Mrs. C., Los Angeles, Calif.

They have taken off TV two shows that we and our friends certainly enjoyed. Namely: Guy Lombardo and His Royal Canadians and Liberace, both high class programs. You should not take your survey of programs from teenagers, after all they do not pay for TV sets nor do they buy the sponsor's products.

This is one injustice you cannot blame the teen agers for. The sponsoring of a program depends on the advertising agencies, who in turn depend on statistics from the rating services. The rating services supposedly (???) get their statistics from the home viewers.

J. McC., Burbank, Calif.

How can teenagers keep Tab Hunter's Young Love the No. 1 record for so long? I am so sick of it and I am 18. One reason is I would like to see him just once with his hair combed and wearing clothes that fit. I don't understand his popularity. Pat Boone is wonderful.

TAB HUNTER . . . No. 1

DALE ROBERTSON
. . . Highly Praised

Mrs. J. B. G., Bloomington, Calif.

I sure wish to praise the new TV show, Tales of Wells Fargo. Our whole family really enjoys it.

M. E. K., Tujunga, Calif.

Since ratings can't be depended upon, why don't they ask for people to write in their opinions? I bet they would get thousands of requests for the return of many shows. I certainly agree that it is ridiculous to take certain shows off the air and substitute other run of the mill, blood and thunder things.

WALLY COX . . . Gone, for the present

Mrs. N. C., Malibu, Calif.

Could you please tell me what happened to Hiram Holliday that was on Channel 4 on Wednesday evenings? Did they take it off the air?

I certainly hope not, as that program was one of the bright spots in a week's viewing.

Mrs. J. W., Monrovia, Calif.

What happened to The Adventures of Hiram Holliday? I'm sure many others agree with me that it was one of the best comedy shows on television. Has Channel 4 any plans for its return?

It was replaced by another show because of its low ratings and a very high budget. At present there are no plans for its return.

B. C. B., Los Angeles, Calif.

Can you possibly say anything to the powers that be at KRCA about the time change on Home, 3:00 p.m. This time is obviously a bad one for a homemaker. Kids, club, youth activities, shopping and bridge all happen at 3:00. I know. I've seen two shows of Home in two weeks. And this has been a must in my home for years. I even taped the important things for my husband! Please help!

A. B. F., Altadena, Calif.

Your recent articles on KABC and KCBH FM were very interesting and in keeping with expanding interest in the superb FM programming now available in Southern California. Over the past three years our family has shifted its listening time from 100% TV to less than 10% TV and 90% FM.

Mrs. E. B., El Cajon, Calif.

Hoorahl for Dr. Martin Klein, "Why Ratings Can't Be Right."

Sorry to say I've not had the pleasure of seeing his program, as he has confirmed our ideas of how ratings were taken. I agree with him completely that something should be done to make them fair to everyone.

As for Noah's Ark, they really made a mistake in taking it off the air.

I have five children and we all enjoyed it very much and now it has been replaced with a program not fit for children or adults.

I say let's have more family shows and less crime and sex.

Mrs. T. H. S., Lakewood, Calif.

Disneyland is such a wonderful program for children, why isn't it on at an earlier hour and not on Wednesday night. We go to church and our children usually miss it. In my opinion, good programs should never be put on Sunday or Wednesday nights.

Please help change Disneyland especially.

Mrs. Bill Gwinn is the most understanding of wives.
She doesn't even hesitate to tell

Why Other Women Love My Husband

By Mrs. Bill Gwinn

BILL GWINN is one of KABC-TV's most popular personalities and with good reason.

OF COURSE I'm prejudiced, but I think other women love my husband Bill for the same reasons that I do. He has the ability to make all women, young and old, feel comfortable, beautiful and happy. We enjoy being with him. Bill has a warmth and sincerity that puts the most self-conscious female completely at ease.

His easy manner springs from a genuine love of people. During the many years I have known and lived with my husband, I have never heard him make a really harsh observation of another person. He sees the best traits in each one of us and is oblivious of our faults. He's taught me to be the same way and I've learned a great deal from him—that's the way marriage ought to be.

Another characteristic that I love in Bill, and I feel other women are attracted in the same manner, is his gregarious nature. He thrives on companionship. Bill is a natural mixer among people and is at home with any age group, including teenagers (a most difficult age that most people struggle to understand).

I think Bill's appeal to the average daytime TV viewer lies in his relaxed manner. Almost any woman who takes the time out from her busy daily duties to watch my husband over television will go back to her work happier after a visit with him—he is such a pleasant performer. We women love to have a man talk to us from a TV screen in a casual and friendly manner—just as if he were across the table from us—not on a platform selling soap.

DOROTHEA GWINN is a real fan of her husband's. The Gwinn's live in the Emerald Bay district of Laguna. They have two teenage boys.

Bill's long success with "What's the Name of That Song?" is due to his true enjoyment of the show. He loves to sing and enjoys hearing other people sing. Bill always says, and we love him for it, that "singing is not voice but feeling and that anyone can do it, given a chance."

Music to Bill is a vital part of his life. He whole-heartedly transmits this enjoyment to others.

Additionally, Bill isn't one character at home and another in public.

Whether on or off television, I find him delightful, tender, considerate with a buoyant sense of humor, and that wonderful intangible quality that makes all women feel like glamour girls.

Bill sincerely loves people, understands them and finds them entertaining. Consequently as we try to live up to his plus-attitude about us we are more amusing, gay and interesting.

I've always loved Bill since we were classmates at Stanford. Writing this for TV-Radio Life and recalling my husband's bountiful outgoing nature has made me love him even more.

