RYAN ADAMS

Gold (Lost Highway-IDJMG)

Let's face it: breaking up is hard to do, but moving really sucks. Former Whiskeytown frontman Ryan Adams has always worn his bashed-up heart on his sleeve (even going so far to name his last album Heartbreaker), but on his second solo effort, he chronicles the double-pronged blow of splitting from his lover and packing his bags for the smog-coated hills of L.A. Gold is a tribute to starting one life and hesitating to part from another; geography is given as much weight as romance on the first single "New York, New York," a warm yet melancholy rocker meant as a companion piece to the record's still-as-night conclusion, "Goodnight Hollywood Blvd." Gold — a theme loosely based on the color of L.A. at dusk — sparkles with its creator's shaky roots on the West Coast. "Answering Bell" is varnished with a Band-like mural of pedal steel, striking background harmonies and hearty Hammond, while the nine-minute "Nobody Girl" lets a bluesy piano melody dissipate the weight of Adams's seemingly autobiographical trauma until it's as smooth and intangible as the morning mist on the Pacific Ocean. A slow, syrupy pace is Gold's lifeline, allowing one of today's brightest young songwriters to not only scratch the surface of his own pain, but also to contemplate what's next in his wide, wide, confusing world. — Kristy Martin

CHARLIE HUNTER

Songs From The Analog Playground (Blue Note)

Charlie Hunter may be known as the master of the eight-string guitar, but he's always known deep down that the groove's the thing. His latest rhythmic gumbo starts off with "Street Sounds," which sets Mos Def's half-rapped, half-sung vocals against sparkling Latin percussion and little else. Hunter's humble, democratic approach allows him not only to make room for multiple guests (Def, Norah Jones and Galactic's Theryl DeClouet), but also for multiple songwriting voices, including a collaboration with Kurt Elling ("Desert Way"). DeClouet turns the raw blues of Willie Dixon's "Spoonful" into a more mysterious serving of soul, while newcomer Jones makes a name for herself by adding smoky blue notes to Roxy Music's "More Than This" as well as Nick Drake's "Day Is Done." The instrumentals show how good Hunter's gotten at his rubbery fusion of funk, jazz and rock. On "Run For It," he lays down rhythms and leads that flutter like John Medeski keyboard fills, affording sax man Dave Ellis the space to pepper the track with tasty R&B jabs. This cool, diverse romp shows that you'd be hard pressed to find someone leading a jam band with a better mix of skill and taste than Charlie Hunter.

MING AND FS

The Human Condition (Om)

Purveyors of populist hip-hop-flavored beats, Ming And FS (a.k.a. Aaron Albano and Fred Sargolini) have yet to meet a club style they couldn't master. Having created slinky down tempo trip-hop grooves, proven themselves on the turntablist circuit, and dipped their toes in jungle's waters, there's hardly a dance floor- or chillout-room funk that hasn't become a notch on their production belt. And Human Condition, the duo's sophomore full-length, clearly shows how useless genre stereotyping is when it comes to these two. The cuts atop the abstract big beats of "Intro To Life," the house-centric rare groove energy that powers "Some Die" and the schizo rhymes riding the gabba "Head Case" all fall between the categorical cracks. But the album's finest parts not only escape easy tags, they create brave new worlds: "Freak" is an electro number full of vocoderized come-ons that Prince may have made if he had kept up with modern beat architecture; "High Pursuit" is a skittering drum 'n' bass ballad, and the cut-up human beatboxing at the core of "Captain Omray's Mumble Box" is junglistic laptop insanity. Simultaneously, all are songs rather than tracks, utilizing Ming And FS's considerable bag of tricks to broach a style many audiences could fall in love with. — Raspberry Jones

TENACIOUS D

Tenacious D (Epic)

On TV, Tenacious D was a perfect send-up of rock stupidity: two unknowns behaving like they were as big as the Stones, singing about their sexual prowess like they were curing world hunger and treating an empty coffee-house like a sold-out arena. Luckily, the joke translates well on wax; musically, Jack Black and Kyle Gass have made the record that their television alter egos always aspired to, packed with big dopey guitars and lyrics that are so god-awful they're almost brilliant. (A good example from "Explosivo": "We are fueled by Satan, yes we're schooled by Satan/ fueled by Satan!/ writing those tasty riffs just as fast as we can/ schooled by Satan!") Their live show is a two-man acoustic format, but here they've received a full-band makeover from notable superfans like Dave Grohl and Phish keyboardist Page McConnell. The rock clichés are in full effect: "Fuck Her Gently" gets the obligatory extra-cheese string section; "Explosivo" reeks of the 160-bpm punk treatment, and "Double Team" turns into a slinky funk groove courtesy of McConnell's wah-ed out keys. The record doesn't quite do justice to the spontaneous, sublime idiocy of the D's live show, but it's nice to finally have the songs in a format clearer than a covert MP3. — Tom Mallon

GRAND ROYAL CLOSES UP SHOP

Citing “mounting debts, decreasing assets and exceedingly harsh industry conditions,” Grand Royal has announced it is ceasing operations.

R.I.P.

Founded by the Beastie Boys in 1993, Grand Royal was one of the few labels to maintain its independence in the growing conglomeration of the music industry. Beginning with Luscious Jackson’s In Search Of Manny, the label’s roster has included the likes of At The Drive-In (whose Relationship Of Command sold almost 1,000,000 copies worldwide before the band announced a hiatus), Atari Teenage Riot, the Beastie Boys, BS2000, Bran Van 3000, Russell Simins, Scapegoat Wax and Nullset. It’s unclear at this point what will happen to Grand Royal’s current artists.

“This is one of the most difficult decisions we’ve ever had to make,” co-founder Mike D said in a statement. “Over the years the Grand Royal family had grown to include some of the most talented musicians and staff in the business. It’s tragic that the same growth has also produced an overhead and infrastructure that can no longer be viable.”

“Our intentions were always simply to create a home for exciting music and the people who were passionate about it,” Diamond continued. “It really sucks that we can’t continue to do that.”

SYSTEM OF A DOWN NO-SHOW INCITES RIOTING IN L.A.

System Of A Down (with organizational and promotional support by L.A.’s KROQ) was scheduled to play a free show in a Hollywood parking lot on Sept. 3 in support of the release of its forthcoming album, Toxicity (American-Columbia). Instead, the “performing” was done by fans who turned the concert into a speaker-throwing, equipment-thrashing melee.

The parking lot where the concert was supposed to take place had a capacity of 4,000. As with many free shows, approximately twice that number of people showed up at the event and rushed the barricades. Eyewitnesses told CMJ that fire marshals and police decided to shut down the concert but neglected to make an announcement to the crowd. As promoters began to dismantle the huge banner across the stage, hot, tired and angry fans began to chant “bullshit.”

“Within 10 minutes, the first wave of kids closest to the stage started toppling the speaker towers. It sounded like an explosion,” said eyewitness Clarke D., who works for Streetwise Marketing. “Kids rushed the stage, grabbing everything they could get their hands on. They even flipped over the sound console, ripping apart everything they could and throwing it at the guards. They destroyed the speaker towers, the drum kit, guitars... people were walking around with souvenirs.”

DAFT PUNK: ONE MORE (LIMITED) TIME

Virgin plans to release Daft Punk’s first live album for a limited time only. Alive 1997 will be released Nov. 6 and will be available through Dec. 31. The album was recorded during the band’s 1997 “Homework” tour in Birmingham and is a 45-minute non-stop live mix. Sources at the label told CMJ the limited release may be in anticipation of a small U.S. tour.

JUST A BITE...

