We couldn't agree more than we do with K.S. Jr.'s remarks about Ed Sullivan. We're so tired of his tripe that we read a good book Sun. Eve. — since no other station has anything worth while to offer at that time.

Now we must listen to "Ladies and G-Men" and "Let's Give 'Em A Good Hand" on the Hal March show for the summer. Are ALL the other M.C.'s on vacation? And wouldn't we like to know how some of these so-called TV ratings are arrived at?

We, too, will be glad when Channel Two sees fit to listen to the protests and puts What's My Line? on at a reasonable hour.

ED SULLIVAN

L. O., El Monte

In regard to K.S. Jr., of Spring Valley, Calif.: I think he has bats in his belfry. I think Lassie is one of the best shows on TV today. It is very entertaining, for the kids especially and they always seem to enjoy it. I also think the Ed Sullivan Show is very good. He has so many guest TV and screen stars that it is very enjoyable. I hope these shows will continue on TV and many more like them.

I wish Noah's Ark would come back on TV. This show is too good to be taken off the air because of some crazy rating system.

Mrs. J. B., Claremont

Let's be fair about daytime shows. There are lots of lively shows that interest many women during the day. I agree with Jack Holland, there are some gloomy ones whose voices belong in the side shows at a carnival, but there's one show, As the World Turns, in which I think each member of the cast is an actor on a par with any of the big names in the night shows. I wish I knew their names, but the commercial swallows that part. All one ever hears is "Cowns by, etc., etc."

A. V. B., Santa Ana

I would like to remark on the excellent quality of the recent movies. I have never been much of a movie-watcher, but this year has changed my mind. With the help of TV-Radio Life, I am able to easily find the movie I will enjoy most.

Cowboy movies, etc., have been replaced by fine films with well-known stars. I just want to thank whomever is responsible for this welcome change!

JACKSON WHEELER

Mrs. L. L., Monterey Park

I can't imagine anyone who does enjoy Jackson Wheeler. Perhaps he's not aware that his nine-year rut is showing in his nauseating, syrupy, and long-drawn commercials. I suggest that he "Live Modern," and give us something short and snappy! Until such time, I for one, am not listening!

ROD CAMERON AND JAMES ARNESS

... Two tall favorites

Mrs. L. S., Sun Valley

Just about the two tallest men on TV must be Rod Cameron and Jim Arness. Everyone else in the cast looks so short compared to them.

I like Rod Cameron's new State Trooper program very much. Enjoyed the story you did on his new series and would like to read a more personal story about him. He is my favorite whether it's an old western movie or any of his pictures made especially for TV.

Much good has been said about Jim Arness and Gunsmoke, and I can only add that I think Jim and this series are tops, too.

I have no complaints about TV or the personalities thereon, since I only take the time to watch what I like and I like what I watch.

C. M., Hollywood

There is a question I and, I know, hundreds of TV listeners would like answered. Why are TV commercials so loud? One gets the set toned to preferred listening and soon comes the commercial — blaring out. I have no objections to commercials, since they pay for our programs and some of them are cute, but I don't see why they can't be toned down. Certainly the studios must have tone control.

DOUBLE-DUTY Dvorak

A lot of fathers with just one job regret they haven't time for their children. George Dvorak, one of the busiest announcers on KFI, has a solution.

By Jean Corlis

George's program as must listening. It is probably the only program which gives detailed weather reports in laymen's terms. The reports are received directly from the weather bureau, and George, who is well qualified because of his Air Force training in meteorology, interprets the reports for the layman. Airmen are urged to listen to his reports because they are not altered in any way except for translation into non-technical language. Military and commercial pilots listen in, as well as meteorologists on their way to work — they can tell what to expect when they get there. Even racing pigeon owners have heard their specialized forecasts for pigeon races beamed over George's program. In 1953 he was awarded a commendation by the U.S. Weather Bureau for outstanding public service during the preceding 8 years.

George has been in radio for over 20 years, 18 of them with KFI, with the exception of the time spent in military service. Even then he was radio-connected, having originated the famous "Mosquito Network" while on Guadalcanal, and producing the army shows Command Performance and Jubilee. Right now there's another Dvorak in the service, George's son Bob, who is in the Navy.

He doesn't have any hobbies that would interfere with his family time. "I love music," admitted George, "I used to play trumpet in the high school band. Charlene is learning to play the piano. Perhaps when the girls are old enough to play an instrument I'll get my trumpet out again. Right now the only hobbies I have are things the girls enjoy, such as swimming, and our expeditions."

George is not only a double-duty announcer — he's also a double-duty father.

FUN FOR ALL AT SANTA'S VILLAGE. George's wife, Jean; Christie, George and Charlene have a jolly time at the North Pole. Though Jean usually doesn't go on "father-daughter" expeditions, this was one she didn't want to miss.

GEORGE WITH MAYOR POULSON as they prepare the Mayor's Report which is heard each Sunday night on KFI.

GEOERGE DVORAK thinks he's pretty lucky to have a job that starts at 5:30 A.M. Getting up at 4:00 A.M. isn't any hardship to him. "I've been doing Operation Daybreak since 1946," he said. "When the majority of people are just starting for work I'm through with my regular job. This is really a wonderful arrangement as it gives my daughters, Charlene, 8, and Christie, 6, a chance to put me through my paces."

It's not always that easy though. George has been chief announcer for KFI for many years and in addition to Operation Daybreak he has been doing the Standard Oil Farm Highlights for 11 years, sports news at 7:55 A.M., announces for Art Baker's Notebook and produces and announces the Mayor's Report. Whenever anyone is on vacation, on a trip, or sick, George takes over; for Jim Todd, Ben Hunter or any of the announcers.

Extended Service

It was George substituting for Ben Hunter during Ben's vacation that led to the Other Side of the Day being extended to Saturday night, or we should say, early Sunday morning. Much of George's audience on Operation Daybreak carries over from Ben's audience, and when they heard what a good job he did filling in for Ben they wrote in and asked that he do the show Saturday night.

George likes the idea of doing the Other Side of the Day, although it's going to cause a little change in his week-end routine. Usually when he's not working all weekend, he takes his daughters on expeditions, leaving his wife Jean at home to get a little rest. Every Monday morning on Operation Daybreak he reports to his audience where he and the girls went — to Catalina, Arrowhead, Disneyland, Santa's Village, or picking cherries down Beaumont way.

"Some of my early-rising friends tell me I've put them on the spot. Their wives want them to take their children on week-end jaunts," commented George.

