STAN KENTON

... Not Enough of His Jazz!

Mrs. R.L.H., Inglewood

We are, and have been for a long time, fans of Stan Kenton and his style of music. Twice now he has been on TV with a very fine program, so we thought. And each time, just when he gets going good, he gets taken off.

If bands (?) like Lawrence Welk can stay and stay, why can't a young people's style of music stay and stay?

P.H., Los Angeles

I was never so shocked as when I read that letter by "P.A." of Pasadena saying that Dinah treated Hugh O'Brian horribly. I was in the audience in the front row at that show and I know that Mr. O'Brian, who is certainly not a singer to begin with, floundered all over the place and Dinah saved his professional neck. In fact, Mr. O'Brian came over to Dinah after the show, right in front of where I was sitting, and thanked her and kissed her hand for stepping in and saving him when he forgot the melody and forgot the lyrics.

If this silly person believes that Dinah's ratings went kerplow without Hugh O'Brian, I am sure he has been misinformed.

I cannot believe that anybody in his right mind would say that Dinah Shore "outstaged" anybody on her show.

Mrs. M.C.P., Fontana

My husband and I had a discussion on the program Divorce Court. Would you please tell me if Divorce Court is real and does it have the actual people that are concerned with the problems. My husband seems to think that they are actual cases that are re-enacted. I think it is the real people with their problems.

He's right. The problems are real, the people are actors and actresses.

L.F., Glendale

I think Darlene should quit the Mickey Mouse Club. She's above that kid jazz. What a real doll she was on that last Telethon. Wow!

DARLENE GILLESPIE

Mrs. S.B., Los Angeles

I like Doreen Tracy very much. She is a member of the Walt Disney group and should be given credit as much as Annette and Darlene.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK

... Durned Smart Feller?

C.L.C., Los Angeles

Wal by cracky, in all my born days I never wrot any complaint bout nuthin er nobody, sos I ain't bout to start now, but nacherly a fellers got his likes and dislikes.

I wonder did Jim Arness ever take a good look at that rear pose he makes atop Boot Hill; if he ever does I betcha he quits it.

I do think tho that sponserers are so considerate; they orter be given some kinda medal maibe fer allus hirin folks to do their sellin talk who are so down an out financerly; fellers who never had a chanet to make any money afore. I mean folks like Pat O'Brien, Bing Crosby and so on. Shur makes my old heart glad to see that they are now gettin a chanet to pick up a few bucks and keep that ole wolf from their door.

Nuther thing: I can't figer out why shows have to have hosts - (I think that's what they call em) just take up time and don't complish nuthin', corse I don't mind em, just brot it up fer folks that likes to holler bout sumthin.

Now take Alfred Hitchcock for example. Knowin he's a durned smart feller ya wonder how he can act so silly. Is he got a mouth full of baker juice or does he talk that way all the time?

Wal now, when I git a goin I pert near forgit to stop but when ya gotta, ya gotta ...

S.R., Riverside

I think that American Bandstand and Dick Clark's new show on Saturday are both wonderful. I also think that I Love Lucy is getting more and more unpop-ular.

The Most Daring Show In Town?

HANK WEAVER's KABC-TV Main Street to Malibu has done a show on nudism (with some bare parts of anatomies in evidence), it has done a show on burlesque, on the Lonely Hearts racket, and others of equally controversial nature. Small wonder this late-evening production has begun to catch on.

Producers Bruce Lansbury and Bud Widom filmed the nudist sequence themselves — and had to do the disrobing bit while they worked. As Bruce remarked subtly, "It was an extraordinary experience." And indeed this particular show was for viewers who stayed up late enough to catch its revealing aspects.

"Our Lonely Hearts segment was perhaps the most interesting of all," Bud Widom remarked. "We had an interview with a pathetic little man who said he had spent $12,000 in the last five years on his dates. He had only had three in that time. And yet he said he had made just $10 a week. We couldn't get him to explain his particular mathematical deduction here, but he was a graphic picture of a man who was bilked by these Lonely Hearts Clubs."

"We try to pick subjects that are adult and provocative," Bruce Lansbury added, "but we are not trying to be controversial. In contrast to some late night TV shows we do not believe in the 'Let's have the controversy bit.' We don't intend to knock down established names just to be knocking them down. We'll never sacrifice good taste for a rating. And we heartily believe that there is an audience for good taste at a late night hour."

Main Street to Malibu was no sudden afterthought because of the success of other late night TV shows. Hank Weaver had been wanting to do this type of program for some time, and when he replaced Tom Duggan for two weeks while Tom was back east, the response he got was so good that immediately afterwards the wheels began to turn for his own show. Incidentally, Hank still has never met Tom Duggan.

"Naturally, we have our share of problems with a show like this," Bud continued. "Our primary problem is getting five hours of varied entertainment a week. We are the only local show trying to present something different. As such, we're trying to avoid any stiff format."

"We have more guests wanting to get on the show than we can use — and they're all big names, so getting the talent isn't a problem — it's finding places for them. Of course, we do have the situation where we set a talent for an appearance. Maybe even build a show around him — or her. And then at the last minute the star doesn't show. We had one Las Vegas comic set for an appearance and an hour before show time he called to say he wasn't feeling well and couldn't make it. We then had the awful problem of trying to fill in the suddenly vacated time.

"In addition to these guest names, we also have panel shows at times with well-known personalities who bat around such subjects as censorship of movies and obscenity. And we have discussed unsolved crimes at times. So you see how wide our field is."

It's this kind of look that makes local TV big time.

Not Filling Anybody's Shoes

WHEN JUDGE YOUNGER had to take his leave of Traffic Court due to the prima-donnaish antics of some of his frustrated judicial cohorts, KABC-TV was faced with no small problem, namely: who can ever take the Judge's spot on what is a popular local show.

Seven weeks later and after interviews with over 200 retired judges and lawyers living in Los Angeles, Edgar Allen Jones, Jr., Assistant Dean of the University of California at Los Angeles Law School, was named for the vacancy. Since he was no regular Judge, nobody could object to his being chosen.

"I had no desire at all to go on television," Dean Jones commented. "I had seen Traffic Court several times naturally, but not in my wildest dreams had I ever thought of becoming its Judge."

Dean Jones' name came up when the Dean of the Law School suggested to Pete Robinson, producer, that Jones might be a good possibility. Jones was then contacted to see if he would come in for an audition. He did — was handed a few test cases to judge to see how he'd react and how he would handle them — and then was given the nod.

"We wanted someone who was youthful, someone who had authority," Pete Robinson remarked. "We were not — and are not — trying to fill Judge Younger's shoes. We wanted a younger person because we felt that Traffic Court was not a stereotyped show — and we didn't want any grey-haired Judge. We also were looking for someone who could hold the audience we have already built because we feel that the show has kept hundreds of thousands of Californians apprised of changes in California driving and traffic laws. As such, it is educational in nature. We hope, of course, that we are also entertaining."

Now that Dean Jones is a TV star he is taking a good deal of chiding from his students at UCLA. When he, for instance, put an assignment for his class on the board one day, a student added the following: "Be sure to bring publicity and current ratings."

