Inedible Music

• I have, for many years, listened to CBK as literally the only station in Saskatchewan which played half-decent music. However, in my opinion the fare recently has become almost as inedible as that served by other, very mundane stations.

Would it be possible to return to music of the type selected so admirably in the past by Mr. S. Blancher, at any rate from 6:30 to 8:00 a.m.?

—Mrs. C.E.J., Regina

Night Music

• I enjoy your all-night music broadcast immensely. The nights of classical and semi-classical music are especially good. Keep up the excellent work.

—M.J.B., Melfort, Sask.

Action from Thought

• I keep writing notes of appreciation in my mind but laziness prevents them getting on paper. However—just to prove that sometimes action does result from thought—thanks for Hermit's Choice (CBC radio, Saturdays). I have heard it twice and found it most entertaining.

The greedy TV screen gets most of a person's attention when he or she has time to watch. Must say though that there is a lot of first-rate stuff available by radio. It can do some things that the flatter—in dimension—TV can't manage.

—G.L., Moose Jaw, Sask.

Head and Shoulders

• . . . I do want to say how good it was to see Max in the Morning (CBC-TV) on June 15th at 10:30 p.m. Due to its lateness it would be a good idea to repeat this fine half-hour with Max Ferguson and his very able crew. Max has a wide variety of listeners, from the very old to the young. His success upsets the established notion that most people have to see or imagine a pie thrown in the face to catch on! We Canadians do not put Max Ferguson in the limelight enough—we darn well should. He's head and shoulders (not a commercial, you fellas) ahead of most of today's humor-satirists. For our birthday year we should do something special about showing Max that we like him and need him . . .

—Mrs. V.C.A., Calgary

Annoyed and Disgusted

• My family and some of our friends are thoroughly annoyed and disgusted with the Saturday film, The Singer, Not the Song, on Great Movies (Saturday, June 18th).

You call this family entertainment? The story was obviously written by an atheist, anti-Catholic or bigot. Of all the fine religious movies that have been produced we feel your choice was not only prejudiced but vulgar.

It will be some time before any of us feel inclined to watch Great Movies or any other program on Channel 6 (CBWT).

—M.M., Winnipeg

Glee Club Makes A Hit

• We would like to express our appreciation of the very fine program put on TV on Monday, May 23rd, by the Tuxedo Park Glee Club (They All Call It Canada but I Call It Home), and how fortunate we were to have seen and heard it. The participants were excellent and your young master of ceremonies did such a fine job.

Indeed the leaders of the Glee Club are to be congratulated. Keep up the good work.

On behalf of some viewers who were at a summer camp on the French River.

—Mrs. H.M.C., Sudbury, Ont.

Utter Disgust

• I have just turned my television off in utter disgust over the beginning of Cine Club (CBC-TV, Sundays). There is beauty in a horse in flight but how could a film maker show such sordid pictures as a live horse's flesh crawly with flame is beyond belief . . .

Being a person who likes animals, particularly horses, I find it is hard to believe people would be that inhuman.

Grade 12 Appreciation

• I very much enjoyed the Heritage program entitled William Shakespeare—Theologian with the Very Rev. W. Bothwell as speaker on Sunday, June 4th, 4:00 to 4:30 p.m. (CBC-TV). . . .

I am a grade 12 student who intends to major in Shakespeare . . .

—G.A.B., Winnipeg

OUTSTANDING teams of high school students from six Canadian cities will compete in Winnipeg July 4th-9th in the first National Championships of the stimulating CBC television quiz show, Reach for the Top.

The National Championships carries with it scholarship prize money of $3,000; a $2,000 grant to the winning team, and $1,000 for the runner-up.

Each four-member team has already won for its school the Grand Championship of the city it represents. The victorious schools come from Vancouver, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Wetaskiwin, Toronto and Montreal.

On the program the host submits questions derived from various sources (encyclopedias, etc.) on such topics as world affairs, ancient history, art, medicine, literature, geography, sport, modern history, general knowledge, religion, music, mathematics, Canadiana, science and people.

Each question and answer is carefully checked by research personnel. In addition there are two off-camera adjudicators, Cameron Connell, vice-principal of River Heights School, Winnipeg, and Dr. Charles Booth, formerly deputy minister of education for Ontario.

Host for the National Championships, a series of eight weekly programs, is Bill Guest. Production co-ordinator is Neil Andrews of Toronto. Producer is Jean Mackay.

The National Championships will be broadcast on CBWT, Winnipeg, Mondays at 7:00 p.m. beginning July 11th. CBXT, Edmonton, will carry the eight programs beginning Wednesday, July 13th at 7:00 p.m.

STUDENTS taking summer courses in several Saskatchewan educational institutions will be able to attend concerts at the lunch hour, arranged by the CBC. At least one concert each is planned at the Regina and Saskatoon campuses of the University of Saskatchewan, at the Saskatchewan Summer School of the Arts, Briercrest and at the School Music Methods classes in Fort Qu'Appelle. Portions of each concert, with performers selected from among faculty members where possible, will be broadcast on CBK radio. Watch for further announcements.

TWO CONCERTS this week, presented on the Fort Garry Campus, U. of M., by the CBC in association with the University of Manitoba Summer School, are open to the general public, free of charge. On Tuesday, July 12th at 12:30 p.m. in the East Gymnasium, Peter Van Ginkel, bass baritone, is heard with the CBC Winnipeg Orchestra. In the Residence Auditorium Thursday, July 14th at 12:30 p.m., the Hidy Trio (Marta Hidy, violin, Klara Benjamin, cello, and Chester Duncan, piano) will perform. The concerts are the third and fourth in a series of eleven to be presented. July 6th-August 4th. Tom Taylor is the CBC producer in charge. Performances are recorded for future presentation on CBC radio.

