Radio Revenues Soar In June

With the election season moving into full swing, it's time to take a closer look at the arcane rules governing political advertising on the radio. Sales & Marketing Editor Pam Baker demystifies such terms as "legally qualified," "reasonable access," "lowest unit" and the like. This week's Management, Marketing & Sales section also has great articles about cold calling, cluster management and streaming media. And remember to pay a visit to this week's GM Spotlight, where we highlight the career of Aurora Communications' Vince Tremona.

RALPH NADER ON RADIO

Consumer crusader Ralph Nader recently delivered a keynote address to the Upper Midwest Conclave, and he didn't have many kind things to say about radio in this post-deregulation era. In fact, according to News/Talk Editor Al Peterson, he didn't have any kind words about the medium as it exists today. Whether you agree with him or not, Nader's words are thought-provoking.

Radio Ads To Remain 'Robust'

■ VS&A says sales will pass $26 billion in 2004

By WALT STARLING
R&R WASHINGTON BUREAU
wstarling@ronline.com

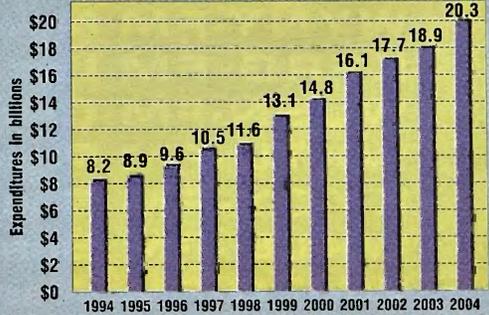

Deregulation was touted as the way to put radio on equal footing with other advertising media in the U.S. Radio has delivered — and has increased industry share in both local and national sales.

Vernis, Suhler & Associates' latest "Communications Industry Forecast" says the "advertising bonanza" triggered by the Telecom Act helped ad spending rise 12% to $16.9 billion in 1999. Although those figures are expected to be tempered a bit over the next five years, VS&A still sees "robust" growth in radio's future: It forecasts a compound growth rate of 9.5%, to $26.6 billion, in 2004.

Nassau B'casting Pulls Plug On IPO

Smart ship captains don't put out to sea in rough waters — and, apparently, radio operators with their heads on straight don't launch initial public offerings when the investment seas are rough on Wall Street.

Last week Nassau Broadcasting pulled the plug on its plan to raise up to $201 million in an IPO. Through Merrill Lynch, Nassau had planned to offer 9.9 million class A common shares within the U.S. and Canada — and about 2.5 million shares in other countries — for $16-$19 apiece. The decision to withdraw the offer was made "in light of current market conditions and recent volatility in the market," the company said.

"The market is a bloodbath," group spokeswoman Judy Brenna told R&R.

Radio One Trio To Air Joyner

■ Deal with ABC includes DC, Houston, Boston

By ADAM JACOBSON
R&R RADIO EDITOR

Staffers at Howard University-owned Urban AC WHUR/Washington were stunned last Thursday (8/3) to hear that ABC Radio Networks' syndicated Tom Joyner Morning Show would be departing the station's airwaves after five years of winning ratings. Joyner's final day on WHUR is set for Aug. 25 — but that's not his final day on DC radio. Beginning Aug. 28 Joyner's show will be heard on Radio One's WMMJ — WHUR's direct competitor.

The deal not only gives Radio One the No. 2 and No. 3 morning shows in the nation's capital (in third place is Russ Parr, who airs on Radio One's WKYS), it also gives Joyner new access to Boston and Houston. That's because his show will be heard on Radio One's WILD-AM/Boston and KMJQ-FM/Houston beginning Aug. 28.

Joyner was very diplomatic about the loss of WHUR as an affiliate. "WHUR has been more than an affiliate," he said. "They have been a flagship station. They are owned by Howard,

Metro Drives WW1 Q2 Revs

■ Revenues soar 106%, cash flow rockets 166%

By JEFFREY YORKE

Traffic jams have always been a beautiful thing for radio: drivers trapped in their vehicles, punching up their favorite stations — and spending a longer time listening. And by acquiring David Saperstein's 20-year-old Metro Networks, the nation's largest traffic and news reporting service, last September, Westwood One jumped into high gear and raced to the bank ... make that Fort Knox.

On Tuesday (8/8) WW1 reported Q2 revenues jumped from $66.3 million to $136.5 million — and credited record revenues at Metro for the growth. Had the acquisition occurred before the start of Q2 '99, revenues would still have jumped 18%. Operating cash flow was a record $43.1 million, up 166% from $16.2

Jaramillo Tapped As PD For SBS/L.A.

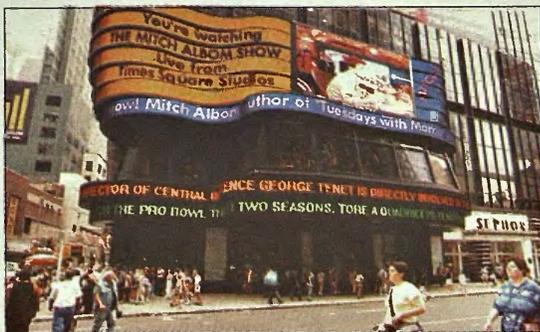

Fernando Jaramillo, a veteran of WOJO/Chicago who most recently served as MD, has joined Spanish Broadcasting System as PD of its three Southern California properties: KLAX (La Ley) & KMJR (La Mejor)/Los Angeles and KNJR/Riverside-San Bernardino, which simulcasts KMJR.

Jaramillo replaces Phil Jones, who is no longer with the company, and reports to SBS/Los Angeles GM Marie Kordus. When asked why he decided to take the position, Jaramillo told R&R, "I decided to take the job because of the opportunity and the challenge it presents. I'll be exploring a new market and putting ideas to work at a station that was a leader at one time."

Jaramillo inherits programming duties for a former No. 1 radio station that has struggled to regain market share following a recent relaunch. He will also oversee a simulcast that just debuted and has yet to see its first ratings results. Discussing KLAX, Jaramillo said, "The first thing I noticed when I arrived here was that the on-air talent were disappointed with the direction of the radio station. A lot of exposure was lost in the community when we changed from La 'X,' and we want to fine-tune La Ley and explore some new concepts. But we're not planning any drastic changes. Motivating our personnel is the key to our success."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Readers Sound Off On Kid Rock Ad

An ad for Kid Rock's latest single, "Wasting Time," that appeared in a recent issue (R&R 7/28) elicited responses from several readers. Here's a sampling:

I am appalled by the ad for Kid Rock in your July 28 issue. Is it supposed to be funny? I don't get it. With all the gun violence and youth violence in our society, I can't believe you would accept that kind of ad — or has the almighty dollar surpassed good judgment?

It seems to me that, with all the problems that can stem from this kind of idea, you would have had better sense. My personal opinion of Kid Rock is another matter. But you guys are glorifying violence for the sake of selling ads, and, quite frankly, it disgusts me.

W. Scott Hamstead
Media buyer

I am a part-time DJ at a small Country station. I have always been and will always be open to all music as forms of personal expression. However, I was extremely disturbed by the ad that ran for Kid Rock's new CD, in which a small child, whom I would judge to be between 8 and 10 years old, was holding a copy of the CD and displaying his middle finger. The message read something about "shooting the midgets."

I'm not against personal expression. However, people are worried about youth today, and yet they turn around and convey this message to youth. I deem that inappropriate.

Concerned reader

Sirius-1 Passes Early Tests

□ Second satellite arrives at launch site

By JEFFREY YORKE
R&R WASHINGTON BUREAU CHIEF
yorke@rronline.com

After just a month in orbit, the first of three Sirius satellites has completed a battery of tests, and all is well with the satellite's payload and signal systems, the company reported this week. Launched June 30, Sirius-1 has been orbiting 28,583 feet above North America and the Caribbean Ocean as Sirius engineers have piloted it across the skies and tinkered with its intricate components.

Within weeks Sirius will begin audio testing, beaming up Sirius programming to the bird for retransmission to receivers on earth to test ground reception. Engineers will also conduct "drive-around tests," Sirius spokesman Minday Kramer told R&R.

The second of the broadcaster's satellites, Sirius-2, has arrived at the Baikonur Cosmodrome launch site in Kazakhstan and is scheduled to lift off between Sept. 5 and 15. The third satellite is set for launch in October, and Sirius' 100-channel, subscriber-based broadcast service is set to begin by

FCC Regulatory Fees Climb

The FCC has issued the federal fiscal year changes in the regulatory fee schedule for commercial AM and FM radio stations, FM translators, FM booster licenses and broadcast auxiliary services and similar services for television. Noncommercial educational licensees are exempt from these regulatory fees for their main and auxiliary services.

The FCC was required to start collecting annual regulatory fees under the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993. The fees collected from broadcasters and others are used to offset the costs associated with FCC enforcement, public information, international policy and rulemaking. Payments may be made to the commission by check, money order, wire transfer or credit card, but not in cash. Each broadcast station must also submit FCC Form 159-C.

Stations that have difficulty paying the fees may apply for waivers, reductions or deferments in extraordinary and compelling circumstances. However, licensees must make the payments in full by Sept. 20 to avoid a 25% late payment penalty.

million the same time last year. On a pro forma basis, operating cash flow was up 40%. Net income rose 120%, from $4.8 million (7 cents per diluted share) to $10.6 million (9 cents). First Call analysts had predicted earnings of 8 cents per share. After-tax cash flow soared 175%, from $9.6 million (15 cents) to $26.2 million (22 cents).

"I am pleased with the company's record operating results for the first half of the year," said WWI President/CEO Joel Hollander. "The integration of the traffic operations and the cost synergies resulting from the Metro acquisition were realized ahead of schedule. The company expects that additional benefits from the acquisition of Metro will continue into 2001."

Infinity Beats The Street

Infinity Broadcasting reported Q2 net income rose from $100 million, or 12 cents per share, to $115 million, or 11 cents. First Call/Thomson Financial analysts had predicted Infinity would earn 10 cents a share. The company credits an increase in ad sales for the growth. Pro forma revenue — assuming the Viacom-CBS merger and Infinity's acquisition of Outdoor Systems had taken place at the start of 1999 — increased 22%, from $799 million to $974.9 million, while pro forma EBITDA was up 24%, from $368 million to $457.6 million. Operating cash flow rose 73%, from $265 million to a record $458 million. Infinity says the radio stations had an overall profit margin of 53%, higher than average for the industry.

"This is another in an unbroken series of outstanding quarters for Infinity," said Chairman/CEO Mel Karmazin. He said the strategic and accretive acquisitions made recently by the company ensure its future growth, nationally and internationally. Infinity's pending acquisitions include 18 stations from Clear Channel.

Analysts had mixed emotions about the Infinity results. Prudential Securities analyst James Marsh reiterated Infinity as "strong buy" with a $44 12-month target price, and Merrill Lynch's Jessica Reif Cohen and Keith Fawcett reiterated the issue's near- and long-term "buy" ratings with a 12-month target of $47.

But Ehrenkrantz King Nussbaum Chief Market Strategist Barry Hyman told Bloomberg that Infinity might prosper better if it were folded back into Viacom. He praised Karmazin for his role in merging Viacom with CBS while continuing to run Infinity.

"Infinity Broadcasting is a gem," he said, adding that the company's growth track points to at least $1.5 billion in added EBITDA and $1 billion in free cash flow. "This company has a great future as a standalone or if it were to be folded back into Viacom. If that is done, you're putting an extra $1 billion into Viacom's income statement — and it would be very cheap for them to do, especially as Viacom stock continues to go higher. If not, I think Infinity is still a classic leader in the radio sector. But it makes sense to have it under one roof."

The Viacom/CBS merger did not come cheap. Viacom reported that "goodwill expenses" associated with the merger helped send Viacom profit down during Q2. (Goodwill is the difference between the price paid for CBS and the broadcaster's value on its own books.) Excluding merger-related charges, net earnings fell from $59.3 million, or 8 cents per share, to $9 million, or 1 cent. First Call analysts had expected a 5-cent loss. Viacom said cash flow rose 18% on higher ad sales. Viacom owns 64% of Infinity, which drove most of Viacom's cash flow.

SG Cowen's Edward Hatch maintained Viacom as "strong buy" and raised his 12- to 18-month price target on the issue from $85 to $100. Williams Capital Group's Sobani Warner was a bit more conservative, raising Viacom's 12-month target from $75 to $80 and maintaining the issue's "buy" rating. And Bear Stearns' Raymond Katz raised Viacom's rating from "attractive" to "buy" with a target price of $85. Several other analysts checked in as well: Deutsche Banc Alex. Brown's Andrew Marcus reiterated Viacom as "strong buy" with a 12-month target of $100, and the issue was reiterated "buy" by PaineWebber's Christopher Dixon (year-end target: $94) and Jefferies & Co.'s Frederick Moran ($90).

More Industry Earnings

• Disney's broadcasting revenues rose 24%, from $1.2 billion to $1.5 billion, in fiscal Q3. Operating income soared 101%, from $209 million to $421 million. Overall, Disney revenues were up 9% to $6 billion, with earnings per share of 21 cents. First Call analysts had predicted a gain of 14 cents. Merrill Lynch's Jessica Reif Cohen called the numbers "fantastic. There's great underlying momentum at the theme parks and media networks, particularly the broadcasting segment."

Cohen, who reiterated Disney's near-term "accumulate" and long-term "buy" ratings with a $50 target price, told Bloomberg that her company is raising Disney's estimates for the year. "We already have the highest estimates on the street for next year. I think you will see fiscal 2001 estimates go up." Over at First Union Securities, analyst Scott Davis said Disney is "an underappreciated growth story."

Meanwhile, PaineWebber's Christopher Dixon reiterated Disney's "buy" rating with a $52 target, and Bear Stearns' Raymond Katz reiterated the company's "attractive" rating with a target range of $50-$52.

• Radio One said its Q2 broadcast cash flow increased 72%, jumping from $9.6 million to $16.5 million, while the BCF margin improved from 46% to 50%. After-tax cash flow grew from $4.6 million, or 7 cents per share, to $12.3 million, or 10 cents. Net income skyrocketed from $300,000 to $5.6 million — per share that translated to an increase from less than 1 cent to 7 cents. Net broadcast revenue rose 55%, from $21 million to $32.6 million. On a same-station basis, net broadcast revenue climbed 25%. BCF was up 44%, and the BCI margin escalated from 46% to 53%. During the quarter Radio One closed on the acquisitions of Davis Broadcasting's Charlotte and Augusta, GA stations, as well as Shirk/IBL's Indianapolis properties, and entered into a $750 million credit facility to fund the acquisition of 12 Clear Channel spinoffs for $1.3 billion — a deal Radio One expects to close before the end of Q3.

Three analysts reiterated Radio One as "strong buy" on news of the group's Q2 performance. Deutsche Banc Alex. Brown's Marcus, Prudential Securities' Marsh and Credit Suisse First Boston's Paul Sweeney all reacted favorably to Radio One's record earnings. Marsh reiterated a 12-month target price of $29, while Sweeney set a target of $35.

• Regent Communications reported a 69% increase in Q2 revenues to $10.7 million, up from $6.3 million during the second quarter of 1999. Station operating expenses increased from $4.4 million to $7 million as the company grew, but broadcast cash flow increased 86%, from $2 million to $3.6 million. Regent Chairman/CEO Terry Jacobs attributed the success to "a healthy advertising environment in our middle- and small-sized markets." RGCI earned 2 cents per share during the quarter matching First Call forecasts.

Prudential Securities' Marsh reiterated his "strong buy" recommendation after the results were reported. Marsh noted that Regent's "strong balance sheet should enable it to continue to capitalize on attractive deals in the future." While the company's same-station growth does not yet accurately reflect its operating performance, he's encouraged by improving results and has restated his $13 target on the RGCI shares. He also notes that broadcast cash flow margin improved 3% over last year to 34%. "A major catalyst to the RGCI story is

SALES & MANAGEMENT

THE POLITICS OF RADIO

■ FCC rules you can't afford to ignore

By Pam Baker

Sales & Marketing Editor
pambaker@ronline.com

Democratic National Convention fever has hit Los Angeles. You can't avoid the hoopla. The city has closed freeway offramps near the downtown Staples Center, causing huge traffic jams; the police chief is dealing with hundreds of protest groups; and radio station AEs are trying their best to get a piece of the action.

But political advertising is not a free-for-all. There are very specific rules that every station must abide by. Pepper & Corazzini LLP has prepared a special-edition reference guide to political broadcast regulations. For this column I've included some of the highlights of that report. But the best advice for AEs is: Don't accept political advertising unless you've cleared the political category, the amount of time and the spot rate with your sales manager. One mistake can cost your station thousands of dollars.

The following is from Pepper & Corazzini's Political Broadcast Regulation.

'LEGALLY QUALIFIED' CANDIDATES

There are separate sets of rules for federal and nonfederal candidates. One set of rules governs candidates for president, vice president and Congress, while another, vastly different set of rules applies to candidates for state and local offices.

Only legally qualified candidates are entitled to access. It may sometimes be quite obvious that a candidate is legally qualified. In other instances the question may be close, particularly in the early stages of a campaign or when you must decide whether a "fringe" candidate is bona fide. Unless the candidate can demonstrate that he or she meets the requirements under the Communications Act and applicable local law, the licensee is under no obligation to provide access.

REASONABLE ACCESS

Once a candidate demonstrates his or her legal qualification, he or she must be accorded broadcast rights equal to all other legally qualified opponents, and, if a candidate for federal office, must be given reasonable access to a broadcast facility. This consideration does not apply to exempt news and public affairs programming.

FEDERAL CANDIDATES

The Communications Act states clearly that all federal candidates are to have "reasonable access" to broadcast facilities. The Communications Act authorizes the FCC to revoke a station license "for willful and repeated failure to allow reasonable access or to permit purchase of reasonable amounts of time for the use of a broadcasting station by a legally qualified candidate for federal elective office on behalf of his candidacy."

While the use of the word reasonable twice in the statutory language might at first suggest a balance between candidate and licensee needs, the Supreme Court has interpreted the provision as requiring that a licensee accommodate all federal candidate requests unless there exists a realistic danger of substantial program disruption. In less extreme cases it is more likely that the FCC and the courts will come down on the side of the candidate rather than the licensee, reasoning that the candidate's needs to address the public are paramount.

In its 1991 Report and Order the FCC set out the following guidelines for determining whether a licensee's judgment in affording access was reasonable for legally qualified candidates for federal office.

- Reasonable access must be provided to legally qualified federal candidates at least during the 45-day period preceding a primary or runoff election and 60 days before a general election. Outside of these time periods the commission has said it will determine the issue of reasonable access on a case-by-case basis. It is likely to be guided by a 1980 Supreme Court decision that held that stations must provide reasonable access to federal candidates if the requests for time outside the 45- or 60-day period will not cause serious disruption.

- Stations may bar candidates from spot positions during newscasts but must make access available to news adjacencies. This ban may extend to all news broadcasts, to only certain programs (i.e., the 6pm but not the 11pm news) or only to specified portions of a newscast (i.e., to the "hard news" segments but not to the sports or weather).

- Commercial stations must sell spot announcements to legally qualified federal candidates during prime- or drivetime.

- If a commercial station chooses to donate time to legally qualified federal candidates rather than sell time, it must donate it on the same basis it sells time to nonpolitical advertisers; that is, the same lengths, classes and time periods must be available. Once a station donates time to one legally qualified candidate, it must donate equivalent amounts of time to all candidates. But there is no requirement that licensees make time available to federal candidates that is not made available to other advertisers.

- A broadcaster must afford federal candidates all of the types, lengths and classes of program time that a candidate may request unless running the requested political program or advertisement would severely disrupt the station's schedule. Thus a television station might be able to reject a request for a 10-minute political broadcast on the grounds that it could not fill the remaining 20 minutes of the half-hour. Radio stations, however, could probably not make the same claim, since most radio station programs are not normally limited to specific time lengths in the same manner as television programs. In a September 1999 Declaratory Statement the FCC stated that it confines its analysis to two questions:

1. Whether the broadcaster followed the proper standards in deciding whether to grant a candidate's request for access.

2. Whether the broadcaster's explanation of its decision is reasonable in terms of these standards.

NONFEDERAL CANDIDATES

Licensees are not required to provide access to nonfederal candidates. A licensee may be risking substantial ill will in the community, however, if it were to adopt a policy of excluding all nonfederal candidates. Although there is no requirement to provide time to nonfederal candidates, many civic leaders consider it fair and reasonable to do so. Remember, the public will look to broadcasters more than any other medium for a thorough and fair reporting of the candidates and the issues in the election.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES

Equal opportunities means that the licensee must treat all legally qualified candidates for the same office alike. It may make no discrimination in charges, practices, regulations, facilities or services rendered among legally qualified candidates for a particular office. This applies to the availability of broadcast time, the use of production facilities, the extension of credit and the application of technical requirements.

When an opposing candidate requests an equal opportunity, the licensee must consider the daypart concerned, the length of the time segment and the desirability of the particular broadcasting time (including adjacency to popular programs). The station is not required, however, to afford an opposing candidate an opportunity to appear on the same program, or even at the same time of day or the same day of the week, as long as the time segments offered are reasonably comparable. Equal opportunity does not mean an identical segment of broadcast time.

