Contest Costs KIKX License

An FCC administrative law judge has denied the license of Waton Broadcasting Inc.'s NIKX/Tucson because of a promotion run on the station in January 1974. The contest involved a supposedly "kidnapped" air personality, tied in with a mystery trip prize. The judge stated that the station's "arrogant disregard for the public cannot be too strongly condemned." The "disappearance" of the jock was announced by the station as what the judge termed a "news event." Although this was the main issue in the denial of license, the Commission also cited the station for false signatures on a program log, failing to inform a party of a taped phone conversation, and failing to follow sponsorship logging rules. The station has 50 days to appeal before the denial becomes effective."

The PD Shuffle Is On...

Big week for Program Director changes. Chuck Roberts resigned as PD of KSLQVSt. Louis to join WDGY! Minneapolis as their new PD. Roberts replaces John Centon who will stay on as a Jock. The new PD at KSLQ is Jeff Baker, who was promoted from morning man.

Wayne Shane has been named PD of WAPE/Jacksonville. Shane moved in from WGCL.

Dees Waddles To WHBQ

Rick Dees, now world famous with his "Disco Duck" hit made the news a few weeks ago when he was terminated by WMPS/Memphis. Dees became sought after by many major stations.

Dick French, GM of WHBQ/Memphis, has announced that Dees has turned down all other offers and has signed a healthy contract with the RKO outlet to be their morning man. French noted that Dees signed for future employment, and no start date on the air has been determined.

In addition, WHBQ PD John Long has announced two other jock staff appointments. Dick Edwards will fill the 6-10pm slot, moving from WAPE Jacksonville, and Rob Landree leaves B100/San Diego to do afternoon drive at WHBO.

Correction

Last week's front page story on the KQVMDVb2 strike by AFTRA members carried an erroneous statement that we apologize for. It was reported to RER that Dennis Waters, 130 PD, was helping out on the air at KQV. Further investigation proved that Waters was in sympathy with the strikers and was in no way, involved in any anti-union air work.

The Quarter-Hour/Quarter-Century Flashback

David Shepard told radio stations how to reach and measure any audience they wanted. He set broadcasting ahead 36 years...and that was just the starting point.

by E. Karl, WINCI

David Shepard was a radio programmer in 1976. He knew all about the modern radio programming field...about quarter-hour stenance and power golds and store research and how to use the ARB to advantage and how to read mechanicals and make them work for the radio station he worked for. David Shepard was a radio programmer in 1976, and he wanted to manipulate the audience through the ratings so badly he could taste it. He knew how to use all the research techniques he bad learned to deliver any audience he wanted. He could plug in records and call letter identification and digital times and even double time in the morning. David Shepard knew how to make a radio station as successful as it could be. But he never talked about these things. His name was never in the radio trade magazines, and he never appeared on panels at radio conventions and record /conventions. No one ever came to David Shepard for advice, for as far as they knew...David was just another nameless radio programmer trying to make sure all the air shifts were filled.

David Shepard was a bright young man. He would hide away at home at night...not reading the latest trade publication, but working on the machine in his basement. He had read all the theses on time travel, and by pooling all the research together, and with the help of his former college roommate, he was coming close to building a time travel machine. David Shepard had two options: he could sell his machine to the government and become rich and famous almost overnight; or, he could take his knowledge, love and obsession for radio back with him into time and become rich and famous and a pioneer in radio. That would certainly show all those programmers who sit on panels and win awards every year. He would be a. legend. He would have radio museums built in memory of his contributions to the industry. David Shepard decided to go back into time.

The machine was done, and David Shepard loaded his machine with all the radio research and data he had been gathering for years. He also was taking with him a stereo receiver and all schematic data for stereo and quadrophonic broadcasting. He took along tape reels and cassettes and cartridges and recorders and playback units. And then, David Shepard got into his radio-filled machine and stepped back into time.

March 1940. That was the month and year David Shepard d planned to visit. And he did. Before long, he had peddled his knowledge and wares throughout the United States...and he became an overnight sensation. The radio industry, as new as it was, was overwhelmed by the knowledge and technology this man brought with him. They couldn't believe he had worked on and developed all the knowledge and technology for so long without telling a soul. The government named David Shepard a special assistant to President Roosevelt on communications. He enjoyed that because it meant fame and power all wrapped into one. David Shepard told radio stations how to reach and measure any audience they wanted. He set broadcasting ahead 36 years... and that was just a starting point. Brilliant men from around the world joined David Shepard to advance radio even past the 1976 level he had brought them. So much, in fact, that by the year 1959, radio was more of a menace than it was an entertainment utility. Radio was beamed to homes by lasers and citizens had to nay to hear the radio they wanted to hear. Quarter-hour maintenance had long advanced past the rating systems that David Shepard had given the 1940s. The government was the rating service, and all citizens could buy any station listening they wanted. Government had seen the immense profitability of radio, and the power that radio had over everyday lives of citizens, so the government decided to overtake the industry to keep tabs on citizens, and to make sure that two-way survelliance could be achieved through the beams that shot into citizens' homes. Audio receiver implants could be purchased anywhere in America...and citizens had complete control over the choice of which broadcast they wanted to receive. Automation completely took over the radio industry, once David Shepard's technology was advanced for use by the commercial radio industry and then the government. And even David Shepard didn't care about radio anymore, because he had given America a 36 year head start. He was rich and famous and powerful and a legend with memorial halls already being constructed in his name.