THE CANADIAN light music series continues this week on the Winnipeg Pops Concert, Friday, July 15th at 7:30 p.m. with four selections.

An overture to As You Like It, by Clarence Lucas, is the first work on the program. Lucas, born in Niagara, Ont., in 1866, left Canada as a young man after receiving his early musical education in Montreal. He studied in France under such notable composers as Gounod

KODALY AT 83

CBC TUESDAY NIGHT broadcasts a concert in honor of Zoltan Kodaly, the Hungarian composer, who is visiting Canada this summer.

HE LOOKS a frail little man, but he is astonishingly energetic for someone of 83. He has beautiful, expressive pale blue eyes, white beard and grey hair almost touching his shoulders, a face full of humor and compassion, immense dignity, and a slow and choice manner of speaking. Zoltan Kodaly is the musical patriarch of Hungary, a legend in his lifetime. Few modern composers have done more for the musical life of their country than he. But he is very shy as well as busy, so it is not often that he can be persuaded to leave home. That's why it will be a great occasion this month when he visits Canada for the first time, to give the MacMillan Lectures at the University of Toronto summer school, and receive an honorary degree. (The lectures will be broadcast later on CBC-FM.)

In honor of Kodaly, a special 90-minute concert of some of his works, with the composer present, will be presented early in July at Toronto's MacMillan Theatre. It features 'cellist Janos Starker, violinist Lorand Fenyecs, and the Festival Singers of Toronto directed by Elmer Iseler, and will be recorded for inclusion in CBC Tuesday Night, July 12th, at 10:35. The program

THE ADVOCATE

NICOLA SACCO was a shoemaker, Bartolomeo Vanzetti a fishmonger. Both were poor, Italian immigrants to the United States who became the central figures in one of the greatest controversies in the history of American jurisprudence. Sacco, 29, was a philosophical anarchist and Vanzetti a radical agitator. In 1920 they were arrested and charged with shooting the paymaster and guard of a South Braintree, Mass., shoe factory during a payroll robbery. One year later they were convicted, after a lengthy trial, and sentenced to death in the electric chair. The trial and the verdict set off a series of protests and demonstrations by liberal groups throughout the country, later spreading to the European countries and elsewhere in the world. For six years the supporters of Sacco and Vanzetti fought a campaign for their release on grounds of want of conclusive evidence, and prejudice of court. All appeals failed and the two were executed at Charlestown, Mass., on August 22nd, 1927.

Since then the Sacco-Vanzetti case has never been completely forgotten and is still capable of arousing fierce passions in some quarters. It has been the source for several important books, has been dramatized as a play on Broadway and on television, and is being transformed into an opera by Marc Blitzstein. All of this would have pleased Albert Einstein, who said: "Everything should be done to keep alive the tragic affair of Sacco and Vanzetti in the conscience of mankind. They remind us of the fact that even the most perfectly planned democratic institutions are no better than the people whose instruments they are."

A few years ago a justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, Michael A. Mussmano, who was an associate counsel for the defence, wrote: "... it was the misfortune of Sacco and Vanzetti to be tried when the law was wrong. Were they tried today, there would be

WHILE RADIO's Trans-Canada Matinée is off the air for the summer, its hostess, Pat Patterson, is being heard in a bright new series, Conversation Piece (Monday to Friday, 2:03 p.m. on CBW and CBK, 2:33 on CBX and CBR), in which she talks informally to an interesting guest or pair of guests each week-day, and intersperses their dialogue with recorded music relating to it, selected by the guest.

years. Hardly anyone feels lukewarm about him, and he admits himself that he's "one of the most prejudiced and biased people in Canada, and am not ashamed of it. My motto is: To thine own self be true—I mean more to me than to anyone else." He talks about his youth, about his father, Sandy, a labor organizer who was blacklisted by his union, and his mother, Bessie, a salty, hardworking woman who had a great influence on his career. He

Some of her conversations present celebrities in a new light, or introduce listeners to fascinating people doing vital things who are not widely known to the general public. Frequently she encourages them to sound off about subjects they have never before discussed in an interview, things often far removed from their profession but about which they feel strongly, and sometimes they become quite emotional and refreshingly outspoken, which makes for stimulating entertainment well ventilated with spontaneous humor. Miss Patterson has a wide range of interests, and an unusually warm and sympathetic personality, which enables her to relate to her guests with ease. Production is by Stuart Marwick, who will also be producing Matinée when it returns in the fall. The organizer for both programs is Rosemary Macmillan.

Miss Patterson's guest on Monday, July 11th, will be Gordon Sinclair, Toronto writer, journalist (for 44 years), TV and radio personality, and a panelist on Front Page Challenge for 10

The Thrill — and Horror — of Bullfighting

Cine Club shows two films about the matador and his art, Sunday at 7:00 p.m. on CBC-TV

IN GENERAL, bullfighting splits people into two camps—those who regard it as a disgusting spectacle which should not be permitted in a civilized country, and those to whom it is a graceful art embodying the ancient virtues of manhood: courage and honor. The first argue that a dumb animal is taunted and slaughtered merely to provide a Roman entertainment for people seeking to vicariously assuage a blood lust; the second that it is a noble sport, one man alone against a trained fighting animal, a test of skill and bravery between man and beast. The beast always dies, of course, but dies splendidly rather than being butchered in an abattoir. And sometimes the man dies, too.

Two short films on CBC-TV's Cine Club series this week are about bullfighting. From France there is Corrida Interdite, by Denys Colomb de Daunant (whose film Dream of Wild Horses was seen a few weeks ago on the same series), and from the United States the highly praised film by writer Barnaby Conrad, The Day Manolete Was Killed.

