LET IT BE KNOWN . . .

The continuation of WHITE'S RADIO LOG, being our first "publishing" venture, understandably, has been fraught with its' share of frustration and assorted problems.

It is fortunate that the vast community of DXers, literally, throughout the world, have extended themselves to offer encouragement in this endeavor.

We would be remiss, if we did not extend a special acknowledgement of appreciation to the following for their advice, assistance, patience and courteous understanding as we have struggled with this revival of White's Radio Log:

Don Jensen (WDX9EZ), our Communications Editor, who has made himself available so many times to answer so many questions with incredible patience and understanding.

Don Erickson (Century Print Shop), Riverside, California, who volunteered proofreading and other invaluable advice essential to completing this first issue.

Neil Oakley (Mathews & Partners Ltd.), publisher of "Mathews List", a most comprehensive quarterly publication of Canadian Communications and our primary source of AM, FM and TV frequency listing in Canada.

Glen Hauser (Review of International Broadcasting), Knoxville, Tennessee, for his encouragement and recommended sales opportunities.

Harold B. Froge (Medium Wave Editor, American SW Listeners Club), Midland, Michigan, who has directed many DXers to our mailing list and given us much appreciated moral support.

John White, North Vancouver, B.C. Canada who has extended himself to support the new WRL.

Al Quaglieri, Albany, NY, for his advice, suggestions and recommendations for future issues of White's Radio Log.

Jan Smith, San Francisco, California, for his volunteered proofreading and welcome suggestions.

To each of the above and many others who have volunteered encouragement and support, we owe a debt of gratitude. We hope that this issue and many future issues of White's Radio Log will justify their faith in our effort.

THE LEGEND AND THE LEGACY

By Don Jensen

Broadcasting was America's newest and fastest growing craze when Charles DeWitt White brought out his first radio log book in 1924.

In the nearly 60 years since, the world has changed more than a little. But, here and there, bits of the past survive, timeless, because they remain relevant, even as we rush full tilt toward the 21st Century.

White's Radio Log is one of those survivors. Then and now, the world of broadcasting is a complex and confusing place. And White's still offers an accurate, up-to-date guide to that world — domestic AM radio, foreign shortwave, TV and FM.

In the beginning, way back when, broadcasting was anybody's game. Major manufacturers and small businessmen alike could, with minimal licensing formalities, set up their own stations, providing entertainment and, not incidentally, advertising their wares and services.

By the end of 1920, the federal government had authorized 30 broadcasting stations. KBZ (today's WBZ, Boston) in East Springfield, Massachusetts, and KDKA, Pittsburgh were among the earliest. So were WJZ and WEAJ in New York City, Chicago's KYW and the General Electric Company's WGY, in Schenectady, NY.

Two years later, more than 200 radio stations were licensed in the US. In 1923, the number had jumped to nearly 600.

The first radio network dates to December 6, 1923, when a telephone line linkup joined WEAJ with a Washington, DC outlet, WCAP, and WJAR in Providence, Rhode Island.

It was also in Providence, just a few months later, that 33-year-old Charlie White had a bright idea. He looked at the growing radio phenomenon and recognized the unmet need for an accurate list of stations and frequencies.

White was just the man to provide the list for DXers — a new term for the ranks of American listeners who, just for fun, tuned in to as many distant stations as they could hear.

He had followed his father in the family publishing business in Providence. The firm specialized in printing city directories, municipal tax tables and street guides for various cities.

Compiling a list of active radio stations was no small task in the years before 1927, when Congress passed the first federal legislation regulating the fledgling broadcasting industry. But White's background in the field of publishing statistical information and governmental directories led him in the right direction. It was a smart move, one that would make a name for White, even though he already had a pair of rather distinguished names.

He was a direct descendant of DeWitt Clinton, once New York governor, US senator, presidential hopeful and the "father" of the Erie Canal. He also traced his lineage to Peregrin White, the first child born during the Mayflower's crossing to the New World.

His first log, issued in 1924, was called The Rhode Island Radio Call Book. Not long afterwards, he followed up with a more comprehensive log book — White's Triple List of Radio Broadcasting Stations.

In time, other publishers marketed radio logs, but White's original "triple list" of AM broadcasting stations — by frequency, by call letters and by city — kept it out in front.

Surely it was not its beauty that kept radio listeners buying the slim volumes which appeared on the newsstands quarterly. The little magazine, though loaded with interesting and useful data, had perhaps the ugliest black and white covers in the history of publishing! But its circulation regularly topped the million copy mark.

In the years that followed, White added related radio magazines — Sponsored Radio Programs, the Radio Announcer's Guide, Short Wave Schedule Guide (later incorporated into the regular White's Radio Log) and a special Canadian listing (also subsequently added to White's).