Weather

Operation Daybreak offers the late-to-bedders or early-risers a mixture of music and weather. Farmers, pilots, fishermen and all other people to whom weather is very important regard

GETTING SERIOUS WITH

Molly Bee

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

BOTH AT HOME and at the TV studios, Molly Bee is a typical teenager. Here she grabs a quick bite to eat at the NBC studios, and then learns a few new dance steps from actor and friend, Kenny Miller. Molly does have her more serious moments, however, and that's what this exclusive feature story tells about. (NBC color photos by Gerald Smith; NBC cover photo by Elmer Holloway.)

This week marks the 18th birthday of the KTLA singing star. Much has been written about young Molly since she started with Cliffie Stone's Hometown Jamboree gang eight years ago. But never anything quite this personal.

SPOTLIGHTS on bandstands do not always shine on lilt-ing laughter and rollicking rhythms. Not even in the case of bouncing, energetic, Molly Bee.

Those who watch her each week on KTLA's Hometown Jamboree and at the Harmony Park Ballroom in Anaheim get to see and hear one side of Molly's personality. The most predominant side, to be sure, but not necessarily the most important.

The extrovert in Miss Bee finds her smiling and laughing in front of the cameras, and rockin' and rollin' along the bandstand whenever one of the other singers has the spotlight, or when Speedie West and his rockbilly boys are making the joint jump. The pretty little girl with the long blonde locks of hair is hardly ever still. It's almost as if she had a bag of jumping beans on her back. She's a yakker, too. Constantly chattering with one of her fans or friends or business acquaintances.

This is no front for her public, either. For this is the way Molly is. In short, she's an extroverted teenager who has made her living in show business.

Of course, there's another side to little Miss Bee. A more serious side. A side which has not been too evident because of the nature of her work, but which has existed and developed right along with the physical maturity she has displayed during the past 10 years.

Molly Bee is 18 years old this week, August 18 to be exact. And as Cliffie Stone has always described her, "Molly is the girl whom TV fans have watched grow up right before their eyes."

When she was only ten, Cliffie watched her sing "Lovesick Blues" on a show called "Hollywood Opportunity," which was also heard then on KTLA, Channel 5. Immediately impressed, Cliffie auditioned her, and arranged for the pig-tailed, guitar-singing cutie to become a regular member with his Hometown Jamboree show.

Always with the Hometown gang, Molly later got her first network break with Pinky Lee's show, and then became a regular member of Tennessee Ernie Ford's NBC-TV daytime crew. She also took a fling at singing top tunes and ballads on Ray Anthony's TV show.

In addition, she recently completed her first motion picture, "Summer Love."

Now all during these hectic and happy-go-lucky eight years tremendous changes — physical and mental — have taken place, and still are taking place for the 115-pound singing star.

Habitually a hand-holder, and a natural companion for boys, she's now at the susceptible age when she realizes that not all of them want to sit around, chew bubble gum, and talk about hot rods. Many of them have other intentions — especially toward such a lovely eligible as Miss Bee.

Molly is not only attractive. But she's a personality. Makes a good living. And should come into a bundle full of bank-notes when she reaches her 21st birthday.

The boys know this. But so does Molly.

As she herself explains:

"I'm only 18. At least, I'm going to be 18. But I've been around this business a long time now. At the TV studios, and particularly at the ballrooms, I've met all kinds of fellows. Most of them have been very kind and very nice to me. But there have been a few odd-balls who have given me a bad time. But I suppose that's to be expected as a part of our business."

Stability Sought

Constantly performing before the public, chatting with fans, enjoying the usual teen-age pastimes with her friends and always on the go-go-go — Molly has sought stability in her life. Something she can always come back to or rely on when the pace gets too fast. A rock to lean on. A permanent home offering mental security.

Molly has found that rock, that home, that stability. She has found it in the Church. Specifically, the Roman Catholic Church.

"As a child I never went to one particular church," the serious-faced teenager declares. "We went to all different types and denominations.

"For some reason, however," she smiles slightly, "I always seem to live next door to Catholics. First when I was 10 and 11, we had the Roche family as our neighbors in Azusa. They were Catholics, and I often went to church with them.

"Then when I moved to Temple City, I became friends with Betty McAnnely. She's a little older than I am, but we have always shared things together. Even when I went on trips, Betty went along. She'd act as both a guardian and a friend.

"Well, Betty was a Catholic, and so naturally I often went to Church with her. I found out that it did wonderful things for me. It gave me the sense of peacefulness and belonging — which I have always needed, and always will."

Father "Mike"

Betty introduced Molly to Father Michael Montoya, the pastor of the San Gabriel mission. It was Father Michael — a great favorite among many people in show business — who began to give young Molly instructions in the Catholic Church. It was Father Mike, as he is often called, who also converted the famous teen-age singer.

Today, Molly regularly attends the Blessed Sacrament Church. To show the influence the Church has had on her career, just before she sings a number at the Harmony Park ballroom, for the KTLA audience, she crosses herself.

"Aside from the purely religious aspect of it, I think one of the best things the Catholic Church does for me is to teach me discipline," Molly explains.

"Too often in our business, especially when you work late on Saturday night, as I often do, a person has a tendency to become lazy. So you sleep later on Sunday, and don't attend church. Or else, when you're on the road, or away from home for some reason, you think of a million other excuses.

"But the Catholic Church is very demanding. That's just one of the reasons I became converted. I not only need that discipline in my daily life — but I want it."

As far as "getting serious" with boys is concerned, Molly has been steady-dating Tommy Sands lately. That was almost inevitable — as both of them got their start on Cliffie Stone's Hometown Jamboree.

So the little lady whom TV fans have watched grow up physically right before their eyes, has also grown-up in other departments. Contrary to many other teen-age stars, success and show business haven't spoiled Molly Bee. They have only helped her to become a mature and lovely 18-year-old girl.

And so, as a personal note, and having "grown-up" right along with young Molly during the past eight years, we at TV-Radio Life have but two final words to say to her:

"Happy Birthday."

JOE ALLISON is the personable emcee of this new country music program. He is also a song writer of note. Nat Nigberg is the producer of the program.

BOB REGAN and Lucille Star, champion yodeler, are two of the regulars on KABC-TV's Country America show.

NO CORN in the COUNTRY

Country America is another in the group of "folksy" TV shows. The smart people don't laugh at such packages. You don't laugh at hot successes.

TO THE SOPHISTICATES and to the blase, country music is full of hayseed and nasal twangs. But to the bulk of this land of ours, it is THE music, the expression of the ordinary Mr. and Mrs. John Doakes.

It is also the means by which many a musician has been able to buy Cadillacs, trust funds, and mansions while the more sophisticated exponents of popular music are sharing their pocket-books with mortgage and loan companies.