LOWEST UNIT CHARGES

Without question, the most difficult and contentious area of the political broadcasting rules is the matter of determining the correct charge for political time. Section 315(b) of the Communications Act provides:

The charges made for the use of any broadcasting station by any person who is a legally qualified candidate for any public office in connection with his campaign shall not exceed:

- During the 45 days preceding the date of a primary or primary runoff election and during the 60 days preceding the date of a general or special election in which such person is a candidate, the lowest unit charge of the station for the same class and amount of time for the same time period.

- At any other time the charges made for comparable use of such station by other users thereof.

CHARGES INSIDE THE POLITICAL WINDOW: LOWEST UNIT RATE

The difficult area is the matter of the lowest-unit-charge rules, which take effect during the 45- and 60-day periods preceding primary and general elections when most political advertising is purchased. The FCC devoted a considerable portion of the 1991 Report and Order to the lowest-unit-charge issue. The rules are complex and subject to varying interpretations, not all of which are entirely clear. The point to remember is this: The political advertiser must be treated no worse than a station's "most favored advertiser." Thus, even though the political advertiser may be buying only a few dollars' worth of spots over a relatively short period of time, the candidate must be treated as though he or she had been your best advertiser year in and year out.

POLITICAL RULES IN A NUTSHELL

- A broadcast licensee must provide reasonable access to legally qualified political candidates for federal office (president, vice president, U.S. Congress).

- When a legally qualified candidate makes use of a broadcast facility during a nonexempt program, then an opposing candidate is entitled to make a request for equal opportunities.

- Certain uses may qualify for the station's lowest unit charge. A full disclosure of the station's selling practices must be made to all political advertisers.

- All uses must be free from censorship and must bear the proper sponsorship identification.

- Each request for a use of station's facilities, and the disposition of that request, must be recorded in the station's political file.

- The Fairness Doctrine has been repealed. Stations are still subject to rules regarding political editorials, personal attacks, issue advertising and news distortion.

R&R GM spotlight

VINCE CREMONA
Sr. VP Aurora Communications and VP/GM of WICC-AM & WEBE-FM/Fairfield County, CT

■ A dream of working at 30 Rockefeller Plaza becomes a reality

This week's GM Spotlight pays special tribute to Vince Cremona. A national sales rep since 1964, this dynamic leader knows the importance of the bottom line and encourages his staff to "have fun while working hard," as one of his co-workers writes. "He's one in a million," says another R&R reader. Congratulations!

I decided to enter the world of broadcasting because:

"I kept wondering, looking out my window at Eastman reps over at the NBC Studios at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, what it would be like inside a real station. And my station clients seemed to be having more fun...."

First job in broadcasting:

"....so I walked across the street to become GSM of WNBC-AM!"

Career highlights:

"Opening a rep firm in Los Angeles at age 21. Later, running one of Eastman's then-two divisions from New York was a good thing. Turning around a legendary but failing WICC-AM in just a few weeks — worst to first — was rewarding; and, of course, helping to build WEBE (108FM) from scratch was a biggie."

The most challenging aspect of being a GM:

"Keeping different people at different levels who have different biorhythms consistently focused and motivated with minimum anxiety and maximum morale."

My most unforgettable moment at a radio station:

"One morning at a major-market station the INS was in the lobby looking for the morning man. When I went to the studio to inform him, he said, 'The jig is up,' and went out the back door, never to be seen again!"

I'm most proud of:

"Helping, with PD Curt Hansen, Sales Managers Jeff Ketcham and Ann McManus and then-principal owner Franz Allina, transform a fledgling, automated, undeveloped signal into a consistently top-rated, high-cash-flow, still-growing WEBE (108FM), competing with 46 signals listed in the spring 2000 Fairfield County Arbitron and pulling around a 30 revenue share."

The best words of advice I've ever received were:

"'Cut your losses early.' Elton Rule told me that."

You'd be surprised to know that....

"When I started at WNBC, Imus in the Morning was going for $50 a spot!"

No. 2: Failing to operate with a single market manager.

— these groups are costing themselves money. In some cases, lots of money.

Having a single market manager is absolutely necessary. It's essential to have one person whose thinking is always focused on the good of the whole rather than on that of the individual parts. Without a manager to focus clearly on the whole, it is folly even to discuss synergy. Managers of individual stations will always focus on what is good for their stations rather than what's good for the cluster. They should; that's their job. But a strong, powerful, single leader will make the swift, thoughtful decisions that are best for the cluster as a whole.

The same holds true in the sales arena. There must be an ultimate sales authority. Whether it's a VP/Sales, a Director/Sales or someone else, there must be one person who always has the good of both the whole and the individual parts always in mind. No group of managers can do this with the single-mindedness of an individual.

A market manager doesn't automatically mean a cluster will be successful, but the lack of one does portend its failure.

Next week: Efficiency lies in operating from a single location.

In the pantheon of radio deities, few have compared to the general manager. But as consolidation has hit market after market, the casualties have included many of these erstwhile demigods.

Some groups still choose to maintain multiple GMs, however. This is usually based on the idea that without a dedicated GM, the all-important broadcast cash flow will be endangered. That fits with the notion that each station in a cluster must survive and prosper on its own. But what it doesn't do — and, in fact, makes it all but impossible to do — is maintain continual cooperation among the units in a cluster.

Clusters operating with individual station GMs just don't perform as well as those that have market managers. Period. But the reasons that many otherwise well-run companies fail to appoint market managers appear to have little to do with performance. Instead, they have to do with the internal corporate clout of the GMs. A wish not to disturb the deities has led to an approach that eliminates any chance for cluster synergy. For the sake of protecting revenue in the short term — and protecting some buddies too

Amy Freeman, GSM

KIIS-FM/Los Angeles (Clear Channel)

I believe the "missing link" for great sales managers is a true understanding of management's goals and of sales' responsibilities to the station's other departments.

A great sales manager understands the goals, wants and needs of the PD as well as the marketing/promotions manager. I also firmly believe that programming and marketing should fully understand the goals of the sales team. By knowing and understanding one another's goals, all the players at a radio station can form a bond that makes it possible to tackle any and all obstacles to the ultimate objective for any radio station — big ratings and big revenue.

I'm often asked how many salespeople we have at KIIS. In the end, I believe everyone is a salesperson, from the person sitting at the front desk to the traffic department to, especially, the air personalities. If everyone understands where the station needs to be, a winning combination forms. You feel it in the halls, and it is reflected in ratings and sales for the station.

At KIIS, our entire management team meets out of the building for what we call "The Summit." Simply put, this is a creative management meeting. It's more than a standard brainstorming session with department heads. It's there that all the branches of the radio station come together and decide how each department will reach its goals under the direction of the GM.

The real lesson here is to break down barriers and maximize individual departments to the fullest. That sounds simple enough, but in my experience it's something that's frequently overlooked. Try this, and you will see your radio station reach new heights.

SELLING THE VALUE OF STREAMING

By Graham Kennan*You're on the web, you're streaming great content, and you're building some respectable numbers. So now what? How do you turn a cool technology into advertising dollars?

For those radio veterans who have experience in new business development, the question is not as daunting as it may seem. The same techniques we've used to increase radio's share of the advertising pie can also be applied to streaming. Whether our product is broadcast or webcast, in the end we are not selling a medium at all, but offering advertisers a marketing solution. The following strategies may help in your approach to streaming sales.

GO DIRECTLY TO THE SOURCE

While we are not suggesting circumventing agencies, we have found that our greatest success in introducing radio into existing media plans has usually started from contact with the client directly. Speaking to the advertiser also eliminates another problem with which some agencies may still be grappling: Namely, does streaming fall under the realm of traditional shops, since it is a form of radio, or does it go through interactive agencies, since it is transmitted over the Internet? If you are eventually invited to meet with an agency by an interested client, it is much more likely that someone at the agency will claim ownership of the project.

ASK, AND YOU SHALL RECEIVE

When speaking with an advertiser, you don't want to begin by pitching your medium, whether it's traditional radio or webcasting. In fact, you want to say as little as possible. Instead, ask the right questions, then sit back and listen. While selling radio, we quickly learned that before we knew the details of an advertiser's existing marketing plan, as well as its objectives and key issues, we had little to offer. Only after we had uncovered the advertiser's needs could we offer a solution using radio.

Exactly the same scenario applies to the sale of audio streaming. In fact, perhaps such questioning is even more crucial when you're positioning streaming, as few would debate that, at this point, streaming can rarely support a full marketing effort. It best serves as a complement to an existing media plan.

IT'S RADIO — WITH A TWIST

Before you can begin to discuss how streaming can help with a specific marketing need, you'll probably need to begin with a brief introduction to streaming. When talking about audio streaming, an obvious comparison to make is to terrestrial radio. Whether it comes from a car stereo or a computer, many of the same benefits apply — among them emotional connection, listener loyalty, ability to evoke a response and highly targeted appeal.

The twist is that audio streaming offers an added convergence between traditional radio and online media. Advertisers get the best of both worlds. According to Ed Bruno, VP/Advertising Sales for theDial (www.thedial.com), "Streaming invites consumers to respond, then gives them an immediate way to do it. It allows a consumer to go from offer to fulfillment almost simultaneously. It is truly the ultimate direct response vehicle."

In other words, a streamed spot delivers the intrusiveness of a broadcast commercial with the e-commerce capabilities of a banner ad — and the combination appears unbeatable. TheDial, for instance, reports click-through rates from directional ads (advising listeners to click a "Go" button for more information) of about 11.5%. That's compared to less than 1% for the average straight banner.

KNOW YOUR BRAGGING RIGHTS

In addition to what you can offer advertisers, mention who you can offer. While the streaming audience's qualitative profile is likely to flatten slightly as the user base for webcasting expands, the qualitative will remain an excellent selling point for some years to come. According to Edison/Arbitron Research, those who have listened to or viewed a webcast are emerging as the cream of the already upscale online audience. Online listeners enjoy higher household incomes and higher educational levels, are more likely to shop online and are more likely to respond to web advertising than the overall online user. Moreover, online listeners spend almost 80% more time online than the average online user, making it even more difficult to reach this already elusive group through traditional media.

GIVE THEM A REASON TO DO IT NOW

So you've listened. You've offered a marketing solution. You've talked about the power of streaming listeners. How do you close the deal? Give the advertiser a reason to act now, rather than wait and see. For instance, you might ask, "How are you reaching the 40% of teens who will be listening to webcasts this back-to-school season?" or, "What plans do you have in place to target the 46 million people who plan to shop online this holiday season?"

If you can position streaming as a unique tool, adaptable and available now to solve specific marketing challenges, advertisers will listen. According to Bruno, "It's getting awfully loud out there. Advertisers are hungry for a share of voice big enough to be heard above the roar."

MANAGEMENT

TURNING GOLD CALLS INTO REAL BUSINESS

By Dick Kazan

You've made a cold call, and your prospective customer is on the line. Now — what do you say? For most salespeople it will be a canned speech, often awkwardly presented. The result of that is usually a call that ends abruptly, shortly after it began. Why? Because decisionmakers are busy, and they want to know the purpose of your call and how they can benefit. So get to the point.

You might begin with something like, "Good morning, Mr. Jones. I'm My Name of Company Name. We're the fastest-growing maker of widgets in the United States. The reason I called is because you're a big buyer of widgets, and we can save you money, tailor our products to your specifications and deliver on short notice. And we offer the best guarantee in the industry. I'd like to understand your objectives so that we can not only help you meet them, but do it so well that you'll want to establish a long-term relationship with us. Our client base includes such prominent firms as (give some examples). So that I can be of service to you, what are your key objectives?"

Notice that I got right to the point. The client now knows who I am, what my company is, why I called, what the key benefits to him could be and some of our clients' names (which show that it's safe to do business with us). And I've asked him to discuss what's important to him. All in about 45-60 seconds, which is about how long you'll have before prospects will lose interest if you haven't said anything they care about.

What I didn't do was thank him for taking the call, which would tell him that most people don't take my calls. I also made sure I didn't speak to him in a nervous, halting way. How? By doing my homework and knowing his company is a large user of widgets and that he's the decisionmaker. Before that call I'd been to the company's website and studied the company, its products, its financials and other details so that at the outset of the conversation I already had a sense of what was important to the customer and why.

It's also essential to take notes. Don't assume you'll remember what's been said. Top salespeople are very busy, so they keep good records that help them to follow up on what's important to their prospects and customers. That's how they become top salespeople.

There may even be an opportunity to get an order during the first phone call, so don't be hesitant to ask for the business. In any case, your major goals on a cold call are to qualify your prospects and make them comfortable so that they'll proceed with you.

As the call concludes, establish the next step. Will it be a meeting to see their operation and make a proposal? A scheduled follow-up call? If the call ends with you agreeing to send information but with no definitive action, you've been politely turned away.

Finally, there's the rollover. After each call keep a record of what was discussed, and enter a follow-up plan, even if it's just to call back in 90 days. Some people computerize those records, but I find it very effective to keep Day-Timer planners for this year and next in a desk drawer. At the conclusion of a call I schedule a call-back with notes. When I need to call back it will already be on my schedule, along with a summary of what was important to that person and where we left things. With names, phone numbers and facts at my fingertips, it's easy to follow up.

Cold calling is difficult for most salespeople, but it won't be for you if you approach it as described here. You'll find it can be an outstanding way to generate new business.

DISCOVERING TOMORROW'S REVENUE TODAY

The challenge is always the same: How can we create an unobtrusive line between our clients and our listeners? By using its website (www.kxl.com), Portland's KXL has found a profitable way of connecting its listeners with clients without jeopardizing the listeners' trust. Oregonians are encouraged to register with KXL.com's i750 service for referrals to products and services that match their interests. i750 rewards visitors for clicking through the site and recommends with iPoints, which are redeemable for a variety of prizes including shares of stocks, Alaska Airlines Mileage Plan miles, weekend getaways, concert tickets and station merchandise.

Category: E-Commerce/Investments and Financial Planning

Market: Portland, OR

Submitted by: News/Talk KXL/Portland and KXL.com (Rose City Radio)

Client: Redchip.com

Situation: While some radio stations get dragged kicking and screaming onto the Internet, Portland's KXL has led radio's charge into cyberspace while delivering results for its advertisers. Digital Manager Rich Carr says the KXL.com has developed the i750 service, which provides a tailored experience for KXL.com visitors and drives traffic to advertisers' sites. Equity analysis firm Redchip.com is one of those advertisers. The firm researches stocks and provides several investor products. "They needed exposure, branding, sampling and top-of-mind awareness," says Carr.

Objective: Developing its brand as a research provider is Redchip's focus. Carr observes, "They have no true competition, in the sense that they focus strictly on small- and midcap research and cover only those companies that meet the very strict criteria. Redchip's own positioning statement says it was 'Discovering tomorrow's blue chips today.'"

Campaign: The original web-only campaign lasted three months, but Redchip.com began to see a response, it also saw the potential benefits of an annual campaign that included radio. The radio campaign added a schedule which ad flights ran on KXL in morning and afternoon drives adjacent to the station's business reports. Redchip.com soon became an on-air content provider with reports on local small- and midcap stocks that were of interest to KXL listeners. At one point the campaign included a promotion in which listeners could register to win 750 shares of emerging Northwest stocks picked by Redchip.com as holding high potential for growth. That promotion generated 14,000 entries!

Results: Redchip.com measures results by tracking its website traffic and the increase in area businesses wanting to be covered by the company. Redchip.com Managing Director/Research David Archibald says, "Both KXL.com and News/Talk 750 KXL are proving to be critical in our drive to brand Redchip.com as the first and last name in small- and midcap stock research nationwide. KXL and Rich Carr are aggressive and creative in putting Redchip.com in a position to garner attention in the marketplace. We are very satisfied with this partnership and intend to expand the relationship." Carr and Redchip.com look forward to the near future, when, according to Carr, Redchip.com and recent merger partner freerealtim.com will "combine forces to host a one-hour weekly financial program on KXL. The show will be syndicated to the KXL-owned Radio Northwest Network and its 20 stations throughout the Northwest." Carr is also looking into national syndication for the program.

The 10th Annual WCSX Radiothon for the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan raised $255,000, exceeding last year's total. The Classic Rock station's Morning Show With JJ & Lynne (Jim Johnson and Lynne Woodison) took over the station for a 28-hour live broadcast on July 27 to raise money for adults and children in Michigan affected by leukemia, lymphoma and other, related blood disorders. Over the years WCSX has helped to generate more than $1.5 million with its annual radiothon.

WCSX listeners were encouraged to bid on a number of auction items, including VIP passes to see Tiger Woods play at the Buick Open, Detroit Red Wing Darren McCarty's autographed jersey and hockey stick, a WCSX Backyard Concert and an Ultimate Sports Package with Detroit Lions football tickets and the opportunity to join the team on the field an hour before the game.

Ten Principles Of Good Website Design

■ Tips and rules for a 'sticky' site

By Kurt Hanson

RAIN: Radio And Internet Newsletter

KURT HANSON

A great design for your station's website is something you should strive for, of course, and it's easier to achieve than you might think. That's because the difficult and expensive stuff is exactly what you want to avoid!

Here are 10 general principles you can apply to your website with confidence. They all relate primarily to the first page of information visitors see when they go to your site — that is, your homepage. But many of the principles are also applicable elsewhere on your site.

1. Avoid Splash Pages

Many firms are so proud of their logos that they like to have a nice, attractive homepage featuring nothing but the logo and the words Enter Here. From the user's point of view, this is a total waste of time, and it's pure ego on your part. After all, your logo will be prominently displayed on the real homepage, too, right? So what's the point?

AVOID SPLASH PAGES

You've typed in the URL to go to the WGXX (Kix 106)/Memphis site at www.kix106.com. But are you allowed to go straight there? No! You're confronted by this splash page before you can get where you want to go.

2. Always Have Fresh Content

The most important content on your site is on your homepage. This content should, ideally, be updated daily. If you've got "Now Playing" software, that's great, because it allows you to update your content with every new song. A "studiocam" can also provide near-continuous new content.

3. Put The Good Stuff 'Above The Fold'

On every page of your website there are two main areas: What the user can see without scrolling down and everything else. Newspapers know that the most catchy content should be on the front page of a section and "above the fold" — that is, on the top half of the page. Casual visitors to your site will probably not take the time to scroll downward on each page, so make sure the good stuff is right on top.

It's very easy for site visitors to find the link to KSL/Salt Lake City's webcast (www.ksl.com). The webcast has a vivid graphic right at the top of the homepage.

4. Promote Forward

In the most prominent spot on your homepage, it's better, from an editorial point of view, to showcase content that's forward-looking. Try "Here's what to look forward to on tonight's Rock 108 concert calendar" instead of the backward-looking "Did you hear what happened at last night's Rock 108 concert?"

5. Avoid Multiple Menus

It's extremely frustrating for the user — and bad site design — to have multiple navigation systems on your

Blue Note Jazz Webcast Features Mayo, Flash Player

Capitol/EMI's Blue Note jazz label in January became, as far as I know, the first major record label to introduce an Internet-only station showcasing its artist roster. The station is produced in association with RadioWave.com.

There are three interesting things about the new Blue Note webcast — the first being that it's the first significant effort by a record label to launch a full-time webcast. Second, the webcast is programmed by Chicago-based former group head, GM and radio programmer Barry Mayo. Mayo, who is generally credited with creating the Urban AC format, is perhaps the best-known radio executive yet to program an Internet-only radio station.

Third, the site features an absolutely gorgeous audio player, designed by RadioWave, that incorporates Macromedia Flash animations. It provides visual effects you've never seen in an audio player before: beautiful typefaces, rollover effects, zooms, dissolves and more. The window actually seems to be a hybrid of a player and a web page, in that it appears as a browser window and includes a full web page worth of graphics and links.

As each song begins, the artist's name and album title slide into the frame, followed by a nearly full-size illustration of the CD cover. The cover art then shrinks into the upper right corner of the window.

Graphics on the player (highlighted by rollover effects in which words change color when the cursor moves over them) include links to the artist's discography, biography and tour information, song credits, an attractive Flash-based list of recently played songs and a link for listeners to purchase the CD directly from Blue Note. (But a word of warning: You have to submit your credit card information before the site reveals what your shipping charges will be!)

Make The Most Of The Web: Daily In RAIN

Even though radio station webcast audiences are currently pretty small compared to broadcast audiences, there's no question that more and more of your listeners are occasionally going to be heading for the Internet to look for your audio stream.

And once they're online there are, of course, thousands of streamed music alternatives for them to listen to. That's the opportunity inherent in the growth of Internet usage — and the threat.

RAIN: Radio And Internet Newsletter is a daily web-based newsletter designed to help you keep track of everything that's going on in this rapidly changing field. Read about web design, streaming providers, ad insertion, station promotions, Internet-only radio stations and much more.

site, especially if they're at cross purposes. It's clumsy to have one set of menu choices horizontally across the top of your page with a "Station Info" option and another menu on the left that includes "About Us." If I wanted to find contact information for the station, where would I click?

6. Don't Use Frames

Designers love them, but users hate them. What's a frame? A screen with frames is divided into horizontal or vertical sections, and each section is scrolled separately. The advantage of frames is that you can keep certain content, like your logo, banner ads or navigation menu, always visible. But the disadvantages to the users are many. Frames reduce the amount of screen real estate available for content the user actually wants. Frames also make it more difficult to mark a particular page of a site to return to later.

A possible exception to the "no frames" rule: The standard design for Magnitude Networks sites seems to include a left-hand fixed frame showing album art for the song currently playing, along with title and artist information and a few navigation buttons. Somehow it seems to work for that specific purpose.