Jones' family is also quite thrilled about his being on TV. He didn't tell his youngsters — all seven of them — that he was going to be on TV. They just watched the first show and were stunned. The youngest ones couldn't believe he wasn't in the room with them — and started talking to him on the set.

Thirty-seven year old Dean Jones and his wife, Helen, who live in Santa Monica, have found that life is quite different these days. But they're enjoying the change immensely—as are Linda Marie, 11½; Anna Marie, 10; Carol Marie, 8; Terry, 7; Dennis, 5½; Bob, 4½ and David, 1. With a clan as sizable as this he has a built-in audience already.

KABC-TV's MUSICAL show Country America is well named and well cast. The hour-long program features all kinds of music—cowboy, hillbilly, rock 'n roll, pop. You name it and the Country America cast can sing and play it: (left to right) Freddie Hart, Ginny Jackson, band-leader Bobby Bruce, Debby Kay, Jerry Wallace, Betsy Gay, Candy Candido, Lefty Frizzell, and host Joe Allison.

WHILE THE KABC-TV crew knows how to sing about Country America—the best way to see America is via United Airlines, "The Radar Line." The winners of our hometown contest will fly swiftly and safely in a DC-7 just like this one. Contest details are available in another section of this issue.

DEBBY KAY IS YOUNG IN YEARS (21) and small in stature (an even five feet). But she's been in show business since the age of four and has sung with the top bands all over the country. (KABC-TV photos.)

Singer Debby Kay, on the Country America show, knows her way around the world of show business . . . but that still didn't prevent her from getting

Lost In Her Own Home Town

FOR KICKS, MISS KAY LIKES COOKING. "Even when I get upset I just head for the kitchen and start cooking. That takes my mind off my problems." Here she prepares one of her specialties for Country America director Don Whitman, right-hand man for producer Nat Nigberg.

ALL OF US dream some day of returning home a hero, or heroine. Especially if home happens to be a small town. Debby Kay had this experience recently. However, as it turned out she felt more embarrassed than triumphant. "Can you imagine!" she declares. "I actually got lost in my own home town."

Debby, as Channel 7 viewers know, is the little girl with the big voice who is one of the featured performers on KABC-TV's hour-long musical show, Country America. Running back-to-back with Lawrence Welk's program, this gives Channel 7 a solid two hours of topnotch entertainment on Saturday.

KABC-TV officials believe that Country America has the same network potential as Lawrence Welk. This was one of the reasons the whole Country America crew took off for Pebble Beach recently to entertain The Association of National Advertisers.

Merely by coincidence, Pebble Beach is only a stone's throw from Debby's home town of Salinas. Consequently, while she was entertaining the ANA, it was arranged for her to make a brief appearance on the local station in Salinas.

During her public and high school days in Salinas she performed quite often before hometown folks. As a featured vocalist with Horace Heidt, Frankie Carle and Ray Anthony's orchestra, the petite and pretty vocalist became a minor celebrity in Salinas. Also, during the years (she's only 21 now) she did return occasionally to visit her sister.

However, on this particular night, it was her first appearance before the local cameras since she became a featured performer on Country America.

"I'll have to admit I was giving the directions to Dick Emmons, my piano player, because I thought I knew the way. On one stretch of road, however, I became completely confused. After taking a few wrong turns, we finally arrived at the station. It was too late, though, because the program had been off the air five minutes.

"Naturally I felt badly about it and apologized. We only had that one night in town and it would have been nice to say hello to all my friends via the TV set. The worst part of the story was when I tried to explain exactly why I was late. Getting lost in my own home town sounded like a flimsy excuse, but it was the truth."

Debby's experience was recalled by her in conjunction with the current TV-Radio Life "home town contest." As with the rest of the Country America crew, our pretty cover girl now makes Hollywood her home. Debby lives with her parents in a Hollywood apartment. She's single. Doesn't even have a steady boyfriend. And is concentrating strictly on her career.

In reverse, concentrating on diminutive Debby, either visually or vocally, is strictly a pleasure.

Howard Duff and Ida Lupino have had their moments when they wondered if their TV plunge was wise but now they tell . . .

Why We'll Stick With TV

By Jack Holland

IDA LUPINO and Howard Duff may be winding up Mr. Adams and Eve but they're not waltzing out of TV.

"Why should we?" Ida explained. "We went into this for one reason — to provide financial security for our child, Bridget. We still have the same desire."

"Plus the fact that we rather enjoy the work." Howard remarked. "At least we know a lot more about the medium now than when we went into it. Sure we've goofed on some occasions but at least we try to have some fun regardless. Ida is the one who has the work — with all those wardrobe changes she has!"

Ida and Howard are currently winding up the remaining episodes of Mr. Adams and Eve and are busy on a couple of other TV projects. One is called The Green Peacock and is an adventure series. Ida will direct the pilot film and Howard will star and co-produce. The series is based on an idea Ida and Howard had five years ago.

The other project is an anthology type. Dick Kinon, who directs most of the Adams and Eve shows and who is, according to Ida and Howard, the absolute end as director and as a person, will direct all of the shows in which Ida stars (she would act as hostess for the rest), and Ida will meg the others in which guest names appear. This series will be done under the banner of Mirrella Films, which is the title of Ida and Howard's new company and is Bridget's middle name.

The two popular stars are also hoping to do a movie this summer — and if plans work out, Ida will direct the film. They haven't been able to make a picture in over two years.

Summing up their TV experiences so far, Howard said, "We are proud of the fact that even with what seemed like insurmountable difficulties we were able to do a show we could be proud of — a civilized comedy — and we did it with our own company."

LADY LUCK—Mrs. Evelyn Johnson believes dreams do come true after being crowned "Queen for a Day" when the program celebrated its 13th Anniversary April 29. One of the prizes Mrs. Johnson receives is a trip to Ireland to celebrate "An Tostal Festivites." Her wish was for an adjustable hospital bed for her son, Jimmy 15, who has cerebral palsy.

Babies and Birthday Breed BUSY WEEK FOR BAILEY

BIG MOMENT—"Queen" Eva Fuehl, 27, receives the royal crown from Ed Kranyak as Master of Ceremonies Jack Bailey says the magic words "We crown you Queen for a Day". Her infant daughter, Barbara Ann, 9 months old, is being held by "Queen" model Maxine Reeves.

ELECTED TO THE HONOR over other candidates by the audience, "Queen" Eva Fuehl takes time out to give a bottle to little Barbara Ann. Jack Bailey, very antiseptic for the "Baby Show" holds miniature corsage of roses presented to the "little queen." Mrs. Fuehl, a refugee from Hungary, wished to be reunited with another daughter, Eve, 5, who is still behind the Iron Curtain in Budapest.

DIAPER BRIGADE — There were some "changes" made on NBC-TV Queen for a Day Thursday, May 1, when the show celebrated its annual "Baby Show." About 800 mothers and their babies (one or under) crowded into Hollywood's glamorous Moulin Rouge Theater-restaurant from which "Queen" is telecast on Channel 4.

CLIMAX to an exciting "day out" these mothers proudly lift their babies into the air as Queen for a Day photographers turn their cameras into the audience.

