Iowa State Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Iowa Bill Posters Association was held at Council Bluffs, Sept. 28. The only real important question introduced for consideration was the Des Moines franchise, which was contested for by W. W. Moore, who has been the city bill poster for thirty years, and Chamberlin & Knott, non-resident owners of a theatrical circuit, who opened up an opposition against Moore a few months ago. All reports concede that it was a very hard fight. President Beall, it is claimed, had made some kind of a deal for an interest in the Moore plant, providing he delivered the franchise, and he came near doing it. The final vote was 10 to 9, and Chamberlin had four of the ten up his sleeve on account of franchises in four different Iowa cities.

It was the most exciting meeting the Iowans ever held. The president in the chair was doing absolutely all the talking on one side in the partisan fight for Moore, while Frank Chamberlin had the pleasure of doing all the talk in his own interest, and it was hot, parliamentary rules being thrown to the dogs.

It is said that Chamberlin was told a half dozen times that it did not make a blamed bit of difference about parliamentary rules, or what the national association or anything else thought about it; that the president of the Iowa Association was running the meeting, and that was all there was to it. Shades of O'Melia! If the national body could only have had a photograph of this subordinate meeting! How it would emulate their souls to still more narrow-minded conquests! Although "Uncle Billy" Moore was defeated he will still continue in the bill posting field in Des Moines. The venerable gentleman is the oldest bill poster in Iowa, and has a host of friends throughout the State.

Levyne's Letter.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—On my arrival in Seaba, Mo., I found that Gentry's Dog & Pony Show, No. 4, had captured the town ahead of me. F. H. Gentry, owner; Harry Ewens, treasurer; Claiborne Clay, press agent; Dave G. Markel, ring master; Frank Robertson, master of transportation; Danny Hoyt, band leader; and H. S. Franklyn, steward. It consists of four cars, 64 ponies, three baby elephants, 28 monkeys and 96 dogs. Frank is adding to his show every chance he can get, and the verdict of the town was that he gave a nice, clean show, and was appreciated up to the last hour he was in the town. One thing I would like to mention particularly, and that is Mr. Gentry's capacity for Bermuda onions and chili, for he kept Charley Graham busy for two hours dishing it out. They are going down in Texas, and for some unaccountable reason I forgot to get the route. I found the whole show to be first-class and entirely free from grafters.

And now a word for bill posting: I ran in to another nest of opposition, and this is the situation: "Dr." (?) H. W. Wood for sixteen years ran the opera house and bill posting plant. No, he didn't. It ran itself—ran itself right into the hands of an opposition. In my conversation with the Dr. (?) I found him profoundly ignorant of everything connected with bill posting. He would never join the association, and, in fact, didn't know why—only just wouldn't do it, that's all! His bone merchants don't seem to have a good word for him, and that to me speaks volumes.

Last year a young man, Frank Mounce, took it into his mind that the Dr. (?) wasn't doing right, and money could be made by giving good service. So he went in with one of the most influential men of the town and built a good plant and got membership in the association. And there ye are!

The town has 20,000 population, and Mounce has 1,800 running feet of boards, and is getting his competitor's locations right along. I wish this boy luck, as he is full of energy and is a hard worker and would like some of my friends to send him some paper. This is a good town; has four railroads, and each one has its shops here. Besides, there are numerous manufacturing establishments. I should have said that Mounce has forty locations. Yours truly,

M. L. LEVYNE.

Curran Fights Hard.

There was plenty of evidence of a coming legal battle, says a Denver newspaper, when the eleven suits brought by the city against the Curran Bill Posting & Distributing Company were called before Judge R. W. Steele in the county court. After the attorney's tables had been covered with the papers in the cases and the lawyers had adjusted their spectacles, the door was seen to open and a clerk with two big stacks of books under his arms entered. He was soon followed by another big consignment of legal lore and then the battle began. The eleven cases had been tried in a lower court and five of the cases were appealed by the city, the Curran Company appealing the other six. The testimony was taken up with the first four cases of the city. The first case considered was the one charging that the defendants had violated the city ordinance in failing to keep the grounds around the bill board at Fifteenth and West streets in a good sanitary condition. Police men Hunter and Hendrix testified to finding an accumulation of filth and trash around the boards at the time complaint was made, and the defendant brought in the plea that the ground belonged to other parties and was not leased by him, and that he was not responsible for its condition. The city attorney made the point that the company was exercising a privilege granted by the ordinances, and was therefore bound to make such terms with the owner or lessee of the land as would permit him to comply with the ordinance. The lawyers said this was the bone of contention in all of the cases and after considerable argument that question was left open until authorities could be consulted. The second case concerned the bill board at the northeast corner of Thirteenth street and Broadway, where cordwood was piled up to the back of the boards. The city's case was made out on the grounds that it was a violation of the fire ordinance and a menace to the safety of the city. Curran testified that the wood was piled there when he leased the land, but it was proven that it was not the same wood and that it had frequently been moved. The third case was a violation of the health ordinance at Eleventh and Broadway by the accumulation of filth. Judge Steele will not render an opinion until the testimony in all the cases has been heard.

Libel Suit for $5,000.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—A. Van Beuren and Samuel Pratt, constituting the New Haven Bill Posting Company, were today made defendants in a suit for $5,000 for alleged libel. The plaintiff is Guy O. Ackerman, of New York, now connected with the American Tobacco Company. He was at one time with the bill posting company, but left the service of the company and went to New York. Ackerman bases the present suit upon a letter which he says was written to the American Tobacco Company by Pratt and Van Beuren, alleging that Ackerman was short in his accounts. Ackerman declares that the statements were false and were made with malicious intent. The suit is brought by Attorney Louis E. Jacobs, and is returnable to the Superior Court.

Howard of Galveston.

On the front page of this issue is an excellent likeness of Joseph E. Howard, the unfortunate Galveston bill poster, who lost all that he possessed in the world except wife and three little ones, in the awful hurricane of Sept. 8 last. This picture was taken expressly for "The Billboard" a few days after the storm, and gives an idea of how Howard looked after he got out of the water. The blue shirt and overalls which he is still wearing are the only clothes he had left. "I haven't had a coat," he writes, "to put on since I came out of the water. Money is indeed a very scarce article here at present."

Notes.

Chas. Holtquist, the eminent designer and lithographic artist, heads the new force of artists at the Donaldson Litho. Company.

A London cable says that the British syndicate which recently tried to secure control of the Camp Bird gold mines is now seeking to acquire control of the American Cereal Company, and has authorized Mr. Barber, president of the Board of Match Company, to deposit $700,000 with a Chicago bank to buy cereal shares at $5 each.

The combined lithographic interests of Cincinnati were represented at a banquet at the Business Men's Club, Saturday evening, Oct. 6, which was given by those who participated in the Festival pageantry parade. The lithographers, it will be remembered, won the first prize of $1,000 in gold for the best float in this parade, and Saturday night was the time selected for jollifying over the event. The affair was a most felicitous one and brought together representatives of one of the prime industries of the Queen City.

Iron'on, O., Items.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—I have not been very busy advertising this summer. I helped Geo. S. McGece put out Dr. Pierce's memorandum books and samples (pills) at Iron'on and Ashland, Ky., the latter part of August and first part of September. We put out 2,200 at this place and 800 at Ashland. Mr. McGece is one of the nicest men I ever worked for, and I will be only too glad to see him come back again. His automobile created quite a sensation, it being the first one to come to town. Quite a number of people were favored with a ride, which they enjoyed very much, thanks to the kindness of Mr. McGece. I am now putting out 3,000 books for the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., and expect some of Dr. Miles' advertising in every day. Also expect to do some sampling for the Elliott Bakery Co., Columbus, O., and have contracted to do some distributing and sampling for Canby, Ach & Canby, Dayton, O., in the near future. I have written to several new firms about work, but haven't had time to hear from them yet. The Arbuckle Coffee Co.'s traveling man and the Northwestern Yeast Co.'s man did some sampling and distributing here the other day. They hired some boys to help them. The Swift's Specific man, Atlanta, Ga., did some distributing of a pamphlet, 4 by 6 inches. He hired two colored boys to help him. Wallace's Show is billed here for Oct. 15, the work being done last Saturday by their own men. Yours very truly,
H. C. CROSSLEY.

