ever after' is."

In a way, it is odd to see Vanessa playing Liz. When she was younger she was known for her high I.Q. She was practically a child brain trust by herself. She dropped that mental kick to become an accomplished actress. Not that she has stopped thinking. It's just that she is more concerned with practical matters in living, such as being a wife.

She is married to a prominent doctor and they have apparently found a very happy life together. At least, her husband has enough of a sense of humor to be able to view her career with a grin instead of with a frown.

Home Life

"My husband has one theory about TV," Vanessa laughed. "He can always turn off the sound if he doesn't like what he hears—and that includes me and my work too. He lets me have my career, but he doesn't think he has to watch every show I'm on. In the first place, I wouldn't ask him to be that devoted.

"My Favorite Husband is a favorite of mine because I'm inherently a romanticist and the show stresses romance and sex after the conquest—or, translated, after marriage. Also, it makes fun of everyday tedium. As such, it serves a purpose in that it reminds married couples that marriage needn't be a routine matter.

"I'm not exactly like Liz, the girl I play in the show. She is entirely domestic. I'm not. I know how to boil eggs and how to make jello. I'd like to learn how to cook, but I can never seem to get any closer to real domesticity than being a pretty good housekeeper. I guess you could call my domestic instincts a cross between Bohemian and conservative.

"I'm afraid, though, I'm more Bohemian by nature. I have a picture of the girl I'd like to be—one who keeps regular hours, who bathes at certain times, who loves to shop. I'd love to be like that picture but it's a lost cause.

"But, you know, it doesn't really worry me. I manage to enjoy myself regardless."

And we have a hunch you'll enjoy Vanessa's Liz. The two have something in common after all. They are both pixies—and that's for sure.

The Human Side of A Hoosier Humorist

What is Herb Shriner's home life like? What 'new doors' is he trying to open? TV is murder to comedians—but what is Shriner doing to combat this? Why doesn't he want to be as the n as a second Will Rogers?

By As Far

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

HERB SHRINER is one country boy who hasn't let the Big City or show business get the best of him. As millions can testify who have seen or heard him on his personal appearances, on record, and of course, on his CBS-TV quiz show, Two for the Money, the Hoosier humorist has the same charm and wit which skyrocketed him to fame some four years ago.

When you visit him in his New York office at 133 East 54th Street—as we did—you see Herb away, so to speak, from the stage spotlight. He strikes you as being an average, conservatively dressed businessman, working quietly and alone in his small office the same as millions of other white collar workers.

Although he has become well-known as a comedian, he doesn't try to be funny when he's talking informally. Especially when the subject gets around to his family life with his wife Pixie, and their three children, Indy, 4, and the twins, Kin and Will, 2.

"I suppose some men like to be the big boss in the family. But it's not the way with me. My wife runs me, I don't run them. My wife is not the type who follows me with a broom in her hand ready to comply with my every wish. She's too independent for that, and I like her that way.

"She does have a habit of surprising me with little gifts such as a record album, or like the other day," he laughed, "when she bought me a peanut machine. The craziest little thing you ever saw. One peanut pops out at a time. Once you start eating them you can't stop. I'll have to admit I like the idea of surprise gifts, especially when I'm on the receiving end.

HERB SHRINER and his handsome family—wife Pixie, daughter Indy, and twin sons Kin and Will.

regular household shopping concerned, we don't have a chance to go together except in the summertime when I'm on vacation. My wife would probably even buy my own clothes—because I'm always forgetting. It would be easy if I could wear regular suits but I have to have them all tailor-made. Not because I think they're better or richer, but it's my long arms," he explained, as in a fashion he dangled them to his knees.

Not Boss At Home

"I'm the boss at work, but not when I come home. That's when the wife takes over. Even when it comes to talking about my work. My wife was formerly in show business as a dancer, you know, and she has been more help to me than you could possibly imagine. A lot of people say a man in my line of work should marry a person who knows nothing about show business. I don't agree. She's both critical and praiseworthy; but no matter which, I know she's being honest and trying to be constructive.

"You're always under pressure in this business—especially before a program—and at those times you need all the help you can get.

"And no matter how you feel 'the show must go on.' I'm not being trite; that's just the simple truth. It's not like a factory or some other place of work where, if a man is sick, someone else can take his place. In show business, too much depends on one man. If he doesn't do the job, the job doesn't get done.

"As a general rule, I don't think I'm difficult to get along with—even when the pressure is pretty great. I hope I always stay that way."

As the reader has surmised by now, Herb Shriner makes no attempt at always being funny. Oddly enough, he's also tried to apply this to his work while on stage.

Other Fields

The harmonica-playing humorist from Indiana is as aware as anyone that TV is murder on comedians.

"It's not only tough, it's impossible to be funny all the time. If TV personalities could do the same as the motion picture stars did for so many years—that is, do one or two big shows every year—we'd last a lot longer.

"That's why I've been trying for a long time to 'open the door' to other fields. I think I have achieved this to some extent on Two for the Money," the CBS-TV star explained. "I try as often as I can to have attention focused on other people on the program rather than myself. It helps me to have them look good."

Actually, Herb revealed, he would like to do the same kind of a format that he formerly did on his program, Herb Shriner Time.

No. 2 Second Will Rogers

"It was the type of thing—I think George Burns does it very well—where you speak directly to the audience and invite them to almost participate in the program while you're sitting in their living rooms."

Finally, there's one other topic that Herb has always had on his mind. Ever since he started to chat between his harmonica solos ("That's the way I began in this business, you know.") he has always been compared to the immortal Will Rogers.

