On Junior Magazine

Talented Youth Perform

The third of a series of concerts on Junior Magazine Saturday, January 28, will afford another opportunity for young people—and grownups too—to become more familiar with great music, performed by up-and-coming young artists

THIS SEASON CBC-TV's Junior Magazine series is offering young viewers something special every few weeks—a youth concert by two outstanding young artists, one internationally known, one very promising, the newly formed Youth Choir conducted by Elmer Iseler, an orchestra conducted by Mario Bernardi, and Louis Applebaum as host.

The third concert will be presented Saturday, Jan. 28. It will feature 27-year-old Canadian baritone Donald Bell, hailed by critics as one of the greatest singers of our time, and 21-year-old 'cellist Rohan de Saram from England (see profile last issue), who is making his debut on both sides of the border this month.

Bell has sung in every major city in Canada, all over the States, through Europe, for three seasons at the Bayreuth Festival in Germany, and at the Lucerne Festival. He was born in Burnaby, B.C., and began studying music seriously as a boy soprano of nine. At 14 years, he caused a sensation when he won the vocal section for male singers under 21 at the B.C. Music Festival. At 18 he won scholarships from both the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto and the Royal College of Music in London.

He decided to use the London three-year scholarship, and after graduating from high school worked nights in a plywood mill to earn enough money to finance himself overseas.

In London he became known as "the Canadian with the golden voice," and was offered many outstanding engagements, but turned most of them down because he wanted to devote himself to rigorous study.

It paid off—among the prizes he won was the Arnold Bax Memorial Medal in 1955, as the most outstanding student from the Commonwealth. After leaving the Royal School of Music Bell was invited to join Carl Ebert's private studio at the Berlin State Opera.

He made his Carnegie Hall debut a year ago, followed within a couple of weeks by his debut in London's Albert Hall, both with rave reviews.

The 24-member Youth Choir (12 boys, 12 girls, aged 10 to 19), is composed mostly of high school students. Elmer Iseler auditioned each separately. The choir includes four professional singers, one to lead each vocal section, so the others can benefit from their experience.

Founded in the fall, the choir is open to any young singer, but so far its members are mostly from the North York district of Toronto. They rehearse every Wednesday—but before a concert it might be four or five times in a week—and for most of the singers it's more fun than work. Iseler hopes to build up the choir's repertoire to include all musical periods. He sets high standards, demanding above all a beautiful tone from his singers. The choir's first two appearances on Junior Magazine and on CBC radio were so successful that already it has been asked to fill public engagements.

Works of art in any medium are not made in a vacuum. Few writers have never read a book and made use of what they read—as Chaucer used Boccaccio for his "Canterbury Tales" or as Shakespeare took "Romeo and Juliet" and "Hamlet" from earlier plays on Romeo and Juliet and Hamlet. And who, after all, is not familiar in music with variation by one composer on themes by another? Some musicians, like Handel for instance, borrowed as freely from other composers as Rubens did from painters. Originality exists, is born miraculously and rarely . . . To count it indispensable to all works of art, as we tend to do nowadays, is to expect miracles to become commonplace.—British artist Michael Ayrton speaking about themes and variations in art.

Protection from Fallout?

An atomic attack could kill 90 per cent of our population by centering bombs on key target areas. But the use of fallout shelters could reduce casualties by 50 to 80 per cent. The situation will be explored fully on a special one-hour Close-Up program, January 31

WILL RADIO - ACTIVE fallout shelters offer enough protection to the North American population in the event of a nuclear attack?

"In the case of nuclear war, and God forbid that there should be one, the casualties could be reduced by between 50 and 80 per cent by the use of fallout shelters," says Governor Leo Hoegh of Battle Creek, Mich., director of civil defence for the United States.

This is one view on the practicability of fallout shelters. There are others, such as that of Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, New York, who says:

"My argument is that if you were really concerned about protecting civilian population in the world today, there is only one way to do it and that is through peace. We cannot protect it through fallout shelters. We are concerned here not with just a military problem. We are concerned with our philosophy of life."

These contrasting opinions represent those which will be focused on CBC-TV's Close-Up program about survival. The hour-long telecast sub-titled Three Feet of Earth, will be seen Tuesday, January 31.

Doug Leiterman, an editor-producer of Close-Up, prepared the program and will interview many of the experts who will voice their opinions on the subject of survival and fallout shelters in the event of a nuclear war.

Before Leiterman joined the Close-Up staff three years ago, he spent four years at the Ottawa correspondent for Southam News Services, dealing specifically with defence problems.

About the survival program, Leiterman says:

"The questions of fallout shelters seems to me to be the most critical facing Canadian citizens.

"Shall he spend $500 to increase the chances of his family surviving in a desolated world? Does a shelter offer reasonable protection? If everybody built one, would the war which must be prevented be more likely to take place? These are the questions Close-Up is assessing in Three Feet of Earth. We are all too aware that the answers are involved with life and death."

Scientists say that three feet of earth is the amount necessary to save your life if attacked by nuclear weapons, provided you

Will You Be Safe?

Most people look on building an atomic shelter with about as much distaste as buying a cemetery plot: things will be in a terrible state if you ever have to use it. But civil defence officials know that shelters to protect the populace from atomic fallout could mean the difference between defeat and victory in an atomic war. Close-Up will investigate the matter thoroughly in the next program.

LATE NOTES AND CORRECTIONS

Musical Encores

Turnbull Loose In Musical China Shop

JACK TURNBULL

NEWCOMER ANNOUNCER Jack Turnbull hosts 30 minutes of light music from the classics that now is heard on all three CBC stations in the prairies.

Musical Encores, enjoyed for the past 3½ months by Alberta and Saskatchewan listeners each Wednesday night, now is heard in Manitoba Friday nights as a delayed broadcast. The program is produced by Ben Horch of CBC Winnipeg.

Jack's knowledgeable and down-to-earth comments are sparked by what he hears in the music for himself. This generally turns out to be a lively and often erudite flow of musical sophistry, that might remind listeners, says Jack, of a Turnbull loose in a musical china shop.

Born in Moose Jaw in 1932, Jack has called Winnipeg home since the age of one year, with the exception of a period in Kenora, Ont., during which he started his broadcasting career—a career that now spans six years.

He is married and the proud father of a two-year-old fullback who, says Jack, the Blue Bombers can't use for another 18 years or so.

FACE TO FACE

Exploring the World's Greatest Minds

THE FATHER of modern psychiatry is a sweet, gentle old man of 85 who likes to spend his evenings playing patience or reading popular thrillers. The only living member of the "big three" of psychiatry, Professor Carl Jung is still working and writing in his charming home beside Switzerland's Lake Zurich, too busy to rest on his laurels or waste time with phoneys.

In an interview just before his last birthday he was asked what he was planning for it: "Why, to keep away from visitors, of course," he said. "Especially the high brows. Most of them haven't the remotest idea what I'm talking about. Trouble is, they don't bother to read my books because they're too high hat. I'm not taken in by intellectuals, you know. After all, I'm one myself."

Canadians will have the rare opportunity of meeting this wise old man in his home setting on Sunday Jan. 22. Prof. Jung will be seen on CBC-TV in the new BBC series Face to Face, which offers informal interviews with famous people. Sitting in an ordinary armchair, leaning on a walking stick, Jung talks about life, death and war in an interview with John Freeman, one of Britain's most popular television personalities, and the editor of The New Statesman. Freeman does most of his talking with his back to the camera, leaving the viewer free to study his subject, and an interesting study it always is, as Freeman's quiet probing reveals personalities, ambitions, motives.

In the interview with Jung, which includes some interesting, Karsh-like close-ups of the dome-headed old man, he recalls his friendship with Freud, from whom he eventually broke away to pursue his own theories. They corresponded, but Jung refuses to allow their letters to be published in his lifetime. The two of them analyzed each other's dreams, "but," says

Sir Roy Welensky is interviewed by John Freeman in the BBC television series "Face to Face," seen each Sunday on the CBC television network. Welensky is the controversial self-educated Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia. He will be seen on the program January 29.