MY REASON FOR WANTING TO VISIT MY HOME TOWN IS: _____

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

THERE'S been a good deal of confusion about Milton Berle since the Emmy Awards show which he neatly stole. Some have ribbed him about agreeing to do a series — which he will do for Kraft this fall — after allegedly saying he wouldn't do a regular show. Others have made remarks about his fouling up the timing on the Emmy program. So I went by to see Uncle Miltie for the facts.

"First of all I was really surprised by the wonderful ovation I got on the Emmy awards," Miltie said quietly. "Coming from an audience of show people, it was heart-warming. My gag about 'Where were you three years ago,' though, was strictly off the cuff. As for the time I used on the show, here are the facts. I was asked to make the appearance and I was told I'd do a stand-up monologue spot. That was all I could do since I wasn't giving any awards or getting any. William Kayden, the producer, asked me to do seven minutes.

I can only assume, from all the ruckus, that the west coast people didn't know I was to do this spot. Anyway, I was to go on at 10:16 but I didn't get on until 10:32 so I began 16 minutes later. 45 seconds were lost in the opening with the reception I received. I was told to take the cue from the floor manager as to when I should get off and I stayed on until he gave me the signal. I was actually on only about one minute and forty seconds more than I was supposed to be.

"About the show for Kraft now. Ruth, my wife, and I discussed the possibility. And we agreed it would be a good idea. Frankly, only thing I know how to do is to entertain. I'd spent the last few years since I left TV working in cafes and clubs and doing very well at it. I hadn't missed not having my own TV program — and I had no commitment to any network. Nor did I need the money. So I am simply an actor with grease paint in his blood and laughter on his mind and a ham bone at heart. I know no other business. And, frankly, I'm glad to be back."

So are his many fans.

You hear a lot of talk from producers about their desire to get new faces. Few do anything about giving breaks to new talent. Alvin Cooperman, who has made an illustrious name for himself with his great productions on Shirley Temple Story Book, is one man who doesn't just talk about new people — he makes a sincere and conscientious effort to see that they get that first big break. He is the kind of man TV — and movies — need.

Speaking of new faces, Anne Helm and Gary Vinson, who were on "The McTaggart Succession" on Studio One, look like fine bets for future stardom. And speaking of this Studio One show, Ted Post, who directed (with such an effective mobility in use of camera) had his Steve Canyon pilot sold within 24 hours and at reportedly the biggest price ever paid for a TV film. Ted is really riding high.

See that O. L. Jagers has been having his difficulties again. Well, readers of this tunnel will recall some facts we presented about this man several years ago... Don't miss the big Mental Health telethon on KCOP, May 25. Dore Schary is chairman, the Thalians are actively involved in the benefit, and Jack Rourke is producer. Talent signed so far includes Margaret Whiting, Art Linkletter, Spade Cooley and band, Paul Weston, Bill Burrud, Peter Potter, Tom Duggan, Baxter Ward, and Oscar Levant. See it — and give!... The Cathy Crosby referred to in last week's tunnel was Bob's daughter — not Bing's wife.

THIS WEEK'S TELEVISION-RADIO NEWS IN PICTURES

ACTRESS VALERIE PORTER, cured of deafness which incapacitated her for three years, donates her first paycheck (from a Matinee Theater) to American Cancer Society. Wesley Bagby, Los Angeles County volunteer chairman for the society, accepts contribution.

LOUISE O'BRIEN, featured singer of CBS Radio's Rusty Draper Show, and named Queen of Southern California Radio Month is congratulated and gifted with radio by Glenn Logan (left) head of the Electric League in Los Angeles, and Art Holbrook, manager of the Southern California Broadcasters Ass'n.

THE TV NETWORKS ARE BEING very hush-hush about their summer programming, but from what I've been able to gather, this will be another year of "repeats" plus a few low budgeted (compared with winter fare) participation shows.

SUCH STANDBYS AS BURNS AND ALLEN, The Millionaire, Playhouse 90, Phil Silvers, Schlitz, Gale Storm Show, Have Gun, Will Travel, Loretta, Suspicion, Bob Cummings and so forth will go the re-run route. George Fenneman will emcee a quiz show starting July 6 on ABC-TV — and don't underestimate this chap who has been able to hold his own with Groucho all these years! $10,000 prize money is the lure on George's program. There'll be Dorothy Kirsten, John Riatt, Jane Powell and "rotating comedians" to fill Dinah Shore's pretty boots on the Chevy Show; The Brothers returns to CBS-TV for six Benny replacement programs; and a thing called Bid or Buy is being slotted (perhaps permanently) for $64,000 Question, which itself began as a summer sub three years ago.

PERHAPS ONE OF THE BEST pieces of summer news is Bob Crosby to fill in for Perry Como. Bing's talented brother finally talked CBS into letting go of his contract so he could accept the NBC Saturday night spot. I know all of his fans who've been hollering for Bob's return will be tickled to see him again. He takes over for Perry June 14. Good news item number two. Young Jack Linkletter gets his own nighttime weekly show (Haggis-Baggis!) on NBC Monday nights, starting June 30.

THERE ARE "STRONG RUMBLINGS" on the part of prospective sponsors interested in the pilot submitted by George Burns to replace the Burns and Allen Show in the fall. I was sorry George and Gracie's present sponsors did not buy the projected series, which, as you probably know, no longer has Gracie as a regular cast member but does retain George, Bea, Harry, Ronnie and others. In the pilot George plays it typically smart and steers away from guests and gimmicks. In a fast-paced stanza he has everybody bouncing jokes off himself. He even brings on a seal for a Flipper and Friend bit. Cute idea because in his very early show business days George Burns actually did do an act with a seal. Incidentally, it does not look as if the Western fever will subside in the fall. A series titled Rawhide goes into the Burns and Allen niche.

CONGRATULATIONS TO KNX which received seven awards to make it top dog in the California Associated Press TV-Radio Association recognition. KNX also received the nod for overall general excellence in news presentation for the second year. KABC received ace honors in three categories involving five programs . . . It is sad to report the projected (June 26) demise of Climax! which will join Kraft, Studio One and Matinee Theater in the boneyard. I believe Studio One will continue through summer, then be replaced by the Westinghouse Desilu Theater. Oddly enough, that venerable dramatic series sponsored from TV's infancy by Kraft will have half of its time absorbed by Uncle Miltie, whose smash routine at the Emmy Awards made everybody sit up and ask, "Where's he been?"

I HEARTILY AGREE WITH THOSE of you who have registered a complaint about those radio commercials which Gussie Moran is pitching. Can't imagine why she consented to do anything in such miserable taste, or why such material is permitted on the airways!

'DECEMBER BRIDE' GETS BUMS RUSH

HOST PARKE LEVY, WELCOMES DEAN MILLER (dressed as a "chicken-plucker") to the party and gives him a "couple of playful bucks" with which to purchase refreshments. Levy gave Bums' party to celebrate the end of the current season and a renewal of December Bride for next year on CBS-TV.

DEAN MILLER INSPECTS COSTUME of Star Spring Byington and discovers her cape is made out of . . . December Bride script pages. "You're wearing one of my best scenes," wails Dean.

