Since Modern Is More Than Guitars, Active Rock Hopes To Claim Some Shared Acts

by Marc Schiffman

More than two years after it became nearly impossible to distinguish between modern and active rock, a new wrinkle has emerged. Bands such as Offspring, Local H, and Helmet-rooted in the modern revolution-find themselves doing better on the mainstream chart than at modern.

Local H's "Fritz's Corner (Messin' Around With You)" debuted at No. 36 on mainstream for the week that ended March 23 and held that spot the following week. Helmet's "Exactly What You Wanted" debuted on mainstream March 16 at No. 33 and moves to No. 25 this week. Neither of those songs have charted at modern. Offspring's "Gone Away" is No. 7 this week in modern and No. 5 in mainstream; it made the mainstream rock top 10 three weeks before it reached top 10 at modern.

The two reasons cited by industryites were a lack of current mainstream rock for active rock stations to draw on and the increasingly pop and rhythmic lean of modern rock. In addition, some modern rock proponents claim that it was the handful of harder-leaning mainstream rock stations, not modern, that really broke most guitar-based modern acts in the first place.

Interscope head of modern promotion Lynn McDonnell says, "Right now, there's such a fine line between active rock and modern that the only differences are the guitar bands.

Interscope has started the latest Helmet recording at active rock. McDonnell says that although modern first Continued on page 8 his installment should wrap up my multipart look at 1996's new-artist crop (1 think this is part 23, although it may just seem that way). So far I've tallied the new artists who charted for the first time in '96, looking at the formats on which they broke and from which they crossed over and into, the labels that broke them, and so forthall quantitative stuff, basically.

New Artists Are Coming Home

This time, I want to venture into the qualitative realm, tracking how the '96 new-artist crop performed on the charts. For starters, I looked at the 103 new artists for the year and the chart peaks for their breakthrough records in the format they originally broke in. (I followed through to '97 to date for late-'96 debuts. If an artist broke the same week in more than one format, I used the highest peak achieved.) Formats covered were top 40 mainstream, rhythm-crossover, and adult; mainstream and modern rock; and triple-A (which is only 20 positions, so that skews the results a little bit obviously; anything that charted triple-A went top 20, and it's accordingly a bit easier to hit top 10, top five, and No. 1).

- 61% of 1996's new artists reached the top 20 in their first charted format with their debut song.
- 32%, just under one-third, hit the top
- 19%, just under one-fifth, hit the top five.

• 8% went all the way to No. 1.

I don't have comparable figures from previous years, but these seem like impressive and encouraging statistics for the impact of new artists and labels' ability to follow through on them.

Next, I counted the number of new artists who crossed to another format. This figure includes a few acts that broke in '95 but crossed over to a new format in '96; the total was 54. Of those, half (27) crossed over to more than one format.

Then I looked at those 54 artists to see how well they did in the formats they crossed over to, as opposed to their original format. Because there were so many artists who crossed over to more than one format, the figures can't be expressed as percentages, since some artists reached the top 10 in three separate formats, and each one counted. Still, the results again seem encouraging: Out of the 54 new artists who crossed over, there were

- 54 top 20 chart peaks;
 30 top 10 chart peaks;

- 15 top five chart peaks;
- Seven No. 1 chart peaks.

If you added the figures from the chart peaks in the original formats with the peaks in the formats they crossed over to, the '96 new-artist roster (plus the handful of '95 graduates who crossed anew in '96) accounted for

- 117 top 20 records; 63 top 10 records;
- 35 top five records;
- 15 No. 1 records.

And that would seem to be a very impressive showing indeed.

Here's an honor roll of the new artists that hit No. 1 in 1996 (or early '97).

