3 DOORS DOWN FOLLOWS #1 SMASH WITH "HERE BY ME" JULY 26

With 3 million album sales worldwide, six No. 1 songs and over 3 million plays at radio, 3 Doors Down impacts on July 26 with "Here By Me," the follow-up to the chart-topping "Let Me Go." With 400 spins, airplay leader KUCD/Honolulu PD Jamie

Hyatt says, "It's the hit from Seventeen Days that radio was looking for, complete with #1 phones and top 10 callout for 18-34 females." The band is powering its success with a nationwide summer tour. Pras's "Haven't Found" leads the top 40 charge with a 60% boost in digital sales and debuted as the most added at top 40 with over 60 airplay commitments. Airplay leader KZHT/Salt Lake City PD Jeff McCartney says Pras's new track has found a home. "It has a pop friendly sound and a tremendous sample for a hook." WFLZ/Tampa PD Jeff Kapugi says he "loved it after one listen."

Crazy Frog "Axel F" #1 Ringtone

Next Plateau/Universal phenomenon Crazy Frog hits radio July 19 with the #1 ringtone in the world, "Axel F" WKTU/New York PD Jeff Z says it will be "the novelty hit of the summer." "Phones went top 3 after just 5 spins. After the sales story overseas, it's a no brainer to just give it a chance." The song arrives after a run in Britain of 700,000 singles sold—a feat that beat out Coldplay for the No.1 spot on the British charts. Airplay leader WXSS/Milwaukee is already at 24 spins a week. New York leads the way on another instant reaction record with Damian Jr. Gong Marley's "Welcome to Jam Rock." Hot 97/New York has almost 600 spins where it is top 5 callout, top 5 phones and moves to power.

SRC/Universal artist Akon follows up the #1 requesting "Lonely" with "Belly Dancer (Bonanza)," the fourth hit from the platinum Trouble. Airplay leaders include WKSC/Chicago, WIOQ/Philadelphia and KZZP/Phoenix. "Akon is proving himself to be a star and a core artist for KISS/Phoenix," says KZZP PD Mark Medina. Rust/Universal artist Cherry Monroe's, "Satellites," goes into rotation at WNCI/Columbus. "Satellites" continues the success story started at WHOT/Youngstown. Cherry Monroe's debut CD is in stores Sept. 13. New sensation Brie Larson is back with "Life After You." Brie is headlining the summer-long Teen People Tour. "From the great early reaction we got, look for big things from Brie. She's a star!" says KHOP/Modesto PD Chase Murphy.

BRAXTON BACK WITH "PLEASE"

Toni Braxton is back and impacting August 9 at Top 40 with her new single "Please." The Background/Universal artist also has a new album, Libra, the follow-up to her top-selling album, More Than A Woman. Libra finds the multiple Grammy award-winning artist delivering material that reflects her creative maturity. With a musical nod to the finely crafted songs that first propelled her to fame, Libra cleverly delivers radio-friendly grooves. The album's first single, "Please" is already No. 21 at Urban AC, No. 39 at Urban Mainstream and chart bound at Rhythmic. Also at Urban AC, Motown legend Stevie Wonder follows up his top 5 hit "So What The Fuss" with "From The Bottom Of My Heart" which debuted No. 35 at AC.

Future Motown legend Kem crosses over to AC with his 7-week Urban AC No. 1 "I Can't Stop Loving You." At Adult Top 40, Ra's "Every Little Thing She Does Is Magic" explodes out of Cincinnati where Q102 PD Grover Collins has put it into fulltime rotation after instant phones and instant sales in Cincy. Off 35 spins a week at Q102, digital sales in Cincinnati have increased 160% this week. Jack Johnson is back at the top of Triple A, this time with "Good People" which follows No. 1 "Sitting, Waiting, Wishing." Jack also had top 20 success at Adult Top 40 with "Sitting, Waiting, Wishing."

NATALIE, J ROMAN DELIVER THE SUMMER SONG OF 2005

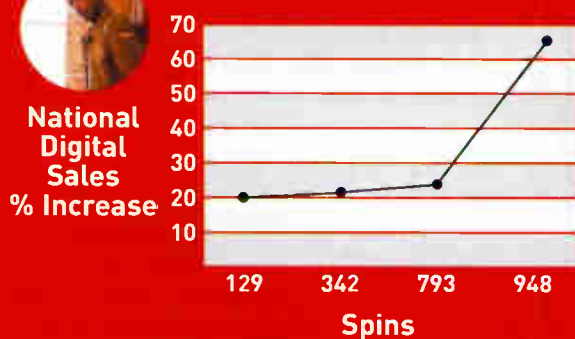

With top 5 smashes "Going Crazy" and "Energy" behind her, Latium/Universal artist Natalie joins with J Roman for her third single "Where Are You?" It is already being spun by airplay leaders WHTS/Quad Cities (1131 spins), KHHT/Tulsa (902 spins), WXKS/Boston (719 spins), WERZ/Portsmouth (577 spins), KKMG/Colorado Springs (510 spins). "We've spun the original version of J Roman's "Where Are You?" over 700 times...it was a hit with our listeners and we're looking forward to the new version with Natalie on August 30," said WXKS/ APD David Corey. Natalie is coming off a sold out summer tour with label mate Baby Bash who's "Baby I'm Back" moves to top 15 at Top 40. Brit band, The Bodyrockers invade America next month.

Matt Serletic

Virgin chairman/CEO Matt Serletic was born in Texas, but was raised in Germany until he was 8. As a result, the first music he listened to was Armed Forces radio and the pick of his parents' 8-tracks, which ranged from classical to Beatles albums.

"It wasn't until I moved to Atlanta when I was around 8 that I became a heavy radio listener," he says. Serletic recalls flipping between top 40 WZGC (Z93) and heritage rock WKLS (96 Rock) while cutting grass in the summer, a business he had started shortly after moving.

That Serletic had his own lawn-cutting business while the biggest achievement of most kids his age was getting a perfect score on the first board of Ms. Pac Man goes a long way toward demonstrating that his ambition is not newfound. At 35, he is the youngest major-label chairman in the music industry, a position he has held since he was appointed in 2002.

He also discovered Matchbox Twenty, produced all of the band's albums, co-wrote its massive single "Push" and produced Santana and Rob Thomas' Grammy Award-winning "Smooth."

Growing up in the South, the regionalism of radio had an effect on Serletic. "There was a way to, as a musician, have the hopes to be on the radio one day, even if it might be a Sunday-night specialty show," he says. "That created a sense of creative community within a town or a region and gave musicians a direction and an artistic hope that they could succeed. That was a big part of growing up."

When he was 12 years old, Serletic's group won a battle of the bands sponsored by WKLS, got to play Six Flags and had their music featured on the Sunday-night specialty show for the entire summer. "The radio community embraced and fed the artist community, and I think that's still an important part of what radio can do," he says.

In his early '20s, Serletic worked on Collective Soul's debut album, "Hints, Allegations, and Things Left Unsaid," co-producing two songs and co-engineering another two, adding string arrangements and mastering the multiplatinum album.

"We made that record in a basement with two microphones and a drum machine," he says. "That was one of those do-it-yourself, get-it-started things where we convinced the program director at [noncommercial WRAS Atlanta] Album 88 to put it on. Within a week, it was getting top five phones and blew up there. That was able to convince some people as far away as Denver to add it, then [Clear Channel modern] WJRR in Orlando [Fla.] came on, then Birmingham [Ala.] came on, and finally [Susquehanna Atlanta modern WNNX] 99X. It was a college station starting a rock band that certainly wasn't necessarily in the rest of the college music scene, but it snowballed from there. On the smallest level, radio was able to start a band that sold millions upon millions of copies."

RADIO CRUCIAL

With that in mind, Serletic finds radio crucial for Virgin's artists. "Exposing our music to an open mass audience that's very interested in music is the most important thing that we can do," he says. "By and large, radio is the most significant way to do that. Most of the artists on Virgin, and most major labels, have the ability to be played at some format at radio."

Radio might be an eventual destination for all of Virgin's acts, but that is not always where they start. There are ones that get off the ground "with nine to 12 months of touring before we even introduce them to radio, just to get a sense of place and a fan base that recognizes and loves the artist," Serletic says. "I think that's an important part of a music company's job: to build a marketplace for an artist if they're not already connected to one."

New media is another method to get Virgin's artists in front of consumers.

"One of the challenges that face both music companies and radio is how to become more interactive with our artists," Serletic says. "When you look at the other forms of entertainment that we're competing with or working alongside, they're very much more interactive and have made that generation leap.

Whether it's HD radio or Internet visibility or whatever, it's all about engaging your audience on a more significant level.

HD, INTERNET AND AN IPOD AD

On that end, Serletic says he is already getting involved with Internet radio, like WXRK's K-Rock 2. "We've got this band We Are Scientists that are building a buzz in the U.K.," he says. "They're from Brooklyn [N.Y.], and their album doesn't come out here until next year, but they're already on the K-Rock 2 feed. It's great to think interactively and think about new media, but still work with our great partners at radio."

HD Radio excites Serletic as well. "As a producer, I love the idea of higher fidelity, and multiple channels are exciting as well," he says. "There are some innate challenges of how to deliver it and how we'll protect our rights as copyright holders within that format, but again, it's a very exciting, more potentially interactive format."