Jung, "it is rather indiscreet to ask about them. There is such a thing as a professional secret."

Some of the most absorbing passages in the program deal with Jung's childhood (he brags of his roughness and toughness as a boy); his relations with his parents (whom he describes as having belonged to the latter part of the Middle Ages, intellectually an immense expanse of time away from their son's ideas); his education and decision to make psychiatry his subject; and with his conclusions, as a scientist, about death and time and space.

Jung talks about his 19 grandchildren, none of whom, he says, is at all afraid of him—even steal his belongings if they happen to want them! Many members of his large family live near him, but not in his house by the lake, which only his secretaries and his English housekeeper share with him.

Does he believe in God? "A difficult question. I know. I don't believe. I know." What is his psychological type? "I am intuitive . . . my relation to reality not particularly brilliant—I was often at variance with the reality of things."

He makes many thought-provoking remarks: "We are not of today or of yesterday. We are of an immense age . . . We need more understanding, because the only real danger that exists is man himself, and we are pitifully unaware of it . . ." "I don't allow myself to believe just for the sake of believing. We are the origin of all coming evil."

Sir Roy Welensky, the controversial, self-educated Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia, and an ex-boxer, will be seen January 29. John Freeman is known as a wily interviewer, but Welensky gives him a run for his money—accuses Freeman of glib phrases, lectures him on Africa, and gives every potential candidate for a hostile interview a lesson in Oneupmanship.

PROGRAM NOTES

JANUARY 29

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Junior Magazine

Hosts: Doug Maxwell, Hank Hedges and Ross Snetsinger. Doug visits Wilson Heights Jr. High School, Toronto, where students take part in a quiz. Ross looks at coin collecting, and talks to two young collectors about their hobby. "This is Young Canada" shows events and activities of young people across Canada. In addition to these features Drs. Hume and Ivey return for another look at the world of physics. This week they explain what "thin air" is and how it works. There will also be a film entitled "The Raven" and a special cartoon. (This program will be seen on CBWT, next Saturday).

Country Calendar

Today - "The Quarter-Section Farmer." Lorne C. Kennedy of Miami, Man., will be guest in the studio. He will comment on film taken on his quarter-section farm. Gardener Stan Westaway will speak on catalogues and garden literature.

Silents Please

This week-"Fun Factory." Scenes from Mack Sennett comedies featuring such mirthmakers as Charles Chaplin, Wallace Beery, Marie Dressler, Fatty Arbuckle, Ben Turpin and the Keystone Cops.

The Twentieth Century

This week-"Ireland: The Tear and the Smile." (Part I). Walter Cronkite narrates the first part of a two part examination of the problems and accomplishments of Ireland and that nation's emergence as an important small country in the international community of nations. Filmed on location, program includes interviews with writers Brendan Behan and Sean O'Faolain, President Eamon De Valera, Prime Minister Sean Lemass and former Dublin mayor Robert Briscoe. Written by British novelist Elizabeth Bowen.

Citizens' Forum

Retraining for employment is the subject of today's program. How much retraining is going on? Would a large-scale program relieve unemployment?

The Nature of Things

"The Face of the Moon." Donald MacRae, professor of astronomy at the David Dunlap Observatory, Richmond Hill, will explain what man knows about the moon, and how he knows it. The program will exhibit detailed photographs of the moon which have not before been seen on television. Professor MacRae will also explain how some popular folk tales about the moon actually have some basis in scientific fact. There'll also be a comparison made of radio and optical astronomy—the two methods for determining what we know about the moon. Prof. Donald Ivey is host for the program.

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery are two of the old-time movie stars to be seen in a review of Mack Sennett comedies, on Silents Please, a regular Sunday TV feature.

Walt Disney Presents

"The End of the Trail." General Miles, beset by a sullen populace and congressional committees, asks his friend Texas John Slaughter to aid him in capturing the Apache leader, Geronimo. Slaughter devises a plan to lure Geronimo back to the U.S. from Mexico. Meanwhile, civilians consider taking the law into their own hands if the army cannot handle the Indians.

The World of Music

A program of military and marching music featuring Ellis McLintock and his 43-piece band and the Baird Marionettes (in their first Canadian television appearance) and host Wally Koster. Numbers to be performed are: Strike Up the Band, Colonel Bogey, A Medley of Sousa Marches, The Trumpeters, and O Canada (a Lucio Agostini symphonic portrait). Wally Koster will sing a medley of

First World War marching songs and the Baird Marionettes will impersonate band members. From Toronto.

Ed Sullivan

This week Ed's special guest is singer Nat "King" Cole.

G.M. Presents

"The Vigilante," an adult western by Anthony Spinner, producer by Leo Orenstein. Will Price, the vigilante, tracks down a young outlaw, suspected of robbing the stage coach and killing the driver. His determination to administer frontier justice brings him into conflict with the boy's mother, whom Will plans to marry, and the town sheriff, Will's brother, who is equally determined to give the boy a fair trial.

JANUARY 30

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Nursery School Time

Hoppy has caught a cold and must be quiet. Miss Teddy reads him the story "No Roses for Harry."

Open House

CHILDREN ARE LIKE THAT—Dr. John Rich talks about the child at play as he continues his series of talks. This is the fifth of six programs by Dr. Rich who is an associate in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Toronto.

KEEP IN TRIM—Open House rolls out the exercise mat again today and Lorraine Thompson uses it to demonstrate some ways in which we can keep slim and trim.

OUR SPECIAL GUEST—A visitor from Australia appears on today's program. She's Miss Myra Roper who is visiting United States and Canada under the auspices of the United States International Exchange. Miss Roper is Principal of University Women's College, University of Melbourne, Melbourne Australia. She recently spent five weeks in mainland China as guest of the Women's Federation, paying special attention to education theatre, and the position of women in China today.

The Verdict Is Yours

Fascinating courtroom dramas, authentically staged with judge and counsel portrayed by professional lawyers. A jury selected from the audience gives its verdict at the completion of each case. Newsman Bill Stout supplies background and side-lights on each case.

CBWT—Three's Company

On today's program Mary Liz Bayer and Bill Guest look at the work of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults and hear about tomorrow evening's "Mother's March." Trish Mumford has a new package of hints for homemakers, and Prof. Lloyd Dolmage continues his analysis of investments.

Junior Roundup

The Friendly Giant. Friendly, Rusty and Jerome present another concert in the Music Room of the castle. Their friends Angie and Fiddle, play piano and drums. Jerome is the announcer and conductor.

From Toronto — Dave Broadfoot and Jean Templeton and a studio audience of boys and girls. Another telequiz featuring a boy and girl somewhere in Canada, competing for the grand prize. Artist, George Feyer, creates a "picture of the week" using boys and girls from the studio audience. Michael Roth with magic act. Murray Westgate is host.

Quick Draw McGraw

Today, "Swat's the Matter." Augie Doggie tries to prevent a mosquito from biting Doggie Daddy while Doggie is taking a nap.

Don Messer's Jubilee

With Don Messer and the Islanders, vocals by Marg Osborne and Charlie Chamberlain, and emcee Don Tremaine.

Guest on today's program will be accordionist Gaby Haas. The orchestra will play McNabb's Hornpipe and The London Hornpipe. The Buchta dancers will perform to The Messer Palka and Blue Mountain Waltz. Marg Osborne will sing That's the Music of Love and Star of Logy Bay. Charlie Chamberlain will sing You Were Saying Hello and Clancy Lowered the Boom. Marg and Charlie will sing a duet, An Evening Prayer. Dance director Gunter Buchta will perform a special dance number.

Danny Thomas Show

A family comedy starring Danny Thomas as Danny Williams, nightclub performer and devoted family man.

Marjorie Lord plays his wife, and Rusty Hamer and Angela Cartwright are the Williams children.

Tonight, Danny who breaks a "no noise after 11 p.m." clause in his lease is threatened with eviction. Gale Gordon makes a guest star appearance as the irate landlord.

