ONE HUNDRED NATIONAL OR SEVEN HUNDRED LOCAL STATIONS?

By THOMAS STEVENSON

At the time of going to press, it seemed likely that the Dill-White bill creating a Federal Radio Commission to regulate radio would be enacted into law.

The future of broadcasting depends on the caliber of the men selected for the Commission. These men will have on their hands a tough proposition. There are more than 700 broadcasting stations, far too many for the 89 wave lengths.

According to Senator C. C. Dill, and Rep. Wallace White, co-authors of the bill, the Commission will have the authority to refuse licenses to stations which are not in the "public interest, necessity or convenience." It goes without saying that more than half of the present stations are not in the public interest nor are they necessary.

But will the Commission refuse outright to grant licenses to these stations? If it does, it will have countless law suits on its hands.

Isn't there a safer, saner solution? Could not the Commission set aside 86 of the wave lengths for national service by high grade, powerful stations, and use the other three for a "junk pile?"

The 86 waves could be distributed in such a manner as to provide adequate national service for the entire country. All stations could be given equal opportunity to qualify for the national waves.

Those which did not come up to the standard, could be transferred to the "junk pile" waves where they could still provide adequate service to their local communities.

It seems more likely that the American radio public will be better served by 86 national stations operating full time, or 172 stations operating half time, than it would by 600 or 700 stations dividing time five or six ways or with such small power that they could be received only in their local communities.

With such an allocation of wave lengths, most fans with good receivers could get three-fourths of the national stations without interference.

Nor would such a scheme be too harsh on the stations consigned to the so-called "junk pile." They would still have the opportunity of serving their local communities.

STATION CHANGES

The outstanding change in the broadcasting field is the big increase in power by many stations. Additionally, a number of new high power stations have been licensed. Here are the new high-power stations:

1,000 Watts: KGEF—Los Angeles; KYA—San Francisco; WFLA—Boca Raton, Fla.; WJAY—Cleveland; WGL—New York; WOKT—Rochester, N. Y.

The important increases in power follow:

LIST OF STATIONS BY WAVE LENGTHS

It is unusual with most sets to pick up distant stations of less than 500 watts power. To prevent this list from becoming too bulky, stations of less than 500 watts are not included.

IT HAS BEEN THE FIRST STEP TO

Big Money for Thousands

Get more eggs—two or three times as many as you're getting now. Save money on feed. Get higher prices. Have a flock full of producers—money makers. Sell off the loafers. Get your flock on a full-production, maximum-paying basis. Instead of small profits or average profits get BIG profits—QUICK. You can, easily. We'll show you how.

Four Times as Many Eggs as Neighbors

"By following your methods, I get 80% production from my fowls way up here in Alaska where we have zero weather up into March. Many of my neighbors, during the same period, get from 29% to 30% production." Mrs. John H. Hanson, Skagway, Alaska.

Better Prices Than Ever Before

"I have raised more chickens at less cost, got better prices for my chickens and eggs than ever before. Also I have been able to improve my flock as well as my houses and yards." Mrs. Ellen C. Snowder, Henryetta, Oklahoma.

You, Too, Can Increase or Double Your Profits

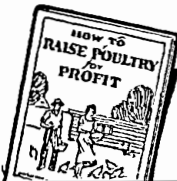

There's plenty of money in poultry—it has made men wealthy. But you've got to know how to get it. How to lower feed bills. How to keep your flock healthy; how to use artificial lights for increased egg production; how to bring pullets into EARLY laying and BIG laying. How to get almost as many eggs in cold weather when prices are high as you do in spring when prices are low. How to cull, to separate the "boarders" from the layers. And hundreds of other "tricks of the trade" that will bring you double dollars.

FREE BOOK TELLS HOW

This big, interesting free book will open your eyes. It shows how a short period of interesting study can put more money in the bank for you and put it there quick! Get this free book quick.