P.S. to Bill: I know you won't get smug over all this sentiment, and if you have time, clean your closet this weekend.

AN EXCEPTIONALLY NEAT DRESSER, Lawrence gives Larry's tie just the right touch as father and son prepare for an appearance together.

LAWRENCE WELK, Jr.'s

First Interview

What is it like to be the son of a famous father? Does son expect to follow in his father's footsteps? Larry, Jr., gives a frank report on how he views his future.

By Jean Corlis

LAURENCE WELK is one father who isn't going to have any trouble getting his son to join the firm. Larry, Jr. is just as enthusiastic about the Welk band as Lawrence is.

"I love the band and I get a kick out of being here for rehearsals and the show," Larry remarked as we talked during a Saturday rehearsal at KABC-TV. "I do some of the leg work, get cokes, sandwiches, music, or anything the guys want."

Seventeen-year old Larry is a level-headed kid with a genuine interest in his father's business — a business which has been so successful that the family name is known from coast to coast. But Larry knows it's Lawrence Welk who's earned the right to take the bows. He doesn't capitalize on his name and everyone who knows him agrees there is no swelled head under that special haircut he is so proud of (cut very short on top, about  $\frac{1}{2}$ " long in front and leveled off at the sides)!

While Larry hopes to be a part of the Welk organization some day it won't be as a musician.

"I took piano lessons when I was a kid but I always had my eye on the clock, waiting for the time I could finish up and get out on the baseball field. Dad didn't insist that I continue when I wasn't interested. I guess he knew that if I really wanted to be a musician that would have come first with me as it does with him.

"Even though I can't play any instrument," Larry went on, "I love all types of music except progressive jazz. Dad and I both like Dixieland and I've got quite a collection of records. I know what he likes and he knows what I like. He brings home records and we play them in the evening when he's able to be home, or on Sunday morning when he's getting ready for church. I have the record player going all the time. When Dad's home, though, I turn the player on real loud and we compare how we like the sax or other instruments."

Since Lawrence and Larry drive in from Brentwood every Saturday morning for the rehearsal which lasts all day, they have time to get caught up on the week's activities.

"Dad's interested in sports, too," Larry commented. "When we're not talking about music we're usually talking about baseball, which is my favorite game. We talk a lot about cars, too. My sister, Donna, and Dad and I are crazy about convertibles. Dad just gave me a Plymouth Belvedere, gold and white. It sure is keen. The fellows at school like to ride in it, too."

Education

Larry goes to St. Monica's high school which is literally a "school divided" since there are two buildings, one for the boys who are taught by the Patrician Brothers and the other for the girls who are taught by the nuns. Because it is a comparatively small school, about 350 boys and 350 girls, and there is a certain amount of fraternization at dances and seasonal games, it is easy to get acquainted. Being a very sensible young man, Larry doesn't have a steady girl, but dates several of the girls from St. Monica's, among them the two elder Lennon sisters, though it was Dianne he knew first. Later he met all the Lennons and thought they had nice voices.

"I didn't know just how great they were," Larry confessed when praised for his ability as a talent scout. "I liked their voices and other people thought they were good so I asked my dad to listen to them."

"Shirley's the real talent scout," Larry went on. "She's checking up for Dad in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. She and her husband (Dr. Robert Fredricks) live in Boston while he's continuing his studies in hematology with one of the authorities on the subject. Bob has had a very good offer to teach the subject out here on the Coast when he's ready. Shirley should be good at judging talent, too. She has a certificate to teach piano, she plays the violin, and while she was in school she taught dancing."

Though Shirley can dance, play the piano and violin, she never had any inclination toward show business. At Marquette she majored in journalism and won a Fulbright scholarship for study in Denmark. Though she had always wanted to go to Europe she didn't hesitate to turn the chance down in favor of becoming a doctor's wife.

Donna, who as Larry said is like his dad and him when it comes to convertibles and the open road, is taking a course in social service at Marquette. Perhaps if Shirley is successful in finding talent in the East, and Larry in the West, Donna may try her hand at it in the Midwest.

Traveling Days

"The whole family used to travel with Dad during the summer. The band had a baseball team and they used to play other bands at Lake Delavan, Wisconsin. I guess that's when I became a baseball fan. The fellows had a bowling team, too, and Dad used to bowl. Another thing that was fun. Late at night after the dance the whole gang would go horseback riding, usually in the mountains. We'd ride all night and cook breakfast in the open."

Larry still likes to take trips with the band, although he can't do this during the school season. Last summer he went with them to Minneapolis, St. Paul and Cleveland. His big regret this year was not being able to go to Washington with the band for the Inaugural Ball.

"That was one of the biggest thrills for Dad, to meet the President, especially when Mr. Eisenhower told him he had seen and heard him on television."

Now that Larry has grown up, Lawrence is making every effort to take more time for vacations, even short ones, so that they can enjoy them together. At Easter time Lawrence, Mrs. Welk and Larry went to LaJolla for a few days of fishing, swimming, dancing, and just relaxing. This summer Lawrence and the band will take a two weeks' vacation and the Welks will fly to Europe for at least a bird's-eye view.

Larry plans to enter Loyola University in Los Angeles next fall. He had always hoped to go to Marquette, but he doesn't want to leave his parents alone and they don't want him to go away. Then, too, as he grows older he is more and more interested in the Welk band and his dad's ever-expanding activities.

"Since I do want to work with Dad I'll probably take business administration and perhaps some law," commented Larry.