In general, frames are more trouble than they're worth. But an exception is the Magnitude Networks design (as shown in this example from KPIG/Eureka, CA's site at www.kpig.com), where the unobtrusive frames work fairly well.

7. Don't Frame Someone Else's Page

An even worse sin is to offer a link to another site while trying to keep it within a window of your site. Since the other site's page will have been designed to fill a full screen, you'll be making it difficult to read. And that means your user will have to waste time figuring out how to break free of your frame. ("Dang you, let me get out of here!") Not only does doing this make you look bad, you'll be discouraging visitors from using your site's links.

8. Avoid Reversed Typefaces

Remember back in the '80s when DOS computers had colored type on a black background? Then the Apple Macintosh was introduced, with black type on a white screen. It was so much better! So much easier to read! If it's really critical for you to look cutting-edge, perhaps it's worth it to use light type on a black or dark background. Your site will be more difficult to read, but it will look cooler. But in general, dark type on a light background is much more functional.

9. Avoid Background Images

Nothing looks worse than having a background image — like your logo — underneath type. You might as well be telling your visitors, "Go away! Go away now!" If 11-year-olds want to have homepages with dozens of tiled Pikachus in the background, let them do it. But don't make the same mistake on your site.

KDFC/San Francisco's homepage includes "Concert of the Week," "KDFC Daily" and "Now Playing" features, all updated regularly.

10. Emulate The Big Players

Whenever you're tempted to do something fancy, take a look at what major sites are doing. Do any top company sites use frames? No. Do they use reversed type to look cool? Hardly ever. (Even MTV.com gave it up when it redesigned the site a few months back.) Look at the clean lines of the MSN site (www.msn.com). Microsoft has lots of money; it could afford to put whatever it wants on its site. Obviously, it thinks simple is best.

In Conclusion

Of course, there are exceptions to every rule. You should feel free to break one or two rules — but if you do, you should do it thoughtfully and for good reasons.

And if you strongly disagree with me on any of these points? Let me know via the feedback form at [RAIN \(www.kurthanson.com\)](http://RAIN (www.kurthanson.com)).

READER FEEDBACK

This week RAIN readers sound off about the RIAA vs. Napster battle, Internet-only stations and web-based subchannels.

From Don Goldberg:

The Digital Millennium Copyright Act is the most blatant package of First Amendment rights violations I've ever seen. It's nothing short of junior-high schoolyard bullying, and I seriously doubt it would stand a legal challenge. To most folks, music is not a commodity as much as it is entertainment, and the RIAA needs to look at how the songs are being heard, not just how they're packaged and purchased. Who the hell are they to tell you what to play and what to front-announce? It's not like you're Alan Freed doing a remote from a local record store with the promo guys in the background.

About radio stations having a hard time of it on the web: Nobody wants to tune in to a distant signal to hear back-to-back commercials, promos and jingles instead of the entertainment they're looking for. You can call it Internet radio, but it's a totally different medium. It's a new paradigm that corporate programmers will have to understand before they can rock.

Webcasting and websites are a synergistic experience, and they need to be presented as such. It's not just music, graphics, interactivity or personalization; it's all of those and more. It's not spreadsheets and databases ruling the playlist. It's all about flow and immersion. Radio has a limited time to learn this, and time's running out. You can't just throw dollars at the opportunity; you need a truly creative team to get the show on the road.

The main difference between radio and webcasting is that radio stations do their best to reach a nonexistent, hypothetical "average listener" in order to increase AOM and cume. It's mass marketing without soul. Webcasting is about "mass customization" and the need to reach individuals in a more intimate way, based on listener choices, trust, habits and flow.

Personalization is easy to justify to the bean counters but personality is what will ultimately win out in webcasting. You'll see.

From Radio Woodstock's Richard Fusco:

As a longtime radio person, I believe that announcer-free channels miss the real value of radio. Radio is personal, one-on-one, intimate medium. On-air people are essential.

From WiredPlanet's Keith Crosley:

WiredPlanet stations can be personalized for each listener. You can rate tracks and change the frequency with which they play. We don't use live jocks, but partners can program as many different liners as they want, and the rotation of the liners can be controlled in much the same way as music playlists.

Global Media Buys Magnitude In All-Stock Deal

As predicted here two weeks ago (Internet News & Views 7/28), Canadian Internet streaming company GlobalMedia.com last week (8/4) purchased certain assets of Magnitude Network, a subsidiary of iCAST Corporation, which is in turn a majority-owned operating company of CMGI Inc.

GlobalMedia said in a statement, "With this acquisition and the recent purchase of 212 contractual agreements from OnRadio.com in June 2000, GlobalMedia has taken a major leap toward consolidating radio streaming on the web. GlobalMedia acquired the assets of Magnitude for approximately $6 million [Canadian] in stock plus additional warrants.

"GlobalMedia will now provide streaming media, website development and e-commerce services for Magnitude's more than 100 radio stations across the U.S. and Canada."

On the evening of Aug. 3 GlobalMedia sent an e-mail to Magnitude's clients, headed "Welcome to the GlobalMedia Network of Associates." The e-mail announced, "We recently purchased your contract with Magnitude Network. We are very pleased that you are one of these stations and welcome you to the GlobalMedia Network."

GlobalMedia President/CEO Jeff Mandelbaum said of the deal, "With this acquisition we will now be broadcasting content for 12 of the top 50 Arbitron-rated streaming stations, a move that strengthens our value proposition to our customers and provides greater revenue opportunity by driving increased traffic to our sites."

iCAST President/CEO Margaret Heffernan added, "This will allow iCAST to more aggressively focus our energy on delivering a world-class Internet-only radio offering, an area in which we already enjoy outstanding technology and content leadership."

Magnitude's low-cost streaming deals — as low as $500 per month — had given the company shared revenues from its Music Massive CD stores, but online CD sales have not, historically, been a big moneymaker. The company also retained rights to some broadcast avails in return for streaming services.

Parent CMGI made Magnitude a division of iCAST last winter but apparently never found a good synergy between the two firms.

GlobalMedia has a market capitalization today of about $65 million, down from about $200 million last spring.

READER FEEDBACK

From The Museum of Television
& Radio's Ken Mueller:

I think this is where the real beauty of Internet radio lies: niche programming. There will be a shakeout over time, and the highly targeted narrowcasting stations will rise to the top, in my opinion. Why go to the Internet to listen to a traditional AC station or a typical commercial-sounding Alternative station? That's why a tiny station like KPIG/Eureka, CA can do better on the Internet than it does on the air. Down the line the Internet will be the "minor leagues" for new commercial broadcast talent. And a lot of established talent will probably move to the web — or do both broadcasting and webcasting — to get back the freedom they once had.

Mediapassage.com Merges With Broadcastspots.com

Broadcastspots.com, which allows users to buy and sell radio and TV inventory over the Internet, has merged with Mediapassage.com, which has processed print media transactions for such clients as Young & Rubicam and McCann Erickson. The two companies said their merger creates an "end-to-end solution" for the planning, placement, tracking and payment of all types of media. Jeffrey Trumper will continue as President of the new broadcastspots.com subsidiary (though he'll relinquish his CEO title), while Gilbert Scherer remains Chairman/CEO of Mediapassage.com. The new entity will be headquartered in Seattle, with offices in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Boston, Salt Lake City, Birmingham, Albuquerque and London.

Greater Media has named Michael Joly Director/Internet Strategies. Joly will develop Greater Media's long-term 'Net strategies and function as the company's point person for Internet radio initiatives. Same Time, Different Channel

Nicole Sandler, head honcho dudette at what was KACD/KBCD (Channel 103.1)/L.A. and is now WorldClassRock.com, and I recently spoke about the realities of moving her station from a transmitter building to a server farm.

David Lawrence

DL: What's the best thing about moving to the web?

NS: Survival, for sure. The last station I programmed sort of disappeared, and this is a much nicer alternative, especially for our listeners. We don't just fade away. They're educated, affluent and adventurous, and our research shows that they are online.

DL: What keeps you awake at night?

NS: How'd you know? I do fall asleep because I'm exhausted, but then I'm up two hours later. I read your stuff that says there are very few people listening. My main concern is that the technology keeps moving forward and that the space expands to the car, especially here in L.A., and that when the technology catches up, we are positioned to be people's first choice when they use that technology.

DL: What are your metrics for success?

NS: Showing growth, transferring over as many listeners and advertisers as we can from the over-the-air signal, and to keep feeling like we are making history.

DL: If there are no quarter-hour maintenance issues (yet) on the web, how will your clock differ from a terrestrial clock?

NS: No drivetimes, although we look at in-office listening as a spike. I think we'll do well at night as well. We're also looking global. Our shifts are longer (six hours), and we use Prophet to voicetrack and do live assist.

DL: How long a leash are your corporate holders giving you? Do they have the patience to wait for the audience to build?

NS: I hope so. I haven't been given any kind of time frame. This is their first station, but I don't think they would have done this if they were not looking to do some experimenting. They'll be happy if we break even in the first year.

DL: Have you brought terrestrial listeners into the computer store to buy their new receivers?

NS: We're giving away Kima standalone Net receivers right now, once a day for 30 days. A lot of listeners are upgrading to DSL and cable. People are asking every day what to do to hook up to their stereos, and I'm thrilled to tell them that the technology is there and is simple to use.

DL: Is the philosophy on the music the same?

NS: Absolutely. We play artists that we can get a little more adventurous with. We're not so eclectic that people scratch their heads, but we'll give them the feeling that they are hearing it here first and that our personalities are giving them the same performance they gave them when we were over the air.

USING A LIFELINE

The stay of execution for Napster has given the circling vultures a reason to smell blood on certain parts of Napster's corporate structure. If the company's fight for survival should ultimately prove to be unwinnable, many corporate junk dealers have noted that, in particular, Napster's 20,000,000-strong list of users is among the most coveted. Privacy advocates, however, note that passing those names along would be the ultimate slap in the face to those users, who treasure and rely upon the anonymity that Napster gives them.

These same experts note the difficulty that ToySmart recently had satisfying the bankruptcy court's demand that its list be sold to satisfy debt. The FTC stepped in and demanded that ToySmart's privacy policy be honored and that the list not be sold. The difference? Napster has no published privacy policy, so there may not be anything stopping them from capitalizing on this asset.

Styles Debuts NAC WSJZ/New Orleans

Styles Broadcasting launched NAC/Smooth Jazz WSJZ/New Orleans at noon on Aug. 3. The debut came after the station played versions of "When the Saints Go Marchin' In" continuously for several days.

WSJZ is programmed by Styles cluster OM Mark Edwards, who is the former PD of NAC/SJ WJZF/Atlanta. WJZF recently changed frequencies to 94.9 and acquired the call letters from another property the company owns in nearby Polson, LA. That station is also an NAC/SJ outlet and remains a Jones Radio Network NAC affiliate.

Edwards told R&R that Boney James' "Sweet Thing" was the first song played on WSJZ. "Our station owner, Kim Styles, will actually be the only voice heard for the first week," Edwards said. "On recorded announcements she'll say, 'Thanks for listening to New Orleans' Smooth Jazz 94.9 WSJZ. We're so new, we haven't even had time to hire disc jockeys yet! But we wanted to get this great music on the air for you as soon as possible, and we're playing a lot of it.'"

The WSJZ call letters were also on the Buffalo and Boston markets before being acquired by Styles.

S&A also predicts that in five years the average person will be listening to 45 more hours of radio: from 967 hours in '99 to 1,012 in 2004.

The report, released this week, shows that radio advertising's compound growth of 10% each year since 1994 has outpaced the growth of TV stations, newspapers, outdoor and yellow pages directories. Radio advertising vaulted over television and yellow pages directories to claim second place behind daily newspapers for local advertis-

This Diamond's All Jewel's

The RIAA recently presented Atlantic recording artist Jewel with the RIAA Diamond Award, representing sales in excess of 10 million copies, for her debut album, Pieces of You. The album includes the hit singles "You Were Meant For Me," "Who Will Save Your Soul" and "Foolish Games." The RIAA also certified Jewel's second album, Spirit, quadruple-platinum. Pictured during the award presentation in New York are (l-r) Atlantic Group co-Chairman/co-CEO Val Azzoli, Jewel and Atlantic Exec. VP/GM Ron Shapiro.

ing sales. Local radio ad growth came at the expense of those newspapers: Radio's share of the pie was up 3.7%, while newspapers lost 4% of local ad dollars. Television and yellow pages' shares declined slightly, but those lost local sales went to cable systems and outdoor advertising instead of radio.

Radio can now be compared to a publishing house with many magazine titles under one roof. A radio company can offer one-stop shopping for advertisers. With as many as eight possible formats in a market cluster, radio groups can offer the specific demographics for advertisers across the nation. Both supergroups, Infinity and Clear Channel, also own huge outdoor advertising companies and offer advertisers more outdoor ad impressions than any other medium.

Over the last 20 years the majority of radio listening has moved out of the home, from 52% down to 37%, and into the auto (32%) or personal stereo/office (30%), for a total out-of-home radio audience of 62%. Across the nation FM commands 82% of listening, AM 17%.

Surprisingly, Veronis Suhler does not believe that new technology will have an impact for at least the next four years. "The Internet is not expected to pilfer radio's listening audience, since the number of listeners who access live radio broadcasts via the web is insignificant and expected to decline even further by 2004."

National satellite service is focusing on subscriber fees for immediate income next year, and XM Satellite Radio and Sirius Satellite Radio, which plan to offer a limited number of commercials on their nonmusic channels, have not publicly disclosed advertising sales projections.

Although the forecast looks for double-digit growth through 2004, Veronis Suhler does acknowledge that satellite radio has the potential to create and serve even more niche formats than terrestrial broadcast radio. Satellite will be able to offer specialized formats and national coverage and will cut into the potential growth of national spot sales — but not for the next four years.

EXECUTIVE ACTION

Universal Ups Garner To SVP/Mktg. & Artist Dev.

Universal Records has elevated Kim Garner to Sr. VP/Marketing & Artist Development. In her expanded role Garner will oversee all aspects of domestic marketing and artist development for Universal's pop, alternative, dance and rock artists.

"Having worked closely with Kim since she joined the company nearly four years ago, I am confident she will continue to be instrumental in taking our artists to the next level," said Universal President Monte Lipman. "We are thrilled to recognize her achievements, leadership and commitment to our artists with this promotion."

"John is a proven creative professional who provides Priority with a dimension we have never had," said label President Bryan Turner. "His relationships and experience will give our artists and executives the attention they deserve."

Before opening SpinLab, Vlautin spent 11 years in various capacities at Island Records. He began his career in 1985 at Columbia Records.

Nassau

"Despite strong earnings results and projections of continued double-digit growth rates, radio stocks have continued to falter along with the rest of the Nasdaq market," said Nassau President/CEO Louis Mercatanti. "Radio stocks generally trade in sympathy with the technology stocks, and we believe we would be better served withdrawing the offering at this time. Our company is strong, and we have strategic plans to move forward. We'll stay on that track."

And he'll stay on the phone. Just after the company announced its decision to halt the IPO process, the phone began to ring off the hook with other investment opportunities. For Mercatanti, it was the sweet after the bitter. Within hours he had reeled in Salomon Smith Barney to help him sort through new offers and ideas. While the Princeton, NJ-based group hasn't dropped the notion of one day trading under the Nasdaq symbol "NBCR," it now has investors and bankers offering opportunities, Brenna said. Salomon Smith Barney director Tristram Collins will act as lead banker for Nassau, which says it's still on track to close on its acquisitions of nine stations from Aurora Communications and two from Clear Channel.

Cat Fight Roundup, Part Two

Founding Supremes member Mary Wilson is milking the whole Diana Ross and the New Supremes tour fiasco for all it's worth. People reports that Wilson is now embarking on her own tour, complete with non-Supreme backup singers. But unlike la diva Ross, whose top ticket price was $250, Wilson is charging only $40.

The mere mention of Diana Ross' name makes Patti LaBelle fly into a rage, says the Star. LaBelle even stopped a recent performance and dissed Ross onstage, accusing her of poaching from her band. According to the zine, she claims that Ross stole Cindy Birdsong from her group The Bluebells in 1967 and asked her to be a Supreme.

Pointer Sister June Pointer tells People that she has successfully completed a drug rehab program and is ready to rebuild her life. But her sisters aren't ready to throw her back into the group, says the Enquirer. The zine says that her drug addiction caused big problems during the group's 1996 tour, resulting in money losses and bad publicity.

Whitney Houston's drug use has sparked an investigation by the New Jersey child welfare office to determine whether she's an unfit mother. She's in danger of losing custody of her daughter, say the Star and the Enquirer.

Stones Rocker Is 'N Sync Too

Rolling Stone Keith Richards surprised his teenage daughters with front-row tickets to see 'N Sync, says the Star. He and his wife accompanied them to the concert and even took the kids backstage to meet the band.

Mick Jagger isn't too fond of daughter Elizabeth's decision to quit school and model full-time, says the Globe. Ex-wife Jerry Hall says Mick thinks it's silly because Elizabeth doesn't need the money. The cash must flow pretty freely in the Jagger household: The Star says Mick recently left a $100 tip for a $30 tab at a Hollywood restaurant.

Rod Stewart is pretty free with the cash too. He recently gave his girlfriend $1 million to redecorate his London home, says the Star. She's getting rid of all the French country antiques Stewart's ex-wife Rachel Hunter favored and changing everything to a 1960s Austin Powers theme.

Kings Of Pain

The Tattoo the Earth tour, featuring Slipknot, is being called "the caravan of pain" because

LOCK UP YOUR TELEVISIONS — That's a warning from Papa Roach frontman Coby Dick. He tells Rolling Stone, "As soon as we're certified platinum, we're launching TVs. It'll be an homage to rock 'n' roll. But the whole old-school, rock-star idolatry is bullshit. And it's over. People like Slipknot are breaking it down. It's cool to be a rock star, as long as you're not a cock star."

world-famous tattoo artists are setting up to ink concert-goers, and the stage is designed to look like Stonehenge gone wrong. Slipknot lead singer Corey Taylor tells Rolling Stone he finds the idea of everybody being in pain at once, all day long, appealing.

In other Slipknot news, when word got out that photos of the band members minus their horror-show masks existed on the Internet, fans visited various Slipknot-related websites to download the pics. When they did, they also found sermonizing posts by Slipknot fans who support the band's anonymity. And while some fans have put the photos up for sale at eBay, the pro-anonymity fans have resorted to creating fake photos and putting them up on the web to throw the fans off. (Spin)

Spice Girl Mel C is having second thoughts about all her tattoos. She says, "When I first started doing this, I didn't think about aging. But now I'm starting to panic about how I'll look in 20 years. I hope I don't look ridiculous." (Globe)

It's All About The Style

Forget about tattoos. Style is all about looking good, and looking good means good hair. Tim McGraw is wearing his trademark black cowboy hat a lot less often now because he's recently gotten a brand-new look, thanks to hair transplants, says the Globe. His new locks can be seen in the video for "Let's Make Love," a duet with wife Faith Hill.

Liberace was so determined to hide his baldness that he wore his hairpiece to bed, the Enquirer reports. He even refused medical treatment during his last days because doctors asked him to remove the hairpiece.

Ralph Nader: Today's Radio Is 'Pretty Dismal'

The consumer crusader and presidential hopeful is highly critical of the broadcast industry

Speaking at last month's Conclave 2000 in Minneapolis, longtime consumer activist and Green Party presidential nominee Ralph Nader delivered an address filled with strong criticisms of not only News/Talk radio, but of the overall broadcast industry in the post-deregulation world.

Let me warn you right from the start: Nader's remarks were not even remotely kind to the industry. Throughout his 50-minute speech, in which he characterized the FCC as weak and ineffective and the NAB as totally politicized, Nader's message to broadcasters was crystal clear. Except for what he labeled a few modest excep-not surprising to hear that he is not particularly happy with the deregulated radio business he sees today. "We're seeing historic concentration of ownership and the homogenization of radio to levels that, just 10 years ago, no one would have ever dreamed of predicting," he said.

"Much of this came about, of course, as the result of the 1996 Telecommunications Act, something that got very little coverage on television and commercial radio. It was as if this legislation — which was quite historic — was not controversial or newsworthy."

Nader next offered those gathered — mostly broadcasters, record industry professionals and students — some statistics on the ownership concentration to which he was referring. "Following the passing of that legislation in 1996, 4,000 of the 11,000 commercial radio stations in this country have been sold," he said.

"In the 50 largest radio markets, three firms now control access to more than half the radio markets. In 23 of those 50 markets the three largest firms control 80% of the radio audience. The irony here is that radio, which is relatively inexpensive and ideally suited to local and independent ownership, has instead become probably the most concentrated and centralized medium in the United States."

Talk Radio Weakened

Reminding the audience that only a few years ago it was Talk radio that was largely responsible for forcing Congress to walk away from a proposed pay increase for themselves, Nader bemoaned the fact that he didn't think a similar thing could happen in today's Talk radio environment. "During that time I did appearances on about 200 different radio shows in a very compressed period of time," he recalled. "The result was that more than 200,000 calls came in to members of Congress, and the pressure was enough to pull the bill off the House floor.

"The reason that Rush Limbaugh keeps attacking government and hardly ever attacks corporate abuses and corporate crime is because government doesn't advertise and corporations do."

"But, believe it or not, Congress is once again looking at giving themselves a pay increase, even in this election year. Democrats and Republicans have agreed not to campaign on the pay increase, and anyone who would seek to challenge an incumbent by using that issue will essentially be cut off from all support. So I said to myself, 'Hey, I'm going to go out there on Talk radio and raise this issue again.' But the question is, where am I going to go? Clearly, Rush Limbaugh is not going to discuss this issue very much. Or how about Dr. Laura? Do you think she's going to discuss this issue?"