KABC-TV was the most recent station to take unto itself a country music program — called, appropriately enough, Country America. Produced by Nat Nigberg and emceed by Joe Allison, it is a musical extravaganza of the grass roots music featuring the top artists in this field.

Not Western

"We're not western music," Joe Allison explained heartily. "Actually, there are three types of music: western with ballads; folk songs; and country music which is created by today's writers and sung by those who can give the country flavor.

"We had no difficulty at all in selling our show to KABC-TV because song hits today are from the country field. For instance, 'Teen Age Crush,' which I wrote for Tommy Sands, is basically country music. So is Sonny James' recording of 'Young Love.' Your pop hits are country tunes for the most part."

Nat and Joe got the idea for Country America in a rather orthodox way. Nat, who was once with Lippert Productions, is now with Hometown Records, a company producing country songs exclusively. Prior to that he was with Enterprise Productions which packaged TV shows. He was well acquainted with Frank Oxarart and John Feldman who owned several radio stations, among them KRKD. Joe was on KRKD as a deejay featuring only country music. Nat immediately felt that Joe typified the country folk, and decided he'd be great as an emcee of a country TV show. The two got together, compared notes, and Country America was the result.

In addition to his emcee chores, Joe is also a successful song writer, although he claims that his wife, Audrey, with whom he writes, really is the brains in this field. Among their hits are "Hello, Broken Heart," "Rock City Boogie" which was done by Ernie Ford, and believe it or not, a number called "Live Fast, Love Hard, Die Young."

Lasting Music

"Country music is popular and it lasts because it is honest and simple," Joe explained. "Its audiences are more loyal too — just as its musicians are more down-to-earth. Why, you'll find no jealousy among country musicians at all, and you don't find any of them getting cocky. Whenever we see a young guy thinking he's hot stuff, a couple of us will take him to our home and give him a nice but firm dressing down."

"The guest stars we have on our show often fly in from other parts of the country to appear at a nominal fee just because they like country music and want to do all they can to promote it. There's a great spirit among these people."

Among the regulars on Country America are Debby Kay, Bobby Bruce, Lucille Star, Bob Ryan, but top name guests have already been featured.

Actually, Joe is a convert to country music himself. He used to be a deejay of popular music — and he hated the country tunes. However, he got an offer to go with Tex Ritter and he decided to give it a whirl. At the end of six months he liked the music so much he stayed in the field. He is now probably its biggest devotee.

Country America should add a few more fans for this music. It at least is further proof that while some may call it corn those in the know regard it as basic Americana and money in the bank.

KNXT SPOTLIGHTS MENTAL HEALTH

Philosophers Gerald Heard, Abraham Kaplan and Aldous Huxley discuss modern civilization and its effect on the human mind on this KNXT Public Service series.

FOCUS ON SANITY, the KNXT Public Affairs series narrated by Gerald Heard, points out man's struggles for money, prestige, position and the modern time pressure and pace which put sanity in constant jeopardy.

The series, which began on July 17, brings out the difference between mental and emotional illness during Mr. Heard's discussions with doctors and noted mental health experts. Mental illness, according to these experts, is a name covering several sicknesses of the mind which affect the way a person thinks, feels and behaves. The medical term for serious mental illness is "psychosis." The legal term is "insanity."

Mr. Heard is joined in his discussions by two noted philosophers, Dr. Abraham Kaplan and Aldous Huxley.

MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL ILLNESS, ITS CAUSES AND EFFECTS, are discussed and explored by such philosophers as Dr. Abraham Kaplan of UCLA, Aldous Huxley and Gerald Heard, Wednesdays, (6:30-7:00) on KNXT.

EXCLUSIVE:

KTLA TO LAUNCH PROGRAM REVAMP

"The Gold Rush at Channel 5" is catchy slogan adopted by KTLA for the biggest campaign in the station's 10-year history. This push will signal an almost complete program change, with well over a million dollars represented in fresh shows and with Channel 5 presenting more new programming this fall than any other TV station in Southern California.

Majority of the new formats will appear during the week of September 23. A brief summary of first-run properties to debut on KTLA: Sword of Freedom starring Edmund Purdom as a dashing hero fighting for freedom in 15th Century Italy; Official Detective, 39 episodes; Big Story, 39 episodes in new Big Story series; Treasures Unlimited, a travel adventure program to be done in color; White Hunter, an adult adventure series of exploits in Africa; Citizen Soldier (starting Jan. 1), 39 half-hours shot on Europe's battlefields of World War II.

In addition to these, KTLA will screen a repeat run of The Millionaire under the title of If You Had A Million and will show reruns of Dr. Christian and Schlitz Playhouse.

KTLA, which has been balancing "live" vs. film about equally, is moving more into the film aspects in this huge program rescheduling. However, many new live shows are to be telecast to supplement the new celluloid programs.

Perhaps of most interest is sports. Channel 5 plans to carry exclusive TV coverage of Southern California's new Pro Football team, the Rhinos. Beginning Sunday, Sept. 15, the station will telecast 11 football classics direct from La Palma Municipal Stadium in Anaheim. KTLA has also signed ace sportscaster Sam Balter, who will bring these games to set-siders Sunday afternoons from 2 to 4:30 o'clock. Last year (and the same this season) the sports viewers regretted blackouts of the L.A. Rams' tussles in this area. KTLA feels that it has scored a real touchdown in cinching the Rhinos.

Elsewhere on the channel's schedule there will be a live 5:30-6:30 p.m. telecast featuring the Le Garde twins, singing stars from Australia. A late-evening offering tentatively titled It's Your Nickel will present Joe Pyne from 11 p.m. to midnight.

The news set-up is to be completely revamped with a full half-hour of information nightly from 6:30 to 7:00. Many other shows are still in format stage.

Late last week KTLA topped off its restyling with purchase of Universal-International's "shock package," consisting of 52 "horror" films, most of them post-1940 and including the Frankensteins and Draculas. This package is the first of U-I's to be released to TV and the station is said to have expended a large chunk to obtain it.

To make viewers aware of this program upheaval, KTLA will embark on a heavy promotional campaign using newspaper and magazine space, billboards, bus benches, aerial promotion, and several contests to interest viewers. Among these is a hidden treasure hunt involving a big prize; a Gold Rush telephone gimmick paying off in thousands of dollars to winners, and a mystery flagpole sitter contest in which viewers will be asked to identify the masked and shrouded personality atop KTLA's pole.