Sincerity, modesty and personal charm are qualities which both Lawrence and Larry have in common. In the work he chooses they should contribute to Larry's success as they have to his father's.

LOOKING BACK TWO YEARS—Lawrence and Larry pose in their formal wedding regalia with Shirley and her husband, Dr. Robert Fredricks, Mrs. Welk and Donna. Bride and groom have already changed for their wedding trip.

Are Half-Hour TV Plays Really Lousy?

Not all of them, says Ronald Reagan

IN HIS PRIVATE LIFE, RONALD REAGAN is the outdoor type, particularly when it comes to horses. He has his own 340-acre ranch in the Malibu Hills — only about a 35-minute drive from his new home in the Pacific Palisades. As an actor, he says it not only gives him the "proper balance in life," but as an ex-Cavalry man in the Army, Ron still has a natural love for horses.

IT'S NOT EASY to act out a great story, or even a good one, in a three-hour, three-act play. Broadway and other theaters know this. Hollywood has to do a lot of looking and pay a lot of money before a one-to-two hour movie is bought and produced.

Naturally, as the time element becomes less and less, the job becomes tougher and tougher. Producers of one-hour TV dramas and comedies are constantly screaming for better scripts. By the time we reach the half-hour drama or comedy (26 minutes to be exact, when you exclude the commercial time), it would seem to be impossible to do any kind of a story in such a short space of time.

As a result, we have the situation with which modern TV is faced: most half-hour TV dramas and comedies are pretty bad.

Ronald Reagan, as most viewers know, is the host of a TV series — the General Electric Theater on CBS-TV. Also, as one of the program supervisors, he realizes the problems that the half-hour drama has to face.

"TV writers and producers found out after much trial and error," Reagan explained, sitting in the cocktail room of his new home which overlooks the Pacific Palisades, "that they couldn't cram a 90-minute movie into a half-hour.

"They have now come to the point where they realize that the half-hour TV drama is more suitable for one-act plays. Thus, I think, we are having a revival of that art form."

Naturally a little prejudiced, articulate

Ronald Reagan, long one of Hollywood's finest ambassadors, honestly believes that "G.E. Theater has done the best and most consistent shows in this field." While frank to admit he was disappointed with some, he particularly liked Piper Laurie's job in "The Road That Led Afar," and Greer Garson in "The Glorious Gift of Molly Malloy."

As far as the one he has starred in, fortyish but still young-looking Ronald particularly enjoyed the "live" production of "The County Court Martial." As for the filmed efforts, he thought his experience acting with Ethel Barrymore in Bret Harte's story, "Prosper's Old Mother," was the most rewarding.

As far as the top dramatic role that Reagan has ever done — that's easy for him to answer.

"'King's Row' — without a doubt — was my best effort," Ron explains, with refreshing enthusiasm.

He thinks it would be a natural for a re-release by the motion pictures studios. As yet King's Row hasn't been seen on TV (although a Warner Bros. series called King's Row ran for a short time).

With movies, personal appearances all over the United States, his TV chores and his work at home and on his ranch, Reagan keeps so busy — he often doesn't get a chance to see some of the same shows which he hosts on the CBS-TV series.

"I do see them all eventually," Ron smiles. "Sometimes at a special showing. Or else, like everyone else, during the re-runs of the summer season."

KFI's MONITOR program celebrates its second anniversary this week. Cutting the cake for the occasion are comic Bob (Elliott) and Ray (Goulding).

WE FOCUS ON FAMOUS FATHERS AT HOME

TO millions of listeners and viewers, the men we see on these pages are known as famous TV or radio personalities.

At home, however, they're known as just plain Pop. The man, who like the head of any household, is primarily responsible for bringing home the bacon every day — especially on pay day.

As with fathers all over America, June 16, Fathers' Day, is their day at home. To see them in their natural habitat, with their wives and children, our cameras focus on them in their own living room. This time, they're "in person" rather than just being seen on the TV tube.

THIS FATHER'S Day is more significant than ever to Red Skelton. He's shown here on the lawn of the Skelton home with wife Georgia; son, Richard; and daughter Valentina.

HOW'S THIS for a Father's Day pose? It would take KTTV's ole Jackson Wheeler to think of this — a tintype, with his whole family co-operating by hamming it up: Wife, Thelma; and children, Jackson, Jr., Judy Elizabeth, and Jeanine.

HOW'S THIS FOR service? NBC-TV's Frank Blair is waited on by five of his eight children: Paul, 5, shines his shoes; Mary, 11, lights his pipe; Tom, 17, brings the evening paper; Theresa, 8, serves crackers and milk; and Bill, 3, helps his dad with his slippers.

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

CHUCKLING, DR. FRANK BAXTER related that he felt he had finally "arrived." Someone from Newark, N. J., had sent him a clipping from the newspaper's anniversary column. "Happy birthday," it read, "to Cardinal Spellman, Audrey Hepburn and Dr. Frank C. Baxter."

THEN IN MORE SOBER VEIN he told of his reflection while facing his shaving mirror that same morning: that through the medium of television he had been privileged to talk about Shakespeare to more persons than anyone on earth ever before!

THE GOOD DOCTOR'S REMARKS preceded a showing of his new educational series, "The Written Word." It was previewed at the Ambassador following a social hour and buffet in the Lido Patio. The screening was supposed to involve one 30-minute film, but everyone was so enchanted that a second segment was shown. "If any of you care to leave, do so," was the suggestion by U.S.C.'s head of cinematography, who informed there was still another of the series which could be seen. I couldn't tear myself away and sat through a third, feeling as if I were getting a liberal education.