Nader thinks much of the problem is due to the fact that many air talents are no longer talking out there. "The problem is that many of the hosts whose programs used to be available to discuss an issue such as this are gone," he said. "And they're not being replaced by up-and-coming young people. Instead, they are being replaced by people who don't talk about these issues and who are increasingly turning Talk radio into mostly self-confession programming.

"I used to say that commercial radio talk shows were the most free and robust discussion left in mass media, and, to some extent, that is still true. But it's shrinking. Talk radio is becoming more of an entertainment source than it has ever been before."

Too Cozy With Customers

Nader blames a too-close relationship between corporate-owned radio and its advertisers for the lack of discussion of what he calls substantial issues that need to be explored on Talk radio today. "Although talk hosts discuss things that are in the news, such as Elian Gonzales and the like, they don't gravitate to more serious subjects, because they do not want to take on any topics that might challenge their advertisers' interests," he said.

Once again, Nader invoked the hugely successful Limbaugh: "The reason that Rush Limbaugh keeps attacking government and hardly ever attacks corporate abuses and corporate crime is because government doesn't advertise and corporations do."

Nader firmly believes that advertisers who put pressure on stations about what they discuss on the air are the real culprits. "Auto dealers and other advertisers have absolutely no hesitation about picking up the phone and telling radio management that they will stop spending money on their station if hosts continue to discuss subjects that are not in that advertiser's best interests," he said.

"And a lot of times those advertisers don't even have to pick up the phone because there is a self-censorship element that happens at radio. They know not to bite the hand that feeds them."

Make More, Give More

Nader is disturbed by the financial gains made over the last few years by the newly consolidated broadcast companies and suggested that radio stations should be giving much more back to the communities that they are licensed to serve. "What's really disturbing to me is that radio is making more money than ever before," he said. "So now is the time that some of that money should be dedicated to more local public affairs programming and more local coverage of the community. Instead, that money is being concentrated into a profit-mania that knows no boundaries."

To illustrate, Nader cited a comment he said was made by Viacom chief Sumner Redstone during a recent interview with CNN. Nader was highly critical of Redstone for his response to a reporter's question asking how he got along with Infinity/CBS head Mel Karmazin. "He said that he and Mel got along just fine," recalled Nader. "Because — and I quote — 'We have a common interest. We are both driven by our stock price.' End of quote. You know, they used to be ashamed to say that in public."

As another example, Nader took Time-Warner CEO Jerry Levin to task for comments that Nader attributed to an interview done last January. "He made a remarkable statement," Nader told attendees. "You begin to wonder what these guys will say in private when he states publicly that he thinks the global media is more important than governments, educational institutions and nonprofit organizations. Now that's an ambitious statement, don't you think?"

"But, more importantly, what did he mean by that? Given what the global media ignores, with its focus on entertainment and its advertising revenue and profit-center mentality, to me that is a very disturbing view of the world by one of the leading media magnates."

Industry Too Greedy

If broadcasters in the audience had not been paying close attention to what Nader was saying up to that point, his next comments surely got their ear. "Do you know any industry that is greedier than the broadcast industry?" he asked those gathered. "If you can tell me any industry — even the drug industry — that's greedier than the broadcast industry, I will show you a visiting Martian!"

Getting no reply from the room,

Nader continued. "Let me illustrate. Here is an industry that has gotten the airwaves for free since Day One. Broadcasters pay no real license fee to the FCC for the privilege, and then they get to decide what people will say on those airwaves 24 hours a day. And they make a pretty good profit off that.

"Now you'd think that would be enough, wouldn't you? Nope. When the digital spectrum came in, Congress gave it to the broadcast industry. Then-Senator Bob Dole — a rock-solid conservative — called it one of the biggest giveaways in history, with an estimated value of $70 billion."

Low-Power Lobbying

Nader next turned his criticism toward the industry's opposition to proposed LPFM broadcasting. "The FCC — which has already abandoned most of its public responsibilities — makes an offer to receive license applications for community-based low-power FM radio," he said.

"Hundreds of groups of all sorts of persuasions and ideologies filed applications. But through the lobbying efforts of the NAB, broadcasters have already gotten the House of Representatives to pass a bill that essentially stopped the FCC from going forward, and now they're working the Senate.

"These community radio stations will have a broadcasting radius of perhaps 3 1/2 miles. They have to be nonprofit, and they can't sell ads. So where is the threat? Broadcasters say the threat is interference with their stations' signals.

"Now I'm someone who has been pretty critical of the FCC over the years, but one thing I've learned is that you can rely on their expertise in this area. The real reason that commercial broadcasters are against LPFM is because they do not want any emerging competition for audience. And the reason public broadcasters oppose it is because they don't want any emerging competition for foundation grants and other sources of nonprofit funding."

Broadcasters Could Overreach

Sounding matter-of-fact in his assessment, Nader told the audience, "There always comes a time in American history when an industry overreaches. The auto industry overreached. Years ago the railroads and the banks overreached. They all invited some major reform movements that we are benefiting from to this day.

"The biggest power being used by the broadcast industry is to reduce the expectation level of the American people about what they should expect from radio and television. It's easier to prejudice the audience, dumb it all down, and then say, 'Hey, we're making a lot of money, so we must be doing something right.' We've heard that before. It's like the food industry saying, 'Hey, we're selling all this sugary, fat-filled food, so we must be doing the right thing.'"

Nader went so far as to suggest that he believes the industry could see antitrust actions in the future, if it continues on its current path. "One thing we can do is to take a look at the antitrust laws again," he said. "When you're down to about six massive media conglomerates that control the majority of audience, readers and listeners, and when more and more of a city's radio stations and other media outlets are controlled by one firm, you do get into antitrust concentration issues."

Nader says it could be the very advertisers that radio has courted that might bring about such investigations. "Advertisers are getting very upset at having fewer choices while paying higher and higher rates," he explained. "And that is radio's business community. When the business community contacts the Justice Department, that's when things start happening. Just as Microsoft about what happened when Sun, Oracle, Novell and others sat down with the Justice Department. The same holds true with members of Congress."

How History Will Judge Us

Nader pulled no punches in summing up with his own view of how the future will judge us. "When historians in the 22nd century look back on us," he said, "they will ask a question. Given all the talent in this country, all the voices that needed to be heard and all the serious issues that needed to be discussed, why did the owners of these conglomerates choose another path? And the answer is 'money.' They wanted more money for themselves as executives through their stock options, bonuses and so on. The bigger the conglomerate, the richer they became."

"Why is it that they want to be hyper-rich instead of just super-rich? Why are they distorting the fabric of this entire communication system, right down to the good local reporters that they laid off in order to be hyper-rich? What is the difference between being rich, super-rich, or hyper-rich when the price paid is the debasing and degradation of great communication mechanisms, one that could be the pillar of deliberative democracy that can help solve many of our problems and prevent many injustices? That's what it comes down to. The shorthand word for it, my friends, is greed."

"When you're down to about six massive media conglomerates that control the majority of audience, readers and listeners, and when more and more of a city's radio stations and other media outlets are controlled by one firm, you do get into antitrust concentration issues."

BMG, Davis Agree To Deal

The Hollywood Reporter reported on Tuesday that former Arista head Clive Davis and BMG Entertainment have agreed on terms for a new label to be helmed by Davis. The deal ends months of negotiations and is expected to be made public next week. The $180 million joint venture calls for the creation of Davis Entertainment, which will serve as the holding company for a still-unnamed label. Davis will hold a 50% equity stake in the new company. Don't expect any multi-platinum artists to depart Arista for Davis' new firm. However, according to the Reporter, Angie Stone, Next, Deborah Cox, LFO and Shannon Curfman will move to Davis Entertainment. Also expect Arista Exec. VP/GM Charles Goldstruck to serve as Davis' No. 2. Other staffers said to be joining Davis are Alan Newham, Tom Corson and Richard Palmese.

Clive Davis

Weird rumblings are emanating from Los Angeles regarding the fate of KZLA as a Country station. A station exec reportedly told reps from MJI Broadcasting that KZLA would not be signing up for the CMA Awards Show package and that "things don't look good." Could that possibly portend a change before the awards show, set for Oct. 4? Thus far it appears that no labels have stepped up to the plate for the $250,000 ad and promotion package offered by Emmis in a Music City meeting in late July. The deadline for that deal is Tuesday (8/15).

Talk America has relocated all network operations from Canton, MA to Las Vegas, but it looks like President Tom Star won't be making the move and will reportedly leave the company. When asked about Star's departure, Talk America EVP Paul Lyle told ST that Star is presently on administrative leave pending a decision from shareholders.

Salsa's Sliding Success

Two weeks ago Crain's New York Business investigated the significant drop in listening experienced by Spanish-language radio stations in the spring 2000 Arbitron survey and cited Spanish Broadcasting System's Gotham VP/GM Carey Davis as being concerned about whether the proper amount of Hispanics were counted in the ratings. On Sunday The New York Times offered its own explanation of the troubles WSKQ (Mega 97.9) has been having in the last six months: "Salsa, the dance music from Puerto Rico and New York ... is virtually dead both in terms of sales and the paucity of promising new artists. Where Marc Anthony, at the peak of his success three years ago, sold 400,000 copies of Contra la Corriente, the newest pretender to the throne, George Lamond, sold 41,000 copies of Entrega last year, putting him in the league of a good-selling jazz artist."

The article, written by former Times jazz and pop music critic Peter Watrous, then blamed salsa's demise not only on the record companies and the dwindling number of nightclubs, but on radio as well. "Radio, once music's lifeblood, has become a major part of the problem, sticking to imitations of years-old hits and ignoring new, youth-oriented trends. [Mega's] programming has become lackluster as the music has grown stale and, unsurprisingly, listeners have tuned out." When asked for comment, Davis told ST he hadn't yet seen the article and could not offer an opinion.

The fine editorial staff of the Times's wide read Arts & Leisure section were also kind enough to feature a huge color photo of KRTV L.A. nighttimer Dick "Huggy Boy" Hugg, "The Dick Clark of the Chicanos" — on the first page of the section last Sunday. However, an article on the disappearance of "Chicano Radio" in Southern California failed to include an interview with Hugg and mentioned him along with fellow SoCal pioneer DJ Art Lab — in just one paragraph. The bulk of the article focused on the demise of a radio program hosted by Daniel "Sancho" Castro that noncommercial KPCC/Pasadena dropped when Minnesota Public Radio assumed control of the financially troubled FM.

Clear Channel/Toledo and the Toledo Blade have agreed to a consent decree that requires News/Talk WSPD to properly attribute items based on the Blade's stories. The decision marks the end of a bitter dispute between WSPD morning host Mark Standriff and the newspaper, which accused Standriff of stealing articles and passing them off as his own. Clear Channel/Toledo VP/Market Manager Andy Stuart tells ST the decree does not acknowledge that WSPD was at fault.

Ginuwine Impostor

550 Music and Epic issued a press apology on Monday that an individual whose sounds exactly like R&B artist Ginuwine on the telephone has been passing himself as the artist for the past month. He's conducted radio station interviews and has confirmed personal appearances in exchange for telephone numbers of and information on artists, actors and industry execs. Furthermore, the fake Ginuwine has even booked concert appearances and been paid by unsuspecting promoters, managers and private citizens for travel and set-up expenses. Epic is advising those who have been in contact with someone claiming to be Ginuwine to contact local authorities to file an official police report. Identity theft is a serious and growing problem (an individual at Street Talk Central was

Leave it to Clear Channel CHR KSLZ/St. Louis to stage a "Boobies Like Britney" contest. WSTR/Atlanta Ops Dir. Alan Hennes was recently asked by Atlanta fashion and lifestyle mag Jezebel if he'd like to appear in a "Most Eligible Bachelor" pictorial. Hennes declined, but after discussing the offer with his boss, he eventually agreed. WSTR then placed Hennes' mug on its website, told listeners about the feature and provided an e-mail link to contact Hennes. As of Aug. 2 Hennes had received 170 e-mails from interested women! Among the tidbits in his bio: "I don't like to play head games and define sexy as someone who is daring and confident. Ideally, I would like to meet someone who takes good care of herself, is fun, happy and has a positive attitude."

Dreamworks Nat'l CHR promo star Pau Tuggey and regional Reed Shackelford recently stopped by Charlotte to have dinner with WNKS PD John Reynolds and MD Jason McCormick to discuss the latest release from Kina. At one point during the meal Tuggey started discussing Tammy Faye Messner, who has reunited with former husband Jim Bakker (for business only) and restarted the PTL Club. Tuggey was told that the PTL campus was still very active, and she was able to convince the others to drive 90 miles to the site. The quartet sneaked in and were promptly greeted by a security team who arrested them for trespassing. Reynolds eventually contacted an NKS staffer, and all four were bailed out of jail early the next morning. On the way out of lockup Tuggey was heard to have asked, "This won't blow our chances of getting the job, will it?"

Y-100 To Give Band Big Break

WHYI (Y-100)/Miami has teamed with famed producer Emilio Estefan to find the industry's next big star. The station will audition recording acts over the next month as part of Y-100's "Big Break" promotion, with the act making the cut and getting the opportunity to produce two singles with Estefan's Crescent Moon Records. After all of the contestants are given the chance to try out, the field will narrow to three acts that will compete for the prize at the station's annual Wing on Oct. 21-22.

Music As Cable TV

■ Jupiter report says labels should create a subscription model to tap into web

Subscriptions. Electronic storage lockers. Those are the buzzwords in Internet music circles these days as the record industry ramps up its efforts to commercialize the popular song-duplicating services now exploding on the web.

At least one market researcher thinks that the major labels can generate enormous fees from monthly online music subscriptions and "a la carte" downloads from Internet storage lockers. Such services would, of course, be identical to the My.Mp3.com service that brought a lawsuit from the RIAA and a verdict against My.MP3.com creator MP3.com.

Aram Sinnreich

In a report titled "The Future of Music: The Shift to a Service Model," released late last month, Internet research firm Jupiter Communications predicted that the online music retail biz will turn into a $5.4 billion market by 2005, driven in large part by some kind of subscription service. Jupiter's prediction for total offline and online sales by 2005: $22 billion in the U.S.

A Bullish Future

That estimate is big-time bullish, considering that Jupiter estimates that the online music market will total $836 million this year. Additionally, no major label has yet begun to offer online subscriptions, and a la carte offerings, which have only recently started to hit the web, are priced at around $1.99 per song.

The "U.S. Online Music Spending" chart (below) highlights Jupiter's projections. Jupiter contends that labels, in order to combat such services as Napster, Gnutella and Scout, "must actively license their catalogs to third-party digital music providers and be prepared to market the resulting services in tandem with media and commerce partners."

Services like Napster have, according to Jupiter, been driving the market. In fact, a companion survey of around 2,300 online music fans shows that Napster users are 45% more likely to have increased their overall music purchasing than non-users.

Aram Sinnreich, a Jupiter analyst following the online music industry, writes in the report, "Record labels and intellectual-property owners have demonized various forms of online music sharing even as sharing has gained enormous traction among consumers. The truth is that a better-informed consumer will purchase more music products online and off."

Major labels can combat the song-duplicating services if they can bring value-added services to the table.

No Going Back

Millions of users have effectively become hooked on the ease of use of the unlicensed song-duplicating services, and Jupiter argues that those users aren't going to go back to their old ways anytime soon. But, says the research firm, major labels can combat the song-duplicating services if they can bring value-added services to the table.

Guaranteed music file quality and virus protection were two services consumers said might make them switch to a pay model. Notes the report, "Consumers have identified those two features over other content offerings, such as artist chats, album art and an advertising-free zone, as most important in their decision to pay for a music subscription service."

Along with the chance to cut down on piracy, the potential for big, fat subscription fees is luring the labels. The average monthly revenue per household in the cable TV business (basic cable services only) is estimated to be $31.85 in 2000, according to Veronis, Suhler & Associates' 1999 Communications Industry Forecast.

There are estimated to be about 67.6 million homes hooked up to basic cable. The same survey predicts that there will be 41 million homes wired to the Internet in 2000, with an average monthly bill of $20.33. In contrast, the average household in the U.S. will spend only about $11.99 a month on recorded music this year. So it's not surprising that, to the labels, subscription services smell like an opportunity.

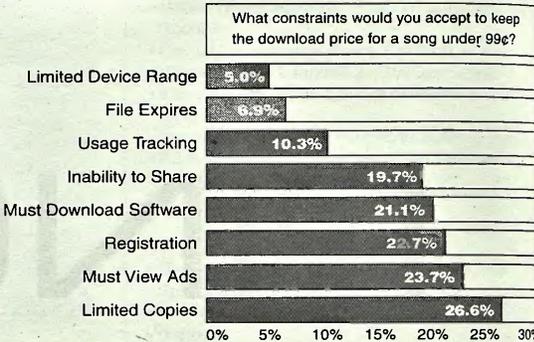

Internet upstarts have already begun rolling out such services. Last month Emusic.com unveiled EMusic Unlimited, which offers access to 120,000 songs at a cost of $19.99 for a one-month trial, $14.99 a month for three months or $9.99 a month for a year. Additionally, Myplay.com recently launched the second version of its storage locker service. But for now, those companies don't have access to anywhere near the quantity and quality of repertoire that could be offered by the majors — and that probably isn't going to change in the near term.

Bookkeeping Nightmare

Sony has reportedly financed Uville.com, a full-service music and infotainment site that offers downloads and a storage facility. Warner Music Group is examining a subscription service offered in tandem with AOL, and other majors are expected to soon join the fray. But building a viable business model isn't going to be easy.

First, cable and Internet subscriptions are easy to price and implement — one cable or 'Net provider, bill. Not so with music, which is most entirely controlled by five or more conglomerates. Add to that rights clearances and payments to songwriters, artists and others, and you have a bookkeeping nightmare.

Nevertheless, Jupiter foresees things in this arena. Sinnreich writes, "There has been a dramatic change in the Internet music industry in the last year, but it's not in number of dollars that consumers spend; it's the whole music experience. What we are seeing is the opportunity for a new format of product in the commercial music industry, enabled by digital music service providers who can wrap tools, technology and content around the old library of songs."

15's 'Distracted' Gets CHR Programmers' Attention

15, with their international makeup, are making inroads in the U.S. The Giant/Reprise Records quintet — whose members hail from the U.S., Mexico, the Philippines, England and Israel — are finding success at CHR/Pop with their debut single, "Distracted," which last week was thisclose to breaking onto the top 50 chart.

Among the stations supporting the single are KHTS/San Diego — the weekly spins leader at 31 for the period of July 27-Aug. 2 — WNOU/Indianapolis; KKRD/Wichita; WSTW/Wilmington, DE; WYCR/York, PA; WKSS/Hartford; WAEZ/Johnson City; KSMB/Lafayette, LA; WDJX/Louisville; WAPE/Jacksonville; WEZB/New Orleans; KZZP/Phoenix; WKIE/Chicago; WYKS/Gainesville; and WPRO/Providence.

15 first came to the attention of Giant Records last fall. Head/A&R Jeff Aldrich remembers, "During lunch with 15's manager he told me about some of his new groups, and he gave me an 15 demo. After I listened to it, I asked them to come visit the office and perform a few songs. They pretty much knocked my socks off, not only with how well they performed, but with how personable they were. I immediately introduced them to a lot of people in the company, and everyone felt the same way. After that we went after them very aggressively and, thankfully, signed them quickly."

On finalizing the deal, Aldrich and A&R exec Craig Coburn set about lining up such hitmakers as songwriters Diane Warren; David Frank and Steve Kipner ("Genie in a Bottle," "The Hardest Thing"); and Shelly Pelken and Guy Roche ("What a Girl Wants," "Almost Doesn't Count") and producers Cutfather & Joe (LFO, B*Witched, Five) for the project.

That's a pretty heady lineup for an unproven pop act, and Aldrich gives a lot of credit to 15. "They met with all the writers and really sold themselves," he says.

Having a star-studded team on board presented another challenge: Namely, ensuring that all the varying writers and styles of music blended well on the disc. Aldrich comments, "The common ground was always 15's vocals, and we also had the same person mix the entire album. But another important aspect in using multiple writers was that we had the writers produce their own songs. It was a challenge, but everyone paid very close attention to making sure there was a cohesiveness about the project."

On the promotion front, Giant realized that it faced a challenge going with a mainstream pop song at the same time that new songs from Madonna and 98 Degrees, among others, were being serviced. Giant Head/Promotion Bob Catania recalls, "That's why we decided to lead with 'Distracted.' It has a unique feel and attitude to it that helps separate 15 from the other acts out there."

Catania, who gives huge credit to the Reprise staff for helping set up the record, says he got his first hint of things to come based on the early response at WHTS/Quad Cities IA-IL. "[OM/PD] Tony Waitkus had 15 come by the radio station and put them on the air. Their personalities captivated not only him, but his audience as well. Based on that appearance and only spiked airplay, the song was top five phones for around five days."

Giant also benefited from concert bookers' eagerness to get the group in front of people. In the midst of a radio promo tour, 15 landed opening slots with LFO and on the Nickelodeon tour. Catania continues, "It was difficult juggling everything, but in the end it turned out to be more credible. Instead of calling radio and asking programmers to come hear a new band, we were asking them if we could stop by the station because we were in town on tour."

