Try for 30 weeks—would play theaters and outdoor shows—high pay

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—Development of Japan for American vaude and circus talent and the establishment of a 30-week circuit of theaters and outdoor expositions are being sought by Fanchon & Marco. F. & M. currently has a troupe of 21 people filling an eight-week engagement at an Osaka, Japan, exposition. Ben Black accompanied the unit in the official capacity of manager, but once in Japan he was to establish a Fanchon & Marco branch stantial circuit and find out talent

Reports sent by Black to the F. & M. indicate that it would be worth the agency's effort to put some time and money into developing the Orient. He reported a great number of theaters in the larger cities using stage shows, especially in Yokohama and Tokyo, where two white producers are using precision dancers similar to the Fanchonettes. It was further reported that some European talent, coming via Russia and Siberia, has been playing theaters and openair celebrations for some time in the Orient, but their bookings have been more of less haphazard due to lack of organization and traffic operation.

While any possible F. & M. Oriental circuit is several months away at least, (See F. & M. PLANNING on page 91)

South Bend Battlefield For Cole and H-W Shows

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 12 .- A circus war is on here. In February Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty Circus contracted with the South Bend Policemen's Pension Fund Association for two benefit performances on May 4 and obtained its licenses. On April 5 Eddie Arlington, one of the lessees of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, was here, took out a city license for April 26, contracted for the lot and feed and billed the town.

Jess Adkins, from Cole Bros.' winter quarters at Rochester, Ind., and backed by the police committee, filed a protest against the granting of a license to another circus fine days ahead. The city bureau then rescinded the Hagenbeck-Wallace license and county officials refused to grant one.

On April 7 Cole Bros. billed the city. Paper for both shows is up, and while Near-capacity houses for first four days at Madison Square Garden—tremendous outlay for wardrobe opposition with Cole-Beatty Circus for a few days

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, April 12.-Near-capacity houses for first four days and the heaviest advance sale in six years give indication that the 1937 engagement of the Ringling-Barnum Show at Madison Square Garden here will be the most successful since 1929. Show played to heavy houses on Thursday evening, Friday and Saturday, a complete sellout Sunday afternoon and a better-than-average Sunday evening crowd.

NEW YORK, April 10-Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows opened its 54th annual tour in Madison Square Garden Thursday evening before a near-capacity house of swanky and socially elect New York circusgoers. Altho the 23-day engagement was originally scheduled to get under way in the afternoon, a last-minute hockey league playoff on Tuesday held up the show's occupation of office, feel out theater operators on H-W is threatening dire consequences, the Garden until Wednesday and management decided, considering the lack of the proposition of developing a sub- no other action has been taken to date. time, to devote Thursday matinee to final rehearsal. After months of intensive training and routining at winter quarters in Sarasota the program, from the new opening spec, India, thru to the usual closing cannon thriller, has been cut and trimmed to three and a quarter hours' running time.

For the first time in many years' the Ringling-Barnum opening was not the first that New York has witnessed, the Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty Circus having made its Manhattan debut April 8 at the Hippodrome across town. Both shows will be in the city at the same time for only four days, however, the Cole-Beatty show departing for Chicago tomorrow.

Two minor accidents during the course of the initial offering cast but a slight damper on the presentation. Dorothy Herbert seemed none the worse for a nasty spill early in the program and returned later per schedule. Nio Naitto, Oriental artiste of the tight wire, tumbled to the ground in the opening seconds of her routine and suffered a fractured elbow. The Garden this year is full of new (See RINGLING-BARNUM on page 40)

Paine's Transfer to ASCAP Leaves Pubs Facing Problem

NEW YORK, April 10 .- With John G. Paine's transfer from Music Publishers' Protective Association to the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers practically set, the music industry is watching with some trepidation the final disposition of important problems currently in the hair of the pubs. At the meeting of the publishing industry March 16 in the Hotel Astor plans were laid to tackle the copyright situation, to support a committee to work for a code of fair trade practices, to resume negotiations with the Lucky Strike Parade sponsors and to lay hold of other pressing matters.

With much of this business unfinished, the gap to be created by Paine's resignation looms large. Last word on the music code was Paine's blast a week ago against certain indies who are alleged to have reversed their attitude. Of great import, too, is the ultimate decision of the Senate regarding the copyright law. Duffy Bill has the pubs so up in arms that they decided to oppose the measure by urging an amended version of the current law, passed in 1909.

Lucky Strike program, too, has not changed any. The problem of securing adequate royalty collections from record manufacturers and various other matters are hanging.

It was explained income-producing facilities at the exposition would be awarded "after competitive public bidding by pre-qualified bidders furnishing satisfactory evidence of financial responsibility, experience and reputation."

The fair does not consider shows, rides and similar amusement enterprises as strict "concessions" and has indicated that privileges for these would be arranged on a different basis. Corporation is not prepared to announce that basis at this time.

All concessioners will be required to pay a minimum space charge, computed on the same basis as that applying to exhibitors, besides, of course, a percentage of gross receipts or additional rental fees depending on individual bids. It was made clear that all concessions, however, will not be subject to competitive bidding. Exceptions will be: (1) Types of amusement and entertainment features where a satisfactory standard of competition cannot be determined. (2) Public utilities such as telephone, telegraph services, etc. (3) Samples, catalogs and the use of the insignia or name of the corporation. Pa. Mgrs. To Vote on Pact

Agreement with performers would stabilize conditions for both agents, acts

PITTSBURGH, April 12.—Entertainment Managers' Association of Western Pennsylvania will meet tonight at the William Penn Hotel to vote on accepting trade agreement proposed by entertainers' association.

Almost identical to agreement between Philadelphia Contractors' Association and entertainers' union, this pact as proposed by committee headed by Bobby Fife would make acts responsible to agents only and by same token would make agents responsible for collection of all salaries.

Agreement provides also that "all acts must have contracts with agents before beginning any engagement" and that "no acts are allowed to accept contracts from two agents." Aimed to improve working conditions for entertainers and guarantee salaries, as well as prevent acts' two-timing agents, code asks that "all female acts shall ascertain before signing contracts whether they have (See PA. GUILD-HOWARD FILM FIRM

Theater Guild, Leslie Howard To Produce Pix on West Coast

Actor has lined up $2,000,000 Wall Street backing-Walpole, Helburn, Murphy, Languer among those in combo—"Porgy," "Bonnie Prince" first on schedule

NEW YORK, April 10.—Theater Guild, in association with Leslie Howard and his recently organized film producing company, is entering the film field. With Howard as its production associate, it will produce one picture a year, taking its best Broadway success of the previous season. Howard, in addition, will also produce pictures, a yen he has had for some time. Guild's first production under the new setup, Association of American Artists, will be Porgy and Bess; Howard's first film, to go into rehearsal this summer in Hollywood, where all film activities of the group will be centered, will be Bonnie Prince Charlie. Howard's wanted to do this one for some time.

No New York announcement of the Guild-Howard plans has been made as yet, with Howard just having concluded his negotiations for financing a fortnight ago, getting a claimed $2,000,000 from a Wall street source, with promises of more if needed. Howard's U.S. and English box-office appeal is figured as strong enough to warrant the film venture, on the basis of his past box-office results.

Theresa Helburn, who was with Columbia Pictures for one year and spent considerable time on the Coast learning the film business, is, it is said, to be the mainstay in the film production venture for both Guild and Howard productions. Dudley Murphy will be production chieftain, as the lineup is given, with Hugh Walpole having completed the adaptation of Charlie for Howard's first talker.

Lawrence Languer and wife. Armina Marshall, hopped to the Coast last week for the Guild and they are still out there, presumably on Guild film activties. Guild has produced a large number of legit shows later converted into films. Producing them directly, and releasing thru United Aritsts, as is scheduled in the report, Guild will be able to further capitalize on its own theatrical properties. In addition, in the event of a bum season as the Guild has had now, profits will still be up, even if only one play clicks, by the additional coin made thru the film venture.

Wheeling Nite Spots Fade Out

Night clubs already named to be closed April 15, when the revocations become effective, include the Gypsy Village, the Ship, Club Diamond, Hollywood Grill and Seibert's Restaurant, the last three being the city's key night clubs.

Others listed to be closed in hearings yet to be held are Towne Club and Marble Inn.

Nearly all of the proprietors who have appeared before the tax commissioner have admitted selling alcoholic drinks other than beer, the violation under which the licenses are being revoked.

Wheeling beer dealers charge the State with discrimination. They charge that of beer dealers in the State, 1,200 hold federal whisky license, yet 101 in Wheeling were cited and only 12 outside Wheeling were cited.

Danny Phillips, proprietor of the Club Diamond, largest local night club, said: "It's a dirty trick from Charleston, but it looks like curtains for us all."

John B. Eastman, State Federation of Labor president, has protested to the governor against the license revocation.

Having been a performer, he sizes up the Rio situation from the practical standpoint of job possibilities and described business conditions in and around the Brazilian capital in a letter to The Billboard this week.

He stresses the cheap cost of living and reports that Rio's four large casinos exhausted the local supply of talent. The prevailing air of gayety rivals that of Monte Carlo, after which the night spots and gambling establishments have been patterned. This Roman Catholic population is attracted to Biblical and religious presentations. Thus far only one English company makes a yearly pilgrimage to Rio, Sao Paulo, Santos and neighboring towns in Argentina and Chile, enjoying a virtual monopoly on the moneys spent for such entertainment.

Since American film stars are tops with South Americans, the name of almost any one of them at the head of a cast would return a luxurious box-office net. To round out the range of entertainment, Rio de Janeirolans seasonally patronize the sublimated programs produced by an opera company imported from Italy.

To boot, there are good prospects for small hotels or rooming houses on the American style, since a small investment could juggle almost any project.

Local 802 Still Hopes To Set Its Flesh Campaign Nationally

NEW YORK, April 10.-Musicians' Lo- mittee idea as particularly significant, cal 802 still hopes to nationalize its theater drive campaign. A resolution, passed by a meeting at large, approves a committee hitting the road to contact other locals in an effort to stir up interest in the campaign, particularly with a view to supporting 802 in advocating such a policy at the convention in June.

According to Jack Rosenberg, 802 president, no definite action has as yet been taken, however, and there is no assurance that the plan will be carried out. Rosenberg, too, does not view the comin that it would necessitate such longdrawn-out detail as sounding out other locals, who would then be obliged to place the matter before the various memberships before decisive stands could be made. It is certain, however, that 802 plans to make the drive a live issue at the forthcoming convention.

Attitude of the American Federation of Musicians is conservative, the officials feeling that the drive is primarily a local problem. This hands-off policy on the part of the AFM harks back to its employment campaign instituted during the early days of the talkies, a campaign on which $1,250,000 was spent without appreciable results. AFM has been wary ever since, particularly so in view of the fact that some theaters still employ musicians. Were the AFM to tackle the drive on a national scale it is possible that the situation would prove a boomerang and throw currently working musicians into the unemployment ranks. it is claimed.

Billy and Beverly Bemis (This Week's Cover Subjects)

COME years ago the father of Billy and Deverly Bemis completed a book of dancing instruction called "How To Dance the Charleston." Seeking illustrations for it, he asked his youngsters to pose for him. The direct result was to instill in them a desire to take up dancing seriously and they broke in professionally a short while after, while still attending high school, playing theaters week-ends in and around Hollywood. Paramount tested them for a part in "College Rhythm" and the results of the film brought them to the attention of Sid Grauman, operating what was then the Coast's leading theater, the Chinese.

Theater dates were followed by a two-week booking at the Dorchester House, London, the two weeks growing into 13. Continental dates followed for the next six months, the team returning to Hollywood to work in a Warner picture. After this they resumed theater work, playing Eastern houses, with hotels and night clubs, including the Edgewater Beach, Chicago; Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles; Coronado Hotel, San Diego, and others. Their most recent bookings have been at the Chez Paree, Chicago; Fox Theater, Detroit, and Detroit Athletic Club.

CIO Okehs Coast Studio Employees

HOLLYWOOD, April 10. - First evidence of plans of the Committee on Industrial Organization to crack into the film studios was seen this week, with the official CIO okeh being given by William Dalrymple, West Coast representative, to Studio Employees' Protective League and the Empire Projectionists' Union. The organizations were given the "go ahead" sign by Dalrymple.

Both studio employees and the projectionists will unite efforts in securing certificates of affiliation with CIO as the United Studio and Theatrical Workers, which, they plan, will be permitted to claim the entire amusement field, with vertical organizations in the various branches. The league is headed by Jack Lloyd, president, and S. G. Larkin, secretary. Projectionist officers are W. L. Baynes, president; L. F. Stockwell, business manager.

LOS ANGELES, April 10. — United Radio and Electrical Workers, CIO organization, will establish West Coast headquarters here next week, with office space to be taken in the San Fernando Building. Campaign, it is understood, will be set in motion immediately to gather announcers, technicians and other workers into a vertical union. C. H. Jordan will head the recruiting forces.

802, Canned Music Set-To Is Expected

NEW YORK, April 10.—With Muzak's wired music service being installed in increasingly large numbers in hotels, the outcome of the efforts of musicians' Local 802 to get hotels to use union musicians for private entertainment affairs is being watched with some concern. Jack Rosenberg, president of the local, is confident the aim of the union in this matter will be ultimately accomplished. Bearing out this view, some of the parties involved, such as the caterers, already have agreements with the local. Should the hotel men, however, try to hold the wired music service as a whip over 802's head in order to forestall union demands then, according to Rosenberg, it will be necessary to beat Muzak.

The fight which seems in the offing is likely to be a tough one, tho, for the hotels point out that in private entertainment affairs the organization sponsoring the affair is the employer of the band. Rosenberg feels hotel contracts should specify the use of union men.

That the hotel keepers will battle to the last ditch to avert such a condition seems a foregone conclusion, the angle being that such a concession to the musicians' union might precipitate a strong unionization fervor on the part of other hotel employee groups, including foodworkers, service men and others.

Administration of Local 802, however, may be forced to go into the fray due to pressure from the large unemployed faction. According to observers, there is the possibility that a CIO faction advocating extreme militancy might, under present employment conditions, develop.

Flint Biz Drops As Strike Ends

DETROIT, April 10.—Sit-down strikes must have been good for business, according to the experience of Flint (Mich.) theater operators, as reported by James Minter, operator of the Family Theater, and confirmed by check with a film exchange manager on business done by percentage pictures.

Business was only fair during the strike at General Motors plants at Flint, but it has taken a further drop—after the strike was settled. Reason apparently is that a lot of people had time on their hands and nothing to do except go to the shows during the strike. Now they have just as little money and less time, so the shows lose out.

SAG Backs Contract Bill

Group of SAG committeemen, headed by Aubrey Blair, presented a lengthy brief this week in Sacramento asserting the misuse of the seven-year contract provisions. The studios, meanwhile, were exerting lobby pressure against the bill.

SAG's brief declares that under the present seven-year system many players are brought here on optional contracts, which start at small figures and rise over the annual period to important figures and are released at option time, thus creating an overcrowded player market.

AFM Reports on Security Tax Mess

NEW YORK, April 10.—As a result of recent efforts of executives of the American Federation of Musicians and musicians' Local 802 to contact the Washington authorities in order to straighten out the Social Security tax muddle, the local's official journal makes the following report:

"It is the local's contention that leaders and contractors are not employers and that the present responsibility for paying the employers' share of the tax should be borne by the organization or account in whose behalf the orchestra is rendering service.

"The matter is being taken up by the proper Washington authorities, who have advised us that in the meantime our contractors shall continue to deduct Social Security tax from the musicians and hold said money in escrow pending the final determination of who the employer is. In the event that the real employer is adjudged to be the people in whose behalf we render services, then the contractor will have to turn the musicians' share of tax over to those employers, who in turn shall have to add their share of the tax in accordance with the requirement of the law."

Sheet Music Sales Increase

WPA, Drama and Psychiatric Ward Have It All Figured Out

NEW YORK, April 10.—The WPA Federal Theater is dabbling in psychiatry, and the Bellevue Hospital is casting a wondering glance at the drama. This confounding state of affairs came to light at a press conference held at Bellevue, where Doctors Bowman and Ross explained to a bevy of dumb reporters just how the WPA's community drama unit is helping to solve the problems of maladjusted girls between the ages of 16 and 21.

The lassies, when questioned outright as to what ails them, refuse to come out in the open, but their mental twists and conflicts apparently appear in plays written around their own experiences. WPA plants a man, an understanding one, among the females and he, the legend goes, helps to stage the plays.

Idea of using the drama as a mental release for the maladjusted is not new, the technique being merely one of a dozen or so used by psychiatrists and psychoanalysts. That the system might be used not only to help the neurotic but also the dyed-in-the-wool screwballs was indicated by Dr. Ross. None of the commercial managers were present as was evidenced by the lack of repartee on this natural.

Technique of applying dramatic principals, as understood by the WPA, to therapeutics, goes back some six or eight months, the germ of the idea being the WPA puppet show presentations for children.

Most Shakespearean remark made during the interview was gotten off in all mental defectives make excellent actors."

Rep Broaches Regulation Plan To Networks as Policy Change

Murray Grabhorn, of Blair office, suggests stations and chains adopt floating schedule system—NBC may call meeting in New York of station reps

NEW YORK, April 10.—John Blair, station rep office has offered a plan to the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company to check chain-break announcements, establish a "floating schedule" for spot announcements and to rotate such announcements. NBC may call a meeting of station reps to see if they are in general agreement with the plan proposed by Murray Grabhorn, of the Blair office. In addition to station reps, co-operation of networks, stations and agencies would be necessary to make the plan effective. Increasing protests against chain-break announcements, headaches to time buyers and the possibility of a Federal Communications Commission order banning such announcements are the major reasons for Grabhorn's proposal. Young & Rubicam and N. W. Ayer have been particularly articulate in their condemnation of the sale of time between commercial shows. Some station reps see a possibility of an FCC order nixing such announcements. This would, of course, cut into their intake as well as that of stations which they handle. Grabhorn's plan, intended to avoid such possibilities, follows:

"A NEW STATEMENT OF GOOD POLICY "WHEREAS: The rapid growth of the radio industry has brought about many new conditions, and necessity of putting into practice new policies to meet these conditions from time to time,

"THEREFORE: In the interest of good broadcasting and in order to better serve public interest, convenience and necessity, be it resolved

"First: That spot announcements will be sold on a general floating schedule on the basis of his selection either between the hours of 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., or between 9 a.m. to 12 noon, or between 12 noon to 4 p.m., or between 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., or between 6 p.m. and 10:30 p.m.

"Second: That no specific times will be offered to any sponsor on the basis of its desirable location adjacent to anyone particular program, either local or network, sustaining or commercial, excepting as such offering applies to those cases related in Paragraph 3 of this resolution:

"Third: Time signals and weather reports shall, because of the definite service rendered the listeners, be offered at specific times which may be guaranteed, subject, of course, to other accepted broadcasting commitments such as preemption of time by the network, important special events and emergencies. The commercial copy of such announcements shall be limited to 25 words.

"Fourth: No announcement of whatever length, other than time signals and weather reports shall be broadcast in the station break between two commercial programs whether such programs be of network or local origin.

"Fifth: Station management may, at its own discretion, rotate announcements scheduled in the various time brackets outlined in Paragraph 1, as long as such rotation occurs within that bracket and does not pass from one bracket to another.

"Sixth: These resolutions are made purely for the purpose of furthering the cause of intelligent and entertaining program structure, and are not to be construed as affecting any other policies (See MORE CHAIN-BREAK on page 9)

Shut-Up Strike

ROCKFORD, Ill., April 10 .- A variation of the sit-down strike epidemic hit WROK, when four announcers decided to go on a "shut-up" strike. George Menard wanted free samples of all items, from hairpins to cars; William Traum wanted a free-lunch counter for announcers: Morey Owens demanded gold-braided uniforms, and Claude Kirchner insisted on strawberry ice-cream sundaes.

Boys compromised and received the sundaes at regular rates.

Paul Draper's Ma as NBC Commentator

NEW YORK, April 10.—New style of commentator, presently called a "conversationalist de luxe," was auditioned last week by NBC in Muriel Draper. Mrs. Draper, who's lived both in the U.S. A. and Europe for a number of years, will be presented by the network, if her series starts, as a step to counteract other talkers doing rehashes of the news. Chain wants something new in the news comment line.

MBS Gets Whiteman In Battle With NBC

CHICAGO, April 10.—Hotly contested battle which went on here this week between NBC and MBS wound up with Mutual coming out the victor. Causus belli was the broadcasts Paul Whiteman and his orchestra are scheduled to do from the Drake Hotel, at which spot Whiteman opened this week. Leader will do four or five broadcasts weekly on Mutual, including one symphonic program of an hour's length.

Whiteman has always been an NBC band, under joint NBC and Consolidated Radio Artists' management. Drake has had an exclusive with WGN, MBS Chi outlet, for a long time. WGN wouldn't consider splitting the broadcasts with NBC or any other outlet and told the Drake that they wouldn't. Drake stuck to The Tribune station.

Allegedly, NBC offered to augment Whiteman's Orchestra with 10 men, to be paid by NBC, if the shows would go on that network.

U. S. Discs (Free) For 557 Stations

NEW YORK, April 10.—Approximately 557 stations are receiving cuffo electrical transcriptions supplied by the WPA's Federal Music Project. Platters have been made in both New York and Los Angeles, but most production is now being done in the latter city.

Project was started last May and since then about 125 master recordings have been made and pressings made from 100 of these. Musical programs include symphonies, children's orchestra, forum laboratory, dance bands, folklore, Negro choirs and concert bands. Classics and semi-classics are chiefly used, with the more popular stuff held to a minimum.

Discs are intended primarily for rural stations out of range of regular WPA live music projects. No e.t.'s are granted to stations in New York or Chicago and all stations receiving them must agree to use government music only for sustaining programs. A plug for the program and the project is included with the musical selections. After the station has used the e.t.'s they are returned to the nearest WPA district office, which then ships them to the National Archives in the capital.

Stations are protected in matters of copyright by government arrangements with the publishers. Musicians' union has okehed the scheme with the understanding that such platters are to be restricted to sustaining programs.

NAB Disc Service Ready by June 1

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Distribution of electrical transcriptions made by the National Association of Broadcasters will probably begin before July, according to present plans. The board of directors of NAB heard an hour audition last week of platters in their music library and voted the managing director and staff a commendation.

Library is based primarily on public domain music and comprises 180 selections, totaling 10 hours of music. The schedule of NAB's Bureau of Copyrights calls for 25 hours of recordings (about 500 selections) by June 1.

Last year the board approved a suggestion for the creation of a file of 100 hours of public domain music. NAB expects that the library will be hailed by American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, which has criticized the over-use of pop numbers by stations as responsible for the killing of sheet music

Boston Tea Party Piped From New York

NEW YORK, April 10.—Lipton's Tea has signatured John Griffin, tenor soloist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, for a 26week program from WNAC, Boston. Wrigley Pays Benefit Bill

Musicians' fees paid by gum company sponsoring flood benefit broadcasts

NEW YORK, April 10.-Payment of musicians' fees at the monster Red Cross flood benefit given in February at Radio City Music Hall, broadcasts of which were sponsored by William Wrigley Jr. Company, has been made up by the gum manufacturer. Amount involved is $5,494.50, and a check, sent by Wrigley to CBS last week for the amount, was turned over directly to the Theater Benefit Authority. Wrigley sent the check to make up for the deduction of this amount from the benefit proceeds, deduction having been made to pay the musicians' bill.

Mixup on the benefit happened when Local 802, AFM, okehed cuffo work for its members. When the union found out that Wrigley was sponsoring the broadcasts, this decision was reversed, musicians claiming it was "an exploitation of misery" for advertising purposes.

Fred Willis, of CBS, in sending the check to the Benefit Authority, said that Wrigley didn't want the amount deducted from the Red Cross receipts, toward which Wrigley contributed $25,000 for the broadcasts. It was also said that inasmuch as the three networks bore the expenses of the three-hour broadcast, kept their stations open long after closing time, that the chains should bear no further expense, in the benefit committee's opinion.

It was also said that the committee felt it did not want any "public embarrassment" to come to the Red Cross or benefit committee or sponsor, that CBS took upon itself to guarantee the musicians' pay, so the benefit could proceed as scheduled. A benefit committee meeting after the show voted not to let CBS assume these charges.

Total receipts of the benefit are now brought up to $44,000, Wrigley contributing $30,494.50.

Talk Continues on Air Actors' Union

CHICAGO, April 10.—Dramatic people in the radio field here will lead the battle for organization, current developments indicate. Script-show artists complain that they are being mistreated financially, pointing out the recent cut in show rates which they have been forced to take.

While it's mostly over-the-table talk just now, a couple of prominent dramatic artists here indicate a willingness to confer with Frank Gillmore, head of Actors' Equity, when he makes his scheduled appearance here April 20. They state that a majority of artists in their field are eager to organize and will do so the minute a capable leader points the way.

While some advertising agencies casting dramatic shows have been maintaining salary levels, others have taken advantage of the under-bidding situation that exists among the dramatic people themselves. This condition has developed thru the scarcity of shows here and overcrowding in the artists' ranks. Newcomers in the field are willing to work for coffee money for the experience and the fame they picture as following appearances on the air.

More work has been taken away from the local script actors by the recent transcription ruling made by James C. Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians. They have been caught in between by Petrillo's demand of stand-by orks each time a station pipes a locally recorded show. As a result canned musical shows, including those that use a combination of music and drama, have been moved elsewhere for recording, putting all concerned here out of work.

Other radio performers claim that due to the low salaries they are forced to participate in several shows a week to eke out a living. Those securing parts in five or six programs work all kinds of hours and must hang around the stations at all times.

News Companies Plan Daily Dramatized Services

NEW YORK, April 10.—Both United Press and International News Service are considering inaugurating a new service whereby subscribing stations will be supplied with a dramatized news program, running a quarter hour. Indie Producers Burning at Tough Agency Release Forms

Agreements to be signed before agencies look at ideas is alleged "avenue to thievery," is claim—Benton & Bowles especially tough—some mild

NEW YORK, April 10.—Independent radio producers and free-lance idea men are doing a red hot burn since the recent furor over the idea-submitting proposal caused advertising agencies to place greater accent on the release forms program, and idea submitters must sign before agencies will look at scripts. Some of the indies are charging the agencies with proffering releases that are, allegedly, the avenue to "outright idea thievery" because of the releases' wording. Whole situation started when McCann Erickson lost a suit brought by a free lancer, Dorothy from her.

One of the chief offenders, allege the indies, is Benton & Bowles. Agency, using a short release form, can make use of an idea at any time after submission at any amount the agency decides upon, say the producers, who claim that if the agency feels so moved, it can use an idea five years after date of submission for $1.98. Form which this agency is said to use follows:

"I wish to present, for your consideration, the idea attached hereto, which I guarantee is entirely original and the product of my own individual labor and research.

"I submit this suggestion with the definite understanding that the use to be made of it by you, and the compensation to be paid me therefor, if any, if you use it, are matters resting entirely in your sole discretion. This understanding applies also to any use that may be made of this suggestion by or on behalf of any client of yours."

Idea men are still slightly puzzled by the last paragraph, which has led them to conclude that even if the agency offers them a sum less than they want, the release binds the submitter to acceptance. They also point that there is no time element included in the release

Other agencies have release forms, say the agents, but none is as tough as Benton & Bowles'. Typical form of other agencies is that which follows, as used by N. W. Ayer & Son: "I, the undersigned, submit the manuscript and synopsis, entitled (——) to N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., for their consideration.

"In so doing, I fully realize that several manuscripts, embracing the same theme, may already have been presented to N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc. I am also aware that in such cases, N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., must judge the manuscripts submitted to them on the basis of the creative ability of the writer, rather than on the idea itself, which cannot be pro-

"In view of the above, I, the undersigned, assume full responsibility in submitting this manuscript or synopsis to N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., for their consideration. I will in no way hold N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., responsible for a possible duplication of the idea embodied in my manuscript or synopsis, and will in no way present a claim against them should they make use of a similar idea in the future."

Surveys Stop Wrist-Slapping; Start Socking at the "Enemy"

NEW YORK, April 10 .- Tenor of the raft of surveys due in radio this year, because of the many station alliance changes last year, is indicated in the CBS presentation on behalf of its new Boston foutlet, WEEL. Trade opinion is steadily keener, the surveys and sales promotion pieces will stop slapping the competish lightly on the wrist and let go full force.

CBS answer to claims made by WNAC, which shifted to NBC with the first of this year, pulls no punches. WEEI, it is counterclaimed, commands Boston radio audiences five out of seven nights a week. CBS booklet quotes a Clark Hooper survey, citing 2,752 completed phone calls, with WEEI cited by C-H as leading in While many surveys simply mention forthcoming for a year.

CCOUTS, noting the case of J. Stirling Getchell particularly, report a shortage of admen, tho many jobs are available. At the Getchell agency the appropriation on the Chrysler accounts in the house has been upped to a reported $5,000,000, while Socony-Vacuum ties that figure. But the staff of the agency has decreased—by the resignation of Blees, Thomas and others,—while the outfit has cast about to fill the spots.

Also out searching for talent is the Brown & Tarcher Company, since it has just swallowed but not digested the Schenley account. B. & T. has doubled space, taking the whole tenth floor of a Radio City tower, and are now even cal. answering want-ads to find new hirelings.

Other outfits around the town are looking for talent, as previously reported here, and the indications are that newcomers will get a break, that oldtimers can command their fancy oldtime wage.

WFIL, Philadelphia, heralded its new sportscaster with a 12-page mimeographed brochure for trade distribution. Joe Tumelty held down the 6-6:15 p.m. spot since 1931, until recently sponsored by Crew-Levick. With Tumelty leaving radio for a post with AP, Harold Simonds took over. Apart from serving as a sendoff for Simonds, booklet gives a comprehensive picture of sportscasting in Philadelphia. In its own behalf story tells the history of the program since its inception; biog and buildup for the new caretaker; mail pull of the spot; contests conducted; guesting of sporting luminaries; opposition from other stations; cross-section of program material and news sources available, and time and talent cost across the board. Jerry Moore, station sales promotion chief, responsible for the authoring and editing, also enhanced booklet's eye appeal with art work. Jack Stewart, WFIL sales manager, arranging distribution.

A radio contest with daily prizes was inaugurated April 7 by The Wisconsin News, Milwaukee, to boost its Station WISN. Contestants are required to answer five questions appearing on the daily's radio page, including the identification of the photo of radio stars appearing on the page, and write a few words about the new WISN programs and Peggy Patton's radio news.

Doubling Ban Nulled by AFM

Law passed by 802 members reversed-radio stations mainly affected

NEW YORK, April 10.—International Executive Board of the American Federation of Musicians has sustained the appeal of a group of members of Local 802 seeking to nullify the law passed by the membership of the New York local prohibiting doubling on all but co-related instruments. As a result, enforcement of the law, which Local 802 had been making for about six months, has ceased. Most keenly affected by the doubling prohibition were the Class B radio stations of New York and those few theaters in the local's jurisdiction playing orchestras.

Not since the elections of two and a half years ago, when Local 802 was given autonomy, had a measure caused such hot debate within the union. Measure was favored by a group which offered the argument that to ban doubling would mean increased work for unemployed musicians. It was argued that if a fiddle player doubled onto trombone, a trombone player was losing a job. Contractors and leaders, it was charged, used musicians whose doubling ability enabled them to use fewer musicians, altho achieving the same results. Those opposed said it placed a limitation on musicians' ability and availability, as well as saying it penalized them for study made over the course of years.

New York stations of the networks were not affected by the law since they operate under contracts with Local 802. Class B stations, however, had to pay stand-by fees whenever doubling was involved and an extra musician wasn't hired.

Ross Gorman, Rudy Adler, Sol Amato, Lyle Bowen, Isadore Bransky, Teddy Greenberg, Chester Hazlett, Joe Livolsi, Vincent Pepper, Robert Spokany, Al Stumpkoff and S. C. Thompson were the Local 802 members whose appeal to the AFM was sustained. Appeal was made some time ago, the law being in effect until the decision.

NAB Seeks Refund

Joe Maland (WHO, Des Moines), John Elmer (WCBM, Baltimore) and John Gillin (WOW, Omaha), are the mullers.

Coveny Switches Spots; KIBS Personnel Shifts

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—Ralph R. Brunton, general manager of KJBS and KQW, has just returned from a Washington trip, announcing he has applied for permission to increase the power of KQW, San Jose, to 5,000 watts daytime and 1,000 night. Station at present operates on 1,000 watts.

Carleton E. Coveny, KJBS sales manager, resigned April 1 to take a position as commercial manager of KFAC, Los Angeles. His duties will be absorbed by Brunton. Added to the commercial department is Bert Van Cleve, recently with a Salt Lake City advertising agency. Dick De Angelis has been added to the KJBS announcing staff and E. P. Franklin has been made general operations director for the station.

CBS Signs New Acts

NEW YORK, April 10.—Columbia Artists, Inc., has signed Howard Barry, baritone, formerly known as Howard Phillips; Dalton Brothers trio and Nora Sterling, writer and actress. The Dalton Brothers will begin a twice-a-week series May 4 and Miss Sterling will soon start a thrice-weekly program called Funny Things. She will write and play in the sketch.

Plenty of Talk

NEW YORK, April 3.-With his newest series to start, Gabriel Heatter, WOR commentator, shapes up as the busiest guy in that end of radio. He'll be doing 11 shows weekly, two for Modern Investment on WOR, one for Martinson's coffee on the same station, one for Borden's on NBC, four for North American Insurance on NBC and another commercial for Univex cameras on WOR starting soon, plus two sustainings on Mutual. Heatter did his work from a sick bed last week, as a topper-offer.

Kyser To Tour for Willys' Auto Show

NEW YORK, April 10.—A free traveling band attraction is reported as part of the campaign starting shortly on 30 Mutual stations and 27 other stations by transcription for Willys Knight autos, using Kay Kyser and his orchestra unit. Plan is said to call for Kyser traveling from city to city, putting on the show in each city, and a good-will dealer tieup.

Willys' hookup is the largest network show Mutual Broadcasting System has had to date. Starts Sunday, April 25, at 10-10:30 p.m., Eastern Daylight-Saying Time. WOR is the New York outlet.

Tessman Takes First In Coast Talk Tests

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10. — Announcers' contest arranged by the Sidney Garfinkle advertising agency designed to determine the best wordmerchant among the non-feature spielers at five Frisco stations, was concluded last week. Nine bay district radio editors cast votes for their favorites and Abbott Tessman, of NBC's KGO and KPO, was declared the winner. Second place went to Wallace Gade, of KJBS, and third to Jack Murphy, of KFRC. Two gold-plated trophies were awarded by the Garfinkle house, which derived more than sufficient publicity to pay for them—one to the announcer and one to the station.

Mikemen who do double duty as announcers and special commentators, such as John B. Hughes, Hale Sparks, John Nesbitt, Bob Bence, etc., were excluded from competition, Tessman is best known for his dance band announcements from the Palace Hotel, where Paul Pendarvis' Ork is currently featured.

Station reps' feeling are mixed. If such a plan is generally adopted, there is the possibility of chiseling reps guaranteeing agencies certain spots, but strictly off the record. This possibility makes some of the reps dubious of the plan. On the other hand, advocates stress several advantages, including the convenience to time buyers and saving in wire charges to stations and their reps.

Time buyers must be furnished with detailed data as to shows on stations and opposition shows. This entails much detailed work to agencies for small accounts. Long, expensive wires are often necessary to secure this info pronto. Those in favor of the plan assert that much of this could be eliminated by

Ben Gimbel Bars Again

NEW YORK, April 10.—Ben Gimbel, president of WIP, Philadelphia, objects to a recent story in The Billboard mentioning the handling of talent by that station and WFIL on certain women's clubs programs.

Concerned were those occasions on which local acts were asked to work on the programs, only pay coming by way of newspaper space the stations have at their disposal on time and space swaps. Since the publication of the story, it's tough getting the talent, acts realizing you can't buy chow with clippings.

Another result of the story is in Gimbel barring Morris Orodenker, Billboard's Philadelphia correspondent, from his station. It's the third time Gimbel has taken that step with Oro. Looks like Ben didn't like the yarn for his personal scrapbooks.

non-network advertising over January 6.5 per cent. Regional station volume All areas showed gains over February, and the South Atlantic-South Central district registered the greatest gain over January, according to the National Association of Broadcasters.

As a result, Broza has arranged with a half dozen smaller stations, all within a radius of 40 miles from Philadelphia, to farm out the would-be spielers. All replacements on the WOAU staff will be made from those farmed out. At the same time the smaller stations will have the advantage of getting better material than is generally found in the small town. In that way Broza also hopes to weed out the fly-by-nights who look for an announcing post as a filler or, as is the case with smaller stations, those who take the job for the thrill of airing their voices. In impressing the applicant that announcing is a profession, and making room only for professionals, the wage scale for announcers is bound to reach a living level. Of far-reaching import is the fact that Broza's plan will put the skids on the racket radio schools who fatten their coffers with hopefuls who only turn out to be hopeless. Most of the schools promise jobs but neglect to warn that a station will pay a salary to only an experienced announcer. What an acceptable announcer needs is experience, says Broza, and not a course of study. In farming out the neophytes to the small towns WCAU hopes to provide that necessary experience. Broza promises no jobs at WCAU for his rookies. Station will have first preference to their services, if needed, but spielers will be able to accept any other job that might come along.

Fleischmann Yeast Program

Reviewed Friday, 9-9:30 p.m. Style -Variety program. Sponsor-Standard Brands, Inc. Station--WJZ (NBC Blue network).

Sponsored by the makers of Fleischmann's Yeast, this new series is notable in that it is the first big all-colored show bought by a national account. Basis of the broadcast is Louis Armstrong and orchestra, together with a script by Octavus Roy Cohen, foremost white writer of Negro material.

Despite the basically solid background first show did not click all thru, owing to a script which weakened occasionally and a couple of acts which did not develop enough interest. Armstrong's Ork, however, quickly takes up the slack, the trumpet work naturally being outstanding.

Opening turn by the orchestra got the presentation off to a fast start, altho many of the nonsense verses by Armstrong might very well be omitted. Amanda Randoph, singing Half of Me, scored best of the guest stars, her voice being given full scope by an arrangement unusual for its tricky tempo changes. Bill Bailey, tapper, current in the Cotton Club, did a swell turn full of intricate rhythms, the beats coming over with amazing clarity. Four Nuts of Rhythm, singing and instrumental combo, and Eddie Green and Gee Gee James registered just so-so.

Green, given a small buildup by the same sponsor via spottings on the Rudy Vallee show, does typically Negro comedy, drawling stuff dependent mostly on an ace script and visualization by the audience. His chatter with Gee Gee is perhaps better to watch than listen to. More suitable material might, however, put the emphasis where it belongs on an air show.

Graham McNamee comes on twice for the sales spiel, a short and punchy one announcing the exchange of one Arthur Murray dance instruction book in return for 81 Fleischmann Yeast wrappers.

Program should develop into a swell series featuring Negro talent. P. A.

"Your News Parade"

Lucky Strike, out to win the gals over to its side, has Edwin C. Hill spieling the news on its noon-time spot. Hill's verbal glamour and appeal need no rehashing, and while he may not possess the heart appeal of a crooner, his material is deftly slanted for the ladies.

That is probably the reason the program lacks stop-press freshness. Even the most careful culling of International News Service wires probably will not furnish 15 minutes of human interest and odd material for the female trade. Hence the necessity of using facts which are not strictly fresh.

Hill slides from news to commercials, which will probably not annoy too many of his femme fans. But it should be the job of the announcer, and it would do Hill no harm to be considered strictly as a commentator and not a peddler rackets possesses showmanship possibilities as well as being a civic duty. There's mystery, glamour and excitement in focusing the spotlight on the underworld and, consequently, this program should offer more.

Program consists of several sketches explaining different kinds of thievery and is broken with speeches pertaining to the subject. A hotel racket, a con game and a fake employment swindle were exposed. A well-spoken ex-swindler, "Mr. X," was interviewed, police warnings were flashed and a spokesman for the Better Business Bureau was included on the program. BBB is co-operating on the show.

Such a melange of material requires fast, deft treatment. This it did not receive. Consequently, there was a sense of broken sequence. Probably one fulllength sketch, explaining different "jobs" worked by the same gang, and fewer breaks, would mean a more telling production. в. н.

Reviewed Tuesday, 6:45-7 p.m. PST. Style—Dramatic serial. Sustaining on KHJ (Los Angeles) and Don Lee net-

With the deluge of kid shows on the air, capitalizing on hairbreadth escapes, ogres and whatnots, it is indeed a pleasure to find something in the juvenile vein that strikes a human note and at the same time holds some appeal for adults who must listen to their offsprings' dial choices whether they want to or not. Such a program is this dramatization of Mark Twain's Adventures of Tom Sawyer, dealing with the adventures and foibles of characters virtually immortal.

Script by Carroll O'Meara adheres strictly to the pattern laid down by Twain and manages to reflect the true flavor and sympathy of the novel. All the characters are brought vividly to life, with voices and inflections admirably suited to the roles. Episode reviewed dealt with a "business conference" between Tom, Huck, Roughhouse and the sour-tempered Mr. Montgomery regarding the purchase by the boys of Old Jaspar, a runaway slave. The subtle bargaining and precocious worldliness of the youngsters was a distinct highlight.

To have a cowboy contingent sell automobiles is something. So much so that the sponsor boosted an eight-week thrice-weekly show to another additional contract calling for six periods per week on a 10-week basis.

Cast includes Oklahoma Buck Nation, Texanne, Slim and Smiley. Nation plucks the guitar, sings solo and duets with Texanne. Smiley plays a mean muted fiddle and Slim supports the big bass. Nation has exceptionally fine pipes and would do well on the networks in fact, the entire show could be hopped up for bigger things. Texanne possesses a nice throaty set of pipes.

Program has a studio audience. Commercials give specials on new and used cars, with John E. Without much fanfare the city's first citizen comes to radio to give the inside on his home-rule stuff. No ballying by the announcer, enough it is that the station has grabbed off a prize sustainer.

Mayor Wilson takes a back seat to no one when it comes to getting a share of front-page notices. From the press reaction to his initial broadcast this weekly 10-minute turn does the trick. Female Imps and Nudes in Philly

Dominate smaller spots big clubs no longer finding new talent in nabe cafes

PHILADELPHIA, April 10. — Centercity night clubs accustomed to looking to nabe and nickel-beer haunts for trends in nitery divertissement, are now without farming grounds. The small spots are using nances and nudes almost exclusively, but this type of talent is hardly possible in the bigger spots.

In an effort to keep the family trade the nabe spots set the pace again with gay boy revues. City fathers frowned at such entertainment some years back, but the Harlem hot haunts kept their memory alive. Female impersonators are now entrenched in four of the better known nabes. At George Levin's 31 Club, first to adopt the policy, Francis Renault heads an all-fem impersonator revue. Al Ehrlich's Bally-Hoo Club, Dee Liddell's gay boy revue is the magnet. Bobby Dean and his Scan-Dolls are becoming a permanent fixture at the Show Boat, and Verrillo's Cafe is the latest to bring 'em in.

To meet the competish and, at the same time trying to strike a new note, other nabes are turning to burly houses for strippers. Streets of Paris and Broad St. Rathskeller strut strips. Epidermis display is also a natural for the roadhouse gangs, Browning Lane Inn in Bellmawr, N. J., stealing the march on the others with a take-it-off specialty.

Arcadia, Philly, Band May Remain

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Unless the labor impasse between Arthur Padula, operator of the Arcadia International House, and the waiters, bartenders and cooks unions is arbitrated this week, American Federation of Musicians will pull out the musicians in sympathy. It was disclosed that Joseph N. Weber, AFM head, advised Happy Felton, whose orchestra is at the spot, to give Padula a two-week closing notice today.

Altho the sympathies of the local musicians' union are with the striking workers, A. Anthony Tomei, local prez of 77, made no attempt to have the band pulled because his agreement with Padula calls for Judge William M. Lewis, local jurist, to settle all labor difficulties at the spot before resorting to striking tactics. Labor unions also had the same agreement with Padula, but abrogated it by staging a sit-down strike when two waiters were fired.

Mayor's Labor Board is making another attempt to bring all parties together again to arbitrate the fuss before Felton pulls

NEW YORK, April 10.—Arthur Padula came here Thursday to see Bert Henderson and Tom Gamble, Joseph N. Weber's aids at the American Federation of Musicians. He came in answer to the international's ruling that Happy Felton's Ork at the club give its two-week closing notice in sympathy with the striking

While Henderson revealed yesterday that the matter is not settled yet but will be in a day or so, it has been reported that the AFM will let the ork remain. This is said to be the result of Padula's evidence that the striking unions did not heed the contract with the spot, the contract reading that there was to be no strike without first going to arbitration.

Benny Fields With Master

NEW YORK, April 10.—Benny Fields nas been signed by Irving Mills to record for Master records. Initial four sides, to be grooved Monday, will consist of I'm Sorry, Dear; Melancholy Baby, There's a Lull in My Life and It's Sweet of You.

Noble Sissle is slated to wax for Variety records on Wednesday.

Philly Bookers Annual Affair

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Fourth annual dinner-dance of the Philadelphia Entertainment Contractors' Association Thursday brought together at the Penn A. C. ballroom the leading bookers in this area.

William A. Gray, local attorney, served as toastmaster. Fest was a testimonial to the officers: Joseph S. Hughes, president; Florence Bernard, vice-president; Madeleine Wood, secretary; James S. Smith, treasurer. Clarence M. Supplee is chairman of the board of directors, which includes Roy H. Cross, Lewis Gordon, Isadore Senator, Eddie Sherman, Edward C. Zwicker and Todd Daniel, attorney to the association.

Banquet committee was chairmaned by Miss Bernard, with Miss Wood as vice - chairman and Eddie Sherman, James S. Smith and Daniel J. McGarrigan. Guests at the ECA get-together were A. Anthony Tomei, president of the local musicians' union, and M. H. Orodenker, of The Billboard.

Floor show was staged and directed by Sherman, who also pinch hit as emsee. Talent was headlined by Mary Small, who came in from Baltimore, and included acts from the town's theaters and night spots.

Big Band Agencies Hot After Exclusive on Summer Resorts

MCA and CRA line up more important bookings—eye beach, club and park resorts, ballrooms and hotels-Rockwell-O'Keefe, Meyer Davis also very active

NEW YORK, April 10.—With all indications pointing to a great summer season for traveling bands, the bigger agencies are fighting tooth and nail to line up summer resorts, hotels, night clubs and ballrooms. MCA and CRA have already cornered most of the important spots, altho Rockwell-O'Keefe, Meyer Davis and other large offices are not far behind. CRA has signed the Lincolnshire Country Club, Chicago, for music and talent this summer. The Lakeside Park, Barnesville, Pa., will take six to eight CRA bands, opening April 15 with Jolly Coburn's Band.

CRA will again book the Million-Dollar Pier, Atlantic City, providing it with 15 to 20 bands this summer, beginning Decoration Day. MCA is again booking the Steel Pier in A. C.

CRA also has lined up Playland Park, Rye, N. Y.; Meadowbrook Country Club, Cedar Grove, N. J., and Beverly Hills Club, Fort Thomas, Ky., all summer resorts. The Meyer Davis office is busy setting its usual raft of summer exclusive resorts, mostly in New Jersey, Long Island and Westchester.

CRA is making a strong bid for park dates, believing parks can be sold name bands despite the fact most of them have avoided name-band policies for fear that park visitors would stick to the ballroom and not circulate among the other attractions.

PITTSBURGH, April 10.—Looks like a name band summer season. On heels of Frank Blandi's announcement that he'll probably use MCA outfits at his new La Casa, formerly Sander's, scheduled to open middle of May, comes Greeta Harbaugh's info that her Pines will lift curtain Decoration Day with an MCA band.

Also a name band spot, if deal goes thru, will be Willows, for which Bernie Conroy is dickering with Oakmont bank that holds the papers.

MCA Rounding Up Floor Show Spots

NEW YORK, April 12. -- Music - Corporation of America has about five spots in the wind for floor-show bookings. Astor and Roosevelt hotels here may take on floor shows, which MCA will book, while the other three spots are at summer resorts.

Eddie Elkins and ork goes into the Astor this Sunday, succeeding Vincent Lopez. Rudy Vallee is booked for a sixweek return May 24, and MCA has tentatively set Ted Lewis, Hal Kemp and Abe Lyman for the hotel during the summer months. Until Vallee comes in the hotel may use a floor show.

Roosevelt Hotel is planning on using a floor show when Guy Lombardo's ork finishes there.

AFA's First Unfair List

NEW YORK, April 10.—American Federation of Actors has issued its first "unfair" list, recording in it the names of persons and agencies who, according to AFA, "deliberately refused to adjust valid claims of members." It also plans to run the names in each issue of its house organ, The Reporter, until claims have been settled.

List includes Frank Sennes, Cleveland: with the American Legion Circus, Elizabeth, N. J.; G. H. Wands, Fulton Amusement Company, Gloversville, N. Y.; Peg Lanigan, Pittsburgh; Jayne Jarrell, Pittsburgh; J. Hunter Wallace, Amsterdam, N. Y.; Roy Bergere, National Theatrical Agency, New York; C. C. Agitate Against Female Imps

DETROIT, April 10.—Increase in sex crimes here has resulted in agitation aiming to exclude female impersonators from the city. Prominent in the move is Dr. Thomas K. Gruber, chief of Eloise Hospital. Those particularly incurring his wrath are traveling troupes of female imps playing night spots.

Gruber says: "No one can tell me it is safe to allow such groups to roam at liberty." He qualifies this, however, by saying he does not mean to infer that all members of such companies are dangerous.

Night Club Reviews

Ubangi Club, New York

Harlem, in its last desperate attempt to retain some of its bizarre color and to stem the increasingly diminishing play caused by the transplanting of Harlemania to downtown Broadway, is doing it with a flash of unbridled nudity and blue stuff that surpasses even that displayed in its heyday.

The Ubangi, accordingly, is offering a show, Brevities in Bronze, that does not disappoint those who want the real thing in lowdown.

Revue is emseed by comic Allen Drew and is headed again by Gladys Bentley, practically a fixture here. Hefty Gladys still continues to dish the kind of spicy songs that leave no doubt as to their meaning. She knows what the patrons who have taken the trouble to come uptown want, and she certainly lays it on thick, scoring best with Gladys Isn't Gratis Anymore and He Did It for Love, the latter a takeoff on the King-Wally affair.

Torch singer Babe Mathews combines hot rhythms with brazen strutting and shaking of stuff. Shapely and with personality to spare, this young lady is easy on eyes as well as ears. Her vocal offering was Bluer Than Blue. Barrington Guy sings in a dramatic baritone and also lends noteworthy histrionics in several dramatic sketches, aided by the team of Moore and Dene. One of these, The Well of Loneliness, strikes a new note in combining blue and homo overtones. Moore and Dene also do solo numbers, but did not impress as especially effective. Mae Johnson, youthful and pretty, offers pop tunes, a bit long and over-arranged, but captivates completely in her strip-tease, Gypsy Rose Lee in Bronze.

Scoring perhaps heaviest personal triumph is Tondelayo, young and eye-filling nude dancer, who, assisting Barrington Guy in a sexy delineation of an artist's dream, draws gasps of sensuous delight with her interpretation of Passion. Together with Guy's bari-intoning and emoting, this scene was easily best of entire production, show stopping for an encore.

Derby Wilson clicks with nimble tapwork, pounding it out clean and fast to rate an encore. Avon Long, holdover from the last show, pleases with an eccentric routine, while Freeman and Freeman, mixed duo, do tapping and terping.

The show is heavy with production numbers but outstanding is the scrimdrop scene where a half dozen gals strip and cavort in silhouet, while the remainder of the 16 Ubangettes and showgirls frame the spectacle in semi-nude.

Production staged by Bloomfield and Greeley; music by Donald Heywood, Porter Grainger and others. Charles Dixon arranged the score and Kitty Roth designed the costumes.

Ovie Alston and his swing orchestra continue to provide show and dance music.

Minimums of $1.50 week days and $2.50 Sundays and holidays prevail, with the added and unusual stipulation that the amount must be spent on drinks, exclusive of food. George Colson.

Mori's, New York

This is a "hideaway" spot that is remarkable in every aspect. Hidden in drab Bleeker street on the southern outskirts of the village section proper, this large restaurant is a beauty, architecturally. An imposing white Colonial front is surprise No. 1, while the lavish but tasteful interior is surprise No. 2. The interior, incidentally, was remodeled by Raymond Hood before Hood became one of America's greatest architects.

This restaurant was founded by Placido Mori 54 years ago and is now being operated by his widow and two sons, Edmund and Albert. Luxurious, comfortable and roomy the lower floor can accommodate about 400, who are entertained by an orchestra and vocalist. Current band is Eddie Ray, who has Freddie Martin's old combo comprising a sweet triple violin section, piano, bass, drums and tenor sax. Sweetish tearoom stuff that goes well with the atmosphere. Louis Cafiero is the young operatic tenor, having come from La Scala, Milan. Has a good voice and one capable of handling familiar numbers and occasional operatic arias.

Catering to substantial uptowners, mostly from the theater and art circles, Mori's draws a solid trade, the type that orders choice wine and liquors with their food. Dinner, incidentally, is as low as $2 and is superb. Gourmets will be interested to know that Mori originated the now famous Italian delicacy, zablione.

There's also a lovely garden featuring Paul Bartlett statues and there's an unusual cocktail lounge upstairs, with a piano-and-song team entertaining in informal fashion. The lounge is a replica of a tastefully furnished private home, affording patrons a pleasing sense of being at home.

As we hinted above this is the most unusual atmospheric restaurant-night club in the village. Paul Denis.

Empire Room, Palmer House, Chicago

Three outstanding features make the Empire Room's new show, Coronation Revue, a notable contribution to the season's night club entertainment. Henry King and his orchestra, fresh from a 26-week engagement on the Burns and Allen radio show, provide the most refreshing dance and show music imaginable, King himself doing some particularly entertaining piano playing. He has a drummer who goes to town in a big way, and a vocalizer, Joe Sudy, whose voice and personality put him over solidly.

Russell Swann, direct from nine months in swank London spots, again proves himself a polished and genial emsee, as well as master magician. Interspersed his emseeing with clever feats of magic, accompanied by a clever line of patter that kept the customers highly entertained. His gramophone number in which a voice from a record tells him what to do in performing a card trick is a sock hit. Swann is becoming more and more the suave, finished showman.

Mario and Floria unmistakably proved themselves one of the finest ballroom dance teams and held the customers spellbound with a series of original routines marvelously done. They were called back again and again. A beautiful dance to Debussy's Clair de Lune was followed by a lively tango; a graceful routine to Make Believe and some lighter numbers, all of which drew prolonged applause.

Joaquin Garay, tenor, scored in a big way with his singing of Moonlight and Shadows, Rancho Grande and other numbers. Has a voice of fine quality. The Abbott Dancers, who have become an institution here, provided two beautiful and graceful routines. Nat Green.

Gold Coast Room, Drake Hotel, Chicago

This huge rectangular spot, attracting Windy City's upper crust, was jammed to capacity Friday night. Elite turned out to welcome Paul Whiteman and band, who opened a four-week stay. About 750 were accommodated by crowding in the tables and a couple of hundred others were turned away.

It all reflects the continued popularity of the rotund maestro, who proved once more that he is a great musician. Forty-minute bill, separated from the dance session music, smacked of class, both in arrangement and delivery. Band admirably carried the weight of the show. As usual floor show specialties are out, as far as the layout of the Gold Coast Room is concerned.

The interior, incidentally, was remodeled by Raymond Hood before Hood became one of America's greatest architects.

This restaurant was founded by Placido Mori 54 years ago and is now being operated by his widow and two sons, Edmund and Albert. Luxurious, comfortable and roomy the lower floor can accommodate about 400, who are Three Ts (Jack and Charlie Teagarden and Frank Trumbauer), combining vocal, trumpet and sax music, scored with their inimitable song salesmanship. Charlie's trumpeting of Basin St. Blues had the customers cheering.

Jimmie Brierly, personable tenor, held attention with Where Are You? and Too Marvelous for Words. Al Galladaro, veteran sax soloist, had them marveling at his speedy and talented work. "Goldie," the outfit's comedian, was fun hiccoughing Not Bad and turning Little German Band leader.

Whiteman was a showmanly emsee all the way. His dance tunes jammed the floor.

Chez Paree, Chicago

Paul Oscard's new revue at the prominent Chez Paree, emseed by Norm Ruvell, boasts of three headliners and some simple, yet nicely staged production turns featuring 16 shapely show girls. Layout of first a.m. show on Saturday ran 69 minutes and the reception was highly enthusiastic.

The clever, original work of Cross and Dunn was tops with the patrons. Boys stayed on for 25 minutes, getting solid laughs with punchy lines bathed in refreshing personality. Press Agent Ted Weber tells us the team is headed for feature work on the Coast. With proper parts the boys should go far in the flicker game. Opened with Sing, Baby, Sing, and successively scored with We Are Two of Three Men on a Horse; On the Broadway Merry-Go-Round, in which they recall the early days of their careers, and Life Begins at 65, a new ditty satirizing the Social Security plan. Were recalled to do their familiar takeoffs of former names, such as Caruso, Nora Bayes, Eddie Leonard, Gallagher and Shean, Van and Schenck and Bert Williams.

Wini Shaw, lovely as ever, lent glamour to the affair with her own typical rendition of pop tunes. She was well received and liked for her delivery of Plenty of Money, Too Marvelous for Words, Lullaby of Broadway and Thru the Courtesy of Love, which she introduced in Warner's Here Comes Carter.

Thorne and White, a couple of pajamaclad girl dancers, are featured in the opening production number. They are gingery tappers, making the turn notable with a fast, whirl finish. Mariora, European woman juggler, followed with typical tricks, good for a member of her sex. Jack Williams, a soft-shoe tap dancer, displayed some smooth foot work to tunes of Easy on the Eyes and Carioca. He could improve his act by doing away with some of his aren't-Igood gestures.

Minor and Root, graceful dance team, stayed on for three numbers, their best being a passionate version of The Bolero. Hope Minor, a blonde, made an attractive appearance in a silvery gown. Their work is more reserved than that of the average dance duo, giving factor to their title of Poets of the Dance.

Line is outfitted with fresh and colorful costumes. Show music is played in expert fashion by Henry Busse and his band. Relief dance tunes are furnished by Maurie Stein's Ork.

Spot, having a capacity of 450, was crowded opening night. Minimum is $2.50 per patron. Operators Mike Fritzel and Joe Jacobson have developed this club into one of the brightest in this area.

Sam Honigberg.

LONDON, April 6.-Most talked of new opening in local night spots this week is that of Diane Raye, first American strip-teaser to appear in England. Originally booked at $250 per week for the Palladium, she was not allowed to show, as George Black, director of that theater. considered the act too daring for English vaude audiences. Shoals of publicity in the dailies ensued thru the ban, and Miss Ray was immediately booked into the Victoria Palace, vaude, as head-

Economy and Talent Shortage Swings Houses to Production

Key houses going over to line of girls and individual production—may keep spots running thru summer houses in Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, Canada accept idea

NEW YORK, April 10.—Key city theaters have found an out in their stage show dilemma, that out being individual house producing, using a line of girls and specialty acts. With units practically washed up for the season, headliners scarcer than the proverbial hen's teeth, and regulation vaude shows no go, the houses have been sold on individual production. They were sold not only as a matter of necessity for talent, but also from the standpoint of economy, figuring that this inexpensive policy will permit the houses to run thru the summer with combo policies. Some houses have already been observing this policy, but now Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, Montreal and Toronto have swung over to the idea, the spots involving RKO and Paramount houses.

The Michigan, Detroit, awakened interest in the idea when it booked the Roxyettes, Gae Foster line of girls, from Fanchon & Marco, with set production numbers. The troupe went in April 2 on a two-week booking. Same troupe is being booked back into the house week of April 23 for a week. The following week the house gets a Chester Hale line of girls, with production numbers

RKO's Palace, Cleveland, has contracted Chester Hale, John Hickey and Clark Robinson, producing partnership, to supply production for the house, using a line of girls. They are contracted for four weeks, starting May 14, with Robinson to stay on while Hale and for a week.

Hickey move on to the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition in Dallas. If the four weeks click, house will continue the policy.

The Palace, Chicago, has booked the Roxyettes to open April 30 for a run of the new Fred Astaire picture, the deal involving Arthur Knorr to supervise production. Rest of show will comprise Red Skelton, Buster Shaver, Stanley Twins and the Bredwins.

Loew's, Montreal, returned to a line of girls and production Friday, using 16. girls, and the idea stays for two weeks, when it will move on to the Hippodrome, Toronto, for a like period.

Metropolitan, Boston, has been doing its own productions, while the RKO theater there has been doing them also to some extent. At the RKO house, Charles Koerner has been embellishing and actually producing shows, most of the time calling on Macklin Megley and Bebe Barri to handle the producing end.