Manolete was Spain's greatest matador in the '30s and '40s, and for the last eight years of his life the highest paid bullfighter in the world. A legendary figure, he was "... not only the best torero of his day," writes Conrad,

"he was what every Spaniard aspired to be, the gallant, arrogant, courageous Spaniard of pre-Armada days. But audiences, infuriated by perfection, demanded more and more of him with every fight. Then, on a fateful day in August, 1947, in the bull ring of Linares, he kept a terrible rendezvous with a bull named Islero."

Manolete had retired to rest and raise bulls on his ranch when he went back into the ring to meet one more bull. He was 30, badly scarred from many gorings, and exhausted. But the Press had been sniping at him and there was a handsome young matador, Luis Dominguin, who claimed he was better and that Manolete was afraid to compete with him. Islero was a Miura bull, one of a savage breed that had killed more of Spain's famous toreros than any other, yet he was not a particularly good bull, says Conrad—"He was inclined to crowd to the right and he hooked badly." Manolete made passes at Islero no other matador would have attempted. He gave the crowd exactly what it had paid to see—the greatest performance of his life.

Conrad tells the story of that last fight through still pictures taken in the ring and the infirmary.

The story of a beautiful teenager who is in love with a poor Georgia farm boy, but her father has plans for her to marry a middle-aged, wealthy farm owner. Jilted in love she becomes a promiscuous tart but her thoughtless conduct leads to tragedy.

conduct the Hamilton Philharmonic Society. He left again in 1893, and died in 1947 in Paris.

Reverie, Opus 2, the second selection, is by Guillaume Couture. Born in Montreal in 1851, like Lucas he pursued studies in France with noted composers — Saint-Saëns and Cesar Franck. Later, in Montreal, he conducted the Montreal Philharmonic Society, the Societes des Symphonistes and the Montreal Amateur Operatic Club.

Dr. Claude Champagne, who died in December of last year, is represented by his composition Paysanna. Born in Montreal in 1891, he became one of the country's most distinguished composers, with enormous influence on a whole generation of his colleagues. Paysanna, an intensely patriotic piece, contains fragments of O Canada, God Save the Queen and La Marseillaise, woven together.

Two dances by Lorne Betts conclude this week's program. Betts, born in Winnipeg in 1918, received his musical education there and in Toronto, where he studied with John Weinzweig. For a number of years he has lived in Hamilton, where he is a staff member of the Hamilton Conservatory of Music.

Bill Walker takes advice from Don Maybee and Bob Trodd, two of the snooker experts competing on CBC-TV's Saturday afternoon Championship Series.

Program Notes

JULY 10th

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and add'l program information

British Open Golf Tournament

Video-taped highlights of the final day's play of the British Open Golf Tournament held in Muirfield, Scotland. The Open is played from July 6th to July 9th. Commentators are Henry Carpenter, Bill Cox and Henry Longhurst. The defending champion is Peter Thomson of Australia.

Time for Adventure

Runaway Railway. A group of children are sad because a railway loop is to be closed and their favorite engine, Matilda, broken up. A certain Lord Chalk comes to their aid and from then on they become involved in some exciting adventures.

Country Calendar

Recently a new wheat deal has been signed with the Soviet Union. The total sale, the equivalent of 336 million bushels of wheat and flour, is the largest single wheat transaction in the history of international trade. The great wheat sale shows that once again agriculture is the mainstay of the Canadian economy. This point is amply demonstrated in this half-hour program. Produced by Dick Boeking.

20/20

Diary of a Mountain Pilot. A film story which shows how Bud Tillotson, chief instructor for Okanagan Helicopters, trains a student pilot to cope with the peculiarities of mountain flying. The company operates the only school in the world where pilots are taught the specialized techniques required in high country.

Cine Club

A series of films which have won awards at various international film festivals around the world. Tonight:

1. Corrida interdite (The Forbidden Bullfight).
2. The Day Manolete was Killed.

Ed Sullivan

Ed's guests are: singer Ethel Merman; the Rolling Stones, vocal and instrumental group; the Roumanian Folk Ballet; singer Wayne Newton; and Sandy Baron and Eddie Schaeffer.

July 9th - 15th

Bonanza

Hoss finds a young and wounded Indian, left to die in the bush, and tries to overcome his savagery with kindness. (A repeat).

Compass

A conversation between Patrick Watson and Norman Podhoretz, editor of Commentary, an influential magazine published by the National Jewish Congress in the U.S. Topics covered include Jewish contributions to American culture and miscegenation.

Camera West

A look at Vancouver's West End, an appendage of land that reaches out from the main section of the city toward the north and west shores, and is bounded on the east by beaches, on the north by Stanley Park, on the west by Burrard Inlet, the dock area of the harbor, and on the south by downtown Vancouver. One of the oldest sections of the city, it is nevertheless considered a desirable area in which to live. There is a wide contrast in both architecture and inhabitants. Produced by Ain Soodor. Cameraman is Doug McKay, film editor is John Fuller and the original music is by Don Thompson.

How to Fly a Helicopter

CANADA HAS the only school in the world that teaches the specialized techniques of piloting a helicopter in mountain country. The school, run by Okanagan Helicopters, is located in British Columbia, where the student pilot is given six weeks' basic training at Abbotsford, followed by further instruction at Penticton in the Okanagan Valley, culminating in flights over the high mountains of the Coast Range.