Vivendi Universal completed its acquisition of MP3.com for $372 million in cash and stock. • Veruca Salt’s Louise Post and Nashville Pussy’s Corey Parks have left Courtney Love’s new punk band, Bastard, citing personality clashes with the singer. Bastard’s debut will be released on Epitaph Records — providing Love can find replacements for Post and Parks. Original guitarist Kat Bjelland, formerly of Babes In Toyland, pulled out soon after the band was formed.

Quarter-Finalists Announced in the Coca-Cola New Music Award Competition

Dick Clark and CMJ Network CEO Bobby Haber have announced the final 10 bands in the Coca-Cola New Music Award competition presented by The American Music Awards. After the live performances, five semi-finalists will be chosen to participate in a college market tour around the country, culminating in a semi-finalist showdown at College Station, TX, where three finalists will be selected. As co-founder of seminal space-rock band Spacemen 3 and the leader of British neo-psychedelic group Spiritualized, both ensembles known for their trademark taking-drugs-to-make-music-to-take-drugs-to-vibe, Jason Pierce (a.k.a. J. Spaceman) has always reveled at the idea of getting maximum sound with a minimalist approach. And as a musical pioneer on the only valuable frontier — the mind and the soul — the choice name of Spiritualized means that which is mysterious is a constant.

“Even before Spacemen 3, the aim was to go further out, not make huge steps, [but] rather to take steps,” says the group’s mastermind Jason. It’s been four years since Spiritualized recorded its last studio album, the majestic Ladies And Gentlemen We Are Floating In Space. Pierce used that time to reconfigure his band and reevaluate his approach to writing music for the new record.

For Ladies And Gentlemen, Pierce and company spent nearly a month in Memphis, where they worked with legendary keyboardist Jim Dickinson. The encounter was like Luke Skywalker meeting Yoda.

That revelation was something he’d chew on for the following months before working on the band’s new effort Let It Come Down (Arista) at the famed Abbey Road studios. Pierce wanted to ensure he could go to new and improved sonic depths without any technological crutches borrowed from the studio. “By doing that I’m in a position that I’m not used to,” Pierce says with a sort of unbridled enthusiasm. “Everything had to stand up; the notes and the words had to stand up. It all had to work in a far greater way than I had done before.”

Taking the breadth of Spiritualized’s epiphany-inducing, gospel-paced droning post-rock and bundling it with corresponding subliminal titles and lyrics, Let It Come Down suggests the album is an equalizer for all the soaring highs the Spaceman and crew have gone through in the last decade. Today, Ladies And Gentlemen We Are Floating In Space stands as a symphonic rock masterpiece as definitive as Sonic Youth’s Daydream Nation or the Flaming Lips’ The Soft Bulletin.

Let It Come Down is hardly a comedown, Pierce says, urging fans and critics not to read too much into his lyrics. “None of it is autobiographical in the way that people so want it to be,” he offers. “When you listen to Ray Charles singing ‘I Can’t Stop Loving You,’ you don’t get this picture of Ray Charles pleading to this mystery third person.”

And what about those inevitable drug references? A new song titled “12 Steps,” the most rocking track on the album, pokes fun at the Alcoholics Anonymous program. “The idea that you can take drugs and do music is out there, it’s just not on. It’s really bad science, isn’t it?” Pierce muses, adding he’s an easy target for the drugs subject because of his musical history. “But it’s like saying the greatest psychedelic music was made by people with frilly shirts. It all goes with the romanticism of rock ‘n’ roll kind of idealism, but there’s so much bad music made by people on drugs.”

COMING DOWN THE MOUNTAIN

Spiritualized frontman Jason Pierce puts the psychedelic pieces back together just in time for a gentle morning after.

Let It Come Down further expands Spaceman's experimentation with orchestral- and gospel-inspired compositions (he even revisits the Spacemen 3 classic "Lord Can You Hear Me?"). He has been writing arrangements for up to 100 musicians, except this time he leaves wide open spaces which will presumably be filled in a live setting.

Pierce says he only authored the orchestrations, but not the parts for key instruments like the bass, guitars or drums. For rehearsals with his current 13-piece band (which includes a six-part horn section), Pierce is ecstatic about the progress they've made so far. "Live, it's getting people to realize how exciting it is to play, but at the same time it's not about your soloing or your ability. It doesn't go into that '70s [pitfall of musicians] getting lost in themselves with the instrument," Pierce explains.

Toward the end of 1998, Spiritualized was trading places with Radiohead as the best rock band on the planet. By 1999, however, things got stormy for the band. According to Pierce, longtime bassist Sean Cook and relative newcomers Mike Mooney and Damon Reece wanted to take a more commercial route, so the frontman doled out pink slips to the trio. Before reassembling the band for Let It Come Down, Pierce asked Cook to come back, but the bassist turned him down outright. Not long afterward, Cook and Co. reappeared on the London rock scene with much fanfare and critical praise for their new band, Lupine Howl, in the process painting Pierce as a hard-assed tyrant in the press.

"I've always seen this as a huge a musical undertaking, pushing as far out as we can, fully aware that we could cash in the whole time," says

Pierce, who recruited the rhythm section from Julian Cope's band to round out the new Spiritualized — much to the pop-rocker's dismay.

Considered a perfectionist by many of his peers, a genius by others, and a slacker by critics (especially during the prolonged period of recording for Let It Come Down), Pierce says he dismisses the band's personal struggles as overblown. "Everyone that's ever worked with me knows that I'm not dictatorial or autocratic," Pierce asserts. "I'm completely the opposite."

A white sheet perfectly draped over a person standing at the center of a gray and white room is the cover image for Let It Come Down. The photo suggests heavenly simplicity, but at the same time it elicits the pang of mystery, two of the keys to understanding the sonic frontiersman.

It's the freedom to interpret the music he writes that has steadily transformed Spiritualized into a rock institution, which is why the cover image works so perfectly with the Spiritualized idea; you could presume that Pierce himself is under the ghostly sheet, but it also suggests a fine art sculpture ready for unveiling — or imagine a top-hat magician walking onstage and pulling the blanket off to show nothing's underneath. It's these multiple interpretations that the Spaceman thrives on.

"Sometimes the message is greater than what's rooted on reality," Pierce says during an instance of static interference on the phone line. Asked to repeat the phrase, he says, "It's not going to be exactly the way I said it before: the message always is far removed than what's actually true." NMR

TORI AMOS

Strange Little Girls (Atlantic)
Women reworking men's songs to make a political statement is no new concept: Exile In Guyville, Liz Phair's 1993 reinterpretation of the Stones' Exile On Main Street, was giddy and innovative enough to corner the market for nearly a decade. Pop pianist Tori Amos, however, isn't just here to cover 12 manly man tunes — she's ready to blow them back into the scalding womb from whence they came. Classics from the likes of The Stranglers, Velvet Underground and Slayer (yes, Slayer. Without guitars.) are translated by Amos as spiritual healer to 13 different female characters (one set being twins), whom she reimagines as narrators. "I Don't Like Mondays" is particularly eerie from a female point of view, considering the recent overdose death of former Boomtown Rat Bob Geldof's ex Paula Yates, while Amos's channeling of the slain wife in Eminem's "'97 Bonnie & Clyde" will chill your blood. Elsewhere, she gives alternately sultry (Lloyd Cole's "Rattlesnakes") and vulnerable ("I'm Not In Love" by 10cc) versions of aging popcraft. Heavy stuff, but the singer's unwavering vision never compromises her art.