Then there was a meeting. These people didn't have any audio receiver implants. They had left the radio industry as quickly as they could some six years earlier, because they missed the entertainment and enjoyment the radio business had once been. At the meeting, many scientists talked of a machine they had been working on...a, machine that could travel through time. It was 1959...and the machine was ready. All thanks to the technology supplied by David Shepard. It was decided that one of the persons present at the meeting would travel back to 1940, the year that David Shepard appeared on the American radio industry scene, and lay in wait for him with a high caliber rifle, and simply kill him as he walked the streets peddling his knowledge and technological wares.

Harrison Replies To A&M

d and saddened" by A&M's suit against his Dark Horse Record company. according to a release from Dark Horse. The company says that Harrison had felt that the problems between the two companies were being "worked out on personal, face-to-face meetings in Los Angeles." A Harrison spokesman stated that he was "perplexed" by A6M's statement that he was in default of his contract for failing to deliver albums. The spokesman said that Harrision was due to deliver an album in July of 1976, but postponed the release "by mutual agreement" due to Harrison's recent illness, and that Harrison had returned to complete the album project before his doctor's permission. The Harrison release continued by saying that it was the spokesman's feeling that the dispute erupted because of sophisticated financial arrangements in the original contract which benefitted Harrison, and that A&M was attempting to revise these provisions when the suit was filed.

FCC Makes Cross-Ownership Decision

A petition to deny license renewals for KMJ-AM-FM-TV/Fresno, California by the Department of Justice has been turned down by the FCC. The three broadcast stations are owned by McClatchy Newspapers, which also owns the daily Fresno Bee. This marks the second case brought up by the Justice Dept. regarding cross-ownership that the FCC has turned down. The Commission's decision stated that the crossownership rule now on the books requires divesture of properties when the only newspapers and stations in the area are held by one ownership, which is not the case in Fresno. The Justice Dept. is now pushing for a U.S. Court Of Appeals decision against the FCC's current rule on the subject.

Copyright Revision Clause Nixed

A last minute maneuver in the House of Representatives kept a clause in the Copyright Revision bill from becoming part of the House plan. The National Education Association had tried to include a clause which would allow teachers and schools to tape any radio and television programs in their entirety without restrictions. Both the National Association of Broadcasters and Motion Picture Association of America. with the Association of Media Producers, did some last minute pitches to strike the clause from the proposal, which passed the House last we

Record Label Sues West Coast Magazine

A $10 million lawsuit has been filed against New West magazine by ALA Enterprises, parent company of Leff Records. The suit stems from an article in the magazine about comedian Richard Pryor. The article,

On the average, each employee gets $3,984 each year in such benefits, with the most going toward pensions, and insurance premiums, followed by vacations, sick pay

Name The Share Contest

Some unexpected results came about during a recent promotion devised by Media Directions of New York. The consulting and buying service staged a contest with ad agencies and reps where they would guess the outcome of the April/May Arbitron for WNWZ/Rochester, formerly WBFB, which recently switched to a classical format. Of the top three prizes awarded to those guessing the closest to the station's share showing, first place went to the ad manager for Philco Home Entertainment Products. The hitch is that the grand prize offered to him was a Philco beby grand radio. Second place went to a staffer at competition WROC. Third place prize, a 30 second spot on any Rochester station, had to be substituted as well, since the winner was an ad rep from Boston

Sauna Compensation

Finnish paper-mill workers have negotiated what may be the most unusual employee benefit yet. When workers are required to work on Sundays, they receive a "sauna-premium" valued at $3.30 because they miss their weekly sauna baths. The premium covers the cost of admission to public saunes.

Own A Piece Of The Bridge

A new promotional item will be available to history-minded Americans. The newly formed "San Francisco Bridge Co." is marketing strands of the original cable from the Golden Gate Bridge, which recently was refurbished with new cable. The company purchased 15 miles of the strands, and are selling custom gold and nickel-plated, or orange painted four inch strands of the cable mounted on a "Strands of History" base. Each strand carries the official bridge seal, and collector's serial number registered with the company. Prices range from $35 for the painted, to $50 for the gold. An advertising campaign budgeted at $200,000 is planned for the item.