On CBC-TV's 20/20 series this week viewers will see Okanagan's chief instructor, Bud Tillotson, taking student pilot Don Broeder through part of his course. Broeder, who operated a crop-spraying business in Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, before going to B.C., is already a skilled pilot of fixed-wing aircraft, one of the requirements for training as a helicopter pilot. Tillotson, a former RCAF pilot who served in the Second World War, has been flying helicopters exclusively for the past 11 years.

The 20/20 film, sub-titled Diary of a Mountain Pilot, shows Tillotson instructing Broeder in take-offs and landings on a small hilltop, a cleared patch of dense valley forest, a narrow rock canyon, and a 12-by-12-foot platform specially constructed on a cliffside. Also shown is the technique of auto-rotation, an emergency measure in which the engine is deliberately cut and the helicopter falls, designed to teach the student what to do in the event of engine failure.

Vacation Time

1. Summer Singalong. Singer-host Reg Gibson entertains the children and townfolk of Lorette, Man.

2. The Great Outdoors. Host Keith McColl, outdoorsman, outfitter and guide, follows activities in the outdoors.

Summer Camp

The Young Jacobites. Jean is visiting her cousin Hamish on the Isle of Skye. They discover the Threshold Stone in a cave and when they cross the stone they go back 200 years to the time of Bonnie Prince Charlie. First episode of a new adventure story.

Mad Movies

Host Bob Monkhouse's camera records historic comedies from the cinema's Stone Age, then observes its golden age with Larry Semon's most reckless stunt film and those boobs in blue, the Keystone Kops. All this and 100 pies in the eye.

CBWT-Reach for the Top

Outstanding teams of high school students from six Canadian cities compete in the first national championships.

Each four-member team has already won for its school the grand championship of the city it represents. The victorious schools come from Vancouver, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Wetaskiwin, Toronto and Montreal.

Host for the national championships, a series of eight weekly programs, is Bill Guest. Production coordinator is Neil Andrews of Toronto. Producer is Jean Mackay.

CBWT-Fine and Dandy

Features singers Danielle Dorice and Brian Terry. Selections include:

Bonsoir
Comment Allez-vous
I'm Available
Boogie
In the Mood
Parapluies de Cherbourg

Nature of Things

The Battle Against Biting Insects. Scientists are working hard to help us conserve the summer energy we waste in swatting insects, such as mosquitoes and flies, that can turn a summer evening into a living hell.

Shows some of the ultra-sophisticated alternatives to swatting such as: unbalancing the insects' nutrition; killing them by ultrasonic or other shock waves; sterilizing the males through ionizing radiation or light flashes; drowning the larvae in traps; or interfering with mating and egg-laying by light, color or electricity.

The Fugitive

Richard Kimble accepts a job as a custodian at a private boys' club and finds his boss is an ex-policeman.

Summer Music Hall

John Davidson is host of a variety show with the emphasis on youth.

Comedy routines include sound-imitator Ken Greenwald describing a 1956 rocket launching and comedian George Carlin presenting a newscast. Also featured is singer Joanie Sommers. To conclude, members of the cast try to up-date Little Red Riding Hood.

CBXT-To Have and to Hold

Mrs. E. M. Barnes, a home economist at the University of Alberta, leads a discussion on the family cycle, management of time and concern for a budget system.

CBWT-Water Wisdom

Part 2 of a three-part series designed to develop an appreciation for boating and related activities. The sailboat is featured this week. Gordon Konantz, co-ordinator for sailing activities for the Pan Am Games discusses basic sailing techniques, illustrated with film coverage of the regatta held at the Lake of the Woods yacht club last summer. A visit to the Pan Am Games trial regatta held at Gimli, Man., on June 25th also is included. To conclude, an interview with Lorne Davies of the department of public works concerning travel on the Red River and the proper use of the locks and the regulations covering their use. Produced by David Waters. Hosts are Maurice Burchell and Phil Reimer.

CBXT—Man from U.N.C.L.E.

Solo and Illya join their boss, Mr. Waverly, in uncovering a THRUSH agent who has infiltrated U.N.C.L.E. headquarters. Elizabeth Allan and Larry Blyden guest-star.

Red Skelton Hour

This week's guests are comedian Stubby Kaye and the Paris Sisters, a vocal trio. In a sketch Clem Kadiddlehopper becomes a candidate for mayor when citizens try to unseat the incumbent. In the Silent Spot, Red portrays an old-time butcher.

Dick Van Dyke Show

Rob and Laura join an art class and guest star Ina Balin plays a seductive teacher who makes no secret of the fact that Rob is her star pupil.

Gideon's Way

The White Rat. Commander Gideon finds himself with a case which has personal implications when he works with Sgt. Taylor, a very old friend before they were separated by Gideon becoming Scotland Yard Chief. The case concerns a neurotic albino crook whose life has always been affected by his looks and who turns to crime to get even with society.

Compass:

Norman Podhoretz

NORMAN PODHORETZ was only 30 when he succeeded the late Eliot Cohen as editor of the magazine Commentary seven years ago. He was then already well known as a literary critic whose work had appeared in most of the leading magazines of the United States, including Commentary. Founded in 1945 by the American Jewish Committee, Commentary is one of America's foremost intellectual journals. Under Podhoretz's stewardship circulation has been rising and the annual deficit decreasing, two objectives which in publishing today it is becoming more and more difficult to achieve.

Chiefly, Commentary is a "liberal" magazine, espousing no particular party line and oriented towards social criticism. Although Podhoretz has a somewhat pessimistic view of American letters (he recently wrote: "... the number of people in this country who can write an acceptable piece of exposition in literate English is astoundingly low"), he has nevertheless managed to present his readers with some of the best writing available. Among his contributors are Edmund Wilson, Lionel Trilling, Saul Bellow, Leslie Fiedler, and Bernard Malamud.

