Let Your Money Work for You!

IF EVERYONE KNEW AS MUCH about the stock market as KABC-Radio's John Baird we'd probably all be wearing that pleasant look of solid satisfaction.

That cash you've got stashed away in a shoe box will never build anything, never increase, and it might accidentally get mislaid.

By Jean Corlis

Time was when only two classes of Americans knew anything about that mysterious place "the stock market": either the very wealthy or the speculator. Today a composite of the 16,000,000 Americans owning securities in the major businesses of America would look very much like you or your next-door neighbor.

John Baird, on his KABC-Radio program, Private Wire, at 6:30 each evening, speaks to the seasoned investor, the timorous investor, and the potential investor. The program is unique in that it encompasses those who know their way around the ticker tape, those who cast a slightly apprehensive eye at the Big Board, and those who merely study the financial page in the daily paper with dreams of what they'll do when they save up a nest egg.

Through John's program and other material being made available to the general public today by stock exchanges and investment houses, people in all walks of life have become conscious of the tremendous opportunity to participate in America's industrial expansion, and at the same time provide for their own future.

"There have never been as many people owning their share of American business as we have today," commented John, "and never have so many understood the problems of business."

New Money Needed

Ruddick C. Lawrence, vice-president of the New York Stock Exchange, speaking on Private Wire recently, made this prediction: "In the next ten years it is going to be necessary, in order to meet our expanding industrial growth, to raise $60,000,000,000 of new equity money not in the securities market today. It is going to come from the savings of a great many millions of Americans — much of it out of mattresses and sugar-bowls. No one can make an estimate of how much money is lying in shoe boxes, cans, and other 'secret' hiding places."

Does this mean that everyone with a few dollars in a savings account or a cookie jar should immediately rush to the nearest broker? "Definitely not," counsels John Baird. "Before you decide that you want to 'try out' the stock market you should consider: (1) That you have an adequate insurance program covering your business and your family; (2) That you have, according to your needs, a savings account which will cover emergencies which may arise, and for a rainy day in general. When these basics are covered, then it is time to look to the development of your personal stake in the national economy."

John Baird has this further advice to offer the prospective investor. "One of the most important steps in making your decision to invest is state of mind. The proper approach is 'I don't expect to get rich quick, but I'd like to share in the natural growth of the country.' Profit will follow with such a sound approach."

With this state of mind, the investor should take his broker into his confidence as fully as he would his doctor or his lawyer. To be guided wisely in his investments he must lay his cards on the broker's table regarding his financial position and what he's aiming for — a quick profit or investment for long term security.

Blue Chips vs. Speculation

Many people wonder if they should invest in blue chip stocks or something a little more speculative.

"It all depends on what you want to achieve," John stated. "The rule of thumb is that the greater your chance for quick profit the greater the risk. Blue chip stocks usually move slower but more securely. Your opportunity to make money in a hurry is in the same ratio as the risk you take."

If this sounds like advice from an elder financier, don't be misled. John Baird is a young man with a sound background in practical business operation; a dynamic speaker — now teaching a class at Hollywood High School on Monday evenings, a course in Sales Speech given under the auspices of the Los Angeles Board of Education and the New York Stock Exchange; a man of broad cultural knowledge who is serving on the Board of Arts Commissioners and the Committee for Beautification and Development of Los Angeles City and County, as well as being a member of the Advisory Board of the Southern California Symphony Association and a director of the Educational Opera Association which presents operas in miniature for junior audiences.

John Baird is not only interested in the financial growth of our country, through the sound investments of rank and file Americans, he is also concerned that our cultural growth keep pace with our material gain. In pointing the way for us to become the most provident people in the world, he is also pointing the way for that freedom from financial worry which gives leisure and income to appreciate and patronize the arts.

IT was a very cozy family scene. Myron, in a striped sport shirt, was working in his office, daughters Christine and Robin were in the kitchen helping Berdyne, also known as Mrs. Floren. Myron's older daughter, Randy, was at school.

The Florens had only recently moved into their new home in the Baldwin Hills and were still in the process of redecorating and repainting. Their 10 room home, furnished in light colors and done in French Provincial, amply showed Berdyne's deft touch as a decorator, although she insists that Bethina's did the actual job.

I lent a somewhat hesitant hand on the painting and putting on the wall paper," Myron said modestly and in his quiet way. Actually, he's quite a fix-it.

"He's fine at repairing and fixing things — when you can catch him," Berdyne added with a laugh.

There was a good deal of joy in the Floren house on this day especially. Myron, who had had heart trouble and was faced with a serious operation, had just learned the day before that no operation was necessary and that he was in good health.

"All I have to do is avoid any heavy lifting and any competitive sports," the ace accordionist of the ABC-TV Lawrence Welk show said. "This isn't bad because I never have time to do anything but work in the band."

There was no doubting the fact that Myron was a very relieved guy at the doctor's report.

Taking Time

Myron and his wife were making the changes in the home in a gradual way, on a sort of pay-as-you-go basis.

"We've always tried to be careful about what we've bought," he said, "to stay within a budget."

"You can certainly say we're not rash," put in Berdyne.

Most families who are redoing a house act as though they were incubated in a pressure cooker. Nerves fly at random and tempers go off in all directions. But not the Florens. You'd have thought they were just having a series of pink teas.

"I've learned to condition myself," Myron remarked. "I don't let things get me in a stew. And I don't worry about what may happen tomorrow. I just believe that everything is going to work out all right in time — and it usually does."

"He's the most patient man I've ever known," Berdyne said. "Quite unlike me. And he's so relaxed! Why, do you know he can sleep at any time? Once I even caught him sleeping standing up."