The Jack Kane Show

Jack Kane, his big band The Music Makers, and vocalist Sylvia Murphy combine their talents in a program of popular music.

Jack's guest today is Pierre Berton, columnist of the Toronto Daily Star and author of several books, including The Klondike Fever. Berton will read The Shooting of Dan McGrew by Robert Service.

My Sister Eileen

The mischievous antics of two sisters who pursue their careers in New York City, starring Elaine Stritch and Shirley Bonne.

Today, "Ruth Becomes a Success." Guest Frankie Avalon gives Ruth her first big break by wanting to appear in a TV musical she helped to write.

International Service

Through the government-owned high power short-wave transmitting system operated by the CBC at Sackville, N.B., thirty countries abroad hear the voice of Canada in 15 languages.

PROGRAM NOTESJANUARY 31

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Chez Helene

French for pre-schoolers, with Hélène Baillargeon and her assistants—Susie the mouse (Corinne Orr), Peter (Anthony Tremblay), and Marion. From Montreal.

Nursery School Time

Dick is Dr. Dick and Miss Madeleine is his nurse. They look after sick toys and dolls in the nursery school. Miss Madeleine reads a story called "Nurse Nancy."

The Verdict Is Yours

Fascinating courtroom dramas, authentically staged with judge and counsel portrayed by professional lawyers. A jury selected from the audience gives its verdict at the completion of each case. Newsman Bill Stout supplies background and side-lights on each case.

Three's Company

Barbara Kilvert concludes her story of the New North on today's program; Mat Gauer turns to an old favourite as she shares her recipe for mouth-watering apple pie and Jose Poneira keeps the whole half hour light and gay with music both vocal and instrumental.

Junior Roundup

Maggie Muggins. Mr. McGarrity gives Maggie a new kite and she, Fitzgerald and Reuben go to the meadow to fly it. But Reuben gets caught in the string, Maggie lets go, and up goes the kite, with Reuben tangled in it and hanging upside down.

From Montreal—"This Living World," with Steve Bloomer. Steve and Kokomo (a monkey) visit the wet, hot jungle of South America, and show the kind of jungle it is and the kinds of animals that live there: lizards, snakes, monkeys, jaguars, etc.

From Toronto—Percy Saltzman tells the story of weather and how it happens.

The Chevy Show

"Swinging at the Summit." A special program featuring Kay Starr, Tony Bennett, Harpo Marx, George Shearing and Louis Armstrong.

With what top news story of past years is the mystery contestant associated? Regular panelists Gordon Sinclair, Toby Robbins and Pierre Berton

LOUIS ARMSTRONG

One of the top stars to appear in "The Chevy Show" Tuesday is Louis Armstrong. Kay Starr, Tony Bennett, Harpo Marx and George Shearing will also join in on the special jazz program, "Swinging at the Summit."

and a guest try to answer the question in as little time as possible, providing information and entertainment at the same time. Fred Davis is moderator.

Close-Up

"Three Feet of Earth." A one-hour study of possibilities of survival in a nuclear war. Douglas Leiterman, story editor, interviews experts who will voice their opinions on survival, and fallout shelters, in the event of a nuclear war. Those questioned include Robert Bryce, secretary of the federal cabinet and who is in charge of emergency measures; Maj.-Gen. A. E. Wrinch, Canadian Army Headquarters officer in charge of survival, Ottawa; Dr. Ed Massey, scientist for the Defence Research Board, Ottawa; Dr. R. Wright, geologist of the British Columbia Research Council; R. B. Carrie, head of the Federal Emergency Measures Organization, successor to the Federal Civil Defence Organization; Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel-Prize winning chemist of Pasadena, Calif.; Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, nuclear physicist of Washington, D.C.; Dr. Herman Kahn of Santa Monica, Calif., author of the recently-published book on Thermonuclear War and physicist for the Rand Corporation; Ammon Hennacy, a leading American pacifist.

Top Manitoba Curlers On CBWT Winnipeg

CURLERS in the Winnipeg area are happy with their television fare these days—since CBWT began its 15-week series on the roaring game January 4. TV curling is seen each Wednesday night at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 3.

Manitoba's top curlers, and therefore some of the best in the world are competing in the sixteen rink knockout competition. Included in the list are seven ex-Manitoba champions and two who went all the way to the Dominion championship.

The complete list of competitors includes: Bruce Hudson, Strathcona; Mac Scales, Strathcona; Norm Houck, Strathcona; Howie Wood, Jr., Granite; Gerry Duguid, Granite; Terry Braunstein, Granite; Bill Walsh, Fort Rouge; Jimmy Welsh, Deer Lodge; Dr. Dick Bird, Elmwood; Cece Pooles, Civic Caledonian; Ab Gowanlock, Dauphin; Ralph Nye, Brandon; Ross Fraser, Hamiota; Doug Hallick, Starbuck; Jack Metcalfe, Portage la Prairie, and Stan Topolniski, Transcona.

All games are filmed in advance at the Granite Curling Club in Winnipeg by a CBC crew under the direction of George Kent. George is Channel 3's sports and special events producer and has been the man mainly responsible for the excellent television coverage of western football.

Bob Moir does the commentary on all the curling matches and interviews the skips. Bob was also a member of the western conference football TV team from Winnipeg and at one time was on the sports writing staff of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Three cameras are used to photograph each game but they are operated by only two cameramen—Ken Gregg and Steve Solilo. Ken is stationary at the centre of the adjoining sheet while Steve moves from end to end picking up the shots as they enter the house.

PROGRAM NOTES

FEBRUARY 1

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Nursery School Time

Hoppy's cold is better, but he can't go out. He makes a winter picture for a boy in Australia who has never seen snow. Miss Teddy shows pictures of snowflakes and shows how to make paper snowflakes.

Open House

MADAME BENOIT'S COOKING SCHOOL—Beginning today, and continuing for thirteen weeks, Madame Benoit will be in the Open House kitchen each Wednesday with a lesson on basic cookery. Here's what Madame Benoit has to say about her new series: "If each lesson is followed and tried out, your cooking skill will improve in a short time. You will learn the right method to follow for each cooking step. You will understand why a recipe tells you to do a certain thing at a certain stage of the work. You will learn to cook without a recipe book."

THE DIET CLUB—Mrs. X, Mrs. Y and Mrs. Z return to the program today to report on their progress in their efforts to lose weight. All three dieters, with three different weight problems, are following a plan of diet and exercise laid down by Dr. Elizabeth Chant Robertson, CBC Nutrition Consultant.

ON THE MAP—Paul Fox, Political Economist on the staff of the University of Toronto, is the news commentator today.

Canada School Telecasts

Ten Minutes with Dr. Charles H. Best, the co-discoverer, (with Dr. Frederick Banting) of insulin. In this talk, Dr. Best tells why he decided to study medical research after graduating from high school, how he and Banting discovered insulin, and what advances medical research is making today at Toronto's Charles Best Institute.

Where History Was Made. "Room of Destiny." This final broadcast of the series depicts the Charlottetown Conference—the meeting which led directly to the Quebec Conference, and eventually to the birth of the Dominion of Canada on July 1, 1867. (Visitors to Charlottetown today will find that the meeting place, now called the Provincial Building, is still the centre of the Island's government.) Through the use of graphic materials and maps, the program will first explain the situation in Canada prior to 1867, presenting leading arguments both in favor of Confederation and against it. Then it will show the historic meeting.

CBWT—Three's Company

Vital information about civil defence is discussed on today's program with an objective look at what every citizen ought to know. Our guest will be Mr. Andrew Currie, Provincial Co-ordinator of Civil Defence for Manitoba.

Junior Roundup

The Friendly Giant, Friendly reads "May Dog and I." And Friendly, Rusty and Jerome welcome a new friend to the castle—a real live puppy.

From Halifax — "Indian Legend," another tale of the Micmac Indians. This week—"The Boy Who Worried Tomorrow" about the Indian youth who got into hot water through never looking ahead.