EVOLUTION OF THE WRITTEN WORD has been a Baxter hobby for some time. In the series he appears at his most informal and informative best. In one film, "Along the Nile," he discussed Egyptian writing, then at risk of chopping off his digits actually made a small sheet of papyrus by stripping the wand of the plant and arranging it layer by layer into a sheet. Using the old movie "cliffhanging" technique, showman Baxter placed his concoction into a simple press, concluded the program by saying "Next week we'll see how it looks." Who could resist sitting through the following film, hard chair regardless? Incidentally, the stuff emerged paper thin.

ALL THE FILMS WERE LIBERALLY illustrated, some with priceless exhibits, including a 3,000-year-old sheet of papyrus, books of the great Venetian printer, Aldus Manutius, and an Oxford student's 500-year-old copy of Homer. Series was shot by U.S.C.'s Department of Cinema primarily for the 23 educational stations of the country, but it is possible, through special arrangements, to show such films on commercial stations in cities where there are no educational outlets. I hope we get "The Written Word" here, as I'm sure you would like it.

WHEN ED ETINGER, public relations man from Disneyland, spoke at Hollywood Ad Club and spied impressive statistics to show how things were booming, I again thought of TV's influence. I believe none would dispute the fact that the Park owes a great amount of its popularity to its tie-in with our home screens. It was interesting to learn that more than 4 million visitors are expected at Disneyland this year, 50 per cent of them from outside Southern California. Did you know that the ratio of adults to children visiting Disneyland is three to one?

I HEAR THAT THE NEW LAD replacing Tommy Rettig on the Lassie series is a honey. He is expected to win lots of friends for himself and the show... Lucky Danny Thomas! He gets that choice time when he moves to CBS in the fall—the spot now occupied by Lucy and Desi... NBC is plotting an ambitious schedule of spectacular shows next season and word is that no one regular program will be preempted more than twice in order to clear time for these specials... Joan Caulfield's new TV series, Sally, is going to oppose Jack Benny's beginning Sept. 22... "No Time for Sergeants" star, Andy Griffith, on Person to Person June 14.

JOHNNY MERCER, the man who writes such great lyrics, is still wondering how he was ever named president of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences last year. As he said, "I don't do any TV work at all, so it was a mystery to me." However, he did a noble job and with his tenure finished he has gone back to writing more lyrics. His more recent assignments were songs for the 20th Century-Fox picture, "Bernardine," two for the movie, "Love in the Afternoon" (and what a charming picture this one is!!), and finishing lyrics for Danny Kaye's MGM movie, "Merry Andrew."

"I made a talk not long ago about what I felt the Academy should do and the main points were: (1) that there be a national show un-sponsored so the Academy can put on its own program — let it be a big public-spirited affair. It's not I'm against sponsors but TV is so important such a show should be done without any outside influences. Various members of the Academy can pool their respective talents and turn out a spectacular a year for the Academy.

(3) Awards always bring forth complaints but I feel that the present system should continue until finally there won't be any serious defections — we hope. I can only wish that those who beefed each year had the job of working out the categories and the general awards set-up.

(4) The Academy should have a voice to carry enough weight so that if a TV show was bad or in poor taste the Academy could almost force it off the air.

"I've many wonderful and unselfish people to thank at the Academy for their help. It was an interesting year. Now I'm hoping to get another Broadway show to work on. That's where I get my biggest kick."

If you can't get to New York to hear Johnny's songs in "Li'l Abner" you can buy the original cast album. It's a honey. So is Capitol's new release of "A Face in the Crowd."

Anna Maria Alberghetti and her sister, Carla, gave the Coconut Grove something to remember with their present show. Here were a couple of classical singers who didn't feel called upon to take a shower, a bath, do a strip tease, or rock 'n roll it all. They just sang pure classical numbers for the most part — and were a delight. The only fault was the mike. Anna Maria needs a mike like she needs a hole in the head and the thing made some of her high notes seem strident. What a voice this girl has!

Tunnel

Last week there was a reference to Dick Lane's treatment at KTLA, his only having three shows left, etc. (Now he has only two.) Lew Arnold called to present the station's answer: "We renewed Dick's contract in February for two years and at a raise in salary . . . he gets so many dollars a week from us whether he works or not . . . he's off bowling because we wanted Dick to have not quite as much exposure for a while as he has had . . . we want to give him a rest this summer Now Dick should give his views.

Odds and Ends: Barbara Parker, who was assistant in public relations at the Beverly Hilton, just waltzed into the head spot when Margie Knight resigned. The Hilton really has itself a gem for the spot in Miss Parker . . . they better not forget Roddy McDowall's performance in Matinee Theater's "Rain in the Morning," come Emmy time. It was simply great . . . Gene Raymond really sparked the Pasadena Playhouse production of "Romeo and Juliet." I hope TV producers caught this performance because it certainly presented Raymond in a new light. John Drew Barrymore and Florence Reed were very, very good. Albert McCleery's staging ala his Cameo technique was interesting but the shaking banners for the street scenes were not my cup of tea. They took away the illusion of the show and pointed up mechanical aspects too much, proving that what might be good for TV doesn't always apply to the stage.

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

THE TEMPERATURE was ninety-five and I sat at my typewriter, stripped to the neck, a glass of giggly at my fingertips, trying to think away the heat, when, suddenly, there was a knock at the door. I opened it, opened the bulky package handed me, plugged in the contents, and praised Tom Duggan as the timely benefits of a Burns Air King Fan wafted over me. Thank you, Mr. Duggan and Mr. Berke. I am ashamed of my complaining tirade of a few weeks ago. I am proud to be the sole owner, besides Mr. Berke, of such a wonderful contraption . . . it has a heating attachment, you know . . . blows hot and cold your might say . . . you're true blue, gentlemen, and I want to say that . . . brrrr . . . somebody turn that damn thing off . . . it's cold in here.