Fayette, Mo., Facts.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—I have done the following work the past thirty days: Posted two 24-sheets, six 12-sheets, twenty-five 1-sheets on Star Tobacco for Continental Tobacco Company, New York City; five 8-sheets and twenty-seven 2-sheets of W. P. Corset; fifteen 2-sheets Dittman Shoes, both through I. L. Keller, local merchant; four 3-sheets, two 2-sheets and sixteen 1-sheets of Friend's Oats for Muscatine Oatmeal Company, Muscatine, Ia.; seventy-five 1-sheets for F. C. Corset, through I. Cohn, local; five 8-sheets New York Life Cigar, for James W. Suddler & Co., St. Louis; put up 10 signs for Pabst Chemical Company, Chicago, Ill.; distributed 1,000 books for Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and 5,000 pieces for the Boston Medical Institute, Chicago, Ill., during our street fair. We selected a bad week for our fair. It rained every day but the last. Still we had big crowds. Friday it rained all day, but we had fully 5,000 people in town. The flower parade had to be postponed until October 2. The town was almost full, and everybody said it was the best they ever witnessed. The fair was a success anyway. The president informed me that they were $200 to the good. We will have a big one next year. Watch us. Yours very truly,
LEE HOLLADAY.

Ardmore, I. T., Affairs.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—W. R. Burnitt, city bill poster, is at home on a visit. Mr. Burnitt travels for the National White Lead Company. Mr. Nichols, Burnitt's gentlemanly manager, has on the boards: Rosco & Holland; Pringle's combined minstrels; Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, Curtiss Com. Co., Syndicate Shows, Norris & Rowe's Dog & Pony Show, "Silk Soup," "Drummond" Tobacco and some other small paper. J. E. Hamilton, proprietor of Hamilton's Exclusive Shoe Store, has started to posting; he had a boy take old shoe boxes and make him about thirty 1-sheet boards. Over these he pasted a 1-sheet, advertising "Walk-Over Shoe." They are laid on back, "Hamilton No. —." They won't stay up long, as everybody likes "walk-over wood," and already some are carved up. Norris & Rowe's Trained Animal Show visited Ardmore last week. They are all O. K. Didn't arrive in town soon enough to give a matinee, but their tent couldn't hold the crowds that bought tickets for the evening performance, people were sitting around on the race track and even up to the sides of the ring. They give a good show. The great (?) English-American Syndicate Shows exhibited in Ardmore, Wednesday, Sept. 19. They also had a big crowd at both afternoon and evening performances. This show did not come up to the standard, as was expected. The crowds were woefully disappointed. Every Wednesday for the last three or four weeks there has been a show here (Rosco & Holland's) and Pringle's Combined Minstrels show here next Wednesday. The great Galveston Free Street Fair begins Oct. 10, and closes Oct. 20. This is a crackerjack fair association. It has been well advertised in this part of Indian Territory.
M. H. SENYAH

Emporia, Kan., Events.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—Our street fair, which came off here last week, was a "damp failure." It rained all week until Saturday, which was a fine day, but awfully muddy. The privilege shows were the German Village, Mr. Geber's, printer; Tschudi's Moving Pictures; J. W. Parson, with a snake eater, who pleased the people, although not as good as "Honey," who recently lost his arm, and is now recovering at Baxter Springs. The Toyarows were free attractions, and although they only appeared twice, they won great applause. The flower parade will come off Wednesday, Oct. 3—some day that Buffalo Bill's Wild West is here. I distributed 12,000 booklets to men only at the fair, and 3,000 from Dr. Edson Institute to put out at the "Bill" Show. Next year will try again, and unless we meet with another "frost," will eclipse all premises for this year. Respectfully,

FRED. R. CORBETT

Jacksonville, Fla., Jottings.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—The Jacksonville Bill Posting & Advertising Company has at present a first-class plant—as good as any city in the South. New boards are being built as fast as the demands come, which was surprisingly heavy during the past twelve months. Our bill boards are now occupied by thirty-five stands Favorite Salt; 20, Quaker Oats; 15, Old Saratoga Whisky; 25, Continental Tobacco Co.; 10, Treklely Ash Cutters; 300 sheets of Valdosta Paper; 15, O. K. Coffee; 30, Mennen's Baby Powder; also, tacking 1,500 signs of Speckled Beauty Tobacco. I read with much pleasure your newsy items in the weekly "Billboard." I intend letting your readers know regularly just what we are doing in the bill posting line. Yours very truly,
J. D. BURBRIDGE

Kokomo, Ind., Kinks.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—A. S. Oswalt and Wm. Funk, of Anderson, have been here several weeks trying to force H. E. Henderson to sell them his bill posting plant. To this end they offered to do the posting for the new Sipe Theater for one cent a sheet, but Mr. Henderson secured the contract from Mr. Sipe, in face of this ruinous competition, and Messrs. Oswalt & Funk will probably be on their knees to several owners of bill board privileges, pleading to be released from their contracts, upon which they made partial payments. Mr. Henderson has recently made extensive improvements to his bill posting plant, and now controls 2,300 feet of full-sized boards and several hundred small boards.
NEMO.

Galveston, Tex., Gratitude.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—I can never sufficiently thank you and the noble men who are coming to my assistance so manfully and unselfishly in our hour of need. My wife, children and myself will never forget their kindness, and it is my prayer to God that they may never have such an experience as that which the people of this city passed through on Sept. 8. I have been working on the relief committee here since the storm, so that I do not need for food. I have ordered lumber to be shipped in from the mills, which I expect in a week or ten days, when I will commence rebuilding. Again thanking you for your great kindness, I am yours very truly,
J. E. HOWARD.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—There is going to be a street fair at Gallatin, Tenn., Oct. 25 and 26, which will be the first that this county has ever given to a street fair. Attractions are wanted for it. Full particulars can be obtained by writing Sam Anderson, secretary of Commercial Club, Gallatin, Tenn. John Robinson's Show will be at Gallatin Oct. 13. They have billed heavily, and will have a good crowd. They have posted all over the county, as well as city. I enjoy "The Billboard" more than any paper I take. Wishing you and "The Billboard" success, I remain, yours respectfully,

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—The Nestle Food plant is completed and in full operation; it covers seven acres of ground, and employs 500 people. We have about twenty-five other industries, among them being the Fulton Worsted Mills. They employ about 1,200 people. I have just disposed of my baggage transfer line. All I have now on my hands is the bill posting and distributing business, and can give first-class service to all my patrons and advertisers, as I devote all my time and attention to it. Yours very truly,

Actor Shot by Bully.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 7.—At 2 o'clock this morning William J. McCaully, either of Philadelphia, Pa., or Camden, N. J., was shot and instantly killed in this city by Pearl Newman. The murder occurred at the home of Dorsey Brown, a woman. McCaully was an actor with Bartlett and May, who are playing "A Woman in the Case." The show was at Davis' Theater, and after the performance last night McCaully and several other actors went to the home of Dorsey Brown. They were all seated in an upstairs room drinking beer, when Newman, who was a lover of the Brown woman, appeared at the door and demanded admittance. This was at first refused, but he was later allowed to enter. He was invited to drink some beer with the crowd, but he replied, "No, I am not drinking to-night, but I am here to raise hell." At this remark McCaully arose and said: "No, let's have no trouble; sit down and enjoy yourself." Newman grabbed a beer-glass and threw it toward McCaully, but the latter dodged it and it was broken against a door-facing. McCaully rushed toward Newman, pleading with him to be quiet. Newman backed a couple of steps or more, pulled a revolver and fired, the bullet entering McCaully's left breast. He threw his hand to his breast, turned toward his companions in the room and said: "Guys, he has killed me." McCaully never uttered another word, but fell on a couch and expired a minute later. Newman has been a rather reckless character since the close of the Spanish-American war. During that period he was a private in the Second West Virginia regiment. Of late he has been working as a longshoreman here and was frequently in trouble. McCaully joined the "Woman in the Case" company at Chicago eleven weeks ago. The manager of the company states that he was a very quiet man, and that he had talked with him but little.

Curtis Hard Up.

Maurice B. Curtis, of "Sam'l of Posen" fame, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the U. S. District Court at St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 6. His liabilities were placed at $177,388.93 and assets at $25,716. Unsecured claims of his liabilities are placed at $116,747.72. One of his largest bills, valued at $15, and one green stone scarf pin, valued at $10, represent his assets. Some years ago Mr. Curtis shot and killed a policeman in San Francisco for which he was prosecuted, and the expense incurred in defending himself was heavy. There is in the schedule an enormous list of personal debts contracted in New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco and in many northern cities. The number of his dramatic creditors is large, and the debts due them are for "professional services," or for borrowed money. The total of his obligations to doctors and lawyers is heavy, and there are large bills for merchandise.