Myron tries to get about seven hours rest a night, but at times he gets three and at other times nine. He awakens easily when he has to go to work but it is a major production to get him out of bed when he doesn't have to take off for the job.

A CLOSE LOOK AT

Myron

Floren

You've seen Myron Floren on the Lawrence Welk show but here's your chance to visit him and know what he is really like.

Obviously, Myron has a clear conscience. Nothing seems to prey on his mind. Perhaps the explanation is to be found on the small pictures of himself he sends out to fans. On the back of each photo is the Optimists Creed written in full. Read that once and let it sink in and you might get a clear mind too—along with a positive outlook on life.

Sentimental

Myron is basically a quiet, thoughtful, gentle man. He is also an incurable sentimentalist.

A perfect example of how sentiment operates on Myron was the surprise party he gave his wife on their tenth anniversary.

One hundred twenty five people were invited to the Buggy Whip Restaurant in Westchester. With the most meticulous care he kept the secret from Berdyne. He helped in making all decorations, in ordering the food, and in arranging for the guests to be seated promptly at 4:45. At 5:00 he and his wife were to arrive. Mrs. Patterson of the restaurant greeted Myron and Berdyne, took them into another room and then told Berdyne she wanted her to see the new decorations in the banquet room. When Berdyne walked in she was greeted with the party!

Myron had even arranged for the maid of honor at their wedding to fly in from China Lake and had one of the bridesmaids, who lived in town, there too. In addition, he had managed to get a recording of their actual wedding ceremony which was played for the crowd. He topped it all off by later presenting his wife a leather-bound book containing pictures of the occasion.

Of his marriage, Myron says proudly, "I have two or three big ambitions in my life, the most important being that we celebrate our golden anniversary."

Myron's sentimental nature is further reflected in his actions at a movie. He invariably cries at sad pictures. "I even shed a few tears when I saw 'Bus Stop,'" Myron said without explaining this any further.

Temperamentally, Myron is, however, not one to get depressed, to be highly elated, or to fly into a temper.

Lunch was served and Christine made some remark to Myron. He reached over, touched her face gently, and said, "This is my little Princess." As a father you could tell he was a push-over.

"Myron is not very strict as a father," Berdyne confessed. "I'm the one who wields the strong hand. I have to. All he has to do is to scold them or look at the children harshly and everyone cracks up. Myron has more patience than I do," and then she added with a smile, "but it's easy to be patient when you're only around the girls about an hour a day—as Myron is.

Although he is primarily a serious-minded person, he has a good sense of humor. He likes the kind of humor George Gobel, Jack Benny, and Red Skelton dish out and finds little amusement in the slapstick brand of laughs that Jackie Gleason and Milton Berle are noted for.

Clothes

Like most men Myron heartily dislikes shopping for clothes, which brings up another phase of the Floren personality.

"I always have to drag him into a store to buy clothes," Berdyne commented. "Once he's inside he is absolutely afraid to walk out without buying something. He can't say no to a clerk. When he does buy any outfit he leans towards the conservative."

"I like to think I dress well," Myron grinned, "but I have to confess I often put on the strangest things. Once, when we were in St. Louis, I dashed off to work, got to the radio station and then discovered that I had put on two different shoes. I almost broke up the place. Another time I went into Hollywood to work and found I had put on a pair of dirty slacks in which I had been painting. I had to go back home to change.

"It's not that I'm sloppy. It's that I get preoccupied. Besides, I have an instinctive dislike for dressing up when I don't have to since I get tired of wearing suits all the time for the show. Maybe my boners have been subconscious rebellions."

Considering his occasional slap-happy attitude about clothes, it is interesting to note he is in charge of the uniforms for the men in the Welk band.

The Floren home is a constant beehive of social activity, none of it planned. People just drop in and stay.

"The first few weeks we were in our new house," Myron said, "we had friends or relatives over constantly. We can't plan any formal kind of entertaining because our house is always full. But we like it."

When they do have privacy and when Myron can spend time at home, he devotes at least an hour a day to practice on the accordion. Although he's a past master at the instrument he continually wants to improve and to discover new tricks in his playing.

"The way TV eats up your material you have to keep doing something new," Myron remarked. "Recently, I've collaborated in preparing a new method for accordion teaching. I compose many numbers for the instrument, as well as other types of songs, and I am a member of ASCAP. I haven't made much money from these efforts yet, but I will in time."

Shy?

As you talk with Myron you get the idea from his quiet, modest manner that he is also shy. Such is not the case.

"I'm not shy now, although I used to blush when a girl looked at me," he smiled. "That was when I was a kid, of course. I don't even worry about what people have to say about me or anything I do. I just try to do the right thing. I don't worry anyway."

"Except when I threaten to dye my hair," Berdyne laughed.

Myron next went into his office to show some work he had been doing. He probably figured this was a good time to change the subject. The desk was liberally littered with notes, papers, and music.

"This is something Berdyne can't understand about me," he went on happily. "She can't see how I can be so careful in keeping my books for the Champagne Club and how I can get so messy with my own desk. But I know where everything is in spite of all the confusion.

"I guess this is all part of another habit I have. I am forever tearing off corners of a piece of paper or using a gum wrapper to write down addresses and phone numbers or to keep track of something I must do. Berdyne gave me several of those pocket size notebooks but I always forget to use them."

"Days later," Berdyne remarked, "Myron will ask me what I did with that piece of paper he had in his pocket. How was I to know it was important? I've learned to save everything for him now."

After going outside to take in the balance of the tour and after seeing the playhouse Myron built for his youngsters, I took off for town. I now understand one big reason why Myron plays such sweet music. The guy has found contentment, completeness, and a happiness with no dents in it.