WVKS/Toledo PD Bill Michaels gives "Distracted" high marks. "What I really like about it is its high energy and fantastic hooks. It's a great-sounding record, and it's generating phones. What more could you ask for?"

Michaels cautions against comparisons to other all-female acts. "You have to be very careful with some of those records because there can be a kind of backlash. I can see where some people would want to lump 15 in with the other acts, but that would be a mistake, because as soon as we put it on, people started calling."

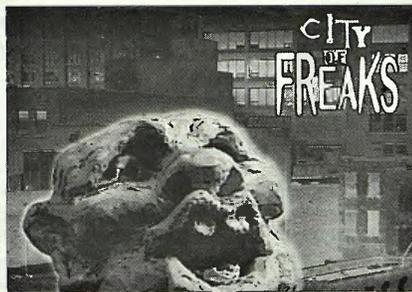

Going forward, Catania says the label and management are lining up another support slot on a major national tour. Radio shows, naturally, will also be part of the picture.

15's self-titled debut album will be released Sept. 12.

Ready For Takeoff

Hard rock fans should give a listen to the New York-based outfit City Of Freaks, whose debut single, "Godless," was added last week at Active Rock WXRC/Charlotte. The group are managed by veteran label exec Doug Dombrowski and signed to his Buffalo-based record company, 41 Records.

Dombrowski, who has just started working radio, expects other stations to follow 'XRC. "We've just serviced the record to Active Rock and some Alternatives, depending on their playlists," he says. "We're pretty much going to go full-blast in the next few weeks, and hopefully we'll pull in a few stations each week, which is about as much as you can expect as an independent."

City Of Freaks

Once the stations come aboard, Dombrowski plans to begin working each market aggressively. "I've been calling on a lot of these stations and these guys for years, so I have the relationships," he says. "Also, we use Select-O-Hits out of Memphis as our distributor, so once we get the airplay, we can get records out very quickly. But right now we're just feeling our way around and trying to build a story and then bring a major aboard."

Contrary to previous reports, the Roskilde Police in Denmark won't pursue criminal charges against Pearl Jam for the deaths of nine people at the annual Roskilde Festival. The police department debunked reports that it held the group "morally responsible" for the tragedy and that it had accused Pearl Jam of "whipping the crowd into a frenzy." • Spanish Broadcasting System's fiscal Q3 revenues were up a record 28%, from $27.3 million to $34.8 million. Broadcast cash flow was up 15%, from $16.4 million to $18.9 million, while after-tax cash flow rose a whopping 49%, from $5.3 million to $7.9 million. On a same-station basis, net revenues rose 13%, and BCF was up 14%. SBS Chairman/President/CEO Raul Alarcon Jr. credited the growth to the group's expansion in top Hispanic markets, higher profit margins and better returns from established stations. Q3 station operating expenses increased 46%, or $5 million, to $15.9 million, primarily due to the inclusion of operating results from the cluster of Puerto Rico stations SBS acquired from AMFM. The group earned 7 cents per share after losing 19 cents last Q3. First Call does not cover the issue.

• Radio Unica's strong Q2 beat estimates after the Miami-based operation said revenue shot up 69%, from $4.6 million to $7.7 million, while EBITDA improved 61%, from a loss of $4.8 million to a loss of $1.9 million. Net loss applicable to common shareholders decreased from $10.4 million (94 cents per share) to $6.8 million (32 cents). First Call analysts had expected a 36-cent loss. Bear, Stearns & Co. analyst Victor Miller reiterated the issue as "attractive."

• Interop reported that Q2 revenues jumped 11%, to $26.9 million, while EBITDA grew 18%, to $6.6 million. After-tax cash flow rose from 36 cents per share to 39 cents, beating First Call's estimate of 31 cents per share. The company's earnings per share improved from a loss of 23 cents to a loss of 14 cents.

"We are very happy," Chairman/CEO Ralph Guild told R&R. Guild and CFO Bill McEntee have been conducting a roadshow for fund managers over the past three weeks and have been, Guild said, "getting a terrific reception. Some are saying right on the spot, 'We are buyers.' We need to get people to understand the rep business, and we have been pretty successful with that. We are the only independent player in the business, and we have seen growth ever since we went public." The company has had public debt since June '98 and launched its IPO last December.

• Q2 earnings for Jefferson-Pilot's communications sector were up 18%, from $7.8 million to $9.2 million, while broadcast cash flow grew from $18.4 million to $21.2 million, a 15% gain. The company credited the radio group, which includes 17 stations, for driving the growth.

• Salem Communications reported that Q2 net income came in at $1.6 million, or 7 cents per share, for the quarter. Last Q2 Salem's net loss was $3.5 million (21 cents). Net broadcasting revenue increased 16%, from $21.4 million to $24.8 million, while broadcast cash flow was up 9%, from $10.4 million to $11.3 million. On a same-station basis, revenue rose 11%, and BCF grew 10%.

• American Tower's Q2 revenues increased from $59.2 million to $167 million, and EBITDA was up from $23 million to $43.3 million. American Tower is on track to build 1,500 towers this year. PART TWO OF A TWO-PART SERIES

X Marks The Top Spot In San Antonio

Morning driver proves different is good

In part two of our interview with outrageous KTFM/San Antonio morning man Dr. Drex, he helps us explore what it is about his show that's captivated the market and catapulted he and his co-hosts, Miss Ree and Roberta Varela, to the top. They have been No. 1 12+ at the CHR/Rhythmic for 18 books in a row.

Drex points out that he does a "trashy, outrageous, entertaining" show, but that he knows where the boundaries are. He says that management helps him to be No. 1 by not forcing him to play music or do station appearances. Unlike shockers Howard Stern and Mancow, Drex has found a way to retain his edge and still win big with women. In fact, he is No. 1 with women 12-17, 18-24, 18-34 and 25-34 and No. 2 by a tenth of a point among women 35-64.

Drex's motto is "Different is good," and different has proven to be very good for his show and the ratings and revenue at KTFM, which was recently sold to Infinity.

R&R: What about the old line "This show will only work in San Antonio"?

DD: I don't think so. This is a microcosm of just about every city in America. Granted, it's a melting pot, especially with the Latino explosion, but I ask you, who else is out there appealing to ethnics and whites at the same time and picking up huge female numbers doing all that? I can't think of one other show that's doing all that with this outrageous kind of radio.

R&R: Would you ever think about doing FM Talk?

"Howard Stern? We'll beat him. Within two books. Absolutely. I have no doubt."

DD: Oh, absolutely.
R&R: Do you prep?

DD: All I do is the show. I mean, my job is to do the show. I don't hand out bumper stickers at the arena on a Saturday afternoon. I'm not doing nightclubs at 11pm on a

"They don't care if you shook their hand or kissed their baby; they could care less. All they want to do is be entertained."

Wednesday. I refuse to do it. I'm a firm believer in this: All anybody cares about is what comes out of the fucking box! That's it. They don't care if you shook their hand or kissed their baby; they could care less. All they want to do is be entertained. These guys leave me alone. My job is this morning show. I'm like a heart surgeon, and the morning show is the heart. I work on the patient every morning. I make sure the heart's in great shape.

This is something I feel very strongly about, and it's another benefit of working at this radio station. PD Cliff Treadway has let me do just what he lets every other person on this station do: blossom. This affords me the opportunity to sit at home and work on the show. I am constantly on the computer, watching television, absorbing all this stuff. I have mountains of notes. I really am married to my gig. Shaking hands and kissing babies isn't going to give me one more point, not even one tenth of another point.

R&R: You mentioned Jerry Springer last week. Are you doing Springer on the radio?

DD: We are trashy, but it's trashy lifestyle stuff that attracts females. I could sit there and talk politics. I'm a pretty smart guy and well-read. Maybe someday when I'm older I'll do that kind of Talk radio. But, quite frankly, this is where the money is, and I'm into it. I love it. Some people who don't like me may say things like, "Oh, that show is so trashy. They talk about sex and stuff all the time." They may be right, but my job is to get ratings. I know exactly how to get the numbers. That's why I've won 18 books in a row. I know exactly what I'm doing. I always tell our PD, "Hey, guys, the day I don't know what I'm doing, show me the door." I'm smart; I've saved my money.

R&R: They've also given you the canvas and paint and said, "Paint your own picture." Are there any guidelines for you?

DD: They absolutely let me paint my own picture every day, and, no, there are no guidelines. When I started doing the show, they needed a full-time receptionist just for the bitch calls. If you ain't bitching, I ain't winning; I'm not doing my job. I'm not trying to shock, but I have found that the more I let loose and don't care about what everybody else thinks of me, the better we do.

I speak very strongly and boldly on whatever the issue is, and I do it in exactly the same manner and tone as I would when I'm off the air. I let the chips fall where they may. I have found that has served me well. It works so much better than always trying to be somebody or something that I'm not.

R&R: How do you keep the phones ringing and maintain that biting attitude for four hours a day?

DD: I know how to do this. I can feel it. It's like flying an airplane. You've got to feel it, just little moves here and there. For instance, with the girls, I've got to keep it moving. There is an art to it, and that's why not everyone can do Talk radio.

R&R: And what about those off days when you can't get going?

DD: My briefcase weighs about 50 pounds, and I always have something standing by. I can tell when something is not working. You have to be prepared. I prepare the show. Like, tomorrow's topic is "Bitchmas in July." "Merry Bitchmas. It's

Drex Unplugged

Here's a sample of a few Drex bits that have exposed him to local, regional and national media.

- In 1997 he strapped a Tickle Me Elmo doll to a stake and blew it away with a .44 Magnum, making front-page news.
- In 1998 he tied a Furby to a commercial-grade mortar and blasted it 1,000 feet into the air, where it exploded. The story was picked up across the U.S. and, ultimately, around the world.
- In 1999 he deep-fried Pikachu. Pokémon met his fate. In addition to making the media rounds in Texas, the story was picked up by CNN.
- In 2000 he had his butt waxed live on the air.

RADIO PEOPLE SHOULD BE HEARD, NOT SEEN

It's not even Halloween, and (l-r) Roberta Varela, Miss Ree and Drex are grand marshals of some weird-ass parade in San Antonio.

Bitchmas in July." I sat here last night with a glass of wine, and it just came to me. That took one minute. I wrote it down, put it in my briefcase, and there's the show. That's the way it is. It's free-range.

R&R: Your first week on the air must have been really unbelievable.

DD: It was. Advertisers bailed, the GM's and PD's voice mail were full, and poor Cliff, he was in the general manager's office from morning till night.

R&R: Was it shaky for a while?

DD: Yes, but I give them so much credit for sticking through it. Now their lives are very easy, at least when it comes to the morning

R&R: How long did it take for the needle to begin to move on the ratings and for things to calm down inside the radio station? When did you start getting some of those advertisers back?

DD: The ratings started moving after the first book. It took six months for the phones to calm down and for people get over the fact there was no more music in the mornings. It flared up again when I put Ree on the air full-time. The conservatives came out of the woodwork again, but they are like a bunch of circumcised penises: They are all desensitized.

R&R: Are there advertisers that still won't advertise with the show?

DD: I don't know. We're always sold out. They keep on adding units. Somebody's making a lot of money. Hey, anything we can do for you, Mel.

R&R: You are sitting down there with all this success, 18 No. 1 books in row. Why hasn't New York or L.A. come calling?

DD: They did, last year when my contract was up. I could have gone a couple of places, but Cliff and Mr. Waterman, who owned the station, paid me major-market money. That's why I'm here. I'm a single guy. I could have gone anywhere. They paid me the money, and they don't make me play records. I was talking to Philadelphia, and they were like, "Couldn't you play a couple of records?" I said, "No fucking way. The moment I play one record, I'm a DJ."

R&R: Are you looking forward to your tenure with Infinity?

DD: I hope we'll stay on the air here in San Antonio and become even bigger in other markets. I hope show. We have the ratings, and revenue to boot. They also realize that I know all to well where to draw the line when it comes to pushing the envelope on the air. I learned where that line was years ago when I was doing nights. I walk up to it all the time. Sometimes I tiptoe over it, and I almost fall on my face, but I know where it's at.

I have never gotten a radio station sued, and I've never been sued. I know what the FCC rules are. Sure, I cuss, but I know the few words you can't use, and I know what will scare females away. It's really important that you know all these things.

Most Added is the total number of new adds officially reported to R&R by each reporting station. Songs unreported as adds do not count toward overall total stations playing a song. Most Increased Plays lists the songs with the greatest week-to-week increases in total plays. Weighted chart appears on R&R ONLINE MUSIC TRACKING.

172 CHR/Pop reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total plays for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 2500 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. Gross Impressions equals Average Quarter Hour Persons times number of plays (times 100). that there is a hole in the Infinity chain to make this thing huge. That's what I'm hoping for.

R&R: If you get on in a major market where Howard Stern is No. 1, like New York or Los Angeles, can you beat him?

DD: We'll beat him. Within two books. Absolutely. I have no doubt.

R&R: How?

DD: I have no doubt that we'll just whip his ass. Howard really doesn't get huge 12+ numbers or any female numbers. We are so different, and different is good. I think that's a message to programmers out there.

R&R: Are you CHR's Howard Stern?

DD: No, I'm not. We are our own thing. I don't want to say I'm Howard Stern, because what we do is totally different. I don't do wacky bits and song parodies. I don't do fake commercials. I don't do any of that.

R&R: Ever had an aircheck in the past five years?

DD: No, none of that. We've never had an aircheck meeting once.

R&R: For all the morning talent reading this, any Drex words of wisdom?

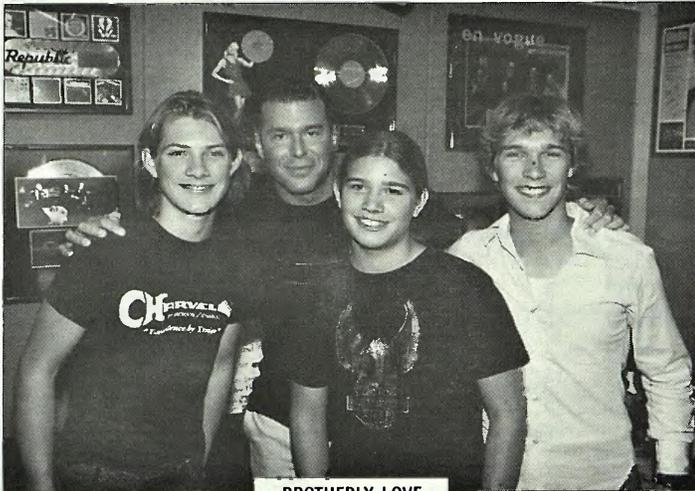

DD: If you truly think that you are an artist, and you want to put your balls on the line, then you need to work at a radio station where you get to paint the picture. If you don't get to paint the picture or a program director gets to paint a third of it or half of it, you are never going to make it. You have to be true to yourself. You have to go with your gut instinct. I realize many times that's easier to say than to do, but if you are truly an artist, you've got to be able to paint the whole picture and not have people hold you back.

That's one reason why I got out of the Morning Zoo thing in Detroit. I wanted to leave Detroit because I knew that eight records an hour wasn't going to work for me. That was not the direction I wanted to go. If I was still playing eight records an hour, I wouldn't be living in the country. Remember, different is good, and sometimes program directors have to take chances with their personalities. They've got to let them run.

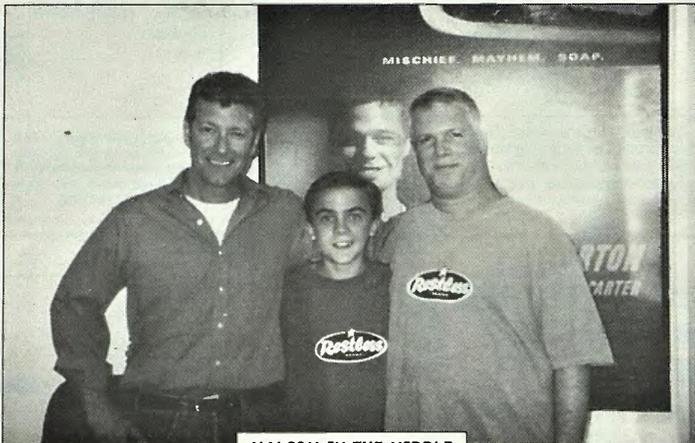

FOR THE RECORD

The ratings recap for the KTFM morning show in last week's issue should have specified that all results other than persons 12+ and 12-17 were for women only. We apologize for the error.

BROTHERLY LOVE

Island recording trio Hanson went to Houston to promote their new project This Time Around and joined in a live chat session on KRBE's morning show. During their visit to the station the brothers hung out with PD Jay Michaels.

MALCOLM IN THE MIDDLE

THE HARDEST PART ...

Professional tennis player Serena Williams takes time out from the court to attend the WHYI (Y-100)/Ft. Lauderdale Summer Splash in Miami. The concert featured performances by Enrique Iglesias, Mandy Moore, Vitamin C, Kef, and LFO. Williams is pictured here with (l-r) PD Rob Roberts, Interscope's Chris Lopes and James Bishop.

Most Added is the total number of new adds officially reported to R&R by each reporting station. Songs unreported as adds do not count toward overall total stations playing a song. Most Increased Plays lists the songs with the greatest week-to-week increases in total plays. Weighted chart appears on R&R ONLINE MUSIC TRACKING.

66 CHR/Rhythmic reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total plays for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played 21 on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 1000 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. Gross Impressions equals Average Quarter Hour Persons times number of plays (times 100). ARTIST
BREAKDOWN

BRITNEY SPEARS Track: "LUCKY" Label: JIVE

It seems as if every time I turn on the TV there's a McDonald's commercial advertising the sale of the new Britney Spears CD. Just about every kid I've come across knows the words to her recent No. 1 single, "Oops! ... I Did It Again." And recently this growing young star was voted the hottest female entertainer during the Teen Choice Awards. Young, gifted and popular — sounds like the girl in her latest release, "Lucky." • This is the story of a girl named Lucky. She's beautiful, popular, and every guy wants her. She has everything she's ever wanted, but she's still unhappy. Every little girl wonders what life must be like for her. They want to be like Lucky. They want people to envy them. They want all the attention and success. They would probably trade in everything they have to be her. • "And they say she's so lucky, she's a star/But she cries, cries, in her lonely heart/If there's nothing missing from her life/Then why do these tears come at night," sings Spears. • This is without a doubt one of my favorite songs. This record hits home for a lot of people. Every time you pick up a magazine or watch TV, you'll see someone who looks so happy and whose life seems so fulfilled. But when the cameras are off, the lights go down, and it's time to go home, are they still smiling?

INDUSTRY PROFILE

PD Doc Wynter
WJBT/Jacksonville

I knew I wanted to be in radio after my first mike break on my college station [Trinity College's WRTC/Hartford, CT] in 1982. The problem was that my majors were in computers and economics. • I was the PD and host of the Quiet Storm at KMJM in St. Louis before I came to Jacksonville. I became the PD of our sister station, WSOL, in May of 1996 and then added WJBT duties in December of 1996. I added Director of Urban programming duties for Jacor in October of 1998. In January of 2000 I assumed the same responsibilities for Clear Channel after its merger with Jacor. Our Senior VP of Programming, Tom Owens, appointed me to the position. He's been a great mentor and has taught me incredible lessons in loyalty. I also owe a lot to Kevin Metheny at WTAM/Cleveland who was one the reasons I chose to leave market 18 to come to market 51. I learned a lot from him. • Since I've been at the station, WJBT has gone from No. 2 to No. 1 18-34, and WSOL went from No. 9 to No. 2 25-54. Healthy co-existence has been the challenge! I have two great music directors: KJ (WSOL) and Tiffany Green (WJBT). I wouldn't be where I am today without them.

As The Urban World Turns

■ Snapshots depict some of radio's and records' memorable moments

Taking a break from the seriousness of ratings, acquisitions, marketing and the like, we've decided to share with you some of the memories we have accumulated over the past few months. From Mary J. Blige to Kelly Price, from Will Downing to Coco Brown, this week's column is an assemblage of people just having a good time. Let a smile be your umbrella!

THE NEW PHAT CAT PLAYERS

WHERE'S THE SUNTAN LOTION?

VOTE AND BE HEARD!

Some heavyweights have gotten involved in the launch of Rap the Vote 2000, which attempts to drive urban youth to "speak out against injustice, vote and march as an army." Pictured are (l-r) Rev. Al Sharpton, Mary Blige, Martin Luther King III and Russell Simmons.

MALE BONDING

Motown recording artists The Temptations stopped by Walt "Baby" Love's The Countdown and hung out with the Reverend/Urban Editor/radio personality. Capturing memories are The Temps, Love (c) and Motown West Coast Rep Philipp "West Side" Embuido (third from right).

KELLY PRICE ... AND FRIENDS!

The First Lady of Def Soul paid a visit to R&R last week, and though we were all excited to meet Miss Price, it was obvious that Urban Editor Walt "Baby" Love really couldn't contain himself. Kidnapping the vocalist for a quick snapshot are (l-r) R&R Encoding Mgr./Music Meeting Al Machera and CHR Sales Rep Paul Colbert, Love, Price, R&R Asst. Urban Editor Tanya O'Quinn and Dir./Urban Music Marketing, Music Meeting Herb Jones.

THE BEAT OF A DIFFERENT DRUM

THE PLAYERS' CLUB

Just look at these handsome devils! On a promotional trip to the East Coast, Motown recording artist Will Downing stopped by WHUR/Washington, DC and visited with PD David Dickinson and PD Hector Hannibal. With Motown East Coast Rep Dwight Willacy as the icing on the cake, it seems these four are ready for the runway. Seen here (l-r) are Dickinson, Downing, Willacy and Hannibal.