"The Moon Is Down." (2) June 19, 11:00. Nunally Johnson's adaptation of the John Steinbeck novel is an eloquent tribute to the citizens of occupied Norway, as it details the difficulties of the Nazi tyranny in attempting to subjugate the rebellious citizens. Cedric Hardwicke, as the German colonel, Henry Travers, as the mayor and Lee Cobb, as the doctor, head a competent cast that fills out an affecting, oft-times gripping story.

"The Ghost and Mrs. Muir." (11) June 16, 9:00. 1947. Gene Tierney, a widow with a small child and a smaller pension, goes to live in a haunted house. The ghost, an old sea captain played by Rex Harrison, is unable to frighten her and so they become friends, of course. She writes his dictated memoirs, has them published and falls in love with George Sands, only to discover that he is already married. This is only the skeleton plot of an amusing ghost story that shows off Mr. Harrison's talents for comedy to good advantage.

"They Won't Forget." (5) June 16, 7:30, 1937. This Mervyn Leroy production was a courageous movie in its day . . . so much so, I'd say, that it wouldn't even be attempted today. It is an anti-South picture . . . against not only its racial attitudes, but its long history of lynch rule, a product of uneducated, unkempt minds. A student, Lana Turner, is murdered, and D. A. Claude Rains decides to prosecute teacher Edward Norris rather than the other suspect, a Negro janitor, because "anyone can convict a Negro in the South," and Rains wants a political future. Under the inflamed pressure of a newspaper and mob opinion, a conviction is obtained and a lynch mob takes over in a brutal, shocking climax. A fighting picture that takes a definite stand, and that, at least, is refreshing.

"Joan of Paris." (9) Beginning June 18, 9:00. 1942. Five RAF fliers are shot down in occupied France and are led to refuge by Paul Henreid, who enlists the aid of barmaid Michele Morgan in effecting a final escape. During the process, he runs afoul of Gestapo head Laird Cregar and agent Alexander Granach, who creates a really frightening character without uttering a word. Also in the movie is Alan Ladd, who utters a few words.

"We Are Not Alone." (2) June 21, 11:15. 1939. Excellent performances by Paul Muni, Flora Robson and Jane Bryan distinguish this James Hilton story of a small town British doctor who befriends a young girl and ultimately has to stand trial for the murder of his shrewish wife. A moving movie.

"Forbidden Cargo." (7) June 21, 3:00. A red light, I presume . . . or maybe it's the story of a traffic cop.

TRIP TIPS

By Jack McElroy

A little over a year ago I had the opportunity to do an hour-long Saturday afternoon program on KRCA (Channel 4) concerning places to go and things to do on your vacation.

The telecast was originally scheduled for four weeks but the response from Southern California audiences was so good the station has kept the show on.

Although I have lived out here for a good many years never realized all the wonderful places you find for a weekend. This is really the vacation spot of the world.

Each week I will give you two suggested trips — one for a weekend and one suitable for a week or two during your summer vacation.

If you are planning a trip in September here is one that sounds mighty pleasant.

The 30,000-ton British liner, Orsova, will leave Los Angeles, stop in San Francisco for a day and a half (while there you may use the ship as your hotel) then go on to Vancouver.

While in Vancouver tours of that area, Seattle and Victoria, will be included plus your return by air or rail to Los Angeles.

The tour returns September 21st. Prices for round trip, $303.71 First Class, and $229.94 Tourist.

My second suggestion is the beautiful San Quintin Bay area, 120 miles south of Ensenada. The roads are satisfactory all the way and you really get out of the tourist section of Lower California.

There are two nice places to stay — the Hamilton Ranch, which has been in operation for 50 years, and the Santa Maria Sky Ranch, which is a newer establishment.

You can either drive, or if you happen to have a plane, fly down — both have good landing strips. Prices are moderate and surf fishing wonderful.

In addition, if you happen to be an Eastern clam digger, you would be surprised at the Pismo clams there by the bushful. Rates are about $12.00 a day, including meals.

If you don't have a chance to get away why don't you take your vacation with me via television at 6:15 p.m. Friday evenings and 5:00 p.m. on Saturday afternoons on Channel 4.

AT LAST! Secret Recipe for Creamed Chicken a la Ukulele Revealed by KOLDKIST!

IZZY Moidel, Spring street lawyer and bon vivant, got a giggle out of Herb Caen's report about a stout woman who talked baby talk.

She took her poodlekins into a pet shop and confided to the proprietor that she wanted to get her ickle doggie "bredded."

The pet shop man drawled "Lady, you just break an egg, roll your dog in it and sprinkle with cracker crumbs."

THAT is no way to bred a dog but it's a nice way to serve KoldKist Cream Chicken if you like croquets but an even nicer way to serve our delicious frozen creamed chicken is as HAWAIIAN CHICKEN IN RICE RING.

All you need is three Hawaiians, two packages of KoldKist Creamed Chicken, one ukulele, a half cup of toasted shredded coconut, one can of pineapple chunks, one hibiscus blossom and four cups of cooked rice.

All you do is defrost that yummy KoldKist Creamed Chicken over low heat, stirring the meanwhile and adding the pineapple.