VERNA FELTON, of the December Bride cast, and Louise Grace, wife of the prop man on the show, compare "sack" dresses.

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

I THINK the cancellation of Kraft Theater, Studio One Matinee and Climax is criminal. If there is now no place on television for the kind of show that gave the medium its initial power, then TV is on its way to producing only the assembly line pap that featured radio in its declining years. I wish you people would stop buying the stuff advertised on the current popular mish mash. Can't you get along for a while without soap, cigarettes, automobiles, appliances and food?

"Valley of Decision." (11) May 30, 8:00. 1945. Adapted from Marcia Davenport's sprawling novel about a prominent Pittsburgh steel family and their between stairs maid, this opus stars Greer Garson, as the slavey, Gregory Peck, as the scion she loves, and Lionel Barrymore as a crusty old curmudgeon. The family goes through one crisis after another in the complicated 1870s, but Miss Garson always manages to save things. The novel covered fifty years, but the film has condensed it to twelve, which is for the best, I think. We should all live a little faster.

"The Devil and Miss Jones." (2) May 24, 10:00. 1941. The forward to this movie warns the viewer that the picture is highly fictional and therefore anything of social significance he may happen to see is not to be taken seriously. Nevertheless, writer Norman Krasna has some points to make in this comedy and he makes them well. Charles Coburn is a very wealthy man who takes a job in one of his department stores in order to ferret out the union leaders who have been giving him so much trouble. He is befriended by woiking goil Jean Arthur, and fellow timepuncher Robert Cummings, and you may be sure there is much consternation when Coburn's true identity is discovered. A pleasant comedy.

"Damsel in Distress." (9) Beginning May 26, 9:00. 1937. Here is an entertaining musical with dances by Fred Astaire, comedy by Burns and Allen, and music by George Gershwin. It's all about an American hoofer publicized as a heartbreaker by his agent, and his romance with an English lady of the nobility, Joan Fontaine. The tunes include, "Nice Work If You Can Get It, and "A Foggy Day in London Town," and you can't get much better than that. Mr. Astaire, without Rogers, is fine.

"Road To Denver." (4) May 24, 11:15. 1955. A better than average western of recent vintage starring John Payne, as the true blue brother, Skip Homeier, as the scatterbrained gun-slinging brother, Lee Cobb, as a villainous saloon owner involved in highjacking, and Mona Freeman, as the girl . . . just the girl, that's all. But then, that's usually enough. The doings involve the steady brother's attempts to settle down the . . . well, the steady brother and it's all made a little better than it seems by Mr. Cobb's sure talent.

"Dancing Lady." (11) May 25, 9:00. 1933. One of Joan Crawford's early triumphs, also starring Clark Gable, Franchot Tone and Fred Astaire. It's a backstage story with much travail before opening night. I was going to say there were the usual cliches but who knows if there were cliches in 1933. I don't. But I do know I love to see the girls dance in those early thirties movies. Never get away with it now.

"The Man Who Cheated Himself." (5) May 25, 7:30. 1950. A repeat of a pretty good melodrama about a cop, Lee Cobb, who murders for the love of Jane Wyatt, and then tries to evade the sleuthing of brother policeman John Dall. The ending, in an abandoned fort near the San Francisco coast, is a nice piece of suspense.

"Missing Women." (4) May 27, 4:30. Am I? Let's see . . . five, six, seven, eight . . . no, they're all here.

Leave It To Beaver,
Wednesday, 7 pm.
KNXT, Ch. 2

Leave It To Beaver has survived for some time now. And with good reason. Basically it deals with the American boy theme explored by Booth Tarkington in "Penrod" and before him, Mark Twain with "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer."

Americans have always found such themes to their liking when well done. And Leave It To Beaver belongs in the "well done" category.

Youngsters can be pretty icky stuff and their antics only a tedious bore to the adult. That Beaver succeeds is due to general all around competence in writing, producing, and casting. A good deal of its success can be put down to the direction of Norman Tokar, who once not too many years ago was known to millions of Americans as Henry Aldrich.

Beaver presents all the difficulties a young man and his brother might get into, but without cloying cliches that often make one wince in viewing a representation of youngsters. Beaver comes through thanks to its natural simplicity and believability.

In discussing Beaver it comes to mind that the pattern of presenting American childhood and youth follows a more or less idealized pattern with a glossing over of many of the realities that deeply affect the child. One has the feeling that many presentations of this kind are written by the adult, who in looking backward, and contrasting youth with older years, finds youth a far happier state. Thus, the picture, no matter how delightful and charming, is often bathed in an aura of nostalgia. There is no doubt that childhood is a period which in retrospect becomes a separate part of existence if for no other reason that it was a world of imaginative creation on the part of the individual. However, it is not a realistic picture, haven of memory though it might be from the grievances, frustrations, and turmoil of the adult.

While childhood might be blessed with innocence and lack of worldly wisdom, it is a world of anxiety, doubt, and terror as a child blindly gropes his way through a jungle of confusion in an attempt to comprehend and grapple with the adult world towering above him. Realistic treatment of childhood has been done at times, but has always been far outweighed by the idealized versions. And perhaps with reason. For it might be just a bit terrifying for most adults to be reminded that childhood was a good deal more than the reverie of it they have created in adulthood.

Speaking of Sports

by Mark Scott

Thinking out loud

... we're getting our first taste of not being able to go to a ball game every day as the Dodgers won't be home until June 3... Bob Kelly still loyal to PCL as he gives scores on morning sports show on radio... wonder what O'Malley thinks of that... the TV coverage of the Dodgers games from San Francisco was very bad... wish they'd used KHJ's Don Patton... not too much interesting on TV fights anymore... guess they need new faces... wish I knew how Chavez Ravine vote was coming out... maybe I'll know after my 2 hour forum on KCOP-TV from 8 'til 10 PM on Monday, June 2... hope O'Malley shows up... Rams start training in 2 months... bet Hirsch and Van Brocklin will be back... umpires must lead lonesome lives... they just don't make 'em anymore like marvelous Willie Mays and miraculous Stan Musial... Dodgers are over the hill... can't see why attendance is holding up... Milwaukee and Yankees look like shoo-ins... hope Fred Haney can do it again in the series... wonder why KTTV didn't borrow trick from NBC and have camera in centerfield in San Francisco... Hal Moore calls the best horse race of anybody in the business... tried it once myself - it's tough... the Dodgers should be able to make some kind of trade... even if it turns out bad it would be better than doing nothing about giving the fans their money's worth... Coliseum Relays should have been on TV... it was a great show... those ratings on my 6:45 sports show on KCOP were really great... scares you though thinking about all those people watching in... wonder if it would be a good idea to have a question and answer box in the TV-Radio Life Column... imagine if anyone wants any questions answered they'll write me c/o KCOP... Trojans may have troubles again this Fall but they're building toward '59 and '60... hope Cubs' Lee Walls and Pirates' Bill Mazeroski continue to go well... they're good guys... Hollywood Brown Derby is becoming sports mecca after ball games... plenty of baseball arguments and conversation... must remember to write column in time this week... realize now tremendous pressure on writers like Paul Zimmerman, Braven Dyer, Sid Ziff, Mel Durslag, George Davis, Bob Panella and others who have to pour it on every day.