A photograph of four men standing in a desert landscape. The man on the far left is wearing a white tank top and a white cap. The man next to him is wearing a red patterned shirt and sunglasses. The man in the center is wearing a white polo shirt and sunglasses. The man on the far right is wearing a light blue button-down shirt and a chain necklace. They are all looking towards the camera.

Most Added is the total number of new adds officially reported to R&R by each reporting station. Songs unreported as adds do not count toward overall total stations playing a song. Most Increased Plays lists the songs with the greatest week-to-week increases in total plays. Weighted chart appears on R&R ONLINE MUSIC TRACKING.

82 Urban reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total plays for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 1000 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. ARTIST BREAKDOWN

ARTIST: TONI ESTES
TRACK: "HOT"
LABEL: PRIORITY

At a recent convention I had the pleasure of meeting Toni Estes during Priority's breakfast showcase. Many people woke up early for the free meal and were treated to great performances by my future ex-husband, Lil' Zane, Sauce Money and, of course, the lovely Miss Estes. While I enjoyed scrambled eggs, fresh fruit, French toast and merlot (I had my own stash), Priority artists rapped, sang and danced their arses off! Lil' Zane's "Callin' Me" has him "summoned" to No. 37 on the R&R urban chart (8/4); Sauce Money's "For My Hustlers" is simmering under a low flame; and the heat of Estes' "Hot" has ignited the playlists of 42 of our 82 mainstream Urban stations. Hmm. Could Priority be on to something special that didn't come out of the Death Row or No Limit camps? Someone who wasn't a "na with attitude" or affiliated with one? R&B Priority style, the saga continues....

Along with Rodney Jerkins, Estes penned three songs for Whitney Houston's latest project, and she wrote the unrelenting "I Can't Let Go" for Laurnea's velvety vocals. Production credits on her forthcoming album, Two-Eleven, go to such notables as JonJon, Warren Campbell and Teddy Bishop. As for songwriting, Miss Estes co-wrote eight of the 12 tunes contained on the album. "Two-Eleven is filled with real sentiments and real emotions," Estes exclaims. "It comes from the heart." (So is it safe to say she's suffering from heartburn? 'Cause her debut single is rather heated.)

"Hot" is nowhere near as complacent as Whitney Houston's "It's Not Right, but It's OK" (for which Estes received a Grammy nomination in the R&B category for her songwriting contribution). Estes vehemently and frankly expresses her appreciation to her man. This admittance of infatuation is an uptempo joint emitting blazing sensations over a fiery track. A la Toni Braxton's "Making Me High," Estes confesses to dude the intense effect he has on her. "Baby since I been with you I can't stay away from you/I swear, what you be doin' got me so wide open, and I can't control it babe/Baby I'm so into you, you make me wanna stay with you every second of every minute/Got me so wide open, and I must admit it that you're hot." (I get the impression that she really likes dude; what do you think?) So now that dude has a big head (maybe two, I don't know), Estes strokes the ego even more: "Can't front, the love you givin' to me is the best/Straight up, the bomb diggity."

"Hot" is a lyrically sparse song with heavy production — good for the clubs. This is one of those tunes with active production and very little vocal dependence. However, I believe Estes is capable of holding her own on a ballad. The bumping track makes you want to shake something, but I think Estes has the vocal ability to make you feel something. Getting your attention is the purpose of this debut single, and it's very likely that it will accomplish that goal. Toni Estes sounds like Kelis (not when she's screaming "I hate you right now!") with a Toni Braxton style (a moaning, groaning delivery that teases the melody of the song). This young lady definitely has the ability to leave her mark on the music industry. Peace.

Boyz II Men
"Pass You By"
(Universal)

PD/MD — KIIZ/
Killeen-Temple, TX

I wonder: Has the move from Motown to Universal put Boyz II Men in shock? The first record that they release in about three years or so is a totally unremarkable song. This surprises me. While it is written by some of the members of the group, I'm quite sure there will be better things on the album, perhaps some songs that would have led the album off in a much stronger fashion than this. While it's serviceable, it's definitely not memorable. I would expect more from a classy act like Boyz II Men. Their first album, Motown Philly, was their best project thus far. It was raw; it was playful. Success breeds more success, and with the guys going for "big-named" producers, my expectations for this album are so high. They've outlasted Jodeci, Shai and a lot of their peers, but I don't think this is the way they did it. Jodeci broke up; Shai and II D Xtreme (among others) just didn't have hit records. These guys have had strong, well-written, well-crafted singles in the past, and I don't think that this one compares in quality to their past releases.

Midyear Music Checkup

■ A year-to-date look at the most-played songs and artists

We're seven months into the new year, and it seems like a good time to see which artists and songs are carrying the load and how new artists are faring in a tighter-than-ever environment.

Of course, whenever we delve into the inner reaches of radio music programming, we turn to Mediabase 24/7 as the authority on plays. The parameters are Jan. 1, 2000-July 31, 2000.

The Top 15 Artists

During that span, George Strait has received more airplay on Country radio than any other artist. His 432,137 total plays easily eclipses Tim McGraw's 398,449 plays. Likewise, no one has more titles still on the air than the venerable Mr. Strait, who has 133 different songs getting airplay.

Taking a further look inside the top five:

Since our time frame is only this year, it's not surprising to see that Strait's most recent single, "The Best Day," is his most-played song, with 119,076 plays. Next on his list is "Write This Down," while "Check Yes or No" is in third place with 23,078. Rounding out Strait's top five are "What Do You Say to That" and "Carrying Your Love With Me." There are no real surprises in his top 20.

McGraw's top tune is "My Best Friend," with 105,507 plays. That single, from earlier this year, bests "Something Like That" and his most recent single, "Some Things Never Change." Completing his top five are "Where the Green Grass Grows" and "Please Remember Me." His first two hit singles, "Indian Outlaw" and "Don't Take the Girl," rank 13 and 9, respectively. McGraw scores his amazing airplay stats with only 41 titles.

Garth Brooks' most-played song is "Do What You Gotta Do," with 30,982 plays, followed by "When You Come Back to Me Again" (24,377), "Friends in Low Places" (21,785), "Ain't Goin' Down" (20,620) and "Two of a Kind, Workin' on a Full House" (19,316). He has 112 tunes getting airplay.

Alan Jackson has 60 songs getting airplay. On top is the current "It Must Be Love" at 45,512 plays. Next are "Pop-a-Top" (39,027), "Chattahoochie" (21,955), "Livin' on Love" (20,654) and "Little Bitty" (20,298). Early hits "Don't Rock the Jukebox" (1991) and "Chasin' That Neon Rainbow" (1990) remain strong, ranking 8 and 12, respectively.

The appearance of The Dixie Chicks in the top five is made even more incredible by the fact that they have only 27 songs getting airplay on Country radio — and over half of those are album cuts! The ladies' most recent hit, "Cowboy Take Me Away" (103,920), leads in airplay, followed by their current single, "Cold Day in July" (35,741), which is still early in its life, "Goodbye Earl" (34,486), "Ready to Run" (32,429) and

"Wide Open Spaces" (28,103) complete their top five. By the way, an album cut from Fly — "Sin Wagon" — comes in at No. 11.

It's also interesting to note that while the Chicks are the only women in the top five, ladies occupy the sixth through ninth positions, meaning they make up half of the top 10. While I don't have any stats for past years, I would bet that having female singers in five of the top 10 spots is a relatively recent phenomenon.

Finally, for those who are counting, a total of 299 different artists — including duets — received 300 or more spins on Country radio in the first seven months of this year. Some interesting names are among the 300, and they are listed here along with their ranks in parentheses: Little Texas (57), Tanya Tucker (71), Restless Heart (76), Ronnie Milsap (95), Nitty Gritty Dirt Band (96), Eddie Rabbitt (109), Dan Seals (139), Johnny Lee (151), Roseanne Cash (153), Earl Thomas Conley (154), Barbara Mandrell (178), Charlie Rich (188), Eddy Raven (193), Pure Prairie League (199), The Eagles (210), Jerry Reed (239), Ronnie McDowell (243), Terri Gibbs (277), Bobby Bare (280) and Atlanta (289). Most plays in the lower range, of course, emanate from airplay of a lone record — such as "Sweet Country Music," in Atlanta's case.

(For reference's sake: The No. 100 artist got 12,498 spins, No. 150 got 3,959 plays, No. 200 got 1,227 plays and No. 250 got 583 spins.)

Most-Played Songs

Since Jan. 1 of this year 500 songs — current, recurrent or gold — have received 80 or more plays. Only four have received more than 100,000 plays. Toby Keith's "How Do You Like Me Now" leads them all, with 125,062 spins, beating George Strait and "The Best Day" by almost 6,000 plays. Relative newcomers Andy Griggs and Chad Brock both crack the top 10 on the strength of big hit singles, "She's More" and "Yes!" respectively.

There are seven songs by women in the top 25, although Faith Hill and Reba McEntire each contribute a pair of hits. There are

New To The Top 15

As slow as the national charts have been for the last 13 months, it's interesting to note that five new artists have cracked the top 15 for the first time with singles in the first seven months of this year.

Capitol's Keith Urban is the only act to turn the trick twice. He peaked at No. 15 on Jan. 15 with "It's a Love Thing" and is still climbing the charts (No. 11 on July 25) with "Your Everything."

Arista's Phil Vassar was next to break a record, with "Carlene." It topped out at No. 4 on April 21 and spent four weeks in the top five.

Virgin's Clay Davidson hit No. 3 on July 6 with "Unconditional," a song that spent a month in the top five.

Lyric Street's Rascal Flatts' debut single, "Prayin' for Daylight," is still going strong as of this writing, sitting pretty at No. 3.

Most recent to have hit the top 15 for the first time is Mercury's Eric Heatherly, whose debut single "Flowers on the Wall," is at No. 19.

It's interesting to note that Vassar, Davidson, Rascal Flatts and Heatherly all notched a hit in the 15 for the first time with their debut singles. For Urban, it's his first as a solo artist after having singles with The Ranch.

In case you wondered, Lee Ann Womack's "I Hope You Dance" at No. 19 with 74,403 plays is a long, long way to go. It's likely to be one of the biggest records of the year or any other year.

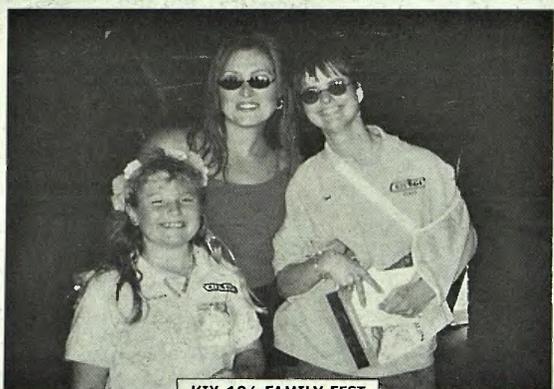

This December, of course, we wrap up the year in music and see how much the tunes and artists have changed.

History Meets High-Tech

Country Music Hall of Fame looks toward satellite radio, digital films

As the new Country Music Hall of Fame building quickly rises in downtown Nashville, behind-the-scenes activities are in the works to bridge history and the future.

The $37 million structure isn't scheduled to open until next May, but the Hall of Fame has recently entered into agreements for a satellite radio presence and three films designed to connect visitors to the essence of country music.

The Hall of Fame's partnership with XM Satellite includes the broadcast of a live five-hour show daily from a state-of-the-art digital studio to be built in the new museum. The programming will include XM's daily show, along with daily specials featuring current country stars and rarely heard historical performances and recordings from the Hall of Fame's archives.

It's an impressive music library too. Imagine the programming possibilities — and the challenges — when dealing with more than 200,000 recorded discs and thousands of hours of audio tape. Explaining the reasons for partnering with XM, Hall of Fame Director Kyle Young says, "Because this growing collection includes some of the most important music in America, our goal is not only to preserve it, but to give it life and meaning by making it accessible to the largest possible audience. Our partnership with XM Radio allows us to tie that music to the present and build considerable equity in the Hall of Fame brand, presenting a quantum leap for the Hall of Fame and for country music."

XM's consumer service is set to launch during the first half of 2001 for a monthly subscription fee of $9.95. XM's Nashville broadcast complex will be an all-digital studio that will be integrated into the company's 82-studio facility in Washington, DC, the largest radio facility of its kind in the world. XM's Nashville studio will be built in a glass-enclosed section of the new Hall of Fame building, which has 45,000 square feet of exhibition space.

Under terms of the new agreement, the Hall of Fame programming will be offered on several XM channels. Content will include The Country Music Hall of Fame Hour (featuring hourlong profiles of country music legends complete with rare recordings), Today in Country Music History (which will also include material from the Hall of Fame's archives) and Backstage at the Country Music Hall of Fame (highlighting new live performances and rebroadcasts of classic concerts).

The Country Music Hall of Fame and Gaylord Cable Networks have hired The Collective, a Nashville-based company, to produce three high-definition digital films for the new Hall of Fame. The working titles for the three films are Heart and Soul, This Moment in Country and Superstar Experience. They will be directed by Thom Oliphant, the CMA's 1999 Music Video of the Year winner for The Dixie Chicks' "Wide Open Spaces."

Heart and Soul will be presented on a series of large screens spanning more than 100 feet of space in the Hall of Fame's exhibit areas. The screens will move vertically between the third- and second-floor galleries, and the films will include country music testimonials from contemporary stars in several genres of music.

The other two films will be screened in separate state-of-the-art theaters designed by Jaffe, Holden and Scarborough, acoustical experts whose clients have included the Lincoln Center, Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center. This Moment in Country will include footage from around the world, including the annual Barretos Rodeo in Brazil. Superstar Experience, to be filmed on location this fall, will chronicle a day on the road with a touring superstar.

Gaylord Cable Networks will retain distribution rights for the films on cable and satellite and plans to air the films outside North America on the new global network MusicCountry.

McGraw Faces Lesser Charges

A felony charge has been dropped against Tim McGraw, who was arrested with his production manager and Kenny Chesney following a June 3 altercation backstage at the George Strait Country Music Festival in Buffalo. The three men still face misdemeanor charges in connection with the incident, which began after Chesney allegedly refused to get off a sheriff's department horse.

Chesney, McGraw and production manager Mark Russo were all arrested, but McGraw was the only one facing a second-degree felony charge of assaulting a police officer. The second-degree assault charge carries a maximum jail term of seven years. Erie County, NY authorities reduced the felony charge to one of third-degree assault, a misdemeanor with a maximum one-year jail term.

In addition to the third-degree assault charge, McGraw still faces other misdemeanor charges of obstructing governmental administration, menacing and resisting arrest. Chesney faces a charge of disorderly conduct, and Russo is charged with resisting arrest and obstructing governmental administration. A Dec. 5 court date is set for the three men.

In a prepared statement McGraw said, "Given all the facts that have been provided to the district attorney's office — and as a result of their investigation — at the first scheduled court appearance, the felony charge has been dropped."

However, Erie County Sheriff Patrick M. Gallivan was not pleased that the felony charge was dropped. Gallivan told the Buffalo News, "I should make it very clear right from the start that the decision to reduce these charges was not based upon the facts of the case. The facts clearly support felony charges. Rather, it was an exercise in prosecutorial discretion on the part of the district attorney."

The sheriff was also not pleased with the way the country singers have reacted to the incident. Gallivan told the Buffalo News, "It is not a funny thing. It is not OK that Faith Hill dresses up in a uniform and takes away Tim McGraw in handcuffs at a performance and makes light of the situation. It is not OK for Kenny Chesney to get on a horse and go on Jay Leno and make fun of it. It is a very serious matter, and we take it as such, which is one of the reasons that I am disappointed that it has come to this, that the felony was reduced to a misdemeanor."

Metal and Nominations

When the CMA Award nominations were announced last week, Brad Paisley realized that he's among the candidates for Male Vocalist of the Year, a field that includes Vince Gill, Alan Jackson, Tim McGraw and George Strait. Paisley joked, "They made a big mistake. I can't wait to sit there and lose to my heroes on that one. I'm totally shocked. I don't really know what to think about all of this."

Canadian Country Nominations Announced

Just a day after the CMA Award nominations were revealed last week in Nashville, the Canadian Country Music Association announced nominees for its annual awards show.

Not surprisingly, the list of CCMA nominees included Shania Twain, The Wilkinsons and Terri Clark, all native Canadians who continue to enjoy widespread success in the U.S.

Tara Lyn Hart and Julian Austin are each listed in six categories and join Twain in a tie for the most nominations. Twain is up for Female Artist and the Fans' Choice Award. Her "Rock This Country" is nominated for Single, Video and Song of the Year, and the international version of Come on Over is nominated as Top Selling Album.

Hart's nominations include Female Artist and the Rising Star Award, along with Album of the Year (for her self-titled debut). Her release "Stuff That Matters" is up for Single of the Year, SOCAN Song of the Year and Video of the Year. Calgary-based Julian Austin received nominations for Male Artist and the Fans' Choice Award, with his Back in Your Life nominated for Album of the Year. The title track is also under consideration for Single, Song and Video of the Year.

The Wilkinsons, big winners at last year's CCMA show, are up for Fans' Choice, Single of the Year (for "Jimmy's Got a Girlfriend") and Album of the Year (for Here and Now). In the Top Selling Album category, Garth Brooks in... the Life of Chris Gaines (which wasn't deemed a major success in the U.S.) is nominated at the CCMA Awards.

The CCMA Awards are set for Sept. 11 at Edmonton's Skyreach Centre in Alberta, Canada. Coinciding with Canadian Country Music Week 2000, artist manager Leonard Rameau and singer Colleen Peterson will be posthumously inducted into the Canadian Country Music Hall of Fame.

Here's a complete list of this year's CCMA nominations.

Rising Star Award: Steve Fox, Adam Gregory, Tara Lyn Hart, John Landry, Amanda Stott.

And life is good for Kenny Rogers, who has had an eventful few weeks. Not only was his "Buy Me a Rose" nominated for CMA Single of the Year, his Dreamcatcher album She Rides Wild Horses has received platinum certification from the RIAA. She Rides Wild Horses, Rogers' 19th platinum album, brings his cumulative U.S. sales total to more than 50 million. As for his Single of the Year nomination, his first CMA nod in 14 years, Rogers says, "It's great to be nominated with today's biggest stars. I'm on cloud nine."

The RIAA's other country certifications for July include gold awards for Clay Walker's Live, Laugh, Love and Billy Gilman's One Voice (which received certification just four weeks after its release). As was previously reported, The Dixie Chicks' Fly received certification in July for sales of 6 million copies.

Most Added is the total number of new adds officially reported to R&R by each reporting station. Songs unreported as adds do not count toward overall total stations playing a song. Most Increased Points/Plays lists the songs with the greatest week-to-week increases in total Points/Plays.

149 Country reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total points for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining points/plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total points/plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs achieving airplay at 60% of reporter base for the first time. Songs that are down in points/plays for three consecutive weeks and below No. 1 are moved to recurrent. Gross Impressions equals Average Quarter Hour Persons times number of plays (times 100). OUT OF THE BOX

Cody Alan, MD
KPLX(The Wolf)/Dallas

CHRIS CAGLE "My Love Goes On and On" (Virgin)

My first reaction to Chris Cagle: Wow! This is the guy country has been waiting for! Cagle's music is powered by a high-octane, asphalt-rippin' sound that has gotten a tremendous early reaction on the Wolf. Plus, I love where Cagle comes from musically: an area somewhere between Lynyrd Skynyrd, Garth Brooks and Charlie Daniels. "My Love Goes On and On" is an infectious tune with the drive and momentum I've recently missed in country music. A wide variety of sounds has always been a major part of country's appeal to listeners. It seems to me that in our current musical climate of pop and sap, Texan Cagle's fiery brand is the perfect shot of adrenaline we all need.

ON THE RECORD

BILLY RAY CYRUS "You Won't Be Lonely Now" (Monument)

This is one of the best records I've heard this year. I really feel that Billy Ray is one of the most terrific people in the business. He's the consummate professional. He's always friendly, helpful and kind. And now he has put together a phenomenal project. "You Won't Be Lonely Now" is a great record that really doesn't sound like anything else that's on the air. His voice sounds fresh; and the production is fresh too. Billy Ray has always been a big fan favorite here in the Tri-State area, and his live shows have always been a strong draw. To say the least, the requests on the record are already strong on B-105. It's also one of the few records that I actually reach over and turn up the volume on when it comes on the radio. I've heard a lot of people say that too.

DISTINGUISHED COMPANY

During Brad Paisley's recent outdoor concert in Mineral Wells, WV, West Virginia Gov. Cecil H. Underwood presented him with the "Distinguished West Virginian Award." The honor is given to native West Virginians who have shown a lifetime commitment to community service and excellence in their field.

TARGETING FEMALE LISTENERS?
SOME MORNING SHOWS ARE JUST A HUGE BUST.

Some morning shows will try anything to relate to women, only to come up flat. Dressing up your current lineup or hiring just any woman isn't enough. You need the real thing - someone women can understand and relate to on a daily basis. BOB & SHERI has the real thing: Sheri is the only woman in American radio who is tough, funny and intelligent. She says what women want to hear and keeps them coming back day after day, book after book. Call Tony Garcia at (704) 374-3689 to find out how BOB & SHERI can makeover your morning numbers. You've tried everything else to win female listeners. Now try the real thing: BOB & SHERI.