This Sunday night on CBC-TV's Compass (July 10th at 10:00 p.m.) Norman Podhoretz will be seen in conversation with Patrick Watson. The producer is Alex Brown; executive producer, Jim Carney.

Program Notes

JULY 13th

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and add'l program information

CBXT--Playhouse 30

The Life You Save, starring Gene Kelly, Agnes Moorehead and Janice Rule. A weathered old woman attempts to convince an engaging tramp that he should marry her daughter, Lucynell, a beautiful girl of 18, who is deaf and dumb.

Bonnie Prudden Show

Bonnie discusses the young lady who buys an expensive swim-suit, sun-tan lotion, etc., and then never considers going into the water.

Vacation Time

1. A filmed visit to the Children's Own Theatre in Vancouver.

2. A visit to the B.C. Centennial Caravan.

3. Bruno Cimolai goes aboard HMAS Hobart, an Australian missile-carrying destroyer.

4. A visit to Seattle where we see a performance by Namu, the captive killer whale.

5. Bruno Cimolai interviews Ted Griffin, owner of the Seattle public aquarium.

Summer Camp

The Young Jacobites—Episode 3. The Young Jacobite League throws the soldiers into confusion with gunfire and bagpipes and the Prince escapes, but is captured on his way to a French ship.

Mad Movies

Million Dollar Madness. Bob Monkhouse lists four box-office blockbusters: animal stars (meet Snooky, the Chimp), child stars (Shirley Temple and Mickey Rooney), glamour stars (those Sennet Bathing Belles are back) and romantic stars (Ben Turpin at his sexy best). A money spinning quartet.

CBWT--The World of Wooster

A series of plays based on the P. G. Wodehouse stories. Starring Ian Carmichael as Wooster; Tracy Reid as Bobby Wickham; Peter Stephens as Mr. Blumenfeld and Addison Ford as his son.

CBWT--Say When

Ross Dobson is host and moderator as noted challengers from across Canada toss questions at a panel well-versed in various aspects of Canadian history.

Regular panelists are Ed Rensenholt, retired farmer and politician; Jim Chafe, retired school principal and author of history textbooks; and Marilyn Boyle, singer and school teacher. They are joined by a guest panelist. Produced by Don Robertson.

Bob Hope Theatre

The Highest Fall of All. A Hollywood stuntman decides to leap from the Golden Gate Bridge. Robert Q. Lewis is featured as a newspaper reporter and John Willis as a press agent.

The Advocate

A 90-minute adaptation of Robert Noah's play dealing with circumstances surrounding the controversial Sacco-Vanzetti case. In 1920 Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were arrested and charged with murder during a payroll robbery. James Daly stars as an established idealistic Boston lawyer whose reputation is severely challenged when he takes up the defence of the two men following their conviction. From the Broadway production; produced for TV by Westinghouse.

no doubt of their acquittal. Thus, two men died who, in the light of all the traditions of American fairness, should not have died."

The trial itself provided enough sensation. It was held "in a hostile atmosphere," as Oliver Wendell Holmes later said: the foreman of the jury remarked, without even having heard a word of testimony, "Damn them, they ought to hang anyway;" the two defendants were wheeled into court in a closed cage.

After the conviction, a man whose whole life was the law took up the cause of Sacco and Vanzetti, believing that the law had been betrayed. William G. Thompson, who became the two men's chief defence counsel, recent book on the subject, The Speakers. (Repeat).

Hogan's Heroes

Hogan seeks contact with underground fighters operating near Stalag 13, unaware that this apparently pro-Allied group actually is the bait in a trap laid by the Germans.

A Man Called Shenandoah

An army scout locates a deserter with whom Shenandoah once served. (A repeat).

was a corporation lawyer, an officer of the Bar Association, and a highly respected figure in New England. It was he who argued the case before United States Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, speaking with such passion and anguish that Holmes halted him with: "Mr. Thompson, I shall have to ask you to desist because you are persuading me to do what I know I have no right to do." The law has since been changed, so that where Holmes felt there was no case for Federal intervention, today there would be.

In the television play of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, entitled The Advocate, to be telecast Wednesday, July 13th at 9:30 p.m. on CBC-TV, James Daly stars as the defence attorney, Dino Fazio as Vanzetti and Dolph Sweet as Sacco.

CBXT-Playhouse 30

"Hey-Mac," starring Gary Merrill. A sullen, moody boy and his attractive divorced mother both change considerably after a prolonged stay at a fishing lodge.

Bonnie Prudden Show

Bonnie emphasizes the importance of a father to his children and expresses that his time with them, however brief, is most necessary for their physical and emotional well-being.

Vacation Time

1. Eugene Kash and Russ Thomas develop rhythms and musical postcards for their participating audience.

2. Wyn Canty accompanies Jack Pearse in some action songs and games.

Forest Rangers

It takes all the ingenuity of the junior forest rangers to save the old Hudson Bay fort where they have their headquarters. A lumber company owns the fort site and wants to build a new sluice through it.

Outlook

Ballerina. A film portrait of Margaret Mercier, a girl who has achieved what thousands aspire to but seldom attain. A graduate of Sadler's Wells Ballet, prima ballerina of Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, and recently a student of the Bolshoi Ballet, she tells her own story in this film and how she feels about the demands of her art and the dedication and energy that it requires of her. She is shown rehearsing and during her scarce spare time, relaxing in the park, window shopping, and during a quiet evening at home.

Get Smart

Maxwell Smart masquerades as a chauffeur and agent 99 as a rich femme fatale, to trap a KAOS art dealer who is placing exploding art paintings in foreign consulates.