Viewers should watch TV-Radio Life for further details on Channel 5 program changes, announcements about contests and other data pertaining to this tremendous campaign by which KTLA hopes to forge to the top.

IN SOME WAYS it was a switch for comedian Jerry Colonna to play a part on CBS-TV's dramatic Climax show. Hour production featured Dane Clark in "The Giant Killer."

IT WAS COLONNA'S WORK with Bob Hope which skyrocketed him to national fame. Here's Bob and Jerry looking for fictitious radio character "Yehoodi" in 1941. (Paramount Pictures photo.)

FUNNYMAN GOES DRAMATIC ON CLIMAX!

IRONIC PART OF COLONNA'S role on serious play was that he portrayed a practical joker! (CBS-TV photos.)

I FOR ONE, WAS SHOCKED at the denouncement Roy and Dale Evans Rogers received at the pen of the Rev. Hugh T. Hall, a Baptist (Minnesota) executive secretary. His comments, appearing in a church publication and featured in a Variety story, followed the two stars' appearance at a church conference where they "bore testimony."

THE REV. HALL IS QUOTED as writing: "We don't need the non-yielded, excuse-making, Christian hobby element to put the Conservative Baptist movement in 'good' with the Lord. The testimony of Dale Evans showed spiritual character and depth but she still is associated with the Godless, sex-perverted Hollywood outfit. Her husband, Roy Rogers, should be ashamed of his exhibition and attempt at testimony. His reference to the word of God as an aid and help in hunting was sacrilegious."

NOW I WASN'T THERE TO HEAR what Roy and Dale had to say. And I don't know the Rev. Hall (except what I deduce from his blast). But I do know Roy and Dale and I'm for them all the way. I've heard them talk and rather than hold it against them that they stem from Hollywood, I'm inclined to say more power to them that they are what they are and do what they do and are still two of Hollywood's finest stars.

NATURALLY THEY MUST FEEL hurt over this recent criticism, but they know it is better to make no comment. They've been slapped down before and prefer to ignore the remarks and simply go on doing what they always have. In addition to their personal appearances they are handling a great amount of mail from ministers with whom they often set up telephone calls by which Roy is enabled to speak to an entire congregation.

THE COUPLE IS STILL UNDER contract to NBC until next July, but currently there are no immediate plans. They hope to do some Spex next year and have been approached for four movies. Incidentally, Dale's two books have now brought in $90,000 which has been turned over to the Association for Mentally Retarded Children!

SPEAKING OF MENTAL HEALTH, if you haven't caught KNXT's Focus on Sanity, by all means do! Have only one small suggestion: a better time spot (other than dinner hour) might make some of the subject matter less distasteful.

SAW THE PILOT OF ABC-TV's new Maverick series and if the other one-hour TV films are as good as the first, this'll give Sullivan and Allen some fitful nights. The starter has everything—excitement, action, flavor and a handsome hunk of man named James Garner. It's really not a Western. Only a Western background.

WRITING OF ED SULLIVAN reminds me that Carol Burnett and her "I'm in Love with John Foster Dulles" seems to be in extremely poor taste and I'm surprised at a big show like Ed's promoting the thing.

THIS IS NOT REALLY MY GRIPE DAY, but as long as we're on the theme, let's mention the fact that all you unhappy TV fans who've rebelled at having What's My Line? on at 10:30 during the summer had better get resigned or start fighting. I have the word that the show is staying put in this 10:30 slot even when the fall schedule starts. It'll be Brave Eagle at 6:00 p.m., then 20th Century, Lassie, Benny and Bachelor Father (alternating) Sullivan, G. E. Theater, (Continued on Page 37)

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

I SMAEL ALVAREZ, of Covina, writes to complain of my neglecting to review the Wallace Beery Theater and goes on to say, "Why the heck don't they give you more space so you can cover a few more of the films?" Well, as a matter of fact, Ismael, I did once suggest to Editor Evelyn Bigsby that she devote an entire issue to my review of "The Quick Draw" (the story of a short beer) but she couldn't see it... some nonsense about TV viewers being interested in more than just movies. I tell you it's that kind of narrow thinking that's made a success of this magazine.

"Message To Garcia." (11) Aug. 25, 9:00. 1936. Here's a Wally Beery movie for you, Ismael... (I reviewed most of his films when they were shown on the late show but now there are some first runs coming along so I'll have to watch it... in the meantime, keep your criticisms to yourself... they upset me). This is a fictionalized Gene Fowler version of what really was a simple message from President McKinley to a Cuban military leader, but in this becomes a tale of struggle and torment as Lt. John Boles cuts his way through jungle and savages. Barbara Stanwyck is unconvincing as the daughter of a Cuban patriot, while Beery plays a slob with his usual wit, and, even, grace.

"My Favorite Wife." (9) Beginning Aug. 26, 9:00. 1940. A favorite comedy of its time, this one has Irene Dunne returning from the dead after seven ship wrecked years to find husband Cary Grant about to depart on his honeymoon with his new wife Gail Patrick. This leads to all sorts of complications, as you can surmise, especially when Cary learns that Randolph Scott was on the island with Irene all those years. A faintly naughty, but, you can be sure, nice comedy of confusion.

"Claudia." (2) Aug. 24, 10:00. 1943. I'm getting a little wary of recommending any of the "Fabulous 52," because of the excessive editing and the numerous commercials... I've received a few complaints, myself... but here's another one, a hit comedy adapted from the Rose Franken play and starring Dorothy McGuire, making her screen debut in her original role. She plays the scatterbrained wife of steady Robert Young and involves herself in everything from an extracurricular kiss to test her sex appeal to selling the house to impress her husband. An impending baby and her mother's illness bring her suddenly to maturity in an amusing, slightly irritating comedy of suburbia.

"Manpower." (5) Aug. 25, 7:30. 1941. Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich and George Raft form the triangle of this "action-packed" melodrama about power company construction crews. The whole thing resolves itself in violence after Marlene has married Edward, whom she doesn't love, and then tells him she loves George, who will have none of it, but Edward is crazed with jealousy and there is a fight and... and ROBINSON DIES... and I've told you the ending... hahahahahahahahahahahahaha...

"Yolanda and the Thief." (11) Aug. 30, 8:30. Veloz everything!

Focus On Sanity

Wednesday, 6:30 p.m.,

KNXT, Ch. 2

Focus on Sanity is a notable contribution to television.

It has unfortunately been lost in the merry-go-round of summer replacements. As a public service presentation it has been left to make its own way. This program should be a "must" in every American family's television viewing.