COMMERCIALLY speaking, the hard-sell pitch is rapidly going out of fashion. The raucous, screaming salesman on TV and radio is having a hard time finding a job these days. The new style is to sugar-coat the commercial with entertainment.

To prove the point, how often do you find yourself humming or whistling a tune that you realize, perhaps a little sheepishly, is a commercial? And how many youngsters do you know who can sing every word of a dozen assorted air advertisements?

This is obviously no accident. Del Porter and Larry Greene of Song Ad Film-Radio Productions readily admit this is so.

"What are the things you'll never forget, the things you couldn't forget if you wanted to?" Del asks, then answers his own question. "Nursery rhymes. That's because they have the three R's — rhyme, rhythm and repetition.

"Actually, it's rough to learn speech, but learning with rhythm simplifies it because the basis of life is rhythm — the ebb and flow of the tide, the beat, beat, beat of your heart, the rise and fall of the sap in the tree — these are the very fundamentals of nature and life.

Up-to-Date Nursery Rhymes

"That's why the musical commercial has been so successful. It imitates this rhythm of nature. And, too, that's why you hear the kids chanting commercials. They're modern nursery rhymes.

"I think the only reason the old hard sell was successful on radio was that radio was such a complete novelty, far more so than television ever was. Radio conditioned the listener for TV, so that when it came along he was much more critical of what he saw and heard."

But recognition of a fact is not the only ingredient of success. There must also be interpretation.

"Everybody has his own likes and dislikes in music," says Larry, who is musical director for Song Ads. "But we can't let our personal preferences influence our work. We have used every type of music from rock and roll to Dixieland to hoedown to chamber music.

"The thing is, we are trying to sell our client's product. We must decide what type of music will appeal most to the prospective buyer. For instance, on the Curry Ice Cream account we wanted the kiddy type, and we created a carousel tune. Then we rented one of the only two calliopes in town to record it.

"It's the same with any of our products. We can't have a bad marriage between them and the music. We have to approach it from every angle — even to the sponsor's own musical preference," he adds with a grin.

Results

But in the world of business, there is only one criterion: results. And the

They've Stopped Beating Your Eardrums

MEET TV's new-type salesman, Flying Adolph. His technique is first to entertain you — then sell you.

Since the novelty of electronic miracles has worn off, you have been introduced to a new type salesman. Here is the story of the men behind the new look in commercials.

By Bill Kelsay

cartoon and singing commercial have delivered.

When Paper-Mate Pen Company came to Song Ads, their advertising budget was $35,000. This year it is $6½ million.

Another client, an out-of-state brewer, was in escrow when they commissioned Song Ads to write them a jingle. Within eight weeks after it hit the air they had recouped their finances and are now considering going national with their product. And incidentally, this particular jingle was included on a local station's hit parade of the ten top tunes in the area.

In another instance, an advertiser has put his jingle in juke boxes, which is certainly a switch — paying to hear a commercial.

Actually, it isn't as incongruous as it would first appear, for these happy tunes are constructed in exactly the same way as any popular song. They are recorded by top-name vocalists and instrumentalists, and the men at Song Ads are musicians of important background.

Del Porter, creative director and vice-president, helped Spike Jones organize his band and much of the early Jones material was Del's work. Actually, he wrote his first commercial jingle when he was one of the Foursome Quartet appearing in the musical comedy, "Girl Crazy."

Movie Background

Larry Greene, also a vice-president, had his training in movie work where he did much of the music for Martin and Lewis, Carmen Miranda, Lena Horne and Marion Hutton. Bob Sande, president and head of production, is a former musician and advertising agency executive, and Don Estey, vice-president in charge of sales, was graduated from the Santa Barbara campus of the University of California.

These are the four men who head up a comparatively new industry. They have been pioneers. But it has been pioneering with a twist.

As Del Porter remarked, "We never have undertaken anything without trying to have a little fun with it."

And it shows. Those commercials really bubble.

ROY SIMPSON is back on KNX Radio nightly with five minutes of news worth millions of dollars to the listeners. It's the 9:30-9:35 p.m. frost warning broadcast for Central and Southern California and Arizona.

Thousands of citrus and avocado growers, nursery operators, farmers and hundreds of thousands of home gardeners depend on U. S. meteorologist and his staff of experts for the grim news that freezing temperatures are expected. Through the use of orchard heaters and other devices, growers can protect their crops from the killer frosts if they know in advance when low temperatures are expected.

Simpson broadcasts from the U.S. Weather Bureau Fruit Frost Service in the Post Office at Pomona. He has succeeded the famous Floyd Young who started advising ranchers on weather in 1917. Young ran the service until last year when he retired.

Simpson predicts the temperature and frost conditions for 100 districts from Chico, California in the north to San Diego in the south and Phoenix in the east. To assist him and his staff at Pomona there are 12 field forecasters working throughout the 100 districts.

Each operates a miniature weather bureau of his own and has all the scientific equipment and information to make a forecast for his area. They are equipped with a weather teletype machine receiving weather data from all over the country and enabling the forecaster to draw a daily weather map used in predicting the temperatures.

The local predictions are phoned into Simpson's bureau in Pomona where the final decisions are made in the forecasts which are broadcast nightly from November through the middle of February, the normal "frost season."

Nearly Perfect

Through the use of carefully gathered records and from modern forecasting methods Simpson can predict temperatures within two degrees with a 95 per cent accuracy.

Who is interested in frost warnings? Literally thousands upon thousands of persons, Simpson says. In addition to ranchers, citrus and avocado growers whose dependence on the service can mean the life or death of their businesses, fruit buyers, merchants, nurserymen, shippers, poultrymen and householders also listen to the reports.