In their original formats: Tracy Bonham (Island) in modern, Jewel (Atlantic) in triple-A, Primitive Radio Gods (Columbia) in modern, the Why Store (MCA) in triple-A, Donna Lewis (Atlantic) in adult top 40, eels (Dreamworks/Geffen) in modern, Duncan Sheik (Atlantic) in triple-A, and Sublime (MCA) in modern. (That's four moderns, three triple-As, and one adult top 40, if you're counting formats.) Also, it should be noted that the Wallflowers (Interscope) peaked at No. 2 in triple-A, and their second track went to No. 1 there.

As crossovers: dog's eye view (Columbia) in triple-A, Dishwalla (A&M) in modern, the Fugees (Columbia) in top 40/rhythm and top 40/mainstream, Primitive Radio Gods (Columbia) in triple-A, Donna Lewis (Atlantic) in top 40/mainstream, and the Cardigans (Mercury) in top 40/mainstream.

New artists that did significantly better as crossovers than in the format they originally broke in include Amber (No. 14 in top 40/rhythm, No. 7 in top 40/main-stream), Merril Bainbridge (No. 8 in adult top 40, No. 2 in top 40/mainstream), Fiona Apple (Work) (No. 36 in adult top 40, No. 12 in triple-A), Son Volt (WB) (No. 25 at modern, No. 10 in mainstream rock), and most dramatically, dog's eye view (Columbia) (No. 18 in mainstream rock, No. 1 in triple-A).

A note of correction: the crossover success of Joe to top 40/rhythm was credited to Mercury, but should have been credited to Island.

ROCK GODZ

Jamie's Got a Juggernaut, Juggling Music At Three Jacor Cincinnati FMs

ick Jamie's rise to group MD for Jacor Cincinnati properties modern WAQZ (Channel Z)/album WEBN/AC WNNK (Wink) is another Jacor Cinderella story. While at album/modern combo WQMF/WXNU Louisville, Ky., Jamie crossed paths with Jacor's Marc Chase and Brad Hardin when they were brought in to consult the stations. "I hit it off real well with them," says Jamie. "Marc said, 'If I ever have something open in Cincinnati, I'll bring you up.

"I started as a programming assistant at Channel Z, helping out Matt [Harris] and Sterling [Schiessler] and doing nights. And things started to change around here on Mount Jacor, and they created the position, and I just kind of rolled into it." And so Jamie became the company's first market MD, overseeing music chores at Channel

Z, WEBN, and WNNK.
As group MD, "I'm still trying to work out a

And thank God they did.

Rick Jamie Group MD Jacor Cincinnati

If you want a record played, you've got to play ball with us' system on how to balance these three stations. The modern rock is definitely the one that has the most maintenance associated with it, just because there's more music coming in than there is on WEBN or Wink," says Jamie. "I started off doing individual days for each station . . . but Wink's not as busy as the rest of them, and WEBN really isn't either, so now it's become a Monday through Friday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., except for Tuesday deal. And it's just a matter of keeping good notes and trying to keep organized with who's calling when with what."

Jacor's given him specifically focused properties. "We pretty much own different demos," he says. "We've got younger guys on WEBN. We've got the older guys with the classic rock on [Jacor sister WOFX] the Fox. We've got younger women on Channel Z, and we're going for the older women on Wink.

On the album rock side, "WEBN still is going to be cautious about what we put on the air,"
Jamie says. "WEBN has always been the safe station. We don't look at it as our job to break bands at WEBN. Let other people take the risk, and once a record's been proven or looks like it's a no-. yeah, it goes on. But if it's some of these baby bands that are building up, we're going to sit back and wait."

Here's a recent hour on WEBN: AC/DC, "Highway To Hell"; Queensryche, "Sign Of The Times"; Led Zeppelin, "The Ocean"; Live, "Lakini's Juice"; Ozzy Osbourne, "Crazy Train"; Pearl Jam. "Black"; Guns N Roses, "Paradise City"; U2, "Staring At The Sun"; Rush, "Spirit Of Radio"; and Alice In Chains, "Rooster."