BIS

Return To Central (SpinART)
Once upon a time, Scottish trio Bis played hyperkinetic pop with a jagged punk edge only teen angst could fuel. When singer/keyboardist Manda Rin shrilled "Kill Yr Boyfriend" on 1997's This Is Teen-C Power EP, glitter-coated twee boys and grrls from London to Japan finally found their muse. Fast-forward five years, and the duly matured Bis of today would rather make you dance than scream. Return To Central accordingly navigates the gulf between new wave and techno-pop, replacing guitar-driven spasms with a cool, Stereolab-like sophistication. Unlike last year's angrier Music For A Stranger World, the record's overall tone is philosophically downcast. Manda's breathy vocals sift beautifully over the drumbeat-heavy opening track "What You're Afraid Of," while guitarist Sci-Fi Steven recalls early Depeche Mode on "Chicago," a yearning number on which he ponders the travails of a hip nightclub. "Is there some space within a song/ this is where I live, so move me," Manda commands on "Two Million," reminding us that the adult Bis still grasps the spirit of its youth.

CHARLATANS UK

Wonderland (MCA)
Manchester survivors the Charlatans UK have had a few years off since 1999's Us And Us Only, and their seventh album involves an astonishing about-face for the veteran Brit-pop-pers. Harking back to the groin-tickling escapades (sans the decadence) of the Stones circa Some Girls, the soulful, electro-dance-rock of Wonderland is as redefining as Achtung Baby was for U2 — and like that record, will likely introduce the band to scores of new listeners. Expounding love in all its carnal splendor, the Charlatans lead you down a rabbit hole to the euphoric "Love Is The Key," the album's centerpiece and a Motown-inspired devotional featuring frontman Tim Burgess shifting his voice from soothing purr to a falsetto that cues female gospel singers for a Top 40-worthy chorus. Here the group's electronic interests are more cerebral and elaborate than they've been on past albums, successfully underpinning the Charlies' signature Hammond lines and Mark Collins's buzzing guitars, as on the sparkling ballad "And If I Fall." Alice would definitely dig this Wonderland.

DJ SPOOKY

(That Subliminal Kid)
Under The Influence

(Six Degrees)
One of the most forward-looking DJs around, Spooky is seldom less than overt in his attempts to push the boundaries of electronic music. As the first in a series of albums where influential DJs reveal personal favorites and tracks that inspire their work, Under The Influence shows what makes the Kid tick. Twenty-six tracks roll by in 73 minutes, leading one to wonder if dancers would be tied in knots trying to get their groove on listening to this set. Big-name electronic artists like Moby and Mix Master Mike — along with hip-hopper Kool Keith and even Sonic Youth — are all pulled from Spooky's eclectic crate of records. The man even spins a few of his own joints (an interesting electro-ska groove soundclash between himself and Dub Pistols on "Peace In Zaire Mix (Dub Pistols Inna NYC Style)"), reminding us that he's never been shy about flaunting himself or his talent. Though Spooky's supposedly showing us where he's coming from, Under The Influence really shows us where he's at, and it's a strange and interesting place definitely worth a visit.

Echolocation (Perishable)
Leave it to Chicago's experimental jet set to adapt traditional country instruments to modern music and recording techniques. Like Califone, which shares members with this upstart outfit, Fruit Bats litter their songs with banjos, fiddles and pedal steel — even though their back porches look out on a landscape of brick apartment buildings and warehouses. Alpha Fruit Bat Eric Johnson sounds too studied, his band too artful, to call this a hootenanny. Instead, songs like the minimalist "Strange Little Neck Of The Woods" and banjo ditty "Glass In Your Feet" build on indie-rock guitar riffs and intellectual curiosity, with Johnson expressing a fascination with nature that paints him as more an environmental musicologist than a guy who's come in from the fields to pick at his banjo (how else to explain a line like "fireflies like remoras sticking to the skin/ lighting up the sky," from "Buffalo & Deer"?). But he and his friends are obviously having fun, and the recording stays crisp even amid the clamor of "Echolocation Stomp."

HERBIE HANCOCK

Future 2 Future (Transparent)
Much like his ex-boss Miles Davis, keyboardist Herbie Hancock has reinvented himself many times over the years, both in the jazz and pop realms. Future 2 Future revisits Hancock's electronic dance/hip-hop leanings 20 years after his MTV hit "Rockit." Here Hancock is again working with Bill Laswell, and the two create a modern amalgamation that's in the same spirit as their original collaboration, albeit nicely updated: jazz legends Hancock, Wayne Shorter and drummer Jack DeJohnette lay down dance floor-friendly jams with help from Carl Craig, Rob Swift and even Chaka Khan. While Laswell does his best to make every track different, from the chillout down tempo of "Alphabeta" to the hyperactive drum 'n' bass of "Black Gravity," Hancock's elegant electric keyboards provide warm textures, soaring melodies and, more than anything else, a unique overall identity. In lesser hands all this gadgetry and varied roster would come off as soulless or, even worse, as a desperate grasp at modern relevance; instead, Hancock makes another grand statement.

JAMIROQUAI

2001: A Funk Odyssey (Epic)
Not so long ago, from a galaxy very close to ours, funk crusader Jay Kay landed on this planet in the wake of grunge's demise. Jamiroquai frontman Kay's Stevie Wonder-like vocals made people dance to soulful, acid jazz/disco-funk with uplifting lyrics. It's been nearly a decade since Jamiroquai brought its cosmic funk message of Earth consciousness, and on 2001: A Funk Odyssey, the Mothership-connected Brits are back with another dose of ass-shaking, heart-massaging funk. In tune with the idealistic mindset of 1999's Synkronized — as well as Kubrick's big-picture view on existence — Odyssey works as the perfect mixed tape to snap your fingers to on your way to another universe. On the bossa nova-propelled "Corner Of The Earth," Jamiroquai himself journeys to the Brazilian rainforest, then back to a local park to bring it all home, while "Little L" fuels its thrusters with analog synths and utilizes a string section to oxygenate the pulsing disco rhythm. Definitely music to make your moon boots glow.

JJ72

JJ72 (Lakota-Columbia-CRG)
The hype around Ireland's JJ72 has pinned it to bands like Radiohead and Sigur Rós, which isn't entirely inaccurate since the youthful trio does traffic in swirling guitar effects and aching falsettos. But the band's song structures are more tightly reined than Sigur Rós's, and the trajectory of their self-titled debut is a lot more predictable than a Radiohead comparison would hint at. Singer/guitarist Mark Greaney has a strong, high-pitched vocal style, but it's closest in scope to Placebo's Brian Molko, meaning it straddles that fine line between being endearingly passionate and annoyingly nasal. Tracks like "October Swimmer" and "Oxygen" illustrate the band's m.o. most effectively, plotting melancholy chords and simple rhythms under Greaney's keening alto; these are catchy, graceful modern rock songs. However, there's an overall static dynamic to JJ72 that restricts the album's possibilities; there are some bugs to be worked out of the group's approach (most of them caused by inexperience, not lack of talent) but the debut shows undeniable promise. — Nicole Keiper

LAMBCHOP

Tools In The Dryer (Merge)
Lambchop's seemingly refined country-pop veneer has always masked a wildly diverse array of musical influences, so it comes as no surprise that Tools In The Dryer — a collection of singles, B-sides, remixes and live tracks spanning the Nashville group's decade-long output — is so bewilderingly all over the map. Late-'80s home recordings ("All Over The World," "Style Monkeys") expose the embryonic Lambchop as willfully ramshackle, idiosyncratic indie popsters; remixes of Curtis Mayfield's "Give Me Your Love" and the 'Chop's own "Up With People" remake them as velveteen '70s disco-soul shakers. Early Merge A-side "Whitey," with its watery pedal steel and soft congas, hints at the band's latter-period chamber-pop lushness, while a cover of Vic Chesnutt's "Miss Prissy" nicely matches the songwriter's eccentric lyrics with Kurt Wagner's equally cracked vocal persona. There are plenty of throwaway moments here, but enough standout oddities and fan must-haves to encourage plenty of playful track sampling.

