SAY HELLO TO...

MICHAEL FRANKS

At 46, Michael Franks has carved himself a niche in popular music. His soothing vocals, accompanied by his insightful lyrics, have generated a loyal following both here and abroad. It's been three years since Michael's last recorded effort and his fans might be wondering what happened to him. There's good news to report: Michael Franks has a new album called "Blue Pacific" on Warner-Reprise Records. Franks dropped by KTWV's studios for a conversation with The WAVE's David Hirsch.

Q: Why did it take three years between records?

FRANKS: I started working on a Broadway show. When I started I thought I'd only take a year off to get it completed. Was I ever wrong! The show is based on the life of the famous French painter Gauguin. It was a great project. It was really challenging and creatively inspiring to work on. I wrote over 30 songs for it. The road to Broadway is long and complicated and hopefully we'll get it produced soon.

Q: Where do you live?

FRANKS: The west coast of Florida. I'm a native Californian, originally from San Diego. I lived here in Southern California until I graduated from UCLA. Then I went to graduate school back East and lived in New York City for eight years. We recently moved to Florida, but I still keep a place in New York.

Q: Why did you move to Florida?

FRANKS: It's really beautiful there. It's a small town with a lot of ecologically concerned people. My wife and I volunteer at a wildlife sanctuary. Injured seabirds and animals are brought in and we help get them healthy. I do very simplistic work. I clean out the cages and help out. I also give some of my attention to the dolphins that live near us. There are a lot of problems with the way that humans and dolphins interact. I help make people aware of what they can do to give the dolphins a break. I feel great about being able to do something for my community and see actual results.

Q: Is activism and community involvement an important part of your life?

FRANKS: Having gone through the '60's, I grew up with the belief that you could make a difference. I guess in the '70's and '80's people got depressed because the problems seemed overwhelming. Now I think many people are coming to the realization that you can't really change anything except your own situation. If everybody takes responsibility for their own actions the world will become a better place.

Q: Would you like to add anything else?

FRANKS: Only a thank-you to The WAVE. I was visiting out here awhile back. I had hurt myself preparing for a race. I'm a runner and twisted my ankle. I was hobbling along the beach and saw The WAVE trashcans. They really help keep the beach clean. You guys are doing a good job.