Benson Reps Seattle Firm

CHICAGO, April 10. - Joe Daniels, manager of the Eastern Circuit Vaudeville Agency, Seattle, has appointed John Benson, booker, his local representative. Daniels has on his books four consecutive weeks, including full-week stands at the Paramount, Seattle, and the Capitol, Portland. Benson is now placing local acts into the Paramount, Seattle.

"Shower Girl" Cancels

CHICAGO, April 10.—Heloise Martin, "the shower girl" from Drake University, canceled her engagement at the Oriental Theater this week due to "sudden illness." To put an end to rumors that Miss Martin's appearance was halted by local authorities, Balaban & Katz, operators of the Oriental, made a blowup of her wire from Buffalo, in which she informs of her illness, and posted it in front of the theater.

Jackson's Mid-Atlantic Show

PARIS, April 5.—Joe Jackson, hobo cyclist, will do his stuff somewhere over the Atlantic Ocean while making a quick jump via the Zeppelin Hindenburg from Frankfort to open in New York. Jackson, at present here, plays the Victoria Palace, London, April 19 to May 1, and in order to fulfill New York contracts is obliged to take the air route from Germany. Air-line office requested Jackson to do a show while above the Atlantic and is arranging suitable floor space. Jackson's son plays the Trocadero, London, at the same time as his dad appears at the Victoria Palace and returns to America mid-June to play 10 weeks with an Ernie Young production.

Chester Hale Set For Dallas Expo

NEW YORK, April 10.—Chester Hale will leave here shortly for Dallas, where he has been signed to produce shows at the casino feature of the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition. hearsals of the opening show will be held here, the troupe going to Dallas about June 1. Hale replaced Hassard Short, who split with the exposition officials over demands.

Opening show, set for June 12, will cost in the neighborhood of between 15 and 20 grand. Veloz and Yolanda, already signed for the show, are trying to get out of the contract, with exposition officials firm on the contract being fulfilled. Borrah Minevitch may go into the opening show. Show will include 48 girls and a male choir of 24.

Submit New Minsky Unit

NEW YORK, April 12.—Another Minsky unit is being peddled for vaude dates, the Simon Agency handling Minsky's Oriental Nights for H. K. and Morton Minsky, who operate the Oriental burlesque theater here. Show is planned as comprising 20 girls, 12 principals and four or five production numbers, with Julie Bryan, Della Carroll and Ralph Brown to be included in the cast.

Double Trouble

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—Frank Warner, father member of the Four Warners, gave a five-minute pantomime here this week on how a man can go nuts in the unit business. On a 50-50 date in a Kansas town admission was to be 40-cent top, but the top was trimmed to 25 cents. Stage wasn't big enough to hang the scenery. Take wasn't big enough to pay salaries. Show faced an overnight jump of 380 miles, and when everything was loaded the gas tank of Warner's car was found to have been loaded with sawdust. When he arrived here there was a letter from his booker threatening to take away the remainder of the route.

Planning Chicago Showing Spot for AFA Acts

CHICAGO, April 10.—Guy Magley, local representative of American Federation of Actors, is planning to set up a try-out spot here for all AFA acts. Completion of such plans will await the stronger intrenchment of the organization here.

Idea is to invite managers, agents and bookers for these showing nights to be held about twice a month. Presently a new act applying for a night spot job usually stages a free show in that club for the benefit of a single booker or club manager.

Diving Act's 1938 Booking

NEW YORK, April 12.—Scala, Berlin, is buying its acts far enough in advance, the house already setting the Lottie Mayer 12 Diving Girls for a twomonth run, starting January, 1938. Booking was arranged by Dick Henry, of the Morris Agency.

Pitt's Advance Bookings

PITTSBURGH, April 10. — Encouraged by success of "name" band policy at Stanley here, Harry Kalmine has lined up important bookings. Guy Lombardo will open May 7, Shep Fields May 21 and Benny Goodman June 11 or 18. Jan Garber opened yesterday, and Ted Lewis comes in this Friday.

"Slums" Acts Work Co-Op

Bloom-Bines unit cast finds it profitable—acts coming out ahead

NEW YORK, April 10.—Acts working on a co-operative basis, accepting a percentage of the net profit instead of a fixed salary, are finding it very profitable, as seen in the case of the Slums of Paris unit, owned by Phil Bloom and Dave Bines. Show opened in February, has worked 12 weeks already and will probably total 20 before it folds. Not since 1932 have there been commonwealth or co-operative units, which at that time involved mostly small-time wildcat shows that found the idea unprofitable.

Only the owners and acts of the Slums of Paris unit are working on percentage. The acts are Sid Marion and Olive Sibley, Billy Branch and Company, Rene Villon, Monroe and Grant, Roy Williams and Dot and Dash. Those on fixed salaries are the 16 Dave Bines Girls, advance man (Billy Smythe), musical director (Victor Sachs) and carpenter (Charles Randolph).

First week of the show found everybody on salary, but thereafter the percentage arrangement was worked out, the plan entailing an involved bookkeeping arrangement. Percentages for the acts were arrived at according to their standard salary, and they start collecting their percentages, as do the producers, after all expenses are deducted.

Unit has been playing guarantee and percentage dates and has always gone over the guarantee. The acts are way ahead, this best indicated recently in Montreal when their percentages almost doubled their usual salaries. While an arrangement such as this usually involves temptation to accept any sort of date, the bookings for the unit have been standard, playing key cities for RKO and worth-while indie dates, including Toronto and Montreal. Show is also booked for the Oriental, Chicago, and already played the Fox, Detroit.

Owners of the unit had difficulty in convincing the acts to work percentage, doing so only after pointing out that in the long run the acts fare better on such an arrangement as compared to pick-up vaude dates which involve weeks of lay-

Performer Sues Wilmington

WILMINGTON, N. C., April 10 .-Claiming $10,000 damages for injuries allegedly suffered in a fall at Thalian Hall in December, 1934, while appearing there with Montmartre Nights, Frank P. Peck has filed suit in New Hanover County Superior Court against the city of Wilmington. The plaintiff contends that the injury prevents him from running, dancing, stooping or taking any usual exercise, thereby interfering with his profession.

Glucksman Leaves Detroit

DETROIT, April 10 .- J. M. Gross, proprietor of American Attractions, local booking office, revealed this week that he had taken over the personal management of the office, with E. Manuel Glucksman no longer connected with the office. Gross is planning to take out a booking agency license, but will confine his activities almost entirely to unit production.

Reed Joins Frank Wolf

PHILADELPHIA, April 10. — George Reed, after six years as emsee at Palumbo's Cabaret, enters the booking field. Joins the local office of Frank Wolf. Before turning to the night clubs Reed did a double in vaude with his wife, Alice Lucy.

Indianapolis Shows for May

INDIANAPOLIS, April 12. — Indiana Theater here is returning to stage shows, the first one coming in May 7, when the Count Bernivici unit opens. Policy is slated for only four weeks, the theater being leased for that period by the Monarch Theaters to a local business man.

Loew's State, New York

(Reviewed Thursday Evening, April 8) State's stock company is back again this week, the Ed Sullivan Dawn Patrol Revue. It's the ninth visit here by columnist Sullivan, and this time his revue comprises Ray and Geraldine Hudson, Marjorie Gainsworth, Pops and Louie, Sheila Barrett, Frances Faye and Dave vine. Show is overlong, doing an hour and 20 minutes, but it's a good show.

Length is caused in part by Sullivan's stumbling over announcements and excess milking for the acts. Would be a lot better if he'd move the show faster, but as it is the layout packs lots of entertainment of the sock variety. Picture is Maid of Salem, and house was packed, this reviewer sitting on the mezz steps.

Sullivan has come a long way as a performer, but as an emsee he's still lacking. He does a Roscoe Ates quite frequently on the announcements, but his biggest fault is milking for acts. That slows up the going terribly. He's terrific, tho, as a straight, seen in his session with Dave Vine, who is planted up in the mezz. Feeds as well as the most polished of straights, and his expertness at it helped the very funny Vine to be even funnier. This session tail-ended the show and was a laugh hit all the way. Sullivan's other job is in midportion, when he gabs his "Things I'd Like To See Again" short, which is swell.

Ray and Geraldine Hudson (Hudson. Wonders) are the opening act, socking with a brand of floor acrobatics that's nothing short of amazing. These lassies are without a doubt tops as gymnasts, but they'd fare even better if synchronizing their work to look like an act and not a session in a gym. Marjorie Gainsworth (great-granddaughter of Gen. Robert Lee) got a big buildup from Sullivan; she's a soprano of fair enough merit, but the buildup is beyond her reach.

Pops and Louie go well with their songdance inning, featuring personality. The kids go to town, getting the audience with their pep in the Harlem manner. Sheila Barrett socked biggest with her classic mimicry, a relief from the run of impersonations. Hers are satirical studies, expertly done and with a lot of bite and comedy value. She had trouble getting away and could have stayed on and on.

Frances Faye, club shouter, followed Sullivan's short and was another big hit. She has a grand voice, this heavy-set lass who can outshout most and certainly can outbang any of them when thumping a piano. She beats the dickens out of a keyboard, and it doesn't sound any too good so close to a mike. Went ter-

Hitting the High Spots, locally manufactured unit, is a loosely knit show that is entertaining only for part of its 63-minute way. A line of 20 girls and 14 principals on stage. Idea of revue is a tour to various parts of the world to taste the nation's typical entertainment dishes.

Tour starts in France after a bit of Dinah strutting by Winston and Lolette, youthful dance team. A line of 10 girls do a can-can routine, followed by Dmitri, Karel and Andre, dance satirists, in burly takeoffs of waltz and adagio routines.

The Four Dictators, musical strolling act, take a number one spot with two songs. Instruments are two guitars, clarinet and bass. Three of the boys vocalize. Selections were Rhythm Is Our Business and Smoke Dreams. Earned a nice hand.

Sully, of Sully and Thomas, comes on for a bit of emsee work before doing his regular act. Gags are worn and ensuing skit falls flat.

The 20 gals make a colorful picture in Russian costumes, doing a native dance. Frances Willer, shapely and talented acrobatic dancer, is featured in a difficult turn which she executes in excellent fashion. Netted a good hand.

Joe Arena and Company (company being a tall blond and a dog) please with some novel acrobatic work, altho routine is not as smooth as it could be. Blond rates attention because of her unusual height. Joe produces wine-filled glasses from his pockets after several acro tricks. A good bit is his rope jumping while lying flat on his back.

China is the next spot, with some of the girls on for a pleasing Oriental routine. Miss Sakura, a singer who, of all things, turns stripper, is featured. Not so forte on voice.

Don Enrico, local night spot operatic tenor, does a couple of numbers, ending with Carioca. Line struts out to that tune, followed by Winston and Lolette in a lively Latin tap routine.

Sully and Thomas on before closing. Team funny, despite some of the old material on hand. Boy is also a clever, hoofer. Pumped many laughs from a hard-to-please audience.

All back for the finale, singing praise for Chicago. End is slow, due to the singular introduction of the acts. On screen, Woman Wise (20th Century-Fox). House fair second show opening SAM HONIGBERG.

Radio City Music Hall, N. Y.

(Reviewed Thursday Evening, April 8) Stressing more than usual the production idea ahead of individual talent attraction, this showhouse subdues single efforts by overshadowing them with sumptuous, breath-taking settings and effects.

The Symphony orchestra precedes the current revue, The Compass Points, with Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony, andante and finale.

The presentation is divided into locales depicting the four major points of the compass; North and West set up in upto-date periods, while South and East are set to tempos of the last century.

North is represented by a Canadian outpost with the Glee Club, garbed as Mounties, doing regimental songs. The South reveals a section of New Orleans in 1860, with the Corps de Ballet, in appropriate period dancing, lending beautiful color and atmosphere. In the same setting Rosario Orellana, in dulcet, caressing coloratura, sings flawlessly, if rather timidly, and is succeeded by the team of Hilda Eckler and David Worth in a simple dignified ballet turn. A fishing wharf scene in the Gloucester, Mass., of '1800 is East's representative tableau. In it baritone Robert Weede, as a tottering old salt, sings a song of former glories and then begins to relate an old yarn about a mermaid who envied and finally attained the limbs of earthly women. A gradual fadeout of the wharf scene is replaced by an undersea effect screen from which emerges Norma Gallo, as the mermaid, forth in new-found freedom expressed by unusual and novel acrobatic and control work.

The closing scene is on a dude ranch in Nevada, with the Glee Club and the Rockettes sprawled around as atmosphere, and Bud Carlell and Rosa performing the usual run of lariat tricks, the highlight of which is the simultaneous spinning of five ropes by the man. A demonstration with the bullwhips by Carlell and the ever-thrilling sure-fire precision stepping by the Rockettes brought the presentation to a close.

A short unfolding A Day With the Quintuplets, a newsreel and the pix Quality Street round out the current program. GEORGE COLSON.

Vaude bill packs the house here, each of the acts going off to solid applause. Crowd was further increased by bank night and the Garbo-Taylor pix, Camille, the entire combo giving the patrons a swell run for their money.

Marvin Jenson, blond and personable, emsees the show in addition to doing his own turn. Lad'is likable, presents the acts with finesse and does not cut in to reminisce and slow down the tempo.

Opener is Bento and Company, two men and a girl in hand-to-hand acro, both straight and hoke. Turn begins slowly and attains a nice climax, the understander finally doing a three-high routine with the girl perched in various poses on top. Young lad comes out for the finale, gets a load of laughs with some innocent gags and is put thru a round of acro work by one of the men.

Jenson in the deuce spot, dressed in formal attire. Sings Top Hat, does an imitation of an auto race, and goes into a hoofing session. A grand looker, Jenson clicks in two tapping novelties, one yclept Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, in which he produces lighted cigarets like a magi, and the other a tap turn done on a raised platform five inches wide by two and one-half feet long. A good variety performer.

Roy Campbell's Cavaliers, four-men harmony act, is a first-class singing turn. Renditions are thoroly masculine, arrangements aid rather than distort the melodies, and choice of numbers indicates wide versatility. Open with Stout-Hearted Men and Lover Come Back to Me, follow with Follow the Flame, and go on to Goona Goo, Nice Work If You Can Get It, Alabama Barbecue, Why Do I Love You and Great Day. A sock turn.

Harry Lang and Louise Squires, nextto-closing, offer a hilarious piece of hokum. Lang, as a butcher, is addressed by the girl as "Count," and soon is involved in high society conversation with

Chicago, Chicago

(Reviewed Friday Evening, April 9)

A great five-act bill at the Chicago this week, seasonably dressed with two airy routines by 16 Fred Evans girls. Opening line number was followed by Lucille Page, whose Susi-Q turn, topped with a difficult tap routine while back bended, netted her a heavy hand.

Robert Williams turned his Red Dust dog act into a natural. He truly has one of the most amazing animals performing on the stage today. Opens with a romantic song, ushering in Helen Williams, who has Red Dust wrapped around her neck. The dog is a posing marvel and an expert on muscle control. Robert is a showman, extracting all the entertainment such an act has to offer.

Harris and Shore, amiable dance satirists, were a show-stopping act. They do burly take-offs of a waltz and Latin strut that are refreshingly original, avoiding repetition thruout the turn. Could have stayed on longer.

Gertrude Niesen, exotic songstress and feature of the bill, proved to the customers that Universal hasn't done right by her in Top of the Town. She has a fascinating, robust voice, coupled with a reserved and admirable delivery. Did four numbers, including Manhattan Serenade, Where Are You?, Gubay Moy Bublatchki (a gay Russian novelty, Buy My Pretzels) and Jamboree. Swell reception.

The California Collegians closed the revue. Thirteen men, including Lou Wood, the leader. Band is a happy, youthful, musical outfit, dishing out novelties that are clean fun. Stayed on 15 minutes, doing We Are Working Our Way Thru College, A Day at the Circus (which they displayed in Paramount's Champagne Waltz) and closing with a concoction of nonsense in which each of the boys is dressed as a national figure. Such names as Santa Claus, Hitler, Mussolini and Ghandi are portrayed.

Major Bowes' Ainniversary Unit is an eight-act potion (claiming 12 in the billing here) which, outside of running heavy on time, is a wealthy entertainment group. Sid Raymond, emsee, an old grad from amateur ranks, was too goodhearted, however, and let the audience have overmuch.

Marie Woods, a scale breaker of the avoirdupois type, with a Sophie Tucker style, opened. Outside of being a stage filler, not much. Deuce spot went to Lillian Nunno, who starts the show with cute delivery of a song-and-tap routine. Long on personality and lets it sparkle. Bill Boadway, fine boy soprano, does a tough rafter-high rendition of Indian Love Call and then goes to bat on Italian Street Song, a couple of hard tricks and well done.

Frances Gibby, snappy violinist, makes a string single a surprising entertainment. Her two numbers rated good Five Jacks, featuring Gus hands. (Murphy) Feldstein, break in for a midway harmonica clowning which cleans up. Feldstein capers thruout to continual snickers. Tony Russo, novelty musician, whose specialty is bicycle pumps, rubber globes and a fire extinguisher for instruments, follows. He's 125th Street Apollo, N. Y. good, too. Julie Phelps Hall, who resembles Ann Harding, fared well with a couple of songs, It's Delovely and I've Got My Love To Keep Me Warm.

Youman Brothers, fixtures with these Bowes shows, make their third appearance here. They do a swell job of mimicking name bands' themes. For having been around so often, they stay too long, a good 10 minutes to them alone.

Company manager is Dave Brown, altho Senator Lou Goldberg was here watching show being dovetailed with some new acts. Split of program time was with Her Husband's Secretary (First National). Business swell as usual.

Roxy, New York

(Reviewed Friday Evening, April 9) House extends itself this week on stage and screen. A 48-minute stage show that's complete on production and entertainment, while the pix is interesting pop stuff, The Soldier and the Lady, pix title for Jules Verne's Michael Strogoff. Newsreel and shorts round out the program, while Eddie Paul and the pit boys do their usual excellent job of playing the show.

Gae Foster did a really beautiful job of production, the flash numbers oozing with color by way of outstanding lighting and smart costuming. First number, to Let's Go Strumming, has the very capable line of girls stepping lively. Her second is a sort of ballet affair to You're Just Too Marvelous, in which the lassies float around gracefully and work on toes also. Last number, the finale, is a holdover from the previous show, the unicycle item, trimmed this week and showing up better. Those Foster girls are really outstanding; they're athletic, graceful in ballet and can rhythm hoof with the best.

Marcy Brothers and Beatrice are an amusing slapstick turn, playing up knockabouts, falls, a bit of hoofing and featuring Beatrice's contortion work in which she appears to have no back. She applies it to comedy, assuming grotesque poses, etc. Act is in need of finish and smoother routining.

Gwynne, the magician, mystifies the folks very cleverly with his showmanly turn in which he's assisted by a quartet of prop handlers. He runs thru a load of tricks, mostly of the Chinese variety, and in doing them shows complete skill

Doris Rhodes is well liked for her singing, going thru four numbers in excellent voice. She's better than a lot of singers in the higher brackets, her voice having quality and being adaptable to tricky arrangements.

SIDNEY HARRIS.

(Reviewed Friday Evening, April 9)

Show opened with a glimpse of the circus, but soon swung into more Harlemesque-type entertainment. An hour and a half stage show, with Midnight Court and a flock of shorts on the screen, entertained a packed house.

Bill is a well-blended melange of dance comedy, music and plenty of swing. Opening had the 16 Clarence Robinson gals dressed as kids and was done against a circus background and effects. A funny circus sketch followed. Pigmeat and his fellow funny men, John Mason and Jimmie Baskette, didn't have much time in the 90-minute show, but when on they scored neatly. A hotel scene took plenty of laughs.

Woolford's Pets, continuing in the circus vein, stayed on nine minutes and each second was packed with grand showmanship. This act rises above many other animal acts because of the splendid comedy and hoke which is included. The dogs are well trained, proud creatures. Their planks, rolling, dancing and barrel routines went over to a nice hand.

Cook and Brown, eccentric dancers, did some slick and funny hoofing. They are good and the addition of even more comedy effects by the shorter man would have been well received. A second dance couple, Norton and Margo, mixed team, did some lovely, suave work that opened sweet and wound up on the stove. Woman makes a classy appearance and is well aided by her partner.

Several production scenes, including the circus, Spring in Vienna and one in which the lasses appeared as toy soldiers, were eye-arresting, well-executed numbers. Spring scene with lighting effects resembling colored water in motion took a grand hand.

Chick Webb Ork worked on stage in front of a rose and floral background and introduced several male singers and Ella Fitzgerald. The Webb Ork, full and lively, offered comedy, novelty and rhythm and is packed with punch. Miss Fitzgerald stopped the show completely and could have sent the house home with the milkman. She has the sob-in-the-throat, sultry delivery that grows on one.

More than one house manager would do well to drop in to see how this popularpriced flesh house is conducted. BENN HALL.

Palladium, London

(Week of April 5)

New show here, Swing Is in the Air, is the house's weakest yet. Jack Hylton, making his first London appearance with his band in 18 months, is given chief Lamberti is a big laugh hit with his credits for the show, and it's surprising that, with the pick of the talent of two continents at their disposal, George Black and Hylton were not able to provide a better entertainment. Besides Hylton, principal "names" are Flanagan and Allen, sole survivors of the Palladium's stock gag men, and the Three Slate Brothers, back after a three-year absence. It's left to a 14-year-old English boy, Joe Rossi, a remarkable accordion player, to register the only solid show-stop of the evening.

April 17, 1937

Wilbur Hall, American nut instrumentalist with a wealth of comedy ideas; Afrique, English impersonator, just back from America, and Jane Moore and Billy Revel, satirical dance team with excellent material, rate next in applause honors. Hylton's Band, augmented to 30-odd players, is as tuneful as ever and still leads all rival aggregations, but Hylton has only a fair choice of numbers. Flanagan and Allen are on and off in almost every scene, with most of their material a rehash of former bits.

Keene Twins and Vic Lamar, American acro and tap dancers, replace Roy Smeck, who walked out on the second evening after being cut to three minutes due to length of show. Replacement act is fast, providing corking tricks, and hits heavily. Slate boys are admittedly handicapped by being on in the deuce spot and then only appearing again in the final scene, but they have little new to offer and their timing could be improved. The adagio burlesque is their best.

 Frank Libuse, with Margo Brander, has a hoke act that wins laughs, but his act would be seen to better advantage in a straight vaude bill. Creditable work in small doses is given by Babs Lavall, corking contortionist; Swing Sextet, dandy singing group; George Lyons, ace harpist, and Freddie Schweitzer, comedian. A line of 24 girls do the entire "Lover's Dance" as featured by America's Lela Moore and Renita Kramer. Show is set for 10 weeks with an option, but it will have to be doctored quite a bit to run its scheduled time. BERT ROSS.

Stratford, Chicago (Reviewed Wednesday Evening, April 7)

First of the weekly showing nights. arranged by Morris Silver, of the William Morris Agency, attracted a flock of talent buyers and as a whole an entertaining bill. Eight acts in all, emseed in a straightforward manner by Phil Friedlander, of Station WCFL, and Patricia Manners, of WBBM, who introduced the Mabel McCane turn.

Arizona Duo, rope act, opened. Two men who know their ropes, spinning and tap dancing for a five-minute session. One of them spins a 50-foot rope while lying on his back. The tap-spin number to tune of Rhythm in My Nursery Rhymes netted a good hand.

The Raftone Sisters, two accordionplaying charmers, were pleasing enough in an ordinary musical offering. Open with St. Louis Blues, then split, one doing a soft-shoe rhythm tap and the other following with a haunting tune on the squeeze box. Both return for two tunes, closing with a feverish rendition of Hold That Tiger. On eight minutes.

Bob Crosby and Orchestra

Reviewed at the Congress Hotel, Chicago. Style-Dance music.

Instrumentation: Jil Rodin, Eddie Miller and Noni Bernardi, saxes; Matty Matlock, sax and clarinet; Warren Smith and Ward Filloway, trombones; Bob Haggart, bass: Nappy LaMare, guitar and vocalist; Yank Lawson, trumpet: Ray Bauduc, drummer; Eddie Bergman, violin; Zeke Zarchy, trumpet, and Bob Zerke, piano. Kay Weber, vocalist.

This outfit, billed as the Dixieland Swing Band, has been making the rounds for the last 18 months and steadily building in reputation, mostly thru radio work, records and dance dates. Ork has plenty of volume and rhythm and boasts of many special arrangements that are novel. Among fixtures with the band are special versions of such tunes as St. Louis Blues, Darktown Blues, Pagan Love Song and Wabash Blues.

Bob, youthful and personable, is a good salesman in front of the band. He vocalizes frequently and capably and acts as emsee. At this stand the boys are proving favorites with collegiate crowds who find the musical strains much to their liking.

Miss Weber is a decorative asset who possesses a sweet and pleasant voice. Arrangers are Rodin, Matlock, Lawson, Haggart and Zerke. HON.

Freddy and Ginger

Reviewed at the Harlem Uproar House, New York. Setting-Floor show. Style-Dance team and specialty. Time-Eight minutes.

One of the finest looking colored mixed dancing combinations to show up in some time, this pair justly rate the billing of "the Astaire and Rogers of Harlem." Boy is slender, nice-looking and graceful, while the girl, whose full name is Edna Mae Holley, is extremely pretty and with a beautifully turned figure.

They open with a bit of slow ballroom, he in tails and she fully gowned, and work up into a peppy tap routine. At the finish of their double tap number she steps out, strips completely except for an immaterial G-string and delivers an eye-filling cooch that, considering added attractiveness of face and figure, can't help going over.

Opening numbers and costumes are often varied at the two entirely different shows given here nightly, but routine in general follows pattern out-G. C.

Finding himself soon involved in nutty conversation with imaginary people, Lang sporadically interrupts the proceedings to insist upon a payment of 30 cents for pork chops. He gets nowhere, however, and winds up playing an imaginary piano, shooting imaginary people, whipping himself into shape for a psychopathic ward. A feast of hokum.

Lang closes with whistling Pennies From Heaven, a topnotch rendition that brings salvos. Turn begged off. P. A.

Offers two novelty dances which score okeh. One, titled Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, in which he produces lighted cigarets in the fashion of a magician, and the other a tap routine accomplished on a small raised platform. Fair opening turn comprising two men, one girl and a youngster, the latter coming out for a brief spell toward the end. Start with regulation hand-tohand business, both hoke and straight. After a slow beginning act picks up in pace and interest, the understander finally doing a three-high balancing turn with the girl perched in various poses on top. Looks okeh. Six Lindy Hoppers

Reviewed at Chicago Theater, Chicago. Setting - Full stage. Style - Dancing. Time—Three minutes.

The Six Lindy Hoppers, colored rhythm strutters, were given only three minutes at this session, having been used as a climax to a scene depicting the various dance stages. They naturally portrayed the last word in stepping of the sizzling variety practiced in Harlem. Work in couples and as an ensemble. Act lacks variety, following the same type of dancing thruout their routine. Good when turn is cut short, as in this instance. HON.

Cuby and Smith

Reviewed at Folly Theater, Brooklyn. Style-Comedy and acrobatic. Setting-In one. Time-Ten minutes.

Cuby and Smith, working as a pair of drunks, take plenty of abuse. Act features knockabout acrobatics, with both men working in pantomime. Their studied awkwardness is deft and draws laughter. Probably a trimming of running time would give it more speed and punch. Intended for the general family trade rather than more sophisticated B. H.

Wild and woolly, not unlike the antics of Rae Samuels, Ann Suter is an entertaining singing comedienne. She labored under a heavy cold at this stand but stopped the show nevertheless. Has special material which she delivers with zest. During turn takes an awful body beating from her loose hands. Did 1 Want a Cave Man, I Thought I'd Die and Ain't It a Grand and a Glorious Feeling, which she originated several years ago. Middle ditty is a takeoff of a bashful gal in love. While some of subject matter is old, she puts it across in solid fashion. HON.

De Pace works with a girl assistant and can brighten up any kind of a bill. His clown getup and amazing skill on the mandolin make the act surefire. The business of the woman asking questions, which De Pace answers by means of his almost-talking mandolin, is deftly done.

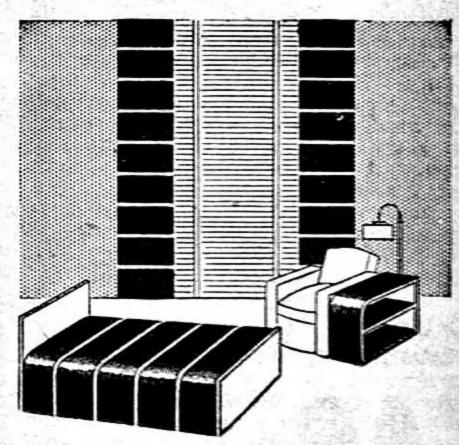

A simple act that is a show-stopper is unusual. It's all because of De Pace's grand showmanship. He is ably supported by his unbilled assistant, who makes a fine appearance.

Secret Ballot Referendum Set

NEW YORK, April 10.—Council of Actors' Equity Association has ordered the referendum on the secret ballot to go out Tuesday, according to Frank Gillmore, AEA president. Question of a change in usual balloting procedure, when voted upon at the recent Equity meeting in the Hotel Astor here, was favored by a good majority, but nevertheless failed to attain the necessary two-thirds vote.

Feeling of the administration is that a more secret ballot would necessitate additional detail on the part of the Equity staff, but in view of the large majority in favor of the measure the AEA council recently made a ruling providing for a secret ballot in voting by mail. Referendum concerns all votingby mail and in person.

Five Are Set For Chi Spots

CHICAGO, April 10.—Five legit shows, one a new show from London, will make their way into the Loop before the end of April. Three come in this week, Red, Hot and Blue, opening at the Grand Opera House Tuesday: The Water Carrier, Yiddish play, and Idiot's Delight, unfolding Monday at the Selwyn and Erlanger, respectively.

The Lonely Man, a new drama by Howard Koch, will be produced by the WPA Federal Theater Group at the Blackstone, starting April 21. Show is being directed by Robert Milton and will feature John Huston, son of Walter Huston. The other new tenant, Close Quarters, opens at the Selwyn April 26. with Philip Merivale and Gladys Cooper portraying the only characters in the play. Show is coming in from Pittsburgh, where it will have its American premiere.

AFL Turns Down Chi Project Group

CHICAGO, April 10.—An offer to back the Federal Theater Council here was turned down by John Fitzpatrick, head of the American Federation of Labor here. The council, composed of a radical group of WPA performers which organized to negotiate as a union with the theater project heads, is seeking the backing of a strong labor org for the advance of strength in its own ranks.

Fitzpatrick directed the group to the American Federation of Actors and Actors' Equity, both of which turned down any invitation to partake in the FTC activities. Guy Magley, AFA rep, stated that legit performers do not fall under his organization's jurisdiction and therefore cannot have any legal association with them. The Equity delegate here, Frank R. Dare, declared that AFA does not enlist WPA performers.

"Quarters" for Pitt

PITTSBURGH, April 12.—Nixon will return to flesh April 19, after four weeks of roadshowing Lost Horizon and The Good Earth, with a new two-character play co-starring Gladys Cooper and Philip Merivale. Entitled Close Quarters, the petit cast show will get its initial metropolitan viewing here, after a first night April 17 at Princeton. It's been adapted from W. O. Somin's English piece, Attendant, by Gilbert Lennox.

Prices will be $2.85 top, same as regular Theater Guild shows, which in this year's series of six included Call It a Day, with Cooper-Merivale team, in town about four months ago.

Erlanger, Philly, To Pix

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—With Friday at Four still pushed back due to casting headaches, Erlanger rings down the silver sheet again for a pix showing. Lost Horizon moves over from the Chestnut, which returns to the legit fold with Boy Meets Girl. With nothing in prospect for the house, Erlanger will follow the new Locust lead and finish the season with pix showings.

Critic Bites Back

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.-If all the critical boys take up the brainstorm of Jerry Stone, dramatic critic for WDAS, the lot that befalls a legit show's press agent will indeed be a dreary one. For this time the critic bites back at the p. a. After reviewing a current attraction on his air stanza, Stone plans to bring in the show's press agent for lambasting. Will read back to the unsuspecting soul his publicity releases and put him on the spot by asking the whys and wherefores in using the adjectives they do, Stone declaring that it was a bitter pill for him to get excited over an advance reader and then actually see the show.

First to be put on the spot will be Ted Goldsmith, bally boy for Susan and God, which premieres here Monday (12) at the Forrest. Week will have a second victim, Barclay V. Mc-Carty, for Boy Meets Girl, meeting up with Stone the following day.

Yiddish Plays In Detroit

DETROIT, April 10.—Continuing the revival of Yiddish theater interest here, Maurice Schwartz, whose last local appearance was in Yoshe Kalb, returned with his Yiddish Art Theater, giving five performances at the Wilson Theater, beginning April 9 and continuing until Sunday evening, April 11, with matinee performances on Saturday and Sunday.

This is the first legitimate production in the Wilson this season and follows a week of Yiddle With His Fiddle, Yiddish folk film.

Manor, Town of Fancy Gap.

Ward Morehouse, whose Miss Quis was presented by Vinton Freedley Wednesday night at Henry Miller's Theater, writes a daily theatrical column for The New York Sun and is said to be an excellent reporter. Why people who are said to be excellent reporters insist upon venturing their reputations upon the writing of plays is a question a bit beyond me.

Miss Quis is a quaint little piece of bric-a-brac that might have gone unnoticed in the general flood of plays that were perpetrated in the era that produced Three Wise Fools and Turn to the Right. With a thorogoing lack of any sort of dramatic coherence it tells the lavender-and-old-lace tale of Liz Quis, the village drudge, who inherited all the great wealth of the crabby old gentleman for whom she worked. The village elders, a sleazy set of small-town grafters, had expected the township to inherit; they are naturally upset—and become even more so when Miss Quis announces that she intends to clean up the town, the first step being to drive them all out. This she intends doing by buying their various businesses.

Not content with this nostalgically aromatic structure, Mr. Morehouse turns in midcareer to tell how the village gambler (he had a mustache and a black hat but forgot the Windsor tie and the lace at his cuffs) knocks down a wealthy rotter who cast (tss-tss!) dreadful aspersions upon sweet Miss Quis's character. The rotter hit his head on a convenient projection and forthwith passed away. What there is of the rest of the play tells of how Miss Quis saved the gambler's life and then turned down his hand in marriage, feeling that she had to remain in town to finish her clean-up job.

It's hard to think of all this as a production presented in 1937 A.D. The synopsis, I think, offers more devastating criticism than any I can make—tho the synopsis fails to take into consideration the woefully burlesqued characters and dialog and the complete lack of dramatic unity and coherence.

And, now that that's over, we can turn to pleasanter things: in the title role is Miss Peggy Wood, the first lady of our stage. I know that there have been other claimants to that mythical title, but for my money Miss Wood holds indisputable right to it. With far more charm than other players who flash their charm far more obviously than she, she is still an actress-and a very great actress-rather than a personality player. In Miss Quis she gives a carefully detailed, a finely effective character performance, a performance that is sensitive, sympathetic, thoro and altogether fine—and thru it shines the glow that is peculiarly hers. It is a performance that almost manages to raise the quaintly foolish script into the realms of legitimate theater.

Mr. James Rennie seems ill at easeas well he may-in the role of the gentlemanly gambler, tho he does manage to give illuminatingly right readings to several of the lines. Miss Jessie Rovce Landis quite inexplicably plays an unplayable bit as the daughter of the chief villain, and fine minor characterizations are contributed by Charles Dow Clark as a friendly editor and James Lightfoot as a rural sheriff.

As a means for bringing Miss Wood back to the stage Miss Quiz may be unreservedly recommended. As a play, however, it proves simply that Mr. Morehouse was, to put it mildly, unwise when he decided to stray away from his lists of celebrities who were spied last night at Leon and Eddie's.

From Out Front By EUGENE BURR

If it hadn't been for the pleasant lady who cleans my office there might have been some fun in the column this week. A few days ago John Mason Brown, cogitating publicity upon the performance of the chief role in Young Madame Conti, had this and that to say about personality players as distinct from character actors, separating the two categories quite definitely and finding a proper theatrical niche for each. That was, without doubt, a kind deed, allowing even personality players (who belong behind ribbon counters rather than on a stage) to feel that they have a real place in the theater-and Mr. Brown was surely entitled to turn his Boy Scout badge right side up that day. It is to be feared, however, that I am neither kind nor a Boy Scout; I had intended to throw a few brickbats at Mr. Brown's warm-hearted sophistries and to that end I had carefully clipped the column and placed it in a certain well-filled receptacle on my enthusiastically paper-littered desk.

But the cleaning lady evidently wanted the column too. Perhaps she, too, intended to write an answer-or, as seems quite likely, perhaps she is a personality player who has finally found her proper place in life, but who appreciated Mr. Brown's generous tribute. In any case the column has disappeared and my hands are therefore tied. For it is manifestly impossible to attack anyone's point of view when you don't remember precisely what that point of view happens to be.

As I recall (this is highly unfair, but the column has to be filled somehow) Mr. Brown claimed that there are performers who play parts only as those parts may be expressed thru their own personalities, and performers who play parts by turning their own personalities into those of the characters created by the author. This is self-evidently true. But Mr. Brown went on to say that there are places for both types of performer, since certain characters demand strong personalities in their playing and others demand players whose personalities may be submerged. In exemplifying his thesis he pointed to the Misses Katharine Cornell and Mildred Natwick in Miss Cornell's current revival of Candida—and at this I am overcome with an excess of amazement and joy, for by so doing Mr. Brown tacitly admits that Miss Cornell is simply a personality player, something that I have shouted for years, with no previous verification from the really astute and experienced gentlemen who write for the dailies.

It was Mr. Brown's point that Miss Cornell could by no means have managed to give so fine a character portrayal as Miss Natwick in the role of the spinster secretary (which is undoubtedly true) and that Miss Natwick could have given nowhere near so fine a performance as Miss Cornell in the role of Candida. This last I emphatically deny. It is possible that Mr. Brown is right, but I won't believe it until I see Miss Natwick flubbing the part. I don't think she would. Miss Natwick happens to be an actress—a consummate success, if you please—and it's my hunch that she would give a far tenderer, a far finer, a far more understanding and (yes, I will say it) a far more charming performance than Miss Cornell. Miss Natwick might not "look" the role as well-but "looking" the role is a minor obstacle to a really fine player. On the one occasion when I saw Miss Cornell really act-in Romeo and Juliet-she certainly didn't look like a 16-year-old girl; but her

It has long been an axiom that a fast and zany farce comedy with more than a little satire in its makeup depends perhaps 50 per cent on its script and 50 per cent on its direction. It is an axiom that has often been verified in practice, but almost always from the positive point of view; thus, George Abbott's direction has lifted many shows-you can name them as well as I-into the hit classification; the direction of George Kaufman, of Jed Harris, or numerous others, has often contributed the needed 50 per cent that makes a fine farce script into a Broadway smash. It remained for the production of Hitch Your Wagon, which Pearson and Baruch presented at the 48th Street Theater Thursday night, to prove the negative point of view.

Bernard C. Schoenfeld, the author, has provided a script that could have been built up into one of the funniest shows of the season. Having this and that to do with a famous film actor and his hands of young Mr. Garson Kanin, who directed a couple of road companies of Abbott hits. The result is devastating. Mr. Schoenfeld's really very funny script emphatically none of mine. emerges as a flabby concoction without. is stretched flat upon the stage when it when it should roar. What might have farce.

has threatened author and producers with financial vengeance because of the production, one must not, I suppose, connect the events depicted in Hitch Your Wagon with any set of real circumstances. As a matter of fact, the program takes pains to point out that the characters are entirely fictional and imaginary. An entirely fictional and imaginary actor, then, is in a sanitarium undergoing the cure when his room is invaded by the stage-struck daughter of a middleclass Jewish familly, bearing a votive offering of noodle soup. A little later the actor, in an alcoholic haze and a pair of blue pajamas, invades the young lady's residence, using it as a hideaway, to the huge delight of mama and the huge disgust of papa.

The young lady's ardent swain, who happens to be the halfback who scores the winning touchdown for Columbia against Stanford in the Rose Bowl, is relegated to the background. The actor, happily worshiped by pushing mother and dumb daughter, is content—until he discovers that daughter isn't as young as she appears. He then makes strictly dishonorable advances and suddenly finds himself announced as daughter's betrothed. Since these are entirely fictional and imaginary characters, there is no airplane chase across the country. Instead, the actor gets a load of his inamorata as she intones some lines from Antony and Cleopatra at a benefit, and he forthwith hands her over to her football hero.

A synopsis can give no idea of the sprightly humor that Mr. Schoenfeld has managed to inject into his script; nor can a synopsis give any idea of the way in which that humor is allowed to lie unhappily upon the stage floor, as flat as a series of potato pancakes. Definitely it is not the author's fault-nor is it the actors. They have done their best, offering a series of individual performances that are really excellent. The thing simply hasn't been whipped into any sort of cohesive whole.

Bet Your Life is the play that pops pace, without tempo, without point. It up around this time each spring detailing what happens to the little fellow should be bouncing merrily; it is dull who wins the sweepstakes prize. Last year (or was it the year before?) Ernest been a smash hit turns out to be a Truex appeared in it for a few performmildly amusing and rather pointless ances. It was bad enough then-and in its numerous other incarnations, too-Since a gentleman who claims to be but this year's version takes the prize the representative of Mr. John Barrymore for all-round ineptitude. The way in which Messrs. Blocki and Howard manage to get inept is really a caution; they get inept in every conceivable department of playwriting (tho they're really best at it in their dialog), and the whole thing is, in a way, an achievement. You must have to try awfully hard to be as inept as all that.

This time the sweepstakes winner is little Willie Chance, head of a gambling family that includes his genially rotund wife and his monumentally annoying son and daughter. The first act, which is bad, tells all about the way the family waited to hear the broadcast of the race and then went berserk when the news came that papa's horse had won. The second act, which is much worse (customers who stayed only for the first act will find it hard to believe this, but it's true)—the second act tells of how the family spent its money and serves to introduce a series of the phoniest situations and characters that ever littered a Broadway stage, including a malignantly boring gigolo for mama and a French maid who wears skirts that end abruptly about a foot above her shapely knees.

Of what the third act tells, you'll never know from me. With memories of the lovely 10-minute first intermission, during which there was no show to watch, I left the John Golden Theater as the curtain came down on that grotesquely idiotic second act. It seemed the most merciful thing to do, and besides, just because one happens to be a dramatic reporter one doesn't have to be a masochist, too. I left the John Golden Theater, trusting that my place would be taken by the lounge buzzer that announces the rise of the curtain; it is a buzzer that sounds suspiciously like a Bronx cheer, and it is probably a critic in disguise.

A cast largely recruited from vaudeville and musicals gives the play precisely what it deserves, under the equally relentless direction of A. H. Van George Curzon does an entirely Buren. In the rare instances when the play fails to show itself up the cast and direction take over the task enthusiastically. There's really no use in going into individual performances exbe entirely fictional and imaginary after cept to remark that in the slapstick scenes (which practically monopolize the action) Lew Hearn manages to act like a graduate of the Keystone Kops. It is probably the wisest thing he can do under the circumstances.

The Willie Howard involved in the authorship is the same Willie Howard who is one of America's greatest revue comedians. At present every time that a thought of Bet Your Life flashes into Mary I. Wickes and various of the others. my unwilling mind I think hard instead of Mr. Howard's matchless rendition of None the less Mr. Schoenfeld has, I the quartet from Rigoletto. The Action of the Play Takes Place in a Large Town in Austria.

Even now, the morning after having seen it, I'm still wondering why so stale, ineffective and pointless a play as Young Madame Conti, adapted by Hubert Griffith and Benn W. Levy from a melodrama by Bruno Frank and presented by Bernard Klawans at the Music Box last Wednesday night, should have left such a dark brown taste in my mouth. The play is so appallingly unimportant that by all rights it should leave nothing more than a vague feeling of annovance at having been forced to sit thru it-but the dark brown taste persists.

It is hard to imagine a flatter melodrama, and at first glance it is difficult to perceive what Mr. Levy, a distinguished and extraordinarily able writer. saw in it that made him want to adapt and direct it. At second glance, however, one discovers a leading role of the old rip-all-the-emotions-to-tatters school, glove-fit for an actress with expansive histrionic power. Mr. Levy is married to Constance Cummings and Miss Cummings plays the lead in the show—plays it nicely and often effectively, giving a good, solid performance, tho one that fails to rise above what might have been offered by any really competent actress.

The play opens with the shooting of Stephen Horka by Nella Conti, an Austrian courtesan, and then goes immediately into the courtroom scene that depicts Nella's trial. Herr Frank, the original author, has a fondness for courtroom scenes-he also wrote Storm Over Patsy, which the Theater Guild, in the interests of embattled dogdom, thought important enough for production in a truncated season—and it must be admitted that he writes them, so far as his judges and barristers go, extraordinarily well. As in the courtroom scene in Storm Over Patsy, there is a wise, witty and understanding judge, and there are also a couple of intelligently amusing attorneys. But the play itself seems neither wise, witty nor intelligent.

It appears that Nella, a prostitute because of circumstances that hinge around the old, old story, had fallen madly in love with Horka and had given him a large portion of her earnings, feeling that this love was at last the noble and beautiful reason for her life. (Hearts and Flowers, unfortunately, is not played from behind the scenes at this point in the action.) Later she had overheard him talking to a friend, telling how he had been cheating her, and describing with dreadful coarseness certain intimate details of their so beautiful relationship—so she shot him. As the prosecuting attorney very justly remarks, she had voluntarily chosen to become a public woman, so the fact that such details were described publicly should hardly have surprised her.

Nella is condemned, and a scene that sets out to be both touching and harrowing—but which succeeds only in giving the leading actress a chance to do some highfalutin' emoting—shows her in the death house as her last appeal is denied. Then the scene switches back to her room on the night of the murder and we see that it has all been just her train of thought. But we reckon without our noble trollop; Horka comes in and, even tho she recalls the horror of her thoughts, she shoots him anyhow, gleefully pumping extra shots into his quivering carcass as the curtain falls.

It is all quite pointless; it is all quite stale. The evident intention was to make Nella appear an unusual woman in some way or other, but she emerges as the common type of prostitute, and both her story and her character, unfortunate as both may be, are hardly unusual enough or of great enough stature to furnish the meat of a melodrama that does nothing more than tell about them in order to give itself an excuse for providing an ineffectively tricky ending.

Miss Cummings, as remarked, does nice work in the leading role, but hardly exceptional work—and the latter alone might have furnished an excuse for the production of the play. As a matter of fact, her pretending is altogether overshadowed by the splendidly felicitous performances offered by three sauve English actors in the roles of the defending and prosecuting attorney and the president of the court. They are, respectively, Raymond Huntley, Cameron Hall and William Dewhurst, and they walk off, not only with the second act, but with the entire play. The cast as a whole maintains an excellent standard, with William Fox (not the film magnate, but a young English actor) proving an ingratiating juvenile and with Patrick Barr doing excellent work as the gentleman who is murdered twice.

AMERICAN ACADEMY OF DRAMATIC ARTS

FOUNDED IN 1884 BY FRANKLIN H. SARGENT

THE foremost institution for Dramatic and Expressional Training in America. The courses of the Academy furnish the essential preparation for Teaching and Directing as well as for Acting.

TEACHERS' SUMMER COURSE JULY 12-AUGUST 20 FOR CATALOG ADDRESS SECRETARY, ROOM 145, CARNEGIE HALL, NEW YORK LAST week there were discussed here, factually but incompletely, certain practices of the larger band and talent booking offices. Stress was laid on the destructive manner of booking artists into desirable spots by tying them up for future dates in the immediate territory. We feel that orchestra leaders and artists should be apprised without further delay of another wrinkle in the current situation. One that can be referred to without danger of sensationalism as the personal management racket. It is hoped that by exposing this as a racket artists will benefit to the extent of watching more carefully contracts they sign either under the influence of enthusiasm superinduced by good salesmanship or from the dulling effects of hunger.

The larger offices are following the pace set in signing up attractions by one of their number several years ago when that office enjoyed a virtual monopoly of the spot and talent wings. The trend is definitely in the direction of tying up as many bands and artists as possible and to hell with the consequences. Not that the offices have anything to worry about. Smart lawyers and even smarter business men have seen to that. In signing up attractions at a feverish pace the offices are not investing any money; they are not making any commitments and they are not in any way shaking their solid foundations. Quite to the contrary, the practice or trend is responsible for added prestige with no investment involved. More tangibly, the contract-signing spree is making it possible for the offices engaged therein to offer better inducements to spots they are seeking to tie up.

It's as old as Charlie Chaplin's pants and it works something like this. The business agent of an act or band solicits work from a large office. He is told that he can get certain dates as a starter provided he is willing to sign a personal management or exclusive authorization contract. Of course it isn't quite as cut and dried as that. Before the suggestion is made a beautiful word picture is painted of the advantages of being signed by the office—prestige, steady work and good money. All very fine, but staring the act or band in the face is the big "if" of not enjoying any of these advantages unless a personal management contract is signed.

In the real sense of the words, as they have been employed for years in the show business, a personal management contract (like any other equitable contract) places real obligations on the shoulders of both parties. The artist promises to play dates offered to him and also to pay certain commissions and other reasonable fees. The manager agrees to provide a certain minimum of work at a certain figure. Frequently he agrees to perform other tangible srvices. But these are not the kind of contracts that are generally being offered to acts and bands today by the offending offices. The new wrinkle ties down the act or band as fast as Gulliver was tied by the Lilliputians. The office, in short, promises nothing and makes the attraction promise to give everything.

One of the offices whose contracts we have seen boldly asserts via its personal management form that it agrees to nothing except collecting commission but that the act must operate thru the office exclusively. Another office adds a new wrinkle by specifying, in the contracts it issues, that when a date is obtained thru participation of another office the act is obligated to pay the extra commission out of its salary. As far back as we can recall whenever an involvement of this kind occurred the office in the status of personal manager has split its commission with the outside office.

We are confronted, it can be seen, with a rather peculiar situation. Acts and bands are much in demand. The leading offices are fighting for them tooth and nail. But instead of benefiting from the demand the artist is actually suffering more than would be expected if the situation were reversed.

Acts and bands can do something about this. Sad to relate, in most instances where they have failed to protect themselves against inequitable personal management contracts it has been due to plain, ordinary ignorance and, to a certain extent, to blind faith in the men with glib tongues and stunted consciences. What the artist and band leader can do is quite simple. In fact, so simple that they overlook it as a matter of habit. The recourse is thru common sense blended with the determination that THEY SHOULD NOT SIGN CONTRACTS THAT FAIL TO GUARANTEE REASONABLE INCOME.

An office that wants an attraction bad enough will consent to drawing up an equitable contract if the business agent of the attraction insists upon it. If an act is worth playing it is worth a contract that gives it at least almost as fair a break as the office. Acts and bands need prestige just like the offices need it. But the offices don't live on prestige alone and an actor or a musician can't feed himself with two slices of dry bread with prestige as a filling. An artist properly advised by an ethical lawyer will never have contract trouble. An ethical lawyer might charge larger fees than a shyster but like a good tire he is worth it in the long run.

The wise artist does not take a single step without the counsel of a man thoroly versed in the intricacies of the law; particularly the law of contracts. Theatricals are really a covering of gloss, tinsel and gingerbread over a framework of contracts. Actually, a good theatrical lawyer is a disciple of Blackstone unusually well versed in contracts. So important is the lawyer in the show business today that big names signed up to big offices (we mean legitimately; not with contracts like those discussed in the foregoing) are given lawyers as their contact men and general handymen instead of showmen as was the case in the funny old days of less complex show business when an artist was either a vaudevillian, a picture actor, a legit actor, a cafe entertainer—or, as always, a bum out of work.

Douglas Leigh's new "spectacular" between the Bond and Palace buildings has set the street agog with its new method of illuminated advertising. Recent dumping of 35 box-office men off the WPA Federal Theater is rumored to be due not only to an excess of personnel, but also because some of the men were allegedly caught with their faces in the cash register. . . . Agents are gagging again about the vaude booking offices with "cutting room." First the booker cries he can't afford to pay more dough and then the assistant takes the agent into a corner to accomplish the operation. What goes on is mostly pantomime and has some of the qualities of a strip-poker game, the booker writing his price on a slip of paper and passing it to the agent, who mugs as tho the world came to an end.

"Captains \Courageous" (MGM)

Time, 120 minutes. Release date, April 3. Directed by Victor Fleming. Based on the book by Rudyard Kipling, with screen play by John Lee Mahin, Marc Connelly and Dale Van Every. Musical score by Franz Waxman, with songs by Waxman and Gus Kahn. Cast -Freddie Bartholomew, Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore, Melvyn Douglas, Charley Grapewin, Mickey Rooney, John Carradine and others.

MGM and all involved deserve nothing but cheers for Captains Courageous, a two-hour film packed with drama, heartthrobs and photography that will make your Adam's apple turn a few handsprings. To top it all off, the moguls in Hollywood, reversing the usual order of things, did not see fit to introduce any feminine appeal into the storywith the result that the pic contains no love angle in the usual sense, but is, nevertheless, an exhibitor's delight. Unless this reviewer is more than slightly screwy, Captains will prove a terrific box-office smash.

Opus opens with scenes portraying Harvey Cheyne, a child of 10, who, because of his fabulously wealthy father's easy ways, is rapidly developing a domineering, untrustworthy character. Child falls off an ocean liner, is picked up by Manuel, a dory fisherman, and brought aboard a Gloucester fishing boat. Confronted with a situation he cannot talk his way out of, Harvey settles down to the life of a fisherman and becomes the protege of Manuel. Racing for home with a full hold and every rag of canvas drawing, the rigging rips, the spars tear out of the boat, and Manuel, hopelessly crushed and tangled in the gear, drowns rather than have Harvey see him in his mutilated condition. Arriving in Gloucester, father is reunited with his changed son and persuades him to return to England by giving the child Manuel's dory.

Acting is tops, Barrymore and Tracy outstanding as Captain Disko and Manuel. Bartholomew, tho perhaps too cute, turns in an ace job. Fleming's direction is outstanding. Ackerman.

"Step Lively, Jeeves" (20TH CENTURY-FOX)

Time, 69 minutes. Release date, April 23. Directed by Eugene Forde. Based on the character created by P. G. Wodehouse. Cast—Arthur Treacher, Alan Dinehart, George Givot, John Harrington, Helen Flint, Patricia Ellis, Robert Kent and others.

The press sheet for Step Lively, Jeeves, in the spot reserved for authors, says only, "based on the character 'Jeeves' created by P. G. Wodehouse." On the screen the real authors names are given in a brief flash—to brief a flash to allow this slow-poke reporter to copy them and that's all. The conclusion is evident: the customers are supposed to think that the new picture was written by P. G. Wodehouse—which it most emphatically wasn't. It's a scheme that bears a striking family resemblance to the legendary sale of Brooklyn Bridge to Hiram Cow-

It might not be quite so bad if the character that bears the name of Jeeves had any faint resmblance to Mr. Wodehouse's creation. Arthur Treacher, who has played the real Jeeves, plays this one too; and that's about as close as it comes. For the buttling nincompoop created by the writers in Twentieth Century-Fox's writing factory is no more like the real Jeeves than a Twentieth Century-Fox scribbler is like a real writer.

It is the authors' quaint fancy to make this impostor the dumb decoy in a scheme concocted by a couple of conmen. The scheme is to sell him in America as the only true descendant and heir of Sir Francis Drake; and it it carried out with some success until the wife of a reformed racketeer, who wants to break into society, corrals the three of them. The racketeer himself becomes one of the suckers putting money on the phony descendant's hopes, and then, affairs, begins to get rough. As expected, however, nothing in particular happens to anybody. There's also a conventional boy-and-girl yarn dragged in by the teeth.

Yet the pitiful potpourr manages to be amusing enough, due almost entirely to the efforts of a really excellent cast, with Alan Dinehart and George Givot standing out as the conmen and John Harrington doing a good, solid job as the racketeer. It all might have been acceptable Class B rigmarole if it hadn't been for the attempt to pawn it off as Wodehouse. That's a trick unworthy even of the picture's own goofy conmen. Burr.

"The Man Who Found Himself"

(RADIO)

Release date, Time, 65 minutes. April 2. Director, Lew Landers. Screen play by J. Robert Bren, Edmund L. Hartman, G. V. Atwater and Thomas Lennon from story by Alice F. Curtis. Cast-John Beal, Joan Fontaine, Philip Houston, Jane Walsh, George Irving, James Conlin, Frank M. Thomas and others.

As an educational exhibit decisively illustrating just how dumb pix can be, The Man Who Found Himself is tops. Dialog at times reaches such a low level that the script seems an unintentional burlesque on yarns glorifying the medical profession. The whole business, however, is straight stuff, deadly serious, and perhaps good fodder for the subnormal.

Plot concerns Jim Stanton, physician with a yen for airplanes. One stormy night Jim tries to fly to Philadelphia with a girl who claims she wants to see her mother. Plane cracks up, girl dies and Stanton finds himself the center lovely. of a terrific scandal. Summoned before the medical board of his hospital, Stanton, after a quarrel with his father, head physician in the place, decides to quit the profession. Bums around, gets a job as an airplane mechanic and is taken in hand by a girl who has him transferred to the ambulance plane of the airport. Naturally he winds up a medico again.

Acting is wooden, but this perhaps is largely dependent on the trite dialog.

"Elephant Boy"

(UNITED ARTISTS)

Tilme, 80 minutes. Release date, April 23., Directors, Robert Flaherty and Zoltan Korda. Based on Rudyard Kipling's "Toomai of the Elephants." Screen play by John Collier. Cast—Sabu Allen Jeayes, Bruce Gordon, D. Williams and Hyde White.

No women. No romantic love plot. Still Elephant Boy draws a full house of men, women and children. The attractions are Toomai, an Indian lad about 12 years old, and elephants. Unreeling more like a believe-it-or-not news feature than a piece of fiction, the picture traces a child's dream to become a jungle hunter to its crystallization. Maybe Toomai is unusually young to have become a master of elephant jungles, but he is as plausible as any of the tales brought back by the Johnsons and Frank Buck.

When the English hunter enlists recruits for his inland expedition to bag a herd of elephants, the gracious youngster joins the party as mascot, working and playing with his father's prize elephant in a nimble and casual manner which should make some of our much publicized animal trainers envious. Rather than pack the ensuing picture with a hodge-podge of adventures of Mr. Peterson and the natives, the directors wisely select two interdependent episodes, build them up carefully and without the usual blare of trumpets to as thrilling a climax as hunt movies have produced.

First there was the death of Toomai's father by an invading tiger. Fearful lest his only earthly companion, the elephant, would be shot for having thrown a new master assigned to it as required by jungle justice, the boy flees camp. In his wanderings thru underbrush and jungle marsh which were a bit tamed, he comes upon the wild elephant lair and enjoys their cavorting which coincides with elephant legends. The remainder of the picture is simply a parade of elephants which would certainly enhance any circus bill. The con-when he finds out the true state of current featuring of the Ringling-Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus a few blocks away may account for some of this picture's popularity, but it is great diversion in itself.

"Quality Street" (RKO-RADIO)

Time, 84 minutes. Release date, March 26. From the novel of James Directed by George Stevens and produced by Pandro S. Berman. Cast—Katherine Hepburn, Franchot Tone, Eric Blore, Fay Bainter, Cora Witherspoon and others.

Barrie's fragile story of the supersecluded yet romantically inclined sisters has turned out as a slow-starting but a quaintly entrancing whimsy as a whole, that is sure to rate beguiled chuckles of appreciation from a limited number of Barrie admirers and a general vote of adequacy from the average film fan. The reason for a not more popular appeal must be laid to the peculiarity of the dated, hyper-noble romantics of the vehicle which to us moderns would seem stretched to the point of nausea, and not to the film adaptation of the book or to the capable performances of the cast. The perhaps not the most aptly chosen set of players, yet they eked as much as ordinarily possible out of difficult-to-express characters.

Miss Hepburn has had stronger, more sympathetic and more charming roles, yet she combines all three here most happily in the demands of her multiple assignment as the sensitive, primly hopeful young girl, the poignant creature she became in her old-maidish interlude, and the bravely carried off coquetry of her masquerade. To be cheered is the subduing of Miss Hepburn's strikingly unique characteristics of speech and face so that in many shots she actually looks Franchot Tone neither sparkles nor disappoints, but gives a stolid, uninspired performance which at no time could be termed thoroly convincing.

Earle, Philadelphia

(Reviewed Friday Afternoon, April 9)

Less than a month back Ted Lewis was doctoring the jazz for the hoity-toity who inhabit the Arcadia, town's hightariff spa. Now he sells his home-made sunshine to the masses, with peanuts for the giveaways. While an outstanding vet in show biz, it was a first-see for most of the kids who clutter up the house on opening day. After 45 minutes he had the well-filled house neatly tucked in his pocket.

Back with the same band of 14 caught on his earlier trip here, excepting that their jackets are now red instead of green. Boys give all for the maestro and, for the most part, too loud. Five brasses are wide open, making for an uncomfortable din to the auditors. And in spite of a good p.-a. system for the singers, blasting of trumpets and trombones made the efforts of the Radio Aces, male vocal trio, feeble. Threesome blend their pipes in top manner and should be heard.