"It's not that I blame the press because I realize that in writing up a performer they have to give the reader some comparison. But I never have and never will try to be a second Will Rogers. No one could ever really do that. He was too great.

"As a matter of fact, I even turned down the offer to do his life for motion pictures because I was trying to get away from any similarity between us. I think if I had appeared in public 20 years or more after Mr. Rogers' death, the comparison never would have been made in the first place. I remember a fellow who did a 'Second Will Rogers' act and he never got anywhere."

The same thing hasn't happened to Herb Shriner, the First, and he's glad of it.

Ever since Mark Stevens took over the reins of Big Town things have changed considerably. For one, a young lady named Doe Avedon is now decorating the scenery.

SHAKE - UP for Big Town

ONE OF THE CHANGES Mark Stevens has introduced in his Big Town series is the casting of Doe Avedon as his leading lady. The actress has won much acclaim for her work in pictures. Working with Mark, however, is her favorite job to date.

By Bruce Ramsey

A FEW MONTHS back the popular KRCA-NBC TV offering, Big Town, got itself a new look—and a man named Mark Stevens was responsible.

Mark, a prominent motion picture and TV actor himself and now a producer and director of TV and movies, his latest motion picture being "Time-table," was handed the reins of Big Town. He had directed a few and starred in several of the series for Gross-Krasne. But then came some differences of opinion between Mark and Gross-Krasne. Mark thought the program should be made one way, and the company thought it should be done another. So the matter was turned over to Lever Bros., who sponsor this show. They liked what Mark had done and they turned over the package to him.

Changes

This was a rare thing in the business. But it only pointed up how far Mark had progressed. He immediately went to work giving Big Town a face-lift. One of his first moves was to spend a good hunk of money on the set for the city room. Here is an exact replica, to the last detail, of an actual city room in a big newspaper. Then he turned his attention to more timely topics for Big Town. Subjects like illegal entry of aliens, sleeping pills, gambling empires, withholding sources of information were dealt with on the show. In other words, Big Town began playing catch with dynamite.

Among other significant changes is the emphasis Mark is putting on scripts. To him, the writer, actor, director and producer are important in that order. He feels that the right story is the important element because without that neither the actor nor the director can do much. Other actors like to work under him as director too because they know he is an actor and can therefore understand their problems.

Two other changes are Mark's decision to make a new commercial for each program, a radical departure for filmed shows, and the introduction of Doe Avedon as the romantic interest.

Doe Avedon

Mark refers to Doe as a lean gazelle, and this tall, lean young lady is just about that. She had made a good dent for herself in such pictures as "The High and the Mighty" and "Deep in My Heart," but had confined her TV appearances to one pilot film with Keenan Wynn which so far has not been sold.

She wasn't thinking much about TV. In fact, she recently took herself to Europe for a three-month vacation. When she returned to New York, she was visiting a friend in a hospital when a call came for her from Mark Stevens' company. Would she be interested in doing Big Town? Doe thought for a few seconds and said, "Yes."

Doe hasn't changed much with all of her success since she first came here in April of 1953.

"I have my same car, I live in an apartment, and I have my same dog," Doe remarked in her flip manner. "And I'm still single—with no marriage plans.

"I owe a great deal to Mark and to Eddie Rissiere of the company. They are great people to work for."

Doe operates on a free-wheeling basis in that she likes to do things on an impulse and in that she doesn't believe in planning too far in advance.

"Things change too fast," she said with a smile. "It's not a matter of living just for today but I'll be around a long time and where I'll be or what I'll be doing a few months from now I don't know. So I don't believe in tying myself down unnecessarily to schedules. The only commitment I have now is Big Town, and that's a pleasure.

"I also have no goals set up for myself. Whatever comes along is okay with me. In that respect I'm not a girl passionately devoted to anything—even a career. Sure I like to work and I shall probably work a long time, but my career isn't my whole life by a long shot."

Doe likes the simple kind of life. She dislikes parties intensely and she has no time for fuss and folderol. Her casual and careless hair-do is a pretty good expression of the uncomplicated life she likes to lead.

With Doe around Big Town and with Mark Stevens at the helm, a lot more than new life is being breathed into this TV stalwart.

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

SPECIAL FROM N.Y.: I am so thrilled! Seems that a few words spoken forcefully on behalf of the Southern California looking audience of Masquerade Party have already borne fruit. When I interviewed Keith Taylor, the show's associate producer, I told him how distressing it was to our large area to submit to two-week delayed kinescopes of the program and that it seemed a shame for the sponsor to throw his money away on an inferior product. Apparently this was just the final plea needed for him to convince the bank-roller that L.A. needed a hot kinescope (which costs more than what we've been getting on 16 mm). Voila! Beginning this week, we'll see the show the same night as N.Y. does. Now I feel like carrying on a systematic campaign with all the rest of the sponsors who are giving L.A. the brush-off.

NEW YORK MISCELLANY: John Masterson, formerly of the Three Johns on Bride and Groom and other shows, is here in Manhattan producing a TV show called Search for Beauty. John Ruddy is with Ursula Halloran's publicity outfit. Only John Nelson is in

NO MORE TV REPAIRS?

Transistors are now replacing all receiving tubes with good results in newly designed radios of various sizes, including "All Transistor Car-Radios" which reportedly will be used in most of the 1956 car models.

Designers of TV sets are also experimenting with transistors and it is believed that they will be used in Color TV Sets at a later stage but not in Black and White sets.