Focus on Sanity ventures into perhaps one of the most difficult subjects to put over to the public—mental health and hygiene and various areas of emotional and mental disorder. Since there is increasing public interest in this field, recently stepped up by California legislation offering financial aid to communities setting up their own mental health and hygiene clinics, this short series should play an important role in making intelligible to the laymen what work is being done in this field and what resources are available for treatment of emotional and mental disorders.

With Gerald Heard and Hale Sparks heading the weekly program, the camera ranges far afield investigating case histories, visiting institutions, and gathering comment from noted professional leaders in the field. There is bold realism in Focus on Sanity, but realism for a purpose, deftly and tastefully handled.

Particularly interesting was the case of the child confined to Camarillo and the interview with the child's parents as they discussed the problems presented to the family by the boy's condition and their hopes for his recovery. To date television as a medium has offered few such poignant glimpses into the human heart.

In production skill, Focus on Sanity illustrates what can be done in television in presenting material of universal significance so that it may be grasped by the general public, not in the sense of oversimplifying, but through intelligent coordinating of writing, camera and knowledge of subject matter. Too often such programs are top-heavy with professional mumbo-jumbo, or so watered down as to lose any effectiveness.

Aside from the emotional impact, television audiences of any age or social group will find much in Focus on Sanity to bring them up on one of society's most pressing problems.

The editor of this fine soft-shelled magazine is a rather stunning doll known in the trade as The Bigsby. Evelyn Bigsby. I invited her to our house (at the beach) to frolic in the surf with my rubber duck, and to have dinner. Nope.

Evelyn was polite about it of course, explaining that, socially, she was booked up until after Halloween. But the fact remains that I have been spurned.

I have been trying to piece things together in an effort to determine why my warm invitation should be cold shouldered.

It stands to reason that nobody would want to avoid my company — so The Bigsby must have shied off for some other reason. It occurred to me with a horrible shock that the lady reasoned that it would be only logical for us to serve her a delicious repast of KoldKist Chili and Beans Con Carne. In other words she either got wind of — or reasoned — that we would have chili and maybe she doesn't care for chili.

Maybe some people don't. But I do. And if you do too, please permit me to reaffirm a fact: chili con carne at its noble best is Chili Con Carne a la KoldKist.

HEAR FRED BECK — KABC RADIO — 790 — MON.-FRI. — 6:15-8:30 A.M.

Fred Beck says:

I'm Hurt! The Bigsby declined my very kind invitation to dinner

It's full flavored and yet subtle. It has a smooth and authentic below-the-border flavor and from the standpoint of the hostess or housewife it's so wonderfully easy to fix. As explained on the package — just thaw (in a double boiler preferably) — heat — serve.

Our chili con carne is one of 11 wonderful KoldKist Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products — with full directions for preparing on each package.

For extra fancy ways to serve Koldkist, please let us send you our FREE RECIPE BOOKLET.

A MILLION RELATIVES

By Arlene Francis, NBC-TV Star

Anyone who appears on television is overcome with the feeling from time to time that he has a million relatives! Not real relatives, you understand, but television fans who feel that they know you as well as your relatives, which puts them in the position of being able to advise you on what to do, what to wear, what to say and how to cut your hair. Like real relatives, fortunately, viewers make up for their "cactus comments" by showering you with affection, appreciation and the sense that they are proud of you.

When first I went into television, I must admit that some of my fan mail was kind of . . . well, immature. People wrote to ask for autographs or pictures, and that was about it. As television grew up, the fans seemed to grow right along with it. If they didn't like a show, you heard about it in articulate, interesting fashion. Every fan became a Monday morning quarterback—and if the letters are any indication, a lot of them would have done very well in the game.

What has pleased and amused me more than anything is the growing sense of intimacy which the letters express. While many of the people still call me "Miss Francis," most of the letters begin "Dear Arlene." One dear little woman over in New Jersey wrote to tell me that she needed printed instructions for a children's birthday party we had described on "Home." Her reason, she said, was that she was expecting her second baby any moment and she was afraid her husband would be running the birthday festivities for her three-year-old. She assumed we would be interested and, because of her friendly letter, we were. The secretaries made special drawings to show the young husband how to do "clown faces" on the children, and also typed up excerpts from the script so all would go well.

Another woman in Ohio wrote that her four-year-old daughter had taken to dragging an extension cord from a lamp around the house while clutching her toddler brother with the other hand. The mother had difficulty figuring out what she was doing, until she heard the little girl say into the light cord, "What do you think of that, Hugh?" To her, that cord had become a portable microphone and she was Arlene Francis. You see, a family-type anecdote.

When viewers take umbrage at things which we present, their protests are more like rebukes from one's aunts than they are diatribe. The letters will run: "I'm surprised at YOU, Arlene, saying such a thing." I feel like answering, "Now, Aunt

1:30 (2) GIVE US THIS DAY

LADIES' MAN
by Walter Cronkite

("Walter Cronkite With The News" on the CBS Television Network Mon.-thru-Fri., 10:00-10:10 AM, PDT).

It may still be a man's world although I have ever-increasing doubts.

Today you hear more and more talk about women wearing the trousers in American families. They say that women control 80 per cent of the nation's purchasing power. The battle of the sexes rages on all fronts.

In my own case--when I deliver my morning news show every Monday through Friday I KNOW that the women are the strong backbone of the viewing audience.

According to recent Nielsen ratings, ladies outscore the male audience by a better than 3 to 1 margin. Adult male viewers register a mild 17 per cent.

The knowledge that I am beaming the news of the day to the female quarter is fine with me. Today the American household woman is highly intelligent. We don't talk down to them. We make each presentation as hard-hitting as possible.

Keeping informed and abreast of the fast-breaking news from all corners of the world gives the ladies a chance to meet their husbands on equal terms when their mates come home at night.

And it gives them a great chance to grab the conversational ball from husbands who might otherwise monopolize the evening hours with the latest news from the office.

On my Sunday News Special, telecast in the East, the males come closer but still cannot match the women on a viewer-per-viewer basis. When we broadcast at 11 PM approximately 4,062,000 ladies are looking in each Sunday evening (statistics again through the courtesy of the Nielsen service).

Translated into the percentages again—the number represents a 50-43 advantage for the females.

Getting back to my morning broadcast—I'm a little surprised that the females didn't run up an even larger viewer share of the audience than the figures reveal.

However, I think I can attribute this to the farmers of the nation's Mid-West. Over the farm-belt homes television aeriels and towers are sprouting like the proverbial mushroom. As the towers push higher and higher into the sky our news show comes into more and more living rooms.

Unlike most men who earn their bread and butter in the cities, today's man of agriculture will return home for his noon-time meal.