Channel Z's modern format-which began as almost a modern/top 40 hybrid—lies in the middle of WEBN and Wink. Although Z leans pop/ female and is different from WEBN, the two share the likes of Stone Temple Pilots and Pearl

And when that Tool record comes in? "[It's] not going to get a whole lot of [Z] air time," says

Jamie. "Because of the format and credibility issue, we'll spin it once a day. But it will be at night or in the overnight. But the lighter records, the Paula Coles and Shawn Colvins, work a hell of a lot better for us than, say, Danzig or Henry Rollins. It's not a viable center sound for Z.

Here's a recent hour on WAQZ: 311, "Down"; Sublime, "Santeria"; Beck, "Where It's At"; Orbit, "Medicine"; Garbage, "Stupid Girl"; Live, "Freaks"; the Cure, "Friday I'm In Love"; Morphine, "Early To Bed"; Smiths, "Ask"; Paula Cole, "Where Have All The Cowboys Cone?"; Butthole Surfers, "Pepper"; Mighty Mighty Bosstones, "The Impression I Get"; U2, "Where The Streets Have No Name"; Depeche Mode, "It's No Good"; and Folk Implosion, "Natural

That same pop/female lean, though, makes Channel Z a breeding ground to cross over certain artists to Wink. Jamie says, "Artists like Tracy Chapman or Shawn Colvin or Paula Cole that seem like they can be a viable AC crossover are going to be on Z, and then [13] see how they do. If it seems like it's going to work, over they go." That doesn't mean that WNNK, which has spent the last few years as a relatively conservative mainstream AC, is headed for modern AC anytime soon, although Jamie says Chase and Brad Ellis are revamping the library and looking at adding "some of the pop stuff back from Jamie says he can now orchestrate the three properties to help in battles between Jacor and top 40 WKRQ (Q102) and neighboring modern WOXY. "We've got the collective muscle of Jacor here on three stations. If you want a record played, you've got to play ball with us, and we'll play ball with you. Channel Z is the only one that ever needs that help and support, because Q102 is the monster top 40 here, and throwing a little weight around to either make a show neutral or throw it over toward Z's way will definitely help.

As for WOXY, which, because of its musical aggressiveness, remains a favorite of some indusvites despite marginal ratings in Cincinnati, "Sterling and Matt had been fighting the good fight with [the labels] and had gone out of business with a couple of the labels because of it," he says. "I don't want things to escalate to that, because it's counterproductive for us and for the labels, and it ultimately ends up hurting the bands."

Still, Jamie has had to "[lay] down the law for them, saying, 'You've got a band coming to town that is going to play Cincinnati, and [if] you're not going to give me the show because of WOXY, we're going to have some serious problems, because they're not a Cincinnati station. I don't care what the report is worth to you. I don't care what their four or five [Broadcast Data Systems] spins are worth to you. It's my market, and if you want to have your band play to my market and sell records, that's fine' ... So what [if] they sell 10 records, [according to] SoundScan? ... Those 10 records are not in this market. They're selling them in Oxford, Ohio. They're a college station."

Helming the Jacor FM current-music triumvirate, Jamie says he can tell companies, OK, so you've got a show coming that's a Z band, but you're pushing a record on WEBN. It kind of gives you a little leverage to play with on either side of that . . . We're not going to put mucon our radio stations that's not viable for them. We're not going to throw on what we think is a shitty record just to position Z for a show." But he will make a label "aware of the fact that we are by nature tight. And when we do go out on a limb, we expect it to be recognized and understood that if something were to happen in the future, we would want the label's support on it."

MARC SCHIFFMAN

Next To Marilyn, Helmet Stands Out

With heavy reck becoming a more significant thread within mainstream and modern rock in the past few years, a glance back to 1989—the year New York-based Helmet formed—helps illustrate just how enduring this perennial heavy rock group has remained amid a scene in which artists come and go.