Lewis parts the sheet with a sentimental medley rhapsodizing that Music Is Magic. Quickens the pace with Tiger Rag; warbles a bit to the tune of You're My Thrill, bringing on Lita Lede, a looker, for a tap session; following with Charles (Snowball) Whittier, sepia sender, who stops the show with mugging and tapping tactics. Aided and abetted on this turn by a trio of sepia steppers, the Hi-Hatters.

Marty Drake, who with the Stone freres makes up the Radio Aces, have their inning with a pash pop, Ruth Day joining Miss Lede to enhance the turn with pleasing pirouetting. Lewis is back with a memo of yesteryear, On the Sunny Side of the Street, and then tries his hand at mugging with the band, all serving as a build for Dark Eyes.

Miss Day, also in the looker class, adds some classy tap terps; Lewis licks the licorice stick for the Handy classic; and then, with Whittier, revives his own Me and My Shadow classic, the Hi-Hatters topping it with a soft-shoe sender.

When the Duncan Sisters showed here here at 17 minutes. She earned many front pews were treated to doughnuts. Lewis figures you can satisfy more with peanuts. Earle mob almost stormed the stage for the nuts. With order resumed Lewis again takes command with I'm the Leader of the Band, closing with Until the Real Thing Comes Along.

125th street theater corporation and manager found guilty of indecent performance—license to be revoked -police to make thoro drive against all theaters

NEW YORK, April 10.—Local burlesque theaters are on the spot as the result of the conviction Thursday in Special Sessions Court of the corporation and manager of Minsky's Gotham Theater for giving an indecent performance. License Department reveals that the theater's license is automatically revoked, but that a hearing will be held early next week. Encouraged by the conviction, the police are going further in their drive against the field. To make it even tougher for the field the police intend prosecuting the landlord of the Gotham Theater on the grounds that a landlord is responsible for the tenant. It is generally felt in cityhall circles that the recent widespread publicity given burlesque caused all authorities to co-operate fully for a conviction against the Gotham.

Justices Lawrence T. Gresser, Thomas F. Boyle and Nathan D. Perlman ruled the Burley Amusement Corporation and Samuel Kraus, corporation and manager, respectively, of the Gotham, guilty of giving an indecent performance, setting April 16 as the date for sentence. The case dates back to August 27 last year, when John S. Sumner, secretary of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, filed the complaint. Since that time the case has been adjourned on many occasions, but Thursday's trial went off with startling speed. The judges made no comment, first denying motions for dismissal and then pronouncing the verdict.

The witnesses for the defense included Tom Phillips, head of the Burlesque Artists' Association; patrons of the Gotham and employees of the theater, including the ork leader, electrician, booth operator, stage manager and three performers, Muriel Lord, Roxanne Sand and Jewel Sothern. Witnesses against the theater were Sumner and his assistant, Charles Bamberger.

Meeting Held on BAA-Hirst Tiff

NEW YORK, April 10.—On the heels of a special meeting held last Sunday midnight at the Union Church here, the Burlesque Artists' Association wired Issy Hirst, head of the Independent Circuit, Wednesday that the organization's executive board will meet on the contracts soon and following that arrangements will be made for a joint meeting with Hirst. This wire was in answer to one sent by Hirst in which he asked for contracts for the new season.

The special meeting Sunday midnight, which 300 performers attended, was called primarily as a result of a controversy between Hirst and Tom Phillips, head of the BAA. The meeting was general, there being several debates, and at the windup the members tendered a vote of confidence to its officers. Philly Clergymen Take Slap at Burly

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.-A preliminary report of Mayor Wilson's Crime Commission, composed of local clergymen and headed by Rabbi Louis Wolsey, hits the local burly shows in pointing out a relationship between the increase in sex crimes and "of vicious burlesque shows regularly billed in certain of our theaters." The report was a general statement which mentioned no specific names or incidents to support the allegations, but informed that "the commission has made a preliminary investigation of charges against such stands and such shows that confirm the charges."

Mayor Wilson promised an investigation of all charges made by the Crime Commission. Hardly probable that the town's liberal leader will resort to raiding tactics, but will rather call in the burly managers for a round robin, first making a friendly request that they tone down the comics and subdue the strips.

Performers will get free lodging in rooms over the theater. There will be a bar and dancing between two shows nightly. Moe Costello, now managing the Casino, will manage the summer spot.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Frank Illo conferred with the Burlesque Artists' Association this week with reference to the $414.50 due performers from the Lyric, Bridgeport, Conn. No decision arose played the house. There is a difference the shortage.

An unusually impressive offering was turned in by the stately Miss Kelly, a platinum blonde who should go far in the biz. She has class and works with welcome smoothness. is on for one sketch, Snyder for two and Country and Brenna for two. Funniest and bluest of all is the hotel scene featuring the latter team.

While there's nothing elaborate about the production numbers, they are well dressed, the girls flashily costumed and the routines nicely staged. A line of 15 gals and six show beauties are used, and on a couple of occasions are combined for added effect. This is particularly true in the Plenty of Money number, in which all the girls do a flashy tambourine dance.

Romaine, interpretative and symbolic dancer, got most of the play among the white women principals, appearing some three times. Has a likable modesty and charm. Diane Rowland, blonde, and Barbara Doane, brunet, complete the list of temp exciters. Techniques are expert, the girls taking care to give the peeling an arty touch.

Sandwiched in the bill are two novelties, Petey Burns, harmonica player, who also does a turn with spoons and winds up tapping, and a boxing match between two of the colored girls. Burns' stuff is regulation vaude, clicking okeh, and the gals contribute a bit of fun. Fine, in addition to his comedy work, also contributes a fair tap. By far the outstanding woman among the talkers is Markey Wood, gal who is spotted thruout the sketches. George Tuttle sings the show nicely, his renditions of Jeannine and Lilac Time coming over particularly well. PAUL ACKERMAN.

Harry Hunsinger, former Clevelander, turned professional, appeared as added attraction at the Roxy, burlesque stand, and Evans Brown was at the Club Royal. Howard Brooks appeared at the Vogue Room in the Hotel Hollenden for a brief stay, closing as the others opened. Brown continues at the Club Royal.

MAGICIAN (sawing woman in half): "Now after the young lady is severed in two her brain will go to science and the rest of her thrown to the dogs.

VOICE (from the gallery): "Woof, woof." (Anon.)

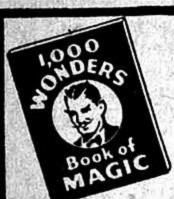

VERY OFTEN engagements that look lucrative in print don't pan out so soundly at the final checkup. The fact that a magician is booked into what has all the earmarks of a swanky spot doesn't always mean that he's knee-deep in greenbacks. As one Ohio magish explains it: "I have been offered some 'good' dates at some fine hotel cocktail lounges at the 'big' fee of $100 per week less a liberal commission, which usually means 20 per cent. With travel expenses, hotel bills, etc., a fellow can't do so well on such dates. I would rather play individual dates at a fair stipend and with much less expense."

AL SAAL, Toledo sleight-of-hand artist, continues to maintain a busy schedule. Last week he played the Toledo Club, Toledo; a church show near Oak Harbor, O.; St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Toledo, and the Dorr Exchange Club, Waldorf Hotel, Toledo. Among the engagements he has slated for this week and next are the Toledo Life Underwriters; the Eagles, Tiffin, O.; Kellogg Inn, Battle Creek, Mich.; Purchasing Agents at the Waldorf Hotel, Toledo, and the Lions' Club State Convention at the Secor Hotel, Toledo.

"HAD THE PLEASURE," writes Bert Williams from Danville, Ill., under date of April 6, "of catching the Nemar Show, playing the Kiwanis Club Dental Clinic show here four nights. They have a beautiful show and in four nights showed to a little more than 3,000 people. They are here for two more nights, with probably a holdover for Monday.

Daily Vindicator April 7. Leedy is on The Vindicator staff. In addition to outlining Leedy's various callings and hobbies, the article tells how he broke into show business and the newspaper field.

PRINCESS YVONNE, prominent mentalist, began a cross-country tour last week with a three-day engagement at the Ritz Theater, Oaklyn, N. J., where she was the feature stage attraction.

JOHNNY PLATT, who opened at the Hotel Texas, Fort Worth, March 31, was held up over there a second week. He worked in the floor show and later did close-up work at the tables. Drew a nice lot of publicity during his Fort Worth stay.

KARL ALZARA, mentalist. is still working windows in department stores thru South Carolina.

OTIS MANNING is doing a new effect which he has labeled Jo-eL. He has just finished working four swanky dinner dates in Detroit and is now headed for Cincinnati and Washington.

JANTCZEN advises that Jack Davis, magician and side-show man, will take to the road this season with a string of Jantczen's original illusions. Show was slated to leave Chicago April 12.

MARQUIS THE MAGICIAN, now touring Ohio, infos that he has eight weeks of bookings in the East, after which he will prepare a special summer unit for Peter J. Iodice, Detroit booker, to play Michigan. Marquis had a number of magical visitors during his recent engagement at the State Theater, Fostoria, O., among them Caro (Cig) Miller, the late Marilyn Miller's dad.

GRADY S. NICHOLSON'S recent engagement at the Capitol Hill Lions' Club, Oklahoma City, brought him plentiful publicity in the three localnewspapers, including a two-column action picture in The Oklahoma City Times showing him presenting The Floating Sledge Hammer. As a result of the plugs, Grady received a number of other club dates in that territory.

THE POPULATION of Marshfield, Mo., gathered in the school gym there recently to be rendered gaping and breathless at the anticipated spectacle of a magician—but they went away sadly disappointed, for the Great So-and-So was unable to perform his sensational feats of magic, due to his inebriated condition. According to reports, he was taken out of town and it is not thought likely that he will return there again. The magician's coworkers explained that they had always found him dependable, but the Marshfield Lions' Club, which had sponsored his appearance, thought otherwise. They had sponsored, advertised and glorified the magus for half the proceeds of his scheduled two-night performance. Just write your own tag line. Imagine another and legitimate magician trying to play that same town, or even the same territory, in the future! It's what magicians mean when they say that the "territory has been burned up."

HARRY HUNSINGER, who recently closed a week's engagement at the Roxy Theater, Cleveland, will shortly rejoin the Sharpstein Comedy Company, with which he toured last season.

W. C. (DORNY) DORNFIELD jumped into Oklahoma City April 7 to emsee a convention show. McDonald Birch and Company played an engagement in the same town a day before.

THE 27TH ANNUAL minstrels under auspices of the Kain Club, South Wheeling, W. Va., will be presented at the Ritchie Public School Auditorium there April 15 and 16. Tom Bycott, who has been identified with minstrelsy in the Upper Ohio Valley for many years, along with Robert Manion, Louis Musilli and "Buch" Orloska, will be featured. Annual show is one of the most ambitious minstrel efforts in that section.

DIXIE DANDY MINSTRELS, New Orleans WPA unit, headed by Jimmy Cooper, well-known old-time endmah, moved out of the Crescent City last week for the first engagement of the season. Troupe will play Arkansas, East Texas and Louisiana. New costumes, scenery and props have been provided.

F. S. WOLCOTT'S Rabbit Foot Company and Huntington's Mighty Minstrels have combined for the 1937 season, which got under way at Jackson, Miss., April 12. Aaron Gates and Sammy Green have staged the show, and Jack Slack, Frank (Dusty) Tansel, Sammy Green and Jimmy Jones are handling the comedy. John S. Evans and G. T. Copeland are in advance.

ALL FULL-FLEDGED minstrels are requested by Prof. Walter Brown Leonard, of 144 Linn street, Ithaca, N. Y., to send him the biographical data on themselves. The biographies will be printed in this column from time to time. Information should include date and place

Elitch Garden Plans

DENVER, April 10.—Arnold Gurtler, president of the Elitch Gardens stock theater, left Denver for New York to select players and buy plays for the 1937 season of the Elitch summer stock company. Gurtler said before he left he would make an effort to get released for production at his theater the play Sun Kissed, playing currently on Broadway.

Gurtler will also secure George Somnes, who directed at Elitch last summer, to return again this year, if he is available in time for the opening, which has been scheduled for June 12.

Additional Night Club Reviews

400 Club, Wichita, Kan.

This spot, furnished in the club style but operating on the ballroom plan, is Wichita's bid to State honors as tops.

It is doing a stand-up business, open seven nights a week, drawing the better class trade. A fine balance is maintained for this blue law State. Dancing is the mainstay, with a midnight floor show using one act and the band furnishing balance of show.

Club features novelty nights, including bingo, carnival, sweepstakes, dance and amateur contests.

Bands are carefully judged before bookings, as customers are quick to fluff a mediocre outfit. The 400 Club has grown to be the largest buyer of name attractions for a night spot in the State. Club seats 750. KFH, local CBS station, is 400's outlet nightly.

Herbie Holmes' 11-piece band and two singers held the shell when reviewed. Holmes has an unusually smooth outfit, airwaving like a million dollars, with smart accent to tunes. Uses four saxes, three brass and four rhythm, with Billy Rives and Nancy Hutson on vocals. Works electro-guitar and celeste hard. This is the band's third session at the 400, breaking previous house records each time.

Show opened with Holmes and band doing humorous bits, followed by Nancy Hutson in Dixie-accent pop songs. Show closed with drummer Chuck Hurley on comic set kicking St. Louis Blues fast. Well received by full house.

The 400 Club is owned by Joe Landwehr and managed by Eddie McKean, ex-band leader. Operates on admission and food revenue, Kansas prohibiting liquor or gambling. Pliny Castanien.

Club Variety, New York

One of the few vestiges in night clubs from the pre-repeal days, this low-ceilinged dimly lighted basement spot, run by Julius Roth and Jimmy Sophie, holds on tenaciously, with or without intention, to every aspect of that nefarious period when venture into such a place was fraught with a sense of adventure and preparedness for the worst.

A 40-minute bill comprising five acts, a six-girl line and an emsee is offered twice or three times nightly, the frequency varying with the attendance. Talent is generally composed of hopeful but far from primed youngsters, making for shows that abound in earnest but usually futile efforts. Shows or individual talent are changed indiscriminately for, the practically on Broadway, patronage is far from discriminating and repeaters are

Jack Laurie is in his second month here as emsee and currently his encomiums fall upon Frankie Paige, a tenoring youngster addicted to pop tunes, and also upon Mary Harris, a young lady whose lusty blues singing of My Last Affair, Gentleman From Down South and La Bomba was accomplished in a fearless, sibilant shouting fashion. Buddy Pryor got an encouraging hand for energetic tapwork but has a lot to overcome in his awkward, unpolished style. Gypsy Nina offered a semi-nude number, undulating and hiptossing till she shed a superfluous skirt and wound up the ensuing veil dance with a quickie in the altogether. Vera St. Claire attempted an Oriental interpretation with the aid of bell castanets, hip-weaving and mournful Asiatic orchestral accompaniment. Result is pretty poor dancing and a weak illusion.

Headliner Roy Gobey, making his night club debut, comes fortified with radio experience of a sort, having aired three or four times weekly over WMCA for some time. Displayed a dramatic baritone of no unusual beauty, and the best that can be said in its favor is its virility. It is Arabella, Rich & Mario (Casino Parisien) Chi, apparent he depends on debatable dramatic appeal rather than quality of rendition. He also interspersed his two offerings, Goodnight, My Love, and Pennies From Heaven, with dramatic recitations.

Tubby Brave and his men dish out all of the music, an assignment that, for sheer effrontery, labels him as living up George Colson. to his name.

Harry's New York Cabaret, Chicago

Girly shows reign supreme at Harry's New York Cabaret, popular nitery operated by Charlie Hepp. With the exception of the emsee, all performers are young shapely girls who know a hot step and can do the bumps with the best of them.

A 30-minute revue, repeated four times nightly, with routines changed at every performance. A line of eight beauties opens the show with an Indian number, singling out Peggy Palmer in an acro turn. Charlotte VanDee, soubret, is next to tease the customers with a Mr. Carpenter ditty and a high-kick and bumps dance routine. Nice hand.

Phelps Twins, cute blondes, harmonize with Let's Go Slumming, and to strains of Go Harlem do a nice rhythm tap dance. Patty Palmer, "undressed" in a silvery skirt, comes on for a Hawaiian number that nets a good hand. Betty Castle, vivacious and shapely bundle of personality, scores with a fast rhythm dance. Girl is a hard worker.

Sally Osman, throaty-voiced blonde, gives a mild version of Martha Raye warbling Mr. Paganini and Yeah, Man. Trade liked her. Marion Morgan, striptease artist, rated attention with a brief but neat bit of unrobing. Strips in a nightgown.

Tommy Jones, "the millionaire cowboy," makes a personable emsee. Has a winning smile and a voice of quality. Made a hit offering It's a Sin to Tell a Lit, The Last Round-Up and Lights Out.

Line closes the bill with the popular Susi-Q. Austin Mack and his six-piece band furnish the dance and show music. Also broadcast nightly over CBS.

No cover charge here, with food prices reasonable. Table capacity is 175, with room for another 50 at the bar. Charles Mikuta is the headwaiter, pleasant and always ready to serve.

Sam Honigberg.

This department of The Biliboard is conducted as a clearing house, where readers may express their views concerning current amusement matters. Opinions regarding particular shows or acts will not be considered. Neither will attention be given on this page to communications in which personal problems are discussed. Letters must be signed with the full name and address of the writer and should be written on one side of the paper. Those not exceeding 800 words are preferred. Send communications to The Forum. The Billboard, Box 872, Cincinnati, O.

Milton, Mass. In its issue of March 31 The Boston Morning Post in an editorial commented upon The Billboard's recent long article about salaries in regular legitimate productions, together with so-called actors of the WPA. The Post sums up everybody what else already knows - that most of those on the WPA theater rolls never have been experienced actors but are amateurs who by hook or crook have gotten on to this branch of government relief. Every producer, play publisher, professional actor and actress and any manager who has the theater at heart should get busy and have this blight on show business abolished. This can be done by letters to congressmen and senators, telling them of the true condition of this racket. This sort of work has no place in relief and is bringing show business to a low level. I hope The Billboard will keep after this matter until we have seen the last of it. Show business is in bad enough shape without introducing government activities that bring only more misery into the RICHARD T. GRAHAM. business.

Sees No Place In Relief for Show Business

Uhrichsville, O. In reference to a Forum letter by Mysterious Howard, from Alabama, and entertainers working schools for eggs and pennies, I fear Howard is worried un-

this year and many theaters; in fact, I have covered 11 States the past year, and for the past four years I have worked for kids exclusively. Cutthroat competition originates in the cities where movie managers start to cut prices, and today there are thousands of theater men kicking themselves because they have educated the kids to a 5-cent program for Saturday matinees. And when managers couldn't cut prices any lower they added, a new feature, making a two-feature program besides a comedy. Last week I ran into two theaters, each in a different city, that sponsored and put in a bank-night matinee for kids. When the prize is not drawn it is doubled up for the next week. It puts me in mind of a movie I saw 30 years ago in a tank in Kansas when they operated with gas and a dime show consisted of one reel, The Great Train Robbery. Anyway, the film was old and torn every 15 feet, and at the finish the operator made this announcement: "Ladies and gentlemen, because of my poor showing tonight of The Train Robbery, if you will come back tomorrow night I'll give you three whole spools." Stick to the dime, partner. F. D. WHETTEN.

Mount Airy, N. C. I have been reading for some years in trade journals and newspapers of the many and unjust tactics used by theater managers or so-called managers in keeping out reputable outdoor shows.

Theater Man Favors Aiding Outdoor Shows To me these managers (?) are not showmen, regardless of how big the city or how small the village. The writer numbers his friends in the outdoor show business by the hundreds. Have trouped on the road and worked in theatrical business all my life. Know nearly all the executives of the big shows, as well as the rep and tent shows. Anyone of these men can tell you that I have always been ready and willing to be of any help I could to them in the event they were playing in my town. Instead of trying to keep them out I worked with them and in every instance gained the good will of the public, and the show worked with me whole-heartedly. We both gained. Why cannot these chains and others be showmen and learn? We are all in the same business and when we all work together it means better conditions and, above all, money for us all. I could mention names in the outdoor world that I have worked with as my competitors but do not think it necessary. P. A. BOONE.

This was done simply by showing an interest in the situation and presenting the tent shows' side. During the past few weeks I have been busy with the Legislature of California in blocking the proposed drastic legislation providing for a $250 per day license to the State for any traveling amusement playing outside a theater. I, therefore, know that a great deal can be accomplished along this line if taken up in the proper way, and I believe this can be done better if taken up by an individual rather than by a tent-show organization and known as such. I do not know whether one person could cover the entire United States working along this line without considerable expense. I have had in mind a plan to organize the tent-show people playing the 11 Western States and contacting the legislative bodies in the States, counties and cities with a view of equalizing the license fees and making them proportionate with the theater license; but it was necessary that something be done at once regarding the proposed

California license and therefore have

HOMER H. EDWARDS.

Gowen City, Pa. Replying to a letter from Fred R. Pursel in The Forum of March 20, I beg to advise that I am not the man who played in Sidetracked. The star of that attraction was Jules Walters. At the time of which Mr. Pursel writes I was playing vaudeville. I congratulate Mr. Pursel on his excellent memory regarding old-time shows. I was familiar with all of them. I knew Hardy and Von Leer in On the Frontier, and Porter J. White was a personal friend of mine, as is his playwright brother, Oliver White. I agree with Mr. Pursel on the real Bohemian spirit and brotherly love oldtimers had for one another. If one had it, we all had it. Performers of today will never see the theater as it was, nor are they as versatile as oldtimers. We had to learn everything from acrobatic, song and dance to Shakespeare. I am in receipt of a letter from Nat LeRoy, grand oldtimer and a brilliant writer. He supplied many headline artists with salary-raising material. Another correspondent mentions Eva Tanguay, who was a native of Holyoke, Mass. I first met her about 1896, when I was with a Healy & Bigelow Kickapoo medicine company in Worcester, Mass. It was the largest medicine show that ever organized. Two doctors, Ira E. Newball and J. Parker Campbell, are both gone. We had a band and orchestra, 15 Indians, 12 cowamusements. While boys, 12 head of running stock for flat races between cowboys and Indians, eight good vaudeville performers, including Billy Wood, Eddie Reed and his bag-punching dogs; George Lirem, comic singer; Vic Richards; Tom and Lottie Waters: John Del Vecho and Madam Zoa, slide for life, who later drowned in Curtis Bay, Md., while performing. Bertram and Willard's production of The Engineer was playing a week's engagement at the Park Theater in Worcester during my 17 weeks there and I saw a matinee performance. Eva Tanguay was soubrette and sang the song, Daddy's on the Engine, Do Not Be Afraid. Vaudeville of today is a sorry thing compared to the vaudeville of her TOM WATERS. time and my time.

> Chicago. I have been interested in letters in The Forum concerning legal adjusters > of circuses and especially enjoyed that of my friend James J. Brown in The Forum of February 27. He enumerated quite a number

Puts Kellogg In Top Class With Adjusters of adjusters, past and present, but I was very much surprised to note that he had neglected to include the name of our mutual good friend Bill Kellogg, of Indianapolis. Bill's name was always in the top brackets in his line. Of course, I realize this was an oversight.

What Is Swing, Anyway?

MUSICIANS think they have a new fetish. They don't know what it is, but they are cashing in on it anyway. It is called "swing music," a vague commodity which has attained a definite monetary value despite its intangibility.

Various definitions have been vouchsafed, the general impression being that either musicians disagree as to what the term means or that they are trying to define musical practices and theories that always have been the common knowledge of all professional dance orchestras. These incongruities notwithstanding, the boys simply forget their definitions when they sit down to play, with the result that the music comes out according to Hoyle. This leads to one conclusion, i.e., the boys are full of hooey, haven't got much brains and are merely tangled up in the convolutions of musical metaphysics. When the saxophonist jiggles his toe, however, he manages okeh in spite of all the new-fangled swing literature.

Two of the foremost explanations of swing are (1) That it is a method of playing. (2) That it is a type of music. In either case the result is said to be the same; namely, music which freely creates and elaborates the primary melodic structure.

One illustration will suffice to knock this latest example of hoke into a cocked hat: Take a half-dozen old records of "St. Louis Blues" that were made before the myth of "swing" ever arose and, when compared with each other, they will illustrate the fact that "swing" is nothing new.

Perhaps "swing" began as a vapor issuing from a fellow whose brain worked only in three-quarter time.

Dorothy Kruse is in General Hospital, where she has undergone the third stage of the rib operation. Her condition is very satisfactory.

Dr. and Mrs. George Wilson, the former medical director of the W. R. M. H., left Saranac Lake last week for Pittsburgh on business.

The patients wish to express their sincere sympathy to Joseph Parker, who was called home to Jersey City last week because of his father's death.

Harold Rodner, W. R. M. H. executive, visited Lake Placid last week-end and paid a flying visit to the lodge to say "hello" to the patients.

Henry Wunsch is another who celebrated his birthday anniversary last week. He received some nice presents from his friends in Richmond, Va., and Saranac Lake. Henry is doing nicely. Jennie Grande is our latest guest-patient. She hails from New York and is much impressed with her new surroundings. She was formerly a member of Warner Bros.' staff in New York.

Another pal and trouper has passed out of our midst, Gladys Palmer. For details read Final Curtain this issue.

"Little Egypt"

Mrs. Farheda Spyropoulos, original Little Egypt of the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, died in her home in that city April 5. She was 65.

Mrs. Spyropoulos was said to have been the originator of the muscle dance in America, which shocked midway patrons in 1893 and became one of the chief things remembered about that exposition. Her dance, as Little Egypt, to the strains of a Turkish tune symbolic of that dance today spread thru the midways and side shows of the world. In 1905 Little Egypt, known then as Fahreda Mahzar, married Andrew Spyropoulos, Chicago restaurant owner. Her last public appearance was at the Century of Progress, Chicago, as Queen of the Midway.

Several had laid claim to the Little Egypt title and many previous reports of her death had been rumored. but Mrs. Spyropoulos had the documentary proof to show she was the original. She recently had sued a motion picture company for $25,000 damage to her name in the picture The Great Ziegfeld when it depicted Little Egypt as a nude dancer.

Plenty of Excellent Talent In Hagenbeck-Wallace Show

More than 3,000 attend opening, performance at Coliseum, Chicago, night of April 7—Ralph J. Clawson does fine job in building the organization

CHICAGO, April 10 .- With a surprisingly excellent show for its maiden performance, the newly organized Hagenbeck-Wallace and 4-Paw-Sells Bros. Combined Circus opened Wednesday night at the Coliseum. An audience of about 3,300 greeted the performance and registered its approval. Ralph J. Clawson, of the Ringling show, built the show from the ground up in little more than a month and he did a magnificent job of it. He brought the show in and supervised putting it in the building. He expects to return to New York tonight. Equipment presents a splendid appearance and the show itself has a world of good talent. Orrin Davenport, equestrian director, with years of experience to his credit, put the show thru at a remarkably fast clip considering the limited time available getting the equipment in place and rehearsing, and in another week he will have as smooth and fastmoving a show as one would care to see. Many experienced circus men remarked that the performance was the best for an opening show that they had ever seen in the Coliseum.

J. Frank Hatch, general manager, has been busy for several weeks arranging details of the opening engagement, and when seen after the first show he was very well pleased with the results. "We (See EXCELLENT TALENT on page 43)

Net Proceeds To Haag Fund

Mighty Haag Shows opened here April 6, it being the first time in two years that the show exhibited at Marianna.

The net proceeds of the two performances went to the "Ernest Haag Memorial Fund for the Unfortunate." At the evening performance Senator William H. Milton made a brief address on the fund and its achievements and Mayor B. L. Soloman bid farewell to the show on behalf of the city.

Among those with the show are Helen Haag, presenting elephant act; Myrtle McGuyre, aerialist; Raymond Duke, producing clown; Silverlake Trio; Norman Hanley, leader of band; Frank Ormier and Company, presenting the Wild West; Guy D. Smuck's Plantation Minstrels.

Acts With Seils-Sterling

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 10.—Some of the acts which will be with Seils-Sterling Circus, opening here April 16-17, auspices of Shrine, are Tokio Jap troupe of eight, acrobats and wire walkers; Lovina troupe of seven, teeterboard; Orville troupe of leapers, gymnasts and aerialists; Dellgado troupe of Mexicans, wire, aerial and acrobatic numbers; Flying Beckmans, four people, trapeze; Fred K. Leonard's horses; Erwin Klauder, lion act; Happy Starr, producing clown; Larry Hermann and Buddy Wedin. Arthur Mac Heller will again have the band.

W. Frank Fleming and Tiger Bill will be featured in the concert.

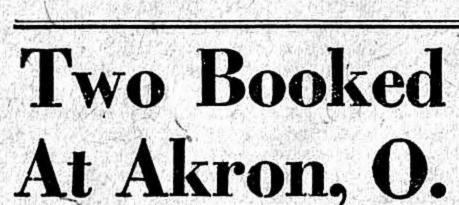

Christy's Experiences

OMAHA, April 10.—George W. Christy expects either flood or fire at the next town his unit plays. Here's why: The Christy show went to Hawaii last fall expecting to be back before Christmas. The shipping strike kept it there until February 23. Two days after the company did get back to San Francisco there was a minor earthquake. Last week Christy, his horses and his elephants blew into Omaha for the Shrine Circus and on their heels was the worst spring blizzard in years.

"I'll take fish and poi over this earmuff country every time," said Christy, "even the that Hawaiian trip cost me plenty."

Social Security Act

Questions and Answers on the Social Security Act will be found in the carnival department.

Hagenbeck - Wallace and Tom Mix to play there six days apart—no paper yet

AKRON, O., April 10.—Two circuses have been granted permits to exhibit here in less than a week apart, indicating that this busy industrial section of the country will be the mecca of rail and motorized shows during the early spring.

The Tom Mix Circus will show here April 28, the earliest on record for a MARIANNA, Fla., April 10. - The circus here in more than 20 years. On May 4 the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus will appear here. Neither show has paper up as yet.

> Several other Ohio stands, most of them regular H-W stops, have been contracted by the Hagenbeck show. It likely will spend considerable time in this territory next month owing to the peak operations in steel and other factories allied with the automobile industry.

The Mix show, it is said, also will pick up many of the larger industrial towns in Ohio and Western Pennsylvania.

Rain Spoils Rodeo Day at Peru, Ind.

PERU, Ind., April 10.—Rodeo Day here, April 4, brought out a crowd of 9,000, who occupied blues around three-ring arena in the open but who scattered when it rained as matinee was getting under way. Walter Reardon and Robert DeLochte were in charge of main gate wagon and were busy until storm broke at 2:30.

Concession stands in charge of Mel Hamlen; Red Ball, assistant; George Peck, checker and buyer; Tony Pulcher, eating stand; assistant, Robert (Goldie) Spriggs; Joe Thomas, No. 2 stand; John Kilpatrick, candy floss; Arky Wood, No. 3 stand; Harry Phillips, penny machine; Frank Miller, concessions; Sam DeLano and Johnny Ritchie, seat butchers.

JIM WHALEN, boss canvasman of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, and Eddie Vaughan, in the legal department of the show.

Turney Looks For Good Season

CINCINNATI, April 10.-D. E. Turney, manager of Tom Mix Circus, in commenting on conditions for this season,

"Judging from our first five days" business I will readily say that it appears that we should have a very good season. We had two very fine show days in Birmingham and our business was big. Have had two days of rain, but business was very satisfactory. We had our coldest day of season at Huntsville, Ala., April 6, but it turned out to be our very best day to date.

"In my opinion our greatest worry will be the prevailing strike condition, which is most apt to affect any territory for any of the shows. With two new railroad shows on the road I believe it will create more interest with the public and the reputable shows will benefit by this."

Russell Bros.' Show Readying for Opening

ROLLA, Mo., April 10.—Preparations are rapidly taking form for the opening of the season by Russell Bros.' Circus in Rolla April 15. The show's opening each spring amounts to a local holiday and indications are that this year will be no exception.

New arrivals are appearing in increasing numbers each day. While various favorites of last season will be back, there will be many new faces among those awaiting their cues at the back door when Equestrian Director Fred Ledgett blows the initial whistle.

The big top and all the other tents will be erected at the fairgrounds next Monday, the cookhouse will start functioning under canvas and rehearsals will get under way.

James Patterson, of The Kansas City Star staff, spent a day in quarters recently and obtained material and photos for a feature story which appeared in last Sunday's edition.

Advance Staff Seils-Sterling

Arthur W. Miller general agent—two 2-ton trucks replace semi-trailer

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 10. - The staff of the advance and publicity department of the Seils-Sterling Circus includes Arthur W. (Art) Miller, general agent; F. Robert Saul, general press representative; W. J. Page, manager advertising cars; J. Eddie Holmes, contracting agent; Pearl Lake, manager opposition car; Robert S. Shippy, brigade agent.

The 24-foot semi-trailer that has been in use on show seasons of 1934-'36 will not be used as the general advertising car this season. Two 2-ton trucks with special constructed bodies will be used instead. One will be 12 days ahead and one eight days ahead. A one-ton '37 Ford V-8 will be used for the opposition car. A steam paste cooker that was carried on the semi the last season proved to be impracticable for a motorized advance.

The following have been signed to work off the No. 2 car 12 days ahead: Clifton Sowash, boss billposter; Virgil Jones, boss lithographer; Johnnie Thronahn, billposter; Joe Hritz, lithographer; George Lewison, billposter; Marvin Lumberg, lithographer; Charlie Payne, billposter; Mike Burdge, lithographer.

On No. 3 car, eight days ahead: Happy Hartman, boss billposter; Freddie Page, boss lithographer; Roy Roberts, billposter; Larry Denofree, F. H. Gladney, billposters. The Central Show Printing Company has arranged several new styles of paper.

Silver To Open April 20

PETERSBURG, Va., April 10.—Silver Bros.' Circus will take to road April 20. Show will have new seats; Side-Show top, wall, banners, etc. A lion has been bought for Side Show. Fred and Marie Guthrie have been contracted for bigshow performance, also E. C. Biggerstaff. Al Kadel will again have band of seven Charles Sinsel will be contracting agent with two men billing. A special line of very flashy paper will be used. Karl Annon will be back on show assisting Manager Sam Dock.

Antes Again With Russell

EVANSVILLE, Wis., April 10.—William B. (Bill) Antes will again be with Russell Bros.' Circus as press agent back. His wife will handle tax box at front

Karsh With Hagenbeck

CINCINNATI, April 10. — Leonard Karsh, who has been auditor on the Al G. Barnes Circus for a number of years, is with Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus in the same capacity.

THE LaPEARLS, after closing the building engagements with Cole Bros.' Circus, will again join Walter L. Main Circus for the season. In New York they lived in their modern, streamlined housecar at 41st street near Broadway in a parking lot. Papers took pictures of car and carried stories. Loretta LaPearl also received press notices as a woman clown being a novelty in New York. Bert Cole and other old friends visited the La-Pearls.

Tattooing Saves Wright

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—Henry Wright, 40, former trouper, now a cook, has his tattooing to thank for avoiding unreasonable jailing this week. A question mark on his forehead, stars on his ears, diamonds on his cheeks, a heart on his chin and snakes on his arms, Wright was falsely arrested on Canal street, main stem, for loitering. When the recorder in court saw his drawing Wright was immediately apologized to and set free at once.

"There is no doubt that this fellow is real oldtimer of the side shows," the recorder exclaimed. "Dismissed."

SHOWING NINE TRUCKS and one sedan recently sold by Charles T. Goss, of Standard Chevrolet Company, East St. Louis, Ill., to the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus. These will be used on the advance in addition to the regular railroad cars for the advance department.

Meetings are held every other week, the last one being held March 30 at the Keenan Hotel. Ralph Kistler is manager of hotel, therefore they are well taken care of. Roster of Tent: Horace S. Moses, boss canvasman; Clifford Borgmann, boss hostler; John Hoak, secretary; Fred Becker, historian; Ralph Kistler, superintendent cookhouse; Carl E. Schafer, manager kid show. The "Great Howland Circus and Side Show," of South Bend, usually shows up on meeting days as an added attraction.

Clifford Borgmann has made several trips this spring to Rochester and Peru winter quarters. Borgmann's hobby is baggage stock and he is known to almost every long-line driver in the business.

Fred Becker and Horace Moses and his son, Richard, attended the Hagenbeck-Wallace Rodeo at Peru. State there was a fine crowd present, but a driving rain started at opening of the performance, thinning the crowd down to real circus fans. Don Howland and family, of South Bend; Burt Wilson and Bill Sneed, of Chicago, were Fans seen on the lot.

Capacity Houses For Barnes Show

LOS ANGELES, April 10 .- The Al G. Barnes-Sells-Floto Combined Circus, after having had a tough break in weather for a few days, is doing big. resume of business: Glendale, April 2, two capacity houses; Long Beach, April the lot, keen as ever about his first 3 and 4, two capacity matiness, two night straw houses; opening in Hollywood at Fairfax and Sixth, April 5, capacity matinee, straw night house; April 6, capacity matinee and turnaway at night. Program now cut to two hours.

The concert is doing the best business' ever, and Duke Drukenbrod, manager of Side Show, stated he was much ahead of last season. He has added an illusion, specially built for Tiny Marie Winters. Also in the Annex, Lou-Lucille is a feature. Pete Staunton, inside lecturer, is meeting many former California friends, he being a Los Angeles resident for some years.

Inadvertently omitted from notes on the opening, the Avalon-Matlock wire act, the Ross and the Papes aerial perch acts and the Cochran Duo on mobile ladders.

Many Visitors

As usual, the backyard in Hollywood was daily the working spot for studio and newsreel cameramen, also the pickout shots of celebrities in the audience; Jane Withers noted having intimate shots with the feature acts. Others were Wallace Beery, who is a regular each year; Edw. G. Robinson and party, Zasu Pitts, Paula Stone, Jack Benny, Richard Tucker, Lewis Stone, Pat O'Brien; Bill Newberry, manager Wallace Beery; Harry Carlisle. Dr. Paul Niehans, of Berne. Act of Main Is Remembered

CINCINNATI, April 10 .- The following appeared in The Decatur Daily, Decatur, Ala., April 1:

"The act of a kind-hearted circus owner back in 1895 has been remembered for 42 years by two local citizens, A. E. Reed and A. N. Nave, clerks at Lyons Hotel. And this week they had the pleasure of seeing the man again who befriended them when they were kids and enjoying a long chat.

"When the Walter Main Circus, here the night of April 9, played Pulaski, Tenn., in 1895 the Reed and Nave youngsters set out to see it in a buggy.

"The glamour of sawdust and spangles was in the air, and the kids were in a high state of excitement. So excited, in fact, they lost the money their parents had given them for tickets. This awesome discovery was made when they reached the circus lot. What to do? To miss the show would be tragedy indeed. Youthful heads went together in a conference and a decision was made. They appealed to a circus employee. He in turn called Walter Main, the owner. Mr. Main promptly escorted the boys into the show as his guests.

"Messrs. Reed and Nave recognized Mr. Main when he was here this week and recalled the incident to him. The circus owner remembered it and the three had a jolly chat about the episode of long ago."

circus, stated he was amazed at the difference between European circuses and the Barnes show.

Charley Murray is a daily visitor on love, the circus. Gardner Wilson has been given fine publicity break by the local dailies. Hollywood Citizen News sent Alex Swan, feature writer, out and gave the show a lot of pictures and stories. Harry B. Chipman joined in Hollywood to handle the press back. Bert Nelson has his mother as guest during the stay around Los Angeles. Cristianis are daily working new numbers that will have first showing when show gets to San Francisco. Talking with Oscar Cristiani, he stated to The Billboard representative that the present act was the fourth generation of performers, and the entire family traveling with the show, including the very small children, numbers 17.

The arrangement in presenting the feature acts by Bob Thornton, under direction of Manager S. L. Cronin, adds greatly to each of the numbers. George Cunningham has completed a new dance ensemble number presented in both rings and on stage that adds a lot of beauty and grace to the already excellent opening spec, Glamorous Old Mexico. He has styled the new offering Latin America. Changes in presenting the closing spec, Derby Day, adding number of mounted girls in steeplechase, is a clever idea.

A DANDY exhibit in truck cars with Wallace Bros.' Circus is that of the band. It has complete sleeping accommodations for the men.

lost money from the start, the strike preventing him from having his complete circus on the islands for the opening at the Maui Fair. Because the island is a small place word soon circulated that Fernandez did not have a single one of the acts he claimed to have, and when the show was finally completed this verbal knocking had done much to hurt business, to say nothing of bad weather and the prolonged strike. After a benefit performance hundreds of patrons said that if they had known it was such a good show they would have attended before. The Klings said that despite bad breaks Fernandez paid his employees and shipped them home. The entire show is back now.

Clyde Beatty recently received an unusual request, one of the most flattering in his career. Editors of The Junior Harvard Classics, also publishers of The Harvard Classics, have notified Beatty that they wish to include in the next edition of the famous books a piece by him titled Arena-Struck. It is the last chapter of the book The Big Cage, written by Edward Anthony in collaboration with Beatty. Unlike most of the other chapters in the book, this one has not had magazine publication. It is an innovation to invite a circus performer to contribute a chapter to a set of books which include some of the most celebrated names in world literature. Harvard Junior Classic editors, however, feel that, altho the chapter originally appeared in a book for adults, it will have a special appeal to children everywhere. The piece, which will be used

THE animal trainer's job is so defi-I nitely off the beaten track that people have a natural curiosity about how I got started. Was it by accident or design that I became a trainer? I suppose it was a combination of both.

Like most boys, I was circus-crazy. The coming of the circus to Chillicothe, O. (a few miles from Bainbridge, where I was born), was always an event in my life. A week before the show actually arrived the billboards would go up all over town, all over the countryside. Every available fence and barn for miles around was plastered with exciting news.

But all of these bright-colored posters did not thrill me equally. Everything in the circus meant entertainment to me, but the billboards showing the animal trainer in the big cage with his wild beasts excited me most of all. He seemed so calm and collected in this den of savage creatures. How brave he must be, I thought, not to be worried by these great animals that, according to the posters—one of which I still possess-could "snap his frail body in two with a single bite!"

I once had a sizable collection of circus posters. I acquired one of them when I was about 12 years old by running errands for a local laundryman for a whole week. And I didn't get the poster, a somewhat soiled window "paster," until the show had left town. If you don't think I struck much of a bargain with the laundryman you can't guess what pleasure I derived from being the sole possessor of that entrancing picture of the trainer in his den of "roaring, snapping, snarling fiends of the jungle." Because of my treasure I had considerable standing among the boys with whom I went to school. When we played circus that poster added a touch of realism that always pleased our audience. With it we sometimes "drew" a dozen kids at a penny apiece; without it we might have played to an empty backyard.

Realizing as I do what those circus posters meant to me, I'm not sure they didn't play as big a part as anything else in giving me my ambition to become an animal trainer. I was always fond of animals—in fact, I once had five dogs that were the despair of my mother -so I suppose I was fertile soil.

Thrilled With Poster

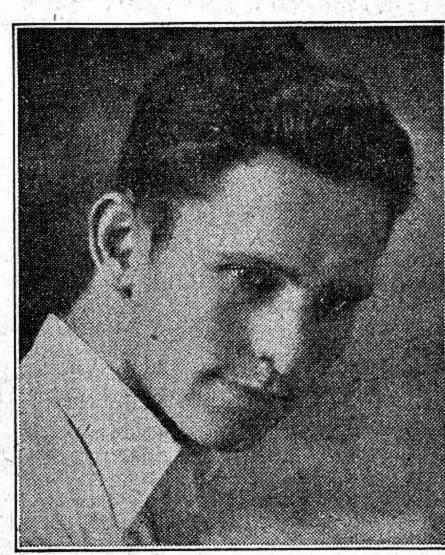

I am not exaggerating when I say that there was one circus poster in particular, a masterpiece of lurid advertising that I'll never forget, which in my boyhood days gave me as big a thrill as anything that has happened to me in all the years since—and plenty has happened. This was the biggest one put on display by the coming circus and the one that had the greatest amount of detail. It was so big it could be used only on the sides of buildings in town and big barns in the outskirts. In this masterly composition the trainer was literally besieged by animals. There were so many of them—tigers, bears, elephants, lions, leopards, etc.—it was hard to understand how the trainer could turn around without running the risk of having his "frail body" bitten in two by one of these "bloodthirsty maneaters," some of which I recall were publicized as beasts that frequently devoured their trainers.

Watched him from a 25-cent seat, anyside a lion. I recall experiencing a elty in his doing that again.

His feat seemed the most wonderful thing in the world. I began Naturally I, with my "roaring demons," to cherish a secret ambition to become should be the featured performer. an animal trainer.

CLYDE BEATTY, noted wild animal trainer with Cole Bros.' Circus, his third season with show. For a number of years he was with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

To me every detail of the performance was marvelous. The way the trainer cracked his whip was in itself pure magic. The sound reverberated thru the tent like the sharp report of a gun. How could anyone learn to do such things? It was almost too much for me to grasp; it fairly overwhelmed me.

And when the trainer stuck his head "in the lion's mouth"! Lord! Shall I ever forget the first time I saw that trick? I later learned to evaluate it properly, but at the time it seemed to me that I was witnessing a supermiracle. The man performing it was to me the greatest man in the world.

Game of "Circus"

Not long after I witnessed the headin-the-mouth trick I inaugurated in our neighborhood the game of "circus." I had little trouble communicating my zeal for this pastime to the children I played with. We gave several performances and then decided to stampede the kid population by putting on "the greatest show on earth."

Once or twice I let my excitement over animal training run away with me. One of my companions, a boy in my class at school, had a genuine talent for balancing himself. He could walk a longer distance on a fence without support than any other kid in the district. So it was only natural that he should want to be starred in our "greatest show" as a tight-rope walker. This caused complications, as I had previously announced that, in the role of animal trainer, I was to be the main attraction. As I had originated the game and possessed the poster that we counted upon to draw the crowd, I naturally felt I should be the star. In our make-believe circus my five dogs would be the wild animals. As a matter of fact, in these early days I had a very definite knack for teaching dogs to do tricks and I was confident that when I started making my "wild animals" jump over sticks, walk on their hind legs and do the other things I had taught them our public would quickly forget the tight-rope walker and his pretensions to stardom.

I had the advantage in that my act I now know that the trainer who was a reality, while that of our tight- repetition. He never had a chance to risked having his "frail body" snapped rope walker (his name was Joe and I find out. The parade over, he called for in twain by one of these villainous wonder where he is today) was as yet the clown act. This featured two or brutes weighed over 200 pounds, but at nonexistent. We all know he was a the time, as I sat open-mouthed and skilled balancer, but he had no apparatus that could be used in our one weighing less than 300 pounds "greatest show." We had all seen him would have seemed definitely frail be- walk fences and there would be no nov-anything that even resembled a tight-"savage beasts fresh from the jungle."

Tight Rope in Back Yard

All the kids connected with the enterprise agreed with me. And then Joe fooled us all. He got his dad to rig up a tight rope in his backyard! Joe's father stretched a thick rope from one tree to another about five yards away. The rope, which was about three feet from the ground, was fastened to the trunks of the trees by means of heavy staples.

Joe invited his circus associates, including me, over to his backyard to witness a demonstration which went over with a bang. His rope walking was loudly applauded and automatically I took a back seat. Joe's stunt got a much more enthusiastic reception than my animal act. He was now definitely the star of the show. Even my argument that I possessed the only poster in the crowd got me nowhere.

Of course, we had to hold our opening performance in Joe's backyard. No other backyard connected with the organization had two trees so close together and so convenient for tight-rope walking. So Joe was more than ever the big shot of our circus. In addition his very own backyard was to be the scene of our introduction to the public. An able politician, Joe.

Mournfully I realized that Joe, in addition to supplanting me, had most emphatically relegated me and my ferocious beasts to the rear. Everyone wanted to talk to Joe. It was Joe this and Joe that. No one looked at my man-eating mutts any more.

Once I ventured to point out that you have to have more than a tight-rope act to put on a circus, but I was quickly squelched. I brought the subject up again and almost lost caste. One of the kids told me what I could do with my poster. "You think because you've got a circus picture you can run the show!" he exclaimed. "Well, we don't need your picture. Everyone's coming just to

Came the big day. And imagine my humiliation when I discovered that my associates didn't want my poster! I had to beg them to let me put it up-and only a week or two before that same poster had been enough to give me standing. In those happy days I had been begged to tell over and over again the story of how I had come to possess it.

Joe, in addition to being the star of the show, was the announcer, general manager and everything else he could think of. He announced that we would start with a parade up the road. This would wind up in his backyard and then we would start the show.

Clown Act First

The first number, if I remember rightly, was a clown act. Then Joe (as Joe in his role of announcer announced) would do a tight-rope stunt. Then I would do my animal act. Then Joe (Joe announced again) would do another tight-rope stunt.

As I recall it, Joe scheduled himself to follow every other turn with a tightrope stunt. This was an ambitious undertaking, for Joe's whole repertoire consisted of walking across the stretch of rope and landing in the arms of a boy at the other end. Sometimes he varied the procedure by winking on the way across, but this was his only variation. variation.

However, Joe was popular and perhaps three boys in false faces falling down same. repeatedly; turning somersaults, in which they bumped into each other, etc.

Then Joe, in his capacity as announcer, announced that Joe, in his role as star of the show, would do his tightmomentary disappointment when all the Joe's desire to be the star seemed a rope act. Loud applause, in which I animals depicted in the billboards did bit unreasonable in view of the fact that maliciously refrained from joining, I regret to report. In fact, my one desire was to punch Joe in the nose. I found I didn't like Joe much.

Joe, aided by an assistant, got on his tight rope and started to do his stuff. He had not advanced more than two or three feet when the staple that held the rope to one of the trees came loose and Joe and his rope came toppling to the ground. It was a fall of only three feet and only Joe's pride was hurt. But I suppose after all it was humiliating to one who was the star, the announcer and the general manager of a show.

As he scrambled to his feet Joe thought of a clever "out." I was responsible! He had seen me loosen the staple!

This was too much. I might have done it if I thought of it, for I was sick of Joe. But I hadn't been near his darned staples. I wouldn't have minded so much if Joe had merely hinted that I was guilty, for I was quite capable of doing something mean to him (like partly severing the rope perhaps), but I thought it was going too far to say that he had actually seen me loosen the staple. I expressed this sentiment by hitting him plumb on the nose, thus realizing an ambition of several days' standing. Joe swung back at me but I ducked. I hit him on the nose again. And again. And again. I don't know why, but it was the only part of his face I was interested in.

Joe hit me a few times, but my recollection is that he didn't do much damage. I do recall being suddenly assaulted from behind. One of Joe's pals hit me. Soon three or four of them were hitting me. Then suddenly everyone was hitting me, including Joe's dad.

I yelled to my bloodthirsty beasts to "sic" my assailants, but these jungle demons were too busy chasing fleas. Retreat was my only salvation. I took to my heels and ran. This roused my languid quintet. Finding their legs, they came after me, yipping joyously at my heels as tho we were playing a

Not Much Headway

I never made much headway in this neighborhood circus of ours. After teaching one of my ferocious animals to jump over a stick on his hind legs I regained part of my old following, but fate was against me. A boy whose father could afford a pony moved into the neighborhood and again I was totally eclipsed. A kid with a pony was plainly more of a headliner than I could hope to be with my mangy man-eaters.

It is a far cry to those vanished times, altho perhaps that makes me sound older than I am. Only 15 years have elapsed since the days when I stopped playing circus in Bainbridge and Chillicothe—which is another way of saying that I am 27½ years old at this writing.

Three years after I vied with Joe for the stardom of our backyard show the lure of the circus became too much for me. I had tried to fight off the fever, but it was no use. When I was 13 I wanted to run away and join a circus, but I didn't dare apply for even the humblest job. I was too much of a shrimp and I was sure I should be laughed at.

By the next year I had tacked on some height and I secretly applied for a job when the circus came to town, but there was no opening. However, when it came the following season (I was 15 at the time and about to start my second year in the Chillicothe High School) I had better luck. I landed a job as cage boy. What an event in my life this was! A regular employee of a circus! My compensation was $5 a month and my keep. and it seemed a great deal at the time.

My main worry was that I was in bad with my family, but they were quick to forgive me, tho I had kept them for two or three days without any knowledge of my whereabouts-and, of course, they were right in objecting to that.

How can I describe my delight on finding myself an assistant, even in a humble role, to honest-to-goodness animal trainers? It was an honor to clean the cages, to fetch water for the animals, to do anything that was asked of me. When I wasn't busy around the animals his public would have stood for the I watched the show's chief trainer and his two assistants drill their charges. On the road I watched every move they made, and in winter quarters I did the acta, at least new to the Big Show, and many of the old favorites have been reroutined and dolled up with new ideas. view that follows.

Highlights of the show are plentiful, but from the audience reaction Thursday night premier honors must go to the menage-horse number. Long one of the Ringling-Barnum standouts, it sur- able improvements in the routining and passes anything seen in the past in the personnel of this stanza. Guice works to be out of control of its rider. The augmented aerial ballet, produced and Rooney's new bag of tricks on the single trap and Alf Loyal's sure-fire canine routine in the center ring to liven the trained seal stint are among the displays that definitely deserve stand-out mention. Robert Wadlow, the much-pub-Heized Alton, Ill., glant, lives up to his ndvance press notices and seems to be even taller than the eight feet seven inches he is claimed to be.

Caliber of the wardrobe used thruout the show, and in the opening spec in particular, gives evidence of a tremendous amount of money spent in that direction this year. First show moved along at a remarkably fast pace considering the shortage of Garden rehearsals.

Usual number of celebs, Park avenue top hata and well-known circus folk were in attendance at the opening. Mrs. Charles Ringling divided her box with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin D. Hildreth, of Washington: Joe Cook, Tony Sarg, Robert L. Ripley and others had ringside locations. Sam W. Gumperts, general manager of the show, took his usual stand at the 40th street arena exit in order to keep close tab on the proceedings.

Executive staff is slightly changed this year due to several deaths. S. W. Gumperts is senior vice-president and generst manager: Mrs. Charles Ringling and Mrs. Richard Ringling, vice-presidents; Mrs. Ira W. Robertson, secretary to Mr. Gumpertz: J. C. Donobue, general traffic manager: Carl Hathaway, auperintendent: Ralph J. Clawson, head of the legal department, replacing the late Frank Cook: Eddle Vaughan and Robert Frazer, legal department: Arthur Hopper, general agent in charge of billing; Frank Pender, corporation treasurer; Ira W. Robertson, secretary and show treasmrer; Pat Valdo, director of personnel, and Pred Bradua, equestrian director, Complete list of personnel, including Clyde Ingalls' Side Show, Merie Evans' Band, Col. Tim McCoy's Wild West and working departments will appear in the circus department of the next issue.

Detailed Review

DISPLAY 1-INAUGURAL PAGEANT. The Big Show has given its spec a new title, India, and going together with the new moniker is a cavalcade that truly exceeds in colorful variety of contumed humana and besats any of the opening specs this reviewer has seen in recent years. Fred Bradus blew his whistle at 8 p.m. sharp and as if by electrical impulse the doors of the first entrance swung open and the Big Show's safari around the hippodrome started with several of Merle Evans' trumpeters in the lead and the color-splashed train following. There are entirely new floats, banners and garland effects, new ideas in howdahs and novel spotting of beasts in trappings that would make the heart of an Oriental potentate proud, Among the entirely new features of the seemingly interminable spec are the midget donkeys that graphically highlight the uniqueness of the Big Show's theme and the universality of its appeal to the masses.

The Comprise an even mixed dozen. The bulls seem to work faster this year and several new stunts have been added to work on unsupported ladders, juggle and their repertoire. Particularly effective was the rhythmic stomping of the pachyderms. There is the familiar finale -a pyramid built with dispatch on the hippodrome track. One of the Big Show's larger bulls is brought in for a brief display of training and tameness wherein he carries a girl in his curled trunk half the length of the track.

> DISPLAY 5-AERIAL BALLET. This all-girl extravaganza of grace, color and daring was introduced here several years ago. It clicked from the start and this season (to use the circus press agent's own idiom) it is better than ever before. The dazzling centerplece of this exhibition of smart staging and feminine accomplishment is Jennie Rooney, who works over the center ring in a cloudswing routine. Miss Rooney is attired in a sequin costume that magnifies the effect of the spotlights playing on her as she negotiates hazardous stunts with care and breath-taking daring. Over the two outer rings are troupes of five girls each on traps and who work with remarkable synchronization. Above the stages are four-girl groups on revolving ladders. While around the hippodrome track and evenly spotted are 13 taxtefully accountered misses on single ladders. During one interval the entire company of aerialists maintain a precise rhythm with an effect so startling as to draw applause, altho there are no climactic changes in the routine.

> DISPLAY 6-ROBERT WADLOW. The Big Show's stagers demonstrated their sense of proportion and balance by omitting from this year's Garden engagement the parade of freaks so as to highlight more strongly the exhibition of Robert Wadlow, the 19-year-old giant of Alton. III. The Gargantuan youth is presented with great dignity by Ralph Gram, announcer. He is referred to as "the tallest human being since the dawn of creation," and here is one instance where the akeptical cannot sneer at the tendency of circuses to exaggerate size and splendor and uniqueness. Young and predigious Wadlow was first-page news long before the Big Show landed him in its scouting net. Conservative papers all over the world have carried news stories quoting authorities as stating that he exceeds in size any glant known to history. To say the least, he is good box office for the Big Show or any outfit fortunate enough to corral him. He is terribly ungainly but there is nothing of the repulsive about any feature of the exhibition. Accompanying him in the walk to and from the center ring is his father, Harold Wadlow-a smart piece of business because it introduces the wholesome family angle and emphasizes, by comparison with an average man, the boy's height of 8 feet 7 inches and bulk of 450 pounds. Unusual for attractions of this genre, the boy was loudly applauded, the wide newspaper publicity having helped considerably to arouse public interest in him. DISPLAY 7-COMEDY ACROBATIC ACTS. Only one noticeably new act in DISPLAY 2-EQUESTRIANISM. As this classic display of clown-suited acromaking their first American appearance. They are in the center ring with an interest-holding array of antice by a prop home paced by a rany. should be a change in spotting here and there probably will before the Big Show counts off many more performances. Similarity of routines and mass sight effect between this and Display 7 makes for unnecessary monotony since both displays richly deserve a place in the show. Under the doubling title of the Spurgats, four men exhibit balancing skill in Ring 1. On Stage 2 is an act new to this country, the Masy-Brach (mixed) Duo. The pair perform agilely on an unsupported ladder and intersperse their whole routine with an amazing variety of juggling. Their finish is a DISPLAY 4-ELEPHANTS. DISPLAY 9 - DOROTHY HERBERT AND HIGH-SCHOOL HORSE ACTS. Sam Gumpertz and his cohorts really went to town putting out a menage display this season. Miss Herbert is still the outstanding horsewoman, a valiant defender of the side-saddle school. There are 24 girls in the menage ensemble, pleasingly costumed and riding and pacing their horses with a skill reflecting careful and intensive training. William and Tamara Heyer do haute ecole maneuvers on Ring One during the general display; Miss Herbert performs several varieties of stunting in the center ring, and Dr. Ostermaler performs on a fine-looking animal in Ring Three, As the display proceeds Mme. Ella Bradna, who has discarded her dyed pigeon fixture, paces her handsome white horse on the hippodrome track, as do Rudy Rudynoff and Hoyer. As usual Rudynoff's work was outstanding. At this show Miss Herbert's new stunt-a tandem drive of 10 horses Roman fashion -was dramatically interrupted by the breaking of the drive harness. She fell to the track and was trampled upon by the spilled horses. There was a tense silence as the attendants brought the horses to their feet. Miss Herbert was shaken but waved assurance to the crowd that she was unhurt and ran off to a side exit to one of the most en-evening. DISPLAY 10-NAITTO TROUPE. In this display, which is starting its second season with the Big Show, a mishap affected the routine. Nio Naitto, one of the two outstanding girls of this troupe, fell from the tight wire at her first try. She was hurt but not badly, but the accident cut short her performance and she walked off after being helped to her feet. The four remaining girls of the troupe put on a highly satisfactory performance on the two wires, involving solo balancing and twohigh atunts with upright and head-tohead involvements. The smash windup was a back somersault on the wire by one of the girls, evidently Ala Naitto. Good buildup given this act via the entrance made by the girls in jinrickshas drawn by supers dressed as Japa.

DISPLAY 11-DOG AND SEAL ACTS. Again Aif Loyal's canines and Captain John W. Tiebor's seals blend perfectly in a session of stunting. The Loyals (Pa and Ma) have the center stage to their hoydenish canines and themselves, and on the two stages the Tlebor scals (with Captain Tiebor on Stage One) go thru-their familiar routines. Outstanding in the Loyal act is the balancing of a black poodle on a slack rope and the kaleidoscopic gamboling of the nondescript canines from a ramp to a trampoline. The flappers coaxed by Captain Tiebor and his assistant prove that all's right with a world if seals can still juggle apheres, dance the hula hula and blow America on a set of horns.