In the Hurly Burly.

Stage-driving was quite a lefty calling, and the name of many a young man's ambition. Excitement followed in the wake of all the coaches along the National Road. Their arrival in the towns was the event of each day, so regular in transit, the exact hour of the coming was known without aid of watch or clock. Relays at intervals of twelve miles were quickly made, without the driver leaving his seat. The horses used were showy and superb. Mr. Stockton, of the "National Road Stage Company," had a strain called the "Mural" and another known as the "Windflower," which have become extinct, but many expert horsemen contend that they have not, in later days, been surpassed for nerve, beauty or speed. Stockton had a race with a horse and buggy against a locomotive between the "Relay House" and Baltimore, in which he came out ahead. During Van Huren's presidency, arrangements were made by the Stockton line to transmit a message with more than ordinary celerity. Redding Huntington, agent of that company, received the document at Frederick, Md., and sitting with the driver to superintendent, they drove to Wheeling, 222 miles, in twenty-three hours and thirty minutes. Changes of drivers and horses were made at the usual places. In 1816 Huntington rivalled, if he did not surpass, the feat of rapid transit. He drove the great mail coach from Cumberland to Wheeling, which carried the message of President Polk, officially proclaiming that war existed between the United States and Mexico, and covered the distance of 131 miles in twelve hours. James Reeside, "Land Admiral," formerly a wagoner, was a rival stage line proprietor and was the most extensive mail contractor in the United States, employing more than 1,000 horses and men. He owned most of the lines running out of Philadelphia and New York. In 1836 he bought the interest of J. W. Weaver between Cumberland and Wheeling. Arranging everything anew, he named the lines "Good Intent." Once, in passing along a street in Philadelphia in company with Col. Richard M. Johnson, vice president of the United States, some scariet coat was observed in a tailor's window, which prompted Col. Johnson to say: "Ree-sue, as your coat is an red, you ought to wear a red vest. Ree-sue re-peat, I will get one if you will." Agreed, said Johnson. Long as they lived, both wore vests and neckties of scariet colors. Jason Eddy was sent out on the road by Mr. Reeside. He was so expert as a driver, it was said "he could turn his team and coach on a silver dollar." He was a good musician, and played well on the bugle. Dr. Thayer, a renowned circus proprietor, commenced driving stage on the National Road when eighteen years of age, previous to 1809. Jason Eddy was one of the oldest and best stage drivers on the road. When Gen. Lafayette visited the town of Washington, Pa., it was assigned to Eddy to drive the coach in which the illustrious visitor entered the town. That was in 1825. Eddy subsequently became the senior member of the firm of Eddy, Lyon & Wolf, contractors, who built most of the locks and dams on the Muskingum River in Ohio. This firm was called the "Musagerie Company, on account of the names of its members. David Bonebraker, whose name would import otherwise, was a careful driver, and never during his whole service did he break a bone of man or beast.

As many as twenty four-horse coaches have been counted in line at one time, and it is a sincere belief that the stage lines of the National Road were never equaled in speed and dash on any road, in any age or country. There was one mail coach that was especially imposing. On its guided sides appeared the picture of a post-boy, with flying horse and horn, and beneath it in gilt letters, this awe-inspiring inscription:

"He comes, the herald of a noisy world; News from all nations lumbering at his back."

There was one Peter Burdine, a driver on the "Good Intent" line, noted for his dashing qualities, who gave vent to his fidelity in these words:

"If you take a seat in Stockton's line, You are sure to be passed by Pete Burdine."

William Willis, noted as a fast driver on the Stockton line, on one occasion overtook and passed Burdine on the way, which gave rise to this taunting rhyme:

"Said Billy Willis to Peter Burdine, 'You had better wait for the Oyster line.'"

This was an express of springless wagons which was derisively called also the "Snake-rut" line.

A coach in which Henry Clay was proceeding to Washington, D. C., was upset upon a pile of limestone in Uniontown. The driver had his nose broken by the accident. Mr. Clay was unhurt, and upon being extracted, he facetiously remarked: "Gentlemen, this is mixing the Clay of Kentucky with the limestone of Pennsylvania." On another trip Mr. Clay was upset and slightly injured. Being conveyed to a tavern, a loquacious old physician sought to relieve the distinguished sufferer. Prescribing brandy, the doctor began the recital of an old joke, meanwhile filling a glass, and seeing it would be a long story, Mr. Clay interrupted by suggesting that he be permitted to drink the brandy and rub the glass over his wounds. Claysville, in Washington County, Pa., was named after the immortal, idolized champion of the road. In Claysville, some time during the forties Dan Rice, after his circus stranded there, exhibited a "learned" pig in Basil Brown's tavern. Dan was charged by Brown with stealing an overcoat, jailed, tried and acquitted. Seen after, Dan appeared with a new circus in that town, and sang an original song in the ring. The thrusts at Brown were sarcastic and severe, and much enjoyed by local hearers.

When Jenny Lind made her first professional visit to the United States, she returned with her company east over the road in "chartered" coaches of the Stockton line. P. T. Barnum, the great singer's manager, was with her. When the coaches pulled up at "Boss" Hush's, at Farmington, for breakfast, a bystander asked one of the drivers: "Which one is Barnum?" the driver petulantly replied: "Oh, I don't know Barnum from the devil." Instantly, Barnum alighted and said, "I am Barnum." The driver is right; it is hard to tell Barnum from the devil.

Of other illustrious names, Al G. Field, we are proud to own, of great minstrel fame, first saw the light in Fayette Co., Pa., at or near Brownsville, along the line before he dropped his "hat." Hon. James G. Blaine, the statesman, was born over the Monongahela, at West Brownsville, in Washington County.

Posters must be Modest.

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 10.—(Special.)—Dr. McGill, president of the board of police commissioners, has notified T. W. Dinkins, manager of the Bon Ton Theater, that those posters which might be considered objectionable must be removed from public view. Mr. Dinkins has done as requested, and there are now only pictures in full-length costumes and boards covered with plain printing. Dr. McGill said he had heard many adverse criticisms of many of the posters placed about the city. He had himself intended to take some steps in the matter, but his action was hastened by the protests recently made to him. Frederick Klein, who has a large interest in the Bon Ton, spoke freely of the matter. He said:

"The Bon Ton Theater has never put out any posters that could be considered objectionable. Every sheet of paper placed about the city advertising performances at our house has been carefully examined before it is given into the hands of the bill poster, and none is issued that might shock those of the finest feelings."

"How about the pictures of women in tights?"

"We do not consider the pictures of women in tights immoral. Those that are put on the boards are reduced to the minimum of conspicuousness. They are not half as shocking as pictures of women showing their skirts raised. I have never heard a complaint of our pictures and the order issued is all wrong."

Gossip.

J. H. McNamara is advance agent for "Because She Loved Him So."

John Magle is in advance of the famous Whitney production of "Quo Vadis?"

Al H. Woods is in advance of Terry McGovern and "The Howery After Dark." Mr. Wood says that McGovern is in big success as an actor as a pugilist.

It is reported that the body of the late Charles Coghlan, which had rested in a receiving vault of Lakeview Cemetery, Galveston, Tex., was washed away by the recent storm and has not been recovered.

Louis Aldrich, who made a snug fortune in Bartley Campbell's play of Western mining life, "My Partner," and retired, is to revive the old drama next season and tour the country under the management of David Belasco.

A. M. McPhail, who was the general contracting agent for the Wallace Shows during the circus season about to close, is now agent for the Blaney & Vance Amusement Company, and is in advance of "A Female Drummer."

William Gibbons, advertising agent for the Pike Opera House, Cincinnati, was stricken with heart disease Saturday, Oct. 6, while engaged in taking tickets at the gallery door and died shortly after. He was about thirty years of age, and is survived by a wife and family.

George V. Hobart, the humorist, who has written the librettos of several musical comedy successes in recent years and also contributed letters written in the low Dutch dialect to one of the Eastern papers over the nom de plume of "Dinkelspiel," is confined to his home in New York City, and is reported in a serious condition as the result of overwork.

