WELCOME HOME

It is now 48 hours since I arrived home. Having Johnny Young as a fellow traveller, has its disadvantages too! Chaotic scenes at airports as I was pushed around by overly enthusiastic young fans!

Not one wink of sleep on the flight; thirty hours filled with stimulating conversation by the ever effervescent John.

Next week, when I have fully recovered, I'll give you the exclusive story of our plane flight. I'll also tell you how you can travel to England too. The fun, excitement, experience and adventures involved. I'll be giving you fresh news of the Easybeats. The Bee Gees, and all our other friends in England.

I must thank all you lovely Go-Set readers who sent me birthday greetings. I appreciated every one of them. Also a thank you to all the people who wrote enquiring about B.O.A.C. youth fares. I answered hundreds of letters and as for all the rest, I'll be answering them next week. I must have some sleep now. Love to all, LILY.

is it true, are my ears on straight, will Channel 0 really run a four-hour teenage programme every Saturday morning from 8 'til mid-day?

Seems an ideal time considering many young people have to work and most thers are out shopping any av. What with Channel O's ontinued lack of success with live production and the extra effort needed to ap-pease the powers that be with local material, this may be an ideal way of stoning wo birds to death, them selves, and their proposed eenage show.

And is there really enough talent in all of Australia to hold a show of this nature together for four hours?

Don't do it Channel 0, don't do it. Our talent most certainly needs some outlet, but not this way. I can't suggest any other time, but if it must be a morning show, then why not Sunday. gual-hag in series form, i others for Manager form, for Noel Ferrier ably assiste by Mary Hardy and that wonderful skit on Normie's army stint pinched straight from the front page of Go Set's tear-jerking front page story last week. I don't sug-gest that Normie Rowe is in the Presley category, but I would give anything to manage Normie during his two-year forced vacation in one of Mr. Holt's khaki hostels. phone call from his mother in Northcote, Melbourne last week, to Bunbury, where Normie was appearing, confirmed the news that his name had been drawn in the latest national-service ballot.

He was being interviewed when the call came, about 5.15 p.m. His immediate reaction was: "I think this will be a serious blow to my career. It could even be the end.

'Mum and Dad are upset about this," said the blue-eyed boy. "But we all agree this is something I have to face up to.

"It has pretty well stopped my plans to return to Britain, or go to America, although I may still be going overseas to Vietnam."

Later, he added: "I'll do what the army tells me without any

EVEN IF I'M SWEEPING

"Army entertaining would probably be my best field.

I am a better entertainer than a ritleman. After two years in the Army, I shall return to show business, somehow. "Even if it's sweeping the stage," he said.

He had been expecting call-up since his return to Australia in July after ten months in Britair. But one thing that perturbed him about his conscription was that the Press seemed to have known about it before he or his parents did.

"A Perth radio station and some Eastern States newspapers knew before me," Normie said. "They had the news the day before I did." One of Normie's first jobs when his chartered bus reached Bunbury, 115 miles South of Perth and on the coast, was to head for the drycleaner.

PELTED WITH EGGS

When he played to 500 teenagers at Kalgoorlie, 360 miles east of Perth, he was pelted with eggs and tomatoes. At the Bunbary show, he gave an emotional performance, with flashing lights and Burning incense in Southway Hall.

One of the surprises of the show was that supporting act Marty Kristian seemed to steal it. At a party after the Bunbury show, given by myself, Marty was much in demand. Many girls said they hati come some 300 miles to see him, not Normie.

The same happened at the Perth show, a few days later. Only about 250 temagers attended.

The fact that the "New Oxford Theatre" a converted movie-house - in a Perth suburb, was only half full for Normie's show, indicates an interesting trend. Perth seems to have reached a stage that Melbourne reached at least three years ago, where teenagers prefer to go to nightclubs and discotheques to a show for a pop performance. The Normie Rame w could be the last of its kind.

BEE GEES CAN STAY IN ENGLAND For a while!

The success and importance of the Bee Gees may finally be sinking into the thick heads of British visa officials. Alhough Vince and Colin were for a long time under threat of expulsion from the country because they did not have exended work permits, the position seems o be getting better.

Their visas have now been extended until he end of October

Their manager, Robert Stigwood says: Aithough nothing is definite yet, the situaas though some of the extreme measures which the Bee Gees were planning — such as becoming Spanish or German citizens, and commuting to work by jet — will not have to be put into operation.

The group continue to rise in overseas importance. Their latest disc "Massa-chusetts" is streaking up the English chart. And they have been booked for London's Saville Theatre on November 19, where they will preferre they will perform backed by a 30-piece orchestra.

The Cream started a three-day stint last night at "Whisky a go-go" (U.S.A.) to a record crowd including most of the big names on the West Coast, the Monkees names on the west Coast, the Monkeestoo. Fans were lined up to the end of the block waiting to get in but the crowd inside werent budging an inch. Mickey Dolenz sporting, a "Jimi Hendrix — Eric Calpton" version of the Bob Dylan haircut and bedecked in Hippy clothes, had a front row position, along with Peter Tork. Both were digging the "Cream" like mad.

Dear Go-Set,

I would like to explain to all those ignorant people who wrote to Go-Set in favor of Ronnic Burns, why Normie is still the King.

I fully agree with Mr. Stan Rofe that Normie has more talent than Ronnie. As for Normie not winning the Go-Set Pop Poil, this is very understandable. Normie has been out of the country. JAMES TRYLOR MOVE'S "MAGIC EYES" WAS FOR THE CHARTS

The James Taylor Move; Rob. Alan, Trevor and Kevin

By IAN MELDRUM

"Let's get one straight", said Rob Tayor, "If we have this Hendrix image, well then we accept it. We have probably gained it because we were one of the first groups on the scene to do such numbers as "Stone Free", but believe me this image was not purposely created. At the mement we play only one Hendrix At the mement we play only one Hendrix has been accepted to the control of the control of

The James Taylor Move hit the Meibourne scene about five months ago, with a new sound that had been unheard before in Australia. Their driving, earthy sound created excitement wherever they performed, and it was no time before they became a big name on the scene.