The advantage of using transistors is two-fold: Firstly, cut down of the breakdown ratio of the now very sensitive tubes and secondly, conservation of space.

But as long as you have to be satisfied with your present TV set, you should realize and face the maintenance problem involved.

The most reasonable service plan was worked out by Television Industries in 1949 and is still considered the best available. Television Industries will write a Parts Warranty on your set for only $15.00 for one full year, on a two year basis covering any and all parts including the large picture tube up to and including a 21 inch screen.

All house calls are charged for at a flat rate of $3.50.

For further information call RI. 9-0301 or write to Television Industries, Inc., 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.

Hollywood—he has charge of daytime TV programming at NBC . . . Bumped into Garry Moore at CBS, 485 Madison, and he looked just the same, but I'm afraid he'll never come back to California to live. He's really in the groove here . . . And of all people! When I walked into the N.Y. press department, here was Johnny Carson who'd flown east to emcee some big advertising affair.

STAATS COTSWORTH TURNS in a fine performance in the stage drama, "Inherit the Wind," and I'm sure you'll remember him from the old radio days of Casey, Crime Photographer . . . Incidentally, "Inherit the Wind" is the brainchild of two Hollywood lads, Lawrence (Jerry) and Lee (Bob) who have given listeners many fine hours of entertainment via their scripting on shows like Hallmark and Railroad Hour, Melvyn Douglas, who stepped into the leading role when Paul Muni had to undergo that eye surgery, is a big surprise as the stooped but courageous Drummond . . . Everyone here in N.Y. is talking about the Woodward murder case—its headlines crowded Princess Margaret right off the front page. Someone came up with the information yesterday that Mrs. Woodward hasn't always lived in high society's upper strata. Some ten years ago she was a member of the cast of Joyce Jordan, Girl Intern!

WELL-ESTABLISHED PEDIATRICIAN here observes that Dr. Spock's new TV program is fine, but he feels that Spock should hold a firmer hand on the talk and punch over the meat of the show in a snappy summary. This sounds like a splendid suggestion.

MARGARET TRUMAN WAS WORKING like a beaver when I stopped by NBC's Radio Central in New York. Teamed with Mike Wallace, she was transcribing portions of the network's new Weekday show. Mike and Margaret will alternate as emcees with Walter Kiernan and Martha Scott.

THE EX-PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER was really attending to business and seemed eager to take direction. She told me she will definitely do a Durante show this season and that she has also accepted the bid for a guest spot with Gobel. It is possible that Weekday may come from Hollywood while these commitments are being checked off.

MARGARET IS WEARING HER HAIR a little bronzier. She had on a simple navy blue dress which made her fair skin look almost transparent. On third finger, left hand, she's still showing that sapphire and diamond ring which always arouses questions. Last time she was in Hollywood she told me it was given her by her parents when she was graduated from college.

NEXT TO HER NEW RADIO SHOW, Margaret's biggest project is her life story which will soon appear in a national magazine.

FRIDAY AT MY HOTEL, the Barbizon Plaza overlooking Central Park, I had very special guests: Shirley Dinsdale, who won such popularity in California with her Judy Splinters; Shirley's a mom, and has a new "doll"—this one for real. For pretty Shirley, now happily Mrs. Frank Layburn, is mother of a beautiful fifteen-month-old daughter, Pat.

PATTY HAS COPPER-COLORED HAIR, creamy skin and dazzling blue eyes. She came walking down the hotel corridor to my room—very independently—and I flipped when Shirley pointed out their mother-daughter outfits. "Patty is wearing all of Judy Splinters' dresses," Shirley laughed. The ones chosen for my visit were green corduroy jumpers with red-polka-dotted white blouses.

SHIRLEY WAS EAGER TO HEAR NEWS of all her California friends. She would love to come "back home" to live, but right now her husband's important job (he has been loaned to the air force by Sperry) keeps the Layburns on the East Coast. If the right show came up, I think Shirley and Judy might go back on TV in the New York area. Incidentally, baby Patty loves Judy Splinters, always gets a gleam in her eye when Shirley brings out the dummy, feels that Judy is her special property and invariably tries to out-"talk" her when Shirley puts on her ventriloquism act.

GOT CAUGHT UP ON MY READING EN ROUTE East and here's an item from Barron's which struck me. "Edward R. Murrow willy nilly has become a factor as important in the stock market as Walter Winchell. The day after his TV program, See It Now, featured the controversy regarding the relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer, tobacco stocks slumped. Tomorrow, Mr. Murrow will present a second installment of the tobacco debate. What may have startled some investors more than anything said on the program was the noticeable fact that Mr. Murrow, the first time in the memory of the viewers, did not smoke during the presentation."

LINE GETTING A BIG LAUGH in the Broadway production, "Silk Stockings," when the movie queen suggests a zany plot: "Don't be silly! They wouldn't do that—even on television!"

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

O. McG., Lawndale

I must confess I was disappointed in Mary Margaret's TV appearance. She does such a fine job on radio. But—I think less of some of the people who write, airing their candid views about her appearance. Why do people have to exalt themselves by belittling someone else? Or is it the only way inferior complex characters get satisfaction?

I may not like a performer but I don't think I have to watch them and run them down and I certainly do not think it speaks well of one's own sense of justice to use the press to injure the future of clean, wholesome persons.

Sarah J., Venice

This is my first letter to TV-Radio Life. I have some peevish. First is about those Y-Knot Twirlers on Western Varieties. We enjoy listening to the music and singing on W.V., but it is very disgusting when we are trying to hear some good music and singing to have those Y-Knot Twirlers clapping their hands until we can hardly hear the music or singing.