White's competed successfully with other published sources for broadcasting information. Most major newspapers had regular daily or weekly columns for radio listeners. There were magazines such as Radio News, Radio Craft, All-Wave Radio, and, in 1929, What's On The Air, a guide to radio programming, with feature articles on early radio stars and broadcasts.

"If your mood calls for a symphony concert," its promotional material promised, "What's On The Air tells you where to look for a symphony concert; if your guests want to dance, it immediately gives you a list of dance orchestras on the air at the time — in short, it tells you where to find exactly what you want, exactly when you want it."

This was a tipoff that things were changing in radio listening habits. For many, the novelty of radio was wearing off. Listeners were more interested in entertainment programming — much of it from the new radio networks — than in simply hearing distant stations.

But there remained, as there does today, a hard core of DX fans who get their kicks from tuning in signals from across the continent or half a world away.

White's Radio Log catered to these listeners. In some years, the log appeared under the sponsorship of various commercial products. It was the Enna Jettick Radio Log in 1929-1931, when it was sponsored by the shoe manufacturer of the same name. It was called the General Electric Radio Log in 1938-1939, promoting the "sensational 1939 receivers with pushbutton tuning."

In time, with the success of his radio publications, White sold his street guide and city directory business. In about 1936, he moved his publishing firm from Providence to Bronxville, a suburb of New York City, where it operated as C. DeWitt White Co., for two more decades.

White still headed the firm on April 6, 1957, when he died at the age of 76. After his death, his daughter, Mrs. W.R. Washburn sold all rights to White's Radio Log to Science & Mechanics Publishing Co., a Chicago-based publisher, who subsequently sold the publishing rights to Davis Publications Inc. Davis revived the "triple-list log" as a section in its Radio-TV Experimenter magazine. White's name, of course, was retained, as was a portion of the familiar cover logo, a drawing of a listener with headphones, tuning a '20s vintage receiver.

R-TV Experimenter went bi-monthly in 1964, and that led to a major format change for the included White's Radio Log. The triple listing was subdivided into three parts, with a different section presented in each issue of the magazine. This meant that two complete and revised White's logs were published each year in the six bi-monthly magazine issues.

With the growth of radio broadcasting in the US, the list of stations lengthened. Magazine space requirements forced further format changes. In 1969, White's was divided into six sections, with each bi-monthly issue containing a major listing for either AM broadcast stations, FM or TV outlets, plus a list of shortwave broadcasters of the world.

It was in 1971 that Davis Publications, headquartered in New York, inaugurated a semi-annual magazine aimed specifically at the radio listening hobbyist — Communications World. It was a natural home for White's Radio Log, and the complete log once again appeared between the covers of a single magazine issue.

Communications World — each issue containing a White's Log — was published through 1981. Then it ceased publication. And with its demise, it seemed, so died White's log.

But Don Gabree, former Circulation Director of Communications World, realized that listeners sorely missed their longtime log-book. He bought the rights to the magazine and log.

So here we are again, continuing what Charles DeWitt White began back in 1924, compiling the world's best known, authoritative station list and guide — WHITE'S RADIO LOG.

FIXED CIRCUIT FREQUENCIES

The fixed circuit point-to-point stations are assigned by the International Telecommunications Union to a number of specific shortwave bands, some of which are shared with other types of services. The following bands are, theoretically, reserved for fixed circuit communications: (Frequencies in kHz)

4000-4063	9775-10000	15450-16460
5060-5450	10100-11175	17360-17700
5730-5950	11400-11700	18030-20000
6765-7000	11975-12330	21750-21850
7300-8195	13360-14000	22720-23200
9040-9500	14350-15000	24000-25000

And the following bands are shared with other types of radio services.

1605-2065	4438-4650	25000-25600
2105-2850	4750-5060	26100-28000
3155-3400	21850-22000	29700-30000
3500-4000	23200-24000

WHERE TO DX FOR WHAT

There are three very broad categories of stations. There are the broadcast stations, which air programs of information, entertainment and music to general audiences. Then there are the radio amateurs, hobbyists who operate in two-way communication on the shortwave and higher frequencies. Everything else falls into a grab bag called utility communications, which cover the whole range of services from longwave ship-to-shore to aeronautical VHF signals, point-to-point transatlantic phone calls to radioteletypers, to name but a few types.

FREQUENCY VS. WAVELENGTH

Many beginning SWLs are confused about the terms "frequency" and "wavelength." Both are ways of expressing the same essential information about where to tune for a station. Wavelength (measured in meters) refers to the length of a particular radio wave. Frequency (measured in kilohertz or Megahertz—1,000 kHz) describes the number of times per second that the wave "vibrates." These are the formulas for converting one to the other.

$$\text{WAVELENGTH IN METERS} = \frac{300,000}{\text{Frequency in kHz}}$$

$$\text{FREQUENCY IN KHZ} = \frac{300,000}{\text{Wavelength in meters}}$$