SEASON TO RISK

Shattering
(Owned & Operated)

Season To Risk has always been one of those bands that never sacrificed smarts and angular rock for the sake of its meat 'n' potatoes muscularity. In fact, the quintet somehow achieves the perfect (albeit delicate) balance between the two. Despite bouncing around from label to label over the course of its existence, Shattering is Season To Risk at its finest, doling out maximum dosages of squalling distortion, rumbling basslines and post-core rock 'n' roll abandon. While the abrasive Shattering undeniably sounds like it came from the early 90s (former Babes In Toyland nemesis Kat Bjelland even lends her yesteryear shriek to "Or Highwater") with its unpolished, yet thoroughly skull-hammering abundance of clattering guitars, the choppy, stop-start riffs give the album its extremely current edge. In fact, Shattering's turbulent tunes, like "Ace Of Space," "Spasser," and "Mono Fuego" could arguably be considered "metal" for recovering indie rockers. Here's to the future.

SUPERCHUNK

Here's To Shutting Up (Merge)
From the moment opener "Late Century Dream" reels out its shuffling drums and dreamy keyboard melody, it's clear that Superchunk is looking to update its dyed-in-the-wool seminal indie sound. Famous for putting Chapel Hill, North Carolina on the musical map with D.I.Y. ethics and unique punk-pop, the quartet has continually tinkered with its signature sound during its lengthy stint as the kings of indie angst. But unlike raw classics such as "Slack Motherfucker," the songs here are more reserved and polished, incorporating elements like strings and pedal steel into the mix. Superchunk's attempt to diversify is successful: "Phone Sex" is a country romp that takes a decidedly pop turn; "What Do You Look Forward To?" lurches along with seven delicious minutes of moody keyboards and acoustic guitar; and "Drool Collection" has an atypically funky lounge vibe. The veterans still have the most fun with straight-up rock, however; "Rainy Streets" and "Out On The Wing" bounce along with the huge hooks and power chords that have come to define the Superchunk sound. — Alex Naidus

VUE

Find Your Home (Sub Pop)

If San Francisco's Vue was a whiskey, it'd be the special top-shelf bottle you save for the night your car dies, your lover takes the midnight train to Detroit and your only phone calls are from a nasty, evil woman named Sallie Mae. Singer/guitarist Rex Shelverton clashes into each bluesy rawk nugget like a hungry child, stirring up waves of sickly, feverish longing while keyboardist Jessica Graves quenches the pain with drilling organ riffs. You're tired of Stooges knockoffs under the age of 30? "People On The Stairs" is a writhing, upbeat smoker that could give any Dee-troit young 'uns cause for pause, and if that ain't enough, Shelverton's wolverine yowls on "You Can Take Her Now" could give even Iggy the shivers. Vue knows when to hold back, tempting listeners with tasty backward samples ("Miss Fletcher Blues") and road trip-ready thumpers ("Hitchhiking") only to sate the panting masses with stellar late-night balladry ("We've Already Got Our Minds Made Up For You"). Open up the bar and get ready for a heavy pour. — Kristy Martin

DEFTONES BASSIST CHI CHENG SPORTS A DAZZLING NEW 'DO

Deftones (my second favorite band of all time; I love them as much as I love Mountain Dew Code Red, which is diabetes in a bottle) and Godsmack are on tour, with Fred Durst's A&R find Puddle Of Mudd opening. I attended the Holmdel, New Jersey event at the PNC Bank Arts Center on Aug. 29. The biggest shock of the evening? 'Tones bassist, the affable Chi Cheng, lopped off his dreads, which used to hang all the way down to his rump. I thought the Sacto crew got a new bassist, but it was definitely Cheng sporting the spiffy new 'do.

I "heard" POM as I was walking to my seat. This band is about to make an active rock splash like a Godzilla-caused tsunami wiping out Tokyo. Everyone loves that "I like the way you smack my ass" song. (It's actually called "Control" and it's the lead single. Thank Durst.)

Now, I can understand the rationale for putting the Deftones on tour with Godsmack from a label/management perspective: to increase the 'Tones fanbase. Well, most of the passive-sheep Godsmack fans were in the parking lot tailgating, wearing T-shirts emblazoned with Sully Erna's face, drinking beers and listening to Godsmack instead of being music fans and checking out the main support band. Read: this is not by any means a diss on Godsmack. Chino Moreno was in outerspace during his performance, changing lyrics and running around like his ass was on fire; he's got such charisma. They didn't treat the crowd to any Weezer this time out, but instead broke into "Clint Eastwood" by the Gorillaz. Leave it to Chino and his cronies to mix shit up on unsuspecting fans.

Godsmack's stage setup was eye-catching. There was fire, faux stone walls and menacing gargoyles peering overhead, while the music was deafeningly loud. The encore consisted of "Voodoo" and the megasmash "Whatever." I'd like to ride Harleys with Erna and the boys sometime soon.

Thanks to Neiman and Gary (Music Choice), Chris (WJSE), Jen (WSOU), Irene (Sanctuary) and Jessica (Universal) for enjoying the rock-o-rama with me. Also, I finally got to peep some pics of Neiman's beautiful four-month-old Aries daughter, Ava Skye. She's a precious little gem.

Dope's Life (Flip-Epic) has landed on my desk. Due on Hell Night, Dope sounds less like Marilyn Manson this time out. • Spitfire has signed Apocalyptica, the classical metal band that achieved notoriety for its symphonic covers of Metallica. The band will release Cult in early November. • Sevendust played the metro New York City area for the first time in nearly a year. Lajon Witherspoon may have gotten a little potbelly while at home recording Animosity, but we're sure he'll get back in wash-board form once he hits the road. The guys played two or three new songs and it felt like 10-ton bricks were falling from the ceiling at the Birch Hill in New Jersey. • The Wetlands' days of hosting shows are numbered, but the tiny club was teeming with hardcore fans on a sweltering Tuesday recently. 40 Below Summer opened, with Chimaira, Ill Niño and Factory 81 rounding out the bill. Chimaira is quite possibly one of Roadrunner's heaviest bands in ages. The six-man sonic sorcery is almost too much to take in one sitting. The EP, This Present Darkness (East Coast Empire), sold 10,000 copies. Chimaira's improved songwriting multiplied by its untouchable stage presence, and added to Roadrunner's industry support equals Pass Out Of Existence rocketing to the stars.

AT RADIO NOW

VARIOUS ARTISTS: Ozzfest 2001: The Second Millennium (Epic): Culled from this year's annual summer trek. The pick of the litter: Black Sabbath's "The Wizard," Black Label Society's "Super Terrorizer," Hatebreed's "Last Breath," Nonpoint's "What A Day," and American Head Charge's "Reach And Touch."

LOST PROPHETS: Lost Prophets (EP) (Columbia): Columbia's newest baby band has visions of Incubus, Faith No More and Deftones dancing in its British head. It's the nasal Mike Patton-style vocals that sound so familiar! The bidding battle got bloody over this band, with Sony winning the war. This EP, featuring "Shinobi Vs. Dragon Ninja" and "Five Is A Four Letter Word" should tide you over till The Fake Sound Of Progress hits your desk in the fall.

SONATA ARCTICA: Silence (Century Media): Finnish power metal that — don't laugh — reminded me of a power metal version of Europe. This one will give you more keyboard bangs for your buck. I can see it easily landing into maximum spin rotation at WNEW, KSAN or WRKC.