Split the ukulele flatwise and remove the strings. Fill the ukulele with rice — pour over the chicken-pineapple mixture, sprinkle with toasted coconut, put the hibiscus blossom behind your ear and then phone either the three Hawaiians or Ida Lupino and Howard Duff or somebody and tell 'em to come on over for dinner. Who could ask for anything Moa?

You can get that wonderful frozen KoldKist Creamed Chicken at leading markets and you can get better recipes than this free if you will let us send you our small but vital recipe file. Use the coupon below:

LIFELINES

DOT RECORDS PRXIE, Randy Wood, hosted squab-under-glass luncheon in the Rodeo Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel honoring Helen Traubel. New Dot contractee Traubel has an album which will be released shortly. It will feature semi-classical songs—the great old favorites.

Miss Traubel, whose majestic build so exemplifies the Wagnerian heroines she portrayed at the Metropolitan, was dressed in a navy blue silk knit, topped with a gold stole. From the table where she was seated gales of laughter rolled over the room in response to Miss Traubel's own famous "belly" laugh. No one within listening distance could fail to respond.

Randy's wife, Lois, who has not yet lost her delightful Southern accent, stood in the receiving line with her husband. The slight, dark-haired mother of three is a very gracious person, an asset to the youthful "wonder boy" of the record world. Though in California for almost a year, Randy and Lois have not yet been able to find a house which can compare with the newly completed Southern Colonial home they had just built in Tennessee when business made it necessary for them to move here.

SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT IN STEREOPHONIC SOUND

Weeks after KNX Radio's initial experiment in stereophonic sound broadcasting, staged on the station's "Music Til Dawn" program the night of May 18, letters and telephone calls are still being received by the show's host, Mel Baldwin. Comments from listeners to the hour and a half broadcast were highly complimentary.

Robert Sutton, Program Director for KNX and the Columbia Pacific Radio Network, believes the broadcast using both the station's giant 50,000 watt transmitter at Torrance, California, and its FM transmitter located atop Mount Wilson, proved the tremendous interest in high fidelity broadcasting among Southern California listeners.

Baldwin, during the stereophonic sound portion of his Music Til Dawn program, featured a medley from "My Fair Lady" and "The King and I," the background music from "Around the World in 80 Days," Revel's "Bolero," played by the Netherlands' Philharmonic Orchestra, and Brahms' "Concerto for Violin in D Major" by the Frankfurt Opera Orchestra.

Many listeners called KNX radio for instructions as to the necessary setup for receiving the experimental broadcast. Two radio sets must be used — one AM and the other FM. The listener sets the dial of his AM receiver at 1070 kilocycles and places it to his left. He then sets the dial of his FM radio at 93.1 megacycles and places this to his right, on the same level, leaving a distance of 3 to 8 feet between the two radios. Any type of radio sets may be used so long as they are AM and FM. The end result is a sound so pure that the listener has the impression of being in the same room with the orchestra and performing stars.

I wonder if there is anything at all that can be done about the atrocious color kinescopes that we receive, principally on NBC?

Recently on the Chevy Show the program itself was very poor; however, the commercials were in perfect color because, of course, they had been filmed.

Do you believe that it would be possible for these shows to be filmed and then shown rather than these abominable kinescopes of the color? The population that lives in the East apparently gets to see these live in natural color while we, the step-children of the TV world here on the Pacific Coast, are relegated to being imposed on with these kinescopes.

The series Victory at Sea brings us Grade "A" action photography on the gallant fight of our Navy, but why detract from it with a whole half-hour of uninterrupted, noisy, thunderous background "music," which drowns out the interesting sound effects, gunfire, and, at times, the commentator's voice as he nervously yells his contribution to the already inadequate script.

We listeners suggest that if they want us to hear as well as see Victory at Sea, the producers should take a leaf from Walter Cronkite and the magnificently directed Air Power program, which is stimulating and interesting, without sending viewers to the tranquilizer market for more of same.

'DOODLES' DISAPPEARS

Winstead Sheffield Weaver, better known in entertainment circles as "Doodles," has been an avid sportsman for some time. By the time he reached high school, Doodles was an accomplished basketball player (he was captain of the team in his senior year). Also in the four pre-college years, Weaver lettered in football twice, track, swimming and baseball.

Entering Stanford, Doodles made the varsity soccer team in his second year, also the football and basketball squads in his third year. Selected as a substitute on the American All-Stars football team which played in Hawaii, Doodles made a memorable touchdown to crown all of his sporting memories. Notables on the team included George Sauer, current coach at Baylor University, and the United States Naval Academy football coach Eddie Erdlatz.