Serletic also listens to satellite radio. "I have this house system, and I have an FM receiver and two XM receivers," he says. "I love it, and it's all different. What's great about traditional radio stations are that they give a sense of place. You feel like you're living in and experiencing the culture of New York if you're listening to a New York station. [Satellite radio] is great for having a wide variety of genre-specific stuff. I listen to "Frank's Place" on XM, and it's fantastic all-vocal, mainly jazz stuff, and it's a great way to set moods. It's really a fundamentally different experience." Serletic says he can see terrestrial and satellite co-existing, likening the two to having "cable and a DVD player."

While oldies purists in New York and Chicago have loudly been decrying the adult hits "Jack" format, Serletic remains relatively positive. "I think it's an interesting, adult-oriented radio format that's an interesting way to hear the hits," he says. "It's not the answer for breaking new artists, obviously, and I think it's really important that radio continue to break new artists. But as a listening experience, it's refreshing to hear a surprising blend. It's making older music culturally relevant in a new way, which is great. It's not going to turn the music industry around, but it's enjoyable to listen to."

As a musician and producer in his own right, Serletic knows what a hit sounds like and takes pride in being creatively involved with the artists on his label, but he sometimes likes being surprised.

"One of the most important things you can do as a source of creativity is to not have too many rules," he says. "There have been several times when a record comes in that is not what we expected, or even necessarily why we signed the artist, and it's so surprising or refreshing that it becomes our single choice. You strike a balance between 'yes, there needs to be great songs,' because I'm very much a song-oriented person, and that's what we look for with our artists—great songs and unique perspective. But the sky's the limit once you're working within those parameters."

Serletic says getting involved early is the best way radio can expose and develop new artists. "We do a lot of stuff with our partners at radio on the Web," he says. "You can start to familiarize your audience with artists before you're looking at dayparting a record. We were able to do something really engaging with the Gorillaz. We were able to put this cartoon band that exists in cyberspace on tour. They went out on a two-week tour, broke ground in every city and had a presence on each of the [markets' participating modern rock stations] Web sites. It was really engaging, and the numbers showed that it was a very significant event and a way to bring a fresh idea into the marketplace."

Cross-branding is another way the Gorillaz's sophomore record broke, with the act's "Feel Good Inc." getting added exposure through an iPod ad. "If you can pair the right artist with the right brand and they fit together, it's the way that we do our business now," Serletic says. "A very significant part of our role as a music company is to help create more awareness for an artist, and that's certainly a significant way to do it."

MOVING EAST

One of the first things Serletic did as chairman of Virgin was move the company's base of operations from Los Angeles to New York.

"From a strategic standpoint, EMI had two labels on the West Coast and none in New York, which seemed unbalanced. We decided to move Virgin, and it was great to come to New York. I've been very focused on becoming more involved in urban music, and New York was the place to do it. It also gave me a great opportunity to strengthen and recast the staff at Virgin when we moved, and get a lot of great executives that had a long and significant history of winning."

Through it all, Serletic has remained a very hands-on chairman, having mixed some of Thomas' solo album, "... Something to Be," literally on his back porch. That's not likely to change. "The essence of what I love about music is really getting involved," he says. "Whether it's making Rob's record, working with [new singer/songwriter] Hope [Partlow] or having a conversation with an artist on the Virgin roster, it's all about the music. It's what I love, it's what I live for. I'm glad to be in the studio at three in the morning and back in the boardroom talking about a marketing plan at 10. I love being involved in all aspects of music, and the creative part of it, where music is formed, is where I've lived most of my life."

Despite all of Serletic's achievements, "PD" won't be added to his list of accomplishments any time soon.

"It would be all over the map," he says, laughing. "I would have Miles Davis on one second and 50 Cent on the next. It'd be a mess. That's one part of the business I don't need to go into. I'd follow up a 90-minute symphony with a Sex Pistols song." ●●●●

CLEAR CHANNEL'S SWEDBERG NO PUPPET MASTER

BY PHYLLIS STARK
PHOTOGRAPH BY STEVE NIEDORF / RETNA LTD.

JUST HOW DOES ONE PERSON oversee programming for 45 radio stations?

If you're Clear Channel regional VP of programming Gregg Swedberg, you recruit PDs carefully, trust those you hire, give advice and input when asked and otherwise stay out of the way.

That combination has proven to be the winning ticket for Swedberg, who also serves as PD of country powerhouse KEEY (K102) Minneapolis, in addition to working with all of the CC stations in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

But he had to figure out the formula for himself. "I discovered ... that I can't program all these radio stations myself. They don't sound good," he says candidly. "I stuck my nose in three or four situations and was wrong. So [now] I focus on finding good people, and they call me when they have a problem.

"Most stations programmed corporately fail because they don't have good people locally," he continues. "You have to find good people and trust them and train them to do their job. I can't program Minot [N.D.] from here."

To many "civilians" who view the radio industry as a group of giant, faceless conglomerates with Clear Channel as their poster child, Swedberg and his fellow regional VPs of programming are considered the evil puppet masters. Swedberg says anyone who holds that view simply doesn't understand his job.

"I think people think I sit around plotting to get rid of everybody and replace them with trained monkeys," he says. "But monkeys don't work that hard.

"No, I don't spend a lot of time thinking about how we're going to do all of this cheaper. It's the farthest thing from my mind," he continues. "There's this giant feeling [outside the company] that we only have one set of answers, that one size fits all ... People would be surprised at the level of autonomy that these stations have."

Record-label executives take note: Swedberg admits that he sometimes advises his programmers that if they don't want to do something, "tell them corporate won't let you." In reality, however, "I'm not going to dictate to these guys how to program their radio stations," he says. "If the [bad] ratings come in, I'm not the one who's going to go. So they have to be comfortable" with their stations' programming.

The advantage of Clear Channel's structure, with its regional VPs of programming, Swedberg says, is "it helps the corporation get information back quickly when they need to ... I was talking to a consultant and asking him what was going on, and he said, 'How would I know? You guys in corporate radio have all the information.'"

Swedberg's level of involvement with his charges varies by season and by station. At budget or ratings time, he is very much in the mix. Beyond that, some of his programmers call to discuss issues two or three times per week. Others, he says, "are happy not to have to deal with me."

But hiring and training people he can trust is not as easy as it sounds. Swedberg calls it "the hardest thing in the world right now." In his early days in programming, he says, "it was easy to find dozens and dozens of quality people on the bench." Now, he adds, "the bench is so thin. We've done a pretty crummy job as an industry recruiting young kids to be in it."

His advice? "The best thing to do is find someone who wants to work hard," even if they have to be taught parts of the job. Now, he adds, "every kid that has a pulse and shows an interest I'll take the time with."

Many, he says, "think this is just easy work. It's obviously so much more than that. You have to be willing to put your time in and slug away [at a big radio career]. Everybody wants it and wants it now."

Opting for the honest route, Swedberg tells potential recruits, "The first two or three years in radio are going to suck. You're not going to be able to pay your bills."

PLAYING NICELY WITH LABELS

In an under-radioed market like Minneapolis, K102 is the only country game in town, although it has run off its fair share of competitors through the years. In the winter Arbitrons, K102 was No. 3 in the market 12-plus, with a 7.3 share.

"K102 has always had a lot of attention and care," Swedberg says of the station's success. "And we spend a lot of time thinking about the audience and making them happy."

Even as the country radio industry becomes increasingly conservative, Swedberg and K102 assistant PD/MD Travis Moon are known for taking chances on music they believe in.

"Our attitude has always been, 'Get the record on. Find out if it's a hit. If it is, keep playing it. If it's not, get it off,'" Swedberg says. "I've always thought it was a mistake to play records that aren't hits for a long time. Yet a lot of [programmers] blindly run records up their charts.

"When I first got here, we just played the [label] game, and whatever they gave us we played," he continues. "After a while, I thought that was just insane that every country station in America looks the same. We started doing research and realizing national hits are not local hits at all."

Swedberg admits, "There's times we piss the record companies off" by dropping a record before the label is through with it. "But the good news is, if it's an artist we believe in, we've moved on to something else" from that act.

Now, Swedberg says, if K102 commits to playing a record, it will play it in good rotation and try to get to 150-200 spins as quickly as possible so it can begin researching the song and decide whether to keep it. He stresses that communication with the labels helps them understand the station's strategy.

"You can be a good guy or a jerk about it," he says. "We at least try to let everybody know what's going on. The relationship is still so important. If you stick with Nashville's marketing plan for as long as you can, they'll help you with yours."

Swedberg is clearly well-respected among label promotion execs, who frequently cite his skills as qualities a good programmer should possess.

"Gregg is like the Lance Armstrong of country music," Capitol Records Nashville VP of promotion Jimmy Harnen says. "He appreciates, loves and respects every moment, and he always plays for the yellow jersey.

"You can't teach what Gregg has," Harnen adds. "It's internal. It comes from years of experience, all rooted in a deep love for radio and music."

Universal South senior VP of promotion Michael Powers agrees. "I like the fact that Gregg makes a passionate stand on music," he says. "He can be wrong, but he believes he is right—and often is."

Powers also admires the K102 management team, including CC regional VP Mick Anselmo and Moon. "I like the way the whole executive staff fits together over there," he says. "Gregg, Travis and Mick are a very approachable and workable group. It doesn't mean you always get what you want, but it means you always have an ear and an opportunity to make your point."

Told he has a sterling reputation among label promotion executives, Swedberg says, "I don't believe you. I deal with these people directly, and they yell at me ... We don't set out looking to be heroes. I'd rather be a good guy than a jerk. But I am a jerk," he says, only half-kidding.