Col. John A. Hopkins, manager of Hopkins' Theater in Chicago, and of the Hopkins' theatrical agent is under arrest on a warrant sworn out by his wife, charging him with bigamy. The specific allegation in the complaint upon which the warrant was issued alleges that on Oct. 2 of this year, Col. Hopkins, being then married to Rosetta R. Hopkins, married and took to be his wife Jennie Gumpertz, alias Jennie Melville, of the vaudeville team of Melville and Stetson.

Anna Held is an adept in the art of advertising. At Paris she bought the finest trousseau of lingerie that was at the exposition. She paid $500 for it, and it took the first prize—the most exquisitely embroidered fine linen which the best looms of the world and the most expert needle-women of Europe could produce. She also bought the trousseau that received the second prize. This one was known as the "blue suit," on account of its wealth of blue ribbons, and cost $400. The cost of both was $1,213, a tidy sum, but a small part of the amount cleared by "Papa's Wife" last season.

Jennie Eddy, a neat little vaudevillian, is now making a tour in the West singingcoon songs, but next season is to star in her own show as the heroine of a melodrama. Her grandfather was Edwin Eddy, for years Edwin Booth's support, and Mrs. Judah, the leading stock actress in California twenty years ago, was her grandmother. "Bill" Worrell, the first American circus clown, was also her grandfather, and George S. Knight, of "Over the Garden Wall" fame, was her uncle. Irene Worrell and the famous Worrell sisters were Miss Eddy's aunts. The latter made her first appearance on the stage when she was but two years old. In her act she first appears without the black paint, and then for thecoon songs changes costume and hawks up in one minute and fifty-two seconds. She is assisted by two youthful Russian Jews, who take the part of pickaninnies.

Mlle. Adele Purvis Ori, the well-known vaudeville artist, who has created such a sensation on both continents in her quaint and unique Oriental juggling and dancing feats, while standing on a perpetual revolving ball, has been re-engaged for one more week at Hopkins' Grand Opera House, Memphis, Tenn. This will make her ninth week on the Hopkins' circuit. Mlle. Ori will then play four or five weeks of street carnivals. She is assisted by little Tsuda, in Japanese whirlwind tumbling. Mlle. Ori has also succeeded in securing Wilbur L. Ferris, the well-known expert electrician and promoter of new stage effects. Through Mr. Ferris, Mlle. Ori will have most beautiful stage settings.

Marens A. Mayer, erstwhile manager for Sarah Bernhardt, Adeline Patti and Olga Netherese, and now directing the tour of Mary Manning in "Janice Meredith," was in Toledo, O., Oct. 2, arranging for Miss Manning's engagement at the Valentine on Oct. 15 and 16. Mr. Mayer conducted Olga Netherese's tour last year in "Sapho," and at the close of the season he had to sue the actress for his compensation. He says he thinks that Mary Manning has a splendid play in the dramatization of "Janice Meredith."

Meridian, Miss., Mention.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—Business in general is good, and the weather is very warm. I have the following paper on my boards: Early Bird Tobacco, 10 8-sheets, 15 4-sheets, by Sam V. Hoke, of New York; Star Tobacco, 5 2-sheets, 10 12-sheets; Continental Tobacco Co. Mennen's Baby Powder, 15 8-sheets, by Van Beuren & Co.; Prickly Ash Bitters Co. 13 16-sheets, 12 5-sheet streamers, 100 sheets; Drummond's Natural Leaf, 15 sheets, 20 2-sheets, Continental Tobacco Co. Seeley & Co., New York; Key West Cheroot, 300 1-sheets. The Meridian Minstrels show here Oct. 4. Meridian is to enjoy another big fair Nov. 19 & 21. The fair managers say they will have the best fair ever held in this vicinity. Mr. Char. W. Bailey, secretary, and Mr. Sam Greenwald, president, are not letting anything go by that will please the people. The secretary is an accommodating and up-to-date gentleman, and would be pleased to hear from you people in all lines of business. Wishing you much success, yours truly,

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—As Sunbury has been represented in "The Billboard" by two local bill posters now for a distributor's showing, Sunbury is an up-to-date city, with a population of 12,000. It is the county seat of Northumberland County. Since September 1 I have put out for Will H. Molton, 16,000 pieces; Dr. Miles, 500 Boston Med. Inst., 4,000; Mother's Oats, 4,000; Kidneoids, 9,000; Hand's Medicine Co., 3,000; I have contracts at follows: 10,000 for Dr. Chase, 9,000 for Peruna Drug Co., 6,000 for Pink Pills, 10,000 for Foster-Milburn Co., 3,500 for Kondon Mfg. Co. I am also getting my merchants in the mood for distributing. I am trying to do my fellow-men good, and am gaining their confidence. This is my recipe for Confidence Pudding: Take 3 gallons of confidence, 1 peck of international agreement, 1 quart gold standard, 7 tablespoonsful of prosperity, 2 quarts of sound money and 1 pound of prosperity.
ALVIN N. WHITLOCK.

Newport, Ark., News.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—Since my last letter to you have posted 200 sheets for Prickly Ash Litter Company, 26 sheets for Friends' Oats, 200 sheets for Palmer's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," rented Prof. Gentry's Dog & Pony Show 600 sheets, through their agents, Primrose & Pemroy. Also distributed 1,500 books for Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. Please correct error which appeared in issue of Sept. 22. You have it, 100 sheets posted by John Robinson's Circus, and it should be 1,000. Enclose check for $5, which please forward to J. E. Howard, bill poster of Galveston, Tex. Trusting that many other bill posters will contribute, I am yours respectfully,
JOHN CLARIDGE.

Art in Vegetables.

High art in vegetables and fruits is a new industry. So far as is known, it has its origin in Chicago, and the first evidence of it has been observed in various shop windows and groceries of the Windy City. There are some artistic specimens in the shape of busts, agricultural implements and baskets formed of these materials have proved effective advertisements for the enterprising merchants. The creators of these novelties are three young men with a knowledge of art and sculpture. In one window a good representative of an old feudal baron was shown. Green corn formed the ear, with parsley in the interstices, formed the neck, shoulders, breast and arms, and radishes served as bulbous red buttons. A cabbage was the head, bunches of grapes the hair, plums the eyes, potatoes the nose and ears, a slit in the cabbage was the mouth, and corn silk was employed as beard. At a distance of perhaps twenty-five feet it looked not unlike the real article. It took the young men about an hour to erect it, and they received $2 for their trouble.

MAGNETIC TACK HAMMERS!

Just the thing for tacking in and card board signs. Every distributor should have one. Pliers, with double-extension handle, 2 inches long, each, $2.00; triple-extension handles, 2 inches long, each, $2.25. Send the money with the order. None sent C. O. D. THE DONALDSON LITHO. CO., Newport, Ky.

BILL POSTING BRAINS.

It has been claimed that the members of the Board of Directors of the Associated Bill Posters are appointed to their positions by virtue of the fact that they are the actual brains of the business. And it is further understood that most of these exalted luminaries manage to hang on to their high official niches from year to year because they have consummated a rubber-tired, automobile corner on the "grey matter" market.

Though there is less truth than humor in these assertions, they afford an interesting study. Think, for instance, what a tremendous strain on the mental equilibrium of this little bunch there must be, when they are constantly engaged in fixing up each other's crooked fences. And what if, now and then, the overweening spirit of selfishness should cause these amiable gentlemen to jolt up against each other, half-accidentally, and a few pints of brains are scattered around like rice at a wedding? Oh! that matters not, for these mighty magnates have brains to burn and blow away.

Yet, according to an eminent physiologist, their cornered brain-power is slightly congested and individually defective; in other words, weak in spots. This same authority is responsible for the information that both lobes in the thinking apparatus of a certain dwarfish New York bill posting boss have permanently bulged out his forehead front beyond all hat-fitting proportions. Another big, fat New Yorker is said to garnish his brains at will into a mask, which fits into his handsome face unobservedly. The bumps on the head of the Chicago crowd-eater, whose bluff anger can rise to such a strident pitch that he is frequently in danger of swallowing his false teeth, are pronounced to be swelling sore-spots resulting from the many falls he experienced by being tossed into the air.

A large slice of brains was chopped off that magnetic circle of the magnates when two time-honored members of the directors' board were heartlessly deposited at Atlantic City.

Yet competent observers are of the opinion that the brain market would scarcely fluctuate if five more of these self-glorifiers were to drop into oblivion. Their substitutes would have little difficulty at least in bringing more honor, fair-mindedness and genuine merit to the executive councils.

