A Guide To Monitor

Country Airplay Monitor is a small magazine which we hope will become essential reading for everyone programming music at country stations in the U.S. In this article we'll guide you through the different charts and features which will appear in Monitor each week.

All information in Monitor is supplied by Broadcast Data Systems, a sister company of Billboard Magazine. All data on the charts and features is actual monitored airplay from the panel of 113 country stations; there is no playlist information taken over the telephone from radio stations. BDS electronically monitors airplay in 85 major U.S. markets 24 hours a day, seven days a week. For those of you not familiar with BDS, each song is played into a computer—"encoded"—and an audio fingerprint of the song is created. These patterns are sent by wire from the main computer in Kansas City to the remote monitors around the country, where the patterns are stored. At each monitor site a group of stereo tuners listens to 8-12 local stations around the clock, recognizing and logging all songs encoded in the monitor's memory. New patterns are encoded daily, to keep track of all current music in five major radio formats: top 40, country, R&B, album rock, and adult contemporary.

MONDAY-SUNDAY WEEK

The airplay week used for Monitor runs from 12:01 A.M. on Monday to 11:59 P.M. the next Sunday. For example, for this issue dated June 25 the monitored week runs from Monday, June 14 through Sunday, June 20. The charts and features are prepared just hours after the monitored week ends, and Monitor is mailed first class to radio stations and record companies around the country. Our intention is to get the information into our readers' hands by Friday, the issue date.

Now on to the specific features in Monitor. Starting on the back page, there is the BDS Country Airplay chart, which is the only feature in Monitor which also appears in Billboard Magazine. This chart ranks the 75 most-played current records in order of number of actual plays on the 113 monitored stations. The actual number of plays registered in the survey week and during the previous week are listed on the right side of the chart (the number of plays appears only in Monitor; it does not appear in Billboard). In the case of a tie in plays, the record with more stations playing it is placed first. A bullet is awarded to any record which registers an increase in total plays over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. Titles may move backward with a bullet or may move upward without earning a bullet. If a title loses a bullet one week because of a decline in detections, it may regain the bullet the next week if it shows an increase.

AIRPOWER

A record receives the Airpower award in the first week that it reaches 2000 total plays on the chart. For all records which register up to 3000 detections and are increasing in plays, a detailed breakdown of their airplay is provided on the BDS Impact page. The titles are listed in groups according to the total number of plays for the week. This week's Airpower records are in the second group, followed by other categories down the page to a minimum of 75 plays. Those titles appearing on the page for the first time are called "Initial Impact" records, indicated by a red star next to the title. The week after a record reaches 3000 plays for the first time, it "graduates" off the Impact page, but stays on the chart.

The detailed information on the Impact page includes: the record's position on the chart (if any); the number of detections registered in total for this week and last; and the number of monitored stations playing the record. Then it lists "rotation leaders"—those monitored stations playing the record 40 times or more per week if total plays are over 2000. For records with 500-1999 total plays, 30 or more plays on a station qualifies as a rotation leader, and for records with under 500 total plays, rotation leaders are those stations playing the record 20 or more times per week. Below the list of rotation leaders, "new airplay" is listed—those monitored stations which registered a minimum of six plays on the record for the first time this week.

In the center of the magazine are the Power Playlists—actual monitored playlists from at least 36 country stations with the largest weekly cume audience according to Arbitron. Each station's top 30 titles for the week are listed, with this week's and last week's plays, so you can see the trend in airplay. On page three are the week's Biggest Gainers, those records with the largest gain in actual number of plays compared to last week, and starting next week will be a list of the major new releases which are being promoted for airplay for the first time during the week ahead. Finally, at the bottom of page three we provide actual monitored playlists of the two major country music video channels, The Nashville Network and Country Music Television. (The monitored video playlists, due to a longer processing time, reflect the week ending Thursday, June 17.)

We hope that Monitor will prove to be an essential programming tool. Please give us your feedback so we can make Monitor as useful as possible. Contact Lynn Shults at 615-321-4291 or Michael Ellis at 212-536-5039 with your comments or suggestions. We'd love to hear from you.

COUNTRY CONFIDENTIAL

by Lynn Shults

WELCOME TO the Country Airplay Monitor. We are excited about bringing you specific airplay information provided by Broadcast Data Systems. Within this column will be my random thoughts ranging from assessments of high-tech information to seat-of-the-pants intuition derived from 30-plus years of experience in the music biz. As this year's Fan Fair has just ended, I have a couple of observations that keep running through mind. One is the continual fusion of other musical styles into country music. Since the consumer shift to country music began in '89, I have continually heard people be judgmental about what is country and what isn't. And on the other side, I've watched and listened as others pushed to stretch out both musically and in live performances. Then there have been those wonderful debates about the impact of the baby-boomers, the Urban Cowboy days, the importance of TNN & CMT, how the club scene is just disco in cowboy boots, and how all of this is just cyclical. Well, it is cyclical.

I THINK William Shakespeare said (even though he may not have written it down), "The only thing constant is change." And that is what we have been going through. Change. And we are going to be continually changing. Nothing stays the same. It is for this reason that many of country music's established stars got left in the vapor trail of today's hot new country acts. On the pop side, such artists as Rod Stewart, Eric Clapton, Tina Turner, etc., keep on evolving. They also do not live 250 days a year on the road or attempt to deliver a new album every 12 months or so. As we go down this path of success, we must not be afraid of the unknown changes that are in front of us. Maybe we should just learn to enjoy the process.

Rotation leaders are those monitored stations which registered 40 or more detections on any record registering 2000 or more total detections in the survey week. For records with 500-1999 total detections, rotation leaders register 30 or more detections. For records with less than 500 total detections, rotation leaders register 20 or more detections. New airplay lists those stations registering six or more detections per week on a record for the first time. ★ Initial impact: records registering 75 or more total detections for the first time.

SAWYER BROWN'S THANK GOD FOR YOU

A little bit of country rockin' blues, giving credit to all the people that have touched our lives and have helped us to get where we are today.

The debut single from the August release of the Sawyer Brown Curb Records' Album

Outskirts of Town

Compiled from a national sample of airplay supplied by Broadcast Data Systems' Radio Track service to Country Airplay Monitor. 113 country stations are electronically monitored 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Songs ranked by number of detections. ©1993, Billboard/BPI Communications, Inc.

Records showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A record which has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will be removed if it is below the top 20. Airpower awarded to those records which attain 2000 detections for the first time. If two records are tied in number of plays, the record being played on more stations is placed first.