Curiously, storekeepers in citrus and avocado areas keep tabs on the temperature because if freezing weather is predicted and firing of orchard heaters is required the merchants must rush down to their stores and cover merchandise to protect it from the smudge.

Simpson says, contrary to popular belief, that there are no trends or cycles in weather.

"It's true," he said, "that for the last three years our coldest weather has been in February when we normally would expect higher temperatures but there's no indication this is the beginning of a 'cycle.' A close study of our records, maintained over many years, shows there is no way of making long range weather predictions based on so-called cycles or trends."

But the records are valuable in predicting accurately how temperatures will differ in certain areas, Simpson points out.

The life of a weatherman, incidentally, is not as uninteresting as it might appear to the average citizen. The men in the frost warning service are on the move all year long following the weather all over the Southwest.

At the close of the season here in February the forecasters move farther north where the spring frost season is later. During the summer the forecasters work in fire hazard areas.

Simpson said that in ten years he moved five times a year every year. "After a while," he said, "we set up five different households and when we left town we put our furniture and appliances into storage until our return the next year."

Although the constant moving has its disadvantages the one thing that rankles most forecasters, says Simpson, is that "just when the weather begins to get nice we have to leave for someplace where it's bad."

Clever puppeteer Jimmy Shaw, who makes all his own "little people" even to the clothing, has created an enchanting replica of Mr. Magoo... Leave it to that sharp Sinatra to incorporate a stock deal in his newly-pacted ABC-TV arrangement.

CONGRATULATIONS TO KNXT and Clark George, station manager, on receiving the Sylvania Award for outstanding educational program on a local station, Journey. I understand the high-budgeted series has been scheduled for an additional five weeks after the original 16 programs have been aired.

A NEW SYSTEM FOR TAKING ratings, Trans Audit, was demonstrated and discussed at last week's Hollywood Ad Club Meeting. It's instantaneous, based on wartime-developed radar principles. In actual operation, a selected number of TV or radio sets would be especially equipped so that every dial change would be picked up by a giant mechanical brain capable of tabulating new response every 30 seconds. Trans Audit backers claim this would enable sponsors to keep track of every half-minute of a show. "You could even tell how the commercial was being received," someone pointed out. "Would Trans Audit be able to tell how many viewers had left the room?" someone else countered?

Record Notes

by Andy Mansfield

THOSE of you who listen to our daily TURN BACK THE CLOCK program (KFI Monday through Friday 8:45-9:30 a.m.) will no doubt hear many of these old favorite Christmas songs by Guy Lombardo's Orchestra on Decca's "Jingle Bells" album. Almost any holiday favorite will be found in this long-play album by America's favorite dance band, done in the style you've come to prefer.

"CHRISTMAS SING WITH BING" brings to records (Decca, that is) for the first time, the annual Christmas radio program of America's favorite singer. Not only are there plenty of solos by Mr. Music, but he also calls in the Neully Children's Choir of France, Vatican Choir of Rome, Dedham Choral Society from England, the Reed Warblers Choir of Holland, the St. Louis Carolers, the Little Singers of Granby, Quebec, and the Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir. Here is Christmas as you like it, — singing the old songs from all over the world.

"O, TANNENBAUM" is another on the Decca label bringing you Christmas on Werner Muller's Orchestra and Mixed Chorus. Simple and deeply sincere, these songs carrying the Yuletide message as sung in German, have become part and parcel of the immortal folk songs of the world. Reverberating church-bells add authenticity as well as beauty to these unusually sensitive and inspirational recordings of some of the world's great Christmas music.

HOLLAND'S Tunnel

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

WHEN you talk to Ken Murray, you're talking to show business itself. This man, now with NBC in an executive producer capacity, has forgotten more about putting on a smash variety show than most people will ever know. The first thing Ken did when he went to NBC was to prepare a sort of cavalcade of comedy called "Gift of Laughter." It is now all ready to go into production as soon as he gets the signal. The script has been finished on another projected show called "Merrily We Sang," which is based on the songs and singers that have most affected our lives in the past twenty years. For the key spot on this show, Ken is after Dean Martin.

"I'm really excited about another idea called 'Hobby Payoff,'" Ken explained. "I've been working on this for some time now and think it has great potential. The idea here is simply to present children up to the age of 16 who have unique hobbies. It will be a panel-type show with a moderator and four panelists, three of whom will be children of movie stars with the fourth a guest. I've spent years keeping records from newspapers and magazines of youngsters with unusual hobbies and I've contacted Girl Scout and Boy Scout organizations. Everyone I spoke to said, 'Don't ask us if we have any boys or girls with unique hobbies — just tell us what hobby you want and we'll find the youngster who has it! There are that many.'"

Ken is making a pilot of the show very soon now.

He also had a few choice remarks about some debated issues. Of TV's eating up comedians, he said: "Nobody insisted these performers go on TV. The ones who are now without any career are the ones who weren't really top-grade comedians to begin with. Hope, Benny, Skelton, and Gleason are doing all right."

Of network spectacular fiascos: "So they didn't go. Well, you're always hearing the networks aren't developing new talent or new ideas. I don't agree. They may have pulled some boners but at least they were trying to bring something new to TV. They want shows to be good. By letting some of their key producers try new kinds of shows they have laid some eggs but they gave these men a chance to do something different. There is a case for the networks, you know."

On quiz shows: "They're getting more and more ridiculous. Take 'Can Do.' This is a real fiasco for my money."

With Ken Murray around, NBC ought to come up with some very bright packages.