Make your BINGO card using your phone number
 To show you how to set up your own BINGO card, we've used KCOP's phone number, HO 2-7311. YOU use yours! (If you have no phone, see rules below.)

- ★ Write the letters B-I-N-G-O on top line.
- ★ Write the numbers of your phone number underneath.
- ★ Extend these numbers down in numerical sequence as shown. The number zero follows nine and one follows zero.

	B	I	N	G	O
2	7	3	1	1
3	8	4	2	2
4	9	5	3	3
5	0	6	4	4
6	1	7	5	5

Now you're ready to play . . . to win the wonderful prizes!
 Dial 13 — KCOP — and join the fun!

RULES OF "BINGO AT HOME"

1. Any person may construct his own BINGO AT HOME card using his own telephone number, or any telephone number in his column on his page in the current telephone book.
2. A person who does not own a phone or has an unlisted phone number may use any telephone number on the column and page of the current phone book in which his name would alphabetically be listed. The phone book must cover the area in which he lives.
3. A person having BINGO AT HOME must mail a postcard with the following information to the specific box number of that game: 1) Telephone number he has played with, 2) Name of the person owning that number, 3) His own name and address.
4. Postcards of persons with winning cards must be mailed no later than midnight of the day following the game they won.
5. No prize winner is final until confirmed by mail.
6. Having completed BINGO pattern in any game merely provides a viewer with the eligibility to be drawn as a prize winner.
7. Winners will be drawn one week after the game was played. A game played on Monday the 5th would be drawn and announced on Monday the 12th.
8. A home viewer may send in only one postcard for each BINGO he has. If he has been playing more than one card, he may send in a postcard for each additional BINGO he has.

MARS UP IN ARMS

Planet protests "invasion" by earth station, KLAC

Los Angeles... Official protest has been voiced by Radio Mars over the broadcasting of "Futur-Fonic" Sound by KLAC, a Los Angeles radio station.

It seems that Martian stations are losing audience to KLAC. "No Martian ever listened to an earth station, until KLAC began beaming 'Futur-Fonic' Sound," complained Radio Mars. "Now our listeners are deserting to KLAC, and our advertisers are up in arms," they added.

A spokesman for the station is expected to answer the Martian complaint within 48 hours.

SKIPPER FRANK'S SCAM-O-GRAM

Hi!

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to open and read the mail that comes to a Television performer? In this week's visit, I am going to give you the inside story complete and uncensored.

First, I'd like to explode a couple of myths. I do not have a secretary and I find it fun to read or scan every piece of mail that arrives. Since this amounts to several thousand each week you can easily imagine the amount of time that is spend in this activity. Most of the mail consists of "Pick & Pop" contest entries. Next come letters of complaint or praise. The complaint letters receive considerable attention and are read several times. If the tone of a complaint letter is reasonable I do everything in my power to correct the situation. Unfortunately, most complaint letters are written with a selfish motive or by someone who has a special axe to grind. When the praise type of letters arrive I read them five times. The first four readings are to gratify my ego. The last reading is to try and figure out how we can repeat this pleasing phase as soon as possible.

After the Complaint and Praise letters come the special request letters. These are from folks who want us to repeat a certain cartoon, announce a birthday or social event or for Julius and I to make a Personal Appearance. Our action on all of these is limited by time and numbers. There are just so many of each type of cartoon. If we started announcing birthdays and social events it would take the full program time and the number of Personal Appearances I can make is controlled by the days of the week.

After all the above come the "Wierdo's" . . . like one from Al Lowe in San Bernardino informing me that he has a full size Fire Truck for sale (complete with lights, bell, 493-ft. ladder, etc.) . . . and another from Robinson-Hannagan Associates informing me that May 22-May 31 is National Pickle Week (Washington and Jefferson liked pickles). . . . All in all, it is fun reading the mail. When are you going to send in yours?

HUGH O'BRIAN REPLIES

I was sorry to note in the letter section of a recent issue that a fan took issue with Dinah Shore in my behalf following my guest appearance on her TV show.

I have been a guest on her fine show twice—and, believe me, Dinah couldn't have been nicer or more kind than she was on both occasions, not only to me but to all her guests.

I'm sorry that P.A. of Pasadena felt that I had been improperly presented on the program that night—but I wish to personally assure everyone that Dinah "couldn't have been finah" to me, and that I hope to be with her again as soon as other commitments permit.

New Man at KSPC

Charles Waite, a junior majoring in mathematics at Pomona College, was appointed station manager of the college owned and operated FM station, KSPC,
 this week.

He replaces Terrell T.
 Drinkwater, a graduating senior. Prior to receiving his current appointment, Mr. Waite was associated with the station for 2½ years in the triple capacities of writer, producer and music programming.

KSPC, which operates with 10 watts of power, is awaiting FCC approval to boost their power to one thousand watts. Mr. Waite expects the approval by mid-June.

"THAT'S RIGHT, OSCAR," says Art Aragon to Oscar and June Levant when the cocky and gabby pugilist guested on Oscar's KCOP program, "I can outfight and outtalk any guy in the business."

"CAN I SAY SOMETHING?" Oscar seems to ask. "Well, okay. But not too long," Golden Boy replies.

The verbal battle of the year on KCOP: ART ARAGON vs. OSCAR LEVANT

"NOW YOU LISTEN TO ME YOUNG MAN!"

"SAY OSCAR — YOU'RE REALLY QUITE A GUY!" Seriously, Levant amazed Aragon by his knowledge of professional fighting and both men got along very well on the program.

"MY NAME IS OSCAR LEVANT. People knew me all over the world before you were ever born." "Yes sir. I understand, Mister Levant."

Halla Linker of KCOP's Tuesday night Wonders of the World show is a well-traveled woman of the world. Herein she speaks of . . .

Women OF THE World

By Dave Vowell

LIKE Gertrude Stein's famous rose, a woman is a woman is a woman is a woman ad infinitum. Clothing and customs may differ but the love of the female of the species for home, husband and off-spring is universal.

Mrs. Halla Linker, who with her husband, Hal, and son, David, has traveled a quarter of a million miles and has visited thirty-seven countries, can be considered somewhat of an authority on the women of the world. At the offset she made it clearly understood that women the world over have much in common despite outward manifestations in training, tradition, costume and cosmetics.

After establishing this preachment as gospel, Mrs. Linker proceeded to point out the interesting differences in the realm of femininity discovered on her travels. She quickly asserted, as an aside, that perhaps the practices of the Western woman might seem interesting and different to a lady in Lapland or a belle of the Belgian Congo.

An effervescent blonde, Mrs. Linker spoke with an accent which seemed Swedish, an impression she speedily corrected. "I am from Iceland and the language spoken there is Icelandic which," she explained, "is to Swedish what Old English or Anglo-Saxon is to English. You see," she went on, "Iceland was settled by the Vikings and since it was isolated the language has remained much the same as it was when Eric the Red landed there."