95 Hot AC reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total plays for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 1300 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. Gross Impressions equals Average Quarter Hour Persons times number of plays (times 100). Best Book Ever; 'Code Blue' Canceled

■ Sweeping ratings gains reflect format's radiant health, mass-appeal standing

After a slew of stations — many of them Clear Channel outlets with insufficient revenue to impress their owner — flipped from NAC/Smooth Jazz last year, fears about the future rippled through the format. But the spring book makes it clear that everything's just fine, thank you very much. It's the best book in NAC/Smooth Jazz history. Anyone who's harboring doubts isn't paying attention.

Across the board, ratings surged in markets of all sizes, and a look at demos and dayparts reveals more staggering successes. One station, WVMV/Detroit, posted shares believed to be the highest in major-market NAC/SJ history, and another, KIFM/San Diego, came in No. 1 25-54 and 35-64 — tops in town! — a feat seldom achieved but not completely unheard of. KYOT/Phoenix was first 25-54 last summer, KEZL/Presno in winter '98 and WJCD/Norfolk nine times between its sign-on in 1995 and 1999. (Others have come this close: For example, KTWW (The Wave) has many times placed first 25-54 among L.A.'s English-language stations, and KKSF/San Francisco has been that market's No. 1 music station 25-54 on many occasions.)

WQCD/New York's recent up-trend continues, as the station notches

3.2-3.2 12+ for 11th and ties for fifth 25-54 in the spring book. The Wave is fourth 25-54 and fourth 35-64. The station's midday show, hosted by Talaya Trigueros, is first in the target 25-54 demo. WNUA/Chicago earns seventh 12+. KKSF/San Francisco is eighth 12+ with a 3.4 share and third 25-54 and 35-64, and takes first among women on weekends. WNWV/Cleveland posts a 12+ increase of 5.3-5.6.

WJZZ/Philadelphia's 4.8 share 12+ places the station seventh in that demo, and it is third both 25-54 and 35-64. APD/MD Michael Tozzi's midday show is No. 2 12+, 25-54 and 35-64. Among female listeners, WJZZ is now second in each adult demo.

Dramatic Up Trends

One of the most dramatic stories told in the spring book is Maxine

Todd's at KOAI (The Oasis)/Dallas. Todd, who came aboard as PD in February from the same post at WJCD/Norfolk, turned The Oasis around in no uncertain terms: 2.9-4.1 12+ for sixth, fourth 25-54 and second 35-64. "Two words, 'blind faith,' is how I would describe these past five months," she says. "The 12th position in the market was no longer acceptable to anyone on the staff. Now comes the hard part."

WVMV (V98.7) made a spectacular showing. Under PD Tom Slecker's guidance the station surged 4.4-5.6 to third 12+, 25-54 and 35-64. It is tied for first 12+ weekends, first weekends 25-54, first weeknights 7-midnight 25-54 and first weeknights 35-64. V98.7 earns second in numerous dayparts, including Monday-Friday middays and afternoons 12+, 25-54 and 35-64. To give you an idea of how tightly contested share points are in the market, VMV GM Ozzie Sattler says, "Though we're No. 4 in men 25-54 with a 6.1, we're a measly two-tenths of a share from being No. 2."

KIFM/San Diego PD Mike Vasquez and his wife, Meka, greeted their first child, daughter Maiquel, on July 18. Twelve hours later Vasquez learned that KIFM had catapulted to No. 1 25-54 and 35-64. "Right down the line, everything came together," he explains. "Our marketing campaign for the spring book was well-thought-out. We've always been a community-oriented station, but we're making even more exterior noise. Our morning team, Susan DeVincent and Len Balistreiri, often host charity luncheons. We've done a lot of things you don't normally associate with Smooth Jazz, such as buying an airplane billboard to fly along the beach and over Padres and Chargers games. We continued an outdoor campaign. We got some press coverage when we sent the morning show abroad for trip-a-day. We've tried to tap all reasonable resources to get the word out.

"We've worked hard to keep everything fresh and exciting, from new

BONEY'S GOLD AGAIN!

The most recent solo CD by Warner Bros. artist saxophonist Boney James, Body Language, has been certified — "Boney-fide" — gold by the RIAA. James (c) is seen here presenting a plaque to KTWW/L.A. PD Chris Brodie (r) and APD/MD Ralph Stewart in thanks for their support of his project. James' previous CD, Sweet Thing, was his first Gold record.

KKJZ'S JAZZFEST 2000

KKJZ/Portland pulled out all the stops for Jazzfest 2000, which was sponsored by Beaverton Infinity, on July 8. Performers included Dave Koz (above, in white sweater), Boney James, Rick Braun, Brian Culbertson, Joyce Cooling, Tom Grant and The Temptations. The station involved the local Race for the Cure organization of the Susan G. Komen Foundation.

music sweepers to music imagers with song hooks, and to build artist recognition with our audience, as discussed at the R&R Convention. We use up tempo beds under our promos and other elements to add more sizzle so we're not perceived as sleepy.

"To their credit, since most have been here a long time, the jocks bought into the mainstreaming of the station when I came here two years ago. Everyone on the staff here has believed in what we're doing and participated in the rebirth of KIFM. The question is, 'We're No. 1 — now what?' I've got to think outside the box and create, not follow, trends."

More Fine Performances

At KYOT/Rhoenix, 12+ shares grew 4.2-5.4 for a fourth-place tie. The station ranks sixth 25-54 and second 35-64. PD Nick Francis' Sunday morning show, Quiet Music, is No. 1 in every demo. Barbara Blake's evening show, Desert Nights, takes first 25-54.

Another fine performance in the spring book is KSSJ/Sacramento. The station increased impressively 12+ — 3.4-4.9 — and now ranks third 25-54 and second 35-64.

Smaller markets demonstrated significant upward movement too. KBZN/Salt Lake City had its best book in years, growing 2.5-3.0 12+. At WYJZ/Indianapolis, 12+ shares increased 1.6-2.4. WLOQ/Orlando vaulted 3.7-4.4 12+, and it is eighth 25-54 and tied at third 35-64. And KMGQ/Santa Barbara, CA exploded 3.7-5.5 12+. Please see "Under the Radar" with KMGQ PD Mark De-Anda on the NAC/Smooth Jazz Action page (Page 91) to learn about the station's unique approach to vocals.

"Two words, 'blind faith,' is how I would describe these past five months. The 12th position in the market was no longer acceptable to anyone on the staff."

NAC notes

with Kevin McCabe

It's not every week that the No. 1 song on R&R's NAC/SJ chart has 100% of the panel, but that's exactly the case for "Do You Really Love Me" by Brian Culbertson (Atlantic), which moves 2-1* in its 17th week on the chart. Atlantic also holds the No. 1 Most Added slot with "Got It Goin' On" by Steve Cole, which picks up five new stations, including WQCD/New York ... Songwriter Diane Warren recently told R&R that perhaps her favorite of her current songs is "Spanish Guitar" by Toni Braxton (LaFace/Arista). This week "Spanish Guitar" is locked at No. 14 on the chart, but receives rotation increases at WZJW/Washington, KHIH/Denver and KOAZ/Tucson. Braxton has endured as one of the format's longest vocalists, and she has delivered again with this smooth and pulsating track.

"Vinyl" by Euge Groove (Warner Bros.) inches to No. 11 and earns the Breaker tag. WZMR/Albany, NY comes aboard this week ... "Red Baron" by David Benoit (GRP/VMG) ranks No. 1 Most Increased with +59 total plays, fueled by early success in California. KTWW (The Wave)/Los Angeles, KSSJ/Sacramento and KMGQ/Santa Barbara each increase the rotation this week.

If you haven't already done so, please be sure to take a look at R&R's weekly NAC/Smooth Jazz E-Chart, which appears in our expanded Internet News & Views section (page 18). Using a broad sample of reporting websites — both e-commerce sales and streams of artists online — the NAC/Smooth Jazz E-Chart has proven to be an accurate predictor of future hits for terrestrial NAC stations.

Here are a handful of the reporters that make up the E-Charts each week: Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com, CDNOW, Check-Out.com, ChoiceRadio, City Internet Radio, DiscJockey.com, GoGaGa.com, KIISfm.com, Launch.com, Lycos Radio, NetRadio.com, NYLiveRadio.com, Radio Free Virgin, Spinner.com and Everstream Network.

Heads Up

Joe McBride
Texas Rhythm Club
Heads Up

Designed to present the musical personality of Texas, Joe McBride's latest release from Heads Up provides delightful smooth jazz soundscapes that neither shout nor whisper. They just play easily. Texas Rhythm Club is also the name of McBride's current ensemble, and this is their first record together. In contrast to McBride's previous albums, which depend mostly on sequenced rhythm sections, this project features real drums and bass and real horns that provide the kind of human excitement the Club muster up at live shows. "Texas Twister" pays homage to the Houston boogaloo sound of the '60s with jazz that combines the drawl and the sophisticated charm of Southern heritage. "Howzit in Dallas" is smooth urban, inspired by the constant inquiries McBride received while visiting Cape Town, South Africa. With just the right heartbeat for radio and a good hook, "Howzit in Dallas" highlights McBride's writing and stylings with an unassuming and beautiful arrangement that deftly employs soprano sax and light keyboards.

Together with MD Steve Bauer, KMGQ/Santa Barbara, CA PD Mark Deanda helped the station go 3.7-5.5 overall in the spring 2000 Arbitron book. Here's the scoop on Deanda's strategy for achieving that elusive perfect format vocal mix.

UNDER THE RADAR

R&R'S EXCLUSIVE BAROMETER FOR NEW MUSIC

On testing: We're the only NAC/Smooth Jazz station in our chain, so the company had us consult with Ken Johnson of Stafford Consulting. He did a market research study with our P1s and found out they wanted more "familiar vocals," which is what almost every NAC/SJ station around the country is finding. Ken told us to go to the "hook man" to pick out 500 hooks from the AC realm and test them. We were going to take the ones with the least burnout and the best fit and put them on the air.

On branding: People come to this format to hear something unique. They like the idea that nobody plays Peter White or Chieli Minucci but Smooth Jazz. So if you're going to give them a vocal, then it should be a familiar vocal within the confines I've given. But we stay away from songs that are branded as "AC songs" because the listeners will say, "That's not unique, pal." AC songs really get the P1 listeners in flames.

On balance: I'll play Toni Braxton's "Spanish Guitar" because it works, and it isn't burned yet. We play Bill Withers' "Lovely Day," which has been brought back to life by The Gap's commercials and redone by Shakatak, so it's familiar. You segue that with a Brian Culbertson song or something upbeat, and it sounds great. I'll play a Roberta Flack song like "Oasis" because people know her voice, and they like thinking of her as a smooth jazz vocalist. But we also play Kenny Rankin's "Sunday Kind of Love" and "Blackbird" and k.d. lang's "So It Shall Be."

On problem-solving: We came up with an interesting solution recently. People were calling up and saying, "I'm sick of hearing 'After the Love Is Gone' by Earth, Wind & Fire." But it's a great song! It's a Grammy winner written by Bill Champlin, Jay Greyton and David Foster. It's one of the best vocal performances you'll ever hear. But it has a burn factor — how many times have you heard that song? So I rested it and added Bill Champlin's version. Bill Champlin has been the lead singer of Chicago for 19 years, and he came out with a version of "After the Love Has Gone" that he couldn't get radio to play. I never thought I'd say somebody did an Earth, Wind & Fire song better than Earth, Wind & Fire, but Bill Champlin did. People call me up now and ask, "Who's doing that?" That means they're sitting through the song and remembering what a great song it is.

Rock Goes Behind The Music

■ Multipage extravaganza promises a healthy dose of multi-interest material

It's deadline day for this column, and I have no clue what I'm going to write. This is not an uncommon phenomenon. About three or four times a year I get stumped. A classic case of writer's block, especially when it's a beautiful, warm Southern California day. However, the reason I'm at a loss for a topic this time around has become the subject of the column itself.

It's a little thing called the annual Rock special. Every year at this time we produce our annual Rock special, pounding out 20 to 30 additional pages devoted to the rockiest format of them all. Naturally, that's where all my column ideas have been funneled of late. Now, with one week to go until the special, I am sitting here nearly drained of creativity.

Thus I've decided to do what everyone in the industry does in some form or another: prepromotion. Just like setting up an artist or promoting a special event at radio, consider this week's column a plug for next week's Rock special.

Where No Special Has Gone Before

The Rock special is now in its sixth year. For 2000, as in other years, we've come up with a theme on which to center all of the editorial material. Previous themes have included "The Rock Philes," "Winner and Still Champion," "30 Years of Rock Radio," "Rock's New World" and "Rock Revolution." This time around the theme is "Waaay Behind the Music." I'll tell you more about how that idea developed next week, but these are some of the articles you can look forward to in the Aug. 18 issue of R&R.

• Have you ever wondered what some of your peers in the industry do for fun? (Not that going out to dinners and concerts and traveling around the country isn't fun.) What would they would do if they weren't in the industry? We'll spotlight a couple of dozen people in a feature titled "If I Wasn't in Promotion I'd..." as well as "If I Wasn't a Programmer I'd..." You never know who you might share some outside interests with!

• Since the title of the special is borrowed (er, stolen) from the show, we thought it would be fun to interview VH1's Behind the Music's Executive Producer, George Moll. He tells how the show began, who chooses the artists, which show in the series has been the most successful and other secrets.

• While most record people have a pretty good idea of what it takes to put a concert together, most radio people had no clue until the recent boom in station festival shows. Two different columns were born from that concept. First, we spoke with claiming that they're the hottest new thing, that they were the subject of an intense bidding war, that they rose out of the ashes of this and that band, that their producer has worked with million-selling bands, yada yada yada. Three major-market music directors tell us how they prioritize and find time to listen to it all.

Pondering Profanity

Among the other topics to be covered in the Rock special:

• Several programmers checked in on the topic of questionable lyrical content. While this country is as liberal it's ever been and many artists use profane language in their songs, PDs differ on how they handle the matter. We'll see how they deal with expletives in music.

• What can be learned from marketing bands? Why can't a label just change an add date when a record leaks? What are the costs involved in launching a new band? A Rock VP/Promotion tells what it takes to get a band off the ground.

• In 1994 I wrote my first column about the World Wide Web. At that time radio station websites had yet to be developed on a grand scale, most station domain names included the service provider in the URL, and hardly anyone had e-mail. In fact, I had to explain Prodigy, CompuServe and America Online! Things have changed at least a hundred times since then, and radio station websites are virtually mandatory in today's world. We talk to two programmers and an Internet/radio consultant about the elements that make up a good station website.

• Both the radio and record industries have "grown up" as big corporations have purchased significant stations and labels. Inside those conglomerates people still want to be treated with respect and dignity. A programmer and a record executive share their thoughts on what happens when an employee just isn't working out.

two key individuals in the Red Hot Chili Peppers camp, who bared everything in terms of what it takes to prepare the world for an RHCP concert. Next, we spoke with two programmers who have been producing station festivals for several years.

• Napster has made news all over the media, so who are we to ignore it? R&R opted to measure the opinion of the general consumer on the issue, so we partnered with the folks at Paragon Research for an exclusive survey. We found out what John Q. Public thinks about Metallica and Limp Bizkit as they relate to Napster.

• Which record company was virtually out of rock only two years ago, but now rules the format's airwaves and charts? We'll chat with that company's president and other key members of this new rock powerhouse.

• The music director is on the front lines when it comes to sifting through the endless packages of unknown bands with one-sheets

ROCK CHICK DINNER

The yearly gathering of rock chicks was held at the Capital Grille in Minneapolis during the Conclave. Here's the entire clan of satisfied, well-fed and ready-to-rock chicks.

• WJRR/Orlando PD Dick Sheetz was diagnosed with cancer of the small bowel last year at this time. He outlines for us what happened and how he's fighting the battle of his life.

• Former R&R Asst. Rock Editor Frank Correia — now Music Editor at Express.com — makes a special appearance with interviews with The Cult, Papa Roach, Disturbed and Dope. We also have coverage of how Rock has room for the blues and an article about the growth of Christian rock.

• Our Rock special will also contain exclusive charts. Kelly Music Research has combined the data from its weekly national callout results to create a list of the top-testing songs from January to July, giving us a glimpse of what's working and what's not so far this year. We've also created special playlists that show the most-played artists for the year thus far on selected radio stations.

I hope you enjoy next week's very special look at Rock, "Waaay Behind the Music."

FOR THE RECORD

In last week's Rock column we inadvertently ran the wrong photo for Tim Maranville. Most all of you will recognize Bill McGathy as the actual person in the pic. For the record, here is the real Tim Maranville.

Most Added is the total number of new adds officially reported to R&R by each reporting station. Songs unreported as adds do not count toward overall total stations playing a song. Most Increased Plays lists the songs with the greatest week-to-week increases in total plays. Weighted chart appears on R&R ONLINE MUSIC TRACKING.

71 Rock reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total plays for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 400 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. Gross Impressions equals Average Quarter Hour Persons times number of plays (times 100). No Songs Qualified For Breaker Status This Week

Most Added is the total number of new adds officially reported to R&R by each reporting station. Songs unreported as adds do not count toward overall total stations playing a song. Most Increased Plays lists the songs with the greatest week-to-week increases in total plays. Weighted chart appears on R&R ONLINE MUSIC TRACKING.

71 Active Rock reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total plays for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 600 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. Gross Impressions equals Average Quarter Hour Persons times number of plays (times 100). You want rap? You've got it. You want metal? It's there too! Confrontation Camp are both. Now that we've officially accepted the idea of rap and rock living in perfect harmony, it's time to turn it up a notch. Chuck D and Professor Griff stirred things up in the music world with Public Enemy. Now they're back, with a vengeance.

Along for the ride is newcomer Kyle Jason, who provides fierce vocals for Camp's equally fierce sound. Combine a great voice with two legendary outspoken poets, and we might have an unstoppable force. Chuck D says, "We're a rock band, and if we're not called that, it'll just add fuel to the fire." On a recent VH1 Behind the Music feature on Public Enemy, Chuck D took the opportunity to plug his new venture. And why not? Stir up that pot. Public Enemy were controversial — and with a name like Confrontation Camp, here we go again!

The single, "Brake the Law," has groovin' guitars with a big attitude. Living Color with a whole lot of guitar and twisting lyrics could be the easiest way to describe Camp's sound. "Law" is probably the tamest track on their Artemis debut. Objects in the Mirror Are Closer Than They Appear.

Confrontation Camp

Specialty spins have been gaining momentum, and you can look for "Law" to chart soon. Among the stations already on it are KUPD/Phoenix; WKGB/Binghamton, NY; and WQXA/Harrisburg. Artemis Director/Rock Promotion Tom "Smitty" Smith says, "We value the support we get from the specialty shows and felt this was another band that they could discover on their own. So we gave the track no official add date, but we are creating a story by putting Confrontation Camp on the road and letting specialty go nuts. It's something I believe in — a true grass-roots campaign that we can then take to Active Rock. They just did the Shadow Convention in Philly and the Digital Club festival for the second year in a row in New York, and they have a bunch of dates on the Rage Against The Machine and Beastie Boys tour that will perfectly complement their attitude." Fight the power!

The Perfect Personality

Programmers share what they look for in talent

It's an important subject, and certainly worth two columns: What is today's programmer looking for in air talent? Here are some more comments from your peers.

Michele Amabile, WJSE/Atlantic City

The No. 1 thing I like in a jock is the ability to relay information quickly and concisely, with a bit of an edge in his or her delivery. Alternative tends to be quirky and edgy, and if the jock can slide in pertinent music and/or station information in a break well within a song's lead-in time, I'm interested.

Lifestyle is important in Alternative, and listeners tend to identify with jocks who really have a passion for what they are playing, sound like they are out there with them in the pits, play with them on-air and are funny, intelligent and entertaining.

I heard a jock on K-Rock [WXRK/New York] really mocking the Everclear single "Wonderful" by singing on the outro, "Every song sounds the same/You make me feel like a whore." While I admit that some programmers may wince and say, "Don't make fun of the music," at least he showed a knowledge of the band's back catalog, didn't editorialize and made me laugh. Knowledge of local sports is a plus as well.

Finally, save the political preaching for your Talk radio career. A music station isn't the place to preach to the choir.

Lisa Biello, WARQ/Columbia, SC

A jock should have on-air smoothness. Whatever you are talking about (liner card, music news, phone topic and so on), keep it slick and to the point. If you start to wander or get lost, get out. Prepare for your breaks.

Recognize your weaknesses, and turn them into strengths. Maybe you are always a few minutes late for work or you have a verbal crutch you use all the time. Possibly it's the same contest you choose to do or you complain about your production load. Whatever your weakness is, acknowledge it and then concentrate on making it a strength. Soon you will be stronger than Superman.

Feel passion, and love your job. Don't be a Top 40 jock on an Active Rock station. You're not fooling yourself, and you're certainly not fooling the listeners. Find a format you can identify with, and you will shine. Phones are your friends. Ask questions, and sometimes find your own answers. Never, ever double time, no matter what the format. It's over.

Alan Ayo, KDGE/Dallas

An air talent has to be an entertaining, personable, creative and passionate representative of the station as a whole. He or she has to be prepared, be capable of pulling points from a liner and making it live, have a personal interest in the music, be street-smart and very local, and be capable not only of identifying with the audience, but of getting inside their shoes and heads.