"You can do your job in a bunch of different ways," he continues. "You can set up adversarial relationships with the record companies. I realize we're in different businesses, but that doesn't mean I have to go out of my way to screw them. There are some [programmers] that take great pleasure in screwing them." But there are too many advantages, he says, to having a good relationship with labels.

Swedberg also thinks some fellow programmers resent him for always being portrayed as the hero of label reps at industry conventions. Those programmers, he believes, snipe that Swedberg "just caters to the record companies" or say he is successful because he doesn't have a direct format competitor. He thinks he's also popularly misconstrued as someone who "plays everything."

Disproving that theory, he cites a recent example of a song he didn't add until it was No. 12 or 13 on the national chart. He personally disliked it, and it took that long in the life of the record for him to be convinced it was a real hit. "At that point, I'd seen actual research that proved I was wrong," he says, adding, "I'm wrong a lot."

RED NEWS, BLUE NEWS

30th ANNIVERSARY

Forget the political generalities of conservative red states and liberal blue states. If you're examining America's political landscape, that level of detail does not tell much of anything about what the framework really looks like.

It may make more sense, for several reasons, to look at the landscape from a radio perspective.

First, former House Speaker Tip O'Neill's truism that "all politics is local" suggests that radio's local-market structure could provide a better view of the landscape.

Second, there's a network news war brewing. Fox News Radio is ready to make inroads in a large number of Clear Channel-dominated markets. That transition in the coming months is going to push ABC News Radio and CBS Radio News into their own in-market competition for affiliates. This competition inevitably involves voter loyalties to certain news brands.

Third, all 435 seats in the House of Representatives are up for re-election in 2006, and that political battle has already started. The inroads of progressive talk radio in many markets may become a factor.

In the 2004 elections, four congressional districts switched from Republican to Democrat, and five other districts went the opposite way. These political flips may force a rethink of news/talk programming in these districts.

To bring a radio perspective to the political landscape, Billboard Radio Monitor cross-referenced all 293 Arbitron markets against county-level election returns for the presidential race, provided by the Associated Press and published in map form by Roll Call and Election Data Services.

To focus on the party-affiliation switches, this research was cross-checked against the election results for each congressional district. The data was gathered so as to provide programmers with information that helps them program N/T in these markets.

ABC Radio N/T WMAL OM Randall Bloomquist quips that one listener describes the Washington, D.C., station as "broadcasting from the Blue Lagoon." Early on, though, he says there was no targeted direction to the station's programming. "What WMAL had tried to do for many years was to be all things to all people. There was a feeling that the station needed to have a liberal-skewing element and a conservative-skewing element. But the fact of the matter is, it wasn't clicking because there was no passion. You didn't know from hour to hour and show to show what the station was about."

One of WMAL's most important counties is Montgomery County, Md. Bloomquist says he has adopted the tactic of "fishing where the fish are" to focus on the listeners who want to hear conservative talk: "Maryland, one of the most liberal states in the country, and Montgomery County—the close-in, southern part of the county—is extremely deep-blue liberal. So we focus on the outer part of the county, the northern part, which is where we're getting [Arbitron] diaries from and where we feel there's a chance to grow, because that's where people with an affinity for conservative talk live."

Another part of WMAL's programming tactic, Bloomquist says, is to be a "topic A station" and to have its conversation maintain a consistency throughout the day.

Brad Lane, assistant PD for Hubbard Broadcasting N/T KSTP Minneapolis-St. Paul, says he does not try to focus his programming on a specific group of listeners or on a specific part of the market: "I don't know that we would break it down to say that we're going to be talking to suburban people more than inner-city people. There is a reality to the fact that talk radio appeals to a certain demographic, but that isn't top of mind for us. If we hit somebody who's living in the inner city and they love talk radio and they just like to listen to us because they hate what they hear or love what they hear, that's great."

Lane and Bloomquist agree that personalities are a key factor in their stations' listener appeal. But Lane says his emphasis is "first and foremost on personalities. I say that with the full knowledge that the news cycle to a large extent drives the passionate habits and reactions of listeners. But, if you don't have the right personalities in the first place, you're not going to get those listeners."

Having the right listeners means keeping tabs on their local voting habits and being able to adapt to changes. Lane says he feels his station could be doing better if Democratic Sen. John Kerry had defeated President Bush. "If people consider us a conservative talk station, we would have been better off if John Kerry had won. There's something to be said for rancor." With a conservative president in the White House, Lane adds, there is less passion about issues in the conservative listenership "if everything's going your way."

The upcoming elections in Minnesota could bring some changes, Lane says: "I think 2006 will be different because we're going to have a lot of local races, a senate race and a gubernatorial race. When we had Jesse Ventura in the governor's mansion [from 1994 to 2003], that was probably one of the best ratings periods for our station. It's more about what you're talking about and if people are passionate about it. Our listeners, our P1s and P2s, are conservative. Right now, they've got nothing to bitch about."

All it will take is a few key changes in voting patterns to alter the makeup of the party affiliation for some congressional districts. The following guide covers some local political affiliations that may be ripe for radio's picking:

One state where a party affiliation switch occurred in the last election is Colorado. Bush won the state, but Colorado's 3rd District switched to the Democrats.

Colorado's 3rd District comprises two separate Arbitron markets: the Republican-leaning Grand Junction (Arbitron market No. 262) and the Democrat-leaning Pueblo (No. 251). The state's six other congressional districts remain in the hands of the incumbent parties. Colorado's other two Democrat-controlled congressional districts are Denver (1st District) and Boulder (2nd District).

Colorado Springs (No. 96) is heavily Republican, while Fort Collins-Greeley (No. 126) is only a bit less so, primarily because of Larimer County, the home of Fort Collins.

Georgia is another state that went for Bush but where one of the underlying congressional districts switched to the Democrats.

More to the point, the Atlanta radio market typifies another reason for examining the local political structure to see how it reflects the radio landscape. Part of the Atlanta radio market (No. 11) is an island of Democrats in a sea of Republicans. Specifically, three of the radio metro's 19 counties are heavily Democratic, including Atlanta's Fulton County, along with DeKalb and Clayton counties. But the other counties in the metro have a strong base of Republican voters. The three Democratic counties are part of three separate Democratic congressional districts (the 4th, 5th and 13th), while the surrounding counties are parts of several larger (at least in land mass) Republican districts.

Bush won Georgia's 15 electoral votes, but that state went through major redistricting after the 2000 census—not only growing from 11 districts to its current 13, but with a complete restructuring of the political borderlines.

Until recently, Georgia's old 1st District included much of the state's South Atlantic coastline, as well as the Savannah metro (No. 159) and designated market area. Brunswick's metro (No. 292) and part of that DMA were also part of the same district, which has been the domain of Republican Rep. Jack Kingston since 1992. But after the census, the borderlines for the newly created 12th District marched far enough south to take Savannah away from Kingston, to split that county in two and to force Kingston to move his local office further out toward the shoreline. The 12th District switched to the Democrats in the last election.

Georgia has two other Democratic districts. The 2nd District includes Macon (No. 154), and the 3rd District includes Albany (No. 267). Both districts comprise a mix of Republican and Democratic counties.

The central core of the Columbus, Ga., metro (No. 183) voted for Kerry in the 2004 elections, but that county appears to have been divided between the Democrats and Republicans in a fairly intricate bit of political cartography.

Minnesota is another state that went for Kerry in the 2004 election. But a close look at the county-level returns shows pockets of Democratic strongholds in the major metropolitan areas surrounded by Republican-leaning counties. Duluth, International Falls and the Minneapolis part of Minneapolis-St. Paul are the key Democratic strongholds.

But the Twin Cities market is another metro that is split politically, between the heavily Democratic Hennepin County, the home for Minneapolis; the like-minded Ramsey County; and the slightly more Republican-leaning Dakota County, the home for St. Paul. Other counties in the metro tend to have voting patterns similar to Dakota County, which means voters there gave Bush less than 50% of the votes but still wound up as part of the Republican tally.

LIFTING RADIO UP WHERE IT BELONGS

30 YEARS OF CONCLAVE...AND COUNTING BY IVORY M. JONES

TODAY THEY COME BY THE HUNDREDS. But Tom Kay remembers 30 years ago when "the Conclave" was just a trickle of folks from around the region.

At the contemporary Conclave Learning Conference in Minneapolis, more knowledge (and beer) is absorbed than ever. This year, Conclave celebrates its 30th anniversary with Conclave XXX: Hardcore Radio, and with it, Billboard Radio Monitor takes a close-up look at what the past 30 years have meant.

Kay, the executive director of Conclave, has been involved since the beginning. But he says the watershed moment for him came just last year.

"I was stopped by a PD who told me that up until he attended the conference that weekend, he was ready to leave the industry," Kay recalls. "After being there a few days, he felt energized again. That still sends goose bumps up my spine."

large part of its growth came from word-of-mouth.

"If I remember correctly, I took a list of about a hundred radio stations, and there were about five or six of us who then just personally invited all those stations. Over the last decade or so, we've embarked on a little more aggressive marketing campaign to at least let people know what we do and how it is that we do it. But word-of-mouth played a big role in how fast it grew," he says.

He also feels that Conclave's ability to remain current has helped expand its presence. Organizers constantly rethink the organization's mission to ensure that changes in the industry are addressed.

"We find the changes that go on in our industry to be very energizing for us, and it becomes a welcome challenge," Kay says.

"When all of the consolidations began and the roles of PDs and GMs all shifted, we looked at each other and said, 'Hey, we've got to address this. There's a lot of people out there [who are] confused.' So if the industry didn't change as frequently as it does, we'd probably get a little lazy. But thank goodness that never happens in this industry."