Second is about the Bob Cummings show and some other shows that are equally disgusting and sickening as B. Cummings show. Wonder how men of any intelligence can act so silly. There are other programs that are worth while looking at that could take the place of those silly programs. We cannot see them because they are on at the same hour, when we look at one, we miss the other. Third, all these Western movies and other movies where men gang up, shooting, beating and even stabbing men to death are a detriment to our country. Is it any wonder that crime is on the rampage and that we have so much juvenile delinquency?

Mrs. E. M., La Jolla

It is very unfair of some viewers to make disparaging remarks about the Orrin Tucker Band that is now seen at the former Lawrence Welk hour. This musical group is tops and the most danceable music anyone would wish to hear, and included in their group are some really outstanding musicians. For instance, young Jack Melick who plays such wonderful piano and who is making such a tremendous impression on his audience, also talented Bobby Bruce, outstanding violinist, Elmer Smith who is delighting everyone with his sweet xylophone music and Ernie Ball, clever young steel guitarist whose music adds so much to this fine band, so very listenable, and of course the star of the show, Roberta Linn who has given so much pleasure to so many people with her lovely voice and charming personality.

E. R. G., Los Angeles

Note to announcers: There is no word that is pronounced TEMbler. Temblor (earthquake)—do not confuse with "trembler"—say t e m B L O H R. (Check all dictionaries.)

Mrs. J. A. T., Mojave

I've been reading your column, "Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen" and I agree with a recent correspondent about there being no loss when Lawrence Welk left KTLA.

On Monday and Saturday nights, we are watching Roller Derby and love every minute of it. We think Dick Lane is the greatest.

HIGH SPOTS

By JOHN DANIEL

City prep loops finish out this week with many key battles on the docket to determine league champions.

In the Western League, Hamilton meets Marshall in the decider, while Hollywood tangles with disappointing Venice. Fairfax and University finish out their seasons Friday, also.

Los Angeles rounds out Southern League action with a tilt with Dorsey while challenger Manual Arts faces Jefferson in two key contests.

North Hollywood meets a weak Birmingham team as Canoga Park plays San Fernando, and Reseda meets Van Nuys with the loop lead up for grabs in one of the tightest races.

Perhaps the outstanding achievement of the past few weeks was the 32-yard field goal by Hollywood's Roger Nezet in the last minute of play against Hamilton which enabled the Sheiks to top the Hamilton team 10-7. A field goal in a high school game is a rare treat and a 32-yard one almost unheard of. Hats off to Roger Nezet!

DAN ADAMS, El Segundo High School, wins a tube of L.B. Hair Control (Butch Wax). Call CHapman 5-3887.

CONTESTS SPUR NEW INTEREST ON CAMPUS CLUB

L. B. HAIR OIL is sponsoring a good hair-grooming contest daily. Don Otis, expert Hollywood authority on make-up and hair styling, chooses two students daily out of the audience—one boy and one girl—to win the daily L. B. Gift Kit. At the end of each two-week period, all daily winners are invited to return and the two students to have the best-groomed hair will each win a Gruen Precision Wrist Watch. Just have your hair well-groomed and if Don Otis spots you in the audience you can be a winner. And, if you watch this page every other week, you may find your name as a winner of some valuable L. B. HAIR product. Be sure to look for your name on this page.

Fashions 'n' Fancies

Let the rains come! Gay raincoats will perk up your dampened spirits when sudden showers threaten a football game, date or party. Terrific for campus wear come rain or shine are the new all-weather raincoats. The slim-lined coat of cotton corduroy is water-repellent with a rayon satin lining. Sylvia Edelson of Los Angeles City College wears her raincoat with a "skimmer" hat to match.

VIRGINIA COOPER, E. Los Angeles Junior College, wins a bottle of L.B. Hardwater Shampoo. Call CHapman 5-3887.

Flaps 'n' fringes, tassels 'n' ties... saddle shoes, mocs, loafers and bucks. Take your pick among these shoe styles. In a recent poll, the majority of students preferred white bucks. They have been the campus favorite for almost two years. Not only are they worn by girls, but fellows, too. The word's around that they go best with Bermuda socks and shorts. A recent fad at Fairfax High School is doubling your long socks by wearing them with full skirts and bucks, of course!

SLEEPY TIME GALS

Now is the time for huge slumber parties—especially after a game or dance. Edie Gurevitz of Dorsey High School gave a party that will long be remembered. Every girl took her own blanket and pillow; beds were taboo. For refreshments she served football-shaped hamburgers, honoring a Dorsey victory; cokes, and all the fixin's.

BETSY DAVIDSON, Occidental College, wins a bottle of L.B. Hardwater Shampoo. Call CHapman 5-3887.

Flannel shortie pj's are a perfect bed tog for slumber parties. Marilyn Petrus, also of Dorsey, proudly showed off her new slumber wear—a shortie nitie with cobbler-type pockets, Peter Pan collar, and puffed sleeves with short briefs to match. Cute!

HALF TIME

By VIC JOHNSON

UCLA and Southern California hook in another titanic Saturday with the Bruins the likely choice by a score of 27-13.

Pepperdine is likely to spoil LA State's Homecoming 13-6. Pomona-C Claremont should drop a good Occidental team 20-12. Whittier, with only one loss, is the pick to stop Redlands 35-0 in this week's small college games.