The core of Helmet's sound and vision is unchanged since its earliest days, a time when Guns N' Roses was the biggest band in the world and Jane's Addiction was turning the ideals of heavy rock on its head, effectively combining to snuff out the waning popularity of heavy metal.

At that time, the major labels began foraging into this burgeoning alternative/heavy rock thing, and two of the many promising quasi-metal/punk/hard rock hybrids on the horizon in Seattle were mutual friends Soundgarden and Mother Love Bone, each featuring lead singers with pinup rock star looks who were already recording big-league debuts. It was a time in which Eddie Vedder was daydreaming of rock heroics while pumping gas in San Diego, Silverchair was not yet out of grade school, and guitarist Tom Morello was chasing the funk/metal fad of the day in a forgettable band called Lock Up.On New York's Lower Fast Side, however, guitarist Page Hamilton was developing an innovative approach to heavy rock that favored the elements of noise combined with an off-kilter rhythmic interplay between guitar and drums, forming the core of what would be one of the most reliable heavy guitar bands of the '90s. While many heavy bands have gone through changes in musical direction and image, Helmet remains true to its trademark It's funny that the music scene has changed so quickly since we started. We've seen all these trends come and go," says Hamilton, the band's founder and songwriter.

Signed to Interscope in 1992 on the heels of 1990's sonic blueprint "Strap It On" and an uncommonly huge buzz, Helmet found itself the subject of industry speculation about commercial viability. But for label and act alike, there wasn't any misguided notion that Helmet was a mainstream rock band. The quartet made no qualins about its intentions. "I had a very specific idea about what I wanted to do. It was a cross between

Big Black and Band Of Susans, Sonic Youth and Gang Of Four, all this stuff I had heard. But I didhear this heavy thing happening with this noisy guitar thing."

A native of Medford, Ore., who stayed in New York after getting an M.A. in jazz from Manhattan School of Music, Hamilton envisioned a fusion of the innovative noise/art rock he picked up living downtown and his teenage affinities for Led Zeppelin, Ted Nugent, and AC/DC. Through its latest and fourth album, "Aftertaste," Helmet has found its own distinctive brand of underground metallic rock and is commonly regarded by its peers as an influential force in the '90s rock movement.

Perhaps one of the most alluring innovations that Hamilton has developed and that typifies Helmet's unique attack is the looping, off-time, mechanical-sounding guitar riff juxtaposed onto the taut, straight 4/4 drum groove that the band has developed to dramatic effect. The invention came typically enough for Hamilton: another unrelenting, repetitive riff bouncing around in his head while he was walking around the city. But this time, he took the off-kilter line to Helmet drummer John Stanier at rehearsal one day, and the pair experienced one of those magic moments. "We all ! bumps, and our bellies spun upside down. It was like, 'Wow, this feels fantastic.' And out of that came an obsession to create this kind of exciting flow." Referencing Led Zeppelin's "Kashmir" to illustrate the sound, he says the idea is to create the flowing sensation that comes by establishing a straight beat underneath an odd time musical idea. That experimental session produced a song called "Repetition" from Helmer's first album and defined a trademark sound for the group that few bands ever attain. Besides Helmet's dynamic rhythmic interplay, Hamilton's use of tightly wound, marching-like guitar riffs has gained the band admirers throughout the rock world, from Neil Young to Pantera.

So while many have extolled Helmet's craft, why hasn't it joined the platinum-plus club with, say, Tool and Rage Against The Machine? "I don't know. I'm a lousy singer?" he asks with a chuckle. 'Maynard is a good singer: Zach has a catchy voice, it's more of a rhythinic thing with him, obviously. I can't be concerned with it. We would have no problem selling albums but we can't be something We can't try to accommodate some musical climate. When we started out, hairspray metal bands were huge: Winger, Warrant, and Poison . . . We didn't look at that and say, 'Wow, those gnys are selling millions of records and getting rich, we want to do that' . . . We were surprised we had gotten signed to a major label in the first place, let alone had a gold album. We think it's amazing that there are a total of a million Helmet albums out there in the world," he says with no trace of insincerity.