And—according to my mail—many of them are looking at our news show during their break from their dawn-to-dusk farm chores.

But despite the gallant efforts of my Mid-West viewers, the women continue to come out on top.

So—in my case—and in the case of daytime network television—you can readily see why I have my serious doubts about it being a man's world.

As I said—I'm a ladies' man. God bless them!

Last Winter, when "Home" announced that it was going to cover the St. Paul Winter Carnival, one of our viewers reduced her family to helpless laughter when she looked up from her evening paper and said "Arlene is coming to St. Paul. She'll stay with us, of course." This charming lady told me, when she dropped by to see one of our outdoor rehearsals, "I realized when I saw how hysterical they were that I had said something outlandish, but when somebody is—as welcome a visitor in your home as you are in mine, you're 'family.' It just never occurred to me to let a relative stay at a hotel."

See what I mean? A million relatives!

SKIPPER FRANK'S SCAM-O-GRAM

HI: Donald Pearce writes to tell me that he likes to collect mind reading and mathematical parlor and patio tricks. So, we will try to add another to his collection. This is a goodie and has not been kicked around in print.

Your victim will lose a lot of sleep trying to figure this one. Ask him to put down any three figure number, reverse it and subtract the smaller number from the larger. Even if he leaves the room to do his figuring, you can tell him his result every time.

SECRET: The weird part of the deal is this: the center figure is always nine and the two outside figures always total nine. For example:

-138

693

Ask the victim for the last figure of his answer, as if to aid your concentration. Mentally subtract it from 9 and you have the first figure. The center figure is always nine and he told you the last one.

You will get credit for and have fun with this stunt only so long as you keep this a secret. Try it and you will find that it soon becomes one of your favorites.

On the evening of September 6, Julius and I will be performing on the grand stand at the Antelope Valley Fair in Lancaster. We will be featuring a new effect called the "Hindu Basket Illusion" and hope all our Desert area friends turn out to see us. We also plan to feature this amazing Oriental stunt at the Ice Follies on "Skipper Frank Night" at the Pan Pacific Auditorium in Los Angeles.

Julius wants me to put in a plug for his new record. It's on the Addled Lable. Plug side has "I'd give a thousand dollars to be a millionaire" and the flip side has "My girl looks like a total stranger since her face got caught in the record changer."

Till next week,

Skipper Frank.

Hitchcock, $64,000 Challenge, and What's My Line? Apparently Channel 2 wants a "children's type" lineup in early evening and feels that there's nothing particularly wrong with the late-nite slot for Line because that's the time the show has always been on in N. Y.

Marge and Gower Champion, that good looking, light-footed couple doing a two weeks' stand at The Grove, are aided ably in the song department by Bob Dixon, whom you've heard on Tennessee Ernie's show. Marge is cute as a button, Gower is lithe and handsome. They never dance enough to suit me... they left Grove patrons wanting more.

BEFORE ART BAKER AND GERIE LARSEN left for London to be married August 11, they sent out whimsical invitations to the ceremony with R.S.V.P. included. The Japanese gardener replied: "An honor invite, Sorry cannot be there. Must cut grass."

AROUND THE
BASEBALL CIRCLE
BILL WELSH AND
FRED HESSLER

BEFORE THE BALL GAME, Fred Hessler, who handles the color on the KTTV telecasts of the Hollywood Star games, chats with Star manager Clyde King. There's more than meets the eye in preparing one of these shows.

THE HOT RACE this year in the PCL has added to the excitement of the current season. Always an "exciting" player to watch: speed merchant Carlos Bernier of the Hollywood Stars, seen here chatting with Fred and Bill.

"OH, GOSH... MR. LINKLETTER... This is so sudden!" (Sid Avery Photos.)

ONE OF THE SECRETS to Art Linkletter's success with children on his CBS-TV program, is the fact that he asks them adult questions. As for the answers, Art never knows what to expect.

Many people ask Art Linkletter: "C'mon, tell us the truth! Who coaches those kids you have on your House Party?" Art tries to explain and prove (as he does in this story) that he doesn't have to coach them, because he knows

KIDS SAY

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

PROFESSIONAL comedy writers make hundreds, even thousands, of dollars per week for their clever and witty sayings. And yet Art Linkletter has been getting top material for his CBS-KNXT House Party for 10 these many years — and all for nothing.

Not only that, the originators of the funny lines make it a "package deal" by supplying their own acting. We're speaking, of course, of Art's regular segment on his daily show when he interviews the children — who, as always, are never at a loss for words.

Energetic Art has even written a book on this subject, entitled, "Kids Say the Darndest Things." It will be released in October.

Sitting in his comfortable office on Beverly Blvd., the famed emcee gave us some of the background of the book — and also supplied us with some fresh anecdotes which happened after the final manuscript was submitted, and which undoubtedly would have been used in the book itself.

"I've been compiling these sayings over a period of years," Art explained. "After each show I sit down with my secretary and dictate the one which I thought had the greatest appeal."

Why did Art go through all this trouble? Why didn't he merely have transcripts made of his radio and TV programs, both of which are always recorded?

"I wanted to take down my own reactions while it was still fresh in my mind," he explains. "After a few weeks, or even months pass by, you forget a lot of the smaller details. For example, I may say something to one of kids, and get back a simple remark of 'What?' Now, on paper that may not read funny. Yet, the boy or girl might have looked a certain way, or did something unusual at the time the answer was given. That's what I mean by capturing the 'freshness' of the incident."

TOP GUEST ARTISTS often stop by to visit with Art at the CBS-TV studios. Case in point: the always hilarious Jerry Lewis.

THE CRAZIEST THINGS!

Because he knew an interview was scheduled for nine o'clock in the morning, Art brought along some special fresh material which has only occurred recently.

The first anecdote concerns two children, only five years old, who had a "crush" on each other. They loved each other so much, they said, that she was going to have 48 children — one for each state in the Union — and he was going to buy her two huge castles.

"Are you going to get married?" Art asked.

"No," came the startled reply from the boy.

"Do you know what matrimony is?" Art asked again.

"Oh — it's some kind of superstition," the five-year-old replied.

Perfect Soldier

On another occasion, Art interviewed a young boy who said his ambition in life was to be a soldier.

"Do you know what a soldier does?" Art asked.

"Yes sir," the boy replied.

"What does he do?" Art asked again.

"He shoots cannons," the boy answered, concentrating hard, "He shoots guns." And, after a dramatic pause, perfectly timed, the boy concluded, "... and he shoots dice!"

As soon as the audience stopped laughing, Art looked the boy squarely in the eye and asked, "Who told you to say that?"