Friday Night Movies

Black Like Me. Starring James Whitmore, Walthor Mason, John Marriot and Clifton James. The true story of John Howard Griffin, a journalist who in order to find what being a Negro in America is really like, darkened his skin with the aid of chemicals so that he could pass as colored. What he discovered when he went to the South changed his whole life, and profoundly altered his ideas, not only about Negroes but about white people.

For Margaret Mercier:

Ballet: The Only Reality

A FILM PORTRAIT of a girl who has achieved what thousands aspire to but few ever realize—ballet stardom—will be presented on TV's Outlook on Friday, July 15th. In this film, made by the NFB in 1963, Margaret Mercier, a small, slender graduate of Sadler's Wells Ballet, and former student of the Bolshoi Ballet, who has been a prima ballerina with Les Grands Ballets Canadiens and is now prima ballerina with the Harkness Ballet Company in New York, tells her story. She describes how she feels about the demands of her art, and the dedication, energy, work and persistence it requires.

Viewers will follow Miss Mercier through her daily routine—practice in the studio with other dancers, rehearsal of roles under the watchful eye of choreographer Madame Ludmilla Chiriaeff, founder and director of Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, and, in the little spare time she has left, taking a few moments for relaxation—a walk in the park, window shopping, and a quiet evening at home.

Miss Mercier is a native Montrealer who began to study ballet when she was seven. From the first it meant sacrifices—she (Please turn to page 31)

Impressions of Modern Ireland. Freelance broadcasters Barbara and Lyal Brown visited Ireland earlier this year. This is the result of their inquiries into current developments, primarily in the Republic of Ireland. Includes interviews with prime minister Sean Lemass; a tinker who gives his impressions of changing times; a professor who talks about the future of the Irish language; and the owner of a pub. Lyal Brown feels that the Irish are a warm, hospitable people who are having difficulties facing up to the hard facts of the future while they live with the ghosts of the past.

What are

Today's Irish People Really Like?

NATURALLY the advertisements, posters, and travel sections of newspapers and magazines all depict Ireland as a green, misty land of picturesque cottages, pretty colleens, Guinness and oysters, horse races and fairs. Naturally. Ireland wouldn't be Ireland without all that. Geographers describe it as "the last outpost of Eurasia against the oceanic depths of the Atlantic" and most people like to think of it as the last outpost of charm and romance against a harsh world.

What is modern Ireland really like? Freelance broadcasters Barbara and Lyal Brown were in Eire and the Northern Counties earlier this year to prepare a special program on the 50th anniversary of the Easter Rebellion. They stayed on to discover more about the people and the country of today. Their Impressions of Modern Ireland will be broadcast this week on the radio series Venture '66 (Sunday, July 10th at 11:03 p.m.).

"To know the Irish people is to like them," says Lyal Brown, "but don't mistake the North American caricature or the popular image of a professional leprechaun for the real thing. The real Irish, a warm, hospitable people, are having difficulties facing up to the hard facts of the future 'while they live with the ghosts of the past'."

Barbara and Lyal Brown's report includes interviews with the Rt. Hon. A. B. D. Faulkner, Minister of Commerce, Northern Ireland, and the Taoiseach (Prime Minister) of the Irish Republic, Sean F. Lemass, both of whom discuss the "two Irelands" and their economic objectives. History was made in Ireland 18 months ago when the political leaders of the South and the North, Lemass and Capt. the Rt. Hon. Terence Marne O'Neill, premier of Ulster, met to discuss Broadcaster Lyal Brown on the site of the destruction of Nelson's Pillar in Dublin.

"the possibilities of practical cooperation in matters of mutual interest." It was the first time official representatives of the two governments had met since the Act of 1920 partitioned Ireland into the 26 counties of the South and the six counties of the North. Lemass talks to Lyal Brown about some of the results of his meeting with Captain O'Neill and about the free trade agreement entered into with Britain when Lemass met with Prime Minister Wilson last December. Canada, too, has an interest in Ireland's economic future. The Tynagh lead-zinc mine in County Galway, which Lemass opened last year, is a $12.5 million investment by a Canadian firm.

Impressions of Modern Ireland presents the views of many ordinary Irish people about the changing times in their country, the current interests of their young people, what life looks like to the owner of a "singing pub," strong talk on freedom of expression, and the future of the Irish language.

The people of Ireland are a mixture of Celtic (Gaelic), Nor-includes Sonata for Unaccompanied Cello, Duo for Violin and Cello, and a number of choral works. Production is by James Kent.

During the intermission Professor Richard Johnston of the faculty of music, University of Toronto, will interview Kodaly. The composer insists that all his wisdom can be reduced to four sentences, but that is one of the most modest understatements of all time, for this brilliant and charming man has helped to recreate Hungary's whole musical language, and his revolutionary theories about educating the young have been widely studied and employed.

"To make serious music more popular, it is necessary to sophisticate audiences," he says. "To do this, start when they are children. Teach them singing first, for free singing without instruments is the school of true and deep musicality. It is better to make musicians before instrumentalists. . . . We teach the children with hand symbols. It is like the sign language for deaf mutes. Using the movable Doh system — fixed Doh is not logical — they rapidly learn to sing any scale step merely by watching the teacher's hand. It's a game to them. They love it. Later they learn to read the notes. Visiting psychologists have told me that the children in those schools where singing is taught daily learn all their studies more easily. Why not? The voice sits in the body. To sing is to stimulate the body and, through the emotions, the mind."