HOOKED ON CONCLAVE

Tim Kelly, Jerry Boulding and Jay Philpot know all too well how powerful the pull of the Conclave can be. Although their relationships with the event began at different times, all agree that after the first visit, they were hooked. Today, they play integral roles in keeping it running.

Kelly serves as the Conclave vice chairman/agenda director. When he first began attending about 12 years ago, he says, he had no idea he'd become so involved.

"Honestly, the first time I went, I was blown away by the accessibility of major-market programmers that were there. One year, some people that I knew mentioned that they were looking for volunteers to help out. I had the opportunity to volunteer and then became a part of the executive committee. Then, after doing that for a year, I was asked to join the board of directors, which was a great honor. I accepted, and they've had me roped in ever since," he says.

Philpot, who is on the executive committee, was also drawn in. "I went to my first Conclave right after I graduated from high school, and this one will be my 27th," he says. "I haven't missed one since I started going in 1979. It had so much to do with the development of the early part of my career that as my career grew, I wanted to give some of that back."

Boulding, who now sits on the board of directors, had a similar experience. "I was first attracted to the Conclave because it was the first 'learning conference' I had experienced since the [now defunct] Gavin Conference. Bill Gavin inspired a lot of us to share our knowledge and experience. When he passed, so did his conference. The Conclave now does this."

Since joining the board of directors, Boulding has helped the Conclave address issues within the R&B/hip-hop format, which traditionally had not been a strong area of the event.

Philpot has also contributed greatly. This year, he became the organization's historian. He was tapped to compile a book commemorating the 30th anniversary that is titled "Ain't Misbehaving, Just Conclaving."

"There are several different streams that provided content for the book," he says. "One way was that I dug up as much printed information that I could find. Then I found people and had them share their favorite memories, so there's a collection of memories in there. I got permission from Billboard to use the charts from actual Conclave weeks for each year. Then I listened to I don't know how many hours of audio from Conclave sessions from the past 20 years. I pulled some of the more interesting and colorful things people have said and peppered the book with that. And of course, there are a lot of pictures."

"Ain't Misbehaving, Just Conclaving" will be distributed to all registered participants at 2005's Conclave, which begins July 20. This year's event also includes addresses by and question-and-answer sessions with Federal Communications Commission member Jonathan Adelstein and syndicated talk radio personalities Al Franken and Mancow.

LIVE GIGS, TOO

Music has also traditionally been a big part of the Conclave experience. This year, country star Keith Urban, Muzik Mafia artists Cowboy Troy and Jon Nicholson, pop singer Fefe Dobson and rock band Trapt are just a few in the official lineup.

Kelly is looking forward to Urban's performance. "I've seen him before, and I think that for those that have never seen him perform, they're in for a big surprise. The performances are always a highlight. I remember Nickelback performed a few years ago. Having the opportunity to hang out with them before anybody else even knew who they were will always stick with me."

However, the Conclave does more than just provide a forum for industry insiders to get together and rub elbows. Since 1979, it has awarded several scholarships to young hopefuls looking to learn more about the world of broadcasting. The Conclave has partnered with Brown College near Minneapolis; the Specs Howard School of Communication Arts in Southfield, Mich.; and the McNally Smith College of Music in St. Paul, Minn., to award more than $65,000 in scholarships each year. It also gives three baccalaureate scholarships worth $4,500 to students at colleges and universities throughout the Midwest.

Although the organization became incorporated as a non-profit entity in 1985, Kay says it is the generosity of Conclave supporters that has enabled it to thrive. "We have so many folks that step up through the course of the year to contribute time and finances. We just try to make enough money so that we can keep doing this for another year, including funding the scholarship program. That's important to us."

While each conference takes more than a year to plan and requires committee and board members to volunteer their personal time, Kay says that knowing they can make a difference in people's careers makes it all worth it.

A wealth of information will be passed on during the Conclave, but all agree that the best part about attending is the opportunity to reunite with old friends. Perhaps Philpot best sums it up when he says, "Except for my immediate family, the Conclave is my longest and most successful relationship." ■■■

ORIGINAL PURPOSE

When the first event was held in 1976, the purpose of "The Upper Midwest Communications Conclave" was simple: to bring together professionals in the radio industry to share information and improve the quality of broadcasting in the process.

Initially, it featured five sessions, and was geared to people only in the Midwest.

"We found [that] back in '76, there was a need for folks in the Midwest to get together and talk about common difficulties, common challenges and common elations," Kay says.

Through time, the organization's influence spread well beyond the five state boundaries it had set for itself. Today, it attracts attendees from all over the country and beyond. The past few years, speakers have included everyone from Fox News host Alan Colmes and veteran programmer Lee Abrams (currently at XM Satellite Radio) to activist Dick Gregory.

Last year's conference, "Paradigm 2004—It's Full of Shift!," drew more than 800 radio-, record- and industry-related attendees. This year, registration is expected to exceed that. There will be more than 60 sessions.

While Kay admits that in the beginning, organizers used some basic grass-roots marketing to help promote the conference, a

THE 'MUST HAVES' OF DIGITAL MUSIC

Ah, sweet summertime. Just for one week, let's forget about suing families into bankruptcy for downloading music and modern rock's refusal to embrace the cultural renaissance of emo. This week, let's focus on what makes us truly happy—crass consumerism.

Thanks to the byline that the good folks at Billboard Radio Monitor have so foolishly provided me, I've had the good fortune to hear from a lot of you. One common thread of inquiry asks what music services I recommend, which MP3 players, etc. So, let's spend a little time looking at the good and the bad of the digital music market.

WHERE TO GET IT

The choices are virtually endless, but the real issue is whether you want to own or rent your music. Peer-to-peer networks, iTunes, Wal-Mart and alofmp3.com are places to find music you can own. Yahoo Music to Go, Napster, Rhapsody and MSN Music are hybrid services: They charge a monthly fee and allow you to download music protected by digital-rights management to approved portable players (but not iPods) and, for an extra per-track charge, to download "permanent" DRM-protected music to your hard drive. From there, the specific DRM dictates how many times you can burn CDs or export the music, and DRM varies from service to service, label to label and even song to song. The rub being, with the music "rental" programs (Yahoo, Napster, MSN), if you stop paying your monthly membership, you lose all your "nonpermanent" music. Think of it in terms of a gym membership, except if you stop paying your dues, you get all your fat back.

RENTING

I have yet to hear a good argument for music rental—and it certainly isn't setting the world on fire—but if you want to give it a go, my strong recommendation is Yahoo, and here's why.

For starters, the digital music rental space will be prone to extraordinary downward price pressure for the foreseeable future, and Yahoo has already thrown down the gauntlet and lowered the monthly rate to $4.99. And Yahoo can always go lower, because it views music subscriptions as a means to acquire and retain customers. Keep in mind that Yahoo is an incredibly smart, vertically integrated company, boasting separate business units that each make gaudy profit margins. If it loses some money on music but keeps you in its network of products and services, it's all part of the integration strategy. Napster, having neither Web search nor community offerings, needs music to be a profit center—which ain't happening as long as it's a loss leader for companies like Yahoo and the other search/portal giant, MSN. Hell, it seems like Rhapsody may start giving songs away anyway.

Napster will remain under pressure to lower its price point from $14.95. It's just a matter of when. But what really separates Yahoo from the pack is its long commitment to music on the Web and the loyal community that commitment has produced. Yahoo is clearly betting on the "on demand" world and would like very much to be your interface/portal to all content—not just music—on your PC, in your living room or wherever.

OWNING

Of course, all the hybrid services let you purchase songs à la carte after you pay the basic subscription price. But if you've got a Mac or an iPod, you're out of luck. Now, iTunes will sell you DRM-protected songs for 99 cents each that will work with your iPod, but if your wife or your kid has a different MP3 player, then once again, it's tough luck. Hard to believe that in 2005 all digital music formats aren't completely transparent to the end user, yet that is the case.

But never fear, there is one thing all MP3 players have in common—support for MP3. If you're feeling a little lost, let me clear up the confusion. See, iTunes music is in a digital format called AAC, which is wrapped in DRM that serves as a speed bump to using that music in ways the major labels would rather you didn't. And all the other services sell music in Windows Media Audio, DRM-protected files. So they are not compatible.

But since all players play MP3s (the consumer standard, accounting for 99% of the music files on P2P networks), you can always use eDonkey, Bittorrent, LimeWire (a particularly elegant application), Morpheus or any of the host of other file-trading applications to get what you want, when you want it, and without DRM. If you're downloading major-label music, though, this is what the Recording Industry Assn. of America calls "stealing." You have about the same chance of being struck by a train as you do being sued by the RIAA, but if you're feeling ooky about P2P (don't worry, it may be a generational thing), there's a little Web site that will sell you all the MP3s you want—alofmp3.com.

This Russian-based site saw an opportunity for selling music much like Canadian-based Web sites did for selling prescription medications. On the Internet, comparison shopping is always only a click away. So if alofmp3.com can sell you the same songs for one-tenth of the price (and in any format you choose), you'd be a fool not to shop there. But if you like paying top American dollar for your allergy meds, alofmp3.com is not for you. The RIAA doesn't say too much about the little Russian site, because the issue of whether it is complying with Russian licensing requirements is a bit unclear. The site claims to be in full compliance with the Russian version of the RIAA, known as ROMS, but with Russia-U.S. relations being what they are, it's really anybody's guess. Either way, if international download stores like alofmp3.com become more prevalent, the per-unit price of songs is going the way of the dodo.