Listen to the following remarks from "The Ohio Merchant," published at Cleveland, O., in regard to the recent bill board crusade in the Forest City:

"A nonsensical and unjust warfare is being waged in Cleveland against bill boards. Not long ago an ordinance was passed by the city council prohibiting the erection of any bill board containing more than fifty square feet, and within the past week several arrests have been made for violations of this enactment. The validity of the ordinance is to be tested in the courts. We predict that ultimately the owners of the bill boards will win. The ordinance itself is a direct violation of the rights of property. If the city council is vested with the authority to limit the size of bill boards, erected upon private property, it also has the authority to prescribe the dimensions of every building which may be put up in Cleveland. No one will admit this for a minute. A man has the right to do what he pleases with his own, provided always that he does not maintain a public nuisance. A property owner has just as much right to lease or to sell his land for the erection of a bill board as he has for the building of a business block or a private residence. It is simply a question of negotiation between the property owner and the bill poster. With that question neither the city council nor the public have anything to do. That there is a demand for bill boards is proved by their extensive and constantly increasing use, and among the most liberal patrons of this form of advertising are the manufacturers and sellers of food products. The Cleveland ordinance would practically bar, not only all wholesale grocers, but all other advertisers from seeking publicity by this means, because the smallest posters in use are 10 by 7 1/2 feet in dimensions, and those ordinarily employed are 20 by 9 1/2 feet. No food manufacturer, wholesale grocer, theatrical manager, or any other business man doing general advertising, could afford to have separate posters 5 by 7 feet, especially printed to fit the boards stipulated by the Cleveland ordinance. Consequently, this city would have to be passed by and all retail dealers would suffer because of the advertising which nearly every new food product receives on the bill boards. This warfare is being carried on by one or two daily newspapers which have the mistaken idea that their advertising business is being injured by the bill posters, and by a few cranks who claim that their delicate and aesthetic senses are offended by the displays on the boards.

Dr. Griffith, the popular bill poster of Greensboro, N. C., is a dentist by profession, having graduated from a college in Philadelphia in 1877. Besides the regular practice of his profession, in which he was engaged for years at Greensboro, he also managed the opera house. Something over a year ago he entered the outdoor advertising business, in which he has justly won distinction. The doctor is a native of North Carolina, and is about forty-two years of age.

Comments.

Fresh opposition is developing in a number of towns. Gude can not always tout himself as the personification of good nature.

Harvey B. Smith, of Washington Court House, O., was a "billboard" czar Oct. 9.

Another fake circus agent has been captured in Tennessee. Sam Houston, please take notice.

'Tis said that among thieves even there is a moral obligation of honor. So why not among solicitors?

Charles Filbrick, of Buffalo, N. Y., is mourning the loss of a little daughter, who died very suddenly.

A rumor reached this office last week that J. Harold Carroll had made good the last of his shortage to the association.

It is quietly whispered that Sam W. Hoke cut quite a big chunk of ice in connection with the squabble for membership at Des Moines.

The Purcell Mill & Elevator Company, Purcell, Ind., is using one-sheet ads to advertise Dr. Frank's Baking Powder and High Patent Flour.

Many of the "small fry" bill posters who signed the protective protest are beginning to feel that they were roped in, and are exceedingly sorry.

Rumors says that Fitch is trying to collect the second installment for the protective project. Quite a number have failed to pay the first installment yet.

It is rumored that Gude had Ramsey appointed a member of the executive committee because of his enviable reputation for paying his debts promptly.

Gossips say that Beall was promised an interest in "Uncle Billy" Moore's plant at Des Moines if he succeeded in delivering the goods at the Council Bluffs meeting. He fought like an Apache, but failed.

W. S. Pruden, formerly city bill poster of Geneva, O., who recently removed to Savannah, Ga., has purchased a half-interest in the bill posting plant at Mobile, Ala., and will remove there some time this month.

Harvey Smith brought a red light with him from Washington Court House on his recent visit to Cincinnati, and exhibited it night and day. Several town companies also contributed their share of illuminating paint.

The society for the promotion of the "obligation of honor" is said to have been originated for the purpose of shielding and protecting the rate-cutting magnates who dwell within the narrow little circle of the bosses.

"Uncle Billy" Moore, of Des Moines, Ia., made application for membership in the Iowa Bill Posters' Association on Feb. 3 last and again on Sept. 11. On both occasions, however, he received the deaf ear and maroon front.

The signing of the "obligation of honor" by Roaring Robert was an event that should have been celebrated in jangling verse and commemorated in monumental brass. No wonder Paul Schaeffer took sick and "Deacon Burr" is willing to sell out.

Frank Chamberlin's circuit of opera houses is located in the following Iowa and Illinois towns: Davenport, Burlington, Peoria, Keokuk, Iowa City, Quincy, Hannibal, Council Bluffs, Ottumwa, Melrose, Galesburg. No wonder Beall fought him tooth and nail.

That superabundance of good nature which exudes from the general front of Oscar Gude, more or less superficially, has been envied and admired by thousands, and few indeed are they who have been able even occasionally to cause him to drop these precious characteristics.

M. M. Irwin has sold his plant at Fremont, Neb., to A. A. Nehrbes, who is assisting Miss Para Love to manage her own theater. Nehrbes has joined the Tri-State Association, and is putting up some new boards. He is said to have $20,000 to back him up, and will soon have the best line of boards in the country for a town of 12,000. He promises to give satisfaction to all.

It must jolt the jaws of the bosses to be compelled to accept an insert advertisement for their official organ from N. W. Ayer & Son, one side of which is devoted to a series of strong arguments, supplemented by paternal potency, in favor of the newspaper method of advertising. And the picture primer is supposed to "talk bill posting" and not to do else. How about this, Mr. Fitch?

"Caught with the Camera" is the title of a very pretty and interesting brochure which was especially designed for "The Billboard" by Fred Corbett, city bill poster of Emporia, Kan. It contains photos and condensed descriptions of the recent Emporia Street Fair, which, however, failed to meet with the success that it deserved and was anticipated, on account of the stormy weather.

Harry Steops now occupies one of the in the Southern Hotel building, and Harry's sweetest offices in Chattanooga. He is located with his bill stickers and hand-some office furniture has just moved in. Some circus agents say that the genial Harry looks like a high-born, foreign potentate as he sits at his desk behind three rows of brass railings. That's right, Steops; give your business the dignity it deserves.

The Illinois State Bill Posters' Association held its annual convention on Sept. 27 in the office of W. J. Horn, in Springfield, Ill. After the routine business was transacted, officers for the ensuing year were elected. W. J. Horn was made president; O. J. Johnson, of Galesburg, vice president; H. C. Campbell, of Chicago, secretary, and Frank P. Myers, of Danville, treasurer. The meeting was attended by thirty delegates.

It is said that legal steps will be taken to remove the seal of the University of Chicago from a brand of Philadelphia whisky. Recently officials of the university discovered that the official seal, which is stamped on all the diplomas of the graduates and on all university legal papers, had been adopted for advertising purposes by the Lawrence McCormick Distilling Company, of Philadelphia.

At the annual meeting of the Iowa State Association, held in Council Bluffs, Sept. 28, the franchise for the city of Des Moines was given the Iowa Posting Service. "Uncle Billy" Moore was up there, and is reported to have taken his defeat very nicely. He is a clever old gentleman, and certainly has done the best he could for Des Moines, but under very adverse conditions.

According to a Chicago special, the report of the investigation of the inspectors who have been taking the measurements of the bill boards in the districts for the past two weeks is being made out. The principal violators of the ordinance are said to be the American Bill Posting Service, the Gunning system, the Curran system and several of the large opera house owners. The report will be given to the city collector, who will proceed to collect the amount per square foot of fine prescribed by the ordinance.

Owners of the bill boards throughout the city of Cleveland were brought before the board of equalization recently and questioned in regard to the value of their signs. On investigation it was discovered that the bill board men had never paid a cent of tax for their boards, though many of the larger signs cost several hundred dollars to build. President G. W. Beck, of the board, said: "The bill boards of this city will go on the tax list for at least $15,000. It has been an oversight that the property of these companies has not been placed on the tax list before."