And Helmet does engender a reverence usually reserved for artists of longer standing. "We just went on tour with Korn, and we've talked to other guys in other bands, and people are really nice to us, treat us with respect and stuff. We've only been around eight years. It's not like we're the Rolling Stones." Even the clean-cut image they've maintained since starting out, which as a group of guys looking tailor-made for Benetton ads was an anomaly to the band's pulverizing sonic attack and which often made for amusing jabs by critics, has become fashionable in the past few years

Next up, Helmet embarks on a month of dates with labelmate Marilyn Manson beginning April 8 in Memphis, to which Hamilton amusingly notes, "We're going to be the freaks." It's a scenario he's not unaccustomed to and has played out before. "A lot of people are going to stand and stare, but other people will dig what we're doing musically."

Releases And Notes

The Chemical Brothers (whose new set, "Dig Your Own Hole," is out now) and the Orb will join forces on a 12-city major-market co-headlining tour. Dates start April 24 in Dallas and finish May 17 at the Manhattan Center in New York . . . The new Jayhawks will make their first live apearances since Marc Olsen's exit 1/2 years ago on a three-week tour beginning in Toronto April 24. "Sound Of Lies" drops a couple of days prior to the four ... 311 is working on its new set at NRG studios in North Hollywood, Calif., which is where it recorded '95's double-platinum-selling "311." Reportedly, the band is producing the record with engineer Scott Ralston, who doubles as 311's soundman on the road. The release of the as-yet-untitled album, which is set to drop in August, will coincide with a major tour.

played Helmet years ago, "active rock wasn't really active back then. The format at the time that embraced them was alternative, but that's when alternative was playing all the guitars, when it was in the grunge era.

Now, McDonnell says, modern is "playing far less guitars," citing "Marilyn Manson, even Nine Inch Nails, which peaked at No. 11. Anything that has a louder, more left-of-center sound to it is getting less and less airplay and dayparted more frequently at night."

Album KEGL Dallas PD Duane Doherty also hears a change at modern stations. "It seems a lot of the stuff that's coming out now that's doing well at alternative is definitely of a softer nature, less guitar-oriented," he says

Many modern PDs have been saying the same thing for a while. As WBCN Boston PD Oedipus notes, "I don't think a modern rock station should be simply guitar-driven. Why should we narrow ourselves? There's more instruments out there than just guitars." Says WENZ Cleveland PD Sean Robertson, "You're limiting your options and underestimating your listener.

Modern WKQX (Q101) Chicago PD Bill Gamble agrees. "There's a lot of great pop hit records right now," he says. "We're having great luck with the Offspring, but we're also having great luck with White Town, Jewel, and Dave Matthews. Gamble adds that Q101 has "stopped trying to talk ourselves out of playing . . . hit records" like Jamiroquai that previously didn't fit the mold at modern.

But, he adds, "I don't know if it signals a shift ... One good Pearl Jam album or the next Soundgarden album or when Stone Temple Pilots decide to go back in the studio, and rock records will get played more." He adds that the climate now does not represent "a fear of rock records at alternative radio. I think there's a rightful fear of bad records."

But album WIYY Baltimore PD Rick Strauss sees it differently. "You're at the mercy of what's being released," he says, "and if you're a modern station [with] some of the records that are out there, you don't have a library to fall back on to control the tempo and pace and the overall feel of your station. And if there's a lot of hit records out there that are just pop, and you've got to be playing them, it can swing the sound of your radio station from quarter to quarter.

Likewise, at Q101's active rock rival, WRCX (Rock 103.5), PD Dave Richards contends, "If today's alternative station is playing everything from Offspring to Jamiroquai, there's certainly not a focused format, but a [mind-set of] 'whatever's a hit or whatever we can make a hit, we'll play it."