Of course the boy simply replied, "No one, Mr. Linkletter."

Next, Art looked directly into the CBS-TV camera and right on the air explained why he asked the boy that question.

"It's one of the very few times I have spoken directly to the TV audience on this subject," Art elaborates. "However, so many people, so often, keep remarking or hinting that we coach the children what to say."

"The boy-who-wanted-to-be-a-soldier had delivered his lines so perfectly, with the timing and precision of a professional comic, that I thought this would be an ideal situation to clarify how completely un-rehearsed his remarks were."

Vet or Taxi

Another incident which Art chuckles over ever time he tells it, concerns the boy who wanted to be either a veterinarian or a taxidermist when he grew up.

"Why did you choose those two professions?" Art asked, rather puzzled.

"If I can't cure 'em, then I'll stuff 'em," the boy explained very logically.

Then there was the child whom Link asked. "What do you know about cows?"

"There are four kinds," the child replied, very methodically. "Jersey. Guernsey. Holstein. And Contented Cows."

"Contented cows?" Art repeated.

"Yes, sir," the boy continued. They're the kind who give canned milk. You get homogenized milk from a bull!"

There was also another young couple who seemed to have a "crush" on each other. The young man stated, quite frankly, that their ambition was to get married.

"But if you venture into matrimony, what are you going to do?" Art inquired.

"Oh, we're going to live in Gardena," the boy corrected Mr. Linkletter. "I don't even know where matrimony is."

How's this one — for some unintentional blue material:

"How did your folks meet?" Art asked one boy.

"I don't know," the boy answered. "I'm the youngest brother. You'll have to ask my older brother about my parents. He was there when it happened!"

On the more serious and biblical side, there's the boy who said his favorite passage in the Bible was where "they all drank the wine." Another said his favorite person was Abraham, who went away to a strong land and had hundreds of children.

When Art asked a child once what he admired about his parents, the boy calmly replied:

"Well, every night my father comes right home after work, kisses my mother, goes into the bathroom, and takes off his clothes — then he goes out on the front porch and reads the evening paper!"

Finally, as a topper, Art tells about the time he asked a child "Where do you come from?"

"From Kansas," the child replied.

"How long have you been in California?" Art continued.

"One year."

"Why did you come out here?"

"We wanted to see how we'd like it," the child said.

"How long do you plan on staying?"

"We're moving back Wednesday," the child replied.

With that — we were ready to take off ourselves — leaving Art with his "million-dollar" staff of writers and actors.

Dig This Marine!

Lt. Bob Osterberg of Dress Blues is a young man who gets what he goes after. All of which makes the Marine Corps very happy.

By Jon Bruce

LT. BOB OSTERBERG of the United States Marines could be referred to as the biggest "con" man in the service or as the smartest Marine in the Hollywood woods. Anyone who can do $1,609,000 worth of TV and radio business for the Marines at a cost of less than $15,000 to the Marines is doing all right.

At any rate, the highly personable Lt. Osterberg, who emcees KNXT's Dress Blues show is an energetic, imaginative young man of 26 who knows what he wants. He also does Magic in Music for KHJ and is presently at work on a new TV show for ABC.

If All Began . . .

Bob's entrance into TV and radio is quite a story — one that begins back at Bob Jones University in South Carolina in 1951. Upon graduation from this college Bob went into graduate work where he majored in speech until 1953.

"I worked my way through school at WMUU, a radio station where I was an announcer — and try saying WMUU on a Monday morning," Bob laughed. "After I left graduate school I went into the Marines — that was in 1953.

"My 'debut' was in Officer's School but, believe me, I was a problem. I lost a platoon of men once in the snow near Quantico, Virginia — and I later found out I was only 50 yards away from them. Then I achieved further distinction by ordering two tanks into a swamp — I happened to send them in the wrong direction. Frankly, the Corps didn't know what to do with me — a second Lieutenant. You can't just toss aside second Lieutenants."

The situation resolved itself when Bob was sent to El Toro base near Santa Ana. Upon arrival he found he had been assigned to Informational Services and put in as editor of the base paper.

"This didn't turn out so well so when General Schilt learned of my radio and TV background he okayed my going to Hollywood to line up a Marine TV or radio show.

"My first call was on Bill Hendricks, publicity director of Warner Bros. Pictures and a man I had known before. He was great with the help and advice he gave me. Through him I got a lead at KBIG where Larry Berrill, who was announcing there, got me my first contact at the station and eventually got a show of mine on KBIG. It is still on the air, incidentally.

"I was aiming, too, for a network show but to do this I had to get a format. I came up with one emphasizing popular music with top stars in Hollywood as guests — stars who would interest kids from 18 to 21. At this time, Doris Day was working at Warners in a picture called 'Young at Heart,' so with Bill Hendricks' help and by telling Doris a little white lie, I got her to do an audition record for me. I told her that the program was already on Mutual and was called 'Magic in Music.' I had no idea where Mutual was at the time.

"I gave the audition record to Tony Lefrano, I found out where Mutual was, and on September 18, 1954, the show went on Mutual. In January of 1955 Doris became hostess of the program and stayed with us until the following October."

DRESS BLUES is becoming a tuneful must-see on KNXT. Walter Gross, pianist and musical conductor, T/Sgt. Don Von Beulwitz, Sgt. Fred Bassett, Monica Lewis, and Lt. Bob Osterberg who emcees are the principals on the show. Bob also does a KBIG program and Magic in Music on KHJ. Monica has a new Verve album out called "Sing It To The Marines."

It was in June of 1955 that "Magic in Music" went network on Mutual, and when Doris left the show Rosemary Clooney took over.

Dress Blues

KNXT entered into the Marine-Osterberg picture when Bob went to see Bill Whitley of KNXT about a Marine show on TV. The only spot available was between eleven-fifteen and eleven-thirty on Sundays, a very unattractive spot. However, Bob took it.

"We had one camera and with little or no rehearsal," Bob explained. "But later we got a 25-minute Saturday afternoon spot. Now we have a Sunday afternoon time, two cameras, and plenty of rehearsal. Dress Blues has really moved up.

"Walter Gross, who wrote such hits as 'Tenderly,' and others recently joined us as musical director and Monica Lewis became featured soloist. T/Sgt. Don Von Beulwitz, who is our drummer, is also our coordinator for radio and TV. He lines up the guest stars. And our bass is Sgt. Fred Bassett, who is also head of our film unit.

"We managed to stay on TV and to get better times primarily because we were able to get such big name guest stars as Johnny Mercer, Anita O'Day, and Gogi Grant on our first Sunday morning spot. That and the fact that we managed to put out an entertaining show — we hoped."