It is said that Ned Donnelly, of Boston, and Charlie Ames, of Providence, are having their hands full trying to straighten out the bill posting squabbles in the New England States. Recent reports indicate that the Springfield Bill Posting Company, of Springfield, Mass., insists on erecting their opposition against Eske Bros., of Worcester, while over in Connecticut, Jennings Bros., of Bridgeport, have established an opposition against the association member in Hartford. If Sam Pratt don't keep his eyes sharply peeled slyly in LaSalle to start an opposition in New Haven, then look out for squalls, for such a bird will not avoid the liver of the bosses.

That "obligation of honor" business, which the official solicitors of the association have been called upon to sign, is the richest and rarest joke that the bill posting fraternity and the general advertisers have ever been invited to laugh at. Credit Roaring Robert with its authorship, just to preserve the properties, and you have the ground-work for a most risible farce, especially so, in the light of his Snyder-Catsup experience of a few years ago.

Says a California exchange: "The San Francisco ordinance ostensibly directed at high bill board fences, is as funny as a dwarf seven feet high. It limits such fences to a height of twenty feet. Had a provision been inserted requiring them to be not less than ten feet high, the thing would have been rounded out as a practical joke on the public. The sardonic humor of the thing lies in the fact that this ordinance was framed in response to a popular demand for the restriction of bill board fences to a height of five feet. So far as the objectionable features of the nuisance are concerned, it matters little whether the fence be twenty or thirty feet high. The San Francisco public is simply being "joshed" by the board of supervisors."

"The Alliance," a Republican weekly, published at Valley City, N. D., recently contained the following: "A local bill poster ordered from the Donaldson Lithograph Company, Newport, Ky., twenty-four McKinley and Roosevelt and twelve Bryan and Stevenson posters, 28 by 42 inches. He sold the McKinley and Roosevelt posters for $1.50 before he had taken them from the express office. The Bryan and Stevenson posters he tried to sell to the local Democratic club for $2.50. They said they'd take them and they were left for a week with the bill, but when they found out that the State Contract Commission was sending posters out free, of course they hedged, and the bill poster sold the whole wed for $1 to a Republican farmer and thanks his lucky stars he was able to get rid of 'em for that money."

The venerable "Van" and the slippery Sam are preparing to swallow a little indigestible morsel of litigation not usually found on their bill of fare. Guy O. Ackerman, formerly manager of the New Haven Bill Posting Company, has instituted a suit for $5,000 against his erstwhile employers to recover damages for alleged slander. The plaintiff alleges that on June 29 last at New York the defendants published in a letter addressed to George Arents, Jr., manager of the all-tobacco department of the American Tobacco Company at 111 Fifth Avenue, the following words concerning the plaintiff: "Mr. G. O. Ackerman, who was connected with us for several years in New York, and for the past two years and a half in New Haven as manager of our business there, misappropriated our funds to his own use in New Haven during the past eight months, amounting to a sum over $2,000." The said publication is pronounced false and defamatory and the plaintiff says he has been seriously damaged by the publication. Ackerman purchased the bill posting business from Joseph Blakeslee and later on a company was formed composed of Van Buren, Pratt & Ackerman. The first two furnished the capital, and Ackerman, who is an experienced man, took charge of the business. He was to receive in addition to a salary a percentage of the profits and was to pay a certain amount each week for stock in the concern. Ackerman claims he lived up to his part of the contract.

Bogus Agent Arrested.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 5 (Special)—A man giving his name as Sterns was arrested on board the Alabama Great Southern train at the Central Depot here last night, just before it pulled out for Birmingham. The arrest was made by the police at the instance of J. M. J. Kane, general press agent of the John Robinson Show. Sterns was lodged in jail, and the police believe they have made an important capture. On the afternoon of October 4 a strange man called at the Chattanooga Feed Company's office and introduced himself as S. C. Sterns, and stated that he was the general agent for Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, and wanted to make a contract for feed. The proprietor, Bart Glenn, immediately commenced to talk business with the fellow and succeeded in obtaining an order for the following amount of feedstuff: 300 bushels of oats, 20 tons of hay, 3 tons of chopped feed, 3 tons of bran. The Forepaugh and Sells Circus, which played here only a few days ago, only used $168 worth of feed, and the Robinson Circus only uses $250 worth of feed. But Sterns' bill amounted to $800, and is enough to feed the animals of every circus on the road for one day. After taking such a big order, Mr. Glenn began to get suspicious, and told the man to get a contract and sign for the feed. He began to look in his pockets and could not find his papers, but left and said he would go to the hotel, procure them and return shortly. He left the store and went to the South Chattanooga Savings Bank and there got the young lady stenographer to write out a contract. He then returned to the store and signed up the contract. It is said that he borrowed some money from Mr. Glenn on the strength of the contract. At any rate, after he left the store Mr. Glenn became more suspicious than ever and telephoned to Harry Steeps, the city bill poster, for information, and asked if Buffalo Bill's agent was in town, whereupon Mr. Steeps said if he was he knew nothing at all of it. At the same time Mr. Steeps received the telephone message, Mr. Kane was present and said he could lay his hands on the man in short order. It was then that the two proceeded to the Central Depot, procured a policeman, and began a search of the trains. The much-wanted man was found asleep aboard the Alabama Great Southern train, which was about to pull out for Birmingham. He was promptly arrested and taken to police headquarters, where he registered as Sterns, refusing to divulge his initials. Mr. Kane stated positively that Sterns has never been connected with any show. He said that Louis E. Cook, general agent of Buffalo Bill's Show, had several months ago offered $100 for his arrest. He states that the man has several aliases, viz: Day, Franklin, Clark and Sterns. Continuing, Mr. Kane said: "I was arrested in Nashville by the fellow and was told by him that he was the agent for Robinson's Circus. I saw that he was a smooth fellow. I showed him who I was, and at the same time told him he had better watch out. When I heard of his work here I well knew who to look for." Sterns will be held by the police.

In the Circus Green Room.

In an extended article about circus women, particularly those with the Ringling Shows, a writer in the San Francisco "Bulletin" says: Down with the ignorant, the out-of-date cynic! Verily, I know of many a circus woman who, instead of being befriended by the long distance of tent and forums, could well meet the critical, double-barreled stare of opera glasses and lorgnette. But the most surprising of the revelations of the circus green-room is that which contradicts preconceived notions as to woman's inability to keep the peace when living close to many feminine neighbors. One would hardly recommend the circus dressing-room as just the place for a lecture in masculinity tenacious of arguments belittling womankind. But imagine, if you can, twenty-two women in this one tent, each of them possessed of just enough space for her trunk and a few feet of standing room beside it. Imagine each of these stripping herself with an unconscious, business-like, almost childish lack of shame, and changing her clothes with a quick, practiced hand, sometimes but once, oftener twice and three times during the performance. Yet never a hint of disorder in these close quarters; and, stranger still, never a hint of discrimination. Madame Noble, who rides so superbly the great white bucking stallion, has her corner for her trunk and her few feet of space not a whit more advantageously chosen than her less talented sisters of the ring. No leading lady's private dressing-room. No leading lady's prerogatives. Nary a maid for any of these litherlimbed women, who button their bodices in the back, and who slip off their own "slippers"—sort of rude sandal worn over the delicate kid slippers in the dressing-room to protect them from the dirt—at the entrance to the ring, and slip them on again as, flushed and panting, they come from seven to ten minutes of hard, hard work in the ring. You'll not get one of these women to admit that she feels the smallest pang of apprehension when the whistle blows and her turn comes to pass through the narrow canyons corridor to the entrance where the horses wait maddly in and out. Allie Jackson leans over to pat her great chestnut, Mizpah, which she has ridden for eight years. Miss Johnson draws on her white gaiters; McLeary, the rider in yellow satin with a dozen bumps, white puttees short enough for a girl of ten, tucks her bodice where her money is pinned in a chaotic bag.

Madame Fischer, of the strong jaw, rubs her little feet in the chalk-box. Little Oko, her small, brown fist clutching the dime some friend has given her, bends her supple little body back and forth in quick, impromptu rehearsal. Madlle Tournour adjusts her satin cleak which she is to drop a moment later when she reaches the middle ring. Only Madame Noble, as she mounts the big white stallion as lightly as a sea-gull takes position on the waves of the bay, glances out of the corner of her eye at the unfriendly animal's great, sullen eye, and then is led off toward the ring, where the treacherous stallion, who she always distrusts, behaves like the gentlest of Shetlands under the threat of her voice and her whip.