If you want to hear some good music and also help a good cause, mark down December 15. The Vine St. Musical Workshop along with St. Stephen's Episcopal Church is sponsoring a concert at the Philharmonic Auditorium with proceeds to go to Hungarian relief. Miklos Rosza, noted composer-conductor, will conduct the all-Hungarian concert. This is really a worthy cause that should receive the widest support.

Odds and Ends: That wine commercial that goes "Only the first squeezing of the grapes is used" gets me. Just what is that supposed to mean? Is the juice from the rest of the grape contaminated or something? The way these commercials reach for a gimmick! It is to laugh! . . . Pat Hitchcock, Alfred's daughter, is on the editorial staff of the new Alfred Hitchcock mystery magazine, the first copy of which is now on the stands. Some good yarns. Pat is quite a versatile young lady what with her acting, her writing, and her own important role as mother of two little girls . . . Martin and Lewis are to be back on TV — but with their own individual shows and not as a team. The two are really going their own ways now. Most of those in the know claim that the team broke up because Jerry's friends told him that he was carrying Dean and Dean's pals told him that he was carrying Jerry. Well, we'll at least see whose friends were right and who carried whom.

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

I wonder what ever happened to Elvis Presley?

"House on 92nd Street." (11) Dec. 19, 7:00. 1945. Louis De Rochemont was a noted producer of documentary pictures, but this is one of his rare excursions into fiction cinema. It is, however, handled in the De Rochemont style and comes off as a first rate suspense film based on a true story of Nazi espionage and U.S. counter-espionage in the days preceding World War II. William Eythe and Lloyd Nolan are FBI agents who follow the subversive elements through a maze of investigation, thus providing an interesting look at the training and methods of the FBI and its pre-war role in frustrating enemy attempts to learn the atom bomb secrets.

"Old Acquaintance." (5) Dec. 16, 7:30. 1943. Brilliant career woman Bette Davis returns to her old home town to visit her long time friend, Miriam Hopkins. Miriam becomes so jealous of the attention and honors Bette garners that she vows to become successful, herself. And she promptly does, writing many books that sell very well. Her new life leads her to neglect husband John Loder and daughter Dolores Moran, both of whom love Bette who is true blue through it all and does not take Miriam's husband when offered. At the end, the two women are friends once again after a particularly emotion fraught climax which should please all people who are pleased by emotion fraught climaxes.

"Min and Bill." (11) Dec. 17, 10:15. 1930. Marie Dressler won an Academy Award for her performance here as the landlady of a fishing village inn and I'm sure all her old fans will agree she deserved it. The plot of this ancient reads like an old melodrama . . . foundling grows up to marry rich boy, does not know mother, is saved from disgrace, etc. There are plenty of laughs provided by the time honored pure romance between Marie and Wallace Beery and I'll bet the picture still has plenty of vitality.

"Four Wives." (2) Dec. 21, 11:00. 1939. A sequel to the immortal (?) "Four Daughters," this one takes the Lane sisters and Claude Rains through a siege of deaths, new loves and the realm of obstetrics. The largest sequence tells the story of a new husband who gives his blood to his wife's baby, the product of a previous marriage, and then in order to really win his wife's love, completes the symphony begun by her dead husband. After tidying up all those loose ends, I hope he at least got a piece of the wedding cake.

"Girl Crazy." (11) Dec. 21, 8:00. 1943. Adapted from the George Gershwin hit musical, this reprise of the stage smash has all the nice tunes, plus Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland to punch them across. It's all about a playboy sent by his father to a college out west to keep him away from girls, but it doesn't succeed, of course. A big, flashy MGM musical and I'm sure it will have its moments.

"And Then There Were None." (13) Dec. 18, 8:30. Agatha Christie's whodunit about a group of evil doers gathered together on an island and done away with one by one until no one is left but the murderer, it seems. I guessed the culprit.

"Heidi." (9) Beginning Dec. 18, 9:00. A Swiss picture based on the old children's classic (I mean the children aren't old . . . I mean . . . oh, well) that won a Venice Festival Award a few years ago (I don't mean the classic won an award . . . I mean the picture . . . Oh, well) It sticks closely to the original and is KHJ-TV's Christmas offering.

"The Flame Within." (11) Dec. 19, 10:15. The whole film takes place in Digestion.

Label Talk

BY TERREA LEA

I'd like to remind you folks who belong to clubs and organizations about the two Label Bank Contests that end Dec. 31.

First is the one on Holly Sugar. First Prize of $100 goes to the club that turns in the largest number of Holly Sugar labels. Second prize of $75 and third of $50 goes to the next two clubs. Two box tops from 1 lb. packages are worth 1 point. Bottom end from 5 lb. bag is worth 1 point and Bottom end from 10 lb. bag is worth 2 points.

Second is the one on Breakfast Club Coffee. This is a contest but it also allows all clubs to benefit by earning bonus points. Breakfast Club Coffee offers you coupons worth 20 points each when returned to the Label Bank office with an unwinding band for each coupon. A mailing went out to all of the active Label Bank clubs. However, if your club is new and not on the mailing list you may write to Breakfast Club Coffee, 1220 No. Spring St., Los Angeles 12, Calif. and they will mail you as many coupons as you request. The two clubs sending in the most coupons, accompanied with an unwinding band from a can of Breakfast Club Coffee will win a beautiful fully automatic 50 cup West Bend electric coffee maker.

So you folks hurry with those labels and bands... you just may win. In case of ties... duplicate prizes will be awarded. Both contests expire midnight December 31, 1956.

Here's a tip to you folks who would like to win a 21" Color Television Set. Save those box tops from George Super Cleaner and I'll have an exciting contest to tell you about the first of January. This contest will be for clubs and individuals.