Kodaly himself, to please a musical but cautious family, was educated for a non-musical profession at the University of Budapest, but he also studied piano and violin at the Academy of Music, where fellow students were Erno von Dohnanyi and Bela Bartok. In 1906 Kodaly and Bartok went into the Transylvania hills with a primitive Edison recording machine, tramped through the villages and farmlands by day, slept by campfires and in huts at night, and collected thousands of authentic folksongs and dances which greatly influenced both of them, though Kodaly's work is less radical and more romantic than Bartok's, and he has a special affinity for choral music. (Canadian composer John Beckwith, in doing research for his recent CBC Tuesday Night documentary on Bartok, discovered that the two composers had conducted their field research separately, not together, as has generally been supposed.) That same year he joined the faculty of the Academy, and began to make his presence felt as musical journalist, scholar and composer. In 1949 he gave his name to the Budapest Kodaly Choir, a group of 200 specially trained girls of elementary and secondary school age.

His first wife, Emma, one of the great figures in Hungarian musical life, was 20 years his senior. His present beautiful wife, Sarolta, is 56 years his junior. In spite of his saintly, gentle appearance, Kodaly does not suffer fools or bigots gladly. When Hungary was occupied by Germans he boldly disregarded radio interdicts by helping Jews escape the Nazis, then, when accused of this, freely admitted it and refused to stop. Because of his tremendous popularity with his countrymen, reprisals were withheld. He still refuses to mince words under the Communist regime. Says an admirer: "He has a way of saying sarcastic things that irritate the officials. But he is their pride. For such a small country to have produced two composers like Bartok and Kodaly is extraordinary and they know it. He does and says exactly as he pleases. What can they do? Kodaly is Hungary now." Says Kodaly: "It's very pleasant for an old man to be wanted. I have 30 commissions—more than I could do if I lived to be a hundred. I work very slowly at many things at once. Sometimes an idea comes for one, sometimes for another . . ."

The Killer / Of Mice and Men / Lease of Love

HOW DOES the artist fit into a world full of glowering inhuman electronics? Where, in fact, is any man's place in the machine age with its modern cities, where humans are becoming increasingly like digits in tiny cells stacked skyscrapingly high? French-Romanian dramatist Eugene Ionesco takes a look at this disturbing situation in his play The Killer, an ironic, amusing caricature of the ideal modern city. It's Cohen's Choice for CBC Tuesday Night, July 12th, at 8:05. Nathan Cohen has prepared the adaptation, which will be produced by Gerald Newman in Vancouver.

The Killer marks the first appearance of Ionesco's character Bérenger, a kind, conscientious Chaplinesque Everyman who turns up in three of his later plays. The playwright first developed the idea for The Killer in a short story he called La Photo du Colonel. As the play begins, Bérenger is being shown around a radiant city and is loud in his naïve admiration for all its beauties — everything about it seems perfect, except that there is no happiness there, because each day a mysterious killer has been pushing two or three unsuspecting people into an attractive artificial pond where they meekly oblige by drowning. Apparently nobody is concerned enough to track down the killer, who distracts and unbalances all his victims first by showing them the photo of a colonel. But when Bérenger falls in love with a young girl and learns that she is to be the next victim, he decides that something drastic must be done.

Eventually he comes face to face with the killer, a homicidal idiot, and finds himself powerless to resist him. Is the killer death itself, which even the most perfect of cities is incapable of avoiding? Or are we all killers, carrying our own destruction within ourselves? Like many playwrights, Ionesco is bored with being asked to explain the meaning of his plays. When pressed for an explanation, he's likely to reply: "You know Nabokov? When I asked if his books delivered a message, he said: 'No, I am not a postman'."

A play of quite another ilk, Of Mice and Men, an earthy, allegorical study of itinerant farm hands, and one of the two most famous and sympathetic novels of John Steinbeck, who won the 1962 Nobel Prize for Literature, will be presented on Midweek Theatre on Wednesday night, July 13th, at 9:00, in an adaptation by George Jonas. It's a tragic story of the friendship between two of the most lovable characters in fiction, Lennie, the huge, pathetic, lumbering moron, and his protective partner, George. They are migratory farm workers who cherish a secret dream that someday they may save up enough money to buy a small farm, put down roots, and live a peaceful, independent existence in which Lennie can tend the rabbits and never get into trouble. It's a simple little story with no social flag to wave, but its brilliant characterizations and dramatic tension made it an unforgettable tale, eminently suitable for a play.

There is humor in Steinbeck's writing. There is cruelty. But it is his tenderness that makes him well remembered, and tempers the bitter, the sweet, and the ridiculous of which he writes. Steinbeck looks like a tough, itinerant farm laborer himself, but he's actually a combination of well-read sophisticate and wide-eyed innocent, easily and quickly moved from wild happiness to thunderous rage, highly perceptive, a dreamer in a practical world—like the characters in his books, a little boy reaching for the moon, and sometimes catching a firefly.

Of Mice and Men will be produced by Rupert Caplan in the (Please turn to page 31) man, English, and Scottish stock, and in the South, where most of them live, Irish is the first official language, with English recognized as a second official language. For some time there has been something of a language war going on in the island. Out of the less than 3,000,000 people of the Republic, about 1,000 are Irish monoglots. Probably between 25 and 30 per cent of the people speak Irish and English, and about 60 per cent have enough Irish to get by on general topics. In schools and for employment by the state, Irish is essential. Two years ago a special commission was set up to report to the Government on the Irish language. The aim of the Fianna Fail (government) party is bilingualism. Public opinion surveys have shown that about 80 per cent of the people favor restoration of the Irish language.

Impressions of Modern Ireland is produced by Howard Engel. Executive producer of Venture '66 is Harry J. Boyle. Next week this series will present the first of a two-part program on The Group of Seven, Canada's most famous body of landscape painters.

couldn't skate, play tennis or ride, because these exercises would develop the wrong muscles. She enrolled at the Sadler's Wells Ballet School when she was 12, joined the First Company four years later, and in 1958 returned to Canada to dance with Les Grands Ballets Canadiens for several years, and was also a member of the Robert Joffrey Ballet.