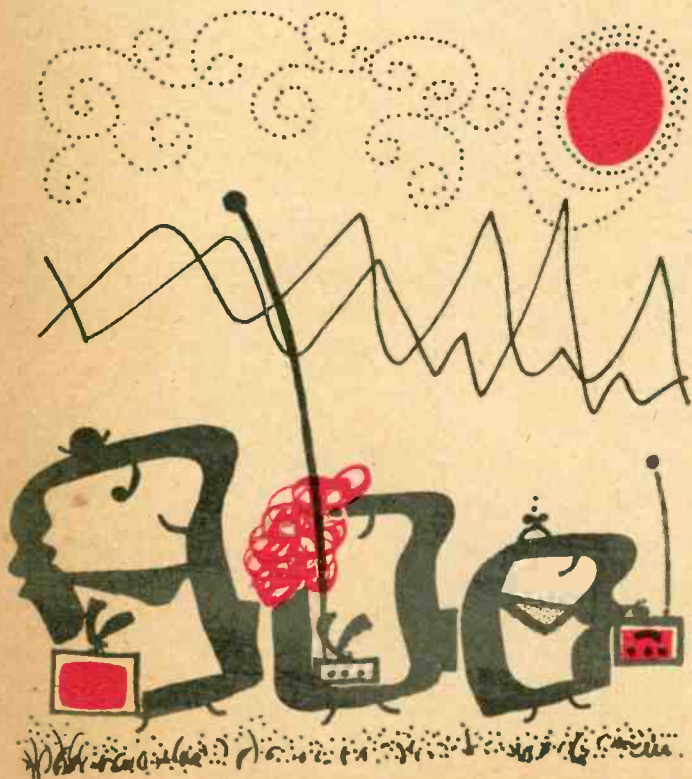

The KNXT star has always believed in keeping himself fit and never fails to work out at least once a day in any one of the variety of sports in which he excells. Recently Doodles won the traditional "Mouseburger Tennis Tournament" in Palm Springs sponsored by Mrs. William Powell.

In Golf, Doodles entered and won the Pro-amateur tournament at the Joe Kirkwood, Jr. course in North Hollywood.

All summer at Catalina Island, Doodles swims and sails to help keep fit.

All this shows that Doodles is a he-man — even though he's making a living these days entertaining the kids on KNXT, Channel 2.

STEVE IN NBC-KRCA RE-HEARSAL Very relaxed. Doesn't seem to mind confusion. Can munch sandwich and take milk through a straw without losing place in script.

"Steve was always such a tall, skinny boy," his mother told TV-Radio Life. "But not too strong, so it was hard to take him on the road. Wouldn't drink his milk. Otherwise a good boy."

HOW

Steveverino MADE THE GRADE

By Evelyn Bigsby

WHEN I READ articles about 'the mighty TV titans' fighting it out, it doesn't seem to be me they're talking about." Speaking was Steve Allen, currently NBC's fair-haired lad who has conclusively managed to break the jinx against Ed Sullivan on Sunday evening.

Asked how he felt when the 8 p.m. Sunday assignment came his way after several others had failed to take Sullivan's stride, Steve said, "NBC had been talking to me about doing a show on various nights, but not especially on Sunday, so I wasn't too surprised when Pat Weaver (then network head), approached me. I had been asked previously to emcee the new talent show, but had declined. When the offer came to head up the variety hour, I said 'Sure, if I can do what I want to.'"

He continued: "I didn't think we'd come within Ed's rating for at least a year." (He topped Sullivan for the first time the night he had Elvis Presley as guest.) "In fact we didn't even discuss ratings when I consented to do the show."

So here is Steve Allen, a year later, having fought his way from the 7's and 8's which NBC was rating in the time versus the well-entrenched Sullivan to competitive 20's and 30's. How did he do it?

Not alone, of course. Behind him was a vast network with all its exploitation and advertising stops pulled out. There were production, direction and writing minds. Money with which to secure solid acts and personalities. Still, even with all these pluses, there was a burden (and a challenge) for Steve.

For some months he plugged along, not exactly setting the TV screens afire. His guests were often excellent, but almost as often disappointing. Many in the trade felt that he was not wise to attempt so much original material. These critics pointed out that Sullivan lifted perfected acts bodily from stage, movies and night clubs and that untried original material simply could not hold up against such competition.

No Routine

"We made a few mistakes," Allen admitted when asked how his show had changed during the past months, "but I believe the mistakes were mostly internal. I don't want the show to have a set format," he continued. "I have always fought the idea that ten minutes into the hour a singer comes on and fifteen minutes later there will be a dance number. I want the show to be full of surprises."

"A good TV show faces a problem — the problem of its viewers getting into a rut."

Steve thinks one of the most helpful changes has been in his audience. As you recall, he started his climb here in Hollywood where he became KNX's most popular nighttime disc jockey. It wasn't long before fans began calling at the studio in person to meet Allen and have him play a favorite record which they had brought to Columbia Square. Within a short time the CBS ticket department found it necessary to control the influx of fans by issuing regular ducats to Steve's program.

A late-night show with its versatility and informality appeared to be tailor-made to Steve's talents. So it was surprising, when he went to New York, that it took a long time for him to land on NBC-TV's Tonight. "Tonight," Steve pointed out recently, "was like the old radio show at Columbia Square. It had wild fans who applauded their brains out!"

From his success with Tonight (which he has subsequently had to drop to devote more time to the Sunday evening opus), Steve moved to an altogether different audience when he took on the 8 o'clock assignment.

"Complete strangers," claimed Allen. "At first. But now there has been a change. We can tell. We're now performing in the studio before fans and friends. We can feel it." Naturally the friendship circle extends out into the home-looking audience.

Success

With four published books, ten record albums and his Sunday evening TV chore, Steve feels he has already achieved his major goals of success. He plans to inject more and more informality into his variety set-up and now has access to many more "name" stars than when he began his assignment last year. Johnson's Wax has recently contracted as sponsor for a year.

Steve has indicated he will keep in pursuit of quality rather than sacrifice this vital element to rating come-ons. Though he zoomed to dizzy ratings with Presley as guest, Steve considers this particular stanza one of his poorest.

"Any author would rather have the critics say his book is great than have it be a best seller and poor," he averred. Same idea applies to television, in his estimation.

As to Ed Sullivan's program, "It's a good show. If Ed is getting 32's, it's swell for him!"

A Point of Law

JACK MOYLES — narrator and commentator for Point of Law.

By Charles Stalnaker

I HAVE been mistaken for a lawyer many times while on the air. Many times off, too! So says Jack Moyles, narrator for the program Point of Law heard over CBS-KNX radio.