From Winnipeg — "The Outrider," songs and stories of the West, with Stu Phillips. Stu sings "Big Rock Candy Mountain," "Me and Boss" and "Oklahoma Hills," and Stu tells a story about an Indian who taught him how to make fire without matches.

From Toronto—more music with Harry Freedman. Today Harry and musicians discuss and demonstrate two instruments, the oboe and English horn. Murray Westgate is host.

Busy Fingers

Grade 5 students from St. James' Golden Gate School design paper mobiles using construction paper and coat hangers.

Countrytime

Today the Agricultural Student's Science Fair, at the University of Manitoba. Guests will be Prof. E. H. Lange, director of the School of Agriculture, who will review some of the highlights of the year's show, to be held Feb. 4th. Three students will present two-minute demonstrations on the program.

First Person

"My Home is Here," a drama adapted from a story by Michael Jacot, produced by Raymond Whitehouse. Francis Hyland and Eric House star in this story of a man who returns to his home after several years absence in a bid to marry the woman he loves and settle down. Robert Christie plays Mr. Berman, Hyland is Lettie, and House is Louis.

CATERINA VALENTE

The unusual song stylings of Caterina Valente will highlight "The Perry Como Show" this week.

Winston Churchill—The Valiant Years

"Alone No More." In June, 1941, Germany invades Russia, Churchill meets President Roosevelt on "Augusta" and the Atlantic Charter comes into being. Tobruk is relieved. Japan enters the war with the invasion of Pearl Harbour in December 1941.

Explorations

"The Face of Labor: The Future." This program brings together some of North America's most thoughtful labour leaders to tell how they see the future of the labour movement. The series concerns itself with the Canadian labour movement but since it is so closely identified with its American counterpart, an American labour leader, Walter Reuther, has been invited to take part in this last program. Participants in this program will be asked how the labour movement is to grow, why trade unions should be interested in Canada's New Party and what the goals of the labour movement are. Those taking part are: Claude Jodoin — President, Canadian Labour Congress; Stanley Knowles — Executive Vice-President, Canadian Labour Congress; Bill Smith — President, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers. Jean Marchand — General Secretary, Confederation of National Trade Unions; Walter Reuther — President, United Autoworkers. Professor D. H. Woods of the Industrial Relations Centre at McGill University is consultant and advisor for the series.

CBWT—Curling

Ralph Nye of Brandon versus Ross Fraser of Hamiota in another match of the special television series.

PROGRAM NOTES FEBRUARY 2

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Nursery School Time

Dick comes in from playing in the snow, and it takes a warming-up game and some hot chocolate to thaw him out. Miss Madeleine shows a "home-movie" about winter fun. They also have a visit from Boots, the neighbour's cat.

Music in Miniature

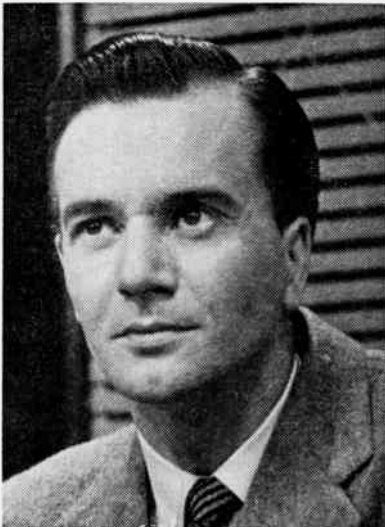

Today's guest artists will be Victor Godfrey, bass; June Kowalchuk, soprano; Mary Syme, pianist; and Hans Kohlund, lutist. Victor Godfrey will sing "I Must Go Down to the Sea Again," by John Ireland. June Kowalchuk will sing two Ukrainian folk songs. Mary Syme will play two etudes by Chopin and Hans Kohlund will play two 15th century songs by John Cooper. Frank Stalley is host.

Three's Company

Restaurateur Hans Fread returns to the program to tell Mary Liz Bayer, Bill Guest and Jose Poneira about himself and to describe and demonstrate one of his favourite menus. Jose selects some of his musical favourites as accompaniment to the party.

Junior Roundup

Uncle Chichimus. "The Old Tree." Chich is going into the building business, and is starting to build a house.

FRANK STALLEY

Host of "Music in Miniature" Frank Stalley will have as his guest artists Thursday, Victor Godfrey, bass, June Kowalchuk, soprano, Mary Syme, pianist and Hans Kohlund, lutist.

He finds that a great old tree is in the way and is going to cut it down, in spite of Holly's protests. They accidentally discover the home of a French fox under the roots. He was the special pet of Samuel de Champlain, and every 100 years he turns into a man for one day. This is the day, and he suddenly changes and sets out on a canoe trip.

Roy Rogers

This week, Dale, Roy and an FBI agent become interested in a young girl who seems headed for trouble because she has fallen in love with a fugitive bank robber.

CBWT—Stop, Look and Listen

This week on "Hobby Page," in the third in his hobby series on copper tooling, Geoff Spurl shows the steps in polishing, filling, antiquing and lacquering.

"How Birds Fly" is the topic of Dick Sutton's wildlife segment this week. Mr. Sutton will discuss the reasons why birds are able to fly under their own powers, with illustrations and on-the-spot sketches

As a follow-up to the program about flying saucers, Jack Robbins will talk about some of the unexplained phenomena and other strange manifestations that have occurred in the past around the world. Warren Davis is host. Produced in Winnipeg by Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBWT—Fathers Knows Best

Today — "Father Delivers the Papers." When Bud strains his back and is ordered to bed for a few days, Jim is drafted for the job of delivering papers.

Live A Borrowed Life

Ottawa women's commentator Margaret Morris will be a guest panelist this week with regulars Bill Walker and Elwy Yost. Charles Templeton is moderator.

Tennessee Ernie Ford

Singer-comedian Ernie Ford presents another program of folksy humour and music stylings, with the Top Twenty singers and dancers and special guests.

CBWT—Sergeant Bilko

Starring Phil Silvers. Another episode in the humorous series depicting the antics of a U.S. Army sergeant and his platoon.

CBWT—Wanted Dead or Alive

A western series starring Steve McQueen as rough, two-fisted bounty hunter Josh Randall.

Walter Cronkite "Outstanding Broadcasting Personality in 1960"

WALTER CRONKITE

WALTER CRONKITE, narrator of "The Twentieth Century" documentary series, has been chosen by The Advertising Club of Baltimore as "the outstanding television and radio personality of 1960."

Gov. J. Millard Tawes of Maryland will present Cronkite with a plaque at the Annual Advertising Club Banquet, February 11, at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore.

In announcing the selection of Cronkite for the annual award, S. Lawrence Hammerman, banquet chairman, said that he "has brought in these critical days lucid, accurate and dramatic reporting to bring the challenging issues into sharp focus for the better understanding of his great television audiences."

Nursery School Time

Miss Teddy and Hoppy make a snowman. They have a snowball fight, and Hoppy wins, so for his prize Miss Teddy reads "The Happy Surprise."

Open House

WOMEN IN MEDICINE - This week Open House marks the fiftieth anniversary of an unusual hospital—one whose very existence symbolizes the importance of the woman doctor to Canada's medical profession. Women's College Hospital—staffed entirely by women—grew from small beginnings to its present importance through the efforts of professionals and the faith of the public. Some of the people associated with its growth will appear on today's program and viewers will also see a film showing the services of the hospital.

CANADIAN HEART FUND—Through a single annual national appeal, the Canadian Heart Fund finances the work of scientists in medical schools, hospitals, and clinics throughout Canada. These scientists are probing into the complicated pattern of the causes of heart attacks, strokes, high blood pressure and other crippling heart diseases. Three women doctors engaged in heart research talk about their work on today's show.

Isham Spruce, former slave turned gunfighter after the Civil War, doesn't realize that Paladin is taking him into custody to keep him out of the hands of four pursuing bounty hunters in Friday's episode of "Have Gun, Will Travel."