I'd like to urge all of you folks to make your first deposit of labels as soon as possible and to make regular deposits thereafter. This puts you on the mailing list so you can be kept posted on the happenings at Label Bank. And don't forget that the new label list is out and if you would like one just write to or call the Label Bank office.

More Label Talk next week... bye for now.

For the first time in her long, successful career in this country, Miss Garson plays a "wicked woman" who is power-hungry and heartless.

Franchot Tone portrays Horace, the suffering husband of Regina.

The setting is the old South of 1900. Richard Watts of the New York Herald Tribune describes "The Little Foxes" as a "psychological horror story." As the plot develops it appears to be a strong, heart-felt parable on the rise of the industrial South and its realism, in defiance of the old Confederate romantic era.

George Schafer, who directed the recent Hall of Fame production of "Men and Supermen" produces and directs. The play was adapted for television by Robert Hartung.

The show is an hour and a half in length.

AIR POWER

Air Power is superb. To those who have not yet caught up with this recent addition to television fare as a weekly "must" in viewing, I suggest, nay, urge that you do so. For here is the television documentary at its finest.

Air Power chronicles the development of men's wings from the first time this hitherto land-bound creature strapped a clumsy contraption on his back to the accepted commonplace of today's flying instrument that has annihilated the earth's time and space relationship. For those who might be wary of too much technical jargon as a deterrent to viewing Air Power, it should be noted that this angle is minimized. Significant to everyone of this century is the cumulative impact of air power on all humans regardless of how remote from the main streams of human activity.

The most recent episode of this series was a marrow-chilling commentary on the American character at the time of Pearl Harbor. Intercutting footage of captured Japanese war films against a background of Hawaiian night-clubbing and surf-riding, the pace and tension accelerates as the strands of war are fatefully tightened.

For the first time many Americans were given the chronological perspective of the attack, an incredible tale of smug folly as the world's most powerful nation blithely dallied despite the ominous pattern of warning clues which culminated in American military forces blithely disregarding the warning of an amateur radio operator that unidentified planes were sweeping in over Pearl Harbor.

Telling Japanese shots (evidently taken from cameras mounted on the attacking planes) were the seething inferno of the bombed American fleet; the short glimpse of an American pilot clambering into the cockpit of his plane and crumpling when cut down by Japanese fire; worshippers and priest at an early morning outdoor Mass scattering before the strafing Japanese planes.

Although lacking the magnificent musical score of a Richard Rodgers that so distinguished Victory at Sea, Air Power, ranks as one of televisions most significant contributions to the field of documentary film. Bill Weber.

DANNY KAYE

Those who witnessed Edward Murrow's presentation of "The Secret Life of Danny Kaye" with the comic as the Pied Piper of UNICEF, not only witnessed the comedian in a new role, but gained a new horizon of the United Nations at work with the children of all nations as Kaye sang, danced and clowning from country to country.

In view of what appears to be fumbling of statesmen on the international level of diplomacy, the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund is a living example of positive results in a world that all can understand — the world of children. And the philosophy — a sound one — is that if children learn to think of all men as brothers, so will the adult end-product.

As a youngster who was depressed by the gloomy classic version of the Pied Piper who disappeared through a magic door in the mountain with his child followers, I found that Kaye gave new lift and meaning to the old story — for who should better be the irresistible leader of children than this tousle-haired puck who with a genius for laughter, clowning and merriment can bridge the differences of boundaries, customs and language in leading children into an adult world of mutual love and understanding.

Bill Weber.

NEW BOOK

Enjoying a pet, looking after its needs and being closely associated with it are wonderful experiences for children, Dr. Frances Horwich, mistress of NBC-TV's DING DONG SCHOOL, believes. She has written a book to introduce children to many different kinds of pets and to tell them about the fun they can have with them. The book, "Miss Frances' Story Book of Pets for the Very Young," is published by Rand McNally. In it are stories about cats, dogs, a pony, birds, goldfish, turtles, rabbits, lambs and many other animals.

DATE WITH BETTY

Betty White's legion of fans can begin cheering again as she definitely will return to the air channels next spring in a new coast-to-coast starring series, "Date With The Angels," produced by Don Fedderson, who was the impresario of her popular and long-running "Life With Elizabeth." Betty's new video shows will be half-hour long, situation comedies, which will be beamed by NBC.

HAWAIIAN HILL-FOLK

Western Varieties stars, The Frontiersmen, recently appeared in Honolulu at the Island's 49th State Fair. To accommodate their many island fans, Channel 5's High, Wayne and Hal had an Hawaiian friend translate two of their songs into the native dialect and become Hawaiian folk-singers for a while.

GOOD-LUCK CAROLINA

Carolina Cotton, yodeling star of KTLA's Western Varieties, is still recovering from a request she received as a result of her South African junket. Since blondes are considered as walking good-luck charms in the Dark Continent, one of the natives requested a six-inch strand of Carolina's hair for his charm.

SHALL LEAD THEM ...

ROY ROGERS and Dale Evans have found two big guides in their lives—their faith and their love for children.

In the Rogers' home you hear the sounds of children—their laughter, their squeals of delight, their cries. And it's quite a sound with seven young ones dashing about. It is their own international family—and behind it all is a warm, inspirational story.

Roy's first wife was told some years ago that she could not have any children, so Roy and she went to the Variety Club in Dallas which led them to Hope Cottage, an orphanage. It was there that their family began in the person of Cheryl, who was about nine months old. After proper time and investigation had elapsed, Roy and his wife adopted the little girl.

Then came the miracle. Shortly after the adoption Roy's wife learned she was to have her own child. The baby was born and was named Linda. Three years later another child, a boy, Roy, Jr. was born to the Rogers.

Tragedy

But tragedy walked in at this point. Because of the complications of little Roy's birth, Mrs. Rogers died and Roy was left with three children to take care of.