THE PLAYER

OK, now that you've got a bunch of music, what do you play it on? Though tech outfits like iRiver and Rio have produced some pretty snazzy new MP3 players, it's almost impossible to conceive of not joining the iPod nation—if only for the iTunes music-management software. Like all things Apple, it's elegant and intuitive. It also has some of the best Web radio you'll ever find, right in the application.

The player itself is, as you know, the kind of breakthrough technology that creates an entire sector where previously there was only a painstaking, sad little niche market. Further, Altec-Lansing and Bose have produced portable stereo units that I highly recommend for frequent travelers, and the Web is full of great software hacks that make your iPod do some amazing things. If you're an iPodder now, immediately visit ipodlounge.com and ipodhacks.com and get started on unlocking this little wonder's real potential. With an iPod, accessorizing is at least half the fun.

THE HEADPHONES

One downside of the iPod is the inexplicably horrible headset that comes with it. Eschew the cool of the white earbuds and immediately go high-end audio. Why? Because the music you will now be listening to has been digitally compressed—warmth is not exactly its hallmark.

If you really want to blind your Luddite pals with science, get Ultimate Ears products. You actually go to an audiologist and get molds made of your ear canals so the company can custom-fit the speakers of its pro-level headphones. I recently tried these, and they have ruined me for ordinary, over-the-counter headphones—one listen and you'll never be able to tolerate earbuds again. If you'd rather not have your ears temporarily filled with foam, you can't go wrong with Bose Triport headphones. These are the best everyday cans made, in my opinion.

They are also reasonably priced and so comfortable that you'll forget you're wearing them. I know there's a lot of heat on the noise-canceling variety, but I found them sterile and unforgiving with some types of music—AC/DC just doesn't sound right without some ambient noise.

Next time, we'll get into music discovery on the Web, and why music fans never had it better than they do now.

RADIO TAPS INTO TEXT MESSAGING

BY PAUL HEINE

In May, Clear Channel mainstream top 40 WIHT (Hot 99.5) Washington, D.C., started an unorthodox marketing campaign. It used TV marketing and text messaging to play off people's innate curiosity to interact with a piece of private information.

Targeting young, active listeners, the spots did not look or sound like your typical radio ad campaign. The audio track could have been lifted from the station's morning show.

"Wait, I learned how to text-message. Kris, hang on, I'm going to text you," Mark Kaye is heard telling co-host Kris Gamble of "The Hot Morning Mess."

As the loose 30-second dialogue continues, Kaye gives out a short code number for Gamble's cell phone, adding, "If you want to text-message Kris Gamble, she'll tell you if you're going to get lucky."

The eye-catching video depicts a flip phone from different angles, with station imagery displayed on the phone's screen. The short code flashes prominently on the TV screen.

Listeners curious enough to text a message from their cell phone to the number received an automatic response from Gamble. "Mark is a jerk," it said. "Be listening tomorrow morning at seven. I'm going to give away his iPod. Thanks for listening."

Capturing sender phone numbers, the hijinks continued on the air where Gamble casually spoke of getting some text messages the night before. Reading a four-digit number, she said: "If those are the last four digits of your phone number, call me right now. I've got something for you."

Namely, an iPod—allegedly belonging to her co-host. Prizes for other listeners included "$100 from Mark's wallet" or "Mark's Eminem/50 Cent concert tickets."

Texting to win Mark's "stuff" is only one example of innovative new approaches that stations are taking to tap into a new medium, commonplace in Europe and now quickly taking hold among young Americans.

The Web and e-mail revolutionized radio marketing. Now comes text messaging with its own set of rules.

If TV's "American Idol" proved the power of text messaging—more than 2.7 million votes texted as of the May 14 show—Live 8 tore the roof off. More than 26.4 million people around the world sent text messages of support July 2 for Bob Geldof's African poverty awareness concerts.

Enter a gaggle of mobile marketing vendors offering radio stations Web-based software to make text messaging part of their everyday interactions with listeners. As programmers figure out the best ways to use it, managers wrestle with how to make money from it.

"It tapped into a form of communication that's second nature to young listeners," says Jeff Wyatt, WIHT PD/regional VP of programming for Clear Channel's Washington-Baltimore trading area.

The station's vendor is Chicago-based Vibes Media. "Our theory is, 'Push our text-message number out, but don't tell people to dial it. Instead, make them curious about what happens if they do.'"

WIHT's "smart-targeted" spots ran on cable and hand-picked network shows beginning the last week of May, ending during the final phase of the spring Arbitron survey. Wyatt is hoping for a come spike.

AVOIDING LISTENER OVERLOAD

While Hot 99.5's ambitious contest involved two-way interaction, other stations are taking baby steps, beginning with permission-based outbound messaging. Robert Mathers, director of online services for Clear Channel's five-station New York cluster, says mainstream top 40 WHTZ (Z100) routinely blasts messages about special on-air interviews, secret contests and other appointment listening to 25,000 loyal listeners who opted to receive them on their cell phones. The mobile club database for R&B/hip-hop WWPR (Power 105.1) is nearly 10,000.

"We don't want to overload them, so we only hit them with info that's a really big deal," says Mathers, who employs Los Angeles-based GoldPocket Interactive.

At this early juncture, the medium's biggest advantage may be funneling listener feedback directly to air talent. At WKSC Chicago (Kiss 103.5), "The Drex in the Morning Show" polls listeners on lifestyle topics and uses the info for on-air fodder. The Clear Channel mainstream top 40 went with Vibes "because it has tools that allow you to aggregate all the messages in one place, so you can quickly see what the listeners are saying," regional VP/market manager John Gehron says.

Similarly, WIHT's nighttime "Hot Freck Show" solicits listener feedback on anything from must-see summer concerts to the oddest place they've ever had sex. Glancing at a computer screen, the hosts view all the responses and call listeners who sent the most intriguing ones. Ditto for the morning show's "weird weekend stories" feature.

"If you're looking for stories, it's an automatic screener," Wyatt says. "Rather than talking to 50 people to find one, you just scroll through their stories. It allows [listeners] to engage the show without having to go through the busy signal, dialing and waiting on hold."

Wyatt says Hot 99.5 has received more than 10,000 text messages since the March launch of the program, which includes station contesting. One example is "Text message No. 99 wins tickets to see Eminem and 50 Cent."

After six months of experimentation, Gehron says, WKSC is evaluating listener demand and internal costs. "It's a great way to communicate in the language of our listeners," he says. "We're still trying to figure out the hot buttons that get the best response and how the listeners want to communicate with it."

To date, that has not included contesting nor involved sponsors, although Gehron says he would eventually like to. Texters get a quick reply thanking them for participating.

While systems that WIHT, WKSC and others use capture and aggregate cell phone numbers, there are restrictions on how those numbers can be used. "We have to be careful," Gehron says. "The rules on text messaging are somewhat unclear," and Clear Channel is sorting them out with its lawyers. "You have to be careful you don't start spamming people and turning them off. You don't want to be an annoyance."

CONTENT DISTRIBUTION CHANNEL

Other mobile marketing companies include HipCricket, which is used by Clear Channel, Cox, Susquehanna and Westwood One. Mobile club members at one of its clients receive an alert a few days before the station's summer jam concert, and when the alert is shown at the gate the day of the show, it gets them in before the doors officially open. At others, listeners text a "song" keyword and are automatically sent a message listing the last three songs played.

New York-based PromoSuite offers Listener Text, an outbound marketing product. When Web site visitors enlist in a station's loyal listener club or enter a contest, they can opt to receive mobile alerts in advance of, say, a superstar's on-air appearance or song-of-the-day notifications.

"You're sending a message directly into a listener's hands," founder and CEO Rocco Macri says. "They don't have to be in front of their computer. They can be anywhere."

Working with HipCricket, Fox Sports Radio in June began encouraging listeners to give feedback or participate in surveys, quizzes and giveaways by sending a text message to "ON FOX" (66369). Fox then asks if they want to receive news updates, promotions and offers delivered to their cell phones.

Traffic on Demand from Infinity news KFVB texts traffic reports to Los Angelinos for 75 cents a pop.

Last month, Columbus, Ohio-based RadioTraks rolled out E-Quest, enabling listeners to sign up on affiliate stations' Web sites to receive alerts by e-mail or text message about when their favorite songs are scheduled to play that day.

Vibes Media co-founder and president Jack Philbin sees radio revenue opportunities from text messaging. Live reads or spot tags would trigger listeners to text "taco" to a special Taco Bell short code to win free tacos. "They bring their phone into the store, show the message on the phone and get a free taco," he says. "Radio becomes an interactive, two-way medium. Even after they shut it off, they can still be bouncing back and forth having a dialogue with the brand. The radio station created the opportunity to have that dialogue."

TEXT A SCREEN

IN THE 1970s, crowd participation at a concert meant drunkenly screaming, "Freebird!" or "Play all night!" Today, you text a message to a screen.

At top 40 WHTZ (Z100) New York's Zootopia concert, messages that attendees sent from their cell phones were continuously displayed at the bottom of two giant screens—just below the concert video. Sponsor Sprint's logo blinked between each message. Of 10,000 messages received, close to 505 were displayed, everything from birthday greetings to pickup lines and marriage proposals. An auto-filter wiped out the dirty words; station personnel picked screen-worthy messages.

Z100 plans to do it again at its Jingle Ball event in December and may add the service to other concerts it sponsors. "It's totally catch-on. It makes listeners feel more a part of the show," says Robert Mathers, director of online services for Clear Channel's five-station New York cluster. "They're dancing in their seats, and they're attached to their phones. It also allows us to deliver another branding opportunity for our sponsors." —PAUL HEINE

WCCO-

GIVEN THE CURRENT WISDOM, Infinity news/talk/sports WCCO (830) Minneapolis probably shouldn't be as successful as it is.