CBWT—Three's Company

Don't throw that worn-out sweater away! Gerdine Crawford can help you save it; she has some simple salvage sewing ideas on the program today. Bill Guest and Mary Liz Bayer test out the speech course Esme Crampton has been giving so we can all see how much or how little improvement has been made.

The Verdict Is Yours

Fascinating courtroom dramas, authentically staged with judge and counsel portrayed by professional lawyers. A jury selected from the audience gives its verdict at the completion of each case. Newsman Bill Stout supplies background and side-lights on each case.

Junior Roundup

The Friendly Giant, Friendly, Rusty and Jerome look at a book called "ABC." Jerome sings the ABC song. It's fun to go through the alphabet, finding things that begin with each letter.

From Vancouver - "Tidewater Tramp, another adventure with the crew of the B.C. coastal shipper, the Flying Kestrel. This week - "The Birthday Present." It is the captain's birthday, and Gail has saved $15.93 to buy her father the most exciting present she can find.

From Toronto—"Your World This Week" a look at news of interest to young people. Also, host Murray Westgate introduces a new feature for Fridays: "Murray's Mail Bag," Murray will read letters which boys and girls (and parents) have sent him.

Fury

This week—"Pinto Stallion." Fury hears "the call of the wild" when a pinto stallion tries to take over leadership of the local herd of wild horses. Joey finds himself caught in the middle of a mortal combat between Fury and the Pinto.

CBWT—Bachelor Father

Today, "Bentley the Model Citizen." Bentley goes to a City Planning Committee meeting at the request of neighbour Frank Curtis, who asks Bentley to protest the installation of a traffic signal outside his house. However, Bentley meets a new neighbour, Diane Jeremy, an attractive sculptress, who is at the meeting to speak on behalf of the signal installation.

Country Hoedown

Western and country-style music and dancing, hosted by Gordie Tapp. Mary Frances, Tommy Common, Tommy Hunter, the Hames Sisters, The Singing Swinging Eight and square dance caller Johnny Davidson are the regulars.

Perry Mason

Crime detection series based on stories by Erle Stanley Gardner, starring Raymond Burr as Perry Mason, and featuring Barbara Hale as Della Street and Bill Hopper as Paul Drake.

This week—"The Case of the Way-laid Wolf." A woman is lured into a lonely beach house by her boss' son; after fleeing from his advances, she is suspected of murder when the man is found knifed. Mason discovers that the victim was not only a ladies' man but that he was being pressed for payment of a substantial debt.

Danger Man

This weekly series stars Patrick McGoohan as special U.S. security agent John Drake—a lone wolf in a post war world of international tension and intrigue.

"The Prisoner." Drake has a noted concert pianist, a look-alike for an American accused of espionage and held prisoner in a Caribbean city's U.S. embassy pose as the imprisoned man in order to effect an escape for the actual "prisoner."

Have Gun, Will Travel

"Long Way Home." A feared gun-fighter, an ex-slave, is captured by Paladin who intends to bring him back to Cheyenne to stand trial. On the way, Paladin is bitten by a rattlesnake and the gunfighter performs a surprising but heroic act.

CBWT—Men Into Space

Exciting adventures in outer space highlight this drama series, starring (Please turn to page 29)

Mary Frances, 21-year-old vocalist seen each Friday on "Country Hoedown," is well-known for her renditions of country and popular music.

Cartoon Party

Leon the Lion presents a half-hour of cartoons, featuring Bozo the Clown, Crusader Rabbit and many favourite cartoon characters.

Mr. Fix-It

Third in a series of four programs on building a recreation room. Today, host Peter Whittall shows viewers how to lay a floor in a recreation room.

Dennis the Menace

"Dennis and the Saxophone." Next-door neighbour Mr. Wilson suffers another of his weekly recurrences of acute dyspepsia when Dennis wants to take saxophone lessons. Its not Wilson's nature to use the shortest distance between two points, so, enroute to convincing the Mitchells that their son, Dennis, would be spoiled by getting a saxophone, he kills his own fond hope that Dennis will be sent away to camp during the summer. Jay North stars as Dennis and Herb Anderson and Gloria Henry play his parents, Henry and Alice Mitchell.

On Project '61

THE GOD THAT FAILED

Four men of letters, co-authors of a book expressing their disillusionment with Communism, a political belief that they once embraced, will be interviewed on this series of programs. The series should give considerable insight into the workings of Communism

ELEVEN YEARS ago a revealing book on Communism was published under the title of The God That Failed. It contained personal essays by six distinguished men of letters who had once emotionally and spiritually embraced Communism as man's last hope, and then had experienced bitter desolation when it failed. They were Arthur Koestler, Andre Gide, Ignazio Silone, Louis Fischer, Stephen Spender, and Richard Wright. Since then Gide and Wright have died.

The other four will appear in five important one-hour programs on CBC radio's Project '61 series to take another look at the nature of Communism in the light of today. They will be interviewed by the editor of the book, Richard H. S. Crossman, British Labour M.P. for Coventry, who will also introduce and summarize the programs.

Excerpts from their writing when under Communist influence will be read, as well as from their essays in The God That Failed, in which they describe its original appeal and why they were disillusioned. Then, in a 2,000-word prepared statement, each will re-assess the book in today's international environment, and explore general ideological questions. The interviews will be spontaneous and candid, with no prepared statements.

Frank Freedman, editor of the four-part series, says he had hoped to have Richard Wright appear, too, but he died in Paris before he could be interviewed. "However," says Freedman, "he left us a powerful and moving written indictment of the West, which, with an exchange of correspondence with Richard Crossman, provides a deeply emotional revelation of his attitudes."

"Undoubtedly," says Freedman, "in these critical times that have witnessed the intensification and spread of Communism, the perspectives these men can bring to bear are, for our purposes, more valid than most. Through them, and the spiritual desolation they shared with The God That Failed, we are attempting to communicate clear, highly personalized insights, free of partisan propaganda, that may help clarify what is probably the most demanding problem today. In addition, we have secured from the BBC actual recordings, news reports and important political declarations from around the time of the Spanish Civil War and the onset of the Second World War, with particular reference to the Stalin-Hitler pact of 1939, which we will use in the programs. It was during that period that the principals in the series became disenchanted with Communism. These recordings will help listeners to consider the interviews and statements in their proper perspective, to examine the true nature of Communism from inside and out, and to consider the apparent failure of Western democracy that would lead such men to Communism.

"I can't think of a better way of cutting through the excesses of propaganda that seem to obscure real issues and confuse basic understandings, than with the honest, powerfully-charged statements of these men."

To Interview Arthur Koestler

In part one of The God That Failed, five part series on Project '61 starting Sunday afternoon, Arthur Koestler will be featured.

Described as "the poet and ideologue of the homeless radical," he was born in Budapest in 1905, the son of a promoter and would-be inventor. After studying at the University of Vienna he spent several months tramping through the Near East, then, with no previous experience, bagged the job of foreign correspondent for a German newspaper chain, and continued in journalism in the Near East, Paris and Berlin.

He joined the Communist Party in 1931, and spent a year in the USSR as an intellectual tourist, where the Russians' unique form of payola made him believe that he had found a literary heaven. Although almost unknown as a writer, he was lionized everywhere and was paid handsome fees for everything he wrote—sight unseen.

In 1936 Koestler covered the Franco revolt as a correspondent for the London News Chronicle, was captured by the Fascists, and condemned to death as a spy. But British protests saved him and he returned to England. At the outbreak of the Second World War he was imprisoned in France as a refugee, was later released and escaped to England to enlist in the British Army.

After his experiences in Spain and the Moscow Trials of 1936 he became disillusioned with revolution as a policy and broke with the Party.

Probably his most outstanding book is Darkness at Noon, which established his reputation as a political novelist. Lately he has said he is finished with novels and has turned to forthright autobiography. He spends most of his time in England.