KITTIE: Oracle 3 Song Sampler (Artemis): Artemis promotions expert Smitty dropped by the CMJ compound to play me some songs that don't appear on the sampler landing on your desks. I thoroughly dug "Mouthful Of Poison" and the cover of Pink Floyd's "Run Like Hell." Leave it to Kittie to up the angry ante on their sophomore record. It's 10 times heavier than Spit. Frontwoman Morgan Lander's molten vocals rip and claw at your flesh, but she also makes use of a dainty and actually pretty singing voice. "What I've Always Wanted," "Pain" and "No Name" are on your sampler, and are sure to reduce your speaker cones to little more than a pile of dust.

CRUCIAL SPINS UPDATE

WUEV/Evansville, IL has a new loud rock director. Taking over the reigns is Henrik Rutmersmown, who can be reached via email at wuevcloudrock@hotmail.com. • Darby from KBER/Salt Lake City, UT has a new email address: darby@kaos101.com. • WVCC/Galesburg, IL, the leading source station for Midwestern metal, is back from summer vacay, and Matt "Rock" Anderson has resumed reporting the hardest rock in the cornfields.

SLAYER

God Hates Us All

(American/IDJMG)

Fuckin' Slayer. Slayer hates you. Slayer hates me. Slayer hates us all. Sample lyric: "God hates us all/ yeah, he fucking hates me / I hate everyone equally." But doesn't it feel good to be the subject of such loathsome contempt? It also feels good to bang your head 'till it snaps off to the put-a-smile-on-Satan's face riff and pummeling percussion that accompany such lyrical deadpanning. Slayer needs no window dressing; these are the gods of thrash, metal and thrash metal. God Hates Us All is on par with Reign In Blood. Yes, you read right, no need to adjust your eyeglasses. Slayer isn't trying to compete with the new metal bands here. There's no bounce-per-ounce, no mall-happy grooves, no gimmicks. Just blood-soaked M-E-T-A-L. Kerry King manipulates his fretboard and strings with enough force to give himself an instant stroke, while Tom Araya's squelching scream will make your knees buckle in fear. Fuckin' Slayer is still questioning everything holy (um, duh) and making music that your pastor warned you about. Throw that Bible in a bonfire with "Disciple," "God Send Death" and "Bloodline." Oh, and thank the metal regime in Hades for keeping Pantera, Slayer and Testament alive in 2001.

MACHINE HEAD

Supercharger (Roadrunner)

In terms of modern thrash, it doesn't get much better than Machine Head's back-to-back masterpieces, 1994's Burn My Eyes and 1997's The More Things Change... True metal fans could not help but smile 'n' mosh to lines like "Let freedom ring with a shotgun blast" and the subsequent breakdown on the anthem

"Davidian." As much as we love Robb Flynn (and his pre-Machine Head work in the almost legendary Vio-Lence), he fumbled the ball with the rap parts that marred 1999's Ross Robinson-produced The Burning Red. Flynn and his lackeys got their mojo back with the Johnny K.-produced Supercharger, which is 100 percent trend-free. Slower than Slayer and more commercially accessible than Testament, Machine Head is mid-tempo thrash fueled by Flynn's alternately vinegary and melodic vocals. While we couldn't find a throat grabber (like 1997's "Ten Ton Hammer" or "Take My Scars"), Supercharger is Machine Head at its most mature. Plug in and put it on max to "Crashing Around You" and "American High."

SOIL

Scars (J)

Soil, where you been all my rock 'n' roll life? Nevermind, you're here now and Scars grabs me by the collar and shakes me all night long. When you listen to Soil, you'll feel like you've got a blood and sweat-soaked ringside seat to a Clutch and Entombed death match. Frontman Ryan McCombs ravages his voicebox like Neil Fallon suffering from a raging case of a Layne Staley complex. Although Soil hails from the Windy City, Scars is untainted rock 'n' roll that travels a dirty, dusty Southern rock path like a truck driver on a deadline. "Halo," "Wide Open" and "Breaking Me Down" are ripe, sweet,

AKERCOCKE

Goat Of Mendes (Peaceville)

Akercocke actually has a record called Rape Of The Bastard Nazarene. I'll give three guesses as to which school of spiritual thought these Brits subscribe to, and the first two don't count. You don't need to join Satan's Mensa Society to realize that Akercocke is an abomination to Christianity. Paying homage to Ole Scratch in such a passionate fashion that would make Anton LaVey feel like an altar boy, the death metal residing on Goat Of Mendes is, pardon the pun, ungodly fast and benefits from non-production — making seminal black metal acts Burzum and Darkthrone Akercocke's closest ancestors. You wanna commit godless acts against humanity and burn in hell? Fine. We're just here to let you know that Goat Of Mendes will be blaring from Satan's speakers when you arrive. Smear the blood of the newborn with "Of Menstrual Blood And Semen," "He Is Risen" and "Fortune My Foe."

MOONSPELL

Darkness And Hope

(Century Media)

If Peter Steele quit Type O Negative, joined those semi-evil German freaks in Rammstein and moved to Portugal, the band would unseat Moonspell as the gothiest metal band in Europe. Darkness And Hope runs synths and samples throughout a la Type O; meanwhile frontman

Fernando Ribiero speak-sings in a tone so menacing that he could be singing "I love puppies" and it would still sound ominous and haunting. Darkness And Hope is gothy, somewhat slow, yet always theatrical and highbrow.

URSULA RUCKER

Supa Sista (!K7)

Philly's spoken word queen Ursula Rucker — boasting work on three Roots albums as well as appearances on 4 Hero and King Britt albums — makes a big splash with her debut album, a gently spoken but biting series of 11 cuts. The album's music is minimal, click-track soul for the most part, occasionally broadened by a fuller band (especially on the "here's-what's-wrong-with-black-music" track "What???" which features some nice drum 'n' bass flavors). But Supa Sista is about words. Rucker's delivery is hypnotic, soothing and always conveys her point just right, whether she's more direct (as on the cautionary internet tale "Digichant" and the love had/love lost reminisces of "7") or more abstract and poetic (the tear-jerking tale "Song For Billy"; love/hate battles on "1 Million Ways To Burn"; and the sad, powerful, up-from-slavery recollections on "Brown Boy"). Wise beyond her years, Rucker has a storytelling gift that puts most rappers out there to shame.

PHOENIX AND THE SHADOW

Get 'Em (EP) (Phoenix And The Shadow)

Maybe once a year a record hits your mailbox out of the blue that completely knocks you on your ass. This EP by Brooklyn's Phoenix And The Shadow (lyricists Voodoo Fe' and Taron Benson) is that record, imbued with undeniable old-school vibes and refreshing next-school vision. Comprised of nine tracks (plus an excellent remix of "When I'm Drunk"), each cut displays such range and skill that it brings a smile to your face. Voodoo Fe' is less-serious but not frivolous, usually working in a flow that mixes Busta Rhymes with either Red Rat or Beanie Man, killing it equally, fast or slow. Benson is one of the dopest and strongest female MCs out there, right along with Rah Digga, old-school Latifah and Lyte. Recommended cuts: the drum'n'bass deepness of "Get 'Em"; the funny recollections of "Sex"; the fast, kinetic "We Do" and the cool sexy groover "Push Push."

ROOTS MANUVA

"Witness (1 Hope)" (12") (Big Dada-Ninja Tune)

Roots Manuva comes back very strong with a new sophomore album, Run Come Save Me, and a brutally catchy new single, courtesy of producer Lord Gosh. Manuva works his Jamaican steez into both his lyrics and his flow, rocking lines like "esoteric quotes, most frightening / duppy [Jamaican ghost/spirit] took a hold of my hand / while I was writing." And on the b-side: the goofy, jumpy and live-horn driven "Son Of The Soil," rocked with an even heavier Jamaican accent, will keep the club jumpin' 'til the last thump sounds.