WCCO is a live and local radio station 24/7 (except for one hour on Sunday nights when it carries a simulcast of Viacom sister CBS-TV's "60 Minutes").

That's right. No Rush Limbaugh, no Sean Hannity, no Paul Harvey, no Dr. Laura. Not even a syndicated overnight show.

Another interesting fact: Among WCCO's more than 50 employees is an eight-person news department, which is practically unheard-of these days.

"We have seven full-time reporters," Infinity VP/market manager Mary Niemeyer says. "There are TV stations in this market that don't have that many."

The station's hosts include an 86-year-old sportswriter, a former CIA agent, one current and one former local TV anchor and a guy named for a race horse. Even Minnesota's governor, Tim Pawlenty, has a weekly show on WCCO.

tent No. 2 station in its demo, 35-54. ABC Radio classic rock KQRS is the market leader in both demos.

FROM LISTENERS TO LEADERS

WCCO is led by two executives who actually grew up listening to the station, a fact that some might find surprising given today's highly mobile work force. That both are the first women to hold their respective positions at the heritage station makes WCCO's story all the more unique.

Niemeyer is a native of East St. Paul, Minn., and interestingly, her early memories of the station are linked to breakfast cereal. "When I smell a bowl of Cheerios, I think of CCO," she says. "When I would come down in the morning, Mom would have WCCO on the radio. You'd be listening to the news, you'd be listening to what the weather was going to be like, [all] while you were eating your Cheerios."

What's even more fascinating about that recollection is that WCCO was named for early owner Washburn Crosby Co.,

The big stick she refers to is the station's 50,000-watt clear-channel signal that, on a clear night, reaches 27 states and five Canadian provinces.

Even though the station claims to be the place where America's radio listeners heard the first singing jingle—it was for Wheaties—Paulson says, "We don't get too big for our britches."

Niemeyer believes that the station's one-of-a-kind mix is a key to its success. "No one else in the market—and I would step out and say no one else in the nation—has duplicated it," she says. "There aren't too many heritage news/talk stations that are 24/7 live, local-produced programming. We carry absolutely no syndication. That's what makes us unique."

"If you want to hear [sports host] Sid Hartman, you've got to come here," she continues. "If you want to hear Dave Lee in the morning, you have to come here. We've got some of the best star talent in the market."

WCCO's direct competition, according to Paulson, is another heritage station. "KSTP-AM, owned by Hubbard Broadcasting,

There is another distinction: WCCO successfully mixes news, talk and sports.

"We're three stations," PD Wendy Paulson notes. The station is the only radio home Major League Baseball's Minnesota Twins have had in their 45-year existence. It is also home to the National Hockey League's Minnesota Wild and is the flagship for the University of Minnesota Golden Gophers football, basketball and hockey teams.

WCCO is currently observing 80 years under those call letters and is about to celebrate its 83rd anniversary as a Minneapolis radio station.

It went on the air Sept. 4, 1922, as WLAG and became WCCO two years later when Washburn Crosby Co. took over.

As remarkable as its longevity is, it is the station's ability to consistently score high ratings that makes it one of Infinity's jewels.

Infinity senior VP/regional manager Les Hollander tells Billboard Radio Monitor that there are two "beacons" among his charges in the Midwest. (The other is St. Louis N/T and sports KMOX.)

"These stations have been serving their markets and the surrounding states for over 50 years," he says, "and both are tied into the fabric of the community. These are stations that your parents and grandparents listened to, and these are stations that everyone turns to in times of disaster. They are part of their communities."

Arbitron ratings show that WCCO has consistently been the No. 2 12-plus station in the market during the past year and, except for the winter 2005 book, where it fell to No. 5, WCCO is the consiswhich later became General Mills, which—you guessed it—makes Cheerios.

Niemeyer joined the station seven years ago as an account executive after holding various management positions at Southern Minnesota Broadcasting in Rochester, Minn. She quickly climbed through the Infinity ranks and was named to her current position last December.

Paulson, a self-described former "morning rock chick," hails from nearby South St. Paul. She has been at WCCO for six years after management positions in Fargo, N.D. (where she worked with liberal talker Ed Schultz), and Green Bay, Wis., took her away from the area.

In the station's 80th-anniversary book, Paulson says she remembers listening to the station's hog reports while visiting her uncle's farm.

Since WCCO is a news, talk and sports station, the lines between the three can get fuzzy. The day Billboard Radio Monitor spoke with Paulson, Minnesota lawmakers were locked in a battle over the state's budget. "Part of the holdup in the legislature is the stadium bill," she explains. "I don't think our listeners would say, 'Oh, that's news, they shouldn't be talking about that during a sports show.' Our sports talk shows are about sports, but they can cover the gamut."

In fact, it is those common interests that make WCCO successful, according to Paulson. "I think we're a community," she says. "We're a sounding board for Minnesota, and even though we're considered 'the big stick,' we've been the community focus."

is a great competitor and a very good radio station," she says. Like WCCO, KSTP-AM has been around since the early 1920s.

There's also noncommercial competition. "NPR is strong here," she says. "Minnesota Public Radio is very strong."

Clear Channel sports talk KFAN (the Fan) is another rival, as the home of the NFL's Minnesota Vikings and the National Basketball Assn.'s Minnesota Timberwolves.

As simple as it seems, WCCO makes a great case for live and local radio. "If you're a local radio station, your announcers, your newspeople, your board ops, your producers, everybody lives here," Paulson says. "We live where we work, we talk about where we live and our listeners obviously live in the same area. So I think they look at it as, if it's happening in the local community we're going to have it on 'CCO, whether it's breaking news or sports or lifestyle—whatever it might be."

Paulson says she doesn't know that there was ever a conscious decision by station management to remain live and local. "It's what we've always done," she says. "It always seemed to best serve what we do and what our listeners wanted. We just really never changed."

OK, there was that one time. In the early '90s, the station decided to add syndicated talk show host Dr. Laura Schlessinger to the lineup. She didn't last. "I don't think that went very well," Paulson says, "and they went back to live and local."

WCCO's influence is evident in the way that the region's leaders go to the station when they need to communicate with their constituents.

"The newsmakers will come to 'CCO to reach the community because of the vast audience," Paulson says. "So the listeners will hear for themselves from the newsmakers about what's happening."

While the station streams its programming on its Web site and podcasting may be in its future, Paulson says, "We have to remember that it's important for our listeners to find us easily."

That is because the emphasis on content is what keeps WCCO connected with its audience. "When you're live and local, your news, your talk, your sports, everything is relevant to the day," Paulson says. "I don't think it's that difficult [to remain relevant], if you keep your finger on the pulse of what's going on."

Niemeyer agrees. "Wendy and I are between the ages of 35 and 54—not to give our ages away, but we're somewhere darn smack in the middle," she says. "We look at what we're interested in. Our talent all falls between 35 and 54, our core demo, so I almost think it's easy. I think that our talent looks at what's of interest . . . [and who is] listening to you at that time."

While 35-54 is the station's target demo, it is also successful 12-plus. "We want to make sure that our 12-plus audience is happy with what they're hearing," Paulson says, "whether they're 18 or 90, it doesn't matter. They'll hear something that's important to them."

Paulson says the staff is what makes the difference. "We have a great staff here," she says, "running from the age of 26 to 86. Each one of them understands the importance of moving forward."

The dean of the WCCO staff is legendary sports reporter Sid Hartman. He will soon celebrate 50 years with the station and has been a writer and columnist for the Minneapolis Star Tribune for 60 years. "Sid does three shots in the morning, talking about local and national sports," Paulson says. "He's an opinionated sports person and will give you the end-all. He's a well-loved character here in the state and is well-known nationally, too."

Hartman's Sunday-morning "Sports Huddle" has been on the station for 25 years, according to Paulson. "You put Sid Hartman and [co-host] Dave Mona on from 9 a.m. to noon on Sunday, and it's like going to church," she says. "It's one of those traditions where you just sit in front of the radio and listen."

PROUD OF THE NEWS

The station's news coverage is, of course, a main source of pride. "As far as local news, we are there when it's happening," Niemeyer says. "Breaking news is really a forte for WCCO."

Paulson says WCCO radio and Viacom sister TV station WCCO-TV work well together, with news editors checking in two or three times per day with their counterparts to compare notes.

Because of its 50,000-watt signal, WCCO can be heard around the state and across the country. That fact is not lost on the station's news department, according to Niemeyer. "Wherever you are in the state or in the Upper Midwest, you will hear stuff that is relevant," she says. "The information is kept general enough that if you're somewhere else in the state, you say, 'You know, that was good information for me.'"

The news department, which Paulson calls "phenomenal," is always staffed—even on the weekends, another oddity. It is an advantage that recently came into play.

"About two weeks ago, on a Sunday," Paulson explains, "we had just received word that a man had been killed in one of our metros and that the police were looking for the suspect. Our newsmen, Bruce Hagevick, broke in with the story and gave a description of the man and the circumstances."

What follows proves that even perps listen to WCCO. "The suspect called the newsroom, because he didn't like the way he was being portrayed by the police," Paulson says. "Our news person did a four-minute interview with him and put it on the air. He ended it with, 'You know the right thing to do is to turn yourself in, don't you?'" The man agreed and turned himself in to the police two hours later.