Training of Dogs.

"The training of dogs does not begin with their puppyhood, as some persons may suppose," says Fred Herbert, whose troupe of trained animals has delighted large audiences in all parts of the country. "A dog is much like a child, and I find success in treating it in the same way. A child learns to talk or walk by constant repetition of words or by constantly being shown how to do a thing, and it is much the same with a dog. You can not teach a small baby to walk any more than you can teach a puppy to become a good acting dog. Of course, the puppy may learn some things, but I find that dogs are best trained after they reach their growth, and that is at the age of a year and a half or two years. Patience is required, and no whipping—only kindness. It is a mistake to think that dogs can be trained by constant whipping. The whip is only used as a means of punishment after they have learned a trick, and then because of some bad habit which the dog may pick up. The time of training depends much on the intelligence of the dog."

Pointing to a snaggy black dog, Mr. Herbert said it took him six months of constant work to teach that little fellow to die when he shoots him with a pistol. The dog drops at the sound of the shot, and not before. Then he wriggles about the stage in realistic convulsive death throes, and finally sinks down with a snarl, apparently lifeless. To teach another dog to climb a ladder which extends to the top of the theater and dive from a platform at the top into a net held by four men required less time than for the other trick, because the dog seemed to take to the work at once. It is Mr. Herbert's belief that any dog can be trained in some way. In his experience of over a quarter of a century with his trained pets he says he has found but one that he could not teach something. That one used to drop asleep and fall off its chair when sitting in the circle of performers, until its trainer gave it up as a bad job.

The trend of dog matters not to Mr. Herbert, who gets just as much success from thoroughbreds as from mongrels, although the latter are supposed to be brighter. He picks up dogs here and there, sometimes paying a fancy price for what proves to be a worthless dog or buying a bright animal for a small sum. He does not breed his dogs, except one variety of Spanish poodles, of which he is said to be the sole owner in this country. The youngest member of this family, a little fellow, rides upon the stage in a baby carriage pushed by another dog in nurse's costume. The smallest member of this intelligent family of dogs is a little black and tan that looks like a toy. Excellent care is taken of the dogs, to which is attributed the good health of some of the performers who have been retired from active service at twenty-five years of age. Trained dogs live longer than any others, says Mr. Herbert, and he knows of only one that ever went mad. His hands and arms and those of the two men who travel with him to take care of his pets show many scars from bites and scratches, but no serious trouble has ever resulted from these injuries. Every other day, no matter what the condition of the weather, all the dogs get a bath in warm water and soapuds. When they come out of the bath, seven or eight are huddled upon a blanket, with another blanket tucked about them, when body heat soon dries their wet coats. Their diet is varied from dog biscuit to soup, and includes vegetables. That the dogs are happy and well treated is shown by the briskness with which they do their tricks as they are called out upon the stage and by that infallible thermometer of dog feeling—an upheld tail.

Horse shows are very popular events wherever they are given, and as the fancy for fine stables is on the increase in this country, they will continue for many years to satisfy both society and a horse-loving public. In England, where the horse-show idea came from, it has become as much a part of the calendar as the seasons, and there is nothing talked about in the British Isles except the coming horse shows. In America there is nothing more pleasing to any society or public than a good, up-to-date horse show, and these to be held at Chicago, Ill.; Louisville, Ky.; Kansas City, Mo.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Atlanta, Ga.; Des Moines, Ia.; Goshen, N. Y.; Morristown, N. J.; Winston-Salem, N. C., are assured successes.

W. E. Franklin is negotiating with John Philip Sousa. If the outcome is successful, Sousa's Band will be heard and appreciated by an entirely new set and the cause of good music will receive great support among the masses.

Robinson's Circus gave two most enjoyable performances at Richmond, Va., Oct. 1 and two immense audiences applauded the various features of the entertainment. There were no special "headliners" but as a real, old-fashioned circus performer the show was a success.

The Sells-Forepaugh Show played to enormous business throughout the South, reaching beyond the limit of their canvas almost everywhere. Especial red-letter days were those at Knoxville, Chattanooga and Birmingham. Moreover, the show gave universal satisfaction and won column after column of the most flattering press notices.

Owing to a bad haul at Lawrence, Kan., Buffalo Bill's Wild West did not arrive at Emporia, Kan., Oct. 2 until 1 o'clock p. m., and of course failed to give the afternoon performance. At night, however, they played to a packed canvas. The whole adjacent country was in attendance, as two of the best parades of the street fair were held over till that day.

The employes of Forepaugh and Sells Bros. Circus celebrated a wedding at the show grounds in Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 3. One of the circus queens was married to a "king of the air." The entire army of employes were present, and the ceremony was one of the most interesting circus features ever seen. A Justice of the Peace united the "blushing bride" and "the handsome bridegroom" under the spreading canvas, while the clowns and freaks of all sorts added their felicitations. There was quite a celebration at the expense of the management. The bridal tour was begun with the trip to Knoxville with the circus.

A C. Wilson, writing from New Ulm, Minn., says: "I am pleased to inform you that Rio Grande Bill's Wild West has just finished an engagement with the fair at New Ulm, where we were treated like princes by the secretary and treasurer of the association. The last day of the fair was Saturday, Sept. 22, and at 7 o'clock it began raining and continued all day. The next day being Sunday and New Ulm being an "open" town, about eighty miles from Minneapolis, we proposed to play the whole attraction of twenty-one arts free of charge. The day opened beautifully. We made a full street parade in costume about noon and at 2 p. m. we had 2,000 people on the grounds."

Says the Antigo (Wis.) Republican: "In the balmy month of May an aggregation under the mysterious cognomen of B. B. & H., took the road for fame and fortune. But, alas! Wet days and dry days were too much for the boys, and in two months this embryo circus returned with its management sadder, wiser and poorer, and, although it was painted a decided blue it returned bluer than it had left. History sometimes repeats itself, and Antigo has a case in point. In the early days of September a second B. B. & H. aggregation was launched and many a one concerned viewed its prospects through rose-colored glasses. But again two months will see the end and again this second B. B. & H. will disband, sadder, wiser and bluer if possible than the first. This last is not a circus—such an insinuation would be unkind—the initials simply are used to designate the Bryan, Bohmrich and Hill Club organized some time since, and the above is merely a prophecy."

There is a curious murder case in Washington, D. C. James C. Lanckton, alias J. C. Long, who is described on the circus posters as "the American Hercules," is accused of taking the life of a woman named Bettie L. Wren, with whom he had relations, and the only witness is her sister, a paralytic, who can not write, talk, hear or walk. She was an absolutely helpless creature. She was in the room at the time Lanckton is supposed to have committed the assault from which the woman died, but there is no way by which she can communicate her knowledge. Lanckton is somewhere in the neighborhood of sixty-five years of age, and has performed in circuses for thirty-six years with the exception of six years, when he served as a soldier during the war in the Ninth Indiana Infantry, having enlisted at Logansport. He has been with every circus of fame since he was a boy—with John Robinson, Dan Rice, Barnum, and during the present summer with Forepaugh. He has been celebrated for feats of strength, and balances a plow on his chin, has lifted two horses, and was famous as a cannon-ball tosser. He has appealed to the Grand Army of the Republic to come to his relief. His case is now being investigated.

A Circus Clown.

The circus clown dates his origin back to the very beginning of the circus itself, and from time immemorial he has been one of the most important features. During the growth, development and improvement he has by no means been left behind. He is funnier now, and can do more tricks than ever before. In the old days one clown sufficed to satisfy the demands of the show-goers, but now it takes twenty-five to forty of them for the big circuses. Nowadays the clown who could not do anything but grin and drive a donkey that played a tattoo with his hind heels on the dashboard of a little cart, could not get a job in ten years. He has to be versatile or look for some other position. Clowns have to be great masters in the "knockabout" act. If they were not, there would be a few dozen broken bones every afternoon and evening. The more kicks, blows and knock-downs the clown receives, the greater the glee and happiness of the audience. So the gentle jester must be a past master in the art of falling down and pretending to give and receive bone-breaking blows. Sometimes the pretense goes wrong, and the real thing has to take its place. The clown resorts to the science of padding. He puts enough pads underneath his loose-fitting garments to protect him even in a railroad wreck. When thus accoutred the clown is beaten, kicked and clubbed until the audience shrieks itself into tears, and the clown is none the worse off. But the acrobatic work is only a small part of the clown's performance. You can scarcely find a humorous phase of life which the clowns do not touch, or a heroic feature which they do not brutesque. Every character of any interest whatever is imitated—politicians, publicists, capitalists, speakers, musicians and artists are given attention which delights the crowd, for one of the things which most pleases an American audience is to see some one else made fun of. So popular have become the clown features of a big circus that men are beginning to have rivals and competitors in the field that are not to be sneered at.