ACTS. Two new turns were spotted in Show's Wild West interlude an item to hanging perch over Ring One and the Lu-Lolita Duo on two traps over Ring Three. Of special interest in the Erwingos' bag of tricks is the fron-jaw work of the girl, and claiming continued attention for the Lu-Lolita mixed combo and hand catches. Jennie Rooney contributing to the realism of the per-series of breath-takers, including a two-DISPLAY 8-BALANCING ACTS. There high swing, a toe-catch swing and the break-away nit that is always good for a plentitude of applause. Doing floor perch routines are the Walkmir Trio and the Antaleks in Ring Two and on Stage Two, respectively. In the Walkmir family the man balances three girls and one of the misses balances her two co-eds. The Walkmir bye-bye stunt has the man balancing a particularly heavy perch on his head while two girls perform body revolutions on twin bars at the summit. The Antaleks are six in number, with two men involved. Their big moment is a perch balance of three girls by one of the men, the girls being spread on the contrivance at the top of the perch in pinwheel fashion.

DISPLAY 13-LIBERTY HORSES AND PONIES. As in the menage display. there is evidence here of unusual pains having been taken by the Ringling-Barnum management to exceed exhibitions of the past both in ingenuity of maneuvers and size of the animal contingent. Before reaching the climactic stage of 64 horses and ponies circling about in the center ring Adolph Delbong, Rudy Rudynoff and Gordon Orton apply the light whip to 10 Liberty horses aptece in the three rings, with Rudynoff centering. On the stages are Rudy Rudynoff Jr., as the whip for six ponies, and Midget Paul Horompo enjoying the proportionate assignment of directing the Liberty routines of six ponies. Senior Rudynoff does a repeat of his classic stunt of confusing the 10 centerring horses and blindfolding No. 8. who finds his place in the line as easily as munching his oats. The gigantic display of Liberty training has Mile, Maria Rasputin, loudly touted daughter of Imperial Russia's Mad Monk, in dead center on a pedestal posed with a Great Dane. At four points in the ring girls of the menage sit astride horses with four legs converging to pedestals. The congress of varicoated horses and ponice tread in and out of the four points and concentrically around them in most pleasing rhythm and even speed.

DISPLAY 14-AERIAL ACTS. Further atunting in defiance of gravity high above the arena marks this interesting display. The Great Floresque, high-pole exponent, works above Ring One and attracts attention with his fron-jaw descent. Back to the Big Show after an undetermined absence, Mile. Richter synchronizes with Floresque's high-pose routine at the end of the arena. The thusiastic rounds of appliause of the Great Aloys performs trapeze maneuvers over Stage One and winds up with a drop while his head is encircled by a hangman's noose. A springlike attachment makes his body rise and fall several times while he adroitly grabs the noose as he reaches the end of the rigging's length. Unbilled but working in the center ring are two girls of the Walkmir act on a pair of revolving ladders trimmed with noisy torpedo gadgets. This stunt, according to report, was originally scheduled to be included in the regular Walkmir routine as part of Display 12. Mile. Gillette drew her welldeserved gasps and applause when she negotiated her leap from the highest pedestal of the Garden rigging to a trap of prop break-away construction, swinging finally by ropes attached to her unkles to within a few feet of the floor.

DISPLAY 15 - POSING ACTS. Again Lee Spurgat is the maestro of the plastic artistry that has for time immemorial found a place in the Big Show's panorama. The posing groups-gratefully relieved of the ghostlike alabaster smearing effect—are in the three rings. They look as well with the lights full up as when the specially colored spots are thrown on them for the tableaux. The waits are filled more than satisfactorily by adagio quarteta working on the two stages. The groupings are different this year, and another item to be thankful about is the absence of placards with legends describing the symbolic mean-

DISPLAY 16-COLONEL TIM MCCOY AND WILD WEST. For a second season DISPLAY 12-PERCH AND AERIAL the star of horse operas makes the Big this otherwise familiar display. These sell at the box office. The display takes were the Erwingon (mixed team) on a up 20 minutes flat and the action is fast but hardly different or, for that matter, more spectacular than when Hank Linton and Cy Compton were the foremen of the corral. Colonel McCoy does a six-horse catch overhead and introduces a band of Hopi Indians who is their daring in effective heel, too perform a snake dance with live rattlers, and Cossack garb ride fast and furiously while stunting around the track. Unbilled for an unaccountable reason, the Australian Waites are spotted for their familiar routine of whipcracking, which is dotted by the comicalities of Shorty Flemm.

DISPLAY 17-PARADE OF CLOWNS. Here the zanies, white-faced comics, dwarfs and eccentric funnymen of the street called Clown Alley have their little inning. This year it is really little. The productions are marked by several new and clever effects, but there is lacking a certain spontaneity and zest. Maybe it's something the reviewer ateor maybe he was influenced too much by the tomfoolery of Otto Griebling and Emmett Kelly over at the Hipp.

DISPLAY 18-FLYING ACTS. A display the Big Show could not do without is the blending of flying skill and grace by the Concellos, working lengthwise over the center ring, and the Comets and Randolls over the outer rings. The flying folk seemed to be in fine fettle at this show. Antoinette Concello is the single announced feature, the spiel being directed in favor of her triple somersault from the bar to the hands of the catcher. Art Concello also impresses favorably. There are six men and five girls in the combined acts and all work so beautifully that it is difficult to point to one that exceeds in stunting or technique.

DISPLAY 19—EQUESTRIANISM. The bareback riding folk come into their own here with the Loyal-Repenski young bloods whooping it up in the center ring, flanked by the Reiffenachs and the Walters family. In the Loyal-Repenski act are 10 riders (four men) and a male whip. The Reiffenach girls are three in number, with a riding and tumbling clown as a strong assist. The Walters family act calls for Walter Guice to provide laughs and thrills with his clown antics on the floor and on and off the resinbacks. The synchronized features are double pyramids two-high, and the Loyal-Repenski act winds up with the entire troupe on the back of one of their horses.

Preceding this display the clowns filled a wait with a brief walkaround and with their takeoff on the Zacchini act.

DISPLAY 20 - ACROBATIC ACTS. Here are two new acts. One of themthe Magyars on Stage Two-made a most pleasing impression. This act of nine people includes two girls who bear an equal stunting burden with their male colleagues. The Magyars are colorfully dressed in Hungarian native costume. Their series of crisscross teeterboard stunts is an item that is seldom seen hereabouts. Irene Magyar gets the solo spot with a blindfold somersault four-high that she accomplishes with truly remarkable ease. Also new in this display is the troupe of tumbling and balancing Cleveres. One of the two boys is very young; the other still in his teens, too. Their mates are three girls. With precision and showmanly grace the Yacopis perform on Stage One. Their feature is a tandem somersault. The Maschinos hold interest evenly in the center ring and their big stunt is a pyramid formation four-high. In Ring One is the Uyeno Troupe of seven Orientals exhibiting their balancing, tumbling and Risley wares.

Between Displays 19 and 20 the halfpints of Clown Alley staged their firehouse party. This is one feature of the show that hasn't changed since Hector was a pup.

DISPLAY 21 - HIGH-WIRE ACTS. Perhaps the Wallendas and their companion act on the high wire, the Grotofents, are just as thrilling as they used to be when first introduced to the Big Show with a Garden opening, but the identical nature of the routines takes away from the relish. They scored nicely at this show, however, and one innovation suggests that more would be welcome. This is the clowning by an unbilled member of the Grotofent act. His work is daring, to say the least, but then again it is a matter of debate whether his ease in balancing reflects against the skill and daring of the straight performers. The familiar windup of the Wallendas with their threehigh position on bikes.

DISPLAY 22 — JUMPING HORSES. This year—at the premiere anyway—instead of combining jumping horses with the hippodrome races the races are omitted altogether. Perhaps due to an effort to close in time for commuters. Dorothy Herbert is the stellar jumper. She clears several hurdles and repeats in a dash after wild horses while the logs are burning.

DISPLAY 23 — HUGO AND MARIO There's the usual careful ZACCHINI. inspection by the grounded brother, the passwords exchanged between the brothers inside the cannon and the one on terra firma—and then the loud report, the smoke and two Zacchinis flying thru space into a net across most of the arena's length. The Zacchinis have been with the Big Show long enough to be rechristened "Exit March." Show windup was at 11:15 on the dot.

Reviewer is of the opinion that this was the smoothest first performance of the season presented by the Big Show in at least 10 years. Very few waits, and these of trifling duration. Every act worked as if the entire show had been rehearsed for weeks, which was, of course, not the case.

Premiere Sidelights Of the Big Show

Showfolk were very much in evidence at the Ringling premiere—among them Mr. and Mrs. Melvin D. Hildreth, Tom Gorman, Pat Casey, Jerry Harriman, Max Cohen, of Rochester, N. Y.; Cora Wilson, Oscar Decker and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Minchin, of the Circus Fans of America; Frank V. Baldwin and Cora Geezy, Circus Saints and Sinners Club of America; Leonard Traube, Dorothy Packtman and Magnolia Hamid, of the George A. Hamid office.

Jesse Klugman, New York insurance man and lifelong associate and friend of many of the Ringling personnel, has been a constant visitor since the show moved in late Tuesday night. According to Jesse, this year's engagement is definitely lacking in a certain color obviously meaning the absence of "Mr. John" and Frank A. (Cookie) Cook.

Art work in this year's program, on the billboards around town and in the advertisements in the dailies clearly indicates that Roland Butler is still a master in the art of circus decorations.

Ralph J. Clawson, who has been helping J. Frank Hatch and associates assemble the rejuvenated Hagenbeck-Wallace show in Peru, Ind., tried his best to arrive in town for the Garden opening. Didn't quite make it, however, but evidently feels that there is plenty of time to ogle the new offering. Clawson will head this year's legal department.

No end of squeals and screams emanated from the 49th street side corridor Thursday afternoon-Colonel Mc-Coy's Hopi Indians unfortunately took the opportunity to uncrate their rattlesnakes in the presence of a group of feminine menage riders.

Grotofent Troupe introduced a new wrinkle in high-wire routines when one of their members chilled the spectators with bits of clowning high above the No. 1 ring.

Charles (Chick) Bell, superintendent of reserve seats, is back again and as usual is all smiles. The reason this year—a big Florida citrus crop. Chick has a 43-acre orange and grapefruit grove on the West Coast of the Southern State.

One of the most solid hits of the Thursday evening show was scored by the newly imported Maysy-Brach Duo with their clever unicycle and ladder work.

Clown numbers come and clown numbers go but it looks like the burning house routine will remain forever. Speaking of clown work, it's probably just a matter of time until Felix Adler and company are presenting some sort of a sit-down takeoff.

Press department, consisting of Roland Butler, Frank Braden, Dexter Fellows, Sam R. Stratton and Edward Johnson, have landed the usual reams of publicity in the dailies. From the appearance of their Piccadilly Hotel "workshop" it's a hectic and trying job to "make" the big town.

According to the ticket department the big show is in for one of its most profitable Garden engagements. Advance sale is the best in six years and "they're buying the reserves."

Old-Time Showmen

By CHARLES BERNARD

The Zoological Institute, organized by Rufus Welch and his associates during 1829, was the earliest large collection of wild animals from Africa and other European countries given prominence as an educational exhibit under control and management of experienced showmen, and backed by ample finances to assure success. Following establishment of the Zoological Institute in New York City as one of the prominent institutions for entertainment of the public, Messrs. June, Titus, Angevine and Company developed it into a highly profitable exhibition that continued for a lengthy period to interest and entertain both the local and the visiting amusement seekers of the metropolis.

After its marked success as a New York institution, and receiving much valuable publicity, it was decided to present it as a traveling exhibition thru the New England States, as a menagerie and aviary exhibit, it was transported in 1835 on 49 spacious carriages, wagons and cages; these vehicles were drawn by 120 specially selected gray horses; 60 men, including 14 musicians, were employed in the operation and exhibition of the Zoological Institute. On the New England itinerary for the 1835 tour, Winthrop, Me., had the exhibition on June 20 on grounds near Coolidge's Hotel; the entire back page of The Maine Farmer, a weekly farm publication of Winthrop, was used for an exceptionally well prepared display advertisement, which included 24 fine wood-cuts of animals and rare birds featured in the exhibit; the admission price was 25 cents, and the hours of exhibition, 1 to 5 o'clock p.m. The advertising also stated that on entering the town the caravan headed by the war elephant, Romeo, would have the Zoological band of 14 musicians in its special carriage, discourse favorite and popular airs while passing thru the streets, and also during the exhibition.

The outstanding cut of the page advertisement was of the unicorn, or onehorned rhinocerous; it was given specific description as the animal next in size

Garden until early Wednesday morn. By sunup, however, the dirt flooring, the rings and stages were in position and rigging was rapidly nearing completion under the eye of Mickey Graves. Preparing the big Eighth avenue arena is old stuff to Mickey and by the time the first performer arrived for warm ups everything was in readiness.

That familiar cry, "Where's Curley?," is popular once again. Curley, general handy man around the Garden as well as the lot, carries the unique distinction of being the hardest man on the show to find.

Theol Nelson's flip-flap jaunt around the Hippodrome track is missing this year. She's working in the aerial ballet instead.

Fem Dress Slants

Dorothy Herbert deviated from the customary close-fitting costumes for horsewomen by wearing with distinction flowing chiffon veils in pastel colors, secured at the wrists and shoulders.

Most of the glittering effects in dress were achieved by sequins with their most extravagant display featured by Jennie Rooney when the silver decoration was molded from her shoulders to the tips of her toes in the manner of an Annette Kellerman.

As a change from the conservative bandeau and tights the Cannestrellis girls used the sequins in a vest pattern with sleeves of white satin.

Satin was the second most popular dress material among all but the trapeze performers, who would probably find this fabric too smooth on the rods.

The Magyar girls made a serious attempt to wear ruffled skirts, but had to detract from their full glory while stunting by lowering an elastic belting over the billows.

Miss Wallenda's white satin, fingertip length fitted jacket, flared at the hips and trimmed with royal blue in its imitation of a sailor's uniform, and the American Beauty shorts and white blouse combination adopted by the Cannestrellis girls were but two examples A Tuesday night hockey league playoff of attraction in the simple use of white to the elephant, and positively the first rhinoceros brought to America.

"Unicorn" a Feature

The description gave the weight of the "unicorn" at 4,200 pounds, length 12 feet, and about eight feet in height. Announced in the advertising as a feature, it was promised that at 3 p.m. a keeper would enter a cage containing a lion, lioness and a royal tigress, and put them thru a routine, demonstrating his control over the group known to be wild and vicious. It was also stated that one of the elephants was provided with a splendid saddle, trimmed and decorated after the Eastern style, with a capacity for seating six persons; that patrons of the exhibition would be permitted to ride the elephant.

Descriptive matter with each of the wood cuts of featured exhibits was a part of the large newspaper display; there was a mammoth shaggy-maned Asiatic lion, a black panther, a royal tiger and tigress, pair of spotted leopards, a gnu or horned horse, a pair of fine plumaged ostriches, a pelican, a cassowary and a vulture, a striped and a spotted hyena, a male leopard and male spotted panther in adjoining compartments of a cage, a male dromedary, a Bactrain camel, a zebra, a polar bear and a pair of kangaroos. The advertisement stated in a special paragraph that a separate exhibit, known as the "Museum," on same day and place would exhibit a terrific "Serpent of Java," known as the Anaconda, nearly 18 feet long; also a boa-constrictor or strangling serpent, nearly 14 feet long. The admission price to the museum was 12½ cents.

Attention was called to large bills, posted at the principal hotels, which gave further particulars. Confirming the use of pictorial posters by the Zoological Institute on its New England tour in 1835, there is now exhibited one of those original pictorial posters in the museum of the American Antiquarium Society at Worcester, Mass. On that poster are many cuts exactly like those used in the page advertisement of The Maine Farmer. for the exhibition at Winthrop, Me. In the poster on exhibition at Worcester, Mass., the "Unicorn" is shown in a large open cage drawn by eight horses. In 1832 a traveling exhibit of animals toured the New England States under title of "American National Caravan," it used a similar pictorial poster on which was featured the "Unicorn" or one-horned rhinoceros, an original poster of that season is also in the museum at Worcester.

DIXIE WILLIAMS writes from Enterprise, Ala., that the Collins Rodeo played there recently to good business despite inclement weather. Mary and Bill Parks, Cherokee Hammon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clancy, Rose Hurlin, Pauline Lorenz, Jack Rhinehart and family and Ike Waldon appeared at the event.

SILVER TIP BAKER, former arena director for the 101 Ranch Show, after spending several years appearing in motion pictures, will return to the road this year as arena director for the Wixom Wild West Show. Mabel Baker will also join the organization as a trick rider and assist Silver Tip in other acts. They plan to leave Hollywood shortly after they have completed their work in Paramount's High, Wide and Handsome.

STANLEY (PETE) RUTH and Earle F. Sherman, operating under the title of Frank Earle and Company, report a successful winter season playing neighborhood movie houses and indoor circuses thruout Central New York. Unit is working out of Utica and comprises Earle and Beatrice Sherman, rope spinning, whipcracking and card manipulation; Pete Ruth, tramp monolog and routine with his trick dog, Bubbles, comedy juggling and chair balancing, and Helen Wade, contortion and acrobatic dancing. Organization has been contracted by Doc Terry, of Utica Post 229. American Legion, for a tour of the CCC camps thru the Central Adirondacks. Act is featuring a new routine, new props, and Rodeo Ben is now working on additional wardrobe.

OGDEN PIONEER DAYS, Inc., thru its president, Mayor Harman W. Perry, announced recently that an option had been obtained on the property of the Smith Bedding Company, located on Canyon road near the Pioneer power plant of the Utah Power and Light Com-"Pendleton has its 'Happy Canyon' and we don't want to steal that name," declared Perry. "But we intend to develop an attraction similar to that and retain the name of the 'Old Mill.'" Option was obtained under an agreement with Mrs. Grace Miles, who held an $18,000 mortgage against the property thru the Ogden State Bank. She took over the mortgage from the bank and turned over her interest to the city for $6,000.

WORD FROM Guy Weadick, who is handling "The Stampede" in connection with the North Dakota State Fair, which will be held this summer at Minot, N. D., indicates that even at this early date results are being obtained from announcements made thus far. In reply to a query regarding the program, Weadick announced that there will be several new novelties. "At times in the past," Weadick continued, "Western attractions have advertised they would have buffalo at their show. Some did, a couple and maybe a half dozen, but this year at Minot we'll have 100 head of real Simon-pure American bisonbuffalo to you—right on the fairgrounds. They are being brought in from the Bar C Ranch, the property of Clarence Parker, one of North Dakota's oldtimers and vice-president of the North Dakota State Fair. Keen interest in the celebration is being displayed by everyone from Governor William Langer down to the newsboys on the streets of Minot." Five-day rodeo will be an RAA show and, according to Weadick, every effort will be made to present a fast, thrilling performance to satisfy the public, contestants and all concerned. Top live stock, fair judges and a diversified program will be the order of the week. C. A. Tyler will announce the event.

Indianapolis Rodeo Proving Successful

INDIANAPOLIS, April 10.—Milt Hinkle's Texas Rangers Rodeo being presented here is proving a huge success, according to Gerald Bowman, secretary of the Indianapolis Press Club, sponsors. Rodeo played to more than 25,000 people the to don it again and go back into the first five days, despite cold and rainy weather, and a heavy advance sale for the remaining four days indicates sellouts for each performance.

Sponsors are of the opinion that a contracted show is faster and more pleasing to the public than previous contests held here and have signed a five-year contract with Hinkle to produce a show each year at the Coliseum.

Entries for Pittsburgh Rodeo Exceed 100 Mark

PITTSBURGH, April 10.—Entries for 10-day rodeo in Duquesne Garden here passed the 100 mark today. Top hands already entered to contest for the $2,000 cash prizes include Rube Roberts, E. Pardee, Mildred Mix, Ruth Woods, Mary Parks and Margaret Greenough. Among exhibitionists will be Tin Horn Hank, his 25-year-old bucking horse, Steamboat, and Pancho Villa Jr.

Prize purse will be split four ways, with $500 each to winners in bronk riding, bulldogging, calf roping and steer riding. Colonel Jim Eskew will furnish all stock except the calf-roping and bulldogging horses.

With 68 cents to $1.71 price range, first night is nearly sold out to West Penn Hospital Auxiliary, sponsors, who are taking a cut from gate on opening night.

NEW YORK, April 10.—I have yet to find a more enthusiastic booster for the circus than that Wisconsin Whirlwind, Sverre Braathen. The show people "Sverre" by him and we would advise that those of the sawdust and spangles who do not know him get acquainted right away. Here is a stunt he pulls that might well be copied by organizations in other cities. Listen:

"This summer I plan something new when Seils-Sterling comes to Madison. I have arranged with them for a Lions' Club luncheon in their cookhouse. We will unloosen the purse and pay for these meals so that the circus does not lose any money. Then I am going to take about 300 kids from our city settlement house to the circus in the afternoon. I plan to load all of the kids in show trucks and parade them around the streets at noon on circus day behind the circus band. This will be great publicity for the show as well as for our club. Will also send invitations to many of the near-by clubs to visit the circus that night. This will benefit everyone concerned and give the show a splendid day's business. But above all it will make a bunch of lonesome kids happy. And, after all, that is what counts."

Clyde Beatty Luncheon

The Clyde Beatty luncheon is still being talked about. Bim Pond, as the only lion that tamed Clyde, was a wow. Altho Bim was perspiring like a rhinoceros after being locked in the natural skin for 20 minutes, he was sport enough photo which is to appear in The Sunday Mirror. . . . Beatty's eyes glistened a bit when he was shown a large photo of himself taken when he was about 9 years of age trying to make some kittens do stunts. This picture was obtained by Tex O'Rourke from a relative of the young animal trainer. He had forgotten all about the picture and when he saw it many of his home-town memories were revived. . . . While the Fall Guy was being entertained in the East Ballroom, Mrs. Orson Kilborn was acting as hostess to Mrs. Beatty at another dining table. And what a gracious and charming hostess Mrs. K. can be. . . Mel Pitzer, who auto'd Clyde Beatty and Ed Anthony from the Hippodrome to the Commodore, says that Clyde was very much frightened at the congested traffic and he feels sure that the young trainer would have grabbed for a chair, whip and pistol if those things had been within reach. . . One table at the luncheon was made up of presidents and vice-presidents of some of the largest companies in the country. . . . The new members taken up were Percy Magnus, Joe Doble, Larry Prentice, E. Murphy and Henry C. Olmstead.

Bert Cobb, who donates a pair of Pediforme shoes at each luncheon as a special prize, won a quart bottle of Scotch, as did Paul Meyer and Al Sielke. . . . Tony Sarg wowed 'em with his burlesque biography of the young trainer, while Jolly Bill, suffering from a cold and a few benefits, added to the hilarity with his ready quips and ad lib talk. . . . Rubber Face somebody or other entertained with songs and did a swell job. . . Prexy Orson Kilborn, in his suave dignified manner, tried hard to keep the luncheon going within time bounds, but failed by about 20 minutes. Letter From Lofgren

Hen Lofgren, the Blue Island hobbyist, writes:

"It all happened when I was a kid in Peoria, Ill. Shipp's Midwinter Circus came up from Petersburg, Ill., where it had a training barn. It showed a good part of the winter in the Tabernacle at Main and Globe street, Peoria, in 1893. Worked on a co-operative basis with the local band, Spencer's Band. Did this to keep in shape for the summer circus season when the entire unit went out with the Barnum & Bailey show. Edwin Shipp, equestrian director. Julia Lowanda, rider. She was the first to use evening dress. Ty Belle Sisters, perch act. Art and Ed Adair or maybe it was Wertz and Adair, head-and-hand balancers. Lowanda Brothers, riders, bounding rope, etc. When Shipp tied up with Feltus and toured South America they met with great success. But later Shipp going out with Sig Sautelle and touring South America with their circus proved a bloomer. Shipp lost everything. J. H. La Pearl Circus, out of Danville, Ill., showed a week in Peoria in 1891. Carried a mighty good band with an expert snare drummer. Bert Cole, you know, was a trick drummer with La Pearl's Circus. Harry and Roy La Pearl were only kid performers in the show then. I used to wrap wet towels on the horizontal bars for the three bar performers in this show. I never knew why. I suppose so they could get a better grip." Mighty interesting, Hen. Write again.

WPA Show Closes Run At Bronx Coliseum

NEW YORK, April 10.—WPA Federal Theater Project's Three-Ring Circus closed its series of week-end runs at the Bronx Coliseum April 2. Biz has been amazing considering fact that show played here last January. Wednesday matinee, a packed house with more than 5,000 paid admissions. Night biz was only fair, but matinees for remainder of week were winners and night houses were good.

15 Years Ago

(From The Billboard Dated April 15, 1922)

Sells-Floto Circus, featuring a performance of snap and brilliance, opened in the Coliseum, Chicago, to capacity business. . . City commissioners of Omaha had just passed an ordinance making the license for a circus of three rings $750 per day, a circus of two rings $500 and all carnivals $250 a day. Result was that all circuses and carnivals began fighting shy of paying that kind of money and scratched the city from their itineraries. . . . Geneva (N. Y.) Common Council had just booked Ringling-Barnum to show there in the summer. It was the first time in several years that a "big time" circus had been booked into that spot.

Spartanburg, S. C., with cars and equipment in the best of condition, Cole Bros. Shows played its initial stand of the season at Clover, S. C., April 1, to capacity business at both performances. . . . Contracts had just been received by Andrew Downie assuring the appearance for the season with the Walter L. Main Circus of the famous Power Elephants direct from the New York Hippodrome. . . . Santos & Artigas, circus and general amusement magnates of Cuba, arrived in New York. Their American representative, Charles L. Sasse, greeted them upon arrival.

Charles Sparks, owner and manager of the Sparks Circus, was highly commended for his civic pride and patriotism in rallying to the aid of the Washington Memorial Library, in the April 4 issue of The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph. Howe's Great London Circus received a beautiful floral horseshoe, standing eight feet high, from the Palo Alto, Calif., Chamber of Commerce. Presentation was made in recognition of the excellent deportment displayed by the show's employees while the organization was in winter quarters at Palo Alto. . . . Winter quarters of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus in West Baden, Ind., was a hotbed of activity with rehearsals.

World Wonder Car Back in N.C.

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 10.—World Wonder Car is back in North Carolina on its way north to the New England States. A three-day engagement in Asheville was a bloomer, due to lack of co-operation from auspices. Hendersonville, Canton, Morganton, Lenoir, Hickory, Mooresville and Thomasville all one-day stands under American Legion auspices, resulted in good business. Car will make a number of towns in Eastern North Carolina and will go north via the eastern shore of Maryland into Delaware and Pennsylvania.

In a recent issue of The Billboard it was stated that Roy O. Coleman, driver of the big car, had driven it 45,000 miles. The distance should have read 450,000 miles. ~

Rex M. Ingham is still general agent. While car was in Tennessee, Ingham was the guest of Jack X. Van Buren at Athens, Tenn. At Canton, C. M. Beall (Bell, the magician), State officer of the Legion, was of great help in making the town and entertained Mr. and Mrs. Coleman on day car was in Canton. Bell is playing schools now and then and intends taking out a magic show in the near future.

No parade during the Chicago engagement.

A new and novel touch was given the opening by the presentation of a red rose to every patron entering the show.

Henry Kyes, band leader, made an excellent impression on opening night. He has gathered about him a group of very good musicians and the show's musical accompaniment was very, pleasing. Kyes has with his band a pleasing and personable vocalist in Conchita Madri. The announcing over the loudspeaker is done by Doc Murphy, whose clear voice can be heard distinctly in all parts of the building.

DISPLAY 8.—Lady principal riding. Etta Hodgini and Rose Wallett, in Rings 1 and 2, respectively, presented a graceful and entertaining riding session. DISPLAY 9.—Capt. Terrell M. Jacobs in a thrilling display of animal mastery. Working a score of lions, some of them green animals, he gave a highly entertaining exhibition, putting his charges thru their paces with speed and sureness that won him round after round of applause. Always an excellent trainer, Jacobs has shown marvelous improvement in showmanship that unmistakably puts him among the topnotchers in this field. His feature is Sheba, a rollover lion said to be the only one extant.

DISPLAY 10.—Wild West. A colorful troupe of cowboys, cowgirls and Cossacks, under the direction of Col. Carl Preston, late of the Texas Rangers. They present a fast session of trick riding and roping and whip cracking that registers well with the customers.

DISPLAY 11.—Aerial numbers. Girls in flashy costumes on ladders and Roman rings; Martha Joyce and Miss Hollis, muscle grinds; the Merkels, trap act, and climaxing with Janet Merkel doing a ceiling walk that kept the audience gasping. An entertaining display.

DISPLAY 12.—Cheerful Gardner and his familiar head-carry elephant. Elephant walks length of the track with Gardner swinging by his head in the Troupe, Demnati Arabs and Cress pachyderm's mouth.

DISPLAY 13. — The Bob Eugene Troupe, aerial bars, and the Flying Behrs. Two standard aerial acts that give a highly entertaining exhibition.

DISPLAY 14.—Art studies. Graceful stands for the Millers; Arthur Leonard, posing—bronzed figures in center ring;

DISPLAY 21.—Seals and dogs. In center ring a troupe of trained seals, worked by Jack Joyce. In end rings, dogs worked by Bessie Gardner and Martha Large. Nicely routined and got a good hand.

DISPLAY 22.—Novelty aerial number. Single and double traps, head stands and spins, done by Ira Millette Jr., John Schubert, the La Forme Duo, Ira Millette. Lavinia Sisters, E. White and Olvera Brothers. Accomplished artists presenting novelties that held attention and won applause.

DISPLAY 23.—Elephants. Five ponderous beasts in each ring, going thru their varied routines with a speed and precision that reflected the work of that expert trainer, Cheerful Gardner. Followed by long mount on the track, presenting a picturesque sight.

DISPLAY 24.—Wire acts. In center ring Miacahua, Brazilian wire walker, who has a varied bag of tricks and presents her routine in a showmanlike manner. Graceful and accomplished, she sells her stuff quite pleasingly and wins a hearty hand. In end rings the Acevedos and Tom and Betty Waters present fast and entertaining routines on the wire.

DISPLAY 25.—Acrobatics. The Moreen Troupe. Demnati Arabs, in center, feature pyramid building and whirlwind tumbling. The Moreen and Cress troupes do tumbling and excellent teeterboard work. Clean, speedy work that won its meed of applause.

DISPLAY 26.—Flying acts. A high spot of the show. In the end rings the Flying Vassars and the Flying La Vards, giving a fine exhibition of somersaults, twists, etc., that gets a generous response from the audience. In the center the feature act, the Great Otarios, crisscross flying act, keeps the customers thrilled and awe-struck with their flying in all directions at one time. A spectacular act that never fails to register big.

DISPLAY 27. — High-jumping horses. Nice work by Boots Taylor, Eva Taylor, Bobbie Peck, Jerey Lee, Bobbie Nelson, Juanita Gray and Johnny Davis.

DISPLAY 28.—Concluding feature, the man shot from a cannon. Man originally contracted, known as the Human Rocket, was badly injured recently in Buffalo, N. Y., and is unable to work. In his place Bill Parent has been engaged and is doing the regulation cannon act. Makes a good finish, altho it is no longer the sensation these acts used to Considering short rehearsal period and the numerous difficulties always connected with an opening, especially of a newly organized show, every one in the show gave a remarkably good performance, much better than anyone anticipated.

Roster of band, clowns, Wild West, Side Show, showgirls, etc., will be given in next issue.

"Laws and Lawsuits Pertaining To the Amusement Business"

Under the above title there will appear in The Billboard, starting with an early issue, a series of legal articles pertaining to various branches of the amusement business. The articles will be authored by Leo T. Parker, a prominent attorney of Cincinnati, and should be exceedingly interesting to readers of The Billboard.

All of the material will be treated in such a way as to be readily understandable and to the point. Variations of the law will be discussed, and each statement and explanation of the law will be based upon a higher court decision, which will be digested in the fewest possible words.

Advice will also be given on how to avoid litigations, but if suits are filed the late citations being included in the articles should assist those concerned and their lawyers in fighting the cases.

No attempt will be made to offer advice on personal inquiries, but if a sufficient number of suggestions are received, a special article on the subject will be published at a subsequent date.

Entire Industry Will Be Covered

John L. Campbell, broker, prophesies NAAPPB insurance will blanket field

CHICAGO, April 10 .- With the public liability insurance plan sponsored by the National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools and Beaches, under leadership of the public liability insurance committee, headed by N. S. Alexander, Woodside Park, Philadelphia, covering operations of more than 600 individuals during the 1936 season and an increase in premium volume of more than 100 per cent now in sight for 1937, John Logan Campbell, Baltimore broker, prophesies that the not too distant future will see practically the entire field of amusement park, pier, pool and beach operators enjoying benefits of this exceptional plan.

It was Mr. Campbell who originated the plan and brought officials of the NAAPPB and Associated Indemnity Corporation of California together, and after many months of hard work perfected the plan launched for the benefit of members of the association a year ago.

Baker Finds Enthusiasm Mixed With Season Orders

NEW YORK, April 10 .- "Everyone at the sessions seemed enthused about prospects and I have not encountered an operator yet who has not shown some enthusiasm," said President Harry C. Baker, National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools and Beaches, upon his return from the ninth annual meeting of the New England Section of that body in New Bedford, Mass., on March 30 and 31.

"As far as we are concerned, we are doing more work in the building line than since 1928. Roller coasters are being constructed on a large scale again; in fact, we have four coaster jobs on hand aside from many other jobs we are doing.

"This indicates the return of confidence, which I say is the most convincing argument for the return of better times."

OMER J. KENYON will manage Fairyland Park, Kansas City, Mo., this season for Mario and Victor Brancato, having been engaged last January to assume the post as soon as he ended road tour for MGM. Those coming under the plan received Long Beach Will Charge

LONG BEACH, L. I., N. Y., April 10 .-After dillydallying with the matter for four or five years Long Beach city council enacted an ordinance charging for use during summer of local beaches. Season tickets will sell for $1, while transients will pay 25 cents for each visit.

Long Beach will convert the bathing area into a park. City has not been having an easy time financially and present expenditure of more than $2,500,-000 for beach improvement, together with the erection of a Boardwalk, adds further to monetary complexities. Thus it has been necessary to find new means to raise funds.

Mayor Gold ordered fencing of the beach at a cost of $16,000 and instructed that provision be made for 33 entrance gates. It has been intimated that the new ruling will do much to enhance "exclusiveness" of the community, which, it appears, has been threatened the past few years by bathers who dress on beaches and commit other infractions.

Forest in Hanover, Pa., Is Preparing

HANOVER, Pa., April 10.—Considerable improvement has been made in Forest Park here, reports the management, A. Karst & Son, preparatory to the season's opening on May 1. A large jumping - horse Merry - Go - Round has been installed in place of the stationaryhorse machine. The new one, a 52-foot Philadelphia Toboggan ride, formerly in White Rose Park, York, Pa., has been rebuilt and repainted.

Two new organs have been placed in the building housing the Merry-Go-Round, double tractor and single tractor organs. Another single tractor organ is still there, making three organs for the machine. An organ has been placed in the Skooter building. Skating Rink has been inclosed with metal shutters which can be lowered in warm weather. Cecil Milam, Wheeling Island, W. Va., will again operate the rink.

Dance floor is being redecorated and leveled and will again be operated by Bud Codori, Gettysburg, Pa. Dink Erisman will again operate eating concessions and Ernie Wolfe will operate bingo, Funhouse and game concessions.

There will be four school days starting on May 8, when school children of four counties will be guests and have free rides and prizes. Buildings and rides are being repainted, with replacements, which should make this year the best the park has had. Forest Park Free Fair will again be held on September 6-12, when free acts, concessions and rides will be booked by the park management. Free acts, fireworks, bands and radio attractions will be used thruout the season.

Kennywood Acts Change Biweekly During Season

PITTSBURGH, April 10.—Acts for Kennywood Park season, changing biweekly, announced by President A. Brady McSwigan and booked thru George Hamid, will be, successively, Conley Three, Will Morris and Bobby; the Santanellos, with Laddie Lamont; Jumbo and the White Brothers, Otaris, the Rocket, Les Kimris, Four Arleys, Three Erwingos and Billetti Troupe.

Manager Charles Beares Jr. announces 109 picnics already booked for West View Park in June, heaviest for that month in years. New dance floor will be one of the largest in Western Pennsylvania. Neon effects will be added to plans for a new fountain in middle of the lake.

DETROIT, April 10.-Eastwood Park will open on April 16 with all rides and other attractions in operation. Manager Henry Wagner said that on the Eight Mile road side a dance pavilion has been constructed, where well-known orchestras will furnish music.

A number of new rides have been installed, including a Loop-o-Plane. A new Merry-Go-Round has been built and a streamlined train added to Kiddie City. On night of April 16 World's Fair Ballroom will be opened by Fats Waller and orchestra, to continue Saturday and Sunday. They will be followed by Art Mooney's Band, featuring Mary Lou Harrington, who will move from Cocoanut Palms into the ballroom.

. Music for dancing and musical shows in the Palms will be by Phil Sillman's D. A. C. Orchestra. Jim Bennett will direct the shows. A feature of the park will be a Singing Tower.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 10.—A bill proposing a State public bathing law and repealing regulations in an act of 1931 has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Kahle. It would levy an annual tax of $10 on each public pool and prohibit local governments from further assessments. Department of health is authorized to set forth conditions under which pools shall operate. Data on source of water, quantity and quality, purification, heating, cleaning, segregation of sexes and cleanliness of bathers must be furnished.

Big Festival for Jefferson

DETROIT, April 10.—Booking of a big outing of St. John's Day League of Masons on June 26 and 27 at Jefferson Beach has been made by Managing Director J. F. Gibson with Kennett A. Hall, general chairman of the league. Mr. Gibson said 200,000 are expected at the festival, sponsored by the league and with proceeds going to charity. He said $20,000 has been set aside for promotion and prizes and that three Packard cars will be given away. Free attractions, contests and races will feature the State-wide event.

The New England Park men's meeting in New Bedford, Mass., on March 30 and 31 was successful and brought to members and guests the best lot of papers on live subjects that they have had for some time. Danny Bauer and his splendid family made excellent hosts. That remarkable family of his are doing a good job in bringing up Danny. Two daughters, one daughter-in-law, one sonin-law and his fine spouse all work in harmony and the place shows it. Everybody works but Danny—and he works overtime. A clean, attractive place, good food properly served and at reasonable prices constitute the answer for the success of the place.

Then they once said that if Danny were elected president of the New England organization he would do all of the talking. Again they are wrong. Danny arose to the occasion and demonstrated once more that a president can be chosen from the membership by those who pay the dues that make it all possible and that no wet nurses are necessary.

Comment on Speakers

Harry C. Baker ably represented the national association. It has been interesting to see him improve since he first appeared before us in Chicago. Take time to pronounce your words distinctly and correctly, Harry, and you have it.

Charles F. Keller represents the younger generation and is a coming man in the industry. A little louder, Charley, and not so fast and you will get your message across in fine shape. This will come easy to you with experience.

Wallace St. C. Jones wields a facile pen and has a fine volume in his tone to put it over. He always hits the bull'seye. Ever constructive and can always be depended upon to do well what he undertakes.

C. D. Bond had a paper, bereft of all byplay, well written and read not too fast and in well-rounded tones. The best effort of his entire career in our industry. Congratulations, Major. Exhibitions and Amusement Parks was his subject. Timely, well handled and a result of study and observation. Page Dudley Scott, of Humphrey Company, he will want a copy of the paper, as it meets some of the problems which perlex him.

Maurice Piesen always writes well and now has the enthusiasm born of recent success.

Alexander on Insurance

Norman S. Alexander, stiff with starch and dignity, always brings class to any conclave. He thinks much, writes clearly and, while not a speaker, always has the fine enunciation and force to make all hear and get his message. He keeps right on his subject and is never long nor tiresome. Just the fellow to handle the dry-as-bones insurance matters, which had come to be a joke, until by persistent effort his insurance committee accomplished its purpose and has reduced insurance rates that benefit all and will make our organization. The savings are substantial and more are yet to come. Ask yourselves why you can afford not to be a member.

Leonard Traube has an eloquent pen. His paper was good but the pinchhitter for him read too fast and was not loud

Arch E. Clair knows the ballroom. He has the size and personality to deliver his message. It was a pleasure, Arch. Ernest G. Neale made roller skating live again for us. His subject was as instructive as the most critical could ask. It is experience speaking thru him and you can't argue with it. Bank Night, by Heffner, and Making Play, by Maddux, were handled professionally and did not hit the responsive chords that our own bunch actually on our firing line can do.

"We Can All Improve"

Fred Fansher has vocabulary, voice, enthusiasm and personality, all the aces in the deck. Only one suggestion, Fred. Not quite so fast. Harry E. Tudor has a niche all his own. Here is a wordsmith who put together a good paper. Hold your head up, Harry. Pronounce more distinctly and give it more volume and over she goes!

Don't get discouraged, boys. The next speaker had his speech prepared for him and had it committed to memory, even to the gestures. He had delivered it numerous times before and so was an actor. At that, he was too fast, not clear and lacked volume in tone.

Do you get the spirit of this? We are all for improvement. Your author was once too long before he learned to put out history or any other data in homeopathic doses. We can all improve. Let's do it. No offense in any manner whatsoever is intended. Just giving the spirit of the New England meeting from a different vantage point.

FROM ALL AROUND: Big turnout of important folks at the testimonial dinner tendered to Park Commish Robert Moses in Commodore Hotel, New York City. Among those in attendance was former Governor Al Smith, mentor of Moses, who outlined park plans for summer on Long Island.

beaches there will be more than 400 extra police detailed to summer duties. Rockaway will take the bulk of these, followed by Long Beach, Jones Beach, Riis Park and Atlantic Beach in that order.

Ruling of the State park commission for beaches under its jurisdiction bans airplanes from towing over its beaches any signs of an advertising nature. Each summer for the past three years airplane advertising has been an important business around Long Island beaches, what with the thousands of persons to play to. But the plane pilots must steer their ships clear of State parks or else.

Roller skating is set for the limelight on Long Island this summer. Winter biz has been a forerunner of what appears will be an exceptionally good summer.

ROCKAWAY BEACH: Boardwalk bakeries may be the fad this year. It is the intention to popularize cake in the manner of hot dogs. Little damage was wrought by the ocean last winter and as a result there is hardly any repair work to be done.

Opening of the roller-skating rink on the Boardwalk at Playland Park was an auspicious event, with skaters from many parts of the Island's South Shore turning out. Manager Meisel foresees exceptional biz. Bowery section of the Boardwalk, which during the past decade or so lost much of its glamour, is slated to make a comeback this summer. Concessioners are banding to boom the region, which physically has changed much from the old days.

Some of the stand-bys, the Fabers, Tafferts, Heymans, Wilmans and Colbers, are prepping for the season. Among them they virtually control the largest fraction of flasher biz. A dozen members of Rockaway life-saving force will be missing from the ranks this summer, having announced intentions to join the New York City fire department.

LONG BEACH: Haberdasheries are stocking with summer sports wear in huge quantities, which may be taken as an indicator of the rapidly approaching start of the season. . . . Phil Pearl, former local scribe, is covering Washington for Universal Service. . . . Joe Kappel back from Florida.

Meadowbrook, Bascom, O., Has Large Increase in Biz

BASCOM, O., April 10.—New Meadowbrook Park, between Tiffin and Fostoria, is being remodeled, pool is being repaired and rides will be added this season, said Manager H. L. Walter, who looks for the best summer in years.

Many industrial outings have been booked, he said, and more than 200 reunions and picnics are scheduled. Redecorated ballroom opened on March 28 with a record initial crowd of 1,100.

Meadowbrook has had substantial growth since it was established in 1930. "From the low of 1932 we have tripled business," said Manager Walter. "Season of 1936 showed a 43 per cent increase over 1935, which had a 40 per cent increase over 1934."

Spokane Spot Is Readying

SPOKANE, Wash., April 10.—Business conditions point to the coming season in Natatorium Park here being best since 1930, said Manager Louis Vogel. Park has been improved with a black-top pavement outside the entrance and oneinch oil mat pavements inside, as a means of combating dust. A walk is being put thru in place of the Joy Wheel. Considerable painting has been done to buildings and equipment, with more scheduled before opening of the season. It is planned to continue the policy of using name bands, which met with approval of patrons last year.

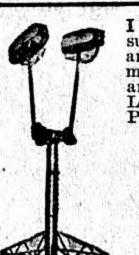

Easter Is Big in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—Playlandat-the-Beach had its largest attendance in 12 years on Easter Sunday, because of the first warm day of the season and Safeway Stores' half-fare tickets. Leo Whitney, co-owner, said indications point to an excellent year. Many improvements have been made, including repaying of the midway.

OCEAN CITY, N. J.—Repairs to the boardwalk were authorized by city commissioners, who voted to purchase between 16,000 and 20,000 board feet to redeck the walk from North to Second Around South Shore Long Island streets. City will also buy 60,000 feet to redeck the rolling chair runways between Second and Sixth streets. Purchase was authorized for 3,000 pilings for repairs to jetties and bulk heads.

Added Public Interest Here

By Herbert F. O'Malley

DAYS are getting longer, the first is to be worthy of public patronage robin has arrived buds are swelling it must present a decent appearance and and shortly Mother Nature will awake and spread the landscape with a brandnew coat of color. Spring is here and it's time for the amusement park man to emerge from hibernation and prepare for the warm bright days ahead.

From all indications 1937 will show a substantial improvement in business.

HERBERT F. O'MALLEY, director of Playland, Rye, N. Y., huge Westchester County-operated amusement spot.

People will have more money to spend and, perhaps of greater importance, they will feel an urge to spend it. The people who have been worried about the children's shoes or tomorrow's bread haven't contributed much to park income, but this year many more family budgets will include some amount for recreation.

How will the amusement park meet this added public interest? Will it present the same old faded weather-beaten front with dead wood behind it or will it, like Mother Nature, meet its friends, old and new, with a shining coat of color and a new crop of attractions?

Safe, Novel and Clean

Park operators' spring program should be designed to accomplish, in brief, safety, novelty and cleanliness. Every attraction should receive a most careful inspection, and any structural or mechanical defects should be immediately remedied. This is not only an obligation to patrons but a sound business principle in eliminating the hazard of expensive accidents or breakdown.

Structures of metal or wood should be gone over, all machinery should be inspected, power equipment should be tested and even such seemingly unimportant things as walks and fences should be given attention.

Any park, large or small, should definitely plan on some new devices or attractions each year. Obviously, no operator can afford to tear out and discard annually a major part of the expensive equipment, but to retain the public interest there must be some replacements. Serious thought should be given to minor alterations. A new front or a slight change in either structural design or operating plan will make an old ride look newer, sometimes act younger, and bring in more money.

Color Broad Subject

Flowers and floral arrangements add a lot to the beauty and novelty of the park at a comparatively moderate expense.

structures and buildings is somewhat like a dirty-faced boy, tolerated but not chief feature of allure (?), a loudspeaker loved. One of the greatest virtues in park operation is cleanliness: Cleanliness ing records long past the screeching of buildings to present that bright color- stage, thanks to abuse and reproducing ful appearance, cleanliness of grounds, both in the open and in the odd corners, and cleanliness of operating facilities.

it is with park attractions. If a park ers that actually "blast out" the musi-robin has arrived, buds are swelling it must present a decent appearance and the answer is paint, paint and more paint. Any paint is better than none, but harsh, gaudy colors in large quantity should be avoided, as well as white, on large expanses, which glares in the summer sun. Color is a broad subject, but a good manufacturer's representative can make some valuable suggestions.

Leave Storm Cellar

A thoro periodical house cleaning is to be strongly recommended. Spaces behind buildings, under ride structures and in power houses should be cleaned. Not only will this improve appearance, but it will remove a considerable fire hazard. Surfaces which have a good coat of paint can be brightened enormously with some soap, water and "elbow grease." During the operating season grounds should be kept clean and provision made for prompt disposal of trash. Park patrons are not all drawn from the "upper crust," but nevertheless they appreciate orderliness and cleanliness.

All employees should be clean, both in person and clothing. Personal cleanliness should be mandatory and use of some simple, inexpensive uniforms which can be laundered from time to time should be considered. Particular attention should be devoted to employees who handle food and, as far as is humanly possible, they should be immaculate.

by the depression have been living in the storm cellar. The time has come for us to stick out our heads and do some plowing if we hope to reap the harvest. The progressive park man will face the coming season with optimism and with a plant embellished and equipped to attract the dollars that will be ready and waiting.

breach of contract. In such an event, "if the performances were interrupted." My most notable discovery as to -amusement-park promoting and exploitation was that the very words, "amusement park" are the reddest of red rags to municipal authorities of both shore resorts and inland cities and towns. And, to be candid, quite justified, judging from their abuse as appelations of enterprises far from deserving that title. Thru the medium of the columns of The Billboard's British cousin, The World's Fair, and to many prominent outdoor amusement men I asserted that American amusement parks have gained by earning it, the status of institutions in their respective cities or towns.

"Parks" Seen in Stores

Some idea of what seems to be accepted as an amusement park may be gathered from the report on a recent application for a license for a prospective park at a well-known English shore resort. A member of the town council said, "There is to me no difference between an amusement park and a fairground, so far as the noise is concerned." It seemed to me that the only British park operators who realized my meaning are those who have visited American parks. They appreciate that the north and south poles are no wider apart than an amusement park and a fairgrounds. I am by no means belittling the British fairs. They have their places in entertaining the British public and usually exhaust their "all-the-fun-of - the - fair" attractiveness in the few days allotted for their holding.

In several British cities I found vacant stores rented for amusement purposes and with signs reading only, "Amusement Parks." In the majority of instances the preferred entertainment com-A park with bare, dilapidated coaster prised an array of coin-operated machines, a flat or water ride and the of extreme high-pressure volume and usneedles worn almost down to their holders. The British fun fairs, both al fresco and in buildings, are chiefly remarkable The chances are that the man who for the indescribable din emanating from lives in a barn has few callers, and so anything from a dozen to 20 loudspeakcal(!) harmony that can be as easily imagined as described and, in fact, "beggaring description," in the variety of discordant records. And that kind of thing is assumed, by many park operators, to be the essential of an amusement park.

Adverse Weather Braved

There are, of course, exceptions. Blackpool Pleasure Beach, under the wise direction of Leonard Thompson, maintains the ideal of the late William G. Bean, its founder, and leads all others. John Collins, of Great Yarmouth; Frank Thompson, of Leeds, and John W. Shillan, of Eastbourne, who all, as does Leonard Thompson, frequently visit the United States, operate their parks on lines evidently as acceptable to the British public as the American.

I do not have to mention that the chief attractions of parks and resorts thruout Europe owe their origin to American inventive genius. If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, America's designers of gravity, flat and water rides and other varieties of devices may, with every good reason, pat themselves on their respective backs.

Considering the legendary climate, or lack of it, of the British Isles, the outdoor amusement caterers deserve fullest credit for their enterprising pluck and, in many cases, vast expenditures of capital. With last summer as a criterion, I am prompted to suggest that the British folk only know that it is summer when there are leaves on the trees. The resorts, just the same, have their holiday-During the past few years many park making throngs and at times under operators who were not swept away weather conditions that would find American resorts empty.

"Brussels? Nuf Sed"

Thruout last summer I was engaged in directing the more pretentious shore entertainments of the famous and beautiful Firth of Clyde on the West Coast of Scotland and, as under-cover enterprises, doing most excellent business under the weather conditions. In arranging and directing an innovation of the Southern States' "Show Boat" on the Clyde, the weather man was fortunately on his best and most unusual (for the Clyde) behavior. Some idea of the innovation's success may be had from the fact that somewhat more than 20,000 would-be patrons stormed the piers and with our boat having a capacity of almost 3,000.

I cannot help making a brief reference to the Brussels Exposition of the summer of 1935 and likely to be remembered by British and American concessioners. Harry Traver and myself were, respectively, running the two principal features of the amusement section. I think, at that, I will quote the old adage of "the least said, the better" where the story is of one of the "rawest deals" for concessioners in the history of exhibitions.

Butlin Is Outstanding

Summing up my impression of the present-day outdoor show business, I can only regard its outstanding feature as the recent capitalization of William E. Butlin as a company for $500,000, and distinguishing the popular Billy Butlin as the most prominent individual personality in Britain's outdoor show world. A Canadian by birth and well versed in American park methods, Butlin started in a small way in England 10 years ago. In addition to controlling a number of seashore parks, he is an operator of American designed devices in a big way. His latest venture has been in founding a vast summer camp in Skegness, Lincolnshire. I can with confidence suggest to any American amusement men visiting Europe that they give this enterprise more than a "once over."

I would like to take this opportunity of expressing my sincere appreciation of the kindly welcome extended me in returning from Old England to New England and to John T. Benson his proffer of the position I fill with him on what is, assuredly, "The strangest farm on earth," and, as Mr. Benson forcibly asserts, "It is not a show." It is, to me, "some show."

its accruing at the end of the year are divided 60/40 between operators and the company, the former getting the big end of the split.

Those insuring under the plan in 1936 will receive dividend checks of not less than 10 per cent of the premiums paid last year as a result of their participation in the plan. Some operators, where the contingent liability feature was a factor, have already saved as high as 36 per cent on premiums they would have paid under bureau rates and this has no reference to the dividend still due, it is said.

"With these facts in mind, it is not difficult to appreciate the soundness of Mr. Campbell's prohpecy, as the liability insurance problem has been a big headache in the outdoor amusement business for many years, with rates constantly climbing regardless of the loss ratios," said A. R. Hodge, secretary of the NAAPPB. "Last year a number of the most prominent operators in the country led the crusade for cheaper and better portection, and it is expected that many more will be in line this year; in fact, a number of outstanding names have already been added to the

The Pool Whirl

By NAT A. TOR

(All communications to Nat A. Tor, care of Cincinnati Office, The Billboard)

Oh, Fiddlestix!

A new game sweeping the country is a likely successor to "handies," jig saw and mah jong in public favor. According to statisticians, if the number of persons who have taken to the game continues—and so far it numbers about 5.000,000 fans—it may even surpass bridge. The sport is that of fiddlestix, that tantalizing diversion of picking up sticks, and if you have never seen anyone playing it in your own vicinity it's only because you are blind-it's that popular universally. Because the game is such a craze I'd like to advise all pool men, operators of outdoor and indoor tanks, to tie up with the fad at once. Already reports have come in that night clubs thruout the country are staging so-called "fiddlestix nights," and in various sections newspapers are conducting city-wide tournaments in the game. The game of fiddlestix, as you should know, is played with a bunch of sticks and the object is to see who can pick up the most sticks without moving or touching the others. It can be played with a group of persons or as solitaire. And because it has a competitive spirit and is a game of skill and not chance, those in the know predict it will survive way past the fad stage and become a permanent pastime. Therefore it should readily be seen that progressive pool owners who tie up in the early stages will reap most benefits out of it. Introduce the game to swimmers, altho a great many of them are undoubtedly already acquainted with it. And then plan a series of fiddlestix contests, tying up with your local papers and merchants for prizes. The reason I think the game is so suitable for pools is that it is of the type that lends itself marvelously to a sideline attraction. A great deal of space isn't necessary and either tables can be set up on the sides of the tank or else the game can be played on the floor. So, as a couple of words to the wise, fiddlestix is the current craze and those who tie up will benefit.

Where's the Fire?

The not much publicity was given to it, we understand Henry Guenther's Olympic Park pool, Irvington, N. J., had a fire recently and that a great deal of damage was sustained. However, we understand renovation has already begun and everything will be in readiness for the season. Simultaneously with the above we learn that the lockers adjacent to Columbia Park pool, also in New Jersey and not far from the Olympic tank, suffered a second fire.

Venice Gondoliers

Received word that E. A. Gerety Jr. plans new types of life guards at Venice (Calif.) park and plunge for this season. Many other innovations are also being planned to bring out the Venice name, so one presumes the swim guards are to be dressed as gondoliers, altho the communication doesn't state what the actual change will be. At any rate, we wouldn't put it past the Venice plunge crowd, because they have pulled so many fine stunts in the past which have received not only local publicity but nation-wide attention as well. Whoever handles publicity for the Venice plunge deserves a nod of congratulations, even tho it be belated, because there have been some swell big stories emanating from there.

Sand Storm

A few pool men in the East, those associated with open-air tanks, have told me that they seem to be having difficulty with their orders for sand for their beaches. Prices have gone up with an increase in demand. Many of the boys threaten to hire trucks and cart their own sand from near-by city beaches if they continue to have trouble with sand people. All that I can add to this is that, in my experience, there have been some fly-by-night sand and cement sellers who, in an attempt to crash in on the swimming field, are exercising bad tactics. Have warned many of them that I would expose this evil unless it was stopped and, with this latest report, I have a good mind to do so. But, in fairness to the many legitimate concerns in the biz, my better judgment tells me to wait. Those pool operators having difficulty with their sand and concrete

CINCINNATI—Functioning almost on a summer-time basis the Zoo is launched on its 1937 season. The full force of box-office men and ticket takers will be on the job week-ends and the old autogate entrance will be open Sundays. Hours of operation have been lengthened and run daily from 8:30 until 5:30. Guests do not have to leave the grounds at the latter hour, but are privileged to remain in the garden until dusk. Efforts are being put forth to complete the new parking lot on Forest avenue within two or three weeks. The lot will not only quadruple the Zoo's present parking area, but will require a shorter walk to center of activities. The new reptile house stands ready to receive snakes and lizards on their way to Cincinnati. Regional parent-teacher associations are planning "Zoo Days." Country schools and those from neighboring communities have set dates for visiting the Zoo.

MADISON, Wis. - In Vilas Park Zoo here one of Victoria's lion cubs succumbed to injuries received in a fourfoot fall while playing in its cage, and Zor II, camel son born to Zora, lived only 30 hours after birth.

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Susie, an orangutan, has been loaned to Forest Park Zoo here by Tol G. Teeter, circus man, of San Antonio, who has loaned several other animals to this zoo. It now has three of the four varieties of great apes, DETROIT—An insect zoo will open in Detroit as a permanent exhibit, probably in a building on outskirts of the city at some place popular with crowds over week-ends and sponsored by the World Adventure Series, according to George Pierrot, director. It will have bugs of different varieties from all over the country, especially those peculiar to Michigan. Zoo will be in charge of Brayton Eddy, author and entomologist, who was director of a similar zoo in Warwick, R. I. Pierrot says the idea has proved popular in Europe.

NEW YORK.—E. J. Rutan, manager of Rutan Amusement Enterprises, Newark, N. J., revealed a unique night club booking in his city recently. Seems that he placed Emma Raymond, trap, web and tight-wire artist; the Original LeFeFavor and Pierce and CeDora, heretofore strictly fair and park acts, in the Mohawk Club, formerly known as the Club Engineer.

ARENA-STRUCK—

(Continued from page 39) over some of the lesser tricks performed by my superiors. This was my great secret. When I went to bed I thought about it with satisfaction until I fell to become animal trainers. My mail asleep, but in the morning when I faced conveys this message to me daily. Tell the men whom I served as a sort of the aspirants that there are only about chambermaid I was afraid that they might read my thoughts and I would slink out of sight when their gaze rested on me too long.

Made Assistant Trainer

And a little over a year later I was an assistant trainer! The men whose ridicule I had feared seemed greatly pleased that I wanted to enter the arena. Most cage boys, they told me, preferred to remain cage boys. The trainers were more than glad to give instruction to anyone who was willing to face the animals in the big cage.

In those early days one trainer in particular couldn't do enough for me-Chubby Guilfoyle. Chubby indeed had so much faith in me that I became overconfident. But I conquered this folly. Or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that Chubby knocked it out of me.

The purpose of this chapter is not to trace my career as a trainer. That has been done elsewhere in these pages. I am merely trying to tell how it feels to be circus-crazy-and what it means to be taken seriously.

Everything about the circus appealed to me, but the trainers and the wild animals were 90 per cent of the show to me. If someone had volunteered to help me become an acrobat or a clown I would have shown my appreciation, of course; altho that was not what I really wanted. I wanted to be an animal trainer. In other words, I was not so much circus-crazy as arena-struck. was the big cage that fascinated me more than anything else in the world.

-That is why when I became a full-fledged trainer I was able to understand the boys that applied for jobs as assistants to me in any capacity. Their ambitions had to be taken seriously even when I could do nothing for them. Two or three times I was able to provide jobs -unimportant and poorly paid ones, but jobs as good as the first one I got. And I also provided, and still provide, instruction to any willing and promising assistant.

When I think of my own struggles I wonder if it wouldn't be more intelligent to assume a hard-boiled attitude toward those who want to take up my profession. Perhaps I ought to be kind only to those who show some marked talent at the outset. But I doubt if I had anything but determination and a fixed idea to begin with, and that makes me tolerant of the aspirations of others, however crude and half-baked these yearners may seem.

When anyone comes to me who thinks he wants to become an animal trainer I cuss him out. I pronounce him an idiot in 20 different ways. Then if he can't be shaken from his ambition—in other words, if he's as mulish about it as I was when I first got the idea—I do all I can to help him.