Vince Cannova, CIMX/Detroit

You want to find someone who is outgoing behind the mike and in a crowd. They should be entertaining and informative, know the music and not be afraid to voice their opinion. A great on-air personality is someone who sounds completely natural on-air. It should never sound like they are reading anything.

I want them to be themselves — no schtick. Real talent doesn't need it. They should command the audience, know exactly where they're going, and be so compelling, the listener feels like he's missing out if he doesn't follow along. Those are the most important things to me. Then comes experience, being a team player, listening skills and all that other stuff.

Jeff Sanders, WXNR/Greenville, NC

I look for air personalities who can be creative and original and exude personality. The days of "chin in chest" voice gods are over. Today radio is all about personality and less about voice. When necessary, jocks must be able to utilize the available voice-tracking technology and sound live by incorporating calls recorded earlier, timely daily topics and so on. In addition, in streamlined operations, individuals who can handle multitasking are key.

"Most good jocks can write one-liners or do music info; that's table stakes. When it comes to what the station is talking about or promoting, the real question is, how is the talent doing selling that?"

Mike Stern

Jacnet Jackson, KQXR/Boise, ID

I'm looking for people who are motivated, ask questions, want to learn and want to entertain. You can teach a naturally engaging and entertaining person how to do radio. It's much harder to teach an announcer to be entertaining. The best air talent are the ones who are always trying to do better than the day before.

If everyone in the building wants to win, then your odds of winning are much better. The "radio experience" factor is less relevant than I previously thought. There doesn't seem to be drastically different levels of talent in radio today. If you want a fresh approach, you may be pleased with what you find if you hire outside the industry.

Matt Bahan, WIXO/Peoria, IL

The biggest thing to me isn't the person with the best talent and skills, but the person who shows complete passion for this business. When you have air talent with passion, you have people who are willing to sacrifice and do anything to get the job done. If the person is focused, passionate, determined and, God forbid, talented, you have everything you could possibly want, because chances are good that their passion will carry through to their on-air work, production work and everything that they do.

Alan Fee, KPNT/St. Louis

The key is to find someone who fits the sound of the station, can relate to the lifestyle, is willing to take direction and is a strong ambassador for the radio station — someone who is truly into what the station is all about. If they are passionate about the music and the station's message, it will be much easier for them to sell the station to the audience.

Since we are so promotionally active, it's important to find people who are willing to get out on the streets and market themselves as well as the rest of the station. They need to be willing to do what it takes to win consistently. That includes airchecking themselves, working with the PD, networking and constantly finding new ways to reinvent themselves.

Greg O'Brien, WRRV/Newburgh, NY

I look and listen for people who have a personality that translates over the air. Some people have great personalities, but when they get behind that mike, they become nothing but a card-reader. I'm looking for air talent who know radio and know how to entertain.

The best way for new and up-and-coming air talent to learn is to listen to different radio stations and formats. Listen to how the "biggies" do it, and see how that could fit with your style. Don't copy it, but learn it. When you make that audition tape, be natural. Don't use words or phrases that you would not normally use in everyday conversation. And remember, you don't have to be a laugh-riot every time you crack the mike. Radio isn't all "dick jokes."

Mike Stern, KXPK/Denver

I don't necessarily look for a certain "sound." A few things I do look for are:

- Someone original: For example, Vegas I was looking for a new middle host, and I was preferably looking for female, so the ad I ran reflected that. It was about the time Marcy Playground was huge with "Sex and Candy." I can tell you how many times I heard, "(call letters/positioner) with Marcy Playground 'Sex and Candy' ... two of my favorite things." I think every Alternative jock in the country said the same thing. I started throwing away tapes soon as I heard it.

- An ability to sell the station: Most good jocks can write one-liners or music info; that's table stakes. What it comes to what the station is talking about or promoting, the real question is, how is the talent doing selling that? Are they really creative until they're on the liner, or do they find interesting ways to approach the sell?

- If we're talking airchecks, or a piece of advice to talent is lead with something good, not the weather or simple front-sell. Give me something to grab my attention. I get a lot of tapes and don't spend a long time with any of them unless they hook me.

Along with that, the jock should be able to live up to his or her tape. After I go through a bunch of tapes and narrow it down to people worth a second listen, I will often call them and ask for a tape of a full show. If the full show is nothing like the "greatest hits" tape I got in the mail, it's over. It's better to send me something good but realistic than to wow me but not be able to do that on a nightly basis.

Kerri Valmassi, WOXY/Cincinnati

Around here, we don't look for pipes, board ability and the like — much as we look for the "spirit." You can teach monkeys to board op, but you can't instill them with the drive, the passion and the love of music that's what they're doing. Even if, by traditional standards, the "person" is a sucky jock, a passion for the tunes that comes across the airwaves and makes it that much more tolerable.

"Remember, you don't have to be a laugh-riot every time you crack the mike. Radio isn't all 'dick jokes.'"

Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 1000 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. Track: "LEAVING TOWN"
LP: A LIFE OF SATURDAYS
Label: CAPITOL

By Dayna Talley
Asst. Alternative Editor

essentials: Most bands work very hard to nurture and sustain their careers. This is usually seen in the incredible efforts bands put into getting signed. But there is a lot more to a musical career than a recording contract. As Dexter Freebish lead singer Kyle says: "Getting signed is the easy part. Now the real hard work begins. It is a long road, but Dexter Freebish wants to do it." That attitude is typical of the band, whose passion and working-class attitude ring true in the experienced lyrics and melodic sounds found on their debut release, A Life of Saturdays.

So who the hell is Dexter Freebish? Well, it's not one of the bandmembers. It's the name of a now-defunct amusement park roller coaster in their hometown of Houston. Kyle and his bandmates, Scott Romig (guitar), Charles Martin (lead guitar, vocals) and Rob Schilz (drums), grew up riding the roller coaster and thought it would be a cool name for the band when they formed six years ago.

Since they formed, the band have developed their songwriting and perfected their overall sound. After being courted by other major labels, Dexter Freebish landed in the very capable hands of Capitol Records. They played their first show as Capitol recording artists at the 1999 South by Southwest Music Conference and shortly afterward went off to California to work on their first album. It was there, in Capitol's famed Studio A, that the band was teamed with producers John Travis (Sugar Ray, Kid Rock), John Shanks (Melissa Etheridge, Stevie Nicks) and Steve Schnur (Abra Moore) to create the alternative pop-rock sound showcased on the album.

The fact that their songwriting talents extend beyond the average alternative pop band is exemplified by their winning the prestigious John Lennon Songwriting Contest, which was judged by major music players such as Elton John, Wyclef Jean and The Foo Fighters. It is no surprise that the song that won them the award, "Leaving Town," was chosen as the first single and is already getting airplay at Alternative radio. If the opinions of the general public match those of mine and the celebrity judges, this song should find great success.

Artist POV: The band says, "We dream big, we always have. If we hadn't, we never would have tried to get signed. We want to impact people. We don't just want to be rock stars. We want everyone — kids and their parents — to hear our music. It has always been about writing songs, letting people hear them and getting our vibe from that. We have come a long way, and we've still got a long way to go."

Modest Mouse, BT, Deftones, and Fred Haring (local) are all receiving a lot of requests right now. I really like BT and Modest Mouse. I think that the MXPX single sounds great too. The phones are starting to pick up on that one. ■ The station has been on "Bad Religion" for a while, but I have to say "New America" is probably my favorite current right now. I am also crazy for Matthew Sweet's "Thunderstorm." We just made our own edit on that one, got it under eight minutes. It's fun to play a song that has something like five movements in it. It's a damn shame more people have not gotten into this record. ■ When asked what release I am looking forward to, all I have to say is Radiohead

Big congratulations to DreamWorks for their band Papa Roach hitting No. 1 on the chart this week! In an age where hitting No. 1 has never been harder, this is a tremendous accomplishment ... Vast, an act that has matured tremendously, is a deserving No. 1 Most Added this week. With 57 stations already on "Free," expect a fast climb up the chart ... Fuel pull in 15 early adds — an indication of just how strongly people feel about the song "Hemorrhage" ... No. 2 Most Added was Harvey Danger's "Sad Sweetheart of ..." The band come back strong after a too-long absence and notch an impressive 24 adds ... Longtime Alt favorites Barenaked Ladies are No. 3 with a rock-solid 23 adds ... Nice buzz building around Queens Of The Stone Age's "The Lost Art ..." from some big markets like Chicago and New York ... Check out the story behind Face To Face, who ride Specialty Show chartdom to a big rotation at KROQ/Los Angeles and solid support at a handful of others ... I'm running out of room and want to mention great left-of-center or balance records. There are a bunch of good ones out there, and I hope you give a few a shot — you never know which will be the next massive hit. Check out Sum 41 or Dexter Freebish, for example, or the cool Vibrolush track. Heck, glom onto the Scary Movie coattails and take advantage of the new Bloodhound Gang song ... That said, it's still a rock world, so let's rock out for our RECORD OF THE WEEK: Full Devil Jacket's "Where Did You Go?"

R&R's Exclusive Look At The Cutting Edge Of Alternative

By Dayna Talley
Asst. Alternative Editor

Dandy Heaven

As I'm sure you can infer from the title of this column, I was in Dandy Warhols heaven last Wednesday night when I caught their show at the El Rey Theater in Los Angeles. To those of you out there who have not caught them live ... you must. It was a fun show that (believe it or not) featured audience participation (a gospel healing exercise of sorts) and performers referred to as "hula-hoop boys" (which I look at as future replacements for go-go dancers). Take from that what you will, but I must say that all of the extra stage antics added much to the already entertaining performance. For those of you die-hard Jesus And Mary Chain fans, I have some good news: Last weekend former R&R Alternative specialty girl Jeannette Grgurevic was visiting her hometown of San Francisco and had a chance to catch a band that features the former Jesus and Mary Chain members, minus William Reid (who is now on his own), at the club Bottom of the Hill. They are going by the name Freeheat, and it was reported that it was an amazing show. The band told her that they would be back touring the states in October. Freeheat is unsigned, but you can download one of their new songs, "Back on the Water," from listen.com to get a little taste of their sound. You should also check out King Biscuit Time. Their eight-song album No Style has a very cool lo-fi sound, which was the creation of Steve Mason (known for fronting The Beta Band). Contact Astralwerks' Crystal Stephens at (212) 886-7570 or Brian Terranova at (310) 288-2432 for more information. I cannot wait to see what they will do on the chart! Speaking of the chart, this week punk rockers The Vandals reign overall for the second week in a row. (hed) Planet Earth make a jump from No. 7 last week to the No. 4 position, while Elastica stay at No. 5 with their single "Mad Dog." Fastball find their place on the chart this week at No. 17. Also, female alterna-rockers Poe makes her debut at No. 15. Record Of The Week: Willis (Collective Fruit/Capitol)

Most Added is the total number of new adds officially reported to R&R by each reporting station. Songs unreported as adds do not count toward overall total stations playing a song. Most Increased Plays lists the songs with the greatest week-to-week increases in total plays. Weighted chart appears on R&R ONLINE MUSIC TRACKING.

29 Adult Alternative reporters. Monitored airplay data supplied by Mediabase Research, a division of Premiere Radio Networks. Songs ranked by total plays for the airplay week of Sunday 7/30-Saturday 8/5. Bullets appear on songs gaining plays or remaining flat from previous week. If two songs are tied in total plays, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Breaker status is assigned to songs reaching 250 plays or more for the first time. Songs below No. 20 are moved to recurrent after 20 weeks. Gross Impressions equals Average Quarter Hour Persons times number of plays (times 100). front of you. And data doesn't always give you the answer directly. Research is usually fuel for ideas on how to approach or develop a marketing solution. After that, you identify your brand equities. You identify what distinguishes yourself. Finally, you go in, focus and be unique with what you bring in. Too often we rely on formulas. If you can, use what's been done as a platform to develop an idea that's unique, but it has to be truly unique."

A description of clear marketing focus: "Probably knowing what the goals are of all the contributors and the end user. It's not only knowing your products, but also looking beyond yourself at the approaches of other media or other marketers. The next aspect that really puts a marketer over the top is to know where the money is. Know what the business plan is. There are great ideas out there, but they don't necessarily always work with the business plan."

"The other aspect is being the consumer. This means going out to the malls and watching people's characteristics, sitting in focus groups, and discovering the things that people never knew they wanted before."

Skills needed to succeed in marketing and promotion: "First is being a good businessperson — knowing how to create a business plan and how the other departments are going to handle the money. Secondly, there's the creative part. The third part is being able to move fast and be resourceful. You need to have plans B, C and D ready. Another word we use a great deal is triage, knowing how to identify what is most important and executing it that way."

Selling management on the importance of marketing: "It falls back to addressing it as a business plan or identifying what the long-term payoff is. The belief in marketing is that the investment is going to pay off in business gain."

"The way I've always presented things is to go in with something written down and to provide options. You've interviewed everyone prior to this, so you know what all the parties are looking for. You're the one who brings together a cohesive plan. The biggest part of it is the ability to communicate. You have to know how to write. Writing translates into good verbal skills. You can do a great deal of groundwork by communicating in writing in a very concise and effective manner."

Thoughts about the Internet and its effect on radio: "I just went to the Jupiter Plug-In in New York. Attendance was about 1,500 people, and you had about 750 CEOs walking around — granted, most of them were from one- or two-person shops. It became the bash-Napster deal. I don't think Internet radio has really progressed much since last year. Nobody would talk about numbers. There are two elements radio can use effectively. The first is to use the Internet as a supportive asset, an extension of the radio station. The other aspect is packaged audio."

"Some of this comes from Al Ries' new book, The 11 Immutible Laws of Internet Branding. I got a sense after reading it that audio on the Internet will be its own product. You'll have cable, broadcast television, radio, then Internet audio. At this point they're calling it Internet radio, but it will become a medium unto itself."

"The ability to take away prepackaged audio — and I think radio can play a pretty strong role in this — could be an incredible business and an incredible way to flank the radio business, whether it's putting together music or compelling talk. To be able to go in and catalog something that you consider to be educational and walk away with it and listen to it when you want, that's an incredible asset, and radio can drive people and be involved in the packaging of it."

Advice for those going through a merger: "There's an adjustment period you have to be patient with. The first thing you need to do is be prepared for it. You need to be able to present yourself in a way that represents the very best you can do for the other company. The second part of it is knowing that it can only get better. The reason it can only get better is that you're going to be exposed to new opportunities. You're going to be educated. Responsibilities change, and that can only make you more valuable to the company and contribute to your personal growth."

Most influential individual: "David Kantor. He has an incredible strategic perspective, and I've certainly benefited from it. He's allowed people like me to do my job and has created a very high standard that, in some ways, has made perfection an immediate consideration. At Cap Cities/ABC got to be in the same rooms and at the same tables with Tom Murphy and Dan Burke. They had this great approach, saying, 'Let's remember that we're talking to people. Let's make money, but also consider that the ultimate product is going to be used by people.' Then my mom and dad and my wife. My dad was an incredible craftsman who could create great pieces of work out of scrap. My mom and wife have always kept a sense of family."

Career highlight: "The highlights come from building something with other people. Building AMFM was possible because of a great deal of support from people both within the network and within the company, Chancellor, at the time. When we launched with Casey Kasem, I lived in Los Angeles for three weeks and I got to be part of a group that turned the show around. At ABC it was launching the urban product at Radio Disney. You had a sense that you were not only doing your job, but you were also delivering something quality that impacted people. Also, the opportunity to present network radio to the Association of National Advertisers was true magic."

Career disappointment: "The disappointment is that there isn't a further investment in marketers. My hope is that radio marketers will take the time to advance, to educate themselves professionally and to grow. Too often we get caught up in the demands of the job and don't take care of ourselves educationally. We also need to work with management to make sure that they recognize the talent and contributions of market so that they'll further invest in their people."

Favorite radio format: "Talk."

Favorite TV show: "HBO does a great job of creating event television. I try to watch Tex Avery cartoons with my daughter. Tex was the original. He drew Bugs Bunny and Daffy Duck and finished his career with the Prito Bandito and the Raid bugs. I'll roll VHS on MTV or VH1 ESPN or the E! channel. I'll fast-forward to the promos just to see the latest in graphic design."

Favorite song: "The Scatterlings of Africa" by Johnny Clegg & Savuka."

Favorite movie: "Anything with Peter Sellers in it. Dr. Strangelove is my favorite, but also Being There and The Pink Panther."

Favorite book: "Dandelion Wine by Ray Bradbury and Days of Grace by Arthur Ashe. I also love business and political books."

Hobbies: "Spending time with my wife and kids and anything to do with water — swimming, bodysurfing, boogie boarding."

Stock recommendation: "Be patient. Stay in for the long term."

Favorite restaurant: "In Detroit, New Hella's in Greek Town, Lafayette Coney Island downtown and White Castle at 3am."

Beverage of choice: "Water."

E-mail address: "spikerdog9@aol.com."

Advice to broadcasters: "Look and listen beyond yourself. Other people are the greatest source of your creativity."

Martin Raab has made a career of marketing and promotion. Having moved from the local station level to the network ranks, Raab has been referred to as the "premier marketing executive in network radio."

After the creation of AMFM Radio Networks in October 1997, Raab and his department were instrumental in the network's accelerated launch in January '98. His department's goal is to create visibility and reaction in all aspects, whether it's advertising sales, affiliate marketing or affiliate support.

With AMFM soon to become part of the Clear Channel family, Raab is experiencing his fifth ownership change since 1985.

Getting into the business: "While going to school to get my degree in chemical engineering, I worked part-time at my brother's radio station. I was getting paid in concert tickets. When I graduated from college, the easiest segue was into medical research. Coincidentally, the marketing director at WCXI/Detroit resigned, and they asked me if I'd like, before I got a real job in engineering, to take a temporary position as marketing director."

"I had a passion for radio and maybe didn't know it. I can remember listening with the lights off in my room to Mystery Theater at night. I remember listening to sports with Ernie Harwell, the Tigers. That kind of radio created incredible vision. It occupied my time, and it does to this day."

State of radio: "It's incredibly exciting, but we need to meet the challenge. The competition for audience from all the other avenues really forces us to zero in on who the listener is. What I love about radio is that you can target in a very direct way, more so than in any other medium. Technology has allowed us to do that. We have to take advantage of that and sometimes even look beyond our business for other means of communicating with people."

State of network radio: "Booming. The value it's brought to the advertisers is just incredible. In the last couple of years, especially with the addition and growth of Premiere and AMFM, we've filled in some missing pieces of the puzzle that have made radio a very complete and effective buy for advertisers."

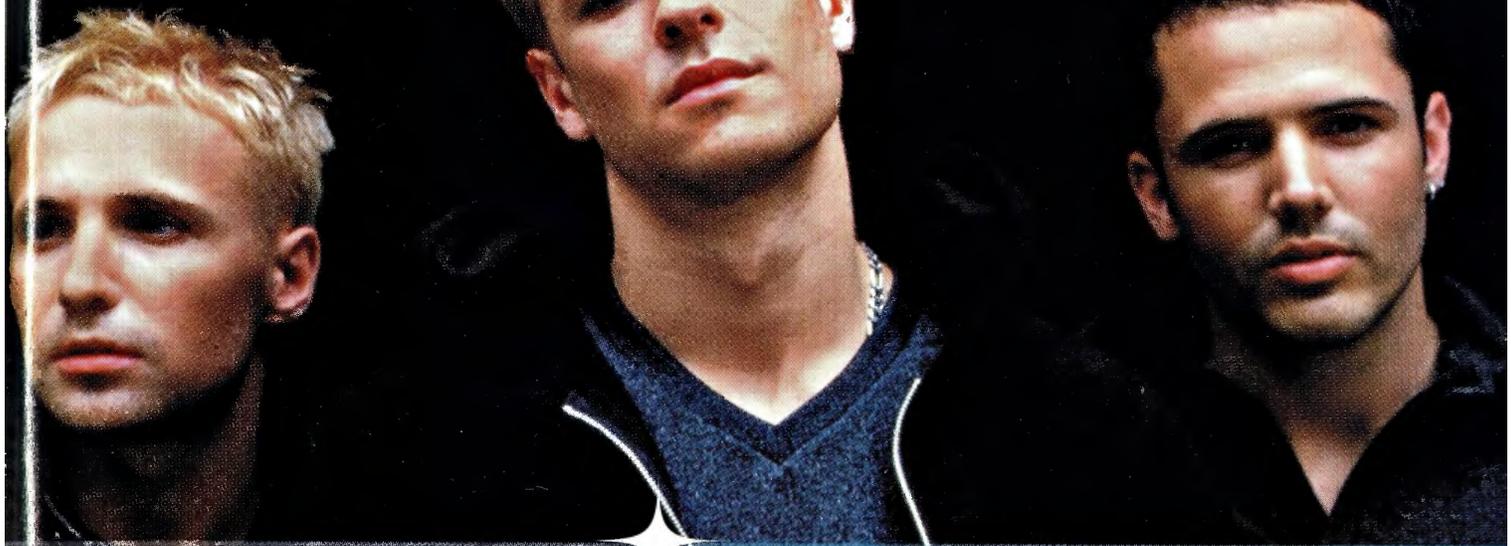

"Related to the radio stations, the ability and the support of the O&O groups allow us to develop product that previously wouldn't have gotten support. It can be something edgy, something that may take a few risks. The O&O platform allows us a great opportunity to develop something that has a world-class feel to it. That's what network radio has to be. It has to provide something that goes beyond what the local station has available to it."

Rising above the clutter: "First off, you need to measure and evaluate. It's not just knowing who your audience is. Sometimes you need to get additional data in