Dress Blues, incidentally, was the first service show to receive a nomination for an Emmy. It got the nod last year. Guest stars, good music, and film clips presenting various aspects of Marine history and service have made it a highly intriguing show.

Next on line for Bob is the ABC show to be called "Martin for the Marines from the Cocoanut Grove," in which Freddy Martin will do a musical show from the Grove aimed at the Marines.

Bob is married to the former Marillas Gayle Jackson, and they have one child. They were married the day Bob graduated from college.

"For three and a half years I had been trying to make an impression on Marillas," Bob said. "One day I got impatient and said 'Are you going to marry me or not?' She said she would. I had wasted three and a half years!"

Well, he's wasted no time on TV or radio.

WEATHER PREDICTIONS for L. A.

In an ordered universe where nothing "just happens" Harry Geise and Irving P. Krick Associates predict the weather with accuracy nothing short of amazing.

By Dave Vowell

FORECASTER HARRY GEISE, with Irving P. Krick Associates, is part of an organization that has been called "the world's best weatherman." See him daily on KNXT-TV or hear his predictions on KNX Radio.

BACK IN JULY, Irving P. Krick Associates, represented in Hollywood by Harry Geise predicted that the weather map for August 25th would look like this. Check it.

THIS is being written in July. Today is July 11.

The last few days of August and the first few days of September will be hot and smoggy. A cool period, marked by early morning cloudiness, will follow on September 12th and last through September 15th. Another warm period will be experienced on the 16th through the 18th and the 21st through the 24th will be cool.

September, often a warm month anyway, will be drier and warmer than usual this year. Fire hazard will be great.

These predictions were made by Irving P. Krick Associates of Denver. The Hollywood representatives of the firm, Mr. Harry Geise, appears twice daily on KNXT-TV with the Weather-vane at 5:55 P.M. and at 10:30 on The Big News. He is also heard daily on KNX and the Columbia Pacific regional network from 2:40 to 2:45.

Now look out of your window. Chances are, the weather is just like they predicted.

By Univac

His predictions are the result of 20 years of study and experience in the field of meteorology. The long range predictions are made in Denver with the assistance of a Univac electronic "brain."

Univac is utilized to speed up the calculating procedures inherent in the forecasting system developed by Dr. Irving P. Krick, a system based on the principle that weather moves in an ordered manner.

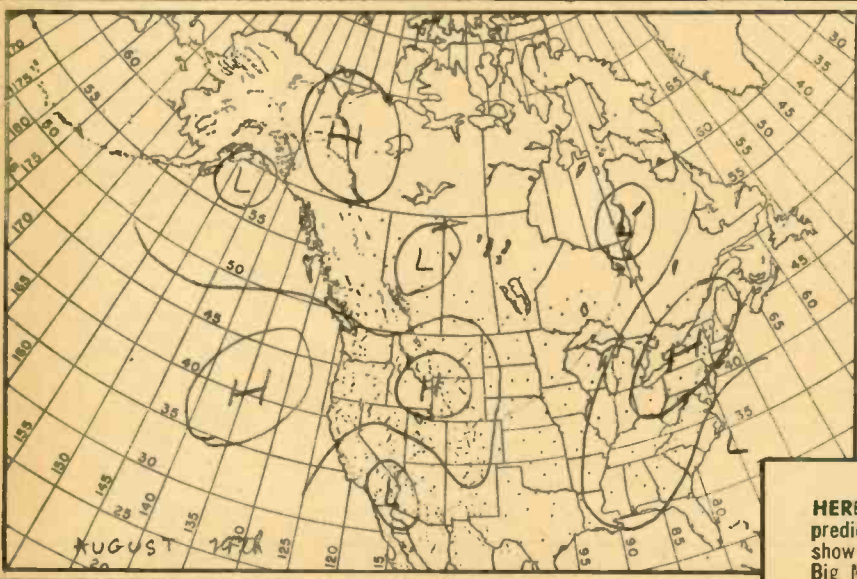

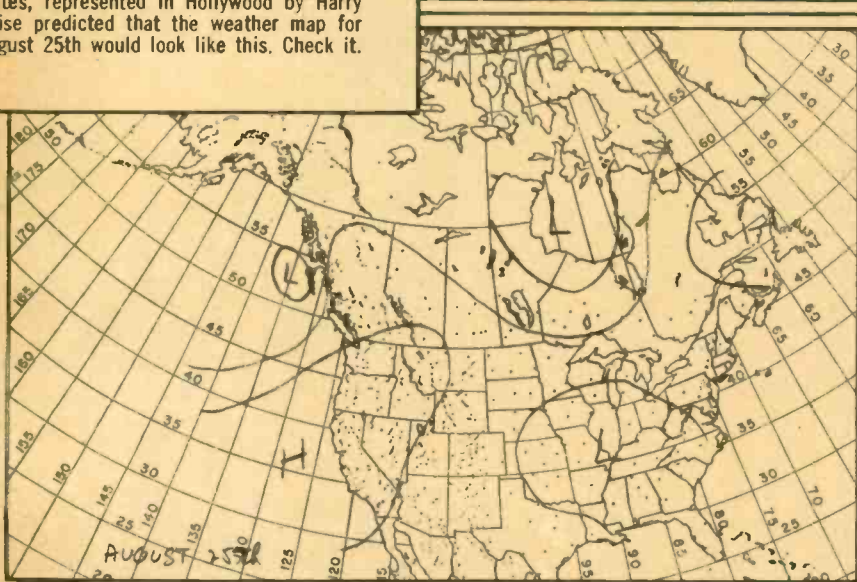

Dr. Krick's meteorological research has shown that weather situations, that is, the positions of high and low pressure areas, repeat themselves. Since identical patterns resolve themselves into similar results, Dr. Krick can feed historical weather data from the 1935-55 period into the Univac and it solves the projected weather pattern from this information.

With this working principle and procedure, Dr. Krick and his associates can predict with an amazing degree of accuracy what tomorrow's or next month's weather will be.

All of the long range forecasts made by Mr. Geise on his KNX and KNXT-TV programs are arrived at in this manner. For the short range forecasts, the Krick Association and Mr. Geise use the more conventional methods.

But the great ingredient on his weather programs is not the accuracy of the forecasts, but the honesty of the presentation: he tells you what will happen, not what you want to happen.

And when he goes off, he says so.

HERE'S THE WEATHER MAP for August 29th, as predicted back in July. Watch KNXT-TV's Weather-vane show at 5:55 p.m. or the weather segment of The Big News and see if Harry Geise was right.