Conducts CBC Symphony

Pierre Won't Act His Age

Pierre Monteux is 86 years old, but has the endurance and vitality of a youngster. By all indications, music lovers can look forward to many more thrilling concerts under his baton, such as the special 90-minute CBC Symphony performance to be broadcast Friday, February 3

PIERRE MONTEUX, a little man with twinkling green eyes, a white walrus moustache, and curling black hair brushed straight back, is going on 86 and absolutely refuses to act his age.

One of the greatest and best-loved conductors on the continent, he keeps radiantly vigorous through a gruelling schedule that would fatigue others a third as old. After every concert, still fresh as a daisy, he gustily demolishes a plateful of oysters washed down with champagne.

Where does he get all his energy? "I just do what I have to do," he says. "I do not go out, do not socialize at all. For this I am excused because of my age. So I am left to conduct.

"I confess it is strange, as I have been officially retired since 1952. But you know what happens?"

PIERRE MONTEUX

Symphony boards, they say to each other: Monteux, we must have him before he dies. So I work."

"It amuses Pierre," relates his wife, Doris, "to see younger conductors eyeing him appraisingly, as if they would ask: When is that old bozo going to give up? But he insists he'll conduct till he's 90, and die holding a baton."

Friday, February 3 this remarkable old maestro will conduct the CBC Symphony Orchestra in a special 90-minute radio broadcast.

Born in Paris in 1875 Monteux began his career as a violinist, later switched to viola, and made his conducting debut in 1911 when he directed the première of Stravinsky's Petrouchka for the Ballet Russe.

He has had long tenures with the Metropolitan Opera, Boston Symphony, Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam, and the San Francisco Symphony and has guest conducted all over the world.

PROGRAM NOTES

POSTMARK U.K.

This week—"Peterborough." In the last few decades Peterborough has grown from a calm Cathedral City and market town into a bustling centre of industry. The beautiful Cathedral still stands in its quiet grounds, but outside there's the busy traffic of the High Street and the hurrying crowds. What is the effect of such a rapid growth and change on the people who live there? To find out, Gordon Snell, visits Peterborough for Postmark U.K. and talks to industrialists, churchmen, old Peterborians, newcomers to the town, and teenagers, whose voices you can hear in today's program.

W-8:35 am K-1:00 pm X-1:00 pm

MATINEE HIGHLIGHTS

Danilo Dolci. This 38-year-old Italian has been called the Gandhi of Sicily and could have been a prosperous architect in Northern Italy, but he was so appalled by the poverty and general misery of the life of the Sicilians that he decided he must help them. During the past ten years he has opened five community type centres in the western part of Sicily, and Canadian Ilys Booker is helping to run one of them. During a holiday in London, Miss Booker talked with Canadian freelance broadcaster Peter Reynolds. (Repeated from Trans-Canada Matinee of January 5, 1961).

Psychiatry for Children. How do you know when your child needs a psychiatrist and what kind of treatment will he get if he does? These are the questions which Trudy Kassner asks Dr. Taylor Statten, Psychiatrist in Chief at the Montreal Children's Hospital. Mrs. Kassner, herself the mother of three children, lives in Montreal. (Repeated from Trans-Canada Matinee of January 4, 1961).

Pointed Toes. June Sheppard has some pungent views on pointed toes and stiletto heels and has no hesitation in expressing them. Mrs. Sheppard is an Edmonton housewife and freelance broadcaster. (Repeated from Trans-Canada Matinee of January 4, 1961).

Teletheatre

According to the great French author Albert Camus: "Spain is a unique country, where a sublime and mysterious destiny seems to unite the love of life and the despair of death."

For "Yerma," damned spouse and ardent mother, death is only as far as the end of the road.

In April, 1931, Alphonse XIII, King of Spain, flees from the revolutionary forces of the new Republic of Spain. It is only the beginning of a vast movement for the emancipation of popular culture in the Iberian peninsula.

Federico Garcia Lorca, who has just returned from a long voyage to the United States and Cuba, is named director of a theatrical troupe called "La Barraca," which plays in the distant, sparsely populated districts of Spain.

Improvisation comes to Lorca as a second nature. Along with a number of better-known plays, by Lope de Vega, Cervantès and Calderon, to which he adroitly adds a good measure of old folk songs, dances and music, Lorca proudly presents a few of his own contributions: "Dona Rosita," "Les Noces de Sang," "Yerma."

In 1935, his principal actress and good friend Margarita Xirgu presents in Madrid a revised version of "Yerma." It is an immediate triumph.

This is the period when in France, Andre Malraux publishes "La condition humaine," when Jean Anhouilh brings to the scene "La Sauvage," and Jean Giraudoux "La Guerre de Troie n'aura pas lieu." It is also a period of inner strife in the country, that of the Ethiopian war and the death of Maxime Gorki. An atrocious civil war is in the beginning. Federico Garcia Lorca will die of a stray bullet (or so it is said) at the ripe old age of 36!

As in all Lorca's other plays, "Yerma," a pastoral in three Acts and six tableaux, is set in Andalucia. It is highlighted by a haunting musical theme, endlessly repeated by Yerma, in which she sings her desolation at not being able to bear a child. Of Jean, her husband, she complains that if he is a good provider, he gives her little comfort, since he does not want any children . . . in order, he maintains, to preserve the prosperity of his private industry. Yerma, who is Fidelity personified, would not think of another man.

She will continue to yearn for a child, creating in her heart a mythical son, whom she calls by name. "Where were you child, my love?" . . . What do you want? . . . where are you going?" . . . Her hopes are so high that she actually prepares a layette for the baby "who will come."

If "Noces de sang" was a drama of maternity, "Yerma" is by opposition, the drama of sterility.

Its beautiful prose to which the author has subtly added a few verses that sing of the human nature and the beauty of life, seems to gather from the source of life itself.

"Yerma," produced in Montreal by Paul Blouin, stars Monique Miller, as "Yerma," Jean-Louis Roux, Robert Cadous, Jacques Godin, Pascale Perault, Marthe Thierry, Colette Courtois, Nicole Filion, Monique Mercure, Madeleine Langlois, and Nicole Goyette. It will be presented on CBWFT on "Téléthéâtre," Thursday, February 2, at 9:30 p.m.

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Monday Talks. Winnipeg economist Jean Edmonds comments on topics of widespread interest in the business, financial and general economic fields. Each week her talk will be topical and related to an event in the news. Mrs. Edmonds is a housewife and mother of two children.

Cooking. Pakistan cooking will be featured by Sultan Akhtar, a banker from Dacca, East Pakistan, who has been in Montreal for a little over a year, taking a course to become a chartered accountant. He will describe a meal that would be served at "akika," which Moslems celebrate between five and fifteen days after the birth of a child (and which may be compared to Baptism in the Christian tradition). It is a very special occasion which families and friends gather to celebrate, and the meal includes a curried rice, a kabob, and kurma curry (a meat curry), for which the recipes will be given today.

Daily features . . . News commentary by Anne Francis of Ottawa and escaped the initial blast and fire. Over your head, the earth would protect you from lethal effects of radio-active fallout. This is the main reason for building a shelter under the ground.

PROTECTION FROM FALLOUT?

Dr. Edward Teller of Oakland, Cal., "father of the H-bomb" and one of the participants on the program, estimates that fallout could kill 90 per cent of the population in Canada and the United States if unprotected by shelters from a nuclear attack of 300 high-yield weapons (H-bombs).

It is the official policy of the Canadian and American governments to encourage every citizen to build himself a fallout shelter.

In the foreword of a booklet, "Your Basement Fallout Shelter," issued last June by the Canadian government, Prime Minister Diefenbaker says:

"In announcing the policy of the Government concerning shelters for civil defence purposes, I stated that substantial protection against radio-active fallout could be achieved by family shelters built at home at a modest cost.

"Although Canada will persist in its efforts to avoid war, and to settle international disputes by peaceful means, there still remains some risk of nuclear war. Should a nuclear war occur, the risk of radio-active fallout will be very widespread, and will endanger many of us in our homes, even though a long way from the bomb explosion. The best and simplest way to safeguard against fallout is by household shelters which will provide protection . . . although not affording protection against the blast of a nuclear explosion or the fires that may result.