Their first single titled "Mugic Eyes" has also hit the charts in a big way. It is currently riding in the top twenty on the Melbour.se, Adelaide and Pertic charts. It was number 33 in Go-Set's national chart last week.

The story on this single is as follows . . .

Rob Taylor wrote "Magic Eyes" while he was high on lemonade He originally was going to call it "You're Way Out in Front Baby, But I can See Your Behind!" But under pressure from Trevor was forced to change it to the present title.

James Taylor readily admit that they chose more commercial-style number for their first single, and also intend to do it for their second.

This obviously has paid dividends, as the success of "Magic Eyes" speaks for itself.

Their third single will be different. On this

Their third single, will be different. On this single they hope to explain to the public what they are trying to achieve.

The James Taylor Move are firm believe that every group should know what some they

The James Taylor Move are firm believers that every group should know what song they are going to record, weeks before the actual recording session. This way, it enables a group to put more personal feeling into the number they are recording.

"One thing we cannot understand," said Kevin, "is how the top forty charts are worked out in sech state of Australia. "Stone Free for instance, made the Adelaide and Brisbane charts long before it even received airplay in Melbourne and Sydney. You must admit, it does seem a bit stranger.

On the Australian pop scene, the James Taylor Move all agree that the standard in groups has risen over the past year, and it shouldn't be too long before Australian groups make a scene of their own.

Kevin, Alan, Rob and Trevor who make up the James Taylor Move are reluctant to talk on their proposed overseas trip, but it is certain that they will be heading for England sometime next year.

Perhaps they are another Australian group who could make the big time.

THE NEW SOUND, BABY

If you want to see the scene like the Americans see it, baby, it's all inside the covers of a new paperback called "The New Sound". The book ranges from the nasty-type put-down of Time magazine — "Like something out of Malice in Wonderland, the hordes of shaggy rock 'n' roll and, the nortoes of shaggy rock n roll singers thump their way across the land whanging their electric guitars" — to enthusiastic reports on way-out Way In swingers. "The New Sound" (70e) is basically a collection from American magazines and newspapers of articles on the groovy world of Pop, a lot of them by older people, and it's pretty interesting to see what they have to say.

LESLIE PIXIE talks over your problems

NAUGHTY BOY
Dear Leslie Pixie.
I have a boyfriend who lives some miles away. He was supposed to visit me on Sunday When I rang him his sister told me to ring back later. When I rang back his sister said he had gone to town and had told her to tell me not to ring again. I don't know if she meant that day or ever again. I'm confused. I love him very much.

"Confused". Victoria You deserve an explanation from the boy himself so keep riaging and asking for him until he comes to the phone. Then he can tell you why he didn't come on Sunday and what his sister meant.

WHICH BOYFRIEND?

WHICH BOYFRIEND?

I went out with a boy for two months but he broke it off with me because another girl interfered. Another boy came solid.

I still love this other guy. Please tell me what I should do. I am 16 and the boy I am with is 18. The other boy is 22.

"Puzzled."

If there is no chance of you getting the first boy back then you should be content with the boy you have now. You are not with the boy you have now. You are not obliged to love him because you go out with him. Go out together until one of you stops liking the other or likes someone else better.

THE RIGHT APPROACH

Dear Leslie Pixie,

I would like to know how to approach a certain girl. She says hello to me and often waves. Do you think she likes me?
How can I start a conversation? I am unsure of myself and haven't had a girlfriend for months. Can you help?

I don't think you will have much trouble getting to know her. She ob-viously likes you and probably realises you are unsure of yourself. When you see her, smile and make some comment on the weather or work, school or local news. Or you could compliment her on her dress or looks.

Due to lack of space I cannot answer all letters received and can only publish answers to the widest cross section of situations.

Sue Flett's Beauty Notes

"MAKING YOUR

The mark to aim for is an indelible one - left firmly on the mind. Kipling said 'Some women will stay in a man's memory if they only once walked down a street.' Some achievement! But it can be attained if a girl can see herself as she is — to oncentrate on what she can help and to draw attention away from what she can't. A little mystery is a good thing but no girl worth her gold eye shadow need throw up a smokescreen today. In beauty. mystery is no longer synonymous with camoudlage and it never should have been. Instead mystery can be created with a instead mystery can be created with a swift rush of scent, a luminous skin, a flashing eye, a simple hairstyle, a soft mouth. The list is comfortingly very long indeed — and on it may be something which is yours alone.

For the young, gloss is a word to re-member. It promotes a shine without the rush to blot it out, remembering that shine is related to sun and summer; remembering too that shiny cheeks, lips, nose, that glow naturally (?) are what make a mark on a male mind. Charles of the Ritz has a lotion called Spotlights which is applied straight to the skin or over finished make-up. The result is instant shine on eyes.

The brilliant skin trick is just another way to catch the eyes of unsuspecting males. To outdazzle the rest of the field the skin must glow inside first. To do this you need only two requirements — plenty of rest and a minimum fat-maximum liquid diet. For surface sid to the skin use Helena Rubenstein's Beauty Washing Grains to remove every vestige of grime. A fake eyelash will rivet his attention no matter how conservative he is. Eyelure have thick fur lashes that are self-adhesive for $6.95. The definition of extravagance, according to Harper's Bazaar is buying mink lashes to wear under dark glasses.