RICHIE HAWTIN

DE9: Closer To The Edit (M_nus-Mute)

As always, Canadian techno guru Richie Hawtin remains far ahead of the pack, pushing his music — hell, his entire genre — in directions few members of the DJ community even realize as possibilities. Following the technological innovation wielded on 1999's Decks, EFX & 909 mix, the master of minimalist techno ups his own ante with DE9: Closer To The Edit. It's a wicked 31-track mix that uses the recently designed DJ software known as Final Scratch to mix MP3s of tracks created by slicing, dicing and reconfiguring tracks from artists such as Theorem, Basic Channel and Thomas Brinkmann into a distinctive set of stark and subdued space-age funk. Using separate elements from each song to create entirely new arrangements (for example, an ambient melody of one track is layered over the kick-drum and bass riff of another), track listings become moot. Though it's not quite as punchy as Deck, EFX & 909, the overall ambition of the endeavor is awe-inspiring, forecasting the future more clearly than any other album this year.

NEW ORDER

"Crystal" (12") (Reprise)

The godfathers of techno return after an eight-year hiatus with this triumphant first single from their forthcoming full-length, Get Ready. Drawing upon Bernard Sumner's frail vocal refrain and the moody demeanor of the guitar-fueled original, a trio of remixers give the energetic cut the once over on the double-pack 12-inch. Bedrock (John Digweed and Nick Muir), usually the master of the dance floor, falls a bit short of the goal with this mix; the lackluster cut falls prey to all the clichés of Bedrock's current progressive house formula without infusing any inspiration into the program. Lee Combs does the cut one better with his funk-fueled breakbeat interpretation, but producers-of-the-moment, New York's John Creamer and Stephane K, do "Crystal" the most justice with their deep, brooding, yet surprisingly minimal mix of aquatic house hues.

DJ DAN

In Stereo (Kinetic)

The king of West Coast house marks his first mix for Kinetic Records with a collection of funky techno and disco-minded hard house tunes designed for little more than getting your ass moving on the floor. Highlighted by standout cuts such as DJ Gordon's wah-wah beast "Moonshine Boogie," Junior Sanchez and Christian Smith's commanding "Slave Beat," and DJ Dan's own techno-tinged creation, "Get Up," the mix finds the rave veteran as true to form and on his game as he was during his heyday in the early '90s. Though his funky breaks may-hem is a thing of the past, Dan injects his soulful, James Brown-inspired vibes into the realm of house and techno, keeping the ride bumpy enough for ardent fans of the old school.

On Control Machete's 1999 Grammy-nominated release

Artilería Pesada, Presente, the trio invited Cuban music legends Orlando Cachaito López and Ruben González to perform on one of the most innovative hip-hop tracks in years, "Danzón." The song integrated live orchestration of Afro-Cuban music's percolating rhythms to Control Machete's growling rap approach. Although it was largely ignored by American audiences, the song brought awareness to an exploding trend in Latin hip-hop.

Havana rappers have experimented with rhyming over Cuban dance forms as early as the '70s, but hip-hop DJs throwing big beats over Cuban son emerged only in the past five years. Cuban transplants Orishas became the main purveyors of such a union, debuting with the aptly named A Lo Cubano on Surco/Universal Latino from the Paris nightclub scene. The group organically fuses American West Coast hip-hop and son cubano with Cuban-barrio/immigrant-centric lyrics.

An amazing reworking of Compay Segundo's classic "Chan Chan" became an instant hit among critical circles. And as much acclaim as the Paris-Havana trio has received, it will likely be joined by a cadre of compatriots. The most startling compilation to illustrate this is The Cuban Hip-Hop All Stars Vol. 1 (reviewed below).

Recorded at the Silvio Rodriguez-owned Abdala Studios in Havana, All Stars Vol. 1 contains a collection of tracks by Havana's most promising and representative rap groups. Expressing rage against the U.S. trade embargo, unleashing prideful cheers for standing up to the powerful yanquis and giving shoutouts to Nelson Mandela, the collective comprises: Reyes De La Calle, Hermanos De La Causa, Explosion Suprema, Alto Y Bajo, Bajo Mundo, Anonimo

Consejo, Quarto Imagen, Junior Clan Y Grande Ligas, Obsesión, Justicia, 100% (as in Cien Por ciento), and Instinto.

The collective was licensed by fledgling indie label Papaya Records, run by the same folks as Airtech.com and 420tours.com — the producers of the Cannabis Cup. With an aggressive promotion campaign leading to the right amount of key media, including college radio, this compilation is already making a big enough buzz that it could handily dethrone Orishas as the only purveyors of Cuban hip-hop. For more info, email info@papayarecords.com or call 212.279.7000 ext. 301.

VARIOUS ARTISTS The Cuban Hip-Hop All Stars Vol. 1 (Papaya Records)

Because of its accessibility and spoken-word clarity, rap music has become the most radical music in Cuba — in sound and lyrics. In 2000, the hip-hop world got a well-rounded glimpse at the future sound of Cuba through Orishas, but this inventive quartet (which includes a traditional crooner as well as two MCs) is based in Paris; and as close to their hearts Havana may be, nothing beats being there. That's what The Cuban Hip-Hop All Stars Vol. 1 proposes, and the result is one of the best compilations coming from the alternative Spanish-speaking world all year. A collection of Havana's most influential and innovative rap groups produced by the island's foremost genre authority Pablo Herrera, All Stars Vol. 1 is an invigorating mix of the mutating hip-hop styles of the Caribbean Communist hold-out nation, and may just prove to be the hip-hop equivalent of the Buena Vista Social Club. With "Kirino Con Su Tres," the all-female group Instinto lays down a singing-rap over a phat bass line and Cuban jazz piano riff that carries its lineage to timba frontiersmen Los Van Van. "Habana Site Underground" by Alto Y Bajo fuses the beat of warped horns, dreamy string orchestration and occasional acoustic guitar strumming with Cypress Hill-like choppy raps about Cuban hip-hop represented worldwide. And on "El Vagabundo," veteran trio Bajo Mundo use a Bach fugue to rap about the Cuban exodus to Miami in the '80s, looking down on the ex-pats caught in the gun-and-coke Scarface experience. Each one of the 11 artists collected here offers a distinct and innovative sound, and the All Stars Vol. 1 should open the doors for individual work to come.

With the imminent release of the hot new Acoustic Machine, the Vandermark 5 is hitting the road to take its brand of jazz gospel out to the people,

St. Germain's Ludovic Navarre

parishioners and jazz fans. The band will do a record release party in its hometown of Chicago (Sept. 18 at the Empty Bottle) then departs for points east, playing 15 dates that stretch from Cleveland to Vermont to New Orleans. For more information, go to the Atavistic label website (www.atavistic.com) • St. Germain has yet another North American tour planned. Set to begin Oct. 2 in Montreal and running until Oct. 20, the 14-date tour will crisscross the Northern U.S. and Canada. This is St. Germain's third North American tour in the last 10 months; guess no one will say that the French group has been sitting on its laurels since hitting the big time with the release of last year's Tourist.