Dale Evans had been working with Roy in Republic pictures and gradually their association deepened into love and they were married. Dale knew what a job she was taking on but her love for children was matched only by her devotion to Roy. A year after Dale and Roy were married, they had their own baby girl, Robin Elizabeth.

But again tragedy walked in. Robin was a retarded child and died shortly before her second birthday. Her death was a terrific blow to Dale and Roy. They set out to adopt another child to take Robin's place.

Again the Hope Cottage stepped into Roy's life. There he and Dale saw a little Indian girl named Mary Little Doe. Her mother had been a Choctaw and the orphanage had decided that only a person with Indian blood would be allowed to adopt Mary. Roy is part Choctaw himself and he and Dale fell in love with the child. They had to leave for New York before learning if they could have Mary, but one night they got a long distance phone call from the Cottage saying that Mary was theirs. They immediately made plans to pick her up on the way back home.

Before their return they had to do a series of one night stands. One night they were in Cincinnati when a woman in Kentucky who ran an orphanage called them. She told Roy that most of the children there were handicapped and that she had one little girl in a wheel chair who was so anxious just to meet Roy and Dale.

"Could I bring her back stage to see you?"

Roy replied, "Absolutely! Bring her to the show. Say, by the way, have you any little boy for adoption? I have one son but he's being raised with just too many girls in our family and we'd like a brother for him to grow up with."

The lady said she'd bring one boy with her to the show.

That evening Roy and Dale met this boy—and a very sleepy one at that. They had to decide whether or not to adopt him by midnight since they had to leave for the next jump on their tour. They talked it over and decided to take the child. The next day, a Saturday, Roy went to Covington, Kentucky to appear in court for the adoption.

On the way back to their home in Hollywood they stopped off for Mary, whom they nick-named Dodie. And what a surprise they handed their other children when they arrived home.

About a year later Roy and Dale went to England and on a tour of Edinburgh one day they met Marian, a Scottish girl, who was in an orphanage. They immediately wanted to adopt her. Nothing could be done about it just then, however, so when Roy and Dale got home they corresponded with the man who had made it his mission in life to help these youngsters find homes. They were then told that Scottish and British laws did not allow adoption but the girl could come to America as their ward — as an exchange student. So Marian joined the Rogers family.

Debbie Lee

The additions to the Rogers home didn't stop here. Not long ago Roy met a Dr. Bob Pierce who had formed the World Vision, Inc., an organization devoted to giving financial aid and finding homes here for the unwanted Korean-American children, the youngsters born of GI's and Korean girls. These children were — and still are — unwanted in Korea, have no home, have to beg for food, and live in the streets. Dr. Pierce had started a movement whereby a person could pay $10 a month for the care of a Korean child. Roy and Dale took care of 25 for the next two years.

After a while, they decided it would be a good idea to get a Korean girl to be raised with Dodie. After the necessary waiting period, little Debbie Lee was adopted and sent to America to be in the Rogers' family. A cute little four year old she is too! She knew not a word of English when she arrived and now she speaks like a native.

Debbie only presented one problem. For some nights, Debbie would be found sleeping on the floor instead of in her bed. Roy and Dale couldn't understand why she slept on the floor. At last, they discovered that Korean children always used the floor as their bed. Gradually, though, Debbie learned to sleep in a regular bed.

Recently, Dale was asked if this was the end of her family. She replied, "For now it is — but who's to say for sure?"

Christianity and democracy are at work in this home. And as Roy Rogers pointed out, "If all these kids can live harmoniously under one roof, why can't nations get along too?"

That's a question worth thinking about.

ERNIE KOVACS:

"I'm Getting Smarter Now"

After reading these provocative questions and the thoughtful answers in this exclusive interview, you'll understand why the NBC-TV star feels that way.

ERNIE KOVACS acts as a clowning, jovial emcee most of the time on his NBC-TV shows. He has his serious side, however, as you'll learn from the sincere answers he gave our TV-Radio Life reporter. The cigar, incidentally, is just one of 20 he smokes every day. (NBC-TV photo.)

Q. If you had to "do it all over again," would you still be a comedian-emcee on TV—or would you prefer to pursue any one of the numerous jobs you have had during your life?

A. If there were to be a change, I would like to isolate the direction and writing segments into a general overall production method of operation . . . with or without me in the performing end.

Q. How much of your material do you write and prepare?

A. At this point, it is in the high ninety-odd per cent. Reason: with the exception of the last year of TV, have not had any writers at all. For the current show, want to get show started in certain direction, after a few more weeks, both writers will be adding more, I am sure, to the show. I only hope they are patient with this kind of operation. Old habits are hard to break.

Q. Who is the one person (or group of people) who you felt have helped you the most in your career?

A. The very first man was Harold Van Kirk, a dramatics and English teacher at Trenton Central High who shoved me into an operetta. From this came some acting school scholarships and for the very fact that I had no idea of how one went about to make a living, I stayed in this "line."

Q. What are your "outside activities?"

A. Writing is it almost one hundred per cent. This is combined with family.

Q. The inevitable question: how many cigars do you smoke a day?

A. Twenty cigars.

Q. Of the many "characters" you perform, is there one you feel "closer" to than the others—either for sentimental or personal or other reasons?

A. Percy Dovetonsils is the oldest and has been most kindly accepted. Milos Molnar, the Hungarian, is closest to my family (parental) and early life.

Q. At one time, we understand, you were a sick man. How is your health now? Do you have to take any extra precautions, such as dieting, exercise, pills, etc.? If so, what?