Although I am a City College fan I cannot foresee the Cubs stopping Compton this Thursday night. The Tartars could be rudely upset but figure on Compton 34-14. Compton appears destined to play in the Junior Rose Bowl unless they drop a game, then Valley or Mt. San Antonio could slip into the picture.

Pasadena City College, after a bad start, has rebounded and looms a definite obstacle to Compton when they meet next week.

DICK CONSTANTINO, Culver City High, wins a tube of L.B. Hair Control (Butch Wax). Call CHapman 5-3887.

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

Bill Stewart, KMPC's raucous record rider, notified his widespread audience (he has one listener in Compton and one in Glendale and that's pretty widespread) that I am in the habit of lending my car to young ladies who then proceed to crack it up. This is to inform Uncle Whoa Bill that the young ladies I know are walkers, not riders and that I'm the only one around here who's cracking up.

"The Lavender Hill Mob." (7) Nov. 20, 7:30. Alec Guinness is famous in this country for a succession of imaginative comedies and here is perhaps the most popular of them. He plays a shy, circumspect little fellow who dreams of grandeur and concocts a scheme to rob the Bank of England of its gold bullion, transmute it into little replicas of the Eiffel Tower and transport them out of the country, where he expects to live a life of conspicuous consumption the rest of his days. He enlists the aid of small time toy manufacturer Stanley Holloway and together they lure a third fellow into their enterprise, a burglar who can give it the professional touch. The robbery is carried off successfully, the gold is changed into small Eiffel Towers, and then everything goes awry. Some of the towers fall into innocent hands and the two conspirators have a devil of a time getting them back, summoning all their small reserve of courage to deal with the series of unexpected and thoroughly maddening setbacks that threaten their mission. Guinness and Holloway are surely the two most engaging fellows ever to rob the Bank of England, and the delightful screenplay of this 1952 production was good enough to win an Academy Award.

"The Little Fugitive." (5) Nov. 20, 7:30. Once again a difficult choice has to be made between watching this film and the aforementioned. Produced in 1953 by Ray Ashley and Morris Engel, who also directed, "The Little Fugitive" shows what can be done by a couple of guys with a camera, a little money and a lot of taste and creativity. Done in a semi-documentary fashion, the story follows a little boy through a day's experiences at Coney Island after he has run away from home under the mistaken impression that he has killed his brother. He spends all his money doing the usual things at an amusement park and then is forced into the bottle collecting business to finance further debauchery. The wonderful thing to watch is the abandon, the energy, the pure sensuous enjoyment of the boy as he gorges himself on unfamiliar pleasures, and the periodic fits of depression as he realizes that he is, indeed, an outcast. Richie Andrusco plays the boy with a naturalness that is approached by no professional actors performing today, so I suppose it isn't fair to call it acting. Let's just say that he is the boy and that he is a warming and touching person to watch.

"Christopher Columbus." (13) Nov. 22, 8:30. This 1949 J. Arthur Rank production tells in rather commonplace fashion the story of Christopher Columbus, his trials at the Spanish court, his tribulations on the high seas and his final ignominy. What could have been a grandly exciting adventure becomes here a turgid, finicky presentation of the facts known to every schoolboy and is dwelt on at such length that the new world grows old in the process. Fredric March struggles against the script with a scenery chewing performance that must be chalked up as one of his less than inspiring jobs.

"The Mystery." (11) Nov. 21, 11:45. I couldn't find out anything about this one.

Label Talk

By TERREA LEA

A little over two years ago I became associated with a business called Label Bank, Inc. I did a television program and market appearances. I also spent a lot of time talking to new clubs and organizations which wanted to start saving labels and needed to know how the plan worked.

I must say that Label Bank at that time was a pretty sick dog, if you'll excuse the expression. There were only six grocery brands for members to save labels from and it was far from being a prosperous business. In fact, it almost looked like a lost cause to the new owners.

But . . . we all know how stubborn the Irish can be and Betty Moore (originally O'Moore) was determined that Label Bank would be the best premium and merchandising plan in the country.

Betty, as general manager and part owner, rolled up her sleeves, set her jaw, and started out to make this dream come true. With hard work, cooperation, and determination from all three partners, Label Bank now is, without doubt, the finest premium and merchandising plan in Southern California. Very soon this will be true for the entire West Coast.

Management has played the big part, but of course it wouldn't be possible without the cooperation from manufacturers, brokers and agencies of grocery products for you folks to save labels from. Instead of six . . . there are now 37 brands, giving you 400 individual products with labels worth premiums to you. And instead of 100 . . . you now have over 300 Nationally Advertised Premiums to choose from.

Yes, Miss Moore has realized part of her dream. But she says she won't be satisfied until she has 100 brands for you to save labels from. She also wants to make it possible for people all over the country to take advantage of Label Bank. She wants Marlene Gordon in New York, Betty Tronjo in Florida, and Margaret Nutz in Fort Scott, Kansas, to be able to have beautiful premiums in return for labels. And I have a feeling that this will happen. It may take a little time . . . but it will happen.

Label Bank is a wonderful plan, folks, and one I am very proud to be associated with. Why don't you take advantage of it. Send for a free Label Bank premium catalogue. Just write to Label Bank, Dept. TVRL, 727 No. La Brea Ave., Hollywood 38. You'll be happy you did . . . and so will I.

Stars on Radio; Angels on TV

The biggest news in the TV-radio world this week was a radio scoop.

KFWB President Harry Maizlish announced that his station has purchased exclusive radio rights to all the Hollywood Star baseball games for 1956.