VANDERMARK 5

Acoustic Machine (Atavistic)
The cornerstone of Ken Vandermark's busy career is undoubtedly the Vandermark 5, a band with a strong ensemble chemistry fueled by Vandermark's most stunning, original and accessible compositions. As with the V5's four previous efforts, the band swings post-bop grooves on the broad shoulders of drummer Tim Mulvenna and bassist Kent Kessler as the three horn players play dark, noirish heads suitable for detective shows or as a loving update of Charles Mingus's own special blend of tradition and imagination. All five musicians solo throughout, with Vandermark almost too generously sharing the solo spotlight as his gifted team plays in various configurations and takes the tunes in unexpected directions. While none of this is new, what is unexpected is the all-acoustic presentation (no electric guitar from trombonist Jeb Bishop this time) and a series of five contemplative interludes. It adds up to another fine installment from this gifted leader well on his way to a storied career.

ROY HAYNES

Birds Of A Feather – A Tribute To Charlie Parker (Dreyfus)
If anybody among today's active jazzmen is going to do a Charlie Parker tribute, it should be drummer Roy Haynes, a man who actually played with Bird. The material here is a mix of tunes of varying importance ("Ah Leu Cha" and "Barbados" both get fresh and interesting readings) as well as ones Parker made his own ("What's This Thing Called Love" and "April In Paris"). Haynes is joined by the cream of the current crop — with Kenny Garrett getting the unenviable task of playing alto here — and the quintet cruises along on the strength of the 76-year-old Haynes's still-incredible chops. The band responds with equal vitality, making this a great idea that's well-executed.

JAMES BLOOD ULMER

Memphis Blood: The Sun Sessions (Label M)
Guitarist James Blood Ulmer is remarkably successful at remaking himself as a bluesman, having spent much of the last three decades playing Ornette Coleman-inspired free jazz. While the fit may sound forced, Ulmer actually grew up listening to the blues; even in his later years, there is never a doubt that he was deeply influenced by Jimi Hendrix, a player who knew something about fiery improvisation and deconstructing the blues form. The tunes here are blues classics lovingly recorded at the legendary Sun Studios by guitarist Vernon Reid. Ulmer's voice ain't great, but it is convincing, and his guitar playing subtly pushes the stylistic envelope.

Turkish folk musician Biröl Topaloglu, who just released Best Of Heyamo And Aravani (7/8 Music), will be undertaking his first U.S. tour with the Laz Ensemble this fall. The trek begins Oct. 27 in Los Angeles and wraps Nov. 16 in New York City.

Pierre Imbert, one of the key figures behind the revival of the hurdy-gurdy and French traditional music during the '70s, died of a heart attack on Aug. 15 in Vancouver, British Columbia, where he'd lived for several years. A former member of seminal Canadian ensembles Ad Vielle Qui Pourra and Lo Jai, he'd most recently been a performer with Cordes En Folie.

ARC Music, the seminal world music label founded in Germany by Horst Tubbesing, will celebrate its 25th anniversary in November. Since releasing its first album of Bolivian music in 1976, ARC has put out more than 540 records covering all manner of folk and ethnic music, with worldwide distribution.

The Fourth Annual Native American Music Awards will be held Oct. 20 in Albuquerque, New Mexico. Among the nominees for multiple awards are Joanne Shenandoah, Robert Mirabal, Indigenous, R. Carlos Nakai Quartet and Annie Humphrey. Winners will be determined through membership ballots and a national voting campaign open to the general public.

Remarkable young Galician piper Susana Sevaine is currently touring North America, kicking off Sept. 15 at the Chicago Celtic Festival and ending with three days at the Celtic Colours Festival in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia.

The Latin Grammy Hall Of Fame has inducted its first 17 recordings. The initial honorees include "The Girl From Ipanema" by Antonio Carlos Jobim, Santana's "Oye Como Va," Astor Piazzolla's "Adios Nonino" and João Gilberto's "Chega Da Saudade."

Recordings have to be at least 25 years old to qualify.

Tuatara, the world-influenced band that includes R.E.M.'s Peter Buck and Screaming Trees stickman Barrett Martin, is set to release its third album, Cinematique, later this month. The album will appear on Martin's as-yet-unnamed label and will be followed by a North American tour. Both of the group's previous releases have been on Epic.

Peter Buck

Hakim, the young Egyptian singer whose American debut Yahoo! mixed traditional sha'bi music with modern sounds and beats, is set to release The Lion Roars: Live in Brooklyn, which was recorded during his U.S. tour earlier this year. The album will come out on Mondo Melodia in October. Also on tap is Want Some Freedom, a compilation of tracks by the African Brothers, a legendary '70s trio from Jamaica that included a young Sugar Minott (whose 1979-86 hits were recently collected on Rare Gems). Most of the African Brothers tracks have not been previously released.

DANCEHALL MOVES TO THE SOUND OF A MORE CONSCIOUS BEAT

For well over a decade, slackness ruled the Jamaican dancehall. Very openly sexual, slackness gave rise to tunes advocating homophobia, violence and the way of the gun — all in all, not too far from gangsta rap. The last few years, however, have seen an anti-slackness reaction in Jamaica. With songs like "Chi Chi Man" by T.O.K., slackness remains a big factor in music, but its stranglehold on the charts and the dancefloor is diminishing.

"We started to see it in the mid- to late-'90s with people like Garnett Silk, and then Buju Banton has his big spiritual conversion," says Randy Chin, the head of reggae label VP. "The cultural artists started to come to the fore — Anthony B, Morgan Heritage, Capleton. And in the last two years, people like Beres Hammond, Junior Kelly and Morgan Hammond have had some of the biggest tunes. They're all very melodic, vocal tunes with a big message, which wasn't the case four or five years ago. There's a shift going on."

RAS, another U.S.-based reggae label, is also doing its part to stem the slackness. Earlier this year, they distributed 1,200 miniature brooms made by the Jamaican Bobo Dread sect as promotional items meant to clean up all negative vibes. According to label head Dr. Dread (a.k.a. Gary Himmelfarb), "It's gotten a great response in Jamaica from people like Buju Banton and his camp. We plan on moving farther in this direction."

And as Jamaica continues to be rocked by violence (both individual and political), plenty of people are ready for the change. "People have got tired of slackness, they were overwhelmed," Chin explains. "So when something different came out, it stood out. The dancehall tunes also tended to be less melodic; the newer ones tend to imitate hip-hop, [they're] very harsh. Artists like Beres Hammond, who use live instruments, have gone back to a smoother one-drop reggae."

"I think a lot of people are tired of the posturing, and they want to hear something with more substance," Dr. Dread agrees. "You've had people like Sizzla, Anthony B, Capleton and Tony Rebel who've all been trying to put a positive light to life."

While VP's Chin admits that, unlike RAS, he's "not sure we deliberately went after this conscious vibe," VP just released Universal Message Chapter II, their second annual compilation of conscious Jamaican hits. “The music emanates from the street, and the street’s telling the industry that’s the trend,” Chin notes.

Dr. Dread, however, is taking active steps to bring about the change. “Our goal is to still have the music be dancehall, but have it be good, uplifting, positive lyrics,” he says.

Will slackness finally be done, or is it too ingrained in Jamaican musical culture? “Slackness isn’t going to end,” Dr. Dread offers, “because it creates a lot of excitement and gets people worked up. But I think more people will become vocal against slackness. And people will embrace more of the conscious artists.”

“Dancehall is ever-evolving,” Chin points out. “People want more vocal tunes, more message tunes, a DJ singing style, like Sean Paul. I see it headed more in that direction.”

Ultimately, it’s going to be up to the Jamaican people themselves, and what they choose. Unlike American music, Dr. Dread points out, in Jamaica it’s the people’s music and always has been. “It’s about the people vibing, not the corporations telling you what’s going on.”