A. In hospital for year and a half. Since then have done everything I shouldn't be doing. Went for almost two years with three to four hour totals for three days (in sleeping). Some nights twenty minutes, etc. Getting smarter now.

Q. Do you feel at times, because of your TV work, that "you are setting too fast a pace—physically speaking?"

A. Not too possible to slow down. If only doing one show, begin writing articles on side. Hard to take vacation. On overseas phone once a day for no damned good reason whatsoever.

Q. What would you say has been the single biggest thrill of your career?

A. Biggest thrill I don't know. Most satisfactory portion came this summer doing the Monday night. Had rehearsals, money. Best thing ever happened to me was wife Edith and two children, Betty and Kippie. Marriage to Edith was only good thing that happened ever since series of unfortunate ones beginning in '36.

Q. What is your "big ambition" in show business?

A. A TV package . . . direct, write and produce. Get some solid position on network for these latter years which I have now entered.

Q. Do your wife and family find you as funny as your TV audience does?

A. First of all, thanks for the hypothesis that the audience is finding me funny. I guess Edie laughs once in a while. The kids do, at scattered now and thens. I'm afraid I "ain't" much fun at parties.

Q. Your present TV chores make it necessary to live in New York. If you had your choice—where would like to settle down with your family?

A. Wouldn't change it for anything. We have a couple of floors, lots of rooms, four terraces overlooking the reservoir section of Central Park. We cook outdoors, have a pool on the terrace for the children and absolute quiet. The home we have in Rockland County has acres of ground, trees and stream but it still doesn't match New York.

Q. What's the "toughest" part for you to do on your program?

A. I believe that when someone begins looking at any part as the toughest part, he makes it even more so. I haven't stopped to look. I'm chicken.

Q. Do you have any "creed" or "philosophy" that you live by?

A. I guess if you stop here and try to synopsise your attitude, you bring to a head the fact that you just don't want to end up hurting anyone. Certainly, even more specifically, in an attempt to get ahead, not to do anything that, at night, you find yourself saying, "I wish the hell I hadn't done that." To raise the children to be completely decent with their friends and honest all the way thru even though it may mean they're being taken advantage of. To be as nice to my wife as she has always been to me.

Viewers of KCOP's high-rated Wanderlust program have often wondered about Slim Barnard:

Is "That" Laugh For Real?

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

DURING the past two years I have been writing a show called Wanderlust, seen every week on KCOP, Channel 13. If TV ratings can be looked upon as an adequate yardstick, I suppose the program could be called a success.

For the month of October, for example, the half-hour documentary-travelogue posted an impressive 17.7 rating according to the American Research Bureau, making it the highest rated local show on any station in all of Southern California.

This, plus the great personal satisfaction which all of the people at Bill Burrud Productions experience when we create something entertaining, educational and sometimes even with a few moments of beauty, makes all of us, I think, justifiably proud of our work.

And yet, almost invariably, the very first question that an "outsider" will ask when he meets someone from Bill Burrud Productions concerns Slim Barnard, who co-hosts the program with Bill:

"Say, that big fellow you have on your program — now tell me the truth — does he really laugh that way? Or is he putting on an act?"

No, folks, it's not an act. It's the real thing. Those who know the easy-going, deep-voiced automobile editor of the Los Angeles Examiner personally realize that he couldn't put on an act even if he wanted to.

Trite — But True

Maybe it's trite, but it's nevertheless the truth that the 53-year-old editor is exactly the same in real life as he appears to over a half-million viewers of Channel 13: one of the nicest and biggest-hearted guys that anyone could possibly meet.

"That's me. The last of the big-spenders," Slim chuckles.

Big Slim has always had the laugh, but he started to use it publicly a few years back when he was the regular emcee for the annual children's party by the Shriners.

First, I got up and was dead serious all," he reminisces. "At one point, I couldn't resist breaking out with a laugh. That loosened the audience up and as a result I've just been myself ever since."

Slim, of course, is a nickname. He picked it up during his cow-punching days in Arizona in the early 1920's.

"I was six-feet-three and weighed 149 pounds then. Now look at me," he guffaws, pointing to his 235-pound frame.

Born in Babylon, New York on October 11, 1903 and reared in Winchester, Massachusetts (where he was a star athlete in high school), Barnard matriculated at Dartmouth.

"I guess I was just a dumb cluck," Slim smiles. "Because I got out of there after one semester and headed west for Texas. Being flat broke, and although I knew nothing about machinery, I took a job as a mechanic on a road race from Texas to Phoenix, Arizona. First prize was $25,000. We finished eighth and received 4 Brunswick tires. My share was one tire.

"Down to my last six bucks — and one tire — I was hired as a ranch hand in the Casa Grande Valley and stayed on for a few years."

The Laugh — The Letter

Eventually, Slim landed in Los Angeles, worked for a short time driving horses on a hay wagon, and then joined the Examiner as a classified ads salesman in April, 1921.

Except for a short stint with the Daily News and a private company, he's been at the paper ever since — becoming the associate automobile editor in 1934 and the full-time editor eight years later.

His TV appearance, he considers as the biggest thrill of his career. Some people have remarked that they think Slim's laugh gets silly at times, especially if he does it too often. Perhaps they wouldn't think so if they could read some of the touching letters which Slim receives every week. Such as this one, for example, from N.L.C. (name withheld for obvious reasons) of Alhambra, California:

"Dear Mr. Barnard:

"I have been an invalid for three years and many times did not look on the sunny side of life. But after hearing you laugh on television, I seemed to take a new hold on life and believe me or not, I am gradually getting better.

"So please laugh as often as you can on television. You may be saving a life."

With a straight face, and in one of his rare serious moods, Slim explains: "It's things like that that make a guy feel he's doing something worthwhile."