There will be no TV of Hollywood games at home or away. The Los Angeles Angels will televise their home games on KHJ-TV, Channel 9, except on Friday. The remaining weekday games will be televised in the afternoon, rather than in the evenings as during the previous seasons.

Maizlish said, "Past history shows that radio does not hurt attendance but instead stimulates it." He declared he was confident that the "no-TV" policy would reflect increased attendance at Gilmore Field and prove that baseball still was America's number one sport.

The announcement, made at a press conference at the Los Feliz Brown Derby, was unprecedented in baseball in the TV era. During the past four years, the Stars have allowed all of their home games to be telecast. The 1956 policy is a return to the 1948 program when all Twink games were released over radio but a blackout was observed on TV for home games.

KFWB has been broadcasting Star games, home and on the road, since 1952.

It was believed that all baseball would watch with great interest the result of this policy on the Twink box office in '56. On the Pacific Coast, only two league clubs—Portland and Sacramento—had no TV whatsoever in 1955. All of the other teams followed a program of releasing all home games or releasing a limited number.

Douglas-Israel-Tapes

Hugh Douglas' trip to Israel last summer produced some very pertinent tape recordings which CBS-KNX news editor Barney Miller presented on recent Sunday Desk broadcasts. The new Israeli-Egyptian flareup has focused the headlines in the Far East and Miller plans to use more of Hugh's tape-recorded interviews on upcoming Sunday Desk airers.

An interview with Dr. Dag Joseph, Israel's Minister of Development—roughly comparable to our Department of Interior—and with a young shepherd who considered carrying guns out to the fields standard equipment have already been aired.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

EN ROUTE VIA CALIFORNIA ZEPHYR—This column has an appropriate heading since Holland has been in tunnels all morning coming back to the Coast in this train over the fabulous Royal Gorge and Feather River route. Here is a land of beauty, majesty, and of grandeur—a place which seems to have left civilization behind. Definitely, here is one place where you don't see any television aerials. Only snow on the roofs, trees towering above winding rivers, and huge crags that seem to be uttering prayers to the heavens.

New York and its teeming mass of humanity rushing to beat a taxi cab across the street seem to be in another world. It's even hard to recall the Big City. Suddenly, it doesn't matter who is tops in ratings, what the new shows are, what star is on the rise or on the fall. This is something that is hard to recapture, but recapture it you must if you want to get a column done.

After having talked to the people of import in the New York television circles, you get the feeling that most of them are refusing to admit that Hollywood as a setting for TV shows exists. There is a definite tendency to look upon Hollywood efforts as mediocre, pointless, not in a class with the production in New York. Yet you know that such an attitude is mere bravado. You know that whether the people in the Big City like it or not, Hollywood is becoming more and more the center of TV activity. New York holds the edge only when it comes to live shows. And there are very few good live shows left. Playwrights '56 is one program that does recognize the existence of Hollywood and appreciates its contributions since it is dividing its time between New York and Hollywood. Some shows will be done in the east, some here. You imply to some of the producers of live dramatic shows that drama in Hollywood can be as effective in the west as in the east and you get horrified expressions.

In no way is this meant to minimize the fine efforts of New York producers. But it is amusing to see the last ditch battle being waged, the battle to prove that Hollywood is a setting for morons, mediocrity, and the haven for men who couldn't make good in New York or as producers of pictures for the motion picture industry. In fact, one noted New York personality said that those making films for TV in Hollywood are the ones who couldn't make the grade as producers for feature motion pictures. That, alone, should be proof of the jaundiced attitude the east has of the west.

In New York, the talk was primarily about the successful Noel Coward-Mary Martin show done on Ford Star Jubilee. There were those who made some cynical comments about Mr. Coward's personality, but those who are in the know recognized this show as one of the major steps ahead for TV.

There is much talk in the Big City now too about Paul Coates since his show became syndicated. It has caught on as fast there as it did in Hollywood. There is a growing interest too in Lawrence Welk's program, although the interest is not as pronounced as it is in Coates. But I have a hunch that Lawrence will soon be riding the same successful bandwagon that launched Liberace into national fame. Another interesting observation was that Lucy and Desi were again being talked of a lot—and most people felt that they were going to have another hot season.

As a final recap of the New York vs. Hollywood set-up, looking over the New York TV logs points up one thing—if it weren't for the Hollywood output, there'd be some mighty scarce fare offered. About three-fourths of the evening shows are recognizable Hollywood products. You can take that as an indication of what to look for as far as the future is concerned if you wish. So let's just settle for this—New York offers shows of real importance and so does Hollywood. And neither should refuse to admit that the efforts of both are necessary if TV is to advance.

At any rate, it's good to be getting back and it's nice to remember all the fine people who were so cooperative and who helped to make this a pleasant trip. And one of the most pleasant memories of all will be seeing the play, "No Time for Sergeants," which began as a TV show with Andy Griffith starred, and wound up as a smash hit on Broadway with Andy and Roddy McDowall carrying the ball. This is the first TV play to be taken to Broadway and turned into a hit. There may be others but it will take a lot to equal "Sergeants." Paddy Chayefsky may be enjoying a success on the stage, though, when Edward G. Robinson stars in February in his new play.