Getting back to her subject matter after an interesting but divergent discourse on Icelandic history, Halla described a rather gruesome tradition found in Pakistan. "In the Khyber Pass region a social-religious system called Purdah is practiced. Under this system, women must wear a flowing veil called a Burkah, which covers them from head to toe with only a small slit for the eyes. Under this system, a woman suspected of infidelity (no proof is necessary — suspicion is enough) suffers drastic punishment. Her nose is cut off and she is cast out. I saw many of these cases at the Lahore Hospital in Pakistan."

ICELAND BEAUTY, Mrs. Halla Linker has traveled a quarter of a million miles with her husband, Hal, and son, David, to bring back films of the Wonders of the World for KCOP viewers.

FIJI ISLAND BEAUTIES were visited by Mrs. Linker on one of her many trips. Mrs. Linker feels that the concept of beauty depends entirely on your viewpoint.

Reporting on a less awesome custom, Mrs. Linker described light-heartedly the household of the N'yimi (King) of the Kakuba tribe in the Belgian Congo. "He has," she said, "400 wives. He chose only 50 of them himself. He inherited 200 from his father and the remaining 150 wives were gifts of the villages in his domain — for it is of great prestige for a village to have one of their local girls become a wife of the King. All of these wives live in a special village where they are guarded," she added with a smile, "by elderly men."

From the Belgian Congo, Mrs. Linker's thoughts wandered to the South Pacific. "Speaking of prestige," she inserted, "in the islands of Polynesia a man's prestige is judged by the weight of his wife. I was very little prestige to Hal when we were there because the natives naturally thought that he was poor and could not afford to feed his wife properly. The chief's wife was very fat indeed — and why not? She was the wife of the chief and was a great beauty and a great joy to him.

"Because of the different standards of beauty the world over," Mrs. Linker stated, "international beauty contests are somewhat unfair when judged from a Western point of view. As one example: if the Japanese enter their most beautiful girl, her chances of winning are slim because here a large bust is considered desirable while in Japan the opposite is true. Of course, it would also be unfair for an American girl to be judged by Eastern standards. Beauty, it seems, depends more on your point of view than on cut and dried statistics."

Manners, morals and social demeanor vary with every clime, according to Mrs. Linker, and she proved it by telling of a natural phenomena which exists in Copenhagen, Denmark, that might be frowned on in Southern California. "It is the only place we have found," she said, "where women smoke cigars — publicly."

It's "Slaughter"

ON RADIO ROW

But no one is complaining, least of all, Sam Buffington.

By Mary Malone

SAM BUFFINGTON, star of CBS-Radio's new Western, Luke Slaughter of Tombstone, is happy to kill any idea that he's a villain. "I've been playing the heavy on TV ever since I got a break," Sam stated. "But with my thinning hair and expanding waistline I'm reconciled to the fact that I'll never be the romantic lead, at least on TV. As Luke Slaughter, though, I'm playing the 'good guy,' because in spite of his rather gory name, Luke was on the side of law and order."

Sam may not yearn to play romantic roles on TV or in the movies, but his real life romance would make a good script, complete with happy ending.

"I was doing a late night disc jockey show in North Carolina," Sam remarked. "I had a certain amount of fan mail, and had been more than a little interested in letters from one particular girl. One night another d.j. with whom I shared an apartment said he'd like me to meet the friend of a girl he was dating. He remarked that his girl was a nurse, and so was her friend Pat. I was immediately intrigued because my fan mail friend was a nurse by the name of Pat. I went along and the girl was my fan. We fell in love and a month later we were married."

After a two-year stay in North Carolina, Sam decided to take a crack at TV, so the Buffingtons moved to New York. Through the slim months while Sam was making the break into TV he developed another artistic talent and became a very good portrait painter. In fact he could have made three times as much money painting portraits as he did acting. He managed, though, to get featured roles on Robert Montgomery Presents, Armstrong Circle Theatre, Studio One and Kraft Theatre. However, because of the comparatively few shows originating in New York these parts didn't come with sufficient regularity to make it a paying career, so Sam knew he'd either have to concentrate on painting or pull up stakes and move to California where there were more opportunities for actors. The Buffingtons decided to take a gamble and move West.

"We arrived here with $90 in our pockets," Sam remarked. "For six months I couldn't even get inside a casting office. If it hadn't been for Pat I'd have given up, but she went back to work as an operating room technician and supported me until I got a break."

With Pat's encouragement Sam took the lead in a little theater production, "The Man Who Stopped the City." The play wasn't a success but Sam was. Rave notices brought recognition from some of the top agents. He signed with agent Jessie Wadsworth, which led to character parts in Cheyenne, Maverick, Sugarfoot, Conflict, Alfred Hitchcock, Tombstone Territory, Wells Fargo, G. E. Theater, Studio 57, Wire Service, Matinee Theater and other top TV shows. Soon his Teddy Roosevelt-type mustache became a familiar sight to television viewers and eventually to movie fans. Currently Sam is being seen in character parts in three motion pictures, "Damned Citizen," "Rawhide Trail," and Walt Disney's "Light in the Forest."

SAM AND PAT BUFFINGTON and member of the family, Marlena, their dachshund. Recently acquired to keep Marlena company, is a Siamese cat named Boris, but he refused to pose.

Sam and Pat's gamble in coming to Hollywood paid off. Strangely enough, the thing which has made Sam happiest is his return to radio. Starting out as a disc jockey in Providence, R.I., Sam has made the circuit from radio-to stage-to TV-to movies and welded it all together with a dramatic show on CBS-Radio Network, Luke Slaughter of Tombstone.

"I'd been wanting to get back into radio," Sam asserted, "but didn't know just how to go about it until I worked with a girl on a Gray Ghost episode. She was going to do a CBS-Radio Suspense show and she told me to see Bill Robson. Through my press agent I got an interview, but couldn't take a part Bill offered me on Suspense because I was tied up on a TV show. However, a couple of months later he asked me to star in the Luke Slaughter series. I'm still waiting to do a Suspense."

In the CBS-Radio show, Sam takes the part of a rugged, two-fisted former cavalryman turned cattleman, the fastest gun and most accurate shot in the territory, from Yuma to Gallup, from Flagstaff to the Huachucas, and below the border to Sonora. The series is based on a real character who headed the cattlemen's association and was sheriff of Tombstone for several terms.

Since it takes but a few hours a week to do Luke Slaughter of Tombstone, Sam has plenty of time to work in TV or movies, and even has time for painting, which he likes to do in the backyard of the Buffington's Japanese modern duplex in Hollywood. He's given up portrait painting, though, and prefers landscapes and still life subjects. "No one is ever satisfied with his portrait," he explained, "but a landscape can't complain!" Sam's favorite painting is a seascape he did of Cape Cod at night. "I got more texture into that painting than any other I ever did."

With his career as a character actor securely launched, Sam and Pat have found all they hoped for in Hollywood. "We've never been so happy," Sam admitted. "We love each other, we love living in California. Life is so relaxed out here — and so are we."

Money Isn't Everything

And the man who says so is Marvin Miller — who gives away a million dollars every week.

By Jean Corlis

MONEY can solve a lot of problems, but by itself it rarely brings true happiness," declared Marvin Miller. In his role as Michael Anthony, executive secretary to John Beresford Tipton, eccentric philanthropist of CBS-TV's The Millionaire, Marvin has distributed hundreds of million dollar checks over the past three years.