Want To Become Trainers

There are hundreds of boys who want a half dozen jobs in this field in America that are worth holding and your make no impression. They still want to be animal trainers; at least this is true of most of them.

How many amazing, humorous, touching incidents occur to me as I contemplate young America's ambition to rule the big cage! Once in 1930, as I made an inspection tour of my cages, I came upon a ragged boy who stood, imitating my arena stance, in front of a cage that held 400 pounds of tiger. In one hand he held a little whip, in the other a toy pistol. He kept pulling the trigger of the popgun until he had the tiger lunging at the bars. I watched him from an alley in the cat shed about 10 yards from where he stood—altho if I had been 10 inches away he would have been equally unaware of my existence.

An attendant caught the boy and was about to hustle him out of the shed. At this point I interfered. I ordered the attendant to let the boy go, which does not prove I have a big heart, but simply shows that on occasion sentimentality can betray me into an utter disregard for discipline. The attendant was well within his rights in glaring at me. The boy should not have been in the cat barn, and certainly he had no business exciting the tiger with that foolish toy gun.

However, something about the youngster appealed to me. I spent most of the day telling him how wild animals, especially lions and tigers, are trained. It was a lot of information to pour into the ears of a boy who couldn't have been over 9 or 10. But he lapped it up and that was my excuse.

I wouldn't leave my picturesque profession for anything in the world. Life would seem dull in any other job. But I wouldn't be telling the truth if I didn't point out that no one would ever think of becoming an animal trainer if he knew what it entails in the way of hardships. Once you've survived the hard knocks you keep on going, for you know what it's all about and you might as well use your knowledge. But that's no reason why you should encourage

I've done well in my field, but if I had a son who wanted to enter it I'd put him across my knee and wallop him.

"Laws and Lawsuits Pertaining To the Amusement Business"

Under the above title there will appear in The Billboard, starting with an early issue, a series of legal articles pertaining to various branches of the amusement business. The articles will be authored by Leo T. Parker, a prominent attorney of Cincinnati, and should be exceedingly interesting to readers of The Billboard.

All of the material will be treated in such a way as to be readily understandable and to the point. Variations of the law will be discussed, and each statement and explanation of the law will be based upon a higher court decision, which will be digested in the fewest possible words.

Advice will also be given on how to avoid litigations, but if suits are filed the late citations being included in the articles should assist those concerned and their lawyers in fighting the cases.

No attempt will be made to offer advice on personal inquiries, but if a sufficient number of suggestions are received, a special article on the subject will be published at a subsequent date.

FRISCO FUND DRIVE STARTS

Expo Private Subscription Goal Is Fixed at $7,500,000 Figure

Initial day of campaign brings in $750,000 to chests of "Treasure Island"—boosters hear national speakers tell of enormity of task and plead for co-operation

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—A drive for $7,500,000, to be raised by private subscription, was launched by Golden Gate International Exposition of 1939 on Tuesday and by the following day $750,000 had been poured into the chests of "Treasure Island." At a banquet attended by 500 prominent bay area residents in the Gold Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, George Creel, Washington staff writer, and John Francis Neylan, attorney for a newspaper chain, prophesied that the Frisco expo would be a financial and artistic success, providing everyone worked hard and co-operated with the administration of the $40,000,000 enterprise.

Creel, who flew from Washington to attend the dinner, reported that President Roosevelt had assured him that the federal government would participate on a large scale and that the $3,000,000 asked for would be forthcoming, probably in installments. Thru various channels the exposition, directly or indirectly, has already received $6,400,000 from the federal government.

Competition in New York

Creel warned the enthusiastic gathering not to belittle the competition that would be offered by the New York World's Fair in 1939 and said that for every dollar in San Francisco there is a thousand in New York, all willing to further Manhattan's great undertaking. He also reminded San Franciscans that if foreign participation was desired it must be fought for and the fight would not be easy.

He cited as nations which have indicated they would participate in the Golden Gate Fair: Ireland, Hungary, Great Britain, Russia, France, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium, Italy, Mexico, Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, China, Siam, Dutch East Indies, South America and Central America.

Word of an outstanding Indian Village envisioned for the fair by John Collier, federal commissioner of Indian affairs, also was brought by Creel. "The thing (See FRISCO FUND on page 50)

Nebraska Grand-Stand Bond Plan Okehed by Legislature

LINCOLN, Neb., April 10.-First step in proposed re-financing of grand-stand debentures, a $250,000 issue which has pulled nearly $13,000 interest annually and harassed the State Fair treasury no end, was accomplished when the unicameral Legislature okehed the refinancing process,

Suggested by the governor, the bill asks recall of the issue which bears 51/2 per cent interest, and it will be refunded by a 3 per cent bearing issue.

Next step is to okeh spending of the State educational and land funds money to buy up the issue from private holders of the bonds. This step is the hardest, the educators having been screaming lately about so-called misuse of the funds in this manner. It's given an even chance, however.

District or County Event May Succeed Yakima State

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 10.—State Fair in Yakima, after being revived in 1936 and showing $700 profit, with a $20,000 appropriation by the Legislature, will not be held for the next two years. Governor Martin vetoed a bill appropriating $50,000 for it and creating a State fair commission of seven.

Plans are being discussed to run the fair as a district or county event, however. The governor said he vetoed the bill because he felt the fair should be self-supporting.

But he signed a bill authorizing the State agriculture department to pay up to $500 to match similar contributions from local agencies at county or 4-H club fairs to pay premiums. He also signed a bill which included $25,000 for a new 4-H Club building on Yakima State Fair grounds. It is doubtful if this will be built.

Better in West

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 10.— "The outlook for Montana fairs this year is exceedingly good," declared Manager Harold F. DePue, North Montana State Fair here, and active in Rocky Mountain Association of Fairs. "For a great many years there has not been the enthusiasm on the part of everyone that there is this spring. However, conditions during summer and fall will depend very directly upon weather and crops. Business has improved materially during the winter and morale is a great deal better than at this time a year ago. Nothing but an absolute crop failure can keep Montana fairs from going into a very successful 1937 season."

Change in Ionia To Take Care of Overflow Crowds

IONIA, Mich., April 10.—Main attractions for Ionia Free Fair have been signed and one important change in customary program schedule has been made, Secretary Fred A. Chapman said. To better control crowds on Thursday, biggest day, management will present two complete performances of the night grand-stand show, at 7:30 and 10 o'clock. (See CHANGE IN IONIA on page 50)

J. MONTE ROBERTS, secretary of Brodhead (Ky.) Fair, has been identified with that annual 20 years, most of that time in the secretarial post. This will be the 42d year for Brodhead Fair and four big days and nights are planned. He believes 1937 will show increased interest in State, district and county

Lloyd Succeeds McLaughlin, Resigned, as Ill. Director

W. McLaughlin, six years director of agriculture of Illinois, has resigned that office, resignation to take effect on May 1. He will return to his business of farm management.

Gov. Henry Horner was loath to accept his resignation when first submitted, it is said, but when Mr. Mc-Laughlin insisted that it be accepted he appointed H. J. Lloyd, assistant director of agriculture under the Mc-Laughlin tenure, in his place.

Illinois State Fair, Springfield, is under supervision of the director, and E. E. Irwin, Salem, general manager of the fair, will be retained under the Lloyd administration.

Five midway attractions are signed up—Brown resigns to manage show

DALLAS, April 10.—Contracts for five major midway attractions have been signed by Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition. They are with Dufour and Rogers for a Kiddyland and a show to be built around the World a Million Years Ago, with R. J. Sipchen for Black Forest, with Walter Herzog and J. E. Smith for Road to Rio and with Stanley Graham for the Bowery.

After completing negotiations for those shows, J. Ed Brown resigned as director of concessions to accept a position as manager of Ripley's Believe It Or Not Odditorium here. With Mrs. Brown, he left for a short vacation in Mexico City and San Antonio before assuming management of the Ripley show on May 1. Before he was associated with the 1937 fair he was assistant to the director-general of Texas Centennial Exposition here.

SPRINGFIELD, III., April 10.—Walter Vancouver Exhibition May Create New Financial Post

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 10.-Reorganization of Vancouver Exhibition Association to include appointment of a financial manager was indicated following a meeting of aldermen and exhibition officials. Council is studying a report submitted by Walter Wardhaugh, civic auditor, on exhibition affairs.

President Walter Leek, exhibition association, said his organization intends to appoint a financial manager. Management of association business would then be under supervision of the proposed finance head, an accountant, and J. K. Matheson, exhibition manager.

Under its lease with the city the exhibition association is obligated to adopt whatever accounting system the city deems most beneficial.

Mutuels Bill in Jersey Awaits Action Next Year

TRENTON, N. J., April 10.—A resolution to legalize pari-mutuel betting at horse races in New Jersey which passed the Legislature over stiff opposition in the Senate has been sent to the secretary of state, where it must await favorable action by next year's Legislature.

Racing interests hope the resolution will come before another friendly Legislature, but similar resolutions have met defeat, one after it had passed the Legislature in 1934 failing of adoption the following year.

Resolution calls for a constitutional amendment and must pass two successive Legislatures and then be submitted to State voters in a referendum. If the resolution finally passes, plans are to establish a race track in Atlantic City.

ITHACA, Mich., April 10.—Several acres will be added to present grounds, two large exhibit buildings will be erected, grand stand will be enlarged to seat 1,000 more and grounds will be completely rewired, it was voted by Gratiot County Agricultural Society in special meeting here, reported Secretary George B. Winget. County supervisors appropriated $2,000 for the 1937 fair.

GARDNER, Mass .- Fire, believed due to careless smoking, destroyed barns of Gardner Agricultural Society in Andrews Park here on April 4. Damage amounts to several thousand dollars.

MINERAL POINT, Wis.—Southwestern Wisconsin Fair Association booked a $2,500 vaude show which will include Rube Smith and his hill-billy band.

Fargo, Taking Off Its Free Gate, Goes on "Everybody Pays" Basis

FARGO, N. D., April 10.—Free gate of North Dakota State Fair in Fargo, in operation the last five years, will go by the boards under a policy, it was decided by directors and a citizens' committee of 18.

A gate charge of 25 cents per person and 25 cents per motor car will be made, with complimentary tickets absolutely eliminated. Even secretary, concessioners and officials will pay their way into the grounds and grand stand, it was de-

Moving the fair from a middle July date to late August will involve a number of improvements, including better talent and expanded agricultural and live-stock programs. An outstanding 4-H Club show also will be developed. William Stern, D. J. Campbell and Secretary Frank S. Talcott were authorized to buy entertainment. E. A. Tallberg, Thomas B. Hull, O. A. Johnson, J. E. Pyle and Frank R. Scott will prepare a budget.

Special Events For Ft. Worth

Margaret Hall is placed in charge—Rose scouting for talent for buildings

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 10.-Margaret Hall, manager of Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum and Municipal Auditorium here, has been named manager of special days and special events for Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta this summer by James F. Pollock, Fiesta secretary-manager. Miss Hall, who did this work last year, obtained a leave of absence as secretary to City Manager Fairtrace and retains managership of auditorium and Coliseum.

Two latest talent possibilities for the Fiesta include Original Dixieland Jazz Band, which Billy Rose hopes to get for the Pioneer Palace feature, and Salici Puppets, which would be put into the Jumbo Building.

May 22 has been set for selection of Texas Sweetheart No. 1, contests being held by towns to select participants for the State contest here. Participants who do not win the title get round-trip tickets here and a chance at minor parts in Casa Manana Revue.

Auditions for showgirls, chorus girls and chorus boys continue Thursday nights. It may be necessary to import male dancers from New York, but chorus and show girls are being found in this State. Male dancers so far selected include Dale Priest, Barry and Fenn Leach, Jack Sims, Eldredge Carson, Clarence Davis, A. Davis, Bob Cooper and Bob Norris, who were in the revue last year. Casa Manana cast is to have 48 more members than it did last year, according to re-

A. M. Blumberg, manager of Brooks Costumery, New York, which made the costumes last 'year, arrived to execute designs. Costumes for the local show and those for Rose's Aquacade at Great Lakes Exposition, Cleveland, are to be made in the shop here, it is said. Show board of control asked women's clubs to take part, as last year the clubs assembled exhibits for Sunset Trail buildings and were hostesses thruouf the season.

Prague Spring Fair Bigger

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, April 5.-Prague Spring Fair here was most successful of the 34 Prague International Fairs organized since 1920. In comparison to 1936 30 per cent more foreign buyers visited. Business was influenced favorably by an increased number of visitors from west and north European countries as well as from overseas. Buyers for big stores again came from all parts of the world and orders were more important than ever before. England, United States and parts of the British Empire were among best buyers.

Petersburg Prospects Good

PETERSBURG, Va., April 10.-Prospects for the 1937 South Side Virginia Fair here are best in seven years, declared Secretary R. Willard Eanes, as all industrial plants are in operation. Ground improvements are not pressing, as all buildings are in excellent condition but will be painted before fair time. Strates Shows have been contracted for the midway.

Who Owns Grounds? Court Must Decide

CEDAR RAPIDS, April 10 .- Linn County Fair Association officials are going ahead with plans for the 1937 fair in Central City, altho they are not sure whether they own fairgrounds.

Ownership of grounds became disputed during settlement of affairs of the closed State Bank of Central City and the legal twist will be aired in Linn County Court. A suit has been filed by the State treasurer, seeking to enjoin trustees of the bank from giving a deed to the fair association. Fair officials claim they obtained an option to buy the grounds for $4,000 before the bank closed and that $1,000 was paid.

Fair officials are G. O. Filloon, president; F. O. Satter, secretary; Mrs. Osie D. Page, assistant secretary, and P. G. Mills, member of executive board.

ROLAND E. FISHER, secretary of Annual Carnival and Night Fair, Selinsgrove, called the largest freegate night fair in Pennsylvania. Sponsored by D. H. and L. Fire Company, it is five years old and draws heavily in its territory, the 1936 annual having played to 40,000, five times the population of the town. Attendance during its first presentation was 5,000.

Fair Grounds

HARRISBURG, Pa.—A bill to change minimum length of Pennsylvania fairs from three to two days to encourage smaller agricultural bodies to continue annuals was introduced by Assemblyman Achterman. It is said present three-day requirement is too long for some societies in small communities.

AUBURN, Ind. — Homecoming, free acts, concerts and giveaways, besides usual exhibits, will feature the 1937 Free Street Fair here, said Manager H. E. Hart. A mark of 100 registrations has been set for a reunion of twins. F. E. Gooding shows and rides have been booked.

SAN FRANCISCO. — Six prominent Californians have been named judges to select Miss Western America and present some girl with a trip to Europe. With each of the 11 Western States selecting its own "queen" in contests sponsored by Golden Gate International Exposition of 1939, judges will pick the winner on April 29.

ARTHUR, Ill.—The 1936 Arthur Moultrie Douglas County Fair, 11th annual, having been one of the most successful here, time will be extended to five days this year and some premiums increased, said Secretary H. E. Hood. Amount spent in 1936 for free acts and music ranked second among all Illinois county fairs, according to a State report, and a similar 1937 program is on. In addition to a stage show a name orchestra is presented under a tent each year.

ALBANY, N. Y .- Race Secretary Gilbert Wetmore, New York State Fair, announced a program of 17 early closing events headed by the $16,000 All-American stake for trotters and the $5,000 Pacing Derby for the Grand Circuit harness-horse meeting at the 97th annual State Fair, Syracuse.

DANBURY, Conn.—Claiming that valuation of Danbury Fair grounds by the city is excessive, Danbury Farmers and Manufacturing Company, owner of the grounds, filed an appeal in Superior Court asking a reduction. A valuation of $190,150 was placed on the 150 acres and buildings for 1935-'36 tax lists. The company said it has paid all except the installment due on April 1 under protest.

MARYSVILLE, O. - Union County Agricultural Society will erect a large 4-H Club building this spring on the fairgrounds here for the 700 club members' exhibits.

MILWAUKEE - Harry Stein, local jewelry and leather goods salesman, lost a $1,000 damage suit against Walworth County Fair, Elkhorn, in Circuit Court here, being ordered to pay court costs of $50. He brought action against the fair association when it refused to permit him to sell jewelry at the 1936 fair be-

Drawing Card

By ROLAND E. FISHER -Secretary Selinsgrove (Pa.) Night Fair

I have attended fairs since boyhood and have made a close study of the various ways in which they are handled. I have come to the conclusion that the best drawing card today is free entertainment interspersed thruout fair programs, providing intervals in which crowds may be thrilled, entertained and made to laugh and forget their troubles.

Well do I recall, as a boy, attending a carnival or fair and spending my money in a half hour or less and then standing around until midnight to see the free acts, which were offered only at the end of the program.

To Hold Crowds

People want to be entertained and kept busy while at fairs and the free act is one way in which crowds can be attracted. With acts interspersed thruout programs crowds will be held on fairgrounds until the zero hour, all of which is of great benefit to concessioners.

Season of 1937, predicted by many as a boom year in fair business, finds preparations under way for the Fifth Annual Carnival and Night Fair in Selinsgrove, Pa., billed as "The largest free-gate night fair in Pennsylvania." It played to more than 40,000 last season during the six nights. This attendance was just five times the population of the town in which it is presented on the west shore of the Susquehanna River, midway between Harrisburg and Williamsport. Five years ago the event started with attendance of 5,000 persons, steadily increasing with wide variety of free entertainment, rides, concessions, shows and industrial and agricultural exhibits.

Keep Them Moving

This year there will be two sensational free acts, four platform acts, 10 bands and a huge exhibit tent with space already disposed of to business men. Reithofer's rides have been contracted and shows will be booked independently. Selinsgrove Fire Company will run some of the concessions. Bathing beauty contest for Central Pennsylvania and a special farmers program head the list of events to be presented on the open-air stage with public-address system.

All contests and free acts are held to a short period of time so as not to keep crowds away from shows, rides and concessions for too long and yet provide ample entertainment for those who each night jam the midway.

Jackson Free Gate Sticks

JACKSON, Miss., April 10.—Free gate will again prevail at Mississippi State Fair here, many plans for which are now in the making, said Secretary-Manager Mabel L. Stire, who opines that the free gate has worked out satisfactorily. Ernie Young's Cavalcade of Hits has been booked for the grand-stand show and Royal American Shows will be on the midway.

Colo. House for Mutuels

DENVER, April 10 .- With proponents mustering enough votes in the last minutes, the bill legalizing pari-mutuel betting on horse and dog races was passed by the State House of Representatives. An emergency clause, which would have made the bill a law immediately if it passed the Senate and was signed by the governor, was defeated, 38 to 25. Vote on the bill was 33 to 30. Indications are that the bill will not pass the Senate.

Is the Day of the Fair Over?

By Ralph T. Hemphill

EVERY fair secretary and manager is continually asked the question, "Is the day of the fair over?" Many times thruout the year in meetings of business organizations, in private conversation in office or on the street, the question comes up. It cannot be put aside, neither can it be evaded. There must be a definite answer given to it.

It is my opinion that fairs come and go, prosper and decay and then are resurrected to prosper again and that, on the whole, they go on and on and will continue to do so as long as youth is buoyant with hope, as long as young manhood and young womanhood have the ambition to strive for better things. So long as there is implanted in the human heart the desire for knowledge and so long as civilization endures fairs will continue to be a factor in the affairs of mankind.

Fairs are influenced, of course, by the rising and falling tides of business. Depressions hurt fairs in a like proportion to other lines of business. Depressions also are reflected in the schools and churches.

Must Serve Community

Some fairs, for one reason or another, get into a position where they do not serve the community. Many reasons may cause this condition. It may be politics; it often is. It may be poor management. It may be the failure on the part of the ones in charge to properly sell the fair to the community. It may be caused by some of those in charge attempting to use the fair for their own selfish interests. Whatever the cause, it is liable to produce the feeling that the day of the fair is over and that it should be junked.

It is natural for this conclusion to be reached. The community wherein this happens is unfortunate indeed. But usually after the reaction is over some of the leaders begin to look around and they see that in other places the fair is prosperous, that it is rendering a real service and that the management is good and that it has the support of the great majority of its constituents. Then they realize their community is overlooking something, that they have been misled, and as this feeling spreads there arises out of the ashes of the past a new and glorious fair that for years to come will continue to grow and prosper.

"Like Old Fire Horses"

It has often been said that the building of a fair was like the resurrection of the dead. That when the fair was over everyone that had anything to do with it was tired out, felt that the hard work they had done was not worth the price to them and a sort of "what's the use" feeling prevailed. Oftentimes many of those who work for the love of it make up their minds to quit. It is good practice then for the secretary to let his superintendents alone for a few months, try not to see them too often, and if he does see them to talk about other things.

Then after the holidays are over and spring begins to approach it is the secretary's duty to take up his departments. one at a time, see his department heads and those who were responsible for getting the exhibits, enthuse them if possible with the prospects of a good fair in the fall and in this manner gradually breathe the breath of life into the corpse. Time is a great healer and plays such an important part in the affairs of mankind. It is a remarkable thing how those few months have changed the picture and how, like the old fire horses, they again thrill at the thoughts of going into action. It is a service to mankind for which the greatest remuneration is the realization in one's own heart that he was a part of it, that he helped in his way to make it possible and that "much of it he saw and a part. of it he was."

To Build on Youth

The fair that is not built on youth is doomed. They must always be in the forefront of every successful fair manager's mind. There is not a great deal that a fair can do for those past middle life. Their habits of life are formed, their conclusions on many subjects have been formed and they play a minor part in the educational scheme of the fair. But along come the hordes of youth, continuously like the waters of the rivers, and they are full of hope, enthusiastic, ambitious, eager to see and to learn and to live.

And for the youth the fair offers its greatest opportunity for service. Neither must the fair secretary forget that his is an educational institution. All of the things that go with the educational aspect must be, in a sense, the predominating factors, and all the other parts must be subordinated thereto. I do not mean that they are not important to the entire plan of entertainment. They are very essential and are necessary for a well-balanced fair, but without the educational aspect a fair becomes just another show and has lost its excuse for existence.

And so long as fairs are founded on the right foundation, continue to serve their communities and continue to play the part in the great scheme of education for which they were intended, just so long will they continue to grow and prosper.

Lucky Teter's Hell Drivers have been signed for opening Monday afternoon performance, replacing Hinck's Congress of Daredevils, which performed last year. Contract also has been signed with Barnes-Carruthers for The Star Brigade, new night revue in five scenes, which will open at Ionia and later play State fairs in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Louisiana.

Mr. Chapman also signed for the fifth consecutive year the Rubin & Cherry Exposition for the midway. Thearle-Duffield has been re-engaged for fireworks.

ticket sales campaign with a limit of 500,-000 tickets. Phil Fox, assistant to Frank Watson, promotion director, was placed in charge of the campaign with headquarters in the Administration Building. A $3.60 value book, including one ticket each to the front gate, Cavalcade of the Americas, Road to Rio, Black Forest, the Bowery and the World a Million Years in his experience. It will be his 27th Ago, will go on sale for $2.20.

Director-General Frank L. McNeny signed an agreement with the building trades council and announced that none except union laborers would be used in every type of work.

Jim Crocker, director of radio, announced that the contract for operation of the grounds speaker and general broadcast system may be consummated with Gulf Oil Corporation within a few days.

More Time on Air

Prospects for more national time from the fairgrounds have been strengthened by announcements that Station WRR will join the Mutual System on May 1. That deal will give the exposition plant lines to local stations of NBC, Columbia and Mutual.

Jack Lyman, formerly of KFSD in San Diego and chief announcer at the Centennial Expo last year, has been made program director. Miss Rosa Cohen has rejoined the radio staff as Crocker's secretary. Al Trankle returned to Dallas after spending the spring months in Los Angeles, and began visiting friends around the exposition.

Kiddyland will occupy sites covered last year by Hollywood Animal Show, Rocket Ride and Mermaids. It will have Blue Goose and Octopus rides and a number of 5 and 10-cent rides, Punch and Judy Show, sand pile and miniature motorcycle and auto races.

that Mr. Collier dreams is a colorful and dramatic portrayal of Indian life that will go back to the very beginnings, taking in ancient civilization out of which came our own," Creel said.

President Leland W. Cutler of the exposition introduced Mr. Neylan, who asked the gathering to take on the spirit of adventure if they would have their fair a success. He cited the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915, held under adverse conditions, with war threatening to engulf the world. He pointed to its success as a goal to aim at by those who would see the 1939 fair the finest ever held.

State Aid Certain

Henry Q. Hawes, of the expo finance committee outlined the procedure to be followed in the month's drive for the $7,500,000, appealing to civic-minded citizens and businesses to subscribe. No guarantee is given that the money will be returned and those who contribute do so on the chance, which is almost a renamed secretary-manager. certainty, that the undertaking will be a financial success.

Virtual assurance was given the group that the legislators in Sacramento would pass the bill calling for $5,000,000 to be invested in the project by the State, in spite of rumors of contrary voices from the Los Angeles area. A plea for unification of the State and of the entire West was made.

As an entertainment feature Art Linkletter, director of radio publicity for the expo, and Darrell Donnell, radio editor of The San Francisco Examiner, put on a television act, showing pictures and describing the exposition as it was, as it is and as it will be.

Argument for Expo

Favorable action by the Assembly committee on expositions and fairs for the $5,000,000 appropriation for State participation in Golden Gate International Exposition has been predicted by Assemblyman Miller, Alameda, chairman. Frank Y. McLaughlin, director of exhibits and concessions, spoke to the committee at a luncheon in Sacramento and presented the case for the exposition.

It was pointed out that the exposition will benefit the entire State from a financial standpoint. Conservative figures indicate a minimum of $15,000,000 will go into the State treasury in 1939, this The exposition opened its advance revenue derived from tax on gasoline George B. Winget, secretary.

that will be purchased by tourists and visitors to the fair. Such revenue, when spent, is apportioned over the entire State. This is one of the strongest arguments being used on legislators for passage of the bill, which goes to the ways and means committee for final approval.

Big Racing Season Seen by Hankinson

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—Ralph A. Hankinson, president and general manager of Hankinson Speedways, Inc., said that while last season was most satisfactory he feels that 1937 will be biggest season as a promoter. Schedule of activities sponsored by Hankinson Speedways will include 15 pre-fair dates. For years he has been conducting races at Langhorne Speedway and on Reading Fairgrounds, where he will launch his 33d event in 14 years.

New territory this season extends into the Middle West to Lincoln and Omaha and to Cedar Rapids, Ia. According to contracts on file, about 45 fair dates will be included, running from July to November. Fair activities will be confined to Eastern and Southeastern States, with exception of three dates at major Midwestern fairs.

Midget auto races will number about 30 individual meets in Philadelphia Municipal Stadium and a stadium in course of construction in Hudson County, N. J. Midget car division will continue to affiliate with Walter Stebbins and Madison Square Garden Bowl. Last May in Philadelphia his midget racing inaugural program attracted more than 50,000 to Municipal Stadium, a record throng.

Martin Is Elated At Meet's Success

At the successful speed championship races in Detroit on April 2-4, sponsored by Michigan Skating Association, which Manager Fred Martin of Arena Gardens has been instrumental in developing, one of the interested visitors was Robert Ware, of Chicago Roller Skate Company. Chicago Roller Skate Manager Martin, writing to Mr. Ware of his visit, said, in part: "I was very much pleased that you could find time to be with us, and from all indications we have accomplished something that should have been done many years ago.

> "At the meeting I did not favor this move, just to see what reaction it would cause from the others and somehow it worked just the way I wanted. I did not want them to feel I was promoting the association. However, now that it has been born, you can rest assured that I am going to give everything that is in me to put it over as a solid, dependable and progressive rink operators' organization.

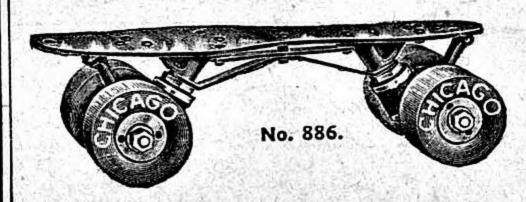

> "At this time I want to thank you and the boys for your splendid co-operation and the beautiful trophy you sent. And let me say that in all my days I (See MARTIN IS ELATED on page 67)

Imperial United Shows Make Debut

PRATTVILLE, Ala., April 10,-Despite cool weather, Imperial United Shows opened March 27 to unusually good business in Alexander City, Ala., running thru to April 3 with each day showing a decided gain.

This new show, under the general management of Jack L. Murray, who was formerly associated with the Johnny J. Jones Exposition. The outfit is appealing in detail, all tops of a uniform color, masked with new banners and of a consistent color scheme in green, orange and black. Canvas was furnished by the Dize Tent Company. Rides and other equipment in general are new, all of which adds greatly to the setup.

This organization presents Bee Kyle in her famous dive. Kyle, incidentally, has just returned from an extended trip thru China and Japan. Andy Gump, the living image of Andy in Sydney Smith's cartoon, "The Gumps," is heading the Side Show unit.

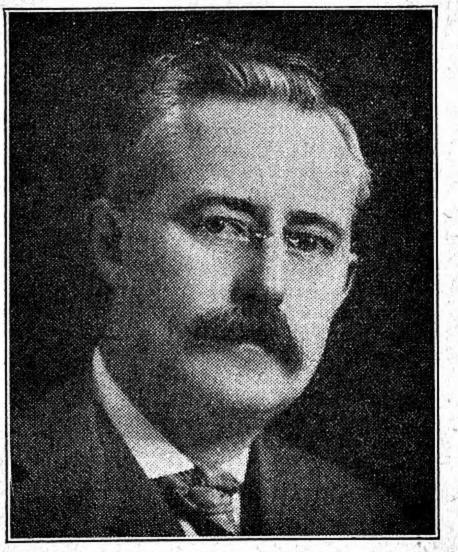

Attractions are five rides, Mixer, Tilta-Whirl, Whip, Loop and the kiddle ride; girl and freak shows, penny arcade, skill games and shooting galleries.

Phillips Instructs His Press Agent

E. Lawrence Phillips, general director of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, pursuant to an essential need of the carnival business, recently in Augusta, Ga., called his press agent into the office for final instructions regarding news matters.

Among the things talked over by the two related to truth and accuracy in giving out news matter from the shows.

Phillips said: "Starr DeBelle, you have been engaged to handle all official news and publicity pertaining to the New Johnny J. Jones Exposition, with the free and unlimited support of the entire staff and myself. Any and all stories written by you are to be official and to be accepted as such unless otherwise withdrawn. You are to consider these instructions to be emphatic, to write news while it is news and to exaggerate nothing, give out facts and nothing but facts regarding the Jones organization.

"Facts and figures regarding grosses, paid admissions, number of employees, routes, building plans, new attractions, the shattering of our former grosses and any news items in general will always be available at our offices.

"Write the truth, misrepresent nothing, if in doubt pass it up, gain the confidence of every reader interested in our activities. Above all keep faith with all fair associations or individuals connected therewith, committees, show patrons, show people and The Billboard."

Max Cohen, General Counsel ACA, Gets Interview on R. R. Demurrage

NEW YORK, April 10 .- Max Cohen, of panied by Jack V. Lyles, of the O. C. Rochester, N. Y., general counsel of the Buck Exposition, requested primarily American Carnivals Association, Inc., spent several days in this city this week in the interests of the organization. Chief point of call was at the offices of N. W. Hawkes, chairman of the Freight Traffic Managers' Committee of the Trunk Line Association, for the purpose of arranging for better traffic condi- on arrival and 48 hours' additional time

Tinsley Shows Make Debut

A new carnival entry opens on "All Fools' Day" and scores successfully GREENVILLE, S. C., April 10.—Carnival's new entry, the Tinsley Shows, opened season here Thursday, April 1, with 14 paid attractions, two bands, the Sol Solomon diving presentation.

Congratulatory messages from friends and well wishers over the country came to John T. and Mrs. Tinsley opening day and visiting showmen were much in evidence thruout the engagement. Being home town, the Tinsleys spent most of their time entertaining personal friends and officials, while Eddie Lynch, concession manager, took the showmen in charge.

Visitors: A. T. Dize, of Dize Tent & Awning Company, who furnished the canvas; J. A. Mitchell, secretary Anderson Fair; Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Hulme, Elberton (Ga.) Fair; Tom and Janette Terrell, of Eric B. Hyde Shows; J. J. Page, Leo Claude, D. T. Morrissey and several others of J. J. Page Shows; Mr. and Mrs. Ike Faust; J. J. and Mrs. Steblar and Mrs. Roland, of World of Fun Shows; Joe Karr and George Smith; Sam and Mrs. Lawrence, also W. R. Hicks, of Lawrence Shows; John M. Sheesley and Floyd Newell, of Sheesley Midway; Mrs. Herbert Tisdale and daughter, Jean, en route to Endy Shows; Pete Thompson, of Lawrence Shows; Bill and Mrs. Hagerman, en route to World of Mirth; Mike Glynn and cookhouse crew en route to Marks Shows.

Like all opening days many liftle hitches were experienced, but by Friday night the show was running smoothly. On Saturday one of the best days Greenville has given a carnival in many years was registered.

Much praise for the general advertising and publicity for opening is due J. J. Boyd and Curley Morley, who had charge of this department. Both daily papers were exceptionally courteous and Sol Solomon received a special layout in The Piedmont. Every white way post in the city proper, as well as street cars and busses, heralded the show's opening for more than a week.

Fred W. Miller has started work building a new Motordrome which he has booked. Reported by R. F. McLendon.

Max Gruberg Adds Hospital Unit

BISHOPVILLE, S. C., April 10.-Max Gruberg, who is what may be termed progressive and farseeing, who possesses, a vision far in advance of the eventuality, is very thoro in his progressiveness. In addition to building a practically all-new show, he is adding the adjuncts that help to make up the perfect whole.

The World's Exposition Shows will be equipped with a thoroly furnished hospital unit under the direction of Dr. John Fisher, of Chicago, whom many showmen have found a friend in need when necessity arose in the past.

Dr. Fisher is now at quarters, supervising the equipment of this hospital unit, which is intended to take care of members of the show as well as emergency accidents that may from time to time arise on the grounds during the tour of the show.

He will be assisted by a trained nurse, all expenses being paid by Gruberg, who has given Dr. Fisher carte blanche in gesture on his part and from preparations already made it looks like being sick on these shows will be like hearing the nightingale sing innocent amusement and it doesn't cost anything to those treated. Reported by Dick Collins.

Byers-Beach Shows Set To Hop Off

ST. LOUIS, April 10.—Carl Byers, part owner of the Byers & Beach Shows, during a visit to The Billboard office here Friday advised that his show would open Saturday, April 10, in Kennett, Mo. Carl W. Byers and Harry M. Beach are the owners and managers of the show, while Don Trueblood is secretary.

The show will open with Duplex Eli Wheels; Merry-Go-Round, Tilt-a-Whirl, Glider, Auto Ride, Loop-o-Plane and two Baby Rides; Colored Minstrel Show, Girl Show, Pit Show, Athletic Show, Mechanical City, Walk-Thru Show and Motordrome. The management operates 15 concessions in addition to the cookhouse.

The show moves on 16 trucks and trailers. Byers was in St. Louis and purchased 10 new trucks and trailers from Charles T. Goss, of the Standard Chevrolet Company.

Kortes Closes Museum Tour, Joins Beckmann & Gerety

TACOMA, Wash., April 10.—After 17 days of good business here Kortes Traveling Museum left for San Antonio, where it joined Beckmann & Gerety Shows.

The following closed the museum tour with Kortes: Barney Nelson, armless wonder; Waldrons, glass blowers; Amok, head hunter; Feliz, Indian sculptor; Happie Frog Boy; Charles (Do-Do) Nelso, bird man; M. Surello, revolving head; Allen Greenstreet, rice and novelty writer; Paul Herrold, German giant; Lewis, skeleton man; Doc Sidney King, magician; Dr. Ben Pardo, mentalist; Patent Sisters, albino twins; Athelia, monkey girl, with Mona Prevo as nurse; Millie Leatrice, python snakes; S. A. Peterson, sword swallower; L. H. Kistler, position Shows in Kansas City, Mo. . . . Zern, emsee; Joe Prevo and Thomas Mrs. Larry Zern, cook, assisted by Eddie Martin Mahoney; S. E. Strates Announces Fairs And Some Celebrations

NORFOLK, Va., April 10.—James E. Strates, of the Strates Shows, announced here this week the booking of fairs at Albion, Caledonia, Batavia, Cortland, Elmira, Dunkirk, Hamburg and Bath, N. Y.; Bloomsburg and York, Pa.; Petersburg and Emporia, Va., and Washington, N. C.

According to Strates, the shows will also play Fourth of July celebrations at Plattsburg and Massena, N. Y.

"Capone" in Wax Museum Makes Page One, Begosh!

KNOXVILLE, April 10, - Page One stunt of The News-Sentinel, afternoon paper, was so much publicity for G. C. Hastings' Wax Museum, showing in a store building on the main drag here.

"Al Capone," from the Hastings' show, was taken out on the street and photographed being handcuffed by a policeman as crowd watched.

The newspaper gave the stunt big play, with credit to the Miami showman's museum.

PICAYUNE, Miss., April 10 .- Following plenty of wind and rain in Middle South Mississippi over the week-end with a return engagement in Wiggins Saturday almost a washout, the Buckeye State Shows moved in here Sunday night for a five-day stay beginning Monday with cool and dry weather the opening day.

CARNIVAL OWNERS and Managers: TO HAVE YOUR ROUTE published is of value to you, your shows and the men and women who are with them. The reasons are too obvious to showmen to urge the matter. For the interest of your organization kindly FORWARD ROUTE PROMPTLY, just as soon as available, to The Billboard, Cincinnati, O. The dates and stands can be given as far in advance as you care to release them.

MR. SHOWMAN:

Looks like season 1937 is on!

You are invited to assist The Billboard to become a bigger and better showmen's paper. That you will is fully anticipated. Here is how you can benefit your own interests:

1.-Keep your name and show title before every person in the show business and those allied with it.

2 .- Send your news to The Billboard, Cincinnati, O., while it is live and sparkling with freshness - right from the advance staff, office, winter quarters or lot. 3.—When the season opens send in a prompt news report of when and where your carnival opened and the results of the first three days' showing. Give roster of staff and list all attractions, shows, rides, concessions, bands, free acts and special features.

4.—Give route, send photos of staff and photo flashes of any special happening around the outfit.

5.—Have all copy written as soon as it is news and forward promptly to The Billboard.

ATTENTION—News men, Press Agents and Show-Letter Writers! Please type and double-space all copy and do not write on the back of photos type the matter that goes with them and attach.

May you have the best season of all time.

Jack Wilkerson returned to his "first love," handling the Minstrel Show with Clark's Greater Shows.

McClellan Shows Report Better Weather and Business

MAYFIELD, Ky., April 10.—After the freeze, summer weather came at Fulton. Good business the last of the week. Mrs. Maud Williams with her new sound equipment and Eddie Burnett as announcer have covered near-by towns. W. M. Doyle, chief canvasman, is taking it easy, as the show is equipped with all new canvas. Bob Thompson is building a new chromium arch for the entrance with the name of the show in electric effects. General Agent Wood is out of the hospital and on the job again. Mrs. Wood and son will join show May 1. The trucks have new rubber. Visitors: Charles T. Goss, of Chevrolet truck and trailer fame, and J. C. Bonkam, of the F. H. Bee Shows. Reported by L. Opsal.

American Exposition Shows Booked Solid, Says Bley

CINCINNATI, April 10.—Felix Bley, general representative of the F. E. Gooding Amusement Company, visited the home office of The Billboard and announced that the American Exposition Shows are booked solid for the season, which includes 12 dates under auspices and 15 fairs.

Season will start at Middletown, O., April 23. Aerial Bauers have been engaged as one of the free attractions.

Have tops and ban-Shows, while in Chicago this week arranged for a feature which he believes will prove a strong attraction for the show. Greene contracted with the owner of "Mickey," the singing mouse from Bloomington, Ill., for the presentation of Mickey as a side show feature. A show will be built around the singing rodent.

Surge Brake Coupler

Of interest to trailer owners is the new surge brake coupler offered by Zagelmeyer Auto Camp Company. The surge system has a hydraulically controlled cylinder which attaches directly to the brake lever and controls the surge movement, eliminating jerky, noisy action. There is no connection to one's car with the exception of the usual balljoint coupler, as the entire brake is self-contained on the trailer. The harder the trailer surges the harder the brakes are applied, and as the surge lets up the brakes release automatically.

By MAX COHEN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 10.—This week's article on Social Security deals with Erroneous Collection or Payment of Tax.

The Revenue Act provides that if more or less than the correct amount of the tax has been paid that proper adjustments both as to the tax and the amount to be deducted shall be made without interest in connection with subsequent payments to the same individual by the same employer.

This provision of the statute dispenses with the formality of a claim being filed for refund or credit for an overpayment or with the formal demand being made by the collector for payment of any additional amount due by reason of an underpayment.

However, shows are cautioned that all corrections of erroneous collections or payments do not necessarily constitute an "adjustment" within the meaning of the law. Likewise, if an error is to more than one employee a separate adjustment must be made for each.

The statute lists the items which may be determined as "adjustments," and its application to a particular situation will depend entirely upon the facts of the situation.

It should be observed that if an employer pays more than the correct amount of his tax he shall adjust the error by applying the excess payment as a credit against the tax due upon the next return after the discovery of the error. However, no overpayment shall be adjusted after the expiration of four years after the date the overpayment was made to the collector.

The statute is replete with details relative to the adjustment of errors and the particular provisions relating to the various types of errors, overpayments and underpayments which are adjustable.

Next week's article will deal with miscellaneous provisions of the statute and will conclude the first portion of the series relating to the old-age provisions of the law. The second portion of the series will deal with the unemployment insurance tax, and upon completion of that series we shall discuss the provisions of the various State laws as to such States in which our membership may have an interest.

This office welcomes the inquiries of its members on the subject and we shall be glad to furnish all with such information as is available.

An Appreciation for Service

Brookville, Pa. April 2, 1937

Billboard Publishing Company Cincinnati, Ohio Gentlemen:

We want to take this opportunity to thank The Billboard for its generosity and co-operation in publishing our little writeups in winter and spring-quarters news. We feel that The Billboard always does more than its part for the showmen, and we hope that all showmen and shows appreciate this co-operation as much as we do.

Only hope that the optimist who has written some late columns in The Billboard is correct in his diagnosis for the 1937 season.

On arrival at our first spot we will notify you of the person who will be in charge of handling Billboards for us, and also see that this person does his job/efficiently.

Very truly yours, C. D. CLARK, Manager Spencer & Clark Exposition Shows.

sibility that many shows debuting this year will seriously consider transportation by rail; if not, the only alternative for them is the use of motor vehicles.

Hawkes assured Cohen and Lyles that the demurrage request will be given every consideration and, altho he would not commit himself, indicated that he looked upon the request as legitimate and possibly feasible.

While in town Cohen huddled with John Logan Campbell, Baltimore insurance expert, regarding a combined public liability and compensation insurance program being made available to member carnivals of the ACA. Campbell is intensely interested in instituting an insurance program in the carnival industry similar to the one already in use by members of the National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools and Beaches. The NAAPPB policy has met with solid success in its field, and it is the belief of Campbell that the same idea in general will work for traveling shows.

Cohen will collect data on the average size, personnel, etc., of present-day carnivals and submit it to Campbell, who will use it as a basis on which to compute policy rates.

"Laws and Lawsuits Pertaining To the Amusement Business"

Under the above title there will appear in The Billboard, starting with an early issue, a series of legal articles pertaining to various branches of the amusement business. The articles will be authored by Leo T. Parker, a prominent attorney of Cincinnati, and should be exceedingly interesting to readers of The Billboard.

All of the material will be treated in such a way as to be readily understandable and to the point. Variations of the law will be discussed, and each statement and explanation of the law will be based upon a higher court decision, which will be digested in the fewest possible words.

Advice will also be given on how to avoid litigations, but if suits are filed the late citations being included in the articles should assist those concerned and their lawyers in fighting the cases.

No attempt will be made to offer advice on personal inquiries, but if a sufficient number of suggestions are received, a special article on the subject will be published at a subsequent date.

Forty Years of Carnivals

By Chris M. Smith

THE writer faintly remembers that I when eight years old he started to peddle peanuts on various fairgrounds in the States of Ohio and Pennsylvania. This occupation marked his first appearance into a field of outdoor amusements which eventually developed into the organized carnival. In this line of entertainment he has been closely associated ever since with the exception of two short terms out. The seasons engaged therein have ranged from 12 to 52 weeks yearly.

During the development of the carnival from its earliest days to recent years he has seen it "hit below the belt" several times, has seen it turn over and gasp a number of other times, but in each and every instance it has always come up laughing and with greatly renewed determination and more vigorous in every way. Today the carnival is stronger than ever in physical makeup and public favor and is doing a fine job of furnishing fun, frolic and frivolity in abundance for Mr. and Mrs. America and their children.

How the First Carnival Started

No one has yet quite satisfactorily decided when the first carnival took form as a unit organization, when or where it was first presented and by whom. Due to its self-made title and the various definitions of the term "carnival" it will probably always remain an unanswered question as to how the birth of the first carnival came about. It took form by the joining together of various amusement units which at the time hall been functioning under various setups.

However, about the time that the Democratic Party was getting a bit cocky for the first time in 24 years and kids were velling "Hurrah for Cleveland and Hendricks!" and a rally was being held on the Mahoning County Fairgrounds, Canfield, O., a combination was formed by the assembling of various units under one management. This outfit consisted of a Plantation show, Old Man Perry's side show, a "Flying Jinny" and some stands went to Youngstown, O., and played a lot for just one week card went out as usual. between fair dates. Maybe that was the first carnival. The expense was proprised grand-stand audience.

The New York Clipper was the show family's paper at the time. The Billboard was purchased by the writer for the first time at Conneaut Lake Exposition Park, Pa., during the summer of 1897.

Smith's "Flying Jinny"

That "Flying Jinny" was built by Armatage & Herschell, North Tonawanda, N. Y., and "Oh, boys, did it knock 'em over down South!" It was the most magnificent Merry-Go-Round your humble scribe's eyes ever gazed upon up to that time. It was a track machine, third or fourth hand, flopping cable, steam engine, hurdy-gurdy organ and played Way Down Upon the Swanee River, the only tune remembered. Two weeks later on the East Palestine, O., Fairgrounds those two fresh Smith boys took charge.

Combinations of show, ride and privilege men traveling-as a company in order to get baggage cars from the railroads were quite common in the early days. The writer at one time saw as many as five long trains, all independent, arrive in Raleigh to play the North Carolina State Fair. The carnival had started to take form. George Jabour, Frank W. Gaskill, J. Frank Hatch, James Adams, W. H. Swanson, Bert Hoss, W. S. Layton, Johnny J. Jones, K. G. Barkoot, Jack Shields and C. (Pop) Smith had a lot to do with the starting of carnivals. It became a strictly American institution, with its foundation laid east of the Mississippi River some time before it started on a westward trek.

The Carnival of Today

The carnival is not going to the dogs. It has the problems of other businesses, large and small, and a number that are peculiarly its own. Regular business methods govern and rule operations to a certain point, the rest is a family matter. Now at the beginning of a bull market we can be prepared to see some shoestring outfits built up to magnificent proportions. As in other businesses, good or bad times, the chief component part is the human element, men. Top of the list stands the staff, which must be a co-operating business force. No one man can do it all. The writer always gets a belly laugh, not a smile or sneer, when he sees some egotistical baboon standing in the center of a hotel lobby waving his right hand, with a three-fora-dollar cigar in it, shouting, "Look what a big show I got." I think it was a bellhop who muttered one time following a similar gesture, "What a man!" Only a prodigy or a monstrosity can work alone.

Importance of General Agents

On the original Smith Greater Shows the writer got his first lesson in the importance of co-operation. The late W A. Sassaman, the general agent, had completed the bookings in the upper peninsula of Michigan. (Top agents understand this kind of booking. The show has to get four or five towns, or take none.) The paper was on the boards in one town and in the express office for the others. Then came a bolt from the blue heavens, a strike had been called in the copper country. However, there was no sign of excitement on the lot where the show was when this news broke. The staff was flexible and efficient, James E. Simpson and E. O. Ferguson, nominally doing second-agent work at the time, were sent out. In a remarkably short time the troupe was back in the middle of the road, even with Louis Washburn, a star in his line, exceeding his specific authority in the routing and billing, was telling the folk on the changed route with big type and pictorial posters that the show was coming their way. The four-week route and said: "Boys, I've got to make a train, sign here," and they did.

Cherry always set the stage if possible to his own advantage and he always analyzed every situation in advance. Compelled one time to meet a particularly tough city council in a closed town (they closed them in the early days, too), when called before that body he devoted less than 90 seconds to show talk, but he had the councilmen assembled literally breathing thru their eyeballs when he gave them the history of "Hose Company No. 1," the auspices proposed. Both he and the show made good, and in later years Cherry booked the town and auspices over the phone. He had sold them solid.

One more agent in contrast to Sassaman and Cherry. Will not give his name. He was a "wonderful fellow." He boasted of his prowess. "General knowledge" was his long suit, his "middle name" in fact. He was sent out on a scouting trip by C. (Pop) Smith, to survey a tentative route, conditions were doubtful in the Carolinas, Virginia and Maryland, which were on his itinerary. He visited "Old Fredericktown," immortalized by the poem. On his return this self-styled encyclopedia rushed into the office wagon and busted out with, "Chris, who in the hell was Barbara Fritchie?" He had probably thought of her as a possible auspices. Just one more agent and the writer will pass along.

with the old show. He made a record that should go into all-time, all-class general agent history. Practically surfounded by carnivals, four of them within a radius of 30 miles, all tussling for a spring route. He made a quick trip and a five-town shut-out railroad contract. Then he took his own good time and actually built up five good dates with sound, substantial auspices. He did some hopping and scored as he planned all to the advantage of the show and his ability as a general agent working under critical conditions.

The Carnival Pay Gate

All the oldtimers know that the pay gate feature of the carnival was important in the early days. Many examples of its application proved that a 10cent admission charge, to go behind a board fence (then the custom), built around public squares or commons, added materially to the financial and general welfare of the celebration, jubilee or carnival.

Opinions vary as to the reasons for its abandonment. In the early days bonuses that were collected from the merchants to bring the outfit "uptown free on the streets" had much to do with the abolishment of the pay gate. Disruption brought about by independent attractions (many times the backbone of the outfit) was an important cause. The carnival business had not then reached the proportions so that managers could operate without these independent feature shows.

The big possibilities in the concession end was the hardest and final blow that bowled over the front gate ticket box. It is interesting to note that the same cause in reverse has brought the pay gate back as a necessary adjunct to the restoration of the carnival as an institution for profit and amusement.

Merchandise Wheel Was on Top

During the halcyon days when Jones, Smith and Barkoot shows were contemporaries in contiguous territory, same objectives, equal in amusement value and excellent personnel, the concession was developed by the amusement purveyors.

The P. C. Wheel was passed, for the few gamblers and some had a flat-joint or two to accommodate the so-called In compiling a list of the agents the suckers, but the real folk who patronized

> The merchandise was new and novel, almost individual, and were items sold exclusively on carnivals by the wheel method. The business thrived, fun was rampant, profits were good, the not 97

This was the era of the Strictly Merchandise Wheel that used paddles and and gave out merchandise with every turn of the wheel.

Then came the misguided concessioner who invented and used the "G" Wheel, with the money-lay-down cloth. It has been mentioned that the person was one of the big supply merchants that was getting along very nicely selling merchandise to be given away to carnival customers over the counters of legitimate merchandise paddle wheels. His plea to the concessioners was, "Boys, you won't have to stand by now and see some colored kid go away with pretty toys; you will see that that nice lady in the big white house gets the prize and that will stimulate business—she will show it to her friends." This is the way the "G" Wheel was introduced, as it was reported to this writer.

Manufacturers of carnival goods, as they were then known, went with the elimination of the strictly merchandise wheel and fell by the wayside when the "G" entered the concessions row. When the merchandise wheel went out the carnival lost its prize baby.

Shows in Retrospect

Come with me and let's go down to the "commons" and see a real show with real showmen of the past. Behold! Jack Shield's Lunette, L. E. Meredith's Zora, James M. Benson's Great Train Robbery, Thornton's Three-in-One, Perry's Side Show, Hindu Charley's Sampson (big snake), Cook's Jerusalem, John B. Cullen's "Old Kentucky" Colored Minstrels, Sam Berlin's Aztecs, Jim Sturgis' Mt. Pelee Scenic Spectacle and Smith's Wild Animal Circus, five rides, two bands playing tunes from Wagner to ragtime; Van's 12 merchandise wheels buzzing B. H. Nye spent an all too short time like a beehive broke loose, from one to three bucks per buzz. Then there was Mme. Leona Bonni, queen of the air, and Matt Gay, high diver, as free acts.

Good-by, showfolk! Come back again, showfolk! Gee, we had a big time during lo these 40 years.

JACK PERRY letters from Tupelo, Miss.: "Have been playing Mississippi with World Amusement Company. Business up to now nothing to brag about, yet all on the show are of the opinion that the season will be the best in history. Am still managing Merry Rose Perry, fat girl, and we may take out a fat people show. We cannot do without The Billboard."

FRANK SHAFER letters from Seattle: "Frank and Jack, of the Shafer Bros." Concessions, are with the West Coast Shows and have booked for the Vancouver, B. C., Exhibition. Sammie Shafer, concessioner, formerly east, our brother, has joined us and has a countrystore wheel which he has featured before at a number of big fairs."

GLEN WESTON letters from Tampa: "Kathlyn Monica Melba is professionally known as Madam Gladys and has toured the United States, Europe and the Far present tactics indulged in by some, a lot of East. > TED WARD letters from Fulton, Ky.: 'Joined John T. Hutchins' Museum on the McClellan Shows. Have Bobbie, dogface girl, whom I have managed for past seven years. Hutchins knows how to treat his people. I handle the inside lectures. Leopold, spotted boy, is on the show for his third year. Esther-Lester is in Annex. S. Leona, mentalist, is on until Mystic Oddi arrives.

HOW ABOUT Airdomes on carnivals elaborately framed and presenting an array of vaudeville acts. Carnival men for the most part were the first to recognize the Moving Picture and were the very first to exploit the airplane. They may be able to bring back vaudeville. Outdoor showmen have done some very remarkable stunts for the good of show business and aviation. Who can tell what they may do for the vaudeville artist now pounding the streets of so many big cities? Carl J. Sedimayr, Fred Beckmann, Barney S. Gerety, Rubin Gruberg, Orville W. Hennies, Harry W. Hennies and E. Lawrence Phillips and all other carnival owners take note!

ALMA WHITTINGTON, nurse, letters A. C. Hartmann from Dyersburg, Tenn.: "When the McClellan Shows opened here the general agent, F. Maurice Wood, had an attack of appendicitis and was taken to the Baird-Brewer General Hospital March 14. He at this writing is doing nicely and expects to return to his shows. Wood asked me to write The Billboard."

DON R. DIAZ letters from Almena, Kan.: "For past five months have worked with H. C. Bernnie and crew, all circus and carnival boys, decorating and remodeling theaters in Kansas. We just finished doing one of the finest in the State at Downs. It is now under the title of Lido and is owned by A. W. Swank, of Stockton, Kan. I expect to be back with the tented outfits in June. Will have reptiles and animals.

From Elephant Steaks to Brandy

Menu of a birthday party given by Kitty Thomas, of McClellan Shows, Dyersburg, Tenn.:

A sirloin steak from an elephant, A potato the size of your head, A cup of coffee, the size a brown derby, And we all had oodles of bread.

For I honestly believe we were hungry, For I was feeling both lank and lean; While we were waiting she served us fruit salad, A dish for a king or a queen.

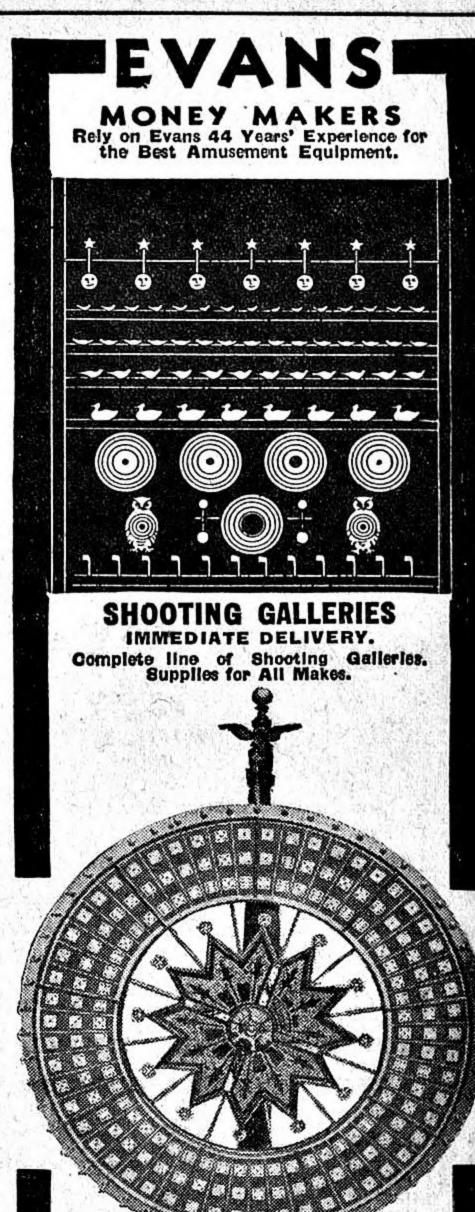

She gave us fruit out of contraband, Raised in the land somewhere, Cultured by the aid of reptiles;

In a bottle slender and tall.

She served us an alligator pear. We had ice cream, sweet and delicious, Frozen as hard as a brick in the wall; Coca-Cola, cool and refreshing.

She served us many dainties, Such as nuts, cake and candy; An appetizer concoction That looked and smelled like brandy. -L. OPSAL.

in orange and blue color scheme, selling caramel crisp, pop corn, peanuts and candy apples. The writer built the outfit and is also working on a new grab and sandwich stand. Blue Ribbon is a swell show."

HARRY E. DUVAL cards from Chicago: "Will be with Strates Shows and handle prize package candy. Just arrived from Fresno, Calif., where I had a concession in the Rex Burlesque Theater. Had a nice time in California. Was glad to get The Billboard every Saturday. I enjoy the carnival section a lot. Was with Jimmy Strates last season and think he will soon have one of the real big carnivals."

DICK COLLINS, the press agent, letters from Bishopville, S. C.: "The Dodson boys are fine fellows and I had a very pleasant time with them and wish them all the luck in the world. Sometimes a change of pasture is good for all concerned, hence the change to Max Gruberg. Now that Walter D. Nealand and myself are both working for the same family we should be a good pair to draw to. Walter D. is a great guy.

STANLEY STUTZMAN cards from Reading, Pa.: "With Mrs. Stutzman and son, Robert, we were on the World of Mirth Shows past two seasons. Was foreman on Skooter. This season we will be with the Art Lewis Shows. I will handle the new high speed streamline "Whip" with Lewis. We spent several weeks in Brunswick, Ga., where we built a new housecar. We are here at home on several weeks' layoff prior to opening of season."

WHY EXAGGERATE? Albert A. Petka, concessioner, reports on a carnival that a good many in the business thought was to be depended upon for facts and truth. Petka says the management advertises shows, rides, free acts, uniform band and as having 50 attractions. He says, ask how the show leaves the town. As for the uniform band, there are four colored musicians with ragged clothes. As to the free acts there are none, but the gate is on. Regarding 50 attractions, a patron could not find 50 if they counted all rides, shows, concessions and counted all the employees as individual attractions. Moral: Misrepresentation by any carnival owner or manager is vicious and altogether unnecessary. All carnivals should stay in their class. One with three rides and four or five concessions is certainly not expected to compete with a 10-car carnival. The practice of exaggeration is certainly not fair to either the industry nor the public and should be dispelled from the minds and practices of all carnival executives. Let's have no more of this for the good of the business as a whole.

FRED W. MINES letters from Sparta. Ill.: "Will be with Howard Bros.' Shows, scheduled to open at Athens, O., May 1. Am new to the tented show field and unknown to The Billboard, but all of its staff is invited to view my act this season and I will endeavor to give them a special performance they will long remember." Mines rates himself as a "dare-devil" who performs in the air, on a stage and under water. Well! Well! Is there really a new style free act?-Wadley Tif.

PICKUPS on McClellan Shows by L. Opsal: Show season opened at Dyersburg, Tenn., in warm weather, but a wintry blast at end of week cut attendance to zero. . . . Cookhouse manager, George Herman, and wife, Ruth, enjoyed good business. . . . Otto Robish is on his 10th season with Goldstone concessions with knife rack. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Whitie Danby, on third season with blowers, and Eddie Burnett with corn game were topnotchers for week. . . . Twenty-five people arrived from Laredo, Tex., Fiesta. Visitors: Kokomo Jimmie; Slim Johnson, of Midwest Novelty Company, and F. H. Bee, of Bee Shows. . . . A surprise birthday party was given by Kitty Thomas in honor of her husband, Jack Thomas. Latest arrivals on J. T. Hutchins Museum were Ted Ward, lecturer; Bobby, dog-faced girl, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Foss, who came from California. Show moved to Fulton, Ky., where it set up under auspices of the Elks. Jack Halliday, formerly of Stouble & Halliday Shows, joined.