TV Wrestling-- Las Vegas Style

KTTV'S BILL WELSH HAS DISCOVERED there's as much acting talent at the ringside in Las Vegas as there is in the ring itself. (1) Bill chats with Spike Jones and Joe E. Lewis during a match; (2) Celebrities flock to the ringside. Lt. Governor of Nevada Rex Bell was a recent visitor; (3) Mickey Miller, showgirl at the Dunes, welcomes wrestler Lord Carlton. Bill apparently is enjoying himself in Vegas; (4) Wrestler Verne Gagne is handed a bunch of posies after a match, but the Dunes showgirls probably interest him a lot more; (5) TV singer Marion Marlowe was another of Bill's guests. # Give Your IQ a Lift With Television

By Bill Weber

INDISCRIMINATE criticism of television is easy. Who can deny there isn't a lot of room for improvement? But can't you say the same about life? The self-appointed television critic has merely to single out his pet peeve and sound off—without, of course, evaluating the medium in its entirety. It's very much like the person who is of the opinion that life is a sorry mess. Beginning with such a philosophy he has little trouble in finding specific cases to illustrate his viewpoint. But to illustrate a viewpoint does not mean that it is proved. So it is with television—an epicurean feast of communication with an appeal to every taste magnificently spread before us every day. It is our task but to choose, to select. If criticism must be made, isn't it perhaps wiser to criticize the selectivity of the viewer?"

Wise and witty Dr. Frank Baxter leaned back in his reading chair and puffed on his pipe. The learned professor who somewhat resembles a whimsical kewpie with a towering IQ and whose twinkling blue eyes are as eloquent as his command of the language, was discoursing on the contributions of television to learning and the eventual probability of lifting the general level of cultural appreciation.

"I don't think we should worry about steam-rolling the public with culture. Unlike selling the mechanical marvels of this age such as washing machines and ice-boxes, cultural appreciation is not a high-pressure commodity for selling. It is a thing of gentle acquisition, like acquiring a taste for fine wine. One cannot hurry such things. And it must be remembered that rather than a must, a thing of compulsion, learning must be a pleasurable and enriching experience. Development of tastes and appreciation is therefore a process of evolution."

The professor, who perhaps more than anyone else has shown via television that learning is enjoyable through his KNXT programs on Shakespeare and literature, started his career as an ardent foe of Shakespeare.

"The teaching approach to Shakespeare in my high school days was the torturous one, where, like an over-long-embalmed cadaver, the plays were laid out before us for dissection—the majestic beauty of the poetry reduced to parsed fragments, the almost unearthly insight into the human mind and heart that is Shakespeare's great genius wasn't available even in fragments. It was non-existent."

It was not until years later on attending a small production of a Shakespearean play in a high school auditorium that the Shakespearean bug bit the man who has become the Bard's greatest exponent in the twentieth-century theater, television.

"You see, that's one of the great things about television, too. It enables the student to escape the teacher," Dr. Baxter chuckled.

"Think of the youngsters today who have the great heritage of our Western world brought into their homes. An eight-year-old child rarely gets to the theater. Yet in his home he can witness the finest productions of Shakespeare to a greater advantage than sitting in a crowded auditorium. Through the intimacy of television the play is brought to him for his inspection at close range, and though he may not realize the full import of the language, the concomitant gestures and facial expressions of the actor carry the meaning. He is learning, enjoying, tasting, savoring one of the great geniuses of all time. Shakespeare, of course, is but an example, an example which can be multiplied on all fronts of the horizons of knowledge. But it is an indication of the tremendous impact television is having daily on millions of viewers. What a wondrous thing to awaken the curiosity, to stimulate the mind, to roll back the horizons of our world in both space and time, the sweeping panorama of all mankind. Considering that evolutionary process, television is a limitless realm for developing the most widely learned and intelligent public in the history of man.

"I don't know," smiled Dr. Baxter, "but I rather think that many of our indiscriminate critics of television are probably the same breed who once upon a time sounded off when another great development in human communication made its first appearance—the invention of printing from movable type. I am inclined to believe our critic of television is in the same vulnerable position.

"I suppose you might say," Dr. Baxter's eyes twinkled, "that I believe television is here to stay."

DR. BAXTER likes to sit out by his pool when he has the time. He calls it the only concession to his increased income as a result of his KNXT shows.

YOU COULD NEVER SAY that Dr. Baxter doesn't read in comfort. His specially built chair is designed to make his work easier and with the number of books he reads he is entitled to such extra conveniences. He has read all those volumes behind him.

WRITER BILL LUTZ (standing) creates copy while the show is on the air. His ideas and those of merchandiser Charles Forman (foreground) are pooled then dictated to Virginia Benjamin who dashes off the copy and rushes it on stage to Jack Bailey.

BACKSTAGE WITH THE

QUEENS

Behind the smooth Queen for a Day broadcasts are two backroom operators who frantically plan the individual prizes for Her Majesty.

By Mildred Ross

A BACKSTAGE visit to Queen for a Day proved just how hectic life is behind the scenes of a television program. On stage, the Queen cast go through their paces at a comparatively relaxed tempo while those backstage work themselves up into a nervous frenzy.

Within seconds after the queen is selected her wishes, plus some additional gifts, are fulfilled. Did you ever wonder what behind-the-scenes magic was being worked to produce these fast results? A well stocked store room and the team of a prolific writer, Bill Lutz, and an ingenious merchandiser, Charles Forman, form the winning combination that work these wonders on the KHJ show.

Wandering backstage through the labyrinth of merchandise piled mountain high is something like Alice in Wonderland's trip. You find yourself surrounded by rugs, stoves, freezers, washing machines, baby carriages, TV sets, radios, pots and pans, luggage, baby furniture and small appliances. Every bit of merchandise is allocated to an exact spot so that it can be hauled on camera at a second's notice. An agile stage hand rules this domain and his word is law.