The ballet, she says, is drawn from fairy tales, and yet for her it is the only reality. On stage amid the fluff and tinsel of costumes and sets, under the bright lights with the scent of dust and grease paint in her nostrils, she feels completely at home, accomplishes the purpose of all her years of study, and reaches fulfillment.

As viewers watch her in the role of Cinderella they will be able to share her feeling that she has never been anyone else, and that it is the dance rather than the prince who will always demand her love and allegiance. For any audience wishing to understand ballet and those who devote their lives to it, this film should be a rewarding experience.

When the Messiah Comes. Originally broadcast on April 21st, 1966. "When the Messiah comes, that will be the day when Jews and Christians get together" — an old Yiddish saying. What do Jews, including many prosperous, well-educated, apparently integrated young men and women feel about their place in Canadian society? Written by Earl Berger. Produced by Moses Znaimer.

CONVERSATION PIECE

takes a few pokes at such things as church wealth, anonymous critics, and dispels a few myths about himself, including the one that he really didn't visit all those exotic foreign places he used to write about.

Tuesday's guests (July 12th) will be Peter Franklin White, a star with England's Royal Ballet, and director of the new Ballet British Columbia, which will tour B.C. in the fall; Beth Lockhart, a former dancer, now a ballet teacher, who helped organize the Ballet British Columbia; and Ludmilla Chiriaeff, founder, director and choreographer of Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, in Montreal. Miss Chiriaeff was interviewed in a storage room at her ballet headquarters, among costumes three tiers high, because it was found that the rehearsal rooms were too noisy for an interview. "She's an elegant woman," says Marwick, "and it seemed so incongruous to see her and Pat and me sitting on upended soft-drink cases, surrounded by clouds of tulle, using an old butter-tart cup for an ash tray!"

The guest on Wednesday, July 13th, is Barry Morse, the well-known Canadian stage, TV, film and radio actor, and director of the Shaw Festival at Niagara-on-the-Lake. He talks about how an actor identifies with a role and the affect of this on someone such as Lorne Greene of Bonanza. He tells Miss Patterson about the letters he gets from all sorts of people, asking for solutions to the most personal problems, and the great responsibility of the "hack columnist who can foul up the lives of his correspondents by treating their problems too blithely." He discusses the Shaw Festival and recalls an incident involving Shaw at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, where Morse studied.

The students felt that there were too many dilettantes at RADA, so they went to Shaw for help in drawing up a manifesto to present to the RADA directors with the hope that it might help to weed out some of the poseurs. Shaw lent a witty hand, and later, as a member of the board, sat with a straight face while the manifesto was read, and expressed astonishment at the splendid writing job the boys had done on it!

The July 14th guest (Thursday) will be Dr. Gustave Gingras, the cheerful, amusing and highly dedicated man who heads the Montreal Rehabilitation Institute, which he founded, and who works closely with the Canadian Government on a project for training Thalidomide babies. He was instrumental in bringing the famous Russian prosthetic (electric) arm to Canada. On the program he tells how it works, and also discusses an idea for dealing with problems like Thalidomide babies in the future. It involves a flying squad to go to the bedside of the mothers to help both parents through what is usually a traumatic period as they adjust to their special situation.

Friday's guest (July 15th) will be Alan Jarvis, national director of the Canadian Council of the Arts, and former director of the National Gallery of Canada in Ottawa, who has been a filmmaker, social worker, writer, art critic, and sculptor. When Miss Patterson talked to him he had just returned from a European tour with a small party of people who were tracing the history of Western art. When she asked him if he had any advice for Dr. Jean Boggs, newly appointed director of the National Gallery, he said: "Tell her to buy herself a bullet-proof vest!"

Later guests include ballerina Veronica Tennent, "Honest Ed" Mirvish, Harold Town, Mavor Moore, Herman Geiger-Torel, Alan King, Gratin Gelinas, and Yousuf Karsh.

COUNTRY STYLE, a new country and western variety series produced in Australia and starring the famous Le Garde Twins, was to make its debut on the CBC-TV network, Thursday, July 7th at 5:30 p.m.

Other regulars on the show include Nola Hurst, one of Australia's top country and western singers; The Wagon Wheelers, a team of square dancers who perform exciting routines as arranged by Australia's leading caller, Ron Jones; Mr. Hayseed, a warm country character portrayed by comic George Nichols; and a country and western instrumental group known as The Countrystylers.

Each program features special guests such as singer-instrumen-talist Speedy West and singer Marty Robbins, two of North America's most celebrated country and western stars.

Tom and Ted Le Garde have recently returned to Australia after a successful five years of entertaining in the U.S. and Canada. They appeared with such famous stars as Roy Rogers and Hank Snow and for a considerable time had their own show in Los Angeles.

Identical twins, the Le Gardes were born in Queensland, Australia, and first entered show business singing at country fairs and carnivals. They got their big break when chosen by William Boyd to take part in his Hop-along Cassidy show when it toured Australia.

Sam Mele, manager of the American League All-Stars, will try to even the score when his team meets Walter Alston's National Leaguers in the 37th All-Star Baseball Game.

The series now stands at 18 wins for the NL, 17 for the AL, with one game a tie.

The starting lineup for both teams, except for pitchers, is chosen by major-league players, managers and coaches. The All-Star managers select the balance of the 25-man squads as well as starting pitchers.

This year's game is played at the new Busch Memorial Stadium in St. Louis.