"Each householder can and should decide whether or not to have this form of family protection. I recommend it."

In Canada, National Housing Act loans of up to $500 are available for use in building shelters. The booklet distributed by the government gives detailed plans of building a shelter.

Robert Bryce, secretary of the federal cabinet and in charge of emergency measures, will appear on Three Feet of Earth, his first television appearance.

Bryce thinks the main problem of fallout shelters "has been public (Please turn to page 31)

Tennessee Ernie Ford

Successful Pea-Picker

The folksy humour and songs of this top entertainer have carried him to a pinnacle of popularity in the world of television.

TENNESSEE ERNIE Ford's love for the simple things in life is the key to his extraordinary success.

The transition from a small, bare-foot boy working in a Tennessee corn field to one of the country's top entertainers might bring drastic changes in a man.

But not to Ernest Jennings Ford, who enjoys the warm friendliness he knew in Bristol, Tennessee. His genuineness has an appeal that reaches rich and poor, young and old. Each week millions viewing "The Ford Show" laugh at the spontaneous "Ernie-isms" that roll out like tumbleweed and stamp him as a home-spun personality.

"People, everywhere, laugh at them. But that's the way everybody talks down home," Ernie says.

Another indication of Ernie's down-to-earth personality is his un-hurried way of moving. He ambles like a country boy taking a leisurely stroll down a dusty, tree-lined road to his favourite fishing hole.

Because of Ernie, his home town of Bristol (pop. 16,371) is known to his fans. His parents, Mr. and (Please turn to page 29)

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Education in the Ancient World. Education in Ancient Greece is the subject of the second talk by George Woodcock in this series on Trans-Canada Matinee. He says that if we ask ourselves what single country has left the greatest mark on western civilization, there cannot be much doubt that it was ancient Greece. George Woodcock is editor of the University of British Columbia quarterly, "Canadian Literature."

Mary Starr. Doreen Corps is the real name of Mary Starr of the Toronto Star's "If You Ask My Advice," column. What are popularly known as "agony" columns seem to be sprouting and flourishing more than ever these days and listeners will be fascinated to learn what happens behind the scenes. What are some of the odd requests for advice; how does Mary Starr tell whether the enquirer is sincere; are all letters answered; are any made up. To find out June Dennis, hostess of the popular CJBC morning show "Audio," quizzes the writer of "If You Ask My Advice."

Heron Island. Heron Island is a coral island in the Great Barrier Reef off the coast of Australia, and Ann Dolphin calls it the next best thing to paradise. Ann Dolphin is an English social worker who spent two years working her way around Australia and New Zealand as waitress, bottle washer, nursemaid and broadcaster. She spent a few weeks in Toronto on her return trip to London.

Daily features . . . News commentary by Anne Francis of Ottawa and another reading from "Tiger in the Smoke," by Margery Allingham, adapted for radio by Marjory White-law and read by Evelyn Garbary of Halifax.

PRAIRIE TALKS

"Hidden Corners of Canada," the second of a series giving listeners descriptions of several parts of Canada most of us could place on the map, but about which we really know very little. This week Per Holting talks about Hecla Island which according to him is one of the friendliest parts of Canada. He says that in this Icelandic community no matter which house you go into there is always coffee on the stove and always a space at the table where you can sit down and drink it. Tonight, he describes this picturesque island in Lake Winnipeg.

Mrs. Clarence T. Ford, still live there where they describe Ernie as "a sort of natural musician." He sang "The Old Rugged Cross," at family gatherings when four years old and has been singing ever since.

After graduating from Bristol's high school, Ernie worked as an announcer in 1937 for the town's radio station. The following year he studied voice at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. Those were lean days, but Ernie managed to eat regularly after finding a place where a cheeseburger and bottle of root beer cost 15 cents.

"Dateline: Moon." Col. McCauley commands an expedition to the moon for the purpose of setting up a radio beacon network that will enable men on the moon to keep in touch with each other and thus overcome the line-of-sight limitations of lunar radio communications. It is also decided that the long standing requests of the press for permission to accompany one of the lunar expeditions be granted.

Later that year he was a radio announcer in Atlanta, Georgia, at $20 a week. In 1941, WORL in Knoxville upped the ante to $25, a salary he earned until World War II.

He joined the Air Force, and was discharged in 1945. He naturally returned to Bristol. But Ernie and his wife, Betty, decided to head west. Without promise of a job, they bought a 1941 car, and started for California.

He worked briefly in radio stations in San Bernardino and Reno. But the big break for his career came when he signed with station KXLA in Pasadena as a hillbilly disc jockey and newscaster. He met Cliffie Stone, veteran performer and star of his own Los Angeles TV show, "Hometown Jamboree." Ernie became a vocalist on Cliffie's show, and in 1948 began recording for Capitol records. In 1950 he started making nightclub appearances. He went on ABC radio network in 1952 as a disc jockey; starred in 1953 on NBC-TV's summer show "The College of Musical Knowledge"; started his own daytime five-a-week show on NBC-TV, and in 1956 premiered his high-rated "The Ford Show."

The LPRT's

A special feature of CBC service is the Low Power Relay Transmitter. Fed from wire lines, these transmitters are designed to provide reception in areas of low population density unable to support a privately-owned station. LPRT's serve the B.C. interior, Alberta's mountainous region and Northern Ontario chiefly. The CBC now operates 60 or them, bringing radio service to a quarter of a million people.

Sympathy But Not Softness

The prevailing fashion in fiction of making heroes or semi-heroes out of delinquents, especially juvenile delinquents, is salutary in a way because it reminds us to be indulgent to other people's shortcomings as well as our own; but pushed too far it may become dangerous by enlisting too much sympathy for the criminal. — Writer and critic L. P. Hartley speaking in the BBC Home Service on "Changing Fashions in the Novel."

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

At the United Nations. Kathleen Teltsch, United Nations correspondent for the New York Times, gives her weekly report on activities at the U.N.

Arthur Phelps. A favourite with Matinee listeners, returns today with his monthly broadcast on the program.

A.I.D. Canadian freelance broadcaster Wendy Butler, who is currently living in London with her family, reports on A.I.D.—artificial insemination by donor—as an alternative to adoption where the husband is infertile. Mrs. Butler talks to Dr. Mary Barton, a fertility specialist in London, and also to the mother of a two-year-old child conceived by A.I.D.

Daily features . . . News commentary by Anne Francis of Ottawa and another reading from "Tiger in the Smoke," by Margery Allingham, adapted for radio by Marjory White-law and read by Evelyn Garbary of Halifax.

W-2:03 pm K-2:33 pm X-2:33 pm

NATIONAL SCHOOL BROADCAST

Behind the News. A series of programs (for Junior and Senior high school students) offering interesting and informative weekly news commentaries which are specifically prepared for classrooms across Canada. One current event of major importance will be chosen as the subject for each commentary. The commentary emphasizes the historical background necessary for a full understanding of the news event chosen as well as for significance. Scripts are by CBC news-writer and broadcaster Norman De-Poe.

The Changing Prairie. A series of programs planned to give students an awareness of the great strides made by the three prairie provinces during the last half-century in the development of agriculture and natural resources. The programs are of a documentary type and give equal emphasis to the developments themselves and to their effects. Today—"A Look at the Future." In the prairie provinces many people believe that Canada's future lies in the North. Professor Griffith Taylor prophesied that the Mackenzie Valley would become one of the more densely populated parts of the country, perhaps within a century. One of the great projects of the future is the development of the vast Athabasca Tar Sands. Because this is believed to be one of the world's largest oil deposits, we will interview specialists who know what is being done and who can tell us what may be expected from it.

EXPORING THE WORLD'S GREATEST MINDS

His story pours out with revealing frankness: "My father was an adventurer and was always chasing rainbows . . . Boxing was my first love . . . I suffered with the stigma of being a Jew . . . I was fat as a kid . . . They support you when you win, and if you lost you're in the dressing room on your own . . . the sooner you learn that in this vale of tears the better for you."