That incident, Paulson says, underscores WCCO's continuing relevance, "as long as we stay true, live and local." ● ● ●

TRIPLE PLAY IN

BY CHUCK TAYLOR

WHILE RADIO FORMATS ARE TRADITIONALLY viewed in terms of pie charts, let's try a different taste test.

Say the top 40 menu in Minneapolis is personified by a sandwich. If you've seen the city's demographic makeup, you know we should start with two pieces of white bread. The three players in the market—mainstream KDWB, rhythmic KTTB (B96) and adult KSTP (KS95)—stack up complementarily as turkey, ham and roast beef, making for a hoagie to satisfy any deli druthers. If you'd like, you can even add a little cheese—AC WLTE.

Each outlet is wholly distinguished from the other, with scant crossover, giving the Minneapolis market an unusually robust hold on top 40's three personas. Even more remarkable is that each station is owned by a different company, so they're not even deliberately aggregate partners: KDWB falls under Clear Channel, KTTB is Radio One's and KSTP is locally owned, by Hubbard Broadcasting.

In the latest Arbitrends, each station admirably held its own among 22 monitored signals in Minneapolis/St. Paul, the No. 16 radio market. ABC classic rock KQRS (KQ92) leads the metropolis 12-plus, followed by Infinity news/talk WCCO-AM and Clear Channel country KEEY (K102). Next comes KDWB in a comfortable No. 4 position, with a 5.6 share. KSTP is No. 8 with a 4.4 share, and KTTB is No. 11, with a 3.6.

It's definitely an anachronism for three top 40s to co-exist in a market without living in each other's shadow, but Minneapolis' rich broadcasting heritage already makes the metro a standout.

WCCO is a legendary AM signal, a clear-channel frequency that is heard across much of North America. The city is also the base of Minnesota Public Radio, home of "A Prairie Home Companion" and the second-most powerful public radio organization behind NPR.

The dial also enlightens listeners with a classical FM, increasingly rare in the United States (owned by Minnesota Public Radio, even though it holds a commercial frequency at 99.5); an FM female talker (WFMP); noncommercial jazz and a couple of free-form stations; and one of the strongest triple-A stations in the country (KTCZ/Cities 97). In addition, the Twin Cities are a watchdog market for Infinity's burgeoning Jack FM (KZJK.)

THE PROGRAMMERS SPEAK

KDWB is as historic a top 40 as you will find in a large or major market. It has been spinning popular hits since 1959, first on the AM dial. The calls are so synonymous with top 40 that they do not claim any moniker.

KSTP gained its foothold namesake in 1976, while KTTB is the new kid on the block; the rhythmic format launched in 2000 and was refined in 2003, when Radio One purchased the outlet from Blue Chip Broadcasting. It is one of only a handful of Radio One stations that is not pure R&B/hip-hop.

Mainstream KDWB PD Rob Morris says, "We're a little bit slower than the polar extremes of the East or West Coasts. We have evolved over the years, but we follow pop culture and music trends. We may have a more rhythmic lean now than in the past, but we define ourselves by big personalities not just during the morning, but throughout the day. I firmly believe that that's what makes listeners stay with the station. We are always evolving; that's the nature of the format."

Sam Elliott, PD of rhythmic KTTB, observes, "This is a really mainstream market. The market is 94% white, so when I got here 16 or 17 months ago, I shifted to more of a commercial crossover station. We program like a top 40 that plays rhythmic music. We need to be just one notch hipper than KDWB, not three or four notches. We don't worry about other stations in the market; our product is exposed on BET and MTV."

Adult KSTP PD Leighton Peck says, "We're a heritage radio station with more than 40 years in the market with the same owner, so we're part of the fabric of the city, with tremendous name recognition. People know what to expect from us. We talk to the average person and never try to be hipper than the room; we're the Everyman radio station. If people think that we're corny, we're just everyday people doing our thing and having fun. We'll never try to be something we're not."

MORRIS AT KDWB

Morris analyzes KDWB with an eye more toward the ever-evolving top 40 format than what his competitors are playing.

"Essentially, KDWB turned around in the late '80s. It always had a history of leaning toward rock. In the late 1990s, we had the heyday of pop mainstream exploding with Backstreet Boys and 'N Sync and Christina Aguilera and Britney Spears. There was definitely a lull after that. But I think we're moving out of that now and finding balance again. There's Kelly Clarkson and Green Day, Black Eyed Peas and 50 Cent covering the bases."

Morris says the station is also gaining ground with fewer commercial minutes and imaging toward more music—the Clear Channel "Less Is More" initiative.

He also points to artists that mainstream top 40 gets to own with relative exclusivity: "Anything on the dance side, like D.H.T. [who recorded a cover of Roxette's "Listen to Your Heart"] as well as Kelly Clarkson and Gwen Stefani, which the other stations play, but they pick up later."

Since the market is so dominantly white, Morris has to give careful thought to just how hip-hop the station leans, no matter what the national trends are. He says, "We've always been a bit of a funky market with Lipps Inc. and Jimmy Jam & Terry Lewis, but historically, in the '80s, the station played pretty much nothing with a beat. In the late '90s, we shifted the focus, because the rhythmic angle simply wasn't being served. Now, as the demo has aged, that has become mass appeal."

ELLIOTT AT KTTB

When Elliott arrived at KTTB two years ago in the wake of the Radio One purchase, he realized that the station needed some tweaking to adjust to a market whose minority population totaled all of 6%.

He says, "50 Cent, the Game, Ciara, Mariah Carey, Nelly, Fat Joe and Ludacris: These are core artists for us. We're not going to lean too much to crunk or the Dirty South. We're all about grabbing the biggest records in the format. KDWB is still early on a lot of the hip-hop records, so we don't try to be that aggressive. They're playing 3 Doors Down, Lifehouse and Kelly Clarkson, so there's still plenty of exclusive product for us."

Elliott appreciates the guidance of Radio One, a tried-and-true force in programming R&B nationwide. "They certainly have expertise in hip-hop and the rhythmic side," he says. "Being able to tap into those resources is a powerful thing. I communicate with programmers on a weekly—if not a daily—basis to find out how an artist is doing and how a song is working."

He adds that as a Midwestern rhythmic, KTTB also has unique opportunities. "We're kind of all by ourselves," Elliott

KFMP-FM, as well as two TV properties in the market.)

"First of all, there are no stock prices to watch. If we're in a battle and we need more money, our owner is right across the hall," he says. "The Hubbards are passionate about the business. You do your thing, and the money will come. We're all here to win, but it's comforting to know that this was home for Grandpa Hubbard."

NOT WORRIED ABOUT JACK

The programmers present a unified opinion about the latest threat to their well-being: the recent launch of Jack-FM on KZJK, which flipped from '80s to the Infinity "playing what we want" format.

Morris says his station is not planning a counterattack: "I think we have enough stations playing that music here," he says. Classic rock KQRS and oldies KQQJ "seem to have it covered. I think the other stations will neuter that format here. Jack will resonate in some markets where the music is super-niched and overly researched, but if they don't reinvent themselves in 18 months, I can't imagine a future. Already, the station is doing the same numbers as the '80s station. They're not bad, but they're certainly not great, either."

He adds that the no-personality, sardonic signature of the format may not play so well in Minneapolis.

"Not a good idea in this market," Morris says. "Talent still

'TALENT STILL RESONATES HERE. JACK BECOMES MONOTONOUS. WHAT COMES OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF THE LOCAL JOCKS HERE IS A LOT MORE RELEVANT THAN THE PROMO GUY WITH THE BIG VOICE.'
—ROB MORRIS

says. "We are given a lot of freedom to fit the station to the market. We're successful and we're certainly making revenue, so we continue to have a great opportunity to grow here."

PECK AT KSTP

Peck believes that the adult top 40 format is enduring a musical lull, but he feels secure that KSTP maintains a solid momentum. "I grew up listening to this station," the Minneapolis native says. "The artists may change, and some of the audience moves on, but we remain individual to this market. I could give a shit what [New York adult top 40] WPLJ is playing. We've got to do our own thing."

Peck adds that programming for the format is challenging today. "I don't think the music is particularly healthy right now," he says. "Once in a while something comes along, but it's always a battle. We have Kelly Clarkson and Rob Thomas, but I feel like record companies have abandoned the format. We're fortunate to have the country crossovers like Tim McGraw and Keith Urban, which KDWB and KTTB aren't going to touch."