CLIFF BAMMEL letters from Miami: "After 11 seasons on the Ringling-Barnum Circus and three years as operating manager of Madison Square Garden, I finally entered the carnival field. Season 1937, now on, will make my third one on the Johnny J. Jones Exposition. Am here winding up the Ford Exposition which closes here April 11. All the equipment will be shipped to Paris, France, for the exposition there. Past winter, in part, I handled the crowds for the Miami-Baltimore water show, which was under the direction of Alexander Ott, who by the way is a real showman. The hotel reports the largest crowds this winter season the water show ever had. This was my third season with this water spectacle. Real carnival atmosphere prevailed at the final performance at the pool. However, it was titled "Circus Day" but there were such concessions from Funland Park as photo gallery, scales, ball game, penny pitch, a mentalist booth and pitch-till-u-win. Mrs. Betty Bammel at this writing is in the Jones quarters, Augusta, Ga., getting our string of concessions ready."

Ballyhoo Bros. Praised For Not Exaggerating?

Opening Monday night down on the horse-tradin' lot east of Squire Skildew's cow pasture, that mammoth motorcade of midway mirth, better known as the Ballyhoo Bros.' Circulating Exposition, broke all records for attendance.

Playing under auspices of Checker Players' Local No. 1, everything and everybody was on the move. Even the Ballyhoo Brothers themselves were kept busy escorting various groups thru and around the vast array of amusement units. His Honor the Mayor's delegation (on comps) was said to be one of the largest ever to take in a carnival. They were loud in their praise for all amusement provided. A large number, being aviation enthusiasts, got in enough hours on the Eli Wheel to apply for pilot's license.

All free entertainment outside the tents was greatly enjoyed and the artistic paintings on the banners caused open comment. So, a bouquet of buttercups to Ballyhoo Bros.' publicity department. It does not exaggerate. Everything on the poster was on the lot; that is, excepting one thing-it claims a herd of 24 elephants but by actual count and one re-count there were only 23. This slipup was graciously accounted for by Pete Ballyhoo himself when he explained that one of the publicity staff personnel being short-sighted made a mistake and counted in the Side Show's fat girl.

But this gala-minded overflow of pleasure-seekers did not care for details. Delegation after delegation passed from one amusement unit to another freely enjoying the wondrous thrills provided. The stimulating strains of four ballyhoo bands kept them feeling lively and the ticket sellers from falling asleep.

As a joyous gesture and to show their deep appreciation everybody stayed almost to a man for the final fireworks display and big free acts.

All of which was observed and reported by your resident correspondent of The Bloomerville Bugle, Rube Flasher.

Hilderbrand's United Shows

Los Angeles. Six days ending March 21. Location, Washington at Vermont streets. Auspices, Spanish - American War Veterans. Business, fair. Weather, unsettled.

Adverse weather conditions again curtailed business and what might have been a banner week was merely mediocre. Opening and closing days were spent in dragging trucks out of mud. Due to unforeseen circumstances, location at Olive and Washington streets was canceled and Washington and Vermont substituted. Nothing unforeseen or interesting occurred during this showing except continuous downpour of rain.

Los Angeles. 53d at Central streets. One day, opening and closing in three hours. Auspices, Baptist Church. Business, none. Weather, worst ever experienced.

Corona, Calif. Three days ending March 27. Location, rodeo grounds. Auspices, LLL. Business, fair. Weather, unsettled.

Show opened and closed in one at 53d and Central streets, Los Angeles. This location in the heart of thickly settled colored district. Following a three-hour. showing, show was forced to close and move. This was done amid a downpour of rain and hail that covered roofs and sidewalks like a blanket of snow. Truck after truck became mired to hubs and entire night was spent in removing them. General Agent E. Pickard made a hurried trip into interior and show was moved to Corona, 50 miles from Los Angeles, to fill in remainder of the engagement. Route traversed by show to Corona was most difficult, as streets were flowing rivers. Several trucks became stalled along the highway. Privilege car was prevented from turning over by a tree. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Alton narrowly escaped serious injury when a young woman traveling 50 miles per hour smacked into rear of Alton's sedan, telescoping both cars. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clifford's cookhouse truck was wrecked and had to be repaired before completing journey. To top climax an earthquake struck as show reached lot, adding additional excitement and worry to the rain-drenched showfolk. Friday and Saturday nights business was fair, as sun finally appeared to dry out rain-soaked country. WALTON DE PELLATON.

Zimdars Greater Shows

Memphis, Tenn. Week ended March 27. Location, South Florida street show lot. Weather, bad. Attendance, bad. Business, light.

Show opened with a bang, good weather and fair attendance for first three days, then rain, cold and snow. Harry Gebauner joined with concessions, also Lee Moss. Taylor and Moore arrived in time with their act. Larry Lawrence joined with concessions. Wish my old pal Charles C. Blue speedy recovery. CHARLES SEIP.

Eric B. Hyde Shows

Marietta, Ga. Week ended April 3. Committee, none. Business, none Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday due to continued rain and cold; Friday and Saturday very good. Location, circus grounds.

Week registered satisfactory business. New arrivals: Capt. Simon, high fire dive, replacing Aerial Bowers, who left to fill a special engagement at Kansas City. Aerial De Homans replaced the Sensational Zorsky, who also is contracted at Kansas City. Charles Siegrist's flying act still going over in a big way. Next week will terminate Siegrist's act on our midway, as the troupe is contracted to the Jones Show. Entire personnel will miss the Siegrists, voted real artists and regular troupers. Harry and Mitzie, pair on a chair in the air, will extend their rigging in height. Joe Dexker has a penny-pitch cane rack, making four concessions for him. New green marquee arrived and making a Lobby greatly improved entrance. Show tops the midway shows. Toby Northwest, for air calliope truck. In ing.

Kneeland's Athletic Arena ready to start work at next stand. New green tops are used on all company-owned shows. Curley Lewis' girlesque revue sporting a new green top, as is Decker's cookhouse. Dinty Moore's set of diggers departed for a Western show. Harry Julius and his pony ride joins another show soon. JAN HYTER.

Buckeye State Shows

Pass Christian, Miss. Week ended March 27. Location, adjacent to City Hall. Weather, rain and cold. Business, good.

Shows' first stand. City officials nightly visitors, headed by Dr. Spence. Equipment brilliantly painted. All new green canvas. Three Flying Lesters arrived from Miami, opening with aerial return act. New Tilt-a-Whirl was purchased and a letter received from Sellner Manufacturing Company that it was shipped to next town, Picayune, Miss. This will make four major riding devices owned by the show. Mrs. May Brown, who was down with pneumonia, has fully recovered and is now assisting her husband on the long-range gallery. Midway cookhouse, managed by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ennis, are receiving 100 per cent co-operation from the showfolk. Manager Joe Galler purchased a new de luxe house trailer. It is complete in every detail, bathtub being installed in the floor. Visitors: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stearns, formerly with Sheesley Shows, now manager Saenger Theater, Hattiesburg, Miss.; C. E. Jones, an old trouper, renewed his acquaintance with Manager Joe Galler. ELOISE LOWRY.

Golden State Shows

San Pedro, Calif. Week ending March 28. Location, Fifth and Sixth streets. Auspices, Central Labor Council. Weather, cold and rain. Business, fair.

After a tough time getting off an exceptionally muddy lot at Santa Ana show arrived in San Pedro and was greeted by a heavy rainfall. Show set up on side of hill. Scooter required 10 loads of blocking. Despite the difficulties, under the able direction of Homer Rees, lot superintendent, show opened on time. Weather thruout the week was cold, with occasional rain. Good crowds turned out but left early. Hickman's Miniature Circus reported the best business since the San Bernadino Orange Show, due mostly to Hearst Metro News taking pictures, which gave the show quite a lot of publicity. Harry Takie, owner of five concessions, bought himself a new trailer, this making 15 now with the show. Visitors: Frank Babcock, Frank Downie and Jack Burk, of Downie Tent and Awning Company; Mrs. Hickman and daughter; Doc Hall, general agent for Kennedy Shows; Steve Henry, The Billboard representative, and James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight boxing champion. Mrs. Hobday, wife of sideshow manager, celebrated her birthday. Her mother, sister and several friends joined the party. Writer is the new secretary. LEIGH PRINGLE.

Texas Longhorn Show

Corsicana, Tex. Week ended April 3. Location, circus grounds. Auspices, American Legion. Ten-cent pay gate. Weather, rain—cold one day. Business, good.

Arrived here in rain. Mercury low. Four days dark. Had opening Friday. More than 1,300 paid admissions. Was the third clear, warm night since season's opening, March 13. Had two clear nights at Mexia in two weeks; on one over 500 paid customers; other, over 1,200. Gilmore Fry, Valdosta, Ga., animal man, has new monkey circus. Wilbur Grant Pickens, Dallas Centennial orator, has front of side show. W. A. Schafer and wife. Helen, are operating riding devices. They honored guests at a twilight dinner. Lyle Dutcher will place his new idea sound wagon. Buster and Clara Herron joined. A Mertzon, Tex., newspaper praised E. J. Spencer, manager, as Mertzon boy. Air calliope is being gilded, color flashed and lettered by the Gamboards featuring the free acts adorn the biens appropriate to title, Texas Longinside. New panel front added for horn Show. Largest and oldest pair Jungle Show, color scheme of red and Texas longhorns were purchased from White. Barney Lamb's 150-foot Side Douglas Wixom, the Buffalo Bill of the perfect rotation six flags of Texas adorn the main and back-lot entrance, each ride, tent theater and concession. On arrival in Corsicana Chappel and Drumb were absent. Mounton, high perch, and Townsend, net diver, proved to be boxoffice features. Trucks and all portable equipment are being modeled for daily twilight street parade. Edward Rife has dining tent on wheels. Regal United Shows and Texas Longhorn unit exchanged visits. Saturday matinee rained out. Showfolk, in happy unison, yelled together, "Here come the Texas Longhorns." Despite wet grounds good business was done. Telegram received stated that Joe Peanuts and Company, monkey circus, out of Whitestone, L. I., N. Y., Robert Everest, manager, would join next week. The monkey circus will be used as free act. An unusual idea, three monkey shows on same midway. Happy Everett's, Fry's and Joe Peanuts' will be given acid test. Farnsworth fully recovered from all-winter illness. J. C. Rogers is shut in with flu. William Dearmin is suffering with heavy cold. DOC WADDELL.

West Coast Amusement Co.

Menlo Park, Calif. March 29 to April 4. Auspices, American Legion. Weather, fair. Business, good.

Second week in this little town the grounds were packed nightly and customers spent money. Carl Holt and his musical revue topped the midway, with "Luverne" a close second with his side show and "Darkest Africa." George Costello joined Ed Helwig and his athletic arena here and did fine on the week. Bert Claussen had his new Octopus packed both day and night, as he did his Whip and Loop-o-Plane. William Bradley, the show's second man, had the Eli Wheel full of banners. George Kocan did a rushing business with his midway cafe. Secretary Louie Leos was busy entertaining many friends. Art Calkins joined with the Midget Pony show and also a Pony Track. Eddie Harriss placed two more concessions. Harry Meyrs added a radio and lamp store. Manager Mike Krekos, still in Europe, writes: "Having a grand time, send The Billboard to me weekly." The show has been sending it. W. T. Jessup is doubling as general agent and business manager in absence of Krekos. William Papas, co-owner of the show, was a visitor from San Francisco. Official publication is always the greatest of all show publications, The Billboard. W. T. JESSUP.

Majestic Exposition Shows

Bessemer, Ala. Week ended April 3. Auspices, BPOE, No. 721. Location, circus grounds. Weather, cold. Business, very good.

Second week of season and a blank was played by all. Notwithstanding, show made a 300-mile move into Tennessee. At present show consists of five rides, seven shows, 41 concessions and free act, a high net dive presented by Captain Worley. All show canvas new, also banners, and show is very attractive. Entrance is thru a new 20x30 marquee and 10 cents is charged.

Executive staff is composed of R. G. McHendrix, general manager; James A. Winters, assistant manager; William Franks, business manager; Herbert L. Pass, secretary-treasurer; L. Strates Shows

NORFOLK, Va., April 10.—Strates' winter quarters, both in Norfolk and Portsmouth, are going ahead at full speed on work preparatory to opening in Portsmouth for nine days beginning April 22. Manager Jimmie Strates has spared no expense this year. Show Artists Al Lubin and Barney Wells are turning out some of the most artistic fronts this writer has ever seen. Peter Stamos will have the midway cafeteria, one of the most elaborate show cookhouses of his career. Allen Nicholson will be foreman of the Ridee-O and is getting the ride in shape. Rod Krail is busy getting his Oddities and Monkey Show all set, both behind beautiful new fronts.

Ramona Longo, Dolly Carlyle and Lois Arlington, dancers of Jack and Francis Paige's All-Girl Revue, have arrived and are assisting Mrs. Paige on new wardrobe. Tom Evans, trainmaster, is supervising the painting of train. Color scheme will be burnt orange and red, trimmed in black. New stateroom car recently purchased by Manager Strates has arrived and will be given a thoro overhauling. Giff Ralyea, electrical superintendent, has the new towers built and is now working on his transformer wagon to allow space for an additional transformer, bringing the show's capacity to 300 K.W.

Manager and Mrs. Strates tendered the staff a dinner on their private car Elizabeth. Those present included, besides Mr. and Mrs. Strates and children, Mr. and Mrs. William Breese and son, Bill Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Voorheis, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Paige, Mr. and Mrs. Bill H. Jones and Louis Strates. Jimmie and his charming wife are real hosts. Capt. Wally Smithly is breaking lions for Lion Autodrome. New motorcycles for "Wild Bill" Moore and his dare-devil riders have arrived. Moore and his troupe are holding daily rehearsals. Reported by Ben H. Voorheis.

Hennies Bros. Shows

SHREVEPORT, La., April 10.—Finishing up, but what a job, especially rebuilding a 40-car show from top to bottom. From the looks of things now, when the train pulls out April 14 for Fort Smith, Ark., first stand, very little will be left undone. Motordrome of Bill Kemp is finished and set up on the fairgrounds. It will feature seven-lion act of Matt Reilly. Grantham's Monkey Town has been entirely rebuilt and painted since arriving from Florida. It is also set up. Fred Bantlemann and his manager, George Sargent, are framing their Front Page attraction. Bantlemann has gone to Milwaukee to get more wax figures for it. Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Doyle are changing inside drapes and settings for their Life Marches On, educational exhibit.

Lorow brothers, N. S. and Bert Jr., are directing work of installing neon lighting and decoration. Lillian Murray Sheppard's Artist Models has been completed. Revolving stage in this attraction has been pronounced perfect. Harrison King has finished framing his Temple of Illusions and loaded it in wagons. Quite a large crowd attended opening of Fairly-Martone Shows at Texarkana. Chilly weather cut down opening night's attendance considerably. All enjoyed visit greatly, thanks to hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Noble C. Fairly and Mr. and Mrs. Toney Martone; also Tom Martin and Eddie Phillon, who have the cookhouse with this show.

J. M. Stone, Bill Robinson and Bob Hancock arrived this week to be with concession department. The writer's mother, from Houston, visited for two weeks and returned to her home. Eddie Saunders, show's new treasurer, has been acquainting himself with the office and getting his end ready ahead of time. Homer Gilliland arrived and spent a few days before proceeding to Fort Smith to handle details in advance of the show, taking along Mr. and Mrs. Barnes. Barnes is to operate sound car and help Mr. Gilliland this season. Reported by Joseph S. Scholibo.

Marks Shows

RICHMOND, Va., April 10.—All is in readiness for opening Monday of 1937 season for Marks Shows. While it will be first date of season it will be but a prevue, formal opening, as usual, taking place following week in Church Hill (Richmond). Show pulled out of quarters yesterday. New tented theaters, fresh from lofts of Baker-Lockwood Company, arrived and started rehearsals, as did cluding Life and Look magazines. Many "Doc" Anderson with his new edition of Harlem Dandys. Paul Layne and family came in from Florida to rejoin concession department. Peter Richards also arrived to do last-minute building and painting on his penny pitch games. Mark A. Glynn's new cafe started service yesterday. Mrs. Glynn, who has been ill, will join later. Jimmy Hurd's Wall of Death has been newly painted and machines completely overhauled. Hurd will have five riders. Earl Purtle and Frank Bergen were recent visitors from World of Mirth quarters. Frank Lafferty and his billposting crew thoroly covered South Richmond for opening date and a scattering of paper in mid-city section also heralds opening. Lafferty also billed west side and all of East Richmond for Church Hill engagement and will leave early next week for Newport News, first road stand.

"Duke" Hiatt, his lecture season in schools and churches completed, spent active week with the writer, completely redressing and cleaning the effigies for San Quentin, Marks' crime show. A new front, considerably longer, with prison wall motif capably carried out by George (Whitey) Usher, is in air. Usher completed at last minute his Jungle Jim attraction. Front is more than attractive and for first time, so far as this writer knows, moving pictures will be used as part of bally—a jungle film screened as part of outside entertainment. Usher will be on front and his son Bill and Louis Valentino on ticket boxes. Leo Polatier will likely have charge of front of San Quentin, with Hiatt in charge of inside, all under the writer's supervision. Reported by Carleton Collins.

B. & V. Enterprise

GARFIELD, N. J., April 10. — Mr. Flaharty, of E. B. Kelley Company, manufacturer of light plants, has placed his two rides with B. & V. They are Loopo-Plane and Loop-the-Loop and are being repainted in the shop at Long Island City. Other rides booked are Carousel, Mike Sherwood, foreman; Eli Wheel, Joe Pendrick, foreman; Chairplane, Vince Russo, foreman; Venetian Swings, Mike Terry, foreman; Kiddie Autos, Donal Frear, owner; Flying Dutchman, Gus Tramer, owner.

Moving on location will start April 23. Gus Tramer has three new acts in his animal circus and Joe Luderer has finished all new drops and costumes for his Girl Revue. Mrs. Blanche Henderson will have the penny pitch and Jess Stewart has booked his three stores. Flying Leroys will be free attraction. Reported by J. Van Vliet.

New England Shows

NEW YORK, April 10.—Everyone working at top speed getting New England Shows ready for opening April 17. John Kilonis has shipped his rides down from Manchester, N. H., all newly painted. Kilonis and missus also brought down their new house trailer, which was built to order. Mr. and Mrs. Billy Giroud in their new De Luxe trailer manage to keep warm very nicely with the latest hot-water heating system. A. Kuntz shipped his paraphernalia from Rochester, N. Y. His freaks are working with Cole Bros.' Circus, with which they will terminate their contract tomorrow. Kuntz will operate a Ten-in-One, featuring freaks.

Harold Nevins started on the road as a lad and who is "all with and for it." He has been with Billy Giroud for a number of years and is very happy with his bride of six months. Clarence Giroud is enlarging his lead gallery, making a 20foot front. Has bought another truck to carry four more concessions and his Paris de Nuit show. James D. Stapleton is forever traveling to different cities, supervising his banner and contest men. Charles Wulp, his wife Edna and Junior advise that they are en route from Arizona, to be here opening date. Pat Miles from Ohio is to be electrician this season. Jimmie Jamison, high diver, is neonizing the entire new panel front of the show. Reported by Clarence Giroud.

Mighty Sheesley Midway

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 10.-After practically a week of undue commotion in quarters due to the abdominal operation and death of Duchess, one of Lorraine Wallace's performing lions, work has finally settled down to what it should be. The operation was given are in air and new marquee is very at- coverage by the Associated Press and United Press; in fact, every possible Al Paulert, with his Follies of 1937, news servicing service to the public, in-thanks to WSOC and the other 17 NBC stations that gladly relinquished 1 hour and 45 minutes to broadcasting the operation to the radio audience, from Washington to Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bailie arrived in quarters, both sporting black eyes due to an auto accident, coming from Savannah, Ga. The annual Easter egg hunt was a big event due to spacious quarters. Little Mary Anger and Jean Hodges took away all honors in finding the most eggs. Three new Fordson and McCormick-Deering tractors have been added to the mobile equipment now owned by the show. Octopus ride and Jazzer (Funhouse) arrived in good shape. Doc Carver has just finished rebuilding a tower for the high-diving horse. Mrs. Charlie Pounds has made her outdoor cafe one of the most modern on any carnival. Mrs. J. M. Sheesley wrecked a fender on that new Cord in coming in from Summerville, W. Va., after visiting her mother. The Monkey cutouts on the front of Jack Winslow's Monkeyville completed. Ray Balzer is busy forming an American Legion Post for the show. Manager John M. Sheesley spent four days in bed with a light touch of influenza, but is around again actively taking charge of all the building activities and management. Charles Sheesley arrived in from Harrisburg, Pa., and immediately got into harness. E. Clay May says he has the arch already sold out for banners for the opening day. Among the interesting visitors watching the broadcast from quarters today were Max Linderman and Gaylord White, of the World of Mirth Show. Jake Houston will be staff photographer this season, while Earl Caton Jr. will assist the writer in handling the press. The writer has been very busy the last few days cooperating with Mayor Ben Douglas and other city officials in staging what looks to be a monster safety parade in which each school child in the county will participate. Reported by Floyd Newell.

Dixie Belle Attractions

OWENSBORO, Ky., April 10.-The writer arrived and found plenty of activities around quarters in preparation for opening date, May 1, at Owensboro. This will be largest show ever under Colonel L. T. Riley's management. Special events, promotions and contests will be on an extensive scale.

New 18-foot office wagon has been completed. Merry-Go-Round, Eli Wheel and Chairoplane have been redecorated and painted. Frank Patterson has joined with his Loop-o-Plane. P. H. Connors has contracted his Girl Review and his wife and daughters will sell tickets on rides. Others who have booked their Riley, owner-manager; Harry Harris, lot superintendent; Riley Woodfork, electrician, and the writer, general agent and in charge of promotions. Reported by Paul W. Drake.

Goodman Wonder Shows

RALEIGH, N. C., April 10. — With everything possible built on streamline plan, Goodman Wonder Shows promise to set many a pace for others to follow. Streamlining has been carried out even in canvas. General color scheme is khaki background to scarlet and blue, with monogram of show in silver. Everyone with show is enthusiastically waiting for premiere at Raleigh last of next week. It is the product of many of the old, experienced heads of departments in outdoor showdom.

Clay M. Greene, general agent, has been doing more than two-a-day at Chicago rounding into form attractions Max Goodman commissioned him to corral. New York office has thrown on no substitutes in keeping up its end, and home office has been co-ordinating efforts of all to make the Goodman show debut an epoch in outdoor show world. S. T. Jessup, of United States Tent and Awning Company, which built most of the new tops, visited quarters to give the once-over to efforts of his staff. He was well satisfied and hurried back to Chicago to work on further orders. In his absence George Johnson directed work in Chicago tent factory. The writer, who will do newspaper publicity, arrived at quarters and became innoculated with the terrific atmosphere of suspense and anticipation. Reported by Beverly White.

THE BILLBOARD has received during the last few weeks a great many inquiries from outdoor showmen about problems in connection with the Social Security Act, which apply mostly to special cases and individual situations. While many of the inquiries have been answered by mail there are points involved in most of the questions asked that should be of interest to every outdoor showman, therefore we are giving here a number of the most important questions and answers made by the Social Security Act Department of The Billboard. We wish to state again that we shall gladly answer any questions asked about the application of this law in individual cases, either direct by mail or in the columns of The Billboard. All you have to do is to write to the Social Security Act Department, The Billboard, Cincinnati, O., and you will receive your answer, free of any charge, as soon as possible.

Responsibility of Owners

An auditing firm in Shreveport, La., which handles the books of several carnivals asked the following question:

"If a carnival has a number of shows, rides and concessions booked on a percentage basis our opinion is that the owner of the carnival is not required to pay the federal unemployment tax and old age benefit tax on his percentage from the shows and rides and concessions as this percentage is paid to him and is in no sense a disbursement of salaries on his part.

"However, we believe that the operator of the shows or rides is required to pay the Social Security tax for his separate employees, which relieves the owner of the shows from any responsibility whatever in connection with any booked attractions."

Our answer to this question follows: We wish to correct a very serious mistake in your conception of the Social Security Act. The government is considering any and all independent shows, rides and concessions booked with a carnival as part and parcel of the show under which title they exhibit. The owner or owners of the carnivals will be held strictly accountable and responsible by the government that every single attraction on the lot lives up to the law, regardless of actual ownership. On a percentage proposition the carnival owner is considered a temporary part owner of the attraction or concession. A concession paying a flat rate to the carnival is considered the same as a leased-out department in a department store. All reports and tax payments from anyone on a carnival lot must go thru the show office and all records must be kept in the show office because it would be a matter of impossibility for government agents to check up on the independent show or concession the letter of the law, work by men in owners. The carnival owner is held alone responsible for the payment of the the 1 per cent tax. taxes.

You are right in the presumption that a show owner has to pay only the taxes on his own employees, but he must collect the other taxes from the independents and see that the government receives them with the proper reports. Naturally the individual independent show, ride or concession owner can and should handle the tax with his own employees. Each independent owner of an attraction should take out an employers' identification card and should see to it that each one of his employees procures an account number card. He must deduct the 1 per cent from any wages paid to his employees and must of this particular attraction. If a show, ride or concession is booked on a percentage basis this 1 per cent paid by the independent owner should be charged against the "nut" of this attraction before the split is made between attraction and office. After each of his pay days the independent attraction owner should turn the tax amount due, with the necessary individual reports, into the office of the carnival for further handling because the government will expect the carnival to make the final tax settlement.

The owners of individual shows, rides or concessions, independently booked with a carnival, are considered as independent contractors and as such personally not subject to any tax under this Act. They are considered as individual employers, but this does not relieve the carnival owner from his responsibility.

Men in Winter Quarters

The same source asked also the following question:

"We would also appreciate your opinion on salaries paid in winter quarters. As you know, prior to the opening the workingmen are not paid any salaries as a rule, but they are allowed meals and sleeping quarters until the opening of the show. Are we right in assuming that these meals and lodging do not constitute salaries which are taxable under the Social Security Act?"

Our answer: Your impression that meals and lodgings furnished in winter quarters are not considered as wages in the sense of the Security Act is, we are sorry to say, wrong. The law does not make any exemptions of this kind. It states explicity that it makes no difference if wages are paid in money or meals or lodgings. A "fair value" must be allowed for these accommodations and regarded as wages. After all, the men in winter quarters are working for the show owner, getting his equipment ready for the road, and this is not a bit different from other work. According to winter quarters is not exempted from

Side-Show Owner Inquires

Mr. W. B., side-show owner, Cuthbert, Ga., asks the following question: "I have a side show on a carnival and employ a few people to work in my show. I would like to know if I am considered a show owner or am I and also my people in the show considered employees working under the carnival show owner?"

Our answer should be of interest to every independent carnival show owner: Your side show is part of the carnival you are with and the owner of the carnival is held responsible by the government that you live up to the letter of match this amount out of the receipts, the law. Nevertheless you are yourself considered an independent contractor and have to take out an employer's identification card—the sooner the better. Ask your postmaster for an application or his advice how to get the card. All your people, even the freaks, are considered employees and must have an employee's account card. You must deduct 1 per cent of their wages as tax when you pay them, regardless if they are on a straight salary or percentage. If you furnish them with their meals you must add a fair amount for the meals to their wages, as explained recently.

> It is up to an agreement between you and the carnival owner who shall pay the employer's 1 per cent tax, but the carnival office will have to keep the individual records and settle with the revenue collectors. If your side show works on percentage it would be the best way, as it is done with most similar shows, to add the employer's 1 per cent to the "nut" before you split with the office. You as the owner of the show are exempted from paying employee's taxes for yourself.

Balloonists Want Advice

C. C. B., balloonist at Melvin Mills, N. H., owner of an aeronautic and balloonistic thrill act, wants the following advice: "My foster son, 29, and myself, 66, have a balloonistic act, booking independently and sharing all moneys earned. Will the Social Security Act affect us in any way?"

Our answer: You and your foster son are considered as independent contractors under the law and therefore not subject to any taxes personally under the Social Security Act. However, if you are carrying your own workingmen on the road, even if only one man, you must apply for an employer's identification card and see that your workingmen obtain their account number cards. Then you must deduct 1 per cent from all wages paid your men and pay the same amount yourself.

Act Wants Enlightenment

Mrs. Greta G., owner of an acrobatic act, writes from Chicago: "I am owner of an acrobatic act employing five people. I am booked with a motorized circus at $150 per week. Why can't the circus owner simply deduct $1.50 every pay day and let it go at that? Why do I have to make a report how much every member of my act is earning?"

Answer: The government requires separate reports on the earning of each member of an act for the simple reason that the amount can be credited to the individual account every act member has with the government. The amount of old age pension or death benefits is figured by the government on the basis of wages the individual has earned and paid taxes on until he is entitled to the pension.

No Tax Payment Is Lost

Mr. Fred B., show talker, is curious to know what would happen in case he should die before he is entitled to any benefit under the old age pension law. He says: "I do not object to being docked 1 per cent of my pay, because it is really only some kind of insurance for old people and that will come in handy when I am 65, even while I am only 41 now. But please tell me what would happen with all the money I paid to the government and my boss paid for me if I should die in 10 years at the We would suggest in your case that tax?"

No, the government is not keeping any of your money. If you should die in 10 years the government would pay your estate the sum equivalent to 31/2 per cent of all wages on which you have paid the tax in these 10 years. For instance, you have earned $1,000 per year amounts to $10,000. The government (See SOCIAL SECURITY on page 67) would pay to your estate on your death $350, despite the fact that you yourself have paid only $100 in taxes. Naturally your boss will have paid the same amount. Nevertheless the government is nearly doubling in this death benefit the amount you and your boss paid together in taxes in the 10 years.

Man, Wife Work Concession

H. C. F., concessioner, writes from High Point, N. C.: "Would a concession man with a carnival or working a fair, employing no one but himself and wife, be required to have a registration number or is he exempted from the Social Security tax?"

If you and your wife work your own concessions without employing any outside help you are considered an independent contractor and do not have to make any tax payments or reports under the Social Security Act. If you employ a man for a few hours to help you set up or tear down you can consider that as casual labor without tax obligations provided the man is not in your permanent employ during the week.

However, it may happen that sickness or other unforeseen circumstances force you to hire some outside help occasionally. These agents would come under the law and you would have to deduct 1 per cent from any wages or moneys you are paying them.

Therefore we would advise that you right now take out an employer's identification card so you have your card in case of necessity. Your postmaster will tell you how and where to get the card. We also suggest that you take out this card under the firm name "Mr. and Mrs. F." as co-partners in your concessions. This would make your wife a part owner and there would not be any question later that she is in your employ and working for you.

Men Over 65 Years

Captain L., show owner, of Charleston, W. Va., writes: "I have three men over 65 and would like to know how they are to be classed and will it be necessary for them to have numbers or fill out any kind of form?"

All men over 65 years of age are totally exempted from any taxes under the Social Security Act. They do not have to have any numbers or fill out any kind of form. They can disregard the Social Security Act and its tax regulations entirely.

Asks About Concessions

The W. A. G. Shows, of Erie, Kan., write: "I let my concessions out as follows, speaking show slang, 50-50 after the nut. For instance, I turn the cookhouse over to a party. They take it, buy all supplies, hire their own help, pay concession and Saturday night we divide 50-50 if we are winner. Now all stock concessions like the corn game, blower, ball games, etc., are let to one man. He in turn employs agents to run these concessions, pays some of them 25 per cent of the gross, some 50-50 after the nut, which consists of goods put out as premiums, concessions, etc. How do we stand on this proposition? Are they employees of the show? Are they employees of the man I have leased my concessions to? Or are they in business for themselves?" Under the Security Law all your concessions and shows are considered as part of the W. A. G. Shows. The show is considered the final employer and therefore held responsible for the payment of the taxes. They must be paid on every employee of every show and concession on your lot and they must be paid thru your show office. If a concession agent works on a percentage the money paid him this way is considered by the government as wages and the 1 per cent tax must be deducted from the money paid him as his end whenever he is paid and the show is responsible for the same amount. Naturally the individual concession owner can handle his own people but must let the payments go thru the show office. In most cases the employer's 1 per cent will be charged against the "nut" of an independent show or concession before the split is made with the office.

age of 51. Would I be out all the money you take out an employer's identificapaid to the government for this here tion card under the name of W. A. G. Shows to cover all your own employees and the employees of your independent shows and concessions. Then let the man who leased all your other stock concessions take out such a card for himself and he can handle his own employees, turning the amounts collected and reports on the individual emin wages during the 10 years, which ployees into your office. It is up to an

Second Macon Success Is Likely To Result in Two Shrine Annuals

MACON, Ga., April 10 .- Al Sihah operated at capacity each night. Shrine Temple had its second winning event within six months last week when at the Indoor Carnival in Macon Auditorium attendance for six nightly performances was given as 46,200. Temple operated its own concessions except diggers of A. L. (Dinty) Moore and Joe Alice Williams, toe dancer; Henry and End's Doll Palace.

For several years the Shrine patrol has sponsored a circus in November and because of the success of the spring event it is believed the Shrine may make both events annuals. Prize list on the Indoor Carnival was $2,100 and outlay for show exceeded $5,000, the committee said, net for the Shrine exceeding $2,000. Moore's new Skooter ride, constructed in Macon during the winter,

Stage show featured Jimmie Hodges' Laff, Town, Laff Revue. Principals were Hodges; Nina, bubble dancer; Ann Bradley, blond blues singer; Roger Williams, imitator; Charles Schaefer and Whitman Sisters, dancers; Alice Werk, tap dancer;

King, acrobatic specialty; Dorothy Smith in Girl-in-the-Fishbowl water illusion; an eight-piece stage band, and line of 10 girls. D. C. Ferguson, chairman of the Shrine committee, was in charge. Other com-

To The Billboard Manager Martin said: "Managers and rink operators from all over the country showed their interest by coming, sometimes thousands of miles, to visit the meet. I feel I owe a vote of thanks to everyone for their splendid co-operation and to the kids for the fine way they skated. It was a cleanly skated meet. Future contests are going to be more worth while than any meet hitherto held. We have come together in such a way that there will be co-operation between every rink manager and owner in the country. There will be a bright future for these youngsters."

"The boys are all very well satisfied, judging from conversation in dressing rooms," declared Bob Martin, assistant manager of Arena Gardens, "and so are managers, other visitors and spectators. As far as business was concerned, it was very satisfactory to the house. Merchandise Plans Aiding Service Station Business Intense competition between oil companies and their service stations for additional gasoline, oil and accessory business, occasioned by the arrival of good driving weather, is indicated by recent promotion efforts to get the "jump" on the other fellow. And from these efforts it is apparent that oil company executives are going to count heavily on premium merchandise awards to obtain and hold business. Interest in every type of premium item suitable for the purpose, the growing number of award plans being launched and the quantity of merchandise already ordered has served to center attention upon this field as having tremendous possibilities for the industry.

One of the more popular plans to be inaugurated this year is one which appeals to boys and girls for their aid in bringing the gasoline business of their parents and friends to a particular station or chain. Coupons are issued with the purchase of each gallon of gasoline or every quart of oil. When a boy or girl has acquired 100 coupons he or she presents them at the station and receives a pair of roller skates, a scooter or some other equally valuable gift.

A simpler plan that is more direct and

Interest Displayed At N. Y. Toy Fair

NEW YORK, April 10.—Greatly increased interest prevailed on the eve of the opening of the annual Toy Fair at the Toy Building and the McAlpin Hotel here. Newspapers added to the fever by publishing advance information regarding some of the merchandise that will be featured.

It is believed that adult games, such as Monopoly, will get the major share of attention and that buyers from all over the country will have their eyes open for this type of merchandise.

Miniatures of coin-operated games will be displayed this year in greater quantity than heretofore. Promotion of these home games has been lax for some time, but interest in them is due for a comeback.

With the return of better economic conditions and the surety that the coming seasons will find the public more attentive to recreation than ever before, buying, in all categories, is expected to be brisk.

Wholesale merchandisers have anxiously looked forward to the opening of the Toy Fair. It is their belief that many new items will be presented which will fit into their picture.

New Type Novelty Candy Vender Jacks Up Sales

With the recent advent of a new type novelty candy vender, merchandise houses and candy jobbers are reporting many new accounts and a brisk buying spree from the hundreds who are launching operations of the merchandisers. New vender is proving popular because it combines the features of digger, vender and rotating-type machines. It has a revolving table laden with merchandise and a digger crane and claw. In addition, it automatically vends full value in candy with every play.

Recent upturn in merchandise sales for this type of machine is not merely an indication of the success of the new-type merchandiser, but an indication of a pronounced swing to merchandising machines. Leaders have expressed their pleasure with the volume of merchandise operators are demanding to supply their trade. With the growing public acceptance of the new novelty candy vender merchandisers are looking forward to a substantial volume of sales from this channel for months to come.

which calls for the distribution of a greater variety of merchandise is the receipt-book idea. When $10 worth (or some other amount) of receipts have been acquired, the motorist is entitled to his choice of a list of general merchandise. Particularly effective have been such items as flashlights, auto robes, car cushions, colorful potteryware and home accessories, such as ash trays, smoking stands, magazine racks, smokers' items, lighters, ciggie cases, pipes, beer sets, cocktail shakers and the like.

Still another plan which makes for a definite and strong bid for repeat business is the offering of a piece of glassware or dinnerware, from a matched set, with each purchase of five gallons of gasoline. Once a patron has begun collecting pieces he is pretty certain to continue coming until he has completed the set.

Sun-Glass Season Has Early Opening

NEW YORK, April 10. — Sun glasses have already zoomed into one of the most important sales items in the wholesale merchandise industry here.

Sportlands, arcades, concessioners, pitchmen and others have made earlier arrangements this year for the glasses and attractive cards for quick display.

Sales of these items were among the best of the past season, even during the winter at seaside resorts. Local mer-

Steady Pace Maintained By Trade in Past Week

Retail trade maintained a satisfactory pace during the past week with volume for the period showing approximately 15 per cent above figures for the corresponding week of last year.

Showing was exceptionally good when one considers that last week's figures are compared with the heavy buying Easter period of last year. Volume for March is expected to show from 15 to 17 per cent above the same month in 1936. Buying continued strong in all lines of spring goods.

"In wholesale trade, seasonal influences have begun to exert an adverse influence, altho there were exceptions to this rule," the department of commerce said in its survey of business in 37 cities.

Associated Press index of industrial activity rose to 105.5 from 103 the week previous and 82 in the like week last year.

chandisers report that sun glasses have always been a leading and staple item.

Sun glasses' greatest value lies in their varicolored attractive display. The cards (standard card bearing one dozen) are more modernistic and better looking than ever before.

Seaside resort men are ordering in gross lots and are dickering for price. Belief is that these advance orders will assure the public of getting the glasses at unusually reasonable prices this year.

American manufactured products are preferred, with the demand pointing to the better grades.

Inventors Meet In Windy City

CHICAGO, April 10 .- Inventors held their national congress at the La Salle Hotel here March 29 to April 2, showing 468 new items in the exhibit rooms. A little of everything was displayed, including a folding bed for trailers and mesh nets to protect the femme's legs from insects.

Mornings were devoted to educational meetings, instructing inventors in matters of patents, costs, competition, etc. Featured speakers thru the five-day session were Albert G. Burns, president of the Congress; George H. Treviranus, treasurer; Herman A. Finke, chairman, and eight-year-old David Suddeth, inventor of a boiled potato peeler.

CBS and NBC covered the exhibits with portable microphones, and pictures of the prize winners were snapped for press and newsreels. Eighteen prizes were awarded at the main luncheon April 1.

Meet closed with various committees reporting and election of following officers and directors: Albert G. Burns, of Oakland, Calif., re-elected president; H. E. Taylor, Chicago, vice-president; Gordon Lee, Cleveland, secretary; George H. Treviranus, Racine, Wis., treasurer; Margaret Hess, Morocco, Ind.; Clark L. Fry, Necedah, Wis.; Charles R. Miner, San Francisco; Herman A. Finke, St. Louis, and Hyman Olken, Cambridge, Mass., directors.

Other items exhibited included an emergency horn-sounder for automobiles, invented by Martin M. Collins, Danbury, Conn.; Re-Cap-A-Can, by H. P. Turner Company; Handi-Holder for matches and cigarets and Handi-Shopping Bag-Carrier for baby buggies, by Specialty Forum; Loop-the-Loop, by Adolph Brinkman; Rinse Rite, by Schamer Company; Jiffy Blocker, by Shay Products Corporation; a bicycle Cyk-O-Loc, by W. P. Strickland; new-type pleater for curtains, Niese Curtain Hooks; Spic and Span, Specialty Forum; combination sponge and rubber cleaner, World Specialties, Inc.; Fount-O-Ink, Fount-O-Ink Sales Agency.

New York Bull's-Eyes

By WALTER ALWYN-SCHMIDT

T MAY interest premium merchants and manufacturers generally to note that national magazines have taken to trick advertising to publicize their advertising pages with advertising agencies and national advertisers. The mail is full of cute little ideas, each cuter than the other, but nothing to remember the magazine permanently. I am sure some of these mailing pieces are expensive enough to justify their replacement by a good premium. Here is your opportunity to sell publishers and their advertsing managers something effective. If you have a worth-while article show it to the magazines. If interested, they will buy in large quantities. Also give other mail advertisers an opportunity to look at your stuff. This is the time for premium promotions of summer articles. Later, fall and winter articles will be welcome.

And, while I am on the matter of premium advertising, what about a little gadgets that can be handed out by garages this spring, a souvenir for road-side restaurants use or something for stores in seaside and summer resorts to welcome their summer visitors? A well-worded circular will bring results. Take your own medicine. Send a sample along with the offer.

With a cold wind sweeping the streets, curb operators made up their minds that there would not be much Easter gift business. Many, doubtless, stayed home near a warm stove. Those who faced the climate, however, did surprisingly well. Mechanical toys, such as small dogs, cats, penguins and rabbits, found most favor. Forty-second street, lower Broadway and midtown sections were especially busy. Obviously, it pays one to avoid jumping at conclusions. Present season may hold even better opportunities than had been expected.

If I were you I would give local movie houses a look. Rumor has it that many theaters will return to premium advertising. After listening to several managers, I believe there is something to the rumors. Some believe they have not yet exhausted all the benefits that can be had from bank nights, merchants' promotions and screen games. New attractions, however, may be necessary this summer. Merchandise can be sold to the movie houses again. The idea will not work, however, unless a good plan as to how merchandise can be worked in a novel manner goes along with it. Managers desire a plan that will keep the houses active thru the week and not on special evenings only, with a possibility of going easy when a good puller is displayed and widen up on off nights. If merchandise is used it should be spectacular and of real value. Needless to say, the public has a better taste today than several years ago when premium promotions were on top.

A friend of mine who operates a more-than-average successful game has given me some good advice which is passed on here for what it is worth. Fight shy of the game that is staked against a player. Idea is to hand out as many winners as possible. If you feel you must earn more, raise the ante. Make premiums sufficiently attractive to make players compete for the higher-priced and, therefore, more profitable articles on display. The more winners the more players.

I have been told that big operators are covering on chinaware. Some good bargains are still available, but getting rare. The better grade dolls are much in demand. Fashion favors colonial dresses with some call for dolls in national costumes. Puzzles are returning to favor and they sell well in curb promotions. Toys should go into premium displays because the kiddles bring their fathers to play.

Struhl Wins New York Assn's Display Award

NEW YORK, April 10.—Morris Struhl, wholesale merchandising firm, was awarded the Honorable Display Award Certificate of this city's 23d Street Business Men's Association for window displays featured by the firm.

Company is nationally known for the merchandise it sells to carnivals, concessioners, sportlands, arcades, coin machine operators, bingo merchants and retail outlets. It has been established more than 25 years. Firm has displayed its wares annually at the coin machine exhibitions in Chicago and is well known in that field.

"Tho the award of the certificate is quite an honor in itself and much sought after by the business men in this section of the city, it more than anything else points to the effectiveness of premium merchandise display value," Struhl explained.

"We are very proud of the award," continued Struhl. "No other item in the industry has as much display appeal as premium merchandise. Variety of the merchandise itself creates interest. We have even noted Sunday strollers stopping for hours at a time to pick out various items in our window displays and to comment on them.

"The manner in which premium manufacturers are co-operating with the buyers also allows for better displays. Radio firms especially are issuing eyeappealing display cards for their radio sets. Kaywoodie arranges a large and beautiful pipe display card with a free salesboard attached that is a worldbeater as an attention-getter."

Noiseless Roller Skates

The answer to the wish of many parents for noiseless roller skates has arrived in the new Zephyr noiseless skates, just introduced to premium and prize trade by Zephyr Products Company. The skates owe their absence of noise to long-mileage ball wheels, made of a specially developed vulcanized composition instead of resounding metal. They are also rubbercushioned. Result is said to be the smoothest motion of any skate, comparable in all respects to ice-skating. Parents and the public generally are welcoming the advent of these new skates, particularly for use on sidewalks or streets. As a summer premium they appear to be just about tops and they are priced within the premium user's reach.

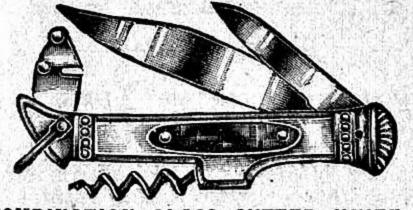

10-Gallon Hat

The 10-gallon hat is a novelty being featured for the outdoor season by the Goldfarb Novelty Company. It was an official novelty at the Texas Centennial, and Saul Goldfarb, who has had years of experience with circus, rodeo and carnival novelties, feels that its popularity will spread over the United States this summer. Hat is lightweight, durable and waterproof. It comes in two colors, gray and tan, and is an exact reproduction in design, color, texture and size of the real cowboy hat. Another hat secured for distribution by the company is the Frank Buck tropical helmet. The Goldfarbs are of the opinion that the tropical helmet as summer headgear is fast becoming a permanent institution. For the last several years sales on helmets have climbed steadily and Frank Buck's national fame has put this hat over successfully. Goldfarb Novelty Company has exclusive distribution on the 10gallon hat and exclusive Eastern distribution on the tropical helmets.

Electroaire Ozonator

New "FO" Electroaire Generator is as modern and attractive in appearance as the latest types of office or home furniture. It is manufactured in two sizes, one of which is capable of ozonating 8,000 cubic feet, the other capable of ozonating 20,000 cubic feet. Panels are jet black bakelite trimmed in gleaming chromium-plated trim, giving a striking and pleasant contrast. A marked improvement for this type of machinery is the Roto-Beem Circulator used in place of the ordinary fan. This patented air-circulator builds up a spiraling air stream which sucks in air from all sides and from ceiling to floor, giving a faster, greater and wider volume of air distribution and, consequently, a faster and greater distribution of air than has hitherto been possible. Air stream also is given a gentle pulsating action. Purpose of the Electroaire Corporation in developing the new model was to meet the constantly increasing demand for an attractive and modernlooking ozone generator to destroy odors and freshen air in buildings or offices where occupancy, tobacco smoke, moldy or other odors are prevalent.

Memo Sheet Holder

A useful and attractive holder for memo sheets has been designed by Charles D. Briddell, Inc., manufacturer of advertising specialties and premiums. Made from lustrous walnut metal, to hold 300 3x5-inch memo sheets and available with or without advertisement on metal top, it possesses definite utility in office and home.

New Electric Shaver

The period of waiting is ended for those premium men who have long been awaiting the arrival of an electric dry-shaver comparable in efficiency with the expensive ones already on the market that can be purchased at about one-third their retail price. Electric Razor Corporation announces that its Marvel Electric Dry Shaver, despite its retail price of $15, is available for premium and prize use and quantity users may purchase it around their desired figures. Marvel eliminates those troublesome factors that always plague new products and steps out in advance with its two shaving edges, cutting smoothly, cleanly, closely and without irritation. Soaps, creams and lather unnecessary. All it needs to operate is a reachable A. C. or D. C. light socket. It is also ideal for feminine use, making it a premium or prize appreciated by both sexes.

Musical Door Chimes

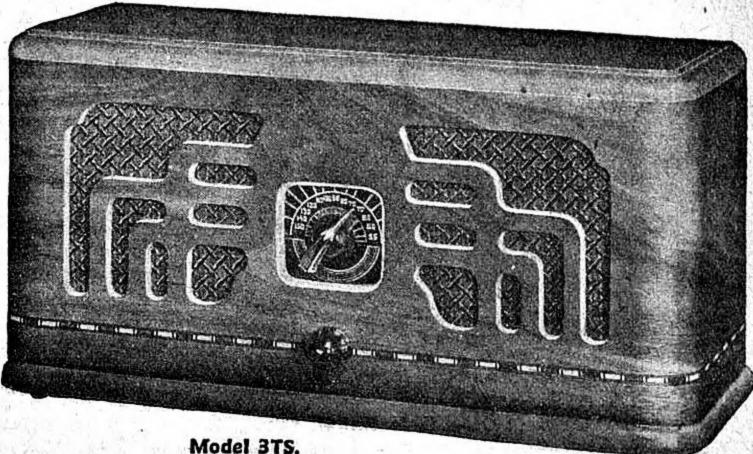

Relief from the usual harshness of the ordinary door signal is provided at last by the Musical Door Gong Chimes, just introduced to the direct-selling trade by the Hagen Import Company. It is claimed that when the door is opened the chime gives a clear-sounding accord of four notes in both ascending and descending order. It works unfailingly, no electricity or other power needed. It is easily put on any door, regardless of its size and construction, and costs but a fraction of the higher proied chimes on the market. In fact, retail price is only $2, of which the agent realizes a goodly share. Item has a tremendous market, with houses, stores and offices prospects.

was 12.7 per cent, and the number of employees in 701 identical plants increased from 215,973 to 243,493. Pay roll growth was 24.1 per cent, the total going from $4,928,903 to $6,115,288. Average weekly earnings mounted from $22.82 to $25.11, a 10 per cent gain.

Charles Ufert, now featuring various lines suitable for demonstrators, canvassers and specialty sellers, expects to offer several new numbers for pitchmen soon. Meantime many items are available that pitchmen find reliable standbys. The firm is offering a wide variety of moth preventives, a line that specialty sales people always take to for spring and summer sales. Lists will be sent upon request.

That low-priced imported Orientaldesign rugs will be a popular item this season is proved by the tremendous response to recent advertisements featuring these rugs by M. Seidel & Son. Charles Seidel advises that more than 200 agents, salesmen, operators and concessioners have written in for the company's free illustrated circular and price list and have ordered the rugs.

A large follow-up announcement which was planned for this issue by the Speak-o-Phone Recording and Equipment Company had to be held off because of the flood of inquiries which concessioners and demonstrators sent in in response to the Speak-o-Phone announcement in the Spring Special.

The portable recording set for making personal phonograph records of any individual's voice seems to have caught the fancy of concessioners and demonstrators as a new big-money idea. C. Austin, of the Speak-o-Phone Company, asks that concessioners and demonstrators allow the company sufficient time to catch up on present inquiries and orders before rushing in any more.

The offer of a free chain and jackknife with every railroad engineer's model watch as featured by the Bradley Company in the Spring Special issue of The Billboard apparently has met with the trade's approval. Agents, salesmen, bingo and salesboard operators, concessioners and demonstrators have responded to the offer in a big way.

Peter Turchon, of the Bradley Company, feels that once the wholesale merchandise buyers have familiarized themselves with the company's extensive and smart line of ladies' and men's rings, watches and other jewelry items they will depend regularly on the firm for top values in this type of merchandise. Company invites inquiries from interested parties.

One of the leaders in this field, Fred recently announced that its entire line is available for premium and prize use. Company has been manufacturing quality musical instruments since 1883 and its products enjoy an enviable reputation. The line contains musical instruments fitted, from the price angle, to a wide variety of premium and prize offers.

Substantial Increase

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Manufacturers' and wholesalers' sales showed substantial increases in February, compared with the same month last year, according to a joint survey by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce and the employment over February of last year tion percentage for February over the same month in 1936.

> Among wholesalers, total net sales of the 1,100 reporting increased 16.6 per cent over February, 1936. Without adjustment for seasonal influences, February sales registered a decrease of about 3 per cent from January this year. Nearly all wholesale trade groups displayed increased sales over February of last year. Durable and semi-durable goods showed the most favorable improvement and consumption goods the least favorable. Electrical goods and jewelry and machinery wholesalers averaged sales increases of more than 30 per cent.

> Percentages of collections on accounts receivable submitted by 628 wholesalers were higher in February as compared with the same 1936 month, but under January this year, and were 71.9 per cent, 68.2 per cent and 74 per cent, respectively. Greatest relative increases were shown by 15 of the 19 wholesale groups reporting.

Playing Card Thermometer

One of the newest and most unusual

playing card games now on the market is Quick Silver, the playing-card thermometer. Game is easily learned, but very tricky to play. It has the proper speculative appeal to make it a great favorite. Its unusual appearance and name makes it an easy demonstration item. Game permits a repeat business from other prospects who will soon learn of the possibilities of the game. Low retail price permits the sale in quantity. Almost everybody is interested in playing cards and the game will appeal to everybody so inclined. Item is obtainable from the Checard Company.

Woods, Jack La Rue, Doc Williams, Doc W. J. Flood, Shorty Grace, Andy Brown, John Maxwell, Harry Stevens, William Sullivan, Doc Atlas and Charles Mack. Atlas, who has been showing Maine and New Hampshire for the last two years, was one of the principal speakers. Doc Williams announced that he will have a four-truck show this season. Stage will be constructed on two trucks and organization will carry its own electric plant and loud speaker. Unit will carry 18 people and, according to Williams, is booked to play eight weeks in Massachusetts and the remainder of the season in New Hampshire. Michael Sullivan, formerly of the Doc Woods Show, will handle the advance."

tells from Chicago under date of April 4: "Followers of pitchdom have declared winter at an end and all hands were on deck on Maxwell street last Sunday. Ray Herbers is now in Miami, acting as a talker for a touring bus company. George Orman has returned here and is doing a good business. Word to the effect that Buffalo Cody is seriously ill somewhere in the South reached here recently. Conditions in general are about the same here.

letters from Champaign, Ill., under date of April 1: "Just noticed that Hide-and-Go-Seek Murphy has been living up to his nickname, hiding out in Indianapolis and getting all the money on the sheet for the last six months. Pretty foxy, old boy. Come on, Frank, shoot a pipe. Also noticed that Ray and Tommie Lamb have gone with Harry Weary, of paper fame."

MONEY SPOTS: With summer just around the corner, it would pay a pitchman who is making the big towns to watch the vegetable markets, especially those where the farmers do their retail trading. Housewives by the hundreds attend these markets and are good prospects for any pitchman handling a meritorious article. Watch for the market days and collect according to your ability.

JAMES H. McCASKEY . . . fast-moving, cow-sheet sub getter, tells from Reynoldsville, Pa.: "Due to a continuous streak of tough luck I'm on the shelf for awhile. Had a very bad accident recently. My car careened, turned a double aerial somersault, doubled up like a jackknife and went over a 92-foot embankment. I went thru the air like a flying trapeze, but came out alive without a scratch. Needless to say the car is a total loss, but I still have a receipt book. I haven't, however, forgotten that good things don't come in bunches like bananas. Spring is here and it's me for the sticks as soon as permissible."

DOC J. G. O'MALLEY . . . inks from Bainbridge, Ga., that he has quit the med business for a while at least and will be with the Imperial Shows this season with an animal show. Unit will be transported on a huge trailer

"Laws and Lawsuits Pertaining To the Amusement Business"

Under the above title there will appear in The Billboard, starting with an early issue, a series of legal articles pertaining to various branches of the amusement business. The articles will be authored by Leo T. Parker, a prominent attorney of Cincinnati, and should be exceedingly interesting to readers of The Billboard.

All of the material will be treated in such a way as to be readily understandable and to the point. Variations of the law will be discussed, and each statement and explanation of the law will be based upon a higher court decision, which will be digested in the fewest possible words.

Advice will also be given on how to avoid litigations, but if suits are filed the late citations being included in the articles should assist those concerned and their lawyers in fighting the cases.

No attempt will be made to offer advice on personal inquiries, but if a sufficient number of suggestions are received, a special article on the subject will be published at a subsequent date.

Pitchmen I Have Met

By SID SIDENBERG

One of the most-traveled men in Pitchdom is Morris Davidson. One of the best liked and cleverest tripod workers in the business, this baby sells rad, gummy, sharpeners, glass cutters, Svengali decks and dime and penny tricks by the ton, in many instances working spots that are closed to the "cry babies" in the business who are always lamenting and singing the blues that Pitchdom and the world have gone to the dogs.

About a year ago I was traveling south via Missouri and Arkansas and the advice all along the line was to stay away from Blythesville, Ark., because the town was closed and hostile. Well, not trying to throw bouquets at myself, I figured that I would take a chance at the town, believing that if I did get a turndown I could call on my good friend Hubert Potter, who is a power in the town. That's getting away from the story, however, as Potter had me set even before I got there. Arriving there I saw Morris Davidson working one of the most prominent corners in the town and collecting nothing but kale.

Morris calls the United States home. He didn't get married becàuse you can't tie him down. Travels all the time. Just like a bald eagle—now you see him and at any minute he might rise and fly. He's been all over the world, has no cares and worries about nobody. Trouble never bothers him and he gets a kick out of trying to make a spot that comes under a hard-to-make heading.

Morris has pitched in Great Britain, Egypt, India, Palestine, Germany and France. He served under General Allenby in the Jewish Legion in the World War. Immediately after being mustered out of the service he snatched up some tripods and keister and went to work before he recrossed the bond.

Morris is 42 years old and if he is married he got himself hooked in the past year.

and Central avenues, Hot Springs, Ark. A few corners and some doorways are open to pitch exponents in that town.

Cleveland to get it." IF A MAN stands still, he stands alone, for to succeed one must move with the masses and keep abreast of the times.

Notes From the Crossroads

By NAT GREEN

THE opening performance of the I Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus at the Coliseum was an agreeable surprise. when one considers the short time in which the show was organized and assembled and the brief rehearsals it was a remarkably good job. It demonstrated concretely the value of experienced men. They could not have selected a more competent man than Ralph J. Clawson to put it together. And the veteran, albeit a comparatively young vet, Orrin Davenport, has been demonstrating his ability for years in handling large indoor circuses. To be convinced that these two men know their business from every angle one has only to view the performance. Regardless of how much good talent there is in a show, there must be someone capable of correlating the various features to make a smoothrunning, speedy, entertaining performance, and Davenport evidently is such a man. If all departments of the show run as smoothly as his there is no reason why H-W shouldn't have a successful season.

An interesting addition is being made to the show this week. Pancho Villa's daughter is joining and will be featured with the Wild West. She is said to be an excellent rider and with her picturesque background she should make good copy for the newspapers.

The show also has a live wire in its bandmaster, Henry Kyes. Billed as "The Paul Whiteman of the White Tops," due to his striking resemblance to the jazz king and also to his modern symphonic arrangements for circus music, Kyes brings something distinctly new to the circus world. Instead of the old-time so-called rain-catcher type of altos, umpah basses, nanny-goat trumpets and whippoorwill clarinets, Henry has cleverly woven in modern four-part harmony for saxes and three-way brass choruses in the old-time calliope and is playing Rhapsody in Blue in the approved Eddy Duchin manner. The old-time circus spirit is not lost, however, for the gallops and fanfare and the man on the flying trapeze still predominate but are dressed up in modern style. Kyes, by the way, was director of the famous Merle Evans Victor recording band.

Mabel Stark, famous tiger trainer, was in town for the opening of the circus. . . . She leaves soon for an engagement at Atlantic City, then goes to the Benson Animal Farm at Nashua, N. H. . . . Some spiffy invitations Max Goodman sent out for the opening of his Goodman Wonder Show, Inc. . . Sorry, Max, that we can't be in Raleigh the 17th. . . . J. B. With the exception of two days lost on account of cold and rain the management is well satisfied for the early weeks.

The show plans to add several new features as the season progresses and has every reason to believe that 1937 will be a banner year for this outfit, as it is the policy to make all reasonable effort regular membership. to present attractions that will please the public in a clean and showmanlike at the headquarters of the Chorus manner.

Chorus Equity has maintained a minimum salary in the legitimate theater since its beginning in 1919. For that reason Chorus Equity has never permitted its members to work on the cooperative basis. Obviously if we hold to the rule that no member of Chorus Equity may work in a legitimate production for less than $30 in New York and $35 on the road we could permit no arrangement by which chorus members work at no stated salary and on which arrangement they are more apt to get $5 or $6 a week than $30.

Despite the fact that this rule has been in effect for 18 years, we occasionally still get complaints from unthinking members that Chorus Equity is stopping production, depriving them of a wonderful opportunity because we forbid co-operative arrangements for the membership.