Dame Edith Sitwell, poet and critic and member of a famous English literary family, will be interviewed January 22nd. On the 29th: film producer John Huston, son of actor Walter Huston, and the man who hit Errol Flynn so hard that he had to be taken to hospital. Huston appears with no political message, and no grouch against Hollywood. In short, as a model of respectability, in sharp contrast to the flamboyant phoney he is painted as in books like Picture (Lillian Ross) and White Hunter with a Black Heart (Peter Viertel).

On February 5th viewers will be Face to Face with Lord Birkett, one of Britain's outstanding criminal lawyers and judges, who served as one of the judges at the war crimes trials at Nuremberg.

Stirling Moss appears on February 12th to give a fascinating glimpse into the mind of a professional racing driver. Fear to him, he says, is a lack of understanding of what is happening. To put his foot down hard at the corner for the first time requires a conscious act of courage. He worries more about having driven badly than having won or lost. He isn't afraid of killing himself but of being killed by something out of his control, and he would consider retiring only "if somebody passed me on a corner in a similar car." He makes it clear that he has paid a high price for the exhilaration and the glamour of his life, but that he does not complain of the bargain.

The Twenty Years of Gershwin

by TONY THOMAS

U.S. composer George Gershwin was a remarkable personality as well as a musical genius. The people who knew him best will recall his great moments on this 60-minute special

THE PROGRAM we have put together for the CBC Trans-Canada Radio Network broadcast on Friday, January 27, is not designed as a tribute to George Gershwin. There have been many Gershwin tributes before and there will certainly be many more to come, but this time we see the composer through the eyes of the people who knew him best, and we hear him through the rare recordings he made as a pianist.

The person who knew Gershwin best was, perhaps, his brother Ira. He tells of the time when a piano was hoisted through the window of their apartment on the lower east side of New York. The piano was for Ira, a most unwilling student who was immediately relieved to find his younger brother sitting at the instrument the moment it arrived. Ira never had to take the seat.

Hollywood music director Alfred Newman tells of his first meeting with George. Newman's aunt forced Gershwin into hearing her 13-year-old nephew play the piano. A few years later a still very young Newman was the conductor on the first big Gershwin Broadway show The George White Scandals of 1920. The same Alfred Newman was the conductor of The Goldwyn Follies of 1937 and Gershwin died while writing the songs for that picture.

Paul Whiteman recalls the afternoon of February 12, 1924, at New York's Aeolian Hall. It was an experimental concert of American music, for which he had commissioned Gershwin to write a jazz piece for piano and symphony orchestra. Whiteman was so nervous he lost his place in the Rhapsody in Blue, but not George.

"George loved nothing better than playing his own music and he couldn't possibly lose his place—his place was wherever there was a piano and listeners," says Newman.

GEORGE GERSHWIN

Fred Astaire knew Gershwin for months before realizing he was a composer. In 1914 Gershwin was a song plugger-piano pounder at Remick's and Astaire was one of hundreds who came to hear the latest tunes. "He was fabulous at the piano and he could make even the poorest tune sound like a concerto.

"He used to kid me that one day he would write a whole show for me. Well, in 1925 he did. It was Lady Be Good. The next year there was another big one—Funny Face, and ten years after that there were a couple of Hollywood pictures, Shall We Dance and Damsel in Distress. If you consider all the wonderful songs in those shows you'll know why I loved George."

Arthur Schwartz is a Broadway composer of considerable quality and taste, and he stands in awe of Gershwin. "If George had never written anything else but songs his contribution to American music would still have been prodigious. He captured the pulse of the people and quickened it because the force of his musical personality was great enough to raise the level of taste that existed before him."

Oscar Levant was a close friend of Gershwin but not an uncritical one. "George, if you had to do it all over again, would you still fall in love with yourself?" he once queried. And on another occasion: "An evening with Gershwin is an evening of Gershwin."

He also added that nobody ever objected. And we don't think anyone will object, either, to 60 minutes with George Gershwin next Friday evening.

COOK'S TOUR

*Favourite recipes from a favourite show seen on CBC television Tuesday and Thursday
CBWT Monday to Friday*

Compiled by MRS. A. R. "MAT" GAUER

with THREE'S COMPANY

CHILI CON CARNE

1 15 oz. can kidney beans
1 20 oz. can pork and beans
1 lb. minced round steak
1 large onion—chopped
2 tbsp. oil
1 28 oz. can tomatoes
½ cup uncooked rice
1 tbsp. salt
½ tsp. chile powder
¼ tsp. thyme
⅓ tsp. cloves

Saute meat and onion in hot oil. If this is being cooked in oven, add all other ingredients. Cover and cook for at least 1 hour or longer. In pressure cooker, saute meat and onions, add seasoning, tomatoes and rice. Bring pressure up to 15 lb. pressure for 10 minutes. Let pressure come back to normal then add kidney beans and pork and beans and heat.

Lovely served with buttered noodles and a tossed salad.

BUTTERED NOODLES

1 pkg. broad noodles
1 quart water—boiling
¾ tsp. salt
½ lb. butter
3 finely ground crackers

Cook noodles for approximately 8 minutes in salted boiling water. Drain. Melt butter and add crumbs. Mix with cooked noodles.

FROM OUR MAILBAG

"Unqualified Fan Letter" From U.S. Listener

• I am a new resident in this upper-midwest section of the U.S., and was quite surprised, and very elated, to discover your station on my radio dial. There are few stations in the U.S. to compare with those of the CBC—and I assume that CBW is typical; and the stations that are comparable are on the FM band rather than the A.M. I would like this, then, to be an unqualified fan letter, and I assure you that your station has a wide following in the Fargo-Moorhead area. — P.S., State College, Moorhead, Minnesota.

"Q for Quest" Scores Hit

• Congratulations on the first presentation of Q for Quest by Andrew Allan and Ross McLean. My wife, several friends, and myself, thoroughly enjoyed it.

I must confess partiality to Len Peterson's works, remembering "Sheehan's Folly" and the flying saucer theme on radio several years ago. I hope that these, too, in time, will be presented on Q for Quest.

Q for Quest joins Close-Up, Explorations and other really worthwhile CBC productions which, I hope, will continue to grow and prosper.—R. D. D., Calgary, Alta.

Agrees With Writers

• Just read two letters regarding Patterns in Music (Mailbag, Jan. 8-14). How I regretted having to miss such a wonderful program! I would (also) . . . like to recommend to all two half-hour weekly programs entitled Reflections (Monday afternoon) and Music in Miniature (heard Thursday afternoon).—Mrs. J. H. S., Kenora, Ont.

'Twas the Night Before Christmas

Dear CBC:

When Christmas Eve comes 'round again
And our kiddies gather to hear
The wonders of the Sacred Eve
Will Mother still work with roll'd up sleeve
And Father be gone to tank up on beer?

No Grandma, no Grandpa—uncles, aunts, where?

To whom can they turn for their story?
Why, to TV of course; and on it is turned (For TV has everything, they've already learned,

So why not the Christmas Story?)

Past soap-suds and cold cures they'll patiently wait

'Til at last the picture comes on (Surely cowboys and Indians will cease to fight

And peace shall reign on this one night?
Or perhaps 'twill be one of song!)

Please don't give them hockey, guns or strife;

Please don't at sex let them look.
Dickens is fine, and puppets are, too.
Or the Christmas Story itself to view
Or be read from St. Luke in the Book.

. . . I'd even settle for your wife and kids singing Christmas carols.—
Mrs. E. O., St. Vital, Man.

Ed.—We imagine that you noticed with pleasure that the cowboys and Indians did retire for the evening of Dec. 24. But N.H.L. Hockey is such a firmly-entrenched Saturday night tradition that the usual programming had to be followed in this regard. "Red River Jamboree" and "Juliette" both offered special Christmas material, and the program "Full of Grace" and the special church service helped to maintain the true meaning of Christmas.