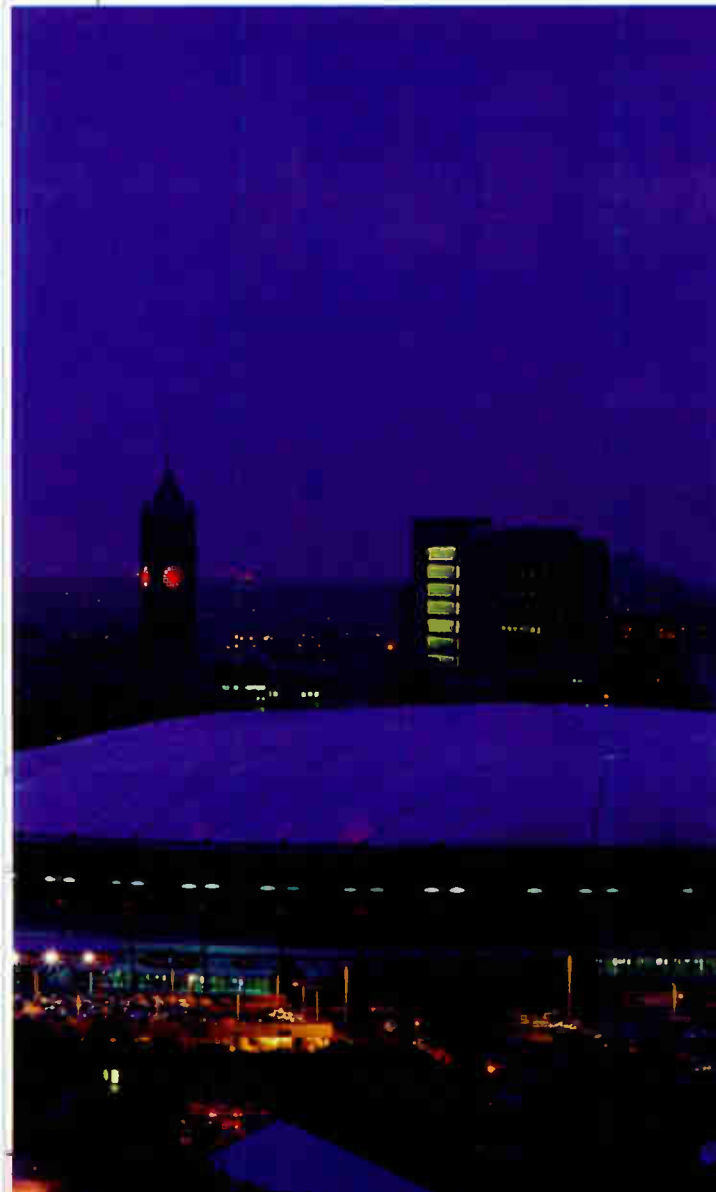

One advantage that Peck heralds is the station's local ownership. (Hubbard also owns news/talk KSTP-AM and talk resonates here. Jack becomes monotonous. What comes out of the mouths of the local jocks here is a lot more relevant than the promo guy with the big voice."

Peck adds, "Yes, Jack will kick ass in some markets, but I think they're going to struggle here. All of that '80s music has already been played to death. They're going to have the same issues as any other station down the road. There's a finite amount of gold, and six months from now, it's going to get old."

All three programmers appear dedicated to a market that is not too big and certainly not too small. The competitive landscape remains on the tip, but so far, there also are wide-open spaces for each of the competing top 40s.

Morris says, "Being here for 11 years has been great. We've certainly had our milestones along the way. We moved the station to its highest share ever, 9.0, in the spring of 2000. There's been personal growth; I got married here. And this is show business. I'm a competitive person by nature. I enjoy coming to work every day and looking for ways to come up with exciting, compelling programming. It's like coaching football: You've got to learn to block and tackle, but you also have to figure out ways to be creative and keep the fans excited." ■■■

THE CHARTS

THIS WEEK IN DATA. For complete charts, there's always more at www.BillboardRadioMonitor.com

THE SPIN

BY ANTHONY COLOMBO, RAPHAEL GEORGE, WADE JESSEN AND PATRICK McGOWAN

KEITH HAS 'GOOD' WEEK

With the fastest No. 1 climb the Country chart has seen in 12 months, Toby Keith scores his 15th No. 1 single as "As Good

As I Once Was" (DreamWorks) rises 2-1 in its 10th chart week. The chart hasn't had a song sprint this fast to the top since Tim McGraw's "Live Like You Were Dying" needed just seven weeks to reach the summit in the July 9, 2004, issue.

Meanwhile, Faith Hill occupies the top five for the first time in more than four years: Her "Mississippi Girl" (Warner Bros.) jumps 6-4. Hill's most recent top five achievement was "If My Heart Had Wings," which peaked at No. 3 in April 2001.

LIFEHOUSE LANDS ANOTHER CHART-TOPPER

Lifehouse earns its second No. 1 on the Adult Top 40 chart as "You and Me" (Geffen) moves 2-1 and dethrones Rob Thomas' "Lonely No More" (Atlantic) after a 10-week run.

The band topped the chart for five weeks in the summer of 2001 with its first release, "Hanging by a Moment." Since then, "You and Me" is the first time Lifehouse has returned to the top 10.

Carey Continues Her Reign; Braxton Returns

Mariah Carey's "We Belong Together" (IDJMG) holds at No. 1 for an eighth week on the Rhythmic Top 40 chart, the longest a female artist has done so on that list since Ashanti's "Foolish" had an equal run beginning in April 2002.

Carey also maintains her perch atop the Mainstream Top 40 chart for a fourth week and the R&B/Hip-Hop chart for a seventh.

Elsewhere on the R&B/Hip-Hop chart, Toni Braxton is back at No. 39 with "Please" (Blackground). The track also picks up Airpower and Greatest Gainer honors at Adult R&B at No. 17. It is her first appearance on the list since "Hit the Freeway" debuted in November 2002.

Also debuting is 50 Cent Featuring Mobb Deep's "Outta Control (Remix)" (Interscope) at No. 40. The track differs from the version that appears on 50 Cent's multiplatinum "The Massacre." The remix will be included on the reissue of the set scheduled to hit stores Sept. 6 that will contain new, unreleased recordings and a DVD.

ROBBINS FLIES TO MAINSTREAM TOP 10

Robbins Records returns to the top 10 of the Mainstream Top 40 chart for the second time in its history as D.H.T.'s "Listen to Your Heart" climbs 12-9.

The label was last represented in the Mainstream top 10 during the summer of 2002 with DJ Sammy's "Heaven," and its current success mirrors the run that track enjoyed in a couple of ways. Both songs are dance remakes of a No. 1 '80s ballad (D.H.T. covers Roxette; DJ Sammy takes on Bryan Adams), and both got an extra push at radio by a ballad version that was released during its chart run to complement the dance rendition.

At the moment, some stations are playing both versions of "Heart" while others have locked in on one or the other. Meanwhile, "Heart" debuts on the AC list at No. 34 (in ballad form, one would suppose). DJ Sammy's slowed-down "Heaven" peaked at No. 21 on the AC list in November 2002.

Speaking of remakes, Jessica Simpson debuts with her third consecutive cover on the Mainstream Top 40 chart. Her take on Nancy Sinatra's "These Boots Are Made for Walkin'" (Columbia) enters at No. 36. Simpson peaked at No. 8 with Berlin's "Take My Breath Away" and at No. 23 with Robbie Williams' "Angels" last year.

JOHNSON JACKS UP TRIPLE-A NO. 1 COUNT

Jack Johnson climbs to the summit of the Triple-A chart with "Good People" (UMRG), ending the nine-week reign of Coldplay's "Speed of Sound" (Capitol). "People" is Johnson's fourth No. 1 at the format and pulls him into a tie with John Mayer for most No. 1s by a male artist. "People" is the second chart-topper from "In Between Dreams" along with "Sitting, Waiting, Wishing," which led the chart for six weeks in March and April. It's the first time Johnson has issued two No. 1s from the same album.

LEGEND TO CHARTS

Charts are ranked by detections except for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country charts which are based on audience impressions, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data.

● Songs showing an increase in detections audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its peak date has in detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) does not exceed the percentage of mobilized station downtime for the format. Excluding the Country chart, a song that has been in the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country). Country hits which decline in audience but increase in detections will also receive a bullet if the total audience erosion for the week does not exceed 2%.

AUDIENCE TOTALS

on the charts are derived, in part, using certain Arbitron Inc. copy-righted Perceptics TV audience estimates, under license.

◎ AIRPOWER:

awarded to songs appearing at the top 25 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Airpower awards do not appear on the Latin and Christian gospel charts.

↑ GREATEST GAINER:

awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country).

+ MOST AIRPLAY ADDS:

awarded to the song beginning six or more times on the most stations for the first time this week.

TIES: A song with a gain in detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) or each losing detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country), the song being played on more stations is placed first.

RECURRENT RULE:

Songs below the top 20 (top 15 for adult top 40, AC, modern AC, adult R&B, heritage rock and dance) become recurrent and are removed from the chart after 25 weeks. Country titles move to recurrent after 20 weeks if they rank below top 15 and are losing audience.

● Nielsen BDS certification for a copy of 100,000 detections on all monitored stations, including satellite and national networks, across the U.S. and Canada. Multiple bullet symbols indicate multiple levels of 100,000 detections.

★ indicates this artist's previous status in research data provided by Protonquest.

Playlists are listed in order of TBA weekly count, beginning with the highest-ranking station. Criteria was updated twice yearly following the release of the spring and fall Arbitron surveys.

A+ AIRPLAY ADDS

awarded to songs with 8 or more additions of stations for the first time this week.

IMPACT! Songs at Airpower level and below with a gain in detections or with a format type loss in detections (total) of a better than the national average in the format.

★ INITIAL IMPACT: indicates a song's first appearance on the impact! page.

Crossover Hit 'You'll Think Of Me' Ready To Ascend Another Chart

It is a big week at R&B/hip-hop on the HP charts. Mariah Carey tops the list with a huge score of 95.8 on her latest, "Shake It Off." This is the third HP star for this track and Carey's third single from her latest album to score on the HitPredictor charts. Like this song, her last single was a HitPredictor pick at Mainstream Top 40, Rhythmic Top 40 and R&B/Hip-Hop, and it hit No. 1 in each format.

Also new at R&B/Hip-Hop this week are tracks from Charlie Wilson (formerly of the Gap Band), Pretty Ricky and Nick Cannon. And R&B veteran Toni Braxton scores her first HitPredictor pick with the song "Please."

Our Lady Peace returns to the Modern Rock column with "Where Are You." And Disturbed joins them with the track "Guarded."