Just a little thought should clear this up. Does any member think that any manager will let go of a valuable piece of property, will give them a production that stands any chance of even making enough to pay salaries? We think that there is no argument in favor of any cooperative company insofar as the performer is concerned. It is just possible that there is more to be said for such an arrangement for the principals than for the chorus. The principal may have a reason other than salary for wishing to continue with something that has proved to be a failure. Possibly he thinks he has an unusually good part in the production and that his performance in that part may get him another and a better engagement. Such an argument does not hold for the chorus. They work as a group. There is little opportunity for the work of one member to stand out sufficiently so that he will obtain another engagement because of that one performance. The production has value for him only for so long as it pays his salary. If he has been so unfortunate as to find himself in a failure he certainly does not want to continue that misfortune by making an arrangement which breaks down his association's minimum salary and may result in his getting a lower salary on his next venture.

Be sure you are registered in the employment agency and, if you are looking for work, that you call at the Chorus Equity three or four times a week.

Weismuller Is To Join Aquacade At Cleveland's Great Lakes Expo

CLEVELAND, April 10.—Latest step in preparation of the Aquacade program which Billy Rose has been engaged to present at Great Lakes Exposition here this season is engagement of Johnny Weismuller as the newest aquatic star.

Eleanor Holm Jarrett is feminine star of the general water production, with Aileen Riggen director of the aquabelles. Floyd Zimmerman, coach of the group last season, is working in conjunction with Miss Riggen. The water chorus will number 500 swimmers, male and female.

Backing this will be the presentation on the movable stage, which comes forward under the blanket of a water curtain so that the acts are close to tables where 5,000 spectators may dine, dance and see the show. Gomez and Raymon, ballroom dancers, have been engaged by Rose to appear in this portion of the bill.

Something different in advertising an expo has been devised with the dispatching of five chautauqua speakers who will tour Northern Ohio and the Great Lakes States in behalf of the event. They are Dr. James Marshall, Charles H. Pattenburg, Dr. Luther Gable, Frank P. Johnson and Karl S. Bolander. Marshall, native of Australia, is an authority on tropical animal and plant life. Plattenburg, world traveler and editor, has made a hobby of expositions and has attended nearly every one since 1893. Dr. Gable is an authority on radio, ultra-violet and infra-red lamps. Johnson is a farm chemist and Bolander is founder and president of the National Art Guild.

Plan is for speakers to appear before schools and educational groups, lecturing in their particular fields and stressing educational importance of the expo, plans being to emphasize this phase of the expo. Speakers will include 12 lecturers. Others retained are Donald Gray, retired naval officer; William Dern, Fred Heitfeld, William Rainey Bennett; "Slim" Williams, hunter, trader and trapper; Samuel W. Grathwell and Jack Morrow. Most of these have been under bureau management and are known as school assembly and business-group speakers. It is expected their work will materially increase attendance.

Another strong buildup is that to be given the radio program. Stars of national importance and band names are listed. Ohio Bell Telephone Company is getting publicity and advertising the expo at the same time with a display of equipment and historical material to be shown later on the grounds.

CHICAGO, April 10.—April 8 meeting was well attended. President J. C. Mc-Caffery presided and seated with him Second Vice-President Frank P. Duffield, Treasurer A. L. Rossman, Secretary Joe Streibich and Past Presidents C. R. Fisher and Ernie A. Young.

Membership committee is showing real activity and reports a total of 62 applications to date in the 1937 drive. Presented for ballot at this meeting were Aleck G. Whitfield, Warren B. Irons, August Pucci, Jack Dynes and Frank X. Larrissey. They were credited to Frank D. Shean, Al Kaufman, Frank R. Conklin and Fitzie Brown.

Spring benefit committee was unable to make a full report at this time but will have same for the next meeting.

Club's lease has been signed and it will remain in the same quarters for another three years. Rooms will be redecorated and overhauled generally this summer.

Relief committee reports that Brother Harry Coddington has returned to American Hospital, where he is receiving attention under the care of Dr. Max Thorek and his son, Philip. Everyone is pulling for his early recovery.

Brother Lou Leonard left for Atlanta to join the Rubin & Cherry Shows. Next week will find the Canada delegation on its way to the Conklin Shows. In fact, it will be but a short time now until we close the regular meetings for the summer.

Spring benefit was a real affair, with a wonderful attendance and a real prohis entertainment committee goes credit the winners. for an evening of real entertainment.

> The entire affair was handled most capably and ran without a hitch. Seating arrangements were ushered with much less difficulty than ever before, all tables having been assigned as tickets were sold and a close check made as patrons entered the inn. In this way the usual confusion was largely avoided. Members of the reception committee handled the large crowd without difficulty. Special credit for success of the show is due J. C. McCaffery, president of the Showmen's League; Walter F. Driver, co-chairman, and Driver's efficient secretary, M. Adele Andrews. All three of them worked unceasingly to put the show over big. Driver gave practically his entire time to the event for a solid month. He was fortunate in having M. Adele Andrews as his assistant, as she formerly handled various phases of work of several Class A Western Canoutdoor show people and was an invaluable aid in the ticket sale and the program. Michael J. Doolan, chairman of the ticket committee, was an indefatigable worker and did an excellent 10b, with assistance from his committeemen—Samuel Bloom, James Campbell, Frank R. Conklin, Charles R. Hall, Nat I. Kaplan, L. Clifton Kelley, B. Mendelson, Col. F. J. Owens and James C. Simpson—as well as other league members. Joseph L. Streibich, secretary of the league, also gave much valuable assistance in obtaining ads for the program, furthering the ticket sale and handling other necessary details.

Attendance at the affair was around the 600 mark, absolute capacity of the inn. It will be several days before a complete report of receipts and expenditures can be made, but it is certain a substantial sum was realized for the American Hospital.

The Show

At intervals thruout the evening there were intermissions for dancing to the swingy music of Red Nichols and his boys, and the festivities continued until around 3 a.m.

Credit for keeping the show moving at a fast pace goes to Marty Bloom, capable Sherman producer. Jules Braun, in charge of the Inn's personnel, handled everything in his usual highly efficient manner and is deserving of much credit.

Following a delicious repast, the regular College Inn show was presented, with Morey Amsterdam as emsee. Morey is a clever humorist and an imitator as well, and his broadcast from Sing Sing and other bits were fertile laugh-provokers. Red Nichols and his boys are swing champs who turn out most danceable music. With Red are the Three Songies, Arlene Owens, a diminutive blonde; Jack Wilshire and Russell Crowell, and the trio takes good care of the vocal swing department. The line of girls, known as the Muriel dancers, do a neat job of toe swinging, featuring some unusual rhythms and costumes. Outstanding in the Inn show are the Four Trojans—Al Renard, Louis Regan, Paul Whiting and Kenneth Carter—tumbling stars who do the seemingly impossible. They put on a marvelous exhibition. The sextet of Harlemites known as the Lindy Hoppers went to town with some of the hottest stepping ever seen in these parts. One of the most thrilling and entertaining parts of the show was the badminton game between Jess Willard, national badminton champion, and Bill Hurley, West Coast champion. Their fast and furious playing kept the customers gasping in amazement. A highlight of the program was the singing of young Jackie Cabalero, assisted by the Three Aristocrats. In choir boy outfit, Jackie did several numbers, beautifully rendered.

The Show—Second Section

Following the regular show Jack Kline came on as emsee for the second section and introduced Billy Snyder, emsee from the Hi-Hat Club. From then on there was a constantly changing procession of emsees, Kline, Snyder and Willie Shore alternating and each of them offering entertaining specialties—Snyder giving a comedy impression of a lady dressing, Shore doing a dance, and Jack Kline, who is an excellent vocalist, leading the audience in singing old favorites. One, When Irish Eyes Are Smiling, was dedicated to J. C. McCaffery, president of the Showmen's League of America.

There was a world of talent in the acts presented. Emil Boreo, star of the show at the Casino Parisiene, was given a thunderous reception and his Parade of the Wooden Soldiers stopped the show. Another show-stopper was Ross, Pierre and Schuster, whose comedy kept the customers in an uproar. Other acts presented included Seroy and Weaver in hot dance numbers, including the Suzy-Cu; Sally Gay, sophisticated songs; Una Cooper, dancer; Alla Mirova, Russian dancer; Princess Naomi, Indian vocalist; Tyler, Thorne and Post, comedy adagio; Don Enrico, tenor; Ann Llewellyn, fiveyear-old artist who was chosen Queen of Randolph street. Gave two clever recitations and was presented with a beautiful floral bouquet. Palmer and Forest, apache dance; Red Foley and Girls of the Golden West, WLS feature, in Western songs; Miss Kimball, tap bolero; Sascha, Russian songs; Elmer Cleve, Marion Keller and Professor Cheer, knock-about comedy.

WHILE not an entirely new idea in the carnival field, there is bound to be much good come out of the plan of Max Gruberg to carry a hospital unit with his World's Exposition Shows this year. Larger carnivals have had their first-aid stations for years, but Max aims to far outdo these by having a thoroly furnished hospital unit under the direction of an accredited doctor, and not only that, but assisted by a trained nurse. The expense will all be borne by Max.

We believe this hospital unit will save Max a lot of gyp money which many carnivals get shaken down for during the season—trumped-up injuries. in other words. By having an immediate examination of the ones involved by an accredited doctor many of the phony claims no doubt will be dropped.

Taking care of the health of the attaches of the show is another valuable point as many of the working staff have no money when it comes to minor ailments, which sometimes develop into something more serious, if not fatally. With a doctor on the show to go to and treatment and nursing, if necessary, free, it is reasonable to assume that the cases of illness will be greatly minimized.

With Dick Collins handling the publicity of the World's Exposition Shows it is only natural to expect Gruberg's hospital unit to come in for a big play in the daily press and this will mean a great deal in the promotion of the carnival business as a whole.

U SPARKS recalls an instance last Lyear where girls of a girl show wore very few clothes on opening night and less each night thereafter until Saturday night when they appeared in only a rag. "Proper officials could have stopped this kind of show," he comments, "but they didn't. Why does a carnival manager stoop so low?"

Sparks also recalls a big fight last season when a show attempted to auction off a girl to the highest bidder. "The highest bidder was privileged to go on the stage and take her," he says, "but after a bid of $5 was made the girl refused to go thru with it, hence the fight."

Let's not have any of this kind of stuff in 1937. Showmen who have the FUTURE of the carnival business at heart DON'T want it.

CHOWFOLK in general, and the O Showmen's League in particular, received a nice piece of publicity in tribute form on the League's donation of $750 to the American Red Cross for the benefit of sufferers in the recent Ohio and Mississippi river floods in The Clarksdale (Miss.) Daily Register and Daily News of March 30. Headed "Showman Is True Friend to Persons Who Are in Need; Aids Flood Victims," the article, which was accompanied by a double-column cut of the check for $750, read as follows:

"The grimy-faced ride mechanic, the driver holding an intricate tangle of lines over six or eight horses and the dainty equestrienne doing a rhythmtic figure on the bare-back horse—these are members of the Showmen's League, the outdoor showfolk organized only to aid a suffering humanity that cannot help itself, primarily among its own people, except where the general Welfare is more important than their own personal needs. Concessioners, barkers, ticket sellers, performers, sideshow freaks, the great army that gives an hour or two of relaxation, of fun and amusement. And when the circus and the carnival come to town again, we of the Delta and everywhere in high-water sections further north, will recognize these roving as true friends who were not unmindful of a common duty of all mankind and expressed their sympathy in a very substantial manner."

TT WAS a tough battle but he emerged

the victor when Frank (Doc) Stuart, ex-circus p. a., ran, for the second time in his life, for police judge and magistrate of the so-called "Silk-Stocking District of Nichols Hills" in Oklahoma City. This means that Doc will be "The Law North of 63d Street" for another two years—which he feels will be quite enough. Doc says his court is tough on friend and enemy alike and he was really surprised to win again as his record of convictions stands at 100 per cent.

Doc will soon be leaving Oklahoma City on a circus visit. He and his wife (Nancy) plan to fly to Chicago April 26 to see Cole Bros.' Circus. Doc's stay there will be short, but Nancy will remain a couple of days, after which she and Theresa Adkins will go to Rochester, Ind., for the show's opening under canvas.

Incidentally, Doc recently went to Pawnee, Okla., for a Sunday dinner party at Major Gordon W. Lillie's home and says he never sat with as much money before in his life. The affair was the unveiling of the plaster-cast statue of May Lillie and which will be cast in bronze. Among those present at the party were Lew Wentz; Frank Phillips, president of Phillips' 66 Petroleum Company; Bill Skelly, president of Skelly Oil Company, and John Maybee. these men representing, it is said, tertainment given club members at the more than 200,000,000 smackers.

Arena Shows Make Plans for Enlargement

BUTLER, Pa., April 10.—The Arena Shows have been on the road for some years going along in a modest way, but this season the management plans to enlarge the organization somewhat before the opening in the Pittsburgh district about May 1.

The shows are owned and operated by Harry Morrison, an experienced carnival and fair man, and Edward M. Dietz, of this city, who serves in the capacity of secretary.

Work has been started, with six men at quarters located on the Butler Fairgrounds, in charge of Charles Hays, well known in circus and carnival circles. He is busy reparing tents and other equipment for the girl show he will operate under the title of A Night in Dreamland.

has been out for some time and reports bookings in Western Pennsylvania as satisfactory. Harry and Daisy Reeves have booked some concessions. Roy Williams will have the cookhouse and several concessions. John Graham, known as a circus lawyer, will serve the show management as legal adviser. Reported by Jeannie Andrews.

Linderman Has Sterling Up in the Air Overnight

CINCINNATI, April 10.—Joe de Rosselli, special press agent for Edyth Sterling, reports from Miami April 10 to The Billboard: "Max Linderman, manager World of Mirth Shows, evidently believes in speed. On Thursday of last week he wished to have a conference with Sterling relative to the construction of the equipment for the Seminole Village, which is to be one of the features of the show this season. With quick action in mind Linderman wired her transportation for an Eastern Airlines plane.

"She left Miami airport 9 a.m. Thursday, arrived in Richmond 3 p.m. same day. They held their business conference and she departed via same airline that day at 6 p.m. and arrived in Miami at 11:45 p.m.

The Seminole Village will consist of 15 from Florida, augmented by six Hopi Indians from Arizona.

and truck for the hauling of the people and equipment, as the World of to be from a piece of timber breaking Mirth/is transported on flat cars and when he intended to complete his Hell carries no baggage cars or sleepers."

730 South Grand Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

LOS ANGELES. April 10 .- Due to the fact that nearly all carnivals have left this area and that everyone who so desires is working the Al G. Barnes-Sells-Floto Circus on tour, Monday night's meeting had the smallest attendance yet recorded. Only 37 members were present when Dr. Ralph E. Smith, first vicepresident, called the meeting to order. As no other executives were present, Harry B. Levine acted as secretary. At any rate, the fact that the boys are working is an indication that employment conditions are better and that 1937 is likely to be a banner season.

Usual order of business was gone thru in record time. Lights were dimmed at opening and silent tribute paid to Brother Frank C. Foley, who was buried in Showmen's Rest April 1.

Communications: Dick Wayne Barlow penned an interesting letter. Lucky Ball, who, incidentally, received a swell publicity break in Life magazine recently. also lettered from down in Mississippi.

President Will Wright came down from Santa Paula, Calif., for a short visit and declared that he was well pleased with the business being done by the Golden State Shows. After going over matters of importance relative to the workings of the club, Wright stated that the plans for the Cemetery Fund Drive had been worked out and that all members would be acquainted with them soon. S. L. Cronin, general manager of the Barnes-Sells-Floto Circus, was tendered a vote of thanks for the fine enshow March 29.

Diversion period did not get under way due to the absence of many participants, and in lieu of that Joe Glacey presented a sketch which was well received.

John T. Backman called attention to the fact that ofttimes members are neglectful in attending funerals of deceased brothers and added that the visiting of the sick is also a matter of concern. In the absence of the sick and relief committee members Dr. Ralph E. Smith, Ed Walsh, Harry Levine, Louis Bacigalupi and Jack Bigelow worked out a plan whereby Fred Shafer will make it his duty to keep in touch with all sick members until further arrangements are made.

Harry Taylor received a vote of thanks for his generosity in donating funds which went to provide the buffet luncheon and refreshments to the stay-athome Coast defenders. We may have mentioned it before, but for those members who have not noticed it we again advise that the privilege of sponsoring a meeting night is open to all. Weekly award went to Joe Glacey. Harry Ed Grady is the general agent and Taylor's spread, with Jack Bigelow, Jack Bryant and Harry Wooding as dispensers, was set up after adjournment.

Mrs. K. G. Barkoot Laid to Rest

TOLEDO, O., April 10.—Mrs. Hattle Barkoot, wife of K. G. Barkoot, of Barkoot Bros.' Shows, was buried in Woodlawn Cemetery here April 5. Prior to interment body laid in state at the A. L. Rafter Funeral Home. Services were in charge of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the LOOM and the local chapter of the Eastern Star, of which she was a member. Many flowers were sent, including a beautiful design from the Michigan Showmen's Association of Detroit. A large delegation from that city attended. Members of Barkoot Shows acted as pallbearers.

Bands Vs. Acts Again

TT SEEMS that Frank Burke, of Con-L solidated Radio Artists, disagrees, in a friendly way, with this commentator's discussion of the respective value of name bands and free acts in American amusement parks. In a recent issue we pointed out that it seemed logical to assume that there is room for both in the typical playground institution, but that in most instances neither should overshadow the other in prominence. We went further and stated that we definitely disagreed with a leading band booker's recent statement that "...during the coming year park men will rely on name bands rather than the usual free attractions to attract patrons to their concessions and rides . . ."

Quoting part of our previous discussion: "Dance orchestras, whether big or small, have a definite place in the average American amusement park. It stands to reason that the dance pavilion does attract patrons to the park, accounts for no small amount of revenue. and, more important, often affords profitable means of advertising the park as a whole. But we believe that once the crowd is within the confines of the park it takes more than a celebrity to attract dance-minded patrons to the fun area at the other end of the grounds. It takes a novelty flash act, high in the air or in an established ground location. . . . In other words, there is plenty of room for both in the amusement park, provided neither dominates the other. . . ."

But Mr. Burke, who, we admit, should and does know plenty about the band business, obviously has different ideas along these lines and he plainly says so in a letter to us this week. Friend Burke states, in part: "Have just read with interest your column under the caption 'Bands vs. Acts in Parks' and would like to take friendly issue with you on this subject. . . . We believe that outdoor amusement enterprises such as parks and summer resorts pick many more name orchestras of a season than they do free acts and that from year to year the park men are turning more and more to name dance orchestras as gate attractions. . . . In line with this assertion I could point to many parks as examples of enterprising summer amusement spots that have successfully operated with name attractions.

. . . In many instances there is a gate admission price and in others there is the park plan for dancing. Park men have learned that by using pass-out checks and by holding intermission periods between dances the patrons spend considerable time and money on rides and concessions."

Burke continues . . . "We believe that the young crowd attracted by the bands in these amusement parks are the class of people who support such rides as the Skyride, Roller Coaster, etc. If all rides are designed to appeal to the younger element and if park men on the other hand relied upon older and more conservative people for business the returns would not justify the expense of establishing the rides. . . . This letter is written in a friendly spirit to clarify a situation and we shall appreciate your interest in looking into this matter further . . ."

This pillar appreciates Mr. Burke's viewpoints, but, as we have already stated, we still believe that both acts and bands are integral parts of park promotion and that the institution that permits one phase to dominate the other will suffer in the long run. But, after all, we don't operate a park and neither does Consolidated Radio Artists, so how about some opinions on the part of operators who are directly involved in the problem?

forced to relinquish our winter hiberna- ert Porritt, mail man and The Billboard tion for a trek out into the open. We agent. wandered around the city's outdoor showfront and ended up in Palisades Park, where Irving Rosenthal conducted us on a short preview tour of the big over-the-river institution's new Lake Placid Bob Sled ride. It's a mighty mass of raw lumber and scaffolding at this point, but with all its unfinished aspect it is apparent that Norman Bartlett has a sensational idea. Besides a crew of about 200 carpenters assembling the new feature, at least that number again are being employed in repairing and improving other parts of the park. . . . Monte J. Wax, creator and producer of world championship log-rolling shows, writes from Los Angeles that he has a novel attraction idea for the forthcoming New York World's Fair and that he is bending every effort to arrange for its conception at the big 1939 exposition. Monte infos that everything is going well out on the West Coast, but that this summer will probably see him back in New York again.

DOLAND BUTLER, general press rep-It resentative for the Ringling-Barnum show, released some extremely interesting figures last week on the big show's national newspaper advertising expenditures for the coming season. According to Butler, the newspaper budget has been raised from last year's $211,000 to $250,000 for 1937, or an increase of about 25 per cent. Fewer and better spots will be taken for posters and more emphasis will be given to illuminated 24-sheet boards. Show plans to use 3,200,000 28 by 48 one-sheets thruout the seven-month tour.

Six other recommendations were approved by the conference: Elimination of the traffic ticket fixing, better accident reporting, adequate police forces with trained traffic officers, standardized license and driver-responsibility laws, opposition to the diversion of motor taxes for other purposes and adequate highway patrols.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 10.—Mighty Sheesley Midway opened the season here today. "Greta Garbo," 3-year-old lioness, understudy for the late "Duchess" of the Lorraine Wallace five-lion act, made her debut in the realm of carnivaldom professionally.

Hennies Bros.' Shows Move

Tho not complete, show is formidable and attractive —13 shows, 12 rides

SHREVEPORT, La., April 10.—When this news reaches The Billboard readers the Hennies Bros.' Shows, Inc., special train will be wending its way to Fort Smith, Ark., or will have reached its destination. When this was written work in quarters, the Shreveport State Fairgrounds, had ended and the moving of wagons started to the pavement in front of the grand stand so when ready to move to the railroad crossing to be put on the flat cars they will all be "on high" in case of bad weather.

True, there will be many things to complete after the show takes to the road, which is generally true with all shows, no matter how many weeks or months of winter-quarters work has been put in, but all 13 shows and 12 rides are ready for operation.

The season opens Saturday, April 17, at Fort Smith, Ark., under the Labor Council. Shows' second stand will be Joplin, Mo., for "Fiesta Week," sponsored by the merchants of that city—their third annual event.

Fairly-Martone Rained Out

stand Initial season in books down bloomer

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 10.—Closing first week of the season for the Fairly-Martone Shows at Texarkana, Tex., can well be marked as the worst engagement the show ever expects to play. Out of seven days no night's work was really accomplished. A very nice children's matinee was got in Saturday afternoon, but at just 7:45 p.m. the skies opened up and rain fell in torrents, continuing thru the entire night.

Arriving here found the temperature so low that the show did not even try to open Monday night. Weather, however, for balance of week much warmer and clear skies, all of which was welcomed. Mr. and Mrs. John R. Castle and Bertha Grubbs motored in Thursday from Wichita, Kan., and were special guests of the show.

J. O. Shannon with his new Octopus ride was waiting the arrival of the show here. Many congratulations have been given Eddie Phillion and Tommy' Martin on the beautiful Midway Cafe they have. J. J. Bejano has a special feature in his side show, Edwin Paugburn, ossified man. Arriving in the downpour of rain Saturday came the following friends from the Hennies Bros.' Shows at Shreveport: Orville Hennies and wife, Harry Hennies and wife, Eddie Clark and wife. Harry Martine and wife, Art and Hazel Martin, Sis Dyer, A. L. Lohmar, Jack and Jakie Dondlinger, Whity and Vivian Miller, Fred Clark and wife, Harrison King, J. M. Stoney, Sallie Murphy, Lillian Murry Shepard, Emily Carson, Ester Carson and Denny Howard. When their fleet of cars left Shreveport the weather was fine, but about halfway it started to rain but on they came. When midnight arrived they all started back home and everyone was soaked to the hide, but all reported a jolly good time.

Ken R. Fletcher is on the midway with his Gold Diggers. Viola Fairly has one concession; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mandel, two. They arrived from California, where they spent the winter. Reported by M. Van Horn.

St. John, n. B.

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 10.—Bill Lynch, heading the Bill Lynch Shows, with base at Halifax, N. S., is directing the reconditioning of this carnival, which confines its touring to the provinces and Newfoundland and has been doing so each season since it was established about eight years ago. It has provided the midway for the annual Halifax Fair each fall since the origin of the carnival and also makes its opening stand late each May in Halifax. . . . Frank J. Elliott, head of Frank Elliott's Shows, wintering at Amherst, N. S., will again be accompanied on the road this season by his wife as treasurer. The Elliott carnival, originally the Bluenose Shows, is one of the few carnivals on which concessions and shows are all owned by one man, this, of course, being Elliott. He is adding at least one new ride for the 1937 tour, which is limited to Canadian and British and French territory in North America. . . . A carnival with specific appeal to the Frenchspeaking population of the provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island is being organized at Quebec City for a 1937 tour.

and Gaspar Bacon Jr.

Presented by the Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., at the Hasty Pudding Clubhouse for two days beginning March 30.

Bluebloods and the proletariat packed the Copley Theater to pool their appreciative faculties in witnessing the Hasty Pudding Club's 91st annual production, Come Across, which came across in two acts and 12 scenes of ingredients that made a delectable pudding. Original book by the collegians comprises a potpourri of local, national and international incidents whipped into a central theme. Lady Lavinia Doodle is a patron watching the finale of a College Amateur Show, 1936. She buys the production and ships it across the Atlantic to merrie old England, where it will become the property of the Feelo-Technivision Studios. Airport scene intros the principals, Mae La Verne, hard-hitting dame, and Llewellyn Flushingale the director. Incidents on the Hindenburg reveals a play by Mae for Jake, the wireless operator, who later becomes Ramone Ramon. Mae also finds out that a mysterious bearded guy is Cecil Thwigmore, protecting his rights as owner of Feelo-Technivision. After all he is the owner, even tho Lady Lavinia has a paltry $250,000 invested. Cecil balks at putting the show thru. A romance creeps up between Larry and Gloria Mundi, later spiced with rivalry by Ramone. Mae finally talks her nowhubby (while he was under the influence) Cecil into backing the show, Larry and Gloria make up and things right themselves for a happy ending.

Audience was exceptionally responsive. Two-hour and 10-minute production is a pip, absolutely worth the price of admission.

Production was road shown down PAINE. South.

By Lorenz Hart and Richard Rodgers. Staged by Robert Sinclair, with settings by Raymond Sovey. Lyrics by Hart, music by Rodgers. Choreography by George Balanchine. Costumes by Helene Orchestra under direction of Pons. Gene Salzer. Presented by Dwight Deere Wiman at the Shubert Theater for two and one-half weeks, beginning March Cast: Mitzi Green, Ray Heatherton, Duke McHale, Alfred Drake, Grace McDonald, Wynn Murray, George E. Mack, Ethel Intropidi, Rolly Pickert, Kenneth Wilkins, Bob Fishelson, Dana Hardwick, Douglas Perry, Ray McDonald, LeRoy James, George Watts, Aljan de Loville, Alvin Kerr and George B. Mackay.

Rodgers and Hart, Tin Pan Alley songsmiths, gave the Hub legit audience Babes in Arms, a delightful, effervescent musical comedy with a logical plot. It is niftily paced for never a dull moment. In due respect to Miss Green and Heatherton and McHale, the cast doesn't boast any Broadway names, but, despite finale rating high. that, audience was conquered by the caliber of the 11 tunes, the costumes and settings.

Billie Smith (Mitzi Green) meets up with Val and the two, with Val's pal, Marshall Blackstone (Alfred Blake), decide to defeat the sheriff from sending them to the farm by endeavoring to raise enough dough from a show they'll put on, providing Sheriff Reynolds (George Watts) allows them two weeks to put on Lee Calhoun's Follies (Dana Hardwick). Other babes in arms are rounded up for a meeting at the Oscar W. Hemingway Post of the American Legion. Selling the idea to Calhoun, a la George Arliss and Luise Rainer mimicry by Miss Green, which was tops, the Follies get under way in good stead.

Mitzi's and Ray's Where or When is okeh, but probably the catchiest tune of the lot is Babes in Arms. Miss Green's solo, The Lady Is a Tramp, is also good for a series of bows. Johnny One-Note, sung by Baby Rose (Wynn Murray) and the Gang (33), depicts the opera singer who could sing but one monotonous note. Another swell ditty is All at Once, by Baby Rose and Marshall.

Plot of Babes in Arms and the songs retain the production's strength. Giggles are spaced nicely and the dialog is okeh. Direction has been absorbed by the cast and bespeaks a professionality that is extraordinary for such a youthful group.

Wynn Murray is a charming gal and clicked with sweet tunes.

Music end is not overboard; either is the production, incidentally, which runs 180 minutes. Production is okeh, novelties are clever and the skits are worked in with graceful ease. NATIONAL CONFERENCE of the Society of American Magicians will be held at Albany, N. Y., May 27 to 29, inclusive. There will be plenty of opportunity for those desirous of showing their wares, as the Albany SAMers have arranged with the newspapers to sponsor a number of shows in one of Albany's prominent theaters. There will also be several prize contests. The Albany convention committee has also arranged with local radio stations for a number of magic features, including a hypnotic seance via radio. In addition, the General Electric Company will present an interesting feature known as the "House of Magic."

HUNTINGTON is doing one-nighters under sponsorship of high schools this week in Mississippi, Louisiana and East Texas.

BLACKSTONE, who played the Orpheum Theater, Memphis, last week, moves into the St. Charles Theater, New Orleans, week of April 16. This is his first trip to the Deep South in several years.

FELIX HERRMANN, magician and nephew of the late Herrmann the Great, has left with a WPA minstrel unit out of New Orleans for engagements at CCC camps and communities of Arkansas, East Texas and Louisiana. With exception of Herrmann, troupe is entirely minstrel entertainment.

TED BANKS, for 14 years stage manager for Blackstone, left the show recently at Wheeling, W. Va. He expects to take up other work on the West Coast next fall. Banks will spend the summer with Mrs. Banks at their home in Colon, Mich.

PROF. PONCE DE LEON, the "Tropical Craze," who recently spent a year and a half in the West Indies as a feature of the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Company, during which time he visited 40 of the islands, writes from New York City to warn American magicians against going to the West Indies to work. According to the professor, the islands are overrun with magicians working clubs, beer gardens and on the streets for a drink of rum. A foreign magician going there to work would find conditions exceedingly "tough," he advises.

DAVID BAMBERG, magician who played in the United States for the first time with his recent appearance at El Teatro Cervantes, New York Spanish theater, has set the town by the ears. John Chapman, columnist, quotes John Mulholland, editor of The Sphinx, as saying that "Bamberg has the best magic layout since the golden days of Houdini and Thurston."

playing in that role possessed such splendid artistry that, so far as the audience was concerned, she was a 16-year-old girl. That, I submit, is real acting. · Mr. Brown also brings up the case of Miss Constance Cummings, who plays the title role in Young Madame Conti. Miss Cummings, he says, gives such obvious overtones of decency and freshness and purity that one is entirely incapable of believing her when she enacts the role of the passion-tossed Austrian prostitute. That is true. Miss Cummings does a nice, workmanlike job with the role, but never so fine a job as might have been done. It is, as Mr. Brown acutely suggests, because she is essentially a personality player.

That, really, would seem to prove my point rather than his. I have, of course, been charmed by Miss Cummings' work in parts that did suit her personalitybut I am sure that I'd have been just as charmed if those parts had been played by an actress.

When it comes to real acting the personality player, by Mr. Brown's own admission, is at a loss. The personality shines thru, regardless.

This, of course, doesn't mean that a real actress can't have a powerful and lovely personality; it simply means that she must be a good enough player to submerge that personality in the role when called upon to do so. A sterling example of my point is Miss Peggy Wood, who is at present playing in Miss Quis, that theatrical antimacassar stuffed and upholstered by Mr. Ward Morehouse, of The Sun. Miss Wood, when a role allows, offers one of the loveliest and most glowing personalities—for my money the loveliest and the most glowing personality known to our stage. Yet she can submerge that personality entirely in the part at handor even, when called upon, submerge all but a pervading glow that colors her char-

It all comes down to this; the personality player can admittedly be charming or amusing or even reasonably effective in those parts that happen to suit; but the real player can be effective in any sort of part. Mr. Brown's kind-hearted claim is like saying that there is a place in playwriting for those dramatists who can write days and at the Copley Theater for two only dialog and also for those dramatists who can construct plays. Of course. But surely the really fine dramatist—the only dramatist worthy of the nameis he who can construct plays so fully and so completely that his dialog becomes intrinsically a part of them-who can construct plays and write dialog too.

Without doubt players who are real actors in the sense in which I use the word—able to project themselves fully into any part—are rare. Miss Wood is one; Maurice Evans, who would be equally effective in Hamlet or The Importance of Being Earnest, is another, and there are more. Granting, however, that they are few, I still see no reason for lowering either critical or acting standards simply because players who happen to meet those standards are comparatively rare.

SERVICE COIN OPERATED

Conducted by WALTER W. HURD—Communications to Woods Building, Randolph and Dearborn Streets, Chicago.

PRICES

The subject of prices is of vital interest to the coin machine industry. This applies not only to the price of its own machines but also to the price which the playing public must pay for consumer goods.

Operators of coin machines are directly concerned about the amount of money the average person has left to spend for amusement. If the cost of living gets too high, there is less money to spend for amusement. Coinoperated amusement games are both a popular and an inexpensive form of amusement. If people have more money to spend on popular amusements the operator will expect to get a share of it. Hence the interest of the operator in the current question of rising prices on what the people eat and wear.

The general public is very much concerned at the present time with the question of the proper balance between wages and the cost of living. A lack of balance between the income and living costs of the masses had much to do with the collapse of 1929 and the depression that followed. If the same thing happens again an even worse collapse may be expected. The federal government is trying in various ways to hold certain trends in check. But it is very doubtful that any government will be able to control the forces at work now, unless there is full co-operation from all lines of business.

The influences that control prices seem to be always getting into a vicious circle and the consumer usually gets thrown for a tailspin. The ideas for remedying the situation pile up like a mountain and yet nobody seems to be able to do anything about it. It is easy enough to say that if business and government would work together all would end well. But getting business and government to work together is about as easy as getting reform groups to give amusement games a fair deal.

But the operator is probably more interested at the present time in the price he pays for his machines. Here there is an entirely different situation than the problem of the high cost of living. There are some lines of business in which high prices work out to the benefit of those who expect to stay in business. Coin-operated machines are not consumer goods and high prices on machines often seem to be the most effective way to curb or control many tendencies that lead eventually to trouble. While the operator stands to profit by keeping living costs low for the playing public, the last few years indicate that the operating business benefits by higher priced machines.

The results of the low-priced pinball games when introduced in 1932 and 1933 are now well known. Too many machines on location, too many operators-especially part-time operators, cutthroat competition at its worst and the volume craze among manufacturers. All of these evils also tended to give the public a bad impression concerning the business.

The broad effects of higher prices on machines during the last two years include a marked advance in > the quality of machines. This improved quality has helped to create a better public impression of the business and has been a godsend to the manufacturers. Higher prices have made it possible for the manufacturer to try to build better machines and to cut down on the volume.

Higher prices have also offered the jobber and distributor a chance to do business at a reasonable profit and also to handle the trade-in deals that now seem to be necessary in the selling end of the trade. Once the distributing section finds some way to eliminate so much cut-price tactics on used machines the present high price of machines will prove its true worth to jobbers and distributors.

The present high prices on machines has greatly stabilized the operating business by eliminating many men who were not really making it a profession. The operating ranks have grown thinner but the men remaining in the business are better established and make a business of operating. Present prices on machines strongly tend to keep locations from buying machines. Higher prices make it possible for the operator to get a fair trade-in value on used machines and with the ups and downs in the operating field an outlet for used machines is an absolute necessity.

Higher prices have made it possible for many manufacturers to concentrate on quality and also to build a variety of the high-grade machines. These high-grade machines have made it possible to seek and enter the better grade locations. Fewer but better machines have also made a better impression on the public. All of these results seem to be helpful for the operator. -

Keeney Returns From Long Trip

CHICAGO, April 10 .- J. H. (Jack) Keeney, head of J. H. Keeney & Company, has returned from a Pacific Coast trip during which he called upon Keeney distributors in that section in connection with the unmasking arrangements of the new game, Fire Ball.

"I came back with a trunk load of orders, not only for Fire Ball, but for several other current Keeney games, among them Santa Anita, Make or Break and Double Action," Keeney said. "I observed that conditions in general on the West Coast are good and that a highly optimistic attitude toward the future characterizes the activities of those connected with the coin machine industry thruout the territory.

"From Texas, Alvin Decker, our field representative, is daily forwarding huge quantities of orders for these hits and his reports indicate that the coming season in Texas will be highly successful for operators."

Times Article On Lotteries

NEW YORK, April 10.—The conservative New York Times, in its Sunday edition of April 4, presents a fair and conclusive feature article on lotteries and gambling, based on the recent news given to the Irish Sweepstakes. A good service is rendered in giving the classifications of people who follow Lady Luck, according to the psychologists.

The work of the mathematicians in calculating probability on many types of chance games is also discussed. Opponents of coin-operated amusement games have frequently quoted the socalled computations made in New York University on pinball and slot machines as an argument against the devices. The article in The Times gives the theory of probability in such games as bridge, poker, roulette, etc. Coin machines are not mentioned.

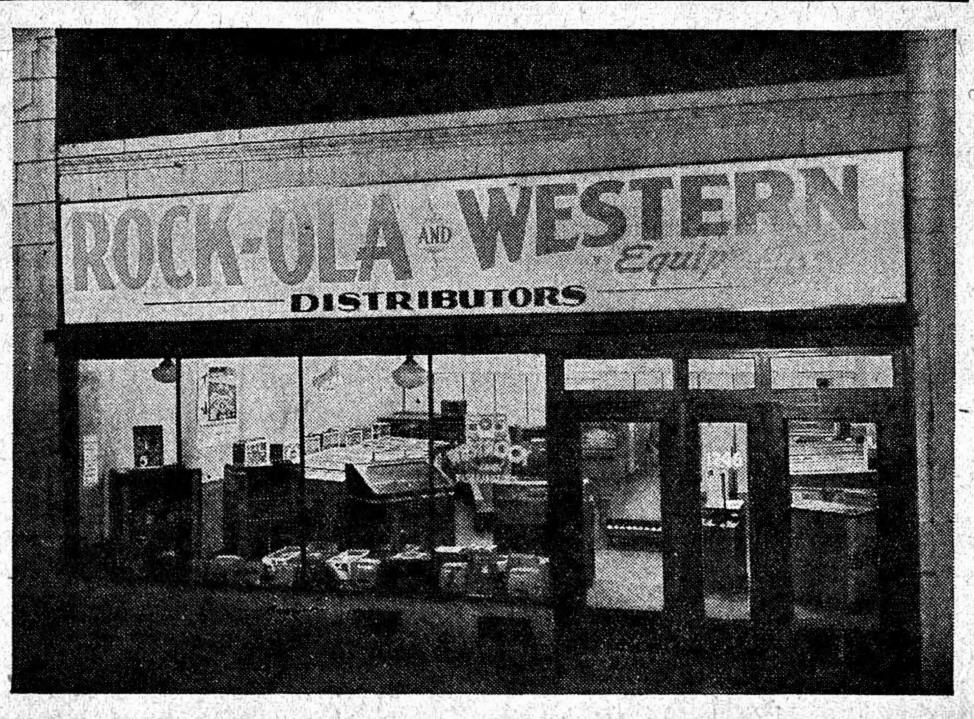

The Times quotes Mayor La Guardia as saying recently: "You can't break people of the habits formed over generations, either by law or by constitutional amendment. Men and women will gamble. If they don't do it one way they will do it another. Some play games, others speculate in the stock market, others go into the newspaper business and take a chance on what they can get out of that, and some play bingo, wingo, jingo or stinko—anything they can get a dime or a quarter down on."

Moloney Sees One-Shot Boom

CHICAGO, April 10. - Predicting another boom in one-shot games similar to that of 1935, Ray Moloney, president of Bally Manufacturing Company, pointed out that sales of Bally Carom one-shot game have already passed the one-shot record previously held by Jumbo.

"Both in earnings to operators," Ray stated, "and in sales volume, Carom now holds the record, as far as Bally oneshots are concerned. Of course, this was to be expected, because in Carom we combined two of the most powerful play-getting ideas the industry has ever seen-bumper-action and one-shot appeal. To this we added the never-failing appeal of changing odds and the old favorite electric kicker idea. And to top it all off, like the frosting on cake, our engineers devised the unique odd-oreven score idea, which, I think, has more suspense thrills than anything that's appeared on the market in years.

"Some of the smartest men in the business, operators and jobbers alike, look forward to a big one-shot season this spring and summer and they name Carom as the game that will do the trick. And we have enough confidence in this prediction to double our output on Carom. Once again we are compelled to abandon the Bally limited run policy and tell the world we're all set to continue production on Carom till the snow flies again."

Bookmaking To Be Legal in Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 10.—Maryland Legislature voted to legalize horse-race bookmaking April 6. Racing has been conducted in the State for some time, and the bookmaking business will now operate as a legal business, altho formerly under cover as in many other States.

The new law is expected to return $400,000 annually to the State. A license fee of $5,000 annually is imposed on each booking establishment and also a tax of 1 per cent on all bets handled by bookmakers.

The measure is applicable to Baltimore, which has half the population of the State, and four of the 23 counties. Prince Georges County, where the Bowie and Marlboro tracks are located, has an additional county license fee of $25,000 for each book operated.

Governor Harry W. Nice has not signed the measure, but he cannot veto it without rejecting a $5,000,000 relief revenue program. The tax will go into effect as soon as the governor signs the bill.

Dinner Marks Consolidation

FORT WORTH, April 10.—Consolidation of the Big State Novelty Company and the Panther Novelty Company was celebrated recently by an informal dinner given at Jack Horner's Gingham Inn near here.

Merging of the two firms forms one of the largest operating organizations in the Southwest, with a personnel of 36 active employees. Panther Novelty Company was owned by Jack Maloney, and N. A. Nigro owned the Big State Novelty Company.

Future operating activities will be conducted under the name of the Panther Novelty Company, while the jobbing business will be under the name of the Big State Novelty Company.

Petitions for Popular Vote

PIERRE, S. D., April 10. — Petitions seeking to refer two coin machine laws passed at the recent session of the legislature to a popular vote have made their appearance here.

Measures which would be sent to a vote of the people if the petitioners are successful are one which prohibits "any vending or slot machine which is capable of being used for gambling purposes or games of chance" and a companion measure which provides penalties for State's attorneys who neglect to perform their duties in suppressing gambling devices.

The measure exempts those machines which vend drinking cups, postage stamps, sanitary napkins, as well as scales, pay toilets, water meters, electric light meters, gas meters and public telephones.

Approximately 15,000 signatures are required to refer a law in South Dakota to a popular vote.

Gerber & Glass Get National Distribution on Jungle Dodger

Paul Gerber and Max Glass, officials of the distributing firm of Gerber & Glass, that, effective at once, Gerber & Glass assume national sales representation of the Jungle Dodger target machine produced by the Universal Manufacturing Company.

This is not the first occasion on which Gerber & Glass have handled national sales for coin-operated devices and those games which were previously distributed nationally by the organization proved successful. According to those in the industry who know the firm, they usually bat 1,000 and it is expected that Jungle Dodger will be no exception. "The merits of the Jungle Dodger may well be recognized in the fact that many thousands of dollars were involved in the transaction which enables us to present the machine to the country on an entirely new basis, Gerber stated. "Jungle Dodger is generally recognized as one of the finest electric-eye rifle ranges on the market at this time, and, in view of the fact that it is priced considerably lower than any other range, it has rapidly become one of the most popular machines of its type. Operators find themselves in position to afford several Jungle Dodgers and to profit accordingly.

"We are inaugurating a seven-day free trial offer on Jungle Dodger. This startling offer, the first ever to be presented on a game of this type, has already created a huge demand for the Jungle Dodger and the fact that distributors and jobbers may also offer the machine on the basis of the seven-day free trial plan leads us to predict an overwhelming demand and acceptance.

"The entire output of the sizable Universal Manufacturing Company plant at South Bend, Ind., will be distributed thru Gerber & Glass, and preparations are being made at the factory to step up production activities to take care of expected heavy orders. At the present time, the factory is working in several shifts, preparing an advance stock so that there will be no delay in shipping any quantity of Jungle Dodgers. Yet, CHICAGO, April 10 .- The important in spite of accelerated production, careannouncement was released this week by ful attention is being paid to every detail of manufacture, and all machines maintain the high standards of construction which have characterized Jungle Dodger since its first appearance on the market.

> "Accustomed as we are to receiving as well as presenting surprises, our biggest surprise was in learning that the Jungle Dodger meets every location requirement with all the efficiency of the most expensive machines. It is not surprising that this is so, because the Universal Manufacturing Company is internationally known as one of the outstanding makers of photo-cell devices, having pioneered the field. With such extensive experience upon which to draw, the development of a simple, trouble-free mechanism was only natural.

> "It is for this reason that, without reservation, we make our seven-day free trial offer. We have complete confidence in the performing qualities of Jungle Dodger, a confidence that we have backed with approximately $50,000 spent in making arrangements to give every operator in America an opportunity to place Jungle Dodger on his locations."

Location Test Plan Announced

CHICAGO, April 10 .- One of the most startling offers ever made to the operating industry is presented by the Buckley Manufacturing Company on its new game, Track Odds, according to Bill Woollen, sales manager of the organization.

"We have come to the conclusion that operators are entitled to the privilege of making their own location tests," said Woollen. "As a result we have devised a plan whereby, without risking one cent, operators may test our new game on any location they specify. In making this offer we ourselves take no chances because we know exactly what Track Odds will do on every type of location. To begin, we have adopted the internationally popular sport, horse racing, as the basic appeal in the game. Secondly, we have made Track Odds a most unusual type of automatic payout game, employing seven slots. Yet in no manner can it be considered a pin table. Added to the certain appeal and the unusual construction of the game is the careful attention we have paid to every detail of manufacture.

"Due to the fact that we assume a heavy expense in making these unusual location tests with the operator, we naturally cannot hold our offer open indefinitely. However, there is plenty of time for operators to make arrangements for the test, and prompt action on their part will result in some real eye-opening experiences for them."

At Last-A "Free Play" Counter game-legal in most locations ... operates without coin ... no prizes or awards paid on free plays. Shave King on New Board Deal

CHICAGO, April 10.—Earl C. Jasper, head of the Jasper Brokerage Company, announces a new group of salesboard deals featuring Shave King, a recent development in electric dry shavers.

"Shave King is an electric razor which has no equal in quality of construction, superiority of performance, and because it is soon to become known nationally thru extensive newspaper, radio and magazine advertising it will probably be the outstanding salesboard item available today," Jasper stated. "Hundreds of boards featuring Shve King, which hve been placed to date, have returned unusual profits, and with the advertising planned the Shave King deals will have an even greater appeal to the public.

"Shave King deals are available on three different boards. One 1,000-hole board features one Shave King and cigarets. The second deal, a 1,500-hole board, features two Shave Kings and cigarets, and the third deal, a 2,500-hole cut-out board, features three Shave Kings and cigarets. The boards are all beautifully colored and labeled and are highly attractive in themselves. With the modern styling of the Shave King Razor, mounted on these colorful boards, operators will find that the deals hold unlimited possibilities in every territory," says Jasper.

Mrs. Nagel to Chi for Games

CHICAGO, April 10.-Mrs. Art Nagel, of the Avon Novelty Sales Company, Cleveland, was a recent visitor in Chicago. During her stay here she made her headquarters at the offices of the Western Equipment & Supply Company, for which the Avon organization acts as distributor in the Cleveland territory.

Art Nagel himself, usually the member of the firm to visit Chicago on buying tours, was unable to leave his headquarters due to the fact that demand for Western's new game, The Winner, and Western's de luxe pay table, Fast Track, is keeping him, along with the entire Avon staff, busy day and night taking care of orders and overseeing shipments, Mrs. Nagel said.

Before returning to Cleveland Mrs. Nagel placed a substantial order for The Winner and Fast Track to take care of the consistent demand for both of the games. She said: "Cleveland operators can't get enough of the games. Practically all of their locations require either The Winner or Fast Track and many of them want both. Jimmy Johnson really has a pair in the two moviegraph action games."

Scoot Mobiles For Operators

CHICAGO, April 10 .- First promoted as a toy for rich playboys and playgals, the devices variously termed as moto bikes may become a convenience widely used by operators of coin machines, according to officials of the Blue Ribbon Scoot Mobile Company here.

They report that operators in Texas and other places are already trying them and have been attracted to the moto bikes because of their convenience and economy for making a big percentage of the service calls which must be made. Capitalizing on these reports, the Blue Ribbon firm, one of the pioneers in the field, began manufacturing side cars in order that tools, accessories, etc., could be carried around by service men. The finished product is quite similar to the motorcycle with a side car, but has the advantages of costing about one-third as much and is safer and simpler to operate.

"It seems only logical that operators should find them ideal for making collections, repair calls and in general service work. Anybody can run the things and their economy is certainly worth talking about," Blue Ribbon officials state.

Seeburg Ops Up Phono Earnings

CHICAGO, April 10. - Operators of Seeburg phonographs, especially those who have the Seeburg Melody King on their locations, are vying with one another to see who can report the greatest improvement in location collections thru the operation of the Melody King, according to N. Marshall Seeburg.

"A short time ago," he said, "one Texas operator reported thru A. C. Hughes, phonograph manager of the Electro Ball Company, Dallas, that his location profits showed an increase of 65 per cent with the operation of the were additional reports of this type to be gotten from operators in his territory. Hughes sent out feelers and was instantly rewarded with numerous letters indicating that location earnings with the Model K had in almost every instance taken a jump ranging from 65 per cent to 200 per cent. As an illustration, J. B. Belin, manager of the Magnolia Amusement Company, Houston, wrote that his location take in one instance had jumped from $12 a week to $36 within one week and that an $18-aweek location had returned more than double that amount.

"Every operator of Seeburg Melody King Model K phonographs is bubbling over with enthusiasm about the machine, and distributors, as well as the manufacturer, are deriving a great deal of pleasure from the reports that the operators are sending in. As Belin said: 'It's really a pleasure to operate phonographs that give so much satisfaction to everyone."

Detroit

DETROIT, April 10 .- Earl Gross, northend operator, expanded his business this past week with the purchase of additional phonographs.

Andrew H. Banks and E. W. Mitchell were among the operators buying new music machines during the week. Both are among the long-established operators in the field and are steadily en- and quicker shipments in the struggle larging their routes.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—The thrill of new ideas continues to rule the coinmachine circles of the Deep South as all of the important manufacturing companies send in samples and first shipments of their well-advertised pin tables, slots and counter games. And the encouraging factor is that all of the better distributors continue to beg for larger to fill orders that are pouring in from all sections of this State. All distributors and factory agencies report an unusually large number of visitors from out of town, coming to look over new merchandise and placing orders in spite of the jobber's inability in a good many instances to insure quick deliveries.

The spring season thus far has been the best in several years and, in fact, the best in the history of most of the local operators. Improving business conditions in general, fever-heated rushes to the Gulf Coastal area as "black gold" begins to flow in such paying quantities that the State has been forced to put into effect strict production regulations, booming cotton, lumber and other staple products and heavier port movements combine to give the near-future picture a rosy tint.

F. W. King, head of the C. & N. Sales is being organized to handle a number Company, is completely sold on the new seven-play A. C. Multi-Bell slot. Ever since H. E. Knupp, of the home office, spent several days with King, showing him the advantages of the new Caille idea, the Gulf Coast distributor for A. C. Multi-Bell has found business coming in like a house afire. King also reports heavy sales of his firm's Penny King and Gold Dust Twins, penny counter games. With the purchase of a dozen more of the machines by an Oklahoma firm this week, King says that this same distributor and operator has taken on over 100 such machines since the first of the year.

> Charles Schneider, of Mills Novelty Company, Chicago, visited New Orleans this week. Schneider is on a wide swing thru Dixie.

> American-Southern Coin Machine Company, Louisiana territory distributor of Western Equipment machines, announces the placing on location of Western's new game, The Winner. Jim Tallon, co-owner of American-Southern, says that several operators have seen the game and have already placed orders for 1 to 10 machines, altho he regrets that he cannot insure deliveries pending shipments of more games from the factory.

> John H. Moore, popular operator of pin games in the McComb, Miss., area, was a visitor here this week, calling on Ed Rodriguez. Moore reports better business in his section of the country, one of the most important trucking areas of the Deep South.

He was reported to have had plenty of rounds with Julius Pace, head of the Dixie Company, and talked only about Zephyr, the firm's new pin-game sensation. Creole cooking, however, also got a rise out of him.

Plenty of visitors, as usual, at the Dixie Coin Machine Company's new big offices and display room this week. They included such well-known Louisiana ops as J. E. Odder, J. Ragusa and Earl Price, all of Baton Rouge; L. Boyd, of McComb; Joe Lickich, of Biloxi, Miss.; R. Plauche, Covington, La.; S. Stafford, Ponchatoula, La., in the strawberry belt; T. Piper, of Walker, and a dozen or so more. The new line of Bally machines on location at Dixie, plus the pleasant sensation of seeing the charming Claire Pace, daughter of the genial Julius, are the two big drawing cards.

New Orleans coin-machine circles are saddened by the news of the death of Mr. Brazleton, of the Dalkins Company. The crash of his airplane follows closely his most recent visit to New Orleans, when he related such thrilling incidents of his plane flight to New Orleans from the North via the flooded areas.

Operators' Credit

(Credit Manager, Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, North Tonawanda, N. Y.)

If anyone in the industry should be able to give a broad and unbiased opinion of the coin-machine business and of the operators engaged in it, that person should certainly be a factory credit and collection manager. Those factories extending credit thru selling new merchandise on installment purchase contracts have before them a mass of collection figures which reflect the financial standing and moral risks of thousands and thousands of operators.

In speaking generally on the subject of credits someone has very ably said: "Credit is something that is hard to get and easy to lose." Credit in the coin-machine business is not universally extended, but in the more basic types of operations it is the regular procedure. Staple year in and year out, operations in a strictly legitimate line of operation is the basic reason why manufacturers in some lines of our industry can grant credit thru installment selling to its operators.

In over 20 years of credit and collection work and a large part of this time in the coin-machine industry, I have never seen a better group of accounts as a whole than what we have in the music operating business. It is a tribute to the business itself to have such a fine credit standing as music operators generally have in taking care of their obligations. When one is dealing in millions of dollars in accounts receivable it is readily apparent that the business must be of a most stable nature, consistent in producing income, and the moral risks of the operators themselves of a par excellence nature.

Prompt payment of obligations when they are due is an indication that the operator appreciates the credit so extended him and it further stands him in line for additional credit on new purchases. One of the most favorable indications of the stability of music operations is that we have had extremely relation to total credits extended-running as low as 16/100 of 1 per cent. In fact, the percentage has been under 1 per cent for the past year and a half.

Operators tell me that they are feeling the impetus of the wage increases being granted in the major industries of the country and their collection records are better. People are in a spending mood and have the money to spend.

Suggests Meters After Seeing 'Em in Miami

1010 MONROE ST.,

ATLANTIC CITY, April 10. — Mayor Charles D. White, having returned from Florida and convinced more than ever that nickel-in-the-slot devices on the curb are an effective means to stop allday storage parking, plans to take a vote of mid-town merchants to decide whether the city shall install parking meters in the shopping section.

He said that in Miami merchants demanded meters in front of their stores. If the vote here is favorable Mayor White will establish the fee and time limits and decide which type to purchase.

Wisconsin Bill Would Establish Broad Tax

MADISON, Wis., April 10.—Ingram Bill, designed to license coin-operated machines, was introduced in the State Senate April 1. It provides for an annual fee of $50 for service operators who rent or sell such machines and fees ranging from 50 cents to $100 for persons having the machines in their establishments.

Under the bill, penny machines vending gum, candy, peanuts, etc., would be chines, electric shockers, target guns, viewing machines, etc., $1 per machine; nickel machines furnishing towels, cigarets, fruit, peanuts, gum, candy, soap, handkerchiefs, etc., $2; nickel or more machines vending lavatory toilet doors, baggage compartments, parking meters, food automatics, etc., $3; nickel player pianos, phonographs, radios, bowling games, electric-eye target machines, etc., $20, and all other machines, $100.

The law would be administered by the conservation commission, which would supply every licensed machine with a metal tag bearing a serial number.

Cleveland Firm To New Quarters

CLEVELAND, April 10. - American Novelty Company announces that the firm's new headquarters will be at 1787-1789 East 24th street, where a large display of machines and attractive offices will be maintained.

Henry Epstein, president, is enthusiastic about the expansion and says the firm will carry practically every type of coin machine made.

"Both new and used games will be on hand," Epstein states, "and we will be in a position to meet the needs of all operators. We will also be in a position to sell to operators and jobbers all over the world. We have a special export department and we are making arrangements for the expansion of all departments."

Other officers of the firm are Morris S. Gisser, general sales manager; Julie Epstein, manager of the premium department; A. C. Bindner, head of the salesboard department: Henrietta Braunstein, manager of the credit department: Margery Sanders, in charge of correspondence; Charles (Swifty) Mills and I. Milner, in charge of the repair department, will be announced very shortly, at which the firm will have representatives of the leading manufacturers in the country present, as well as operators and jobbers from all parts of the State, Epstein claims.

I See By The Papers

By Leo J. Kelly

The opinions in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of the publication.

We understand that it's legal to race horses in Kentucky, Maryland, California, Michigan, West Virginia, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Oregon, Illinois, Florida, Texas, Ohio, Rhode Island and Washing-

And newspapers in many States carry the amount of money the horses will pay if picked on win, place or show bets.

We've heard of bank cashiers and trusted employees stealing bank funds to play the horses. We've heard of some fellows committing suicide because they lost too heavily on ponies that did not come up to their expectations.

Darned if we ever heard of any cashier going to jail because of stealing to play marble games. And we never did hear of anyone killing himself because he lost money pulling marble-game plungers.

Tell us if you know-why do the lawmakers legalize gambling on horses and raise horrified eyebrows when marble games are mentioned?

Oh, yeah, we heard that one about the schoolboy that spent his, lunch money to play the marble machine. And so, fond mamma, instead of spanking the erring youth, demanded that all marble games be removed from the community. That gets us right back to prohibition. Father got drunk and spent his money carelessly, so the whole nation had to drink bootleg liquor.

Our ancestors burnt so-called witches at the stake, put their neighbors in stocks if they failed to attend church on Sunday, but in our enlightened day

No, sir, we are liberal, broadmindedwe legalize horse racing-we permit privileged gambling—but if it's a marble game look out or the local politician, ambitious for publicity, will tell the folks all about that poor schoolboy who squandered his lunch money and every store in town, even tho miles from any school, will be forced to throw out their marble games.

Yep—the biggest problem in America today is the marble game. Every community would be perfect if it were not for those bad, bad games. Not a person would be on relief-not a mortgage would be foreclosed—every woman would be safe from assault—the school teachers, the firemen, the police force would be paid promptly, taxes would be reduced, there would be no law violations of any kind, there would be no graft, no spoils system in politics, banks could not close and keep depositors' money.

Why certainly all these things would come to pass, otherwise your elected lawmakers would not be so interested in marble games, but then maybe there is some other reason.

Anyhow, we've always thought the duty of the legislatures was to pass needed laws, not waste taxpayers' money on nonessentials, but then we've been told we were old-fashioned. Mebbe so. mebbe so.

Maine Operator Dies in Hotel

CHICAGO, April 10.—George R. Webb. prominent operator of Portland, Me., died of a heart attack at the Hotel Sherman here late Monday afternoon. He had been living at the Hotel Sherman for the last six months. Webb was owner of the High Street Garage, Portland, and had also been in the operating business for many months.

Richard Groetchen, head of the Groetchen Tool Company, has been one of his closest friends and had visited Webb on Sunday. Groetchen was probably the last one to see him alive.

When the body was discovered by hotel employees they were at a loss as to whom to notify. It was when Groetchen phoned the hotel Monday evening and asked for Webb that it was possible to get in touch with relatives. Groetchen notified Webb's brother in Florida and also Bill Derby, Webb's business partner, in Portland. Derby came to Chicago to claim the body and arrange for burial.

Score-Board Sales Reach Boom Stage

CHICAGO, April 10 .- "It's the only way," said Dave Gottlieb, commenting upon their new continuous operation schedule. "Sales of our new Electric Score-Board novelty, which have been mounting skyward right along, burst into a boom last week and we were forced to go on 24-hour production as the only possible way to keep up.

"With the whole country storming for delivery, more delivery and faster delivery," he said, "and with orders piling in like an April shower, there was nothing we could do but throw our keys away and keep the factory going continuously to keep up with the demand. It seems our distribs simply can't get enough Electric Score-Boards to satisfy their operators, for sales are growing bigger every day. We knew this baseball novelty would be a winner, but we never counted on its being so sensational in a few weeks' time. The way operators are putting them out on location it looks as if everybody will be playing Electric Score-Board this summer. In spite of our heavy production, however, quality is in no case sacrificed in the least and every machine undergoes rigid inspection before it is shipped."

President of Florida Senate Is Introduced

MIAMI, April 10.—The Miami Herald this week "introduced" D. Stuart Gillis, the new president of the Florida Senate. to its readers. The Florida Legislature opened its 26th session April 6 and the State coin machine license law is expected to be an important topic. Gillis recently made a tour of the State and reported that his observations led him to expect a sales tax and also a coin machine license law, with perhaps an increase in the number of licenses allowed.