SEAN ARDOIN & ZYDEKOAL

Pullin' (Tomorrow Recordings)
With a rhythm section as tight as New Orleans’ legendary Meters, a guitarist who emulates Ernie Isley, and a funkiness as greasy as the Stones’ Sticky Fingers, Sean Ardoin has hit the zydeco jackpot on his solo debut. With some strong songwriting and a soulful voice, he’s creating music that respects the tradition but pushes it forward with heavy elements of funk and some killer bass playing (check out the title track). The ex-drummer’s surprisingly strong, rhythmic accordion work is the glue that holds all the facets together yet allows everyone time in the spotlight. The late Clifton Chenier forged modern zydeco; Ardoin (who has an impressive pedigree through his famous great-uncle Amédé) is dancing it into the new millennium.

CONGAKINGS

Jazz Descargas (Chesky)

The descarga, or jam session, has long been a part of Cuban jazz, and this live recording captures the excitement of some Cuban and jazz greats letting loose on standards like “Caravan,” “A Night In Tunisia” and “The Peanut Vendor.” At the heart of it all are three veteran conga players — Giovanni Hidalgo, Candido Camero and Carlos “Patato” Valdes — who continually push each other further, especially on the workout “Conga Descarga.” The whole ensemble conjures up fabulous noise with alto man Phil Woods setting a scorching pace on Bud Powell’s “Un Poco Loco,” while a slowed-down version of Tito Puente’s classic “Oye Como Va” offers trumpeter Chocolate a chance to show some stunning chops. For these guys, the descarga is truly the lifeblood of music.

YAT-KHA

Aldyn Dashka (Yat-Kha)

Currently on tour in the U.S., the members of Yat-Kha have acquired a reputation as the punks of Central Asian music — leader Albert Kuvezin does play an electric guitar. But more accurately, the group’s remarkable overtone vocalizing is a revolutionary update of traditional Tuvan throat singing, with a mix of instruments both ancient and modern. The songs are about horses, traveling, spring-time and girls (typical Tuvan subject matter); the sound, meanwhile, takes wonderfully angular twists as on “Tozhu Kyzy,” with its lopsided riff, Jew’s harp and backward sample. But the spectacular throat singing is only one part of Yat-Kha’s arsenal. This is a complete band with a very individual, melodic worldview that seduces the listener quietly but completely. Think of Yat-Kha as “alterna-Tuva” and you’re getting the picture.

SUZANNE VEGA

Songs In Red And Gray
(A&M-Interscope)

Songs In Red And Gray marks Suzanne Vega's first album since 1996's Nine Objects Of Desire, as the folk singer/songwriter took five years off to raise her daughter. Vega's trademark wistful vocals and poetically cerebral lyrics emerge with more poignancy and introspection on this album, obviously the after-effects of her collapsed marriage to producer Mitchell Froom. Vega's personal struggles are spelled out for listeners: "Soap and water/ take the day from my hand/ scrub the salt from my stinging skin/ slip me loose of this wedding band," she intones in "Soap And Water." As with all of the singer's albums, Songs is simultaneously tender and haunting, moving listeners to empathy during one song only to befuddle them with the esoteric imagery in the next. Yet it is the reliable elegance of Vega's voice — perfectly complemented by an acoustic guitar — set against a backdrop of assorted strings and percussion that gives fans the comfort and intimacy they've come to expect.

How many people do you reach?

We are in the middle of Philly and our transmission is pointed in the direction of Camden, New Jersey. Because of our great location, we reach tons of people and are core reporters for CMJ. Princeton is the only other source for underground music on the airwaves in our area, but our listeners are “the kids.” We play lots of punk, indie, electronic, metal. Not much pretense, we’re just a bunch of punks having fun on the air.

What’s the station motto/your personal programming philosophy?

100 percent non-commercial. No underwriting. No major label bands that get play on commercial radio or MTV... promote the un-promoted. Commit radio warfare!

How long have you been PD?

For seven months I’ve been cuddling up with my new identity as music fascist. Now that I’m program director, I’m working on passing on some of the power so that I can concentrate on stuff like in-house public affairs programs.

What do you do to build your station’s audience?

We support local shows and bands with airplay and show announcements. Mostly, we are known as the only place for punk and underground in the New Jersey and Philly area. Lots of our DJs grew up listening to WKDU. We’re always had funny protester/anarchist “actions” designed to get attention: raiding a large building in Center City and hanging a banner, liberating billboards, etc. Taking signs to “Smackdown” and ECW events never hurts.

What was your most successful fundraiser?

Our annual Electronic Music Marathon and reggae marathons always do well. Last year we raised a couple thousand dollars for four different charities.

Who are you most proud of bringing either to the station or to your campus to perform and why?

Before I came to the station we’ve had some really big names like Fugazi, Nine Inch Nails (suck) and Meat Beat Manifesto. During my stay here, we had Ink and Dagger play. It might have been their last show.

Are you on the air? What kind of show do you do?

Yes. I do metal, or wussy indie (slow, minimal stuff kicks the shit out of all this Beatles-wannabe shit), avant or bop jazz, and dark ambient/industrial/IDM/noise.

What’s the best line a promoter ever used on you to get you to play a record?

Does your station still play vinyl? If not, what do you do with it?

We give preference to vinyl. I will review it much quicker than the average CD. It might be because we’re so punk or something. We just love the romance of it. But there are less abstract reasons: for one thing, our dance DJs obviously prefer it. Vinyl also indicates the artist is taking an underground approach to promotion. I still buy vinyl (especially from Ant-zen and Hymen); I still see it sold at shows. The next quickest things to get reviewed are actually CD-Rs since again it indicates that the artists are just starting out or going for something cheap to get the music out — the music is first.

Every station has that one old dude from the local town who’s been doing a show since anyone can remember. Who is it at your station, what kind of show do they do, and what’s their deal?

Johnpaul [sic] does a hardcore punk show, not to be confused with hardcore. He’s been here since high school and is on his way to an electrical engineering degree, slowly but surely. He’ll never let us know how many credits he’s got; but I’ll guess that after like seven years he is only 10 credits away from his degree. He’s gonna stretch it out as long as possible. Sometimes I think he only takes a class to calm the administration when Drexel sees his name on WKDU paperwork and go, “Hey, he’s not a student.”

Why did you go into college radio?

I used to work in a recording studio and that opened me up to lots of new music. I was still hungry, so while I was working as a chemist during the day, I worked at the studio and started hanging at the radio station. Before that, I only really listened to metal, hardcore, punk, and industrial. Now I spend lots of time listening to indie and jazz.

If you could see anyone live (dead or living), who would it be?

Nietzsche. I’d probably ask him what force brought us together, if not providence. Then I’d ask him about the bitch that fucked him up. I’d let him borrow some Sartre, and tell him all the cool quantum physics stuff he missed out on.

Are you interested in going into the music industry?

Not really. Maybe working for a cool little label; or I would go on tour with a cool band if I were friends with them.

rival schools

united by fate

on tour with burning airlines

"[Rival Schools] debut, United by fate, is marked by Schreifels' vulnerably yet triumphant sounding wails and Fugazi-gone-Tommy fretwork...when Schreifels sings...it's not just his lyrics that peddle his passion - it's the drama in the delivery that truly sells his soul."
—Spin, August 2001

"...Rival Schools is more than just an impressive collective resume. Singer/guitarist Walter Schreifels still possesses the magnetism that made Quicksand such an inspired unit...he creates a wall of driving chords, slashing hooks, earthshaking crescendos and blissful respites."
—CMJ New Music Report, July 9, 2001

"Lyrically more reflective and musically more mature...Rival Schools may finally be the embodiment of their ideals."

—fridge, Summer Issue

"...Schreifels refutes the notion that guitar rock is dead - it's just been in a temporary exile, thinking up new ways to come back and kick our collective ass."

—Revolver, Sept-Oct 2001