"I would never deny that money can do much good," admitted Marvin. "But I do believe that it is far more important to be an educated person than to be a wealthy one. You may possess wealth and not know how to enjoy it well, but if you possess an education your enjoyment comes from within you and you can enrich the lives of other people, though you may have comparatively little money."

While an education should bring greater financial rewards, it is admitted that in our society today some of the professions which do most to improve mankind do not pay as well as some of the semi-skilled trades. Despite lower salaries, however, teachers, scientists, architects, artists and writers are usually happier than the people who gave up the struggle for an education. They have the will to escape mediocrity, the bane of our generation.

"Some years ago my wife, Elizabeth, and I joined a study group based on the 100 greatest books," Marvin said.

"We were both college graduates and I thought my reading had been pretty comprehensive, but Elizabeth had concentrated on art and wanted to know more about philosophy and literature. We were amazed at the new directions opened to us, enriching our lives. As a group we tore apart the different works in an attempt to analyze what brings happiness to the individual. We found it was attained in many ways, but the conclusion was that happiness could best be gained by a man or woman who did the thing he most liked to do well. And — most important — received recognition for that job.

"Recognition may come to the inventor or business man in the form of money; to the scientist in honors for having discovered something of benefit to mankind, and to the good homemaker in the warm approval of her husband and her family," Marvin concluded.

As editor of the year book at Grover Cleveland High School in St. Louis years ago, Marvin never dreamed of the recognition he would one day receive. It happened a couple of years ago when he was emceeing a convention of music educators in St. Louis and was invited to visit his old school. He was astonished to be received as if he were Vice President, returning to Whittier! The whole school assembled in the auditorium to greet him, and the climax came when he was presented with the autographed copy of the Beacon Year Book which he had lost during the last semester of his senior year. He doesn't know where they found it, but he was touched by its return and the admonition to be more careful where he left it in the future.

Marvin believes that incentive is the greatest way to convince students of the value of education, and after his return from St. Louis he wanted to do something for the students of his alma mater. Not being a millionaire "for real" he could not afford scholarships, so he decided on three awards a year for outstanding ability in forensics — two for public speaking and one for dramatics. Each student receives a plaque, which appeals to the parents, and a savings bond which is a tangible reward for the student.

Marvin is aware of the struggle for many students to obtain an education because he was able to go on only as the result of a scholarship he won. However, the donor of the scholarship lost his money when Marvin was in his sophomore year, and he had to rely on an alumni loan for his last two years. He accepted the loan, and then got a job as a radio announcer during his spare time in order to repay it. Working and studying hard to keep his grades up, Marvin missed a few social functions but only missed Phi Beta Kappa by a decimal point.

"Money can get you into college," Marvin commented, "but it can't keep you there if you haven't the desire to learn. Or you can just get by and get a college diploma and still come out without an education.

"Education makes everything better because it enables people to understand themselves and other people. Through education you can understand your fellow man, and by giving of yourself you can get true fellowship and friends. Education enables you to learn to live well. Even without money we can observe all of the little amenities that make life better. We can surround ourselves with great books, even though they are paper bound editions; we can have pictures on the wall which bring pleasure to us, whether they are originals or copies. In cooking we need not buy the most expensive food, but what we buy can be cooked and served with imagination. The educated person surrounds himself with the things that makes him feel good — little things which to him are luxuries but not necessarily the things which impress other people."

Marvin Miller is sometimes accused of working too hard with all his interests; The Millionaire, his daily CBS-Radio program, The Storyteller, his recording of the Bible, and his public appearances, but he does these things not only to make a living but because he enjoys them. "The point to me is," Marvin emphasized, "that you have to work for all of the things you do in life, whether you get paid for them or not. If you don't count the money, but count the value of your work, more money drops into your lap."

TALKS ABOUT
AND ALL THAT

JAZZ

SITTING ON HIS STOOL a-la-Dave Garroway, this is the Bobby Troup which Channel 7 viewers are accustomed to seeing on his award-winning show, Stars of Jazz. Starting last month, the show is now also seen coast-to-coast on the ABC-TV network.

BOBBY TROUP is a grateful guy. But he also has his share of gripes about music, musicians, and "all that jazz."

"Jazz," according to Webster, is "a type of American music, characterized by melodious themes, subtly syncopated dance rhythms and varied orchestral coloring." However, there's a modern definition of jazz, strictly slang, which has come into use lately. "Jazz," in the vernacular, can mean "almost anything."

Whenever people get stuck for the right word, they throw in "jazz," and solve their verbal problems. Remember during World War II when "gizmo" became popular for explaining anything that was mechanically complicated? Well, "jazz" today fits the same pattern, except it has a broader connotation.

It's not by coincidence, either, that Bobby Troup happens to be an expert in the specific field of American music called jazz. As most local fans know, Bobby has been the host and narrator on KABC-TV's award-winning program, Stars of Jazz, ever since the show began two years ago.

"One of the big things our program has accomplished, as far as I'm concerned," Bobby comments, "is to show people what musicians are really like. Most of the people on our show have degrees from every major music school and university in the country. And yet the public still thinks musicians are one step above a moron."

"I'll have to admit I get annoyed myself when someone comes up to me and starts giving me the 'groovey' 'daddy-o,' 'I-dig-you-man' routine.

An Example

"I recall just a short time ago when we had Dave Brubeck, one of the finest pianists in the jazz field, on our show. I had a nice chat with Dave on the air — a real learned guy — and at no time did I talk down to him. Then I went home and snapped on my TV set. Oscar Peterson, another terrific jazz pianist, was playing on a network show. Now Oscar is in about the same category as Dave Brubeck. A serious, intelligent musician.

Well, you should have heard the way the emcee on this network program talked to Oscar. The emcee kept pouring on that corny, jive talk. I'm quite sure it was unintentional, but it made Oscar look a little silly."

Now don't get the idea from this that Troup himself is a snob and getting a little stuffy and over-sensitive. He isn't. Actually, as most of his close friends know, one of Bobby's greatest shortcomings (at least it was) is his own inferiority complex. A first class composer, pianist, and with a style of singing all his own, Bobby is a lot better than he really thinks he is.

In addition to his own Channel 7 show, and his faith in the now proven ability of singer Julie London, the most encouraging and remunerative things that have happened to Bobby have been his motion picture work. During the past two years he has written the title songs and several other numbers for the following pictures: "Rock, Pretty Baby;" "The Girl Can't Help It;" "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter;" "The River's Edge;" "Voice in the Mirror;" "My Strange Affair" (called "A Question of Adultery" in England, which was banned in the United States because the picture deals with artificial insemination); and Bobby's latest, "Man of the West" which stars Gary Cooper.