The following personal facts concerning Gillis were given by The Herald:

"Born Freeport, Fla., November 5, 1879, youngest child of Dr. A. McI. and Nannie McLean Gillis.

"Educated public schools of Walton County, State Normal School, Cumberland University. Studied voice for three years in New England Conservatory of Music at Boston.

"Married April 3, 1912, to Bernice Morrison. They have one daughter, Katherine Stuart Gillis.

"Began public career as Walton County judge in 1909, served as mayor of De Funiak Springs three years, two years as assistant State attorney-general, member House of Representatives 1919 and 1929, member State Senate 1925-'27, 1933-'35 and re-elected for 1937-'39."

MERCHANDISE MACHINES

Drushell`Vender` Reported a Hit

CHICAGO, April 10.-J. D. Drushell Company reports an avalanche of orders as a result of its recent announcement in which it introduced the latest addition to a full line of vending machines. The new number is a four-way penny merchandiser of colorful design, gotten up along modernistic lines. The trimmings are in chrome metal, on a background of red and black. The mechanism will be identified in the trade by the title of Automatic Stores, which is regarded as fitting and proper in view of its offering a selection of four different articles, peanuts and three kinds of candy mixes, J. D. Drushell states.

"So hearty has been the response of operators and distributors that the factory is now running behind schedule and presents the problem of bringing production up to a point of meeting the demand," Drushell added.

"An interesting feature of this week's development lies in the fact that our organization will soon reach an all-time high in the distribution of vending machines. With a few thousand more to go, the figures will soon reach the 400,000 mark, which is a record of which any distributor may well feel proud.

"These facts were dug up recently when inquiry was made of the Hershey Chocolate Corporation, whose products we have been featuring in various types of venders. An official of that corporation stated then it was his belief that the Drushell Company had placed over 200,000 machines. This prompted a cursory examination of the records and disclosed that the figures given were rather conservative—that twice the number would be nearer the mark."

Drushell, congenial president and general manager of the company, expressed keen satisfaction over the results attained. Naturally he is enthusiastic about the new addition and figures that if present indications mean anything it will soon set a record of its own.

Explaining his success as a distributor of automatic machines, he feels that it is due to his policy, established several years ago, of giving his new operators a good start in the business.

"The old way," he explained, "was to have the salesman find someone who was interested in entering the business and simply having him buy a number of machines, leaving him to work out for himself the problems of finding locations and learning the various angles of the business. While many inexperienced men found their way around and developed successful routes we believe that the best method and one most likely to insure success from the start is to have our representatives furnish a certain measure of instruction to the novice and actually assist in the business of establishing a route. By that I mean that our men will take the new operator around, negotiate for locations and in other ways introduce him to the intricacies of the business. In fact, most of our sales representatives carry men with them especially trained in the work of securing locations and attend to the details of getting the machines located and hung. From there on the rest is comparatively simple and when operators really show an ability and capacity for success, the story is a most gratifying one. At any rate, it has proved highly profitable for us, as a surprisingly large percentage of the newcomers reorder and build for themselves vending routes that put them into the big-money class."

Display Honors To Struhl Firm

NEW YORK, April 10.—Morris Struhl, supplier of premium items to the coinmachine trade, was awarded honorable mention last week for his attractive store windows by the 23d Street Business Men's Association. A certificate of award was presented to the firm.

These awards are greatly appreciated by business men. It is noticeable that "Pop" Struhl's windows always attract sight-seers and passers-by because of the beautiful merchandise display he features.

Archie and Teddy Struhl are also taking some of the credit for the display. Sadie Struhl, well known to all the coinmen, stated that the members of the Business Men's Association reported tremendous interest in the firm's windows. Morris Struhl now looks forward to takdisplays on this important business street.

Ace Vending To Speed Exports

NEWARK, N. J., April 10.—Ace Vending Company officials report a new plan to speed the development of foreign sales. Ben Stein is in charge of the export department.

"Communications by cable are used to expedite sales," Stein says. "In this way we have been able to greatly speed up business. We also prepay the return cable and therefore always get action from the other side. Rather than carry on a long correspondence with the foreign buyer, we immediately cable him if we note from his letter that he is really interested in buying used games and quote prices to him from this city.

"In this way we have been able to immediately eliminate any curiosity seekers and get right down to business with those inquirers that mean business. It may be an expensive system in the beginning, but we feel sure that it is working out for the best of all concerned, and that in the long run it is the most economical."

Washroom Vender By Detroit Firm

DETROIT, April 10.—A new type of washroom vending machine is being developed by the Protex Corporation, which has established national head-quarters in Detroit. Company manufactures a nationally known protective covering for toilet seats and is working on the adaptation of this important sanitary product to the vending machine operation.

A number have been placed on experimental locations in Detroit and in a few other cities, where results are being carefully studied. Company has been licensed to dispense Scott Paper Company products. The machines are designed to vend in two types—the single sheet dispenser at 1 cent for most locations, and the 5-cent package vender for department stores, hotels and a number of other specialized locations. The product is adaptable to use in gasoline stations, stores, schools, public buildings, factories and in practically every type of public or semi-public washroom.

The Protex product is said to be of superior quality because of its construction. An important feature is that it is mechanically designed to be self-disposing.

The standard 1-cent vender is made of heavy gauge steel and is porcelain-enameled. It dispenses 500 sheets at one filling. The Protex seat tops come in packages containing two rolls of 1,000 each. The machine is simple to install and is equipped with a neat sign which advertises the service forcefully but with restraint.

The product is distinctly not ready for general distribution at this time. H. R. Noack, general manager of the company, emphasized, but is still under development and will not be released until all distribution problems are solved.

Cigaret Fee Increased

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 10.— Cigaret vending machines were hit when city council upped the license starting May 1. Heretofore the machines have paid $3 apiece, plus 13 cents on the $100 worth of business done thru each. Council decided to put machines on a flat $10 basis, despite operators' protests that anything over $5 would be prohibitory.

Local soft-drink bottlers also don't fancy the $3 annual license to be levied on soft-drink vending machines, but their kick is gentle in view of the small fee.

Bernache, Young Acquire Westrock

CHICAGO, April 10. — William A. Bernache and George J. Young, well known for many years to New England operators, recently took over ownership and management of the well-known Westrock, Inc., Boston distribution organization.

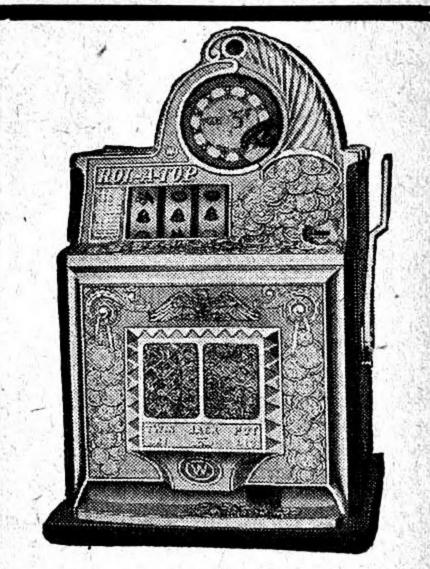

Major W. P. Loomis, formerly associated with Westrock, Inc., recently resigned to become factory representative of the Rock-Ola Manufacturing Corporation, with territory thruout the country.

Both Bernache and Young have been identified as distributors in New England for many years. In assuming complete ownership and management of Westrock, Inc., they will act as exclusive distributors for Rock-Ola and Western Equipment and Supply merchandise. They are featuring the sale of Rock-Ola's World Series and Johnson's new and attractive Fast Track machine. Their showrooms are probably the largest in New England. Their establishment has long been a mecca for Boston operators.

They are live wires in the coin-machine industry with a background of many years of catering to operators' needs, are doing big things and report a general increase in their business during the last 30 days.

of a few chosen firms to test new games developed by the Daval Manufacturing Company, of Chicago, before they are placed on the market.

"Many manufacturers will send us a new game idea in the rough," Blatt says. "They will ask for our opinion. For example, one of Daval's latest games was sent to us via the 20th Century and we received it early the next morning so that we could test it here.

"We not only put the game thru a severe test on many locations in the city, but we also got hourly reports on the game. When we find any bugs we immediately note them, fix them ourselves in our own mechanical department and in most cases rearrange pins, holes, bumpers, etc., until we have the game regulated to a perfect payout percentage.

"We then return the game to the factory with instructions on how to eliminate certain errors and to build the game to meet the demand here. We have found that, tho this somewhat delays the production of the machine, it has proved profitable in the long run."

Hotels Must Go Modern, Hotel Chain Head Says

CHICAGO, April 10.—Hotels must go modern and watch public tastes, said Daniel Goldberg in an address here recently. He spoke as the operator of a large chain of hotels here and in other cities. Minor changes or innovations in hotels often bring a hearty response from patrons, he suggested.

A mistake frequently made in rehabilitation programs, he pointed out, is the attempt to bring a property back to its former original state. This, he said, is being done by being unmindful of the change in public tastes.

Goldberg expressed the opinion that the modern is here to stay. He said there is a definite tendency toward less ornamentation and toward simpler lines, simpler furniture and plainer fabrics. Color and lighting effects are playing a greater part, he added.

He recommended the co-operation of a competent interior architect and decorator where considerable expenditure of money is involved. Sometimes the policy and character of a house must be changed, he said. Patrons, he has found, will frequently respond favorably to minor changes. Installation of air conditioning and the discarding of antiquated operating equipment have been helpful.

Dalkin Sees Slug Evil Still Alive

CHICAGO, April 10 .- Slugs are the constant worry of the unprotected coin machine operator, according to Al Dalkin, of A. Dalkin Company, manufacturer of Vanak Slug Rejectors. A recent survey he made of the situation reveals some interesting facts.

"From what we have seen," he says, "operators are beginning to appreciate what this growing evil is costing them. Locations, too, realize that it is taking a big slice of their profits. It is not merely the actual loss of money every time a slug is used, but such 'dead-head' players occupy the machines while cash customers get tired of waiting and leave. We find from our experience that slugs are used mostly when locations are crowded and cash customers must pass up playing. That loss amounts to considerable. Then the wear and tear on the mechanism must be considered both from the standpoint of free play at the operator's expense and from the standpoint of the actual damage which some slugs do to the coin mechanism. In fact, so costly has the slug evil become of late that some excellent locations have refused to allow coin machines at all on that account."

Dalkin mentions one location in particular in Milwaukee whose machines were "slugged to death" until finally all machines were ordered out. "This was a good spot," he continued, "but they simply wouldn't stand for all that loss and trouble any longer. A local operator who tried for nearly a year to get his machines into that location without success finally decided to sell this location on slug protection. He demonstrated our Vanak Slug Rejector and showed that it positively would not accept any slug. The location was won over and allowed the operator to put his machines in, equipped with Vanaks. The evil was permanently wiped out and both operator and location are highly

Anti-Graft League Is Launched by Ohio Man

CINCINNATI, April 10 .- L. C. Trent, of Loveland, O., has launched an Anti-Graft League with headquarters at the Alms Hotel here. Trent states that he has operated slots for about 10 years.

In a news story published in The Cincinnati Post April 2 Trent says that he expects to have a bill introduced in the Ohio Legislature to tax slot machines, handbooks and other forms of gambling. Trent is also quoted at length in an "expose" of graft paid to officials by operators of machines. His tactics, he says, is to expose the graft due to illegal gambling and thus bring about laws which legalize gambling.

The organization is said to be chartered under the laws of Ohio and some prominent men are said to be affiliated with it. Trent says that he plans to consult with manufacturers of slot machines in Chicago to get their ideas on his platform.

Kenney Presses Bill

WASHINGTON, April 10 .- Representative Edward A. Kenney (Democrat, N. J.), known since 1933 as a champion for a national lottery, introduced, April 7 a resolution to force a House vote on his lottery bill. Seven days are allowed for action on his resolution, and Kenney stated that if not acted upon within that time by the Ways and Means Committee he would file a petition to bring it up without action by the committee.

Unmasking Game Brings Crowds

CHICAGO, April 12.-The "unmasking" of the new novelty game, Fire Ball, by J. H. Keeney & Company at the factory today is reported to have caused almost as much excitement as the first display of a new and revolutionary type of car.

Ray Becker, sales manager, who has staged some spectacular introductions, again demonstrated his ability for arranging such occasions. Sixty-four Keeney distributors and hundreds of jobbers participated in the "unmasking" ceremony, which occurred simultaneously from Coast to Coast, Becker reported.

"I believe," contends Becker, "that we booked more orders for Fire Ball than have ever been placed for a game previous to its revealment. I also believe that we sold more Fire Balls today than has ever been the case on any single game for a single day.

"Fire Ball introduces a revolutionary principle on novelty game tables, the electronic ray or beam. Scores, or hits, are made when the ball crosses thru one of the five electronic beams projected on the playing field. This gives the game a complete new ball action and every inch of dead area is eliminated from the playing board. This principle also presents a greater number of skill shots for the player. Observers have heard highly amused and astonished players remark: 'It must be done with mirrors!' And actually that is the way it is done.

"Contrary to regular procedure in game introductions, all participating distributors and jobbers were stocked with Fire Ball games prior to the 'un- their headquarters and even have their masking' date. Therefore immediate deliveries were possible from the moment to them as one of the services he renders. the game was made known."

Gottlieb Saves Ponser's Skin

NEW YORK, April 10.—Dave Gottlieb dropped into New York quite unexpectedly this week, just in time to save George Ponser's life, according to reports. It seems that Ponser was backed into a corner by dozens of operators who were demanding more Gottlieb Electric Score-Boards.

the excellent treatment he has afforded operators in the Middle Southwest. Trippe has recently opened branch offices in Springfield, Mo., and Mount Vernon, Ill. Both branches have shown unusually quick response to the needs of operators, with the result that Carl's Ideal Novelty Company is now in a position to give unusual service and not only guarantees price, plus satisfaction on both new and used games, but to live up to its motto: "Always a Square Deal With Ideal."

Trippe is elated over the coming summer's prospects and reports that during the last 30 days there has been a decided uptrend in the operators' business in fairly good-sized cities thru the Middle Southwest. Ideal Novelty Company is a mecca for operators in and around St. Louis. Many of the ops make Ideal mail addressed there, Carl forwarding it was all out of the games and promising an allotment of the next shipment, the door opened and Dave Gottlieb walked in. Ponser pointed his finger toward Dave and yelled: "There's the man! Ask him."

Gottlieb immediately quieted things by announcing that shipments were coming in and would come in regularly for some time to come. He explained he had increased production in his plant whereby he hoped to be able to take care of all the demands of the operators, not only in New York City but all over the country. George Ponser sighed with relief when the operators left happy.

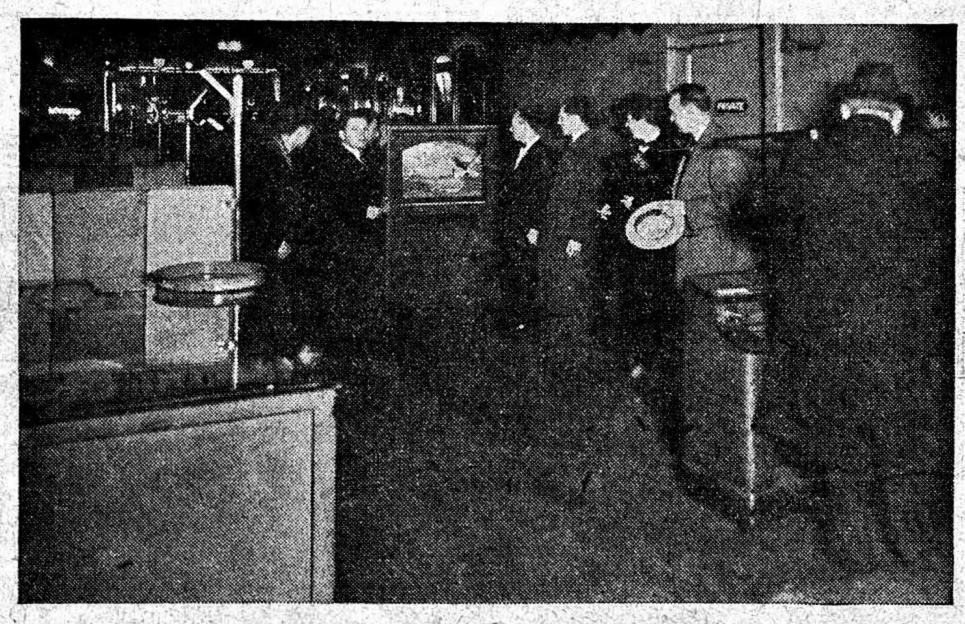

Banner Drive Clears Stocks

PHILADELPHIA, April 10 .- I. H. Rothstein, of Banner Specialty Company, reports a record sales drive which lasted one week. During the seven days of the sale, from April 2 to 9, inclusive, the firm sold over $12,000 worth of new equipment, Rothstein says. Used games are not included in the figure.

The sale was a special event and the first one of its kind the firm has ever adopted to clear the warehouse of equipment which was new, but which had to be cleared to make way for newer games now being released by the factories which Banner represents.

"We averaged almost $2,000 worth of business per day," Rothstein said, "but, frankly, within the first four days we had cleared out every game announced for the special sale.

"I believe that this is necessary every once in a while. It should be considered as a great party given by Banner Specialty Company for all the operators. We are only sorry that we did not have another $12,000 worth of machines to fill the many orders we are still receiving."

CLEVELAND, April 10.—To keep up with the demand for service the Markepp Company has put on a night crew of mechanics here, according to E. M. Marley, sales manager. The growing business in used games also made the move necessary, he said.

Marley explained that the night crew, in addition to completely overhauling all used games and replacing parts, cleans them thoroly. A system somewhat like that of the service department of an automobile agency has been developed, he says. After a game is completed by the mechanic, Marley reports, it must go to the foreman for his inspection and a test play. If it passes, it is marked with an O. K. tag.

"This tag is also the customer's guarantee that the game is right and is ready to go on location," Marley stated. "Paul Mehes is the foreman of the night crew. The overhauling and cleaning is done so completely that sometimes operators don't recognize their own games after they have gone thru the service department."

Two Free-Games Idea Attractive

CHICAGO, April 10 .- "Our Re-Play game features a possibility of two free games for the player, one of which depends upon continuous play and the other on the action of the ball against the bumper springs," explains Sam Wolberg, of the Chicago Coin Corporation. "By means of an exclusive Chicago Coin development after five games have been played and each has been registered on the game chart on the back rack, the sixth game may be played free and the player need not insert his coin to play that particular game. This Chicago Coin device, which is a step-up switch attached to an A. B. T. coin chute, controls the mechanism of the chute so that after five coins have been played the chute is automatically set to operate free.

"The second free-game feature is made by two bumper springs which, when contacted, cause a free-game light to flash on the back rack and automatically set the chute so that the following game may be played without the insertion of a coin. The attraction these free-game features hold for players is well evidenced in the numerous reports coming from operators who tell of crowded locations and well-filled cash boxes.

"Adding to the value of Re-Play are a number of other outstanding Chicago Coin characteristics, not the least of which is the unfailing high standard of construction. Fast five-ball play, an extra 100 bumper spring with a corresponding light on the brilliant back rack, plenty of deflectors and coil springs all contribute to the remarkable flash of Re-Play, and the effectiveness of the game on location is reflected in the heavy production schedule at the Chicago Coin plant."

License Bill Not Mentioned

MIAMI, April 10.—The message of Governor Cone to the Florida Legislature, which convened in Tallahassee this week, did not mention such warm subjects as the sales tax, anti-chain tax and the licensing of coin machines. The governor urged economy and that no new taxes be passed this session.

The Miami Herald April 7 bewailed the fact editorially that "a sovereign commonwealth . . . stoops to legalizing the slot machine." In the sports section of the same issue were fairly complete racing selections and a feature story on greybound resing

Also writing in the same issue, H. Bond Bliss, Herald, staff writer, draws a moral from the recent Southern storms by saying that even "Farming is essential, vital, hard, courageous. Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, April 10.—Helen Savage, manager of Automatic's Fort Worth office, recently made a business trip to Waco and found the operators all smiles. The reason seems to be over the good play they are receiving on Caroms and Fair Grounds.

Al Decker, traveling representative for J. H. Keeney & Company, was in Fort Worth this past week and called on the Automatic Amusement Company, as well as several of the operators.

Spring has hit Texas and also some of the operators, as they have been coming in and out of Fort Worth quite frequently of late. Among the West Texas operators seen around the Automatic Amusement Company were Clayborne Lindley and Shell Barth. From South Texas hailed M. A. Walker, Guy Kincannon, M. C. Aldrich, Jack Sprott and George Reynolds, and from East Texas H. H. Andrews and Clyde Garrett.

Fort Worth Operators' Association, under the able leadership of President Tom Murray, is now firmly established with regular meetings every first and second Tuesday of the month.

Ernest Walker, of Walker Sales Company, is causing quite a bit of interest with those Motor-Scoots he's distributing now. Several of the operators have talked to Ernest about buying them for servicing of their machines, so looks like we'll be seeing lots of operators "motor-scooting" around town pretty soon.

Vote Heavy Debt For Oklahomans

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 10.—While Oklahoma's coin-machine license law hangs in the balance, probably awaiting a State-wide popular vote at the next general election, many people will be thinking of how much the tax money might help in meeting the heavy expenditures voted by the present Legislature.

R. M. McClintock, writing in The Daily Oklahoman, described the immense appropriations as follows:

"Oklahoma's 16th Legislature, unless its plans go awry, will saddle this State with a debt at least twice as great as all debts since statehood. Legislative plans call for:

d well-filled cash boxes. "First: A $35,000,000 highway note issue, mortgaging a third of the State
"Adding to the value of Re-Play are highway funds for the next 10 years."

"Second: A State general revenue deficit that, at a minimum, will be $10,000,000 for the coming biennium, and which, at a maximum, may become twice as great.

"Third: The issuance of bonds against the State public building fund, already in deficit, to the amount of $5,000,000 or more.

"At a minimum, then, the Legislature, unless it completely changes present plans, will leave Oklahoma $50,000,000 in debt."

Cy Marcus

Cy Marcus, beloved and highly esteemed character identified with the coin machine business in Philadelphia for many years, passed into the Great Beyond Thursday, April 1, at the Jewish Hospital, in that city.

Formerly an operator, Cy had recently advanced his jobbing business into a top rank establishment by his progressiveness. A peer among fellows, Cy will be long engraved in the hearts and minds of Philadelphia operators for his gentleness of character, his ready willingness to be of assistance to fellow ops, his abundance of good nature which made his shop the rendezvous of coin machine men during idle moments.

Coin machine men who attended the Philadelphia Coin Machine Operators' Association banquet in February will recall the marvelous feats of prestidigitation Cy performed which held everyone spellbound with mystification. Formerly a vaudeville artist, Cy's act was the talk of the evening. His widow, Jean Marcus, will carry on his jobbing business, and operators in this region are asked to lend their support. In his passing the coin machine business has lost a true, valiant—a noble friend. (Submitted by the Philadelphia Coin Machine Operators' Association.)

GAYETY AND GOOD-FELLOWSHIP marked the annual dinner of the Philadelphia Coin Machine Operators' held recently. The Philadelphia association is one of the most a ctive groups in the trade.

PERATORS of many types of coin machines have a "natural" in a tieup with the amusement park for summer operation. Most devices in this class are devoted primarily to amusement in some form or other, while there is a certain entertainment value even in many types of vending machines. So it is the logical thing for operators to find a profitable field in the principal center of summer-time amusement. The idea is merely an application of the close connections between the coin-machine world and the amusement world, as typified in the twin departments of The Billboard itself. Many operators have found that operation in theaters, for instance, is profitable, and various types of high-class coin-controlled devices are to be found in thousands of theaters. A few operators have found an arcade or special concession with traveling carnivals a profitable investment.

Others turn to the amusement park and find here a permanent location for the season that has many things to attract them. It means a season more or less out of doors, for one thing, and the man who spends the rest of the year inside has a chance to spend a few months in the open. Besides, such an experience satisfies the widespread yen to "go out with the circus," or at least spend a few months with live show business.

These things are the deeper urges that make men turn to a particular field of work, aside from the primary urge of profits. Most operators, like most snowmen, are probably in the business not ancient machines has been noted by the

The Coin Machine in the Amusement Park

By H. F. Reves

just merely to make a living, altho that writer in a number of arcade-type locathey like the business for some conscious or unconscious reason. In the park field they can find the opportunity to satisfy two of these basic urges at once.

The Older Machines

First, and almost historic in its age, is the penny arcade. The old stationary arcade has its colleague today in a similar concession in most sizable amusement parks. People are out for a good time when they go to a park, and they do not mind even a few somewhat antiquated machines as long as they are in good working order. In fact, a few machines of this type are often favorites with the younger generation. They came long after the days that saw the older arcades and their gradual developmentsome into the movie palaces of todayand the younger people look upon the devices which were familiar 20 years ago as something new to them.

This genuine revival of popularity of is of course essential, but also because tions during the past two seasons. It is often the young folks — high-school youngsters, some of them appear to be who like these older machines. I am not thinking just of the drop-picture machines. These old-time predecessors of the nickelodeon still have their place, but they should not continue to use the oldest type of pictures, except as a mere curiosity, today. What might have thrilled grandfather is merely tame to the sophisticated younger generation. But there are newer pictures available for these view machines that combine the quaint mechanism with a modern appeal and can become popular.

> The physical-test type of machine is a more popular one with the young trade, however. The strength machines, electrical testers, grippers, punching bagsall the things that require some exertion or give some physical sensation to the player—are the ones that draw the best crowds. Girls like them, too, altho their scores are not likely to be measured high on the dials. But they can get just as big a kick out of trying.

> Operators of the best may have made a mistake in hiding these machines away from most of the feminine trade in the usually stag arcades. Or perhaps the times were not ripe for the change. But the amusement park has brought these machines out in the open, and introduced them to people who never knew they existed. There is an arcade now run successfully by one of the pioneer operators of the Middle West that is using machines so old as to be almost "collector's items," if there were collectors of old coin machines. These machines draw a good patronage almost any summer evening, and have been doing it for several seasons now.

Varied Amusement Desired

Not everybody has such old machines available, of course, and some arcades are better designed to house newer types of machines. No operator is going to succeed unless he studies the tastes of his potential patrons and puts in the kinds of machines that they want to play. If they will have nothing but pinball, it would be useless to put in other games, but most crowds like a varied amusement, and that is where the penny arcade has its real opportunity to make money

An arcade with a hundred or more machines should have only a few of each kind, and as many different kinds of machines as possible. It may seem a bit harder to operate and service, because there will be so many different types, but the public will like it better. When they have played one or a few rounds on one machine, they will go on to the next and try that, because they are in a sportive and spending mood, and because the machine is there to invite them.

Older operators have not forgotten that this was the secret of success in the arcades. Operating literally for a penny, every machine in the place could be repeated a few times. One man could thus turn in a sizable revenue to the could do far better.

This brings up the question of penny versus nickel or higher coin operation. Generally, pinball and other games should be operated at a nickel or dime, it is true, but circumstances are always said to alter cases. There is a strong case for the penny operation here. The operator is, after all, giving quantity entertainment for the masses. He may draw a large volume of patronage from children by the penny fare if his machines are properly selected to amuse them -and he will draw far more players, whose total play will exceed the revenue that a nickel rate would draw, if the arcade is properly operated. Perhaps a few machines should be reserved for higher priced play and placed in a selected end of the arcade, giving an aristocratic tone to the whole. In a very few high-class parks it may be possible to turn the penny arcade into a nickel arcade, but the lure of the very word in the title should never be forgotten.

Good Location Necessary

A good open location upon the midway should be selected for the arcade where it is visible from as many spots along the boardwalk as possible. It may be open to the air or glass inclosed, as the weather and location may dictate, but it should never be boarded up while the park is in operation. If it is to be inclosed, as much clear glass as possible should be used. Modernistic effects may be secured in this way with the aid of skillful designers, and the eyeappeal of the concession may be tremendously enhanced, while the patrons are protected from weather conditions outside.

Bright lighting is necessary — but lighting designed to avoid excessive heat as much as possible—and not to draw flies or other insects - a, plague of amusement parks in many climates.

The cashier is an important part of the arcade. Some operators prefer a man, others a girl, but it all depends upon local conditions. In any case, one of the best display ideas an arcade operator ever had was to display apparently huge stacks of pennies around the cashier's cage. It doesn't cost much to do this. A glass partition can protect them from the casual snatch thief, while danger from holdup is perhaps lessened, since the would-be thief would have difficulty in getting away with any great value in pennies. But just seeing the stacks around suggests the idea of spending them to people. Try it-it works.

Plenty of Other Locations

There are plenty of other places in the amusement park for coin machines as well. I am thinking in particular of the large Eastwood Park in Detroit, which was a center of coin-machine activity and is destined to be even more so this season. Here there are three special sportlands, leased by an operator from the park management, in addition to an exceptionally large arcade. Yet there was no direct competition between various locations. As many another amusement operator has found, having several apparently competing attractions together results in drawing more people to the center of interest and consequent better business for every attraction concerned.

In the three sportlands the principal attraction was a battery of diggers or clamshell machines in each case. These were rather novel to the local patrons, and therefore an unusual number could be operated. The brilliantly lighted glass fronts and sides of the machines and their large cabinets made them valuable as displays and helped to draw attention to them from the crowds in the park. A single cashier could usually handle the operation of each sportland.

This special class of concession can house any type of machine which will be popular locally. If there is an element of novelty about it, so much the played in a single visit by the industrious better. This makes it distinctly different customer-perhaps some favorites were from the arcade proper, which tends to be devoted to the older machines, and of course to the one-cent-operation policy. operator for the evening, and a party People wanting to get a thrill by spending more money per play, or wanting the latest thing in machines will be drawn instead to the sportlands.

> Eastwood Park, too, was about the first location in Michigan to introduce the bowling alley type of game last season. A typical midway concession was rebuilt, and some older games were moved, allowing installation of the new game when it was first brought out. The result was a brand-new novelty game that drew some of the best patronage in the park for the season.

Operation with prizes offers the same problems that it does elsewhere—with a few special complications for the park operator. Park patrons commonly play at various games—not the coin-operated type—for prizes if they win the high score, lucky number, or other test. They will ordinarily expect prizes accordingly on the coin machines—altho not on the penny arcade machines, it is to be granted. The operator must run his games in accord with the policy of the park. Perhaps he may feel that just giving prizes will not make his own games distinctive enough, and can discover some way to individualize his games. A special decorative scheme and construction emphasizing the automatic character of the concession will do it sometimes—perhaps a robot to hand out the prizes—a costume helps here. However, each operator has his own ideas.

Music and Vending Machines

Music machines find their niches in a park as well—there is music everywhere, but there is always room for more. In the various concessions where people stay any length of time an automatic phonograph will help to attract business—and the individual concession operator may find it worth while to keep it going, to help out his own ballyhoo or "sales appeal." In the quieter spots in the park a lower-toned machine with a well-selected repertory of gay tunes will be welcome.

Vending machines find a wide range of uses here as well. In the first place people eat, and candy and specialty food venders can serve their needs at convenient spots. Gum, nut and other venders have their places, perhaps as auxiliaries to the smaller refreshment stands usually scattered about the park. On the beach there is another opportunity for similar stands or machines—and wherever the crowds gather or pass by. In some of the attractions people go to stay a while, often with a separate admission charge, so that they do not want to leave for a candy bar or drink, for instance—and here is the opportun-

Washroom service machines offer another field for profitable operation. There are numerous other types of machines in the vending and service fields which can be placed advantageously in the park.

The Type of Contract

The type of contract with the park management deserves careful consideration, because the operator is dealing with a single location owner whose total locations may be as valuable as a large outside route — and more efficiently handled and serviced, since all the machines will be close together, and all accounting will go thru one central office.

Sometimes the park managements will want to operate their own machinesmany park men have also been operators, with the fraternal interchange of interest common in show business. More often, however, a lease arrangement for the various types of machines in the park, upon a percentage basis, will be offered, and this allows both parties to profit as the receipts swell-and gives both a common interest in seeing that operating conditions are right. Moreover, it makes every machine "stand on its own feet" and prove its worth by the competition for space just as a large department store judges the worth of a department by the return per space allotted.

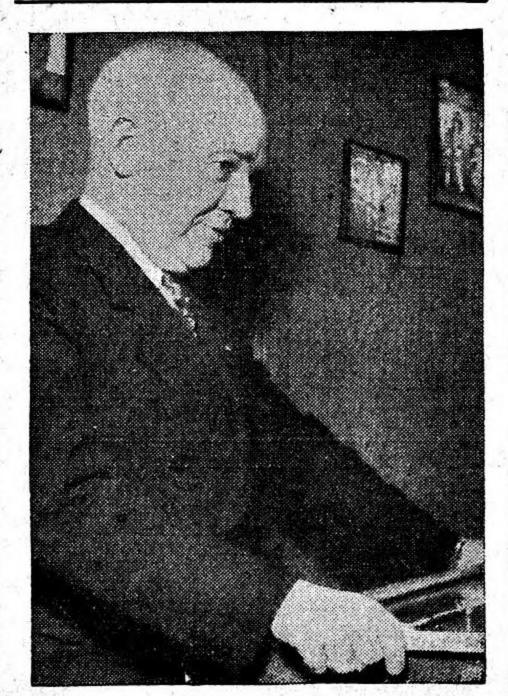

Finally, perhaps the best thing about the machine operation in parks is its seasonal character. Not just because the operator can go south for the winter, perhaps, but because he can put his machines into the center of all activity just when the patronage is greatest, for the few summer months, and then move them back into other locations for the winter. Most operators find that their revenue drops from most kinds of machines during the summer, and that winter months are the best in the usual permanent locations. Here is a way to make coin-machine operation a yearround business at the peak of profits

Royal Managers Adopt an Emblem

NEWARK, N. J., April 10.—Dave Stern and Harry Wichansky, of Royal Distributors, Inc., were poring thru books recently to get an idea for an emblem for use in advertising and publicity. They announce that their search is ended, with an idea for an attractive emblem.

The emblem depicts the smiling face of a person of royalty, with the lettering, "King of them all," appearing on one side and the firm name along the

They also consider using a decalcomania of the emblem to appear on all machines they sell.

Brown To Direct Portland Office

PORTLAND, Me., April 10.—George N. Brown, former Olympic walking title holder, has been appointed general manager of the Square Amusement Company office here. Al Schlesinger, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., announced the appointment.

Brown received his training in the coin machine business at the offices of the Square Amusement Company, Poughkeepsie, where he spent some months preparing for his present job.

"The coin machine business is the modern business of America," Brown said. "It is a business that offers the sort of live action that Americans want.

"This is really and truly an American business. It is the sort of business that Europeans couple with us when they think about us. It is efficient. It is speedy. It brings the public what they want right to their doorstep.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the northern part of New England is going to eventually become one of the most important coin machine territories in the country. It is a part of the country that has been built upon solid and fundamental American ideals and when this part of the country accepts machines the rest of the country is sure to follow.

"I am happy and proud to have been given this opportunity by Mr. Schlesinger to prove my ability and at the same time to help the industry to further itself in a truly American section of the country. I hope to be able to duplicate for the firm and for the operators in this industry what I did at the Olympic games, and I only hope that the boys will give me the opportunity to do so by letting me serve them."

Douglis Points To Small Details

CHICAGO, April 10 .- One of the small but important details in the manufacture of counter games was explained recently by Al S. Douglis, president of the Daval Manufacturing Company.

"The many operators buy our counter games," Douglis said, "we find that a large majority of them do not realize all of the detail work. For example, such a minor detail as size. Most operators have neglected this feature entirely, not figuring the why and the wherefore of this problem.

"We spent many days investigating the latest fixtures being made for stores before we adopted a size for Tri-o-Pak and Double Deck and arranged these games so that the mechanism would conform to the size of space we knew the games on his counter.

counter to be taken up by a game. They have other merchandise to display and, tho they admit the counter game will earn much more money, still they feel it necessary to have their regular merchandise displayed.

"Therefore the size of every Daval counter game is planned so that no storekeeper will regret giving the space necessary to display the game. In fact, operators tell us that they are complimented by locations on the scientific manner in which the space question has been answered by Tri-o-Pack and Double Deck."

Brooklyn Firm In New Quarters

BROOKLYN, April 10. — Brooklyn Amusement Company, well-known jobbing firm, recently moved to new quarters at 8-10 Varet street. Charley Aranson and Jack Kaufman guide the destinies of the firm. They state that the move was made necessary by the need for larger quarters.

Aronson says that the firm's business has grown right along and that they had expanded to the breaking point in the old place. The new quarters are only a short distance from their former location, but give them much more space and a better layout for the various departments.

A complete display of nearly all the new machines on the market is being arranged.

The repair department will be inclosed and a spacious parts department is also being constructed. Many other innovations are being planned. A grand opening party will be announced soon.

Lichtman Heads Midtown Firm

NEW YORK, April 10.-Midtown New York Vending Company has recently reopened here in an elaborate and attractive headquarters at 31 West 60th street. The firm, as many will remember, was formerly exclusive distributor for some of the largest Chicago manufacturers. The new quarters were formerly bank quarters. The space is about 40 feet wide by 100 feet deep. It is only a few steps from Broadway and has large parking facilities.

Charles Lichtman has been placed in charge as manager. Lichtman is one of the oldtimers in the coin-machine business. He will leave his present firm to manage the new company. Expert mechanics have been employed and a modern repair department is being arranged.

An export manager who is well known that the storekeeper would allow for to the industry and who has had many years of experience in shipping coin "Every operator will agree that few machines thruout the world will be

Multi-Bell Has Many Features

DETROIT, April 10. - Surprise announcement by the A. C. Novelty Company of the seven-play Multi-Bell machine has caused a sensational response. according to Adolph and Arthur Caille. heads of the firm.

Assisted by an able staff of coin machine experts, the development of the new machine required research, experimentation and testing for a period of more than three years. All laboratory work was conducted in a closely guarded laboratory and field tests were made anonymously, which accounts for the great surprise attending the announcement.

The new Multi-Bell is said by the makers to combine the two greatest systems of play that the industry has ever known, the Dewey and the Bell, so familiar to oldtimers. "Retaining, with improvements and refinements, all the desirable and worthwhile features of the Dewey and Bell, the new product makes available for the first time many advantages for players and operators," Arthur Caille said. "The exclusive multiple-play feature avoids player waiting, which means no lost revenue because of delay. No one player can monopolize play unless he plays the entire seven numbers or symbols. The result is greater player appeal, more group play and correspondingly greater income or earnings.

"Seven persons may play the machine at the same time—it is equivalent to seven single slots in one—the principle of construction and play permits players to select any number from one to seven-their so-called 'lucky numbers'and have an equal chance at the odds from two to 20, as well as the Jackpot payoff. Present-day operators will recognize in the multiple Bell the identical theory of multiple play employed by the various dice, roulette and racing-type machines.

"The design of the machine gives it the appearance of being large in size. Actually the machine, in both weight and dimensions, is no bigger than many single play slots. The finish on the machine is a special aluminum color with a beautiful texture. The background of reels and jackpot is a magnetic red. Finish stripes are die-cast chromium plated. The appearance of the complete machine is one of striking beauty and appeal."

Sphinx Rushes For New Games

CHICAGO, April 10.—William (The Sphinx) Cohen, Silent Sales Company, of Minneapolis, made a flying trip to Chicago recently and is reported to have placed an order for a carload of The Winner, new machine made by the Western Equipment and Supply Company.

"The Winner is the most appealing one-ball payout game I have ever seen," Cohen says. "Along with the Western Fast Track, The Winner has taken the Minneapolis territory by storm. Operators are crazy about it! They're waiting for me when we open our sales department in the morning and they're crowding in all day long.

"Naturally, this last carload I bought is only the beginning of a series of carloads, and I look for The Winner to be on every location in my territory."

Bally Games to Baseball Clubs

NEW YORK, April 10.—John A. Fitzgibbons says that his firm will present Bally Booster games to the Yankee and Giant teams for use in their clubhouses when opened here this season.

"The ball players will get just as big a kick in playing Bally Boosters as the fan does, and probably as big a thrill as they get in marking up a high batting average," Fitzgibbons said. "After hearing that some of the Brooklyn boys were going to give the Dodgers one of the games I decided that the champions of the leagues should have Bally Booster, which is without a doubt the champion of the baseball bumper games.

"With the Bally Booster to practice on and pep them up, there is no doubt that we will have another nickel series in 1937 right here in New York."

Batting Average Feature in Game

CHICAGO, April 10.—"In Batter Up and Running Wild operators have found an immediate and highly pleasing solution to what has previously been a serious operating problem, that of keeping the highest percentage of play on locations in which operators are vitally interested," says Meyer Gensburg, of Genco, Inc.

"Intensive research, drawing upon the experience of hundreds of distributors, jobbers and operators, resulted in the development of the playing idea expressed in Batter Up, which takes advantage of the seasonal and universal public interest in baseball. The companion game, Running Wild, was developed to appeal to two instincts prevalent in all humans. The first, an inherent desire to do better the next time—to improve one's skill by practice; the second, a competitive spirit with which all persons are imbued to a lesser or greater extent. In appealing to the players from these angles Batter Up and Running Wild offer complete coverage for locations.

"Analysis of Batter Up and Running explain the sudden and overwhelming popularity of the games on all types of the amount of the award if a winning thru. score is made, changing odds for each lane shot."

F&M PLANNING-

(Continued from page 3) Ken Sato, publisher of The Osaka Mainichi Shimbun (Daily News) and sponsor of several annual expositions in Japan, visited Fanchon & Marco headquarters here this week to discuss talent needs with Joe Bren and E. Nakamoto, who remains here as Hollywood correspondent and business representative for the Osaka daily.

Only drawback in a possible Japanese field for American acts is the six weeks necessary for traveling. However, salaries being paid the Osaka acts are 50 per cent higher than here.

Sam Lawrence Shows

CLINTON, S. C., April 12.—The Sam Lawrence Shows opened its regular season here Saturday. A fairly good crowd attended, altho the weather was cold and far from being an ideal show day. However, business was satisfactory. Boy Scouts, which is the auspices, cooperated in every way to make the affair a success. Edythe Siegrist's flying act as the feature free act was well received.

STRONG SENSATIONAL ATTRACTION

Owing to recent disappointment, have immediate open time for my Combination Death Trap Loop and Flume Act. High attractive rigging, brilliantly illuminated, expensively costumed. The time table of a breathless moment, literally dissecting the split seconds with uncanny accuracy and with stop watch precision. Actual time of ride, six seconds; time consumed in loop, four-fifths of second; time required for closing of trap door, three-fifths of second. Margin of safety one-fifth of second. There are no imitators or understudies with this attraction. It is the only act of its kind. Wire or write

Merchants Ask License

MEDINA, O., April 10.-An ordinance requiring that owners of pin-ball machines and other skill games pay an annual license fee of $100 had brought $1,111 into the village general fund this week, Mayor Theodore V. Foskett disclosed.

Operators also must pay $1 annual fee Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey: (Madi-for each machine.

The ordinance became effective March 25. Violators of the new law are punishable by $10 to $50 fines.

Merchants requested council to legalize operation of the equipment after their removal was urged by the Medina County grand jury February 1.

Maryland Assembly Votes Tax on Games and Claws

Tax to support social security and relief funds—coin machines included in State's general tax bill-prize awards will be allowed under new law

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 10.—Bill which passed both houses of the Maryland Legislature to license bookmaking establishments also included a $25 annual license on pinball games and digger machines. The bill was passed during the last week of the session, with considerable discussion and in the face of bitter opposition. It also included a number of tax provisions, such as whisky and beer, corporation franchises, cosmetics and other items. The declared purpose of the bill is to raise $5,000,000 annually for social security and relief. The governor has indicated that he will sign the bill, which passed both Houses. Coinmen approached apparently had not studied the bill carefully. In enacting the tax on pinball and claw machines the Senate wrote in a provision which will apparently permit the operators to pay cash prizes. This section taxes the machines "devised as to make the result of the operation depend in Whole or in part upon the skill of the player, whether or not the player be entitled to a premium, trophy or prize for high score or skill."

A bill to license games and diggers passed both Houses about two years ago but failed for lack of the governor's signature. Opposition newspapers are stressing the objections of the operators of race tracks to the licensing of bookies, thus bringing to the fore the well-known divisions among racing interests. Maryland is said to receive about $1,000,000 annually from race tracks in the State with pari-mutuel betting. Whatever upsets may occur in the future progress division among racing interests themselves. Coinmen recognize that similar division within the ranks of the coinmachine trade has defeated bills which might have given a fair share of business to various sections of the trade.

The Baltimore Sun, influential daily, apparently this week launched its program of opposition to the new law and to those who voted for it. The newspaper, however, reaps the full benefit of sales due to an excellent sporting news section giving full racing news, bets paid, etc.

New Heavyweight Gets Ops' Okeh

CHICAGO, April 10 .- Pacific Heavyweight game is described by Paul Bennett, general sales manager, as having gained a strong wave of operator acceptance. "More so," says Bennett, "than we anticipated, for prior to going into production we decided on a first release of 1,000 Heayweight games. Our location tests had proved Heavyweight to have quite an edge on other recent Pacific games. However, we estimated the operators and distributors thruout the country would take a little longer time to reduce our stock. But in a few days after early samples appeared in the largre metropolitan areas we were convinced by quantity repeat orders that we had something better than we ourselves could realize."

The new Heavyweight game is said to be such a sellout at Pacific that it is forced to ship even those games placed on display in the factory showrooms. It has lots of color and flash and depicts fighters in action, round by round, with odds of 2 to 30 to 1 on every round. There's a bumper arrangement on the playfield, laid out to give double action between any two bumpers, which in itself is said to resemble an exchange of blows that two fighters might engage in. One bumper in particular reflects the clever work of Pacific's chief engineer. It gives the player an opportunity to again change his odds selections should the ball engage it during its romp down the field. A new policy, said to have been put into effect with Pacific's Heavyweight production program, includes the company's triple-check system to insure to be placed on test location, then brought back in for a final recheck even after the usual exacting tests have been made immediately following production. The result is said to be reflected in the smooth action of the games.

Bennett claims the company has not had even a whisper of anything out of the way in the new Heavyweight games and promises operators and distributors some mighty good electro-mechanical performance on all Pacific products.

"DOC" ABRAMS, Jennings distributor in Kane, Pa., points to the day, which, he says, opens the "big season."

operators and distributors thruout the country, Paul Bennett, Pacific's sales manager, states.

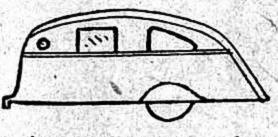

"The game," says Bennett," has caught on. Our problem is filling orders and keeping up production. Apparently the same sporting appeal that makes baseball America's favorite game outdoors is now making Pacific's Ball Game a national favorite too."

Outstanding feature of Pacific Ball Game is said to be the lifelike action that takes place on its light-up board. The designers are reported to have utilized the basic principles of moving pictures, thus giving the game an amazing animation, according to reports. It is said to be actually possible to follow the course of the ball players from home to first to second and so on around the diamond.

Pacific's Ball Game is also said to be distinguished by an interesting and most attractive external design which reflects the work of the noted game designer, Bon MacDougall, and the clever engineering of Irwin Eisenberg.

Philly Coinmen Mourn Death of Young Member

PHILADELPHIA, April 10. - Local operators and distributors were grieved to hear of the passing of Cyrus Marcus, well-known wholesale coin machine jobber. Only 32 years of age, Marcus died April 1 in the Jewish Hospital of a streptococcus infection that had set in three sisters.

NEW YORK, April 10.-Mike Munves recalled the history of his firm recently, with the conclusion that "as a firm gets older it gets better." Munves recalls that he has sold coin machines to such personages as Adolph Zukor, now president of Paramount, when Zukor was running his 14th street Arcade and Nickelodeon.

Munves has continued in the jobbing and distributing business in the downtown section of the city ever since. At present he is located within the shadow of City Hall and only a few feet from Brooklyn Bridge, and his business seems to be getting bigger every day. He has had to add to his force and since his serious automobile accident last year Mike has brought his brother, Max, into the business. Max used to be in the drug business, but claims that coin machines are far more interesting and certainly a lot more adventurous.

Mike said: "I believe a firm grows better with age, just like whisky. The boys all over the country know our firm and they know that we have been giving them a square deal for years and years, so many years that I do not believe it is necessary to repeat it.

"In fact, I can remember what a big event it was when the first ball gum machines came out. And what a hit when someone decided to put candy and toys into a digger. | And what a sensation when 1,000,000 other things happened. Oh, well, it's here to stay."

National Premium Opens Chi Branch

OMAHA, April 10 .- "When orders come in so fast that one office can't handle them it is time to do something about it," says Al Johnson, of the National Premium Company, Omaha. And Johnson obviously puts into practice what he preaches. Eastern headquarters for National Premium were established at 151 East Erie street, Chicago, last week, Johnson has announced. Earl C. Jasper, widely known manufacturer's representative, will be in charge.

"We have been kept busy night and day filling orders for our new miniature rifle game ever since announcement was made," said Johnson. "As far as orders from Western States are concerned, we have handled them nicely and will continue to do so. However, the Chicago office will simplify matters greatly and will assure Eastern operators much speedier deliveries."

The company will also maintain a warehouse in Chicago for storage of equipment. National Premium is one of the largest and most progressive organizations of its kind in the business. Manufacturing has only recently been added to its activities, and its first product is a highly improved miniature rifle game. According to Johnson, seven months was required in the planning and designing of the machine. One of its many outstanding features is the popular Ronald-McDonald safety bullet trap. Production is now exceeding 25 machines a day.

Countless people have asked "How is it that Post Time is able to take the play away from all other tables — and make solid profits of from $75 to $150 per week so consistently?" We think it's the proper time to tell you some detailed facts about this great table. Look at the features:

1. Post Time has 7 slots, the only practical seven-slot coin head on a pay table. It takes in the money seven times as fast, up to a rate of $40 an hour if crowded, and it never gets tired.

Post Time

Payout Table by Mills

2. Post Time has 21 holes, 7 to Win, 7 to Place, and 7 to Show. No out holes on this table.

3. The Post Time Clock is a large impressive clock with a bright long arm that starts turning and clicking as soon as the handle is pushed. The player sets his own odds by shooting his one shot so that when ball passes through tunnel the clock is switched off with hand pointing to odds on dial. The most favorable odd is $2.00 to win. This is the mark player generally shoots for.

4. The rebound action of the ball is smooth, unusual, and extraordinarily live.

5. Post Time is a treat for the skill player, yet fair to the unskilled player. The big clock is especially appealing in its action, and colorful and impressive even when table is not being played.

It's the Table at the Top of the Heap!

THESE GAMES COST YOU LESS.. MUCH LESS.. Yet give you everything you want!

Not in years has a quality job been priced so low . . . Pacific's BALL GAME at only $199.50. Just imagine these superior features: The pitcher hurls fast balls, twisters and slow balls. A fantalizing change of pace that keeps 'em plunking steadily away at Pacific's BALL GAME. Players hit liners, grounders, fly balls and crashing home runs into the stands with BALL GAME'S special bat. Takes speed and skill to connect.

Each play on the field is instantly duplicated on the giant electric scoreboard. Lifelike "movie-reel" animation shows players lead off and actually circle the bases. Better . . . more vivid than any news-reel movie you've ever seen. Takes you right out to the baseball park. All runs are totaled in full view. Outs too. Nothing like it ever before, and there never will be again . . . for Pacific's BALL GAME is the last word in real baseball animation. See it today. Know Pacific's BALL GAME. You'll agree. It's a winner!

Meet Pacific's HEAVYWEIGHT! Shake hands with the distributor who hands HEAVY-WEIGHT to you. Thank him. For you're going out on location for more rounds of player patronage than ever before. Put HEAVYWEIGHT beside them all. Then let the crowds crash the gates. See which coin chute gets their nickels. HEAVYWEIGHT'S, of course! Men! You must see Pacific's HEAVYWEIGHT. Fighters in action . . . round by round, with odds all the way from 10 to 150! Light animation. Short jabs. Swinging pokes on the bumper field. And the "mystery bumper" changing the odds. It's HEAVYWEIGHT'S "hay-maker" feature! Could easily sell for twenty-five dollars more!

am I getting FAT on your fat profits from that baseball machine

1937 WORLD SERIES

WORLD SERIES is baseball as it is REALLY PLAYED!

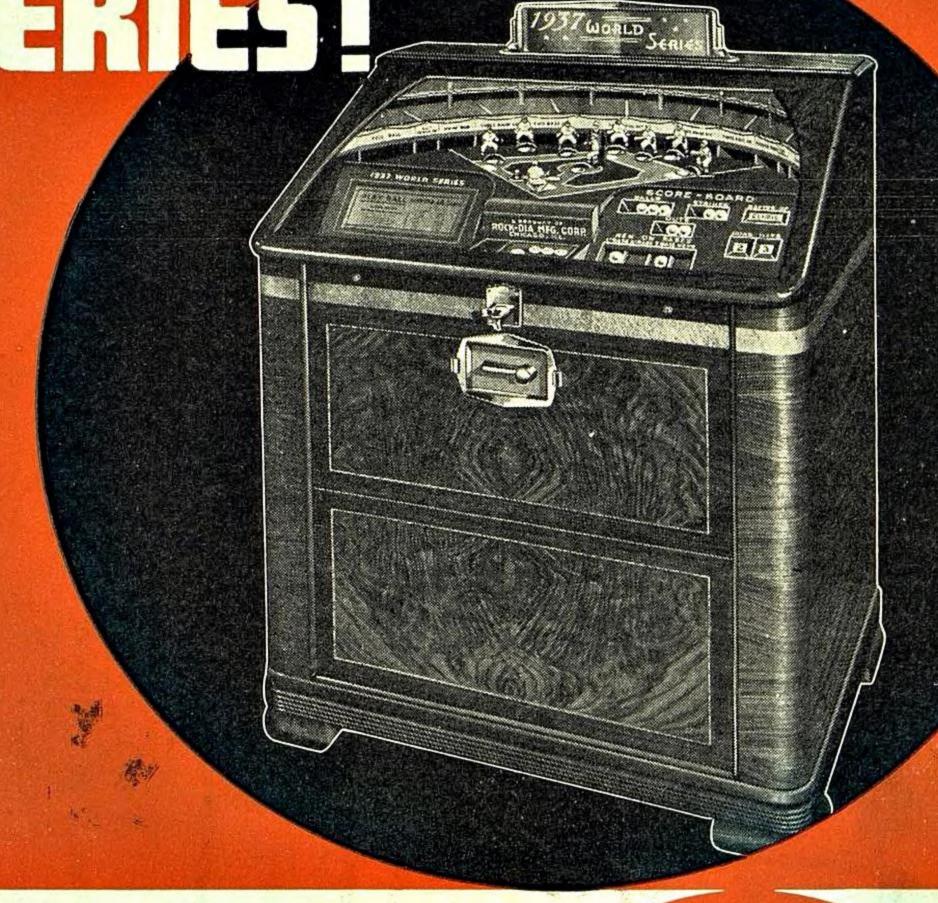

The Pitcher-DEAN- actually throws the ball, and actually assumes fifteen DIFFERENT positions. He throws curves, strikes, fast balls, slow balls, and you actually bat against his pitching trying to hit the ball out of the infield for a single or a double-or past the outfielders for a triple or home run. THE SCOREBOARD INSTANTLY TELLS YOU THE NUMBER OF STRIKES—THE NUMBER OF BALLS—THE NUMBER OF HITS-THE NUMBER OF RUNS-THE NUMBER OF MEN ON BASES AND JUST WHAT BASES THEY OCCUPY.

If there ever was a "natural" for "nursing" every nickel out of a person's pocket, WORLD SERIES is the thing that does it. Every day on location it will earn, for you, more money than you ever dreamed possible, and every day off location, it will cost you priceless profits.

Legal? Are the WORLD SERIES games played every fall legal? Of course they are! Imagine a box-seat at a WORLD SERIES for only 5c!

Nothing ever created in a machine like this ROBOT. And, best of all-the profits will go on for years and years to come (not merely months) but years and years, for it is a game they will never tire of and there is nothing to get our of order. Order from your distributor today. Don't waste another single precious moment.

SCHOOL DAYS!

Just a very small down payment and the smallest kind of weekly payments quickly pays for this individual distinctive RIFLE.

Actually gets a flood of nickels where many rifles have failed to even attract attention. There is a reason! "SCHOOL DAYS" is different. Of course, it calls for SKILL, but it also has the additional pulling power—of fun, sport and amusement. Adjustable to various heights or can be hung on the wall. Just the thing for that particular location especially where space is a factor.

TOM MIX RADIO RIFLE

Everybody loves "TOM MIX" and everybody loves the TOM MIX RADIO RIFLE.

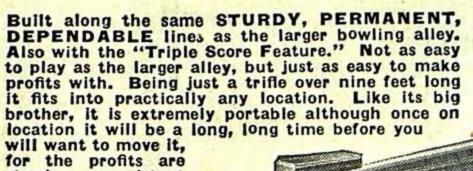

Adds beauty and distinction to any location, at the same time producing constant consistent profits in a BIG way. Let your distributor tell you all about it.

ROCK-O-BALL SENIOR!

Operators are certainly making "FAT" profits on this bowling game for it was made to LAST. Bowling games are here to stay and ROCK-O-BALL SENIOR will outstay anything in the line. Not a single headache in a carload of these games because of mechanical perfection. Easy terms enables an operator to quickly pay for this game and then the "velvet" will go on for years. If you are the type of operator who "investigates before he invests" you are sure to decide this is the "here-tostay" bowling game of them all.

steady, consistent and returns quickly pay for this game, Nothing uncommon for this game to pay for itself in four weeks' time. Let your distributor tell you all about it.

CARLOAD SHIPMENTS of the WURLITZER-SIMPLEX AUTOMATIC PHONOGRAPH

FAR AHEAD OF SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR

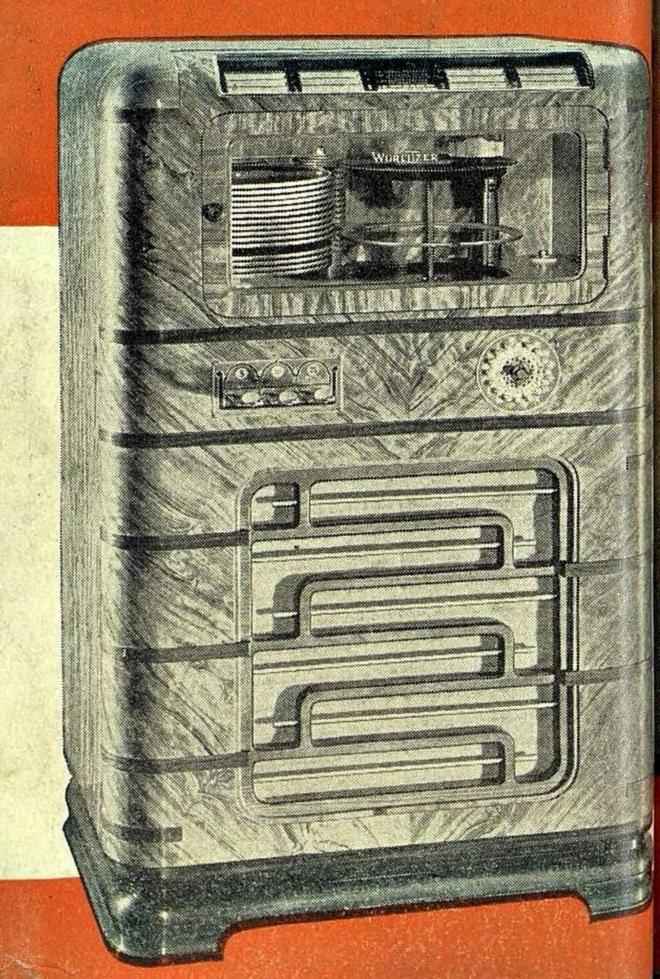

Never before has business been so good for Operators of Automatic Music. America has become automatic music conscious. Operators are lining up locations that they were never able to "crack" before. Wurlitzer's mammoth North Tonawanda, New York, plant is working day and night to fill the unprecedented demand for Wurlitzer-Simplex Automatic Phonographs.

Today, as never before, the Wurlitzer-Simplex is the acknowledged leader—the automatic phonograph that out-sells all other makes combined—the automatic phonograph that the biggest and best locations demand.

Wurlitzer-Simplex Phonographs from January 15 to March 31, 1937—hundreds of other operators received less than carload shipments. Wurlitzer business for 1937 to date is running way ahead of the similar period in 1936—is breaking all records in Wurlitzer history—and that means all records for the industry as a whole.

To be sure of getting your phonographs when you want them, place your orders now. If you aren't operating in music, cash in on this big opportunity—find out if there is room for another Wurlitzer-Simplex Operator in your locality. Write, wire or phone today! The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, North Tonawanda, N. Y. Canadian Factory: RCA-Victor Co., Ltd., Montreal Quebec, Canada.