"Somehow, the listeners get the wrong impression," Jack remarked. "We get letters all the time from people who have heard the program and for some reason or other assume that we are in the legal advising business. They usually have had some difficulty similar to the problems on the show and think they can get legal advice from us. When this happens, we write back and give them the only advice we are qualified to give, and that it to hire some competent lawyer."

Source of Program

The scripts for the show are written in San Francisco by Michele Lipman and his wife Clayre. They have an accredited law and public relations office where the material for the show is assembled into script form. They get their material from the law books of the various states and rewrite it into a layman's language, checking all the legal technicalities that may be disputed once the program is on the air.

After they have completed the script, they send it on to Jack, who in turn takes the script home and works with his wife, Nida, and a tape recorder, perfecting it dialogue wise. Sometimes he makes changes in the writing, necessary for a dramatic effect.

The five minute show is taped, in its entirety, by Jack, and is sold to various sponsors all over the United States. These sponsors include the selected group of advertisers such as law firms and banks.

Most of the states in which the program is sold, recommend the program highly to the listening public. However, the State of Washington forbids the show to be sold in the State.

It seems that in one of the scripts sold in this particular State, the theme dealt with a Holographic will. This is a will written in pencil with no witnesses at the time of the writing. This type of will is legal — and will withstand legal contesting in California and most all other States too, but not the State of Washington. Because of this particular Point of Law, Washington forbids the broadcasting of the program. for the legal powers that exist in this State are afraid that the people who hear it will get the impression that Holographic wills are legal.

Jack Moyles

Jack has been working two years on this particular show. Although Jack does not "act" on the show, he portrays the contending lawyers and any other persons involved. He merely lends a dramatic effect through narration.

He is well qualified for this chore, having had dramatic parts on such shows as Lux Radio Theater, Suspense, The Whistler, Johnny Dollar and Fibber McGee and Molly.

Being a native of San Francisco, he got his dramatic training at the University of San Francisco, taking part in all the drama activities there. His first radio job was as an announcer on Station KYA in 1933. He joined Station KFSO (at that time a CBS Radio affiliate) in 1937.

In 1944, he moved to Hollywood and took his chances as a radio actor. The gamble paid off. Soon after his arrival, he won a role in "Pacific Story" and went on from that part to become one of the busiest actors in radio, doing all kinds of characterizations.

Jack has learned one thing from the program. Like the many different characterizations he has portrayed, there are just as many different angles to a Point of Law.

Some actresses might complain.

But June Foray doesn't . . . because she happens to possess

The Voice You Always Hear ... The Face You Seldom See

EVER HEAR of a lady named June Foray? Although everyone in the TV-radio field knows her, relatively few of the listening and looking public know about her.

And yet everyone who is reading this article has undoubtedly heard a voice many, many times on both TV and radio. Thus, we have her unique claim to fame: The Voice that Everyone Knows; But the Face, that People Seldom See.

Ordinarily, this could be a pretty frustrating situation, especially for an aspiring actress, such as June has always been.

However, the pretty blonde wife of TV writer Hobart Donovan is not complaining. If viewers could take a peek at her pocketbook, and the long list of credits she has to her name, they'd understand why.

It would be almost impossible to name the actor or actress who has the greatest amount of TV and radio shows to his or her credit. But if anyone ever took the time to figure it out, we'd wager a few pittance that June would be crowned the all-time Champion, or at least finish in the money.

Champion of Credits

Looking over the list of shows she has done since she started in radio in 1938 is like going through an all-time Radio and TV Program Finder, similar to the kind we run each week in TV-Radio Life.

To cite just a few:

Radio: From Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante, and Phil Harris to leading lady and character parts on Smilin' Ed McConnell, Suspense, Dragnet, and The Whistler.

Television: On-camera with Ed Sullivan, Red Skelton, Johnny Carson and Meet Millie. Off-camera on Climax, Front Row Center, Disneyland and the Mickey Mouse Club.

Under contract to Capitol Records since 1939, the little lady from Springfield, Massachusetts has made hundreds of children's records for that company, (including the title roles in Pinocchio, Little Red Hen and Ferdinand the Bull), and she also has been featured on many of Stan Freberg's records, particularly St. George and the Dragonet, Little Blue Riding Hood, and the Quest for Bridy Hammerschlaugen. She's also been used by Walt Disney and other major cartoon studios for voice dubbing of all types.

Loves Commercials

While many viewers and listeners may object to too many commercials flooding the airwaves, June doesn't, especially when it's one on Ajax, Paper Mate Pens, Old Dutch Cleanser, or a dozen different other products she has had some part in.

While June would probably just as soon be a star in her own right, her off-camera voices do have some advantages.

"At least I can go to the market," the short, five-foot blonde explains, "dressed any way I want without worrying about my appearance. I'll let the others have the fame. I'll just take the money."

To give the readers an idea of exactly what June does, this is just a part of the standard release sent out on her describing her talent:

"All dialects, comedy and dramatic. Excellent 'Brooklynese,' Exaggerated Southern; Marjorie Main Types; Trick Voices of All Kinds. Characters In: Cockney, English, German, Continental, Russian, Yiddish, Mexican, Spanish, French, and Swedish. Languages: Speaks fluent French, limited Spanish, and reads well in several languages. Off-stage voices from crying babies to old hags."

JUNE FORAY SPECIALIZES in dozens of different dialects and voices from a crying child to an old woman.

Despite her great talent, there's one type of character that June Foray still hasn't been able to master:

"I just can't do the voice of a plain, virile man!"