Turns Thespian

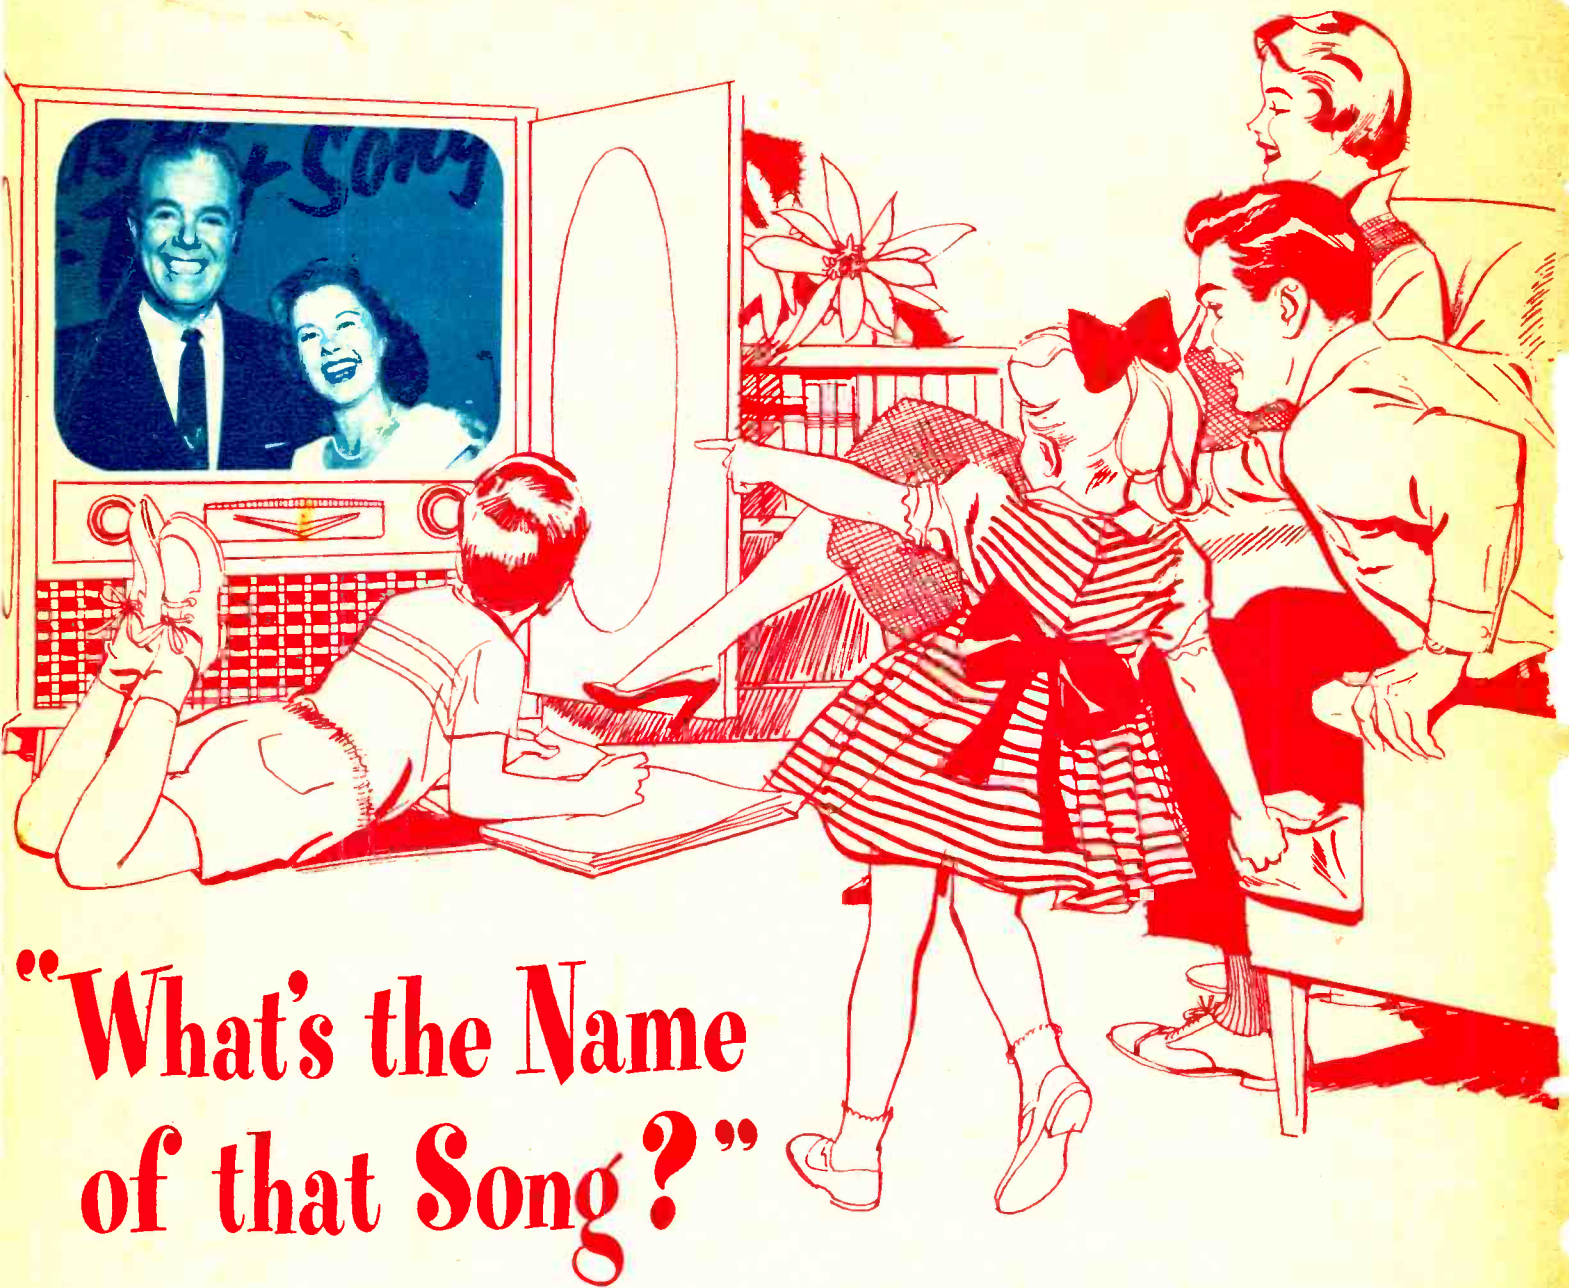

"You know, I even made a picture myself. Jose Ferrer called me. I had met him when Julie played in 'The Great Man.' Jose said he had a part which was a natural for me. He's noted for taking non-Hollywood types and giving them good roles. Look what he did with Ed Wynn and dozens of others. I've got the second lead in the picture, which is called 'The High Cost of Living.' I'm keeping my fingers crossed and I hope people like it."

Despite his many activities (he's now a business partner with busy Julie London), Bobby's first love (professionally speaking) is playing and talking about music, particularly jazz.

"I made some remarks once on Juke Box Jury, that people still remember. I told them what I really thought about Lawrence Welk. And Jerry Lewis as a singer, too.

"But that's one of my biggest problems. I always tell people exactly what's on my mind. Come to think of it," Bobby reflects, "maybe that's not so bad after all. I'm 40 years old now, you know. My two kids, Cynthia and Ronnie are getting quite grown up. But I've never felt younger or happier in my life. And I don't have any ulcers, either. Maybe it's because I do say what's on my mind, instead of keeping it all inside myself."