Off-stage, just a few steps from this simulated warehouse, is a dressing room equipped with a special loudspeaker. Closeted here during airtime are two geniuses, Bill Lutz and Charles Forman. Their routine is a sure-fire prescription for developing a case of ulcers. With loudspeaker tuned up high, they listen attentively while Jack Bailey pries useful information from each contestant. Jack's pointed questioning reveals interesting material which helps these two backroom plotters.

If there are four contestants there are four "Your wish shall be granted" speeches written backstage while the program is on the air. The afternoon we were eavesdropping, one woman needed a new transmission for her car, one wanted the program to find her missing son, another wanted a fence for her backyard, and another needed a water heater. While these women were telling their stories things were happening fast in operation backroom. From a master file, Charles yanked cards containing a list of the things that would fulfill each of their wishes. From these cue cards, Bill quickly composed little speeches for Jack.

Then came the critical moment when the audience picked the winner by metered applause. It was contestant number three who wanted a fence so that her children could play safely in their backyard. Quick as lightning, Chuck and Bill discussed the pay-off prize, wrote the speech, whipped it out of the typewriter and rushed it on stage just in time for Jack to say: "Your Majesty, in addition to getting the fence for your backyard and all these wonderful prizes, we would like to add a little something for your children . . . an outdoor gym apparatus, a tricycle and a rocking horse." As Jack concluded, the curtains parted and the pay-off prizes were pushed into camera's range by the ever-alertful stage hand who had been in constant communication with the two backroom plotters.

There is no pre-arranged planning on the pay-off prize. It's decided upon the moment the winner is announced. By carefully appraising Jack's line of questioning with the winning contestant and by being fully acquainted with the merchandise setup, Bill and Chuck come up with wonderful pay-off surprises for each and every happy queen.

Although it's a nerve wracking task, the pair have never been stumped in granting the queen her wish. Sometimes when the requests are rather far fetched Her Majesty has to wait for the fulfillment of her wish. Bill and Chuck admit that they don't keep a supply of electric eels or wooden legs for pet geese on hand, but they've come up with things just about that fantastic.

Cold Facts About A

Hot Star

Hugh O'Brian is now portraying Wyatt Earp for ABC. But just what is this young star really like? What is his TRUE story?

By Jack Holland

ONE OF THE MOST PROMISING of young Hollywood stars, Hugh O'Brian, has joined the ranks of TV regulars with his own series, Wyatt Earp, on KABC-TV. It is among the best of the new type of western TV shows.

IT'S INTERESTING to read a prepared biography of a star you know personally.

My first meeting with Hugh O'Brian, who is essaying the colorful role of Wyatt Earp for the benefit of the new KABC-TV series, was back in 1947. At the time I had a little theater group known as The Stagelights. One day Hugh walked in to read for a part. He had done one role in a play before—and that was the extent of his theatrical experience.

He was pretty rough around the edges. But he wanted to act and he worked hard. Soon he was showing promise. He had learned how to walk across stage without looking like a lumbering giraffe, he played enough different parts so that he knew how to do a scene effectively, and he was becoming more and more dedicated to the premise of being an actor.

(His biography, however, claims that he had no intention of being an actor. If this is so, he put on a good performance.)

Hugh did several shows with us and finally came into his own with a memorable performance in "Mourning Becomes Electra." This was his baptism under fire. And he came through with flying colors.

As the months passed Hugh changed—primarily in new self-assurance. After a couple of more shows with us he left to do other productions elsewhere. Little by little he worked into TV—and then Universal-International took him under its wing. He was on his way.

Those early days working with Hugh provided some not so gentle memories. There were times when he had to borrow money to buy gas for his broken-down car. There were days he had nothing to eat. There was one romance which looked promising but ended suddenly. There were disappointments, frustrations, and yet he kept on trying. His perseverance would be a lesson to any hopeful young actor.

Certainly, as his success grew, he went through the stage where he "went Hollywood." Things got a bit grand around the O'Brian front, but this has happened to all young actors who suddenly find dollars in their pockets where there used to be holes.

About his early work with The Stagelights, no reference is made in his biography to this particular phase in his life. The only comment is: "Opportunity came to replace a friend who had become ill in the cast of a play staged by a little theater group." Nothing is said about the struggles he went through. Nothing is said about the many people who believed in him and tried to help him.

Then there is this line: "One of the jobs he undertook was selling haberdashery in offices. After he had gotten an order, Hugh would invite the customer to come to the theater to see him act, for he was then also playing with various little theater groups."

At the time Hugh was selling haberdashery—out of a suitcase—he was still with The Stagelights and most of the kids in the company were buying ties and things from him. But Hugh would take almost any job so he could eat while he tried to get a break acting. There was no false pride in him.

Nor did he stop trying to get an education. He did go to Los Angeles City College for a while but when his acting break came along he naturally left school.

TV Got Him

His entrance into TV with his own show was to be expected, for you can't keep an ambitious career-minded guy down. He is an intense actor and, as such, should do nicely as Earp.

So far, Hugh is still unmarried and likely to remain that way for some time. He dates most of the Hollywood stars and apparently enjoys the single bliss. But those who knew Hugh in the years back hope that someday he'll find the right girl and settle down. For the present, Hugh simply wants no marital responsibilities.

It's a long road from the night Hugh received his acclaim for his work as Orin in "Mourning Becomes Electra." There have been many detours. Success is resting nicely on his shoulder. Let's hope he never forgets the kind of guy he was then—earnest, loyal, sincere. Let's hope that success doesn't make him forget his long climb up the ladder—or the people who believed in him when he was not a star.