THE FCC [So You Can Understand It]

The FCC has granted an extension from October 7th to November 8th on Docket 1967—Retention and Disclosure of Program Records. We would urge you to write to the FCC and comment on the following:

Should radio and TV stations be required to keep a transcript tape or disc of all news and public affairs programming?

Should radio stations make program logs available for public inspection? (TV stations already do).

Inspection I I vi succession even provide in-house mechanical reproduction 3. Should radio stations provide in-house mechanical reproduction facilities for members of the public who wish to copy portions of the public file? I'V stations do, but it would be a hardship on radio stations without in-house reproduction facilities.)

4. Should radio stations continue to keep and disclose writte ts from the general public for three years from the date received?

We at R&R urge our readers to comment en mass. If you don't mment to the FCC, then you have only yourselves to blame for new and increased regulatory burde

"Random Thoughts" will reflect the questions and comments of our subscribers and our editorial staff regarding the day to day activities and occurances in our industry. Your "Thoughts" are welcome.

WHAT DID BUTZ REALLY SAY?

WHAT DID BUTZ REALLY SAY?

Isn't it ironic that in 1976, the media would allow censorship to interfere with its obligation to report the truth. Certainly a comment from a member of the President's cabinet, resulting in an uproar from many members of Congress and his subsequent resignation, must be considered from every journalistic standpoint as being "major" in nature. Certainly, the American public deserves to know the exact text of the comment that led to the disturbance before it can be expected to form any opinion or deci-any opinion or occision.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told a racial joke choosing who our society has gotten used to describing as "dirty words" to accentual his intent. We do not deny that his act was disgraceful to his reputation position, and the entire administration, but since it was the actual commer rds' to accentuate position, and the entire administration, but since it was the actual comment itself that caused the commotion, we believe that it was, word for word the actual news story to which the media should have addressed itself.

You would think that so many years after the death of Lenny Bruce our society would have accepted the concept that there really are no such things as "dirty words" and that the "dirthness" of a word is a purely subjective judgement fabricated in the mind of the individual. are no such lange as any way were considered in the mind of the individual. We go on the assumption that we are protecting our children and the innocent from the decadent effects by overty discouraging their use or bletantly eliminating them from the radio and television speaker, TV screen, blatantly eliminating them from the radio and television speaker, TV screen, and newspaper page. What we are really doing is propagating and perpetuating their existence and "dirtiness."

We can understand the efforts of journalists to keep the content of their reporting within the loosely defined boundaries of "good taste" avoiding questionable terms when they are not entirely necessary. However, in the case of the Earl Butz statement and resulting upset, there was no way to avoid them and maintain journalistic ethics.

NBC Television's Nightly News ran a disclaimer on why they could not air the language, thus influencing their viewers to believe that the words uttered by Butz were, in fact, "dirty," and suggested that if anyone really cared to find out the exact words of his statement to purchase really cared to find out the exact words of his statement to purchase an October 4th issue of Rolling Stone magazine. This was both hypocritical and absurd in addition to being representative of newspapers, radio and television stations across the nation being guilty of censorahip at its most destructive level, preventing the public from knowing the pertinent truth about a major issue.

A top level cabinet member has disgraced the current administration, faced widespread criticism, and resigned under pressure, and you have to purchase a copy of Rolling Stone to find out what he said. Think about it! Your comments are welcome.

Dear Ray,

Just wanted to take a minute to write and let you and your entire staff know how much we've enjoyed working with you and with Starz. The free concert here in Detroit Friday might was an overwholding success, as were the other two shows in los Angeles and St. Louis.

By mid way through the concert Friday night, here in Detroit, Starz had all 3,000 people on their feet. The audience demanded three encores, and had the house lights not been turned on at that point, who knows?

It's a pleasure to see a label so behind a group, and as much of a pleasure to see a group that's worthy of this kind of support.

Our Country cousins are showing up strong again on the Pop/Adult scene. Tanya Tucker scores with a chart entry on the P/A 40, and coming up right behind her in terms of growing airplay we find Bobby Bare "Drop Kick Me Jesus," Mary Kay Piace "Baby Boy" which was just added to WGAR and WGN, Tanmny Wynette "You And Me" who just had her strongest week so far with key adds at WNEW, KNBR, KSL, WFTL. And there's more brewing...Tom Bresh "Sad Country Love Song." Mac Davis "Every Now And Then."

The Eighth Wonder Of The World, Stevie's new album, is finally out. It's called "Songs In The Key Of Life" and includes two LP discs, an EP and a booklet which contains the lyrics to the songs. At this point programmers are still going through the twenty-five tracks to find their two or three favorites for airplay. One track "Isn't She Lovely" has been mentioned most often by those who've had a chance to review the double pocket album.