"If alternative is what it says it is, and it's playing Space and Chemical Brothers, that's great," he adds. "But that stuff's not rock music, it's top 40 .. But the one thing that's true and has always been true since the creation of rock radio in the late '60s is, we are a guitar-driven format. And if it's got guitars and if it rocks, it's on the rock station . . . I don't hear Helmet and say, 'Oh, that's alternative.' It's a rock band! Offspring is a rock band! All that grunge stuff that came out of Seattle—I don't know whoever decided Candlebox and Soundgarden were alternative; they're not. They're rock bands."

see as a lack of focus, modern PDs see as a surplus of options, something, they note, mainstream rock doesn't have right now. WBCN's Oedipus says, "Active rock has a paucity of decent bands to play, so they're dipping into modern rock . . . Active rock is incapable of breaking the bands . . They're not going to play Sneaker Pimps. They shy away from women. You're not hearing Fiona Apple. They're going to play bands that sound like Aerosmith.

Across town at album WAAF, PD Dave Douglas admits to a lean crop of rock material. "It seems like there's not a lot of just pure mainstream rock artists that are dominating the chart," he says. "If you look at what's available, it's a lot of these crossovertype artists. I think alternative, on the other hand, has more than they can handle.

And things aren't looking up. Douglas says, "It doesn't look good, in terms of music in general for the next six months. Nobody is talking about what's coming, and everybody just seems to be talking about [the fact] that there's nothing out there. So, we're going to do some foraging and hunting and seeking for music."

But even if the rock crop is lean right now, album WLZR Milwaukee PD Keith Hastings says his format is better prepared for those times. "Active rock is designed for these periods of waiting in the wings, and alternative is not. Alternative is a bit of a feeding frenzy and always ready and willing to grab what's next and embrace it, but there's nobody waiting outside the door at the moment."

SMELLS LIKE TEAM SPIRIT

Like Oedipus, WENZ's Robertson is quick to note that modern's diversification isn't the same as ceding custody of guitar bands. "It's not like things are crossing over in the other direction," he says. "Things are crossing from the alternative side to the rock side, which is great. That shows an expansion in the rock format. But it's really not crossing the other way, and alternative's always been the format that breaks the new artists. And it certainly has with bands like Helmet and Offspring.

So what would happen if Pearl Jam or Nirvana released their debut sets today? Not surprisingly, both formats say they'd be able to take ownership.

"It's going tó be modern rock," says Gamble. When the new Foo Fighters single is released, "It's going to end up leaking and being banged on modern rock stations. If Pearl Jam or Nirvana came out, I think that we would end up playing them.

WLZR's Hastings says, "We would be on it early and often immediately. I'm not sure if alternative, as a format, would, because I think there are some programmers that are trying to figure out what's next and looking at this base of music as yesterday's news, whether or not that's the case with the audience. It would be a mixed bag at al-

'Both formats would still embrace that sort of stuff, much as they have in the Matchbox 20 vein, or Tonic, or a lot of bands like that who sort of sound that way," says Robertson. "I still think modern would embrace it, but I think it would be a much quicker acceptance on the rock side now than it was . . . when those records came out."

Oedipus goes further still. "If we heard a Pearl Jam, we'd all be asking for the test pressings to play it. Active rock would have to wait for their service and then be told it's a hit," he says

Records showing an increase in audience over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. Rankings broken down by mainstream, modern and triple-A formats (on right side of this page) correspond to charts printed in this week's Monitor and therefore rankings do not exist for recurrents and records below No. 40 (No. 20 for triple-A). Audience computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data. © 1997, Billboard/BPI Communications.

Records showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A record which has been on either chart for more than 20 weeks will not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to those records which attain 800 detections (mainstream) or 1,100 (modern) for the first time. If two records are tied in number of plays, the record being played on more stations is placed first. Records below the top 20 are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.