Christian Endeavorers.

The Christian Endeavorers, of Cincinnati, are much pleased over their success in securing the next international convention. This great gathering, which will bring about 50,000 visitors to the Queen City, is practically assured, the only condition made by the International Executive Committee being that satisfactory arrangements shall be made with the railroads. Cincinnati cinched her reputation with religious conventions by the low rates given by the railroads to the Baptists and Christians in their great conventions last October and July, and it is safe to say that the gathering of Endeavorers next July will not only be the largest religious convention ever held in Cincinnati, but the largest convention of any kind, with the exception of the Grand Army of the Republic. The total membership of the International Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor numbers more than 3,000,000. There are six branches, as follows: The Young People's, which is the parent organization; the Junior, the Intermediate, the Mothers, the Senior and the Parents. Of these there are about 42,000 societies in the United States, about 3,800 in Canada and 12,000 in foreign lands. Such an organization can easily get up a convention of 50,000 people, and in several instances the attendance has gone over 70,000. The central location of Cincinnati will insure a good crowd, although the fact that the last convention was held at London, England, will hurt the Queen City, as many of those who would have come next year spent so much on the trip to the old country that they will not feel able to make another trip so soon.

An Aerial Duel.

One of the most curious of duels was the "balloon duel" in France, which was fought in 1808. The combatants were M. de Grandpre and M. le Pique, who had quarreled about a lady, of course. This lady was one Mlle. Tirevit, an actress of the Imperial Opera. On the appointed day M. de Grandpre entered the car of one balloon with his second, and M. le Pique, with his second, mounted the other in the Garden of the Fountains, before an immense crowd of admiring spectators. When all was ready the ropes were cut, and the balloons shot upward to a distance of about half a mile above the earth. The wind being light, they were able to keep the distance of about eighty yards between each other with which they started. On reaching the agreed altitude the signal to fire was given. M. le Pique missed, but M. de Grandpre's ball went through the silk of the other balloon, which immediately collapsed. The car descended with frightful velocity, and both M. le Pique and his second were dashed to pieces. The balloon of the victor continued to ascend, and M. le Grandpre came back to earth some leagues from Paris.

Poultry Exhibits.

Why does a fancier exhibit? Does he exhibit for the sake of showing his birds to the fowl-loving public, deriving no benefit from it? Or perhaps to pay entry fees, thus helping the show along? No; a genuine fancier exhibits not at a small county fair where the competition is possibly nothing more than Hung-hill birds and mud-hole ducks. Where the committee selects as judges three or four farmers who pass their judgment on and give the nicest looking bird (in their estimation) a first-premium card; shape and color not considered. For their pay, they (the judges) are invited to dinner and perhaps a glass of pop. Remember now, in the above I am not bearing reference to State fairs. No, again, an ideal fancier exhibits at a city show where there is strong competition, whether it be a comparison or score card show. It will be in some variety or section the keenest of the keen. A fancier exhibits to win for one thing; and if he is a fancier of the "fancier type" and don't exhibit at least one show each winter, the first thing you will hear is, "Oh, he is a 'has been,'" or, he is afraid of bucking up against the real thing. Now, as birds are near perfection, and after a breeder devotes his time to selecting, yarding, rearing, culling and taking risks and trouble incident thereto, he is surely entitled to suitable compensation in the show room, and he will be rewarded if his stock can stand the competition of any show room to-day, as each year finds it "hotter." It can not be too strongly impressed that a fancier can not reap where he has not sown; that is another reason why he exhibits; because, if he exhibits winning birds at a good show, the return will be the exact, if not more in proportion, what he expended in express, entry fees, etc. The fancier exhibits to advertise, to sell, to educate beginners, to get his name established as a reliable breeder and the fan-cier that is honestly working for name linked with better birds, and an exhibitor's share of ribbons, keeps continually at it. He should not exhibit one winter and miss the next; if he did, some other enterprising fancier would receive more orders. Exhibiting is an indication that your stock will stand competition; that you sell eggs from the bird you exhibit, (not borrowed) bred and own. The names of prominent exhibitors stand as pre-eminence as do the exhibitors of fine horses at New York, Chicago or Pittsburg. A fancier should wish to advertise, so let us pass to advertising. Why does a fancier advertise? This may be answered comparatively well by, why should he not? Persons of other vocations advertise. There are poultry journals and papers devoted to poultry as are papers devoted to other business. Making glassware is art; breeding fancy poultry is art; a fancier does not have to advertise in newspapers, (although I have a magazine in which there appeared last summer a large poultry advertisement of a breeder of one variety). A genuine fancier selects a good, clean, up-to-date paper, and let me say right here, that some fanciers may be alarmed at the rapid growth of poultry papers in this country, fearing that they spring up so suddenly that they can not exist. Nonsense—the more good new poultry papers, the better; something new is found in all papers and journals. This country to-day is so far in advance of others that we can not afford to let the poultry press take a back seat. They are the energy of the show room, the fancier's guide; they are his best advertising medium, by which he makes his sales; and you will notice that some fanciers try to keep their names before the public, for, as P. T. Barnum said, "stick-to-it-iveness" will bring you out in advance of others. Advertise, and advertise you must. Noah of sold was a great advertiser; he advertised for weeks that on a certain day he would sail for somewhere in the unknown waters (to come) in his large boat, the "Ark," and to purchase tickets early and avoid the rush. Those who did not believe in advertising failed to secure tickets and consequently were left in the water for forty days; perhaps without umbrellas or even bathing suits, as it were; the most of them could not swim, so took to the trees and are supposed to be sitting there yet waiting the appearance of an advertisement stating the boat would return. They will, it is hoped, read the advertisement with interest.

Moral: Advertise, read other advertisements, buy and then exhibit.

East Liverpool, O.

Notes.

Effingham, Ill., held a successful street fair Oct. 4 to 7.

The Barton County Fair was held Oct. 3 to 5 at Great Bend, Kan.

The Elks of Decatur, Ill., will give a street fair, commencing Oct. 15.

The Whitman County Fair, held at Colfax, Wash., was a great event.

The national council of women will meet at Minneapolis, Oct. 23 to 25.

The Terre Haute (Ind.) Street Fair will be the best ever given at that place.

The North Yakima (Wash.) Fair was one of encouraging success in every way.

The annual street carnival at Spartanburg, S. C., will take place Oct. 22 to 27.

A Merchants' and Farmers' Carnival will be held at Cordele, Ga., Oct. 10 to 12.

Cincinnati gets the International Christian Endeavor Convention in August, 1901.

The Merchants' Carnival at Bennington, Vt., Sept. 21 and 22 drew large crowds.

The Elks of Piqua, O., are arranging to hold a street fair in that city Oct. 22 to 27.

The Coshocton (O.) County Fair will be held Oct. 9 to 12. Robert Boyd is secretary.

The county fair at Findlay, O., Sept. 18 to 22, drew good crowds. The vaudeville bill was fair.

The York County Agricultural Society held its annual exhibition at York, Pa., on Oct. 2 to 6, with great success.

The Royal Marine Band of Italy has been engaged for the Spokane (Wash.) Industrial Exposition, Oct. 2 to 16.

The St. John (N. B.) Exhibition Association closed the most successful fair ever held under its auspices, Sept. 19.

All preparations for the Gainesville (Tex.) Street Fair are now complete, and it promises to be a great success.

The East Carolina Fish, Oyster, Game and Industrial Association will hold a fair at New Bern, N. C., Nov. 12 to 17.

Dr. G. W. Nye is connected with Col. I. N. Fiske in the promotion of the latter's street fair and carnival enterprises.

A great success is expected of the Crawfordsville (Ind.) Street Fair and Corn Carnival, to be held Oct. 15 to 20.

A Carnival of Nations will be held next April by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles, Cal.

Great preparations are under headway for the big cattle show, to be held in the stock yards at Chicago, Ill., in December.

The Kiteak County Fair, held at Pleasant Beach, Wash., Sept. 14 and 15, was a success in every particular except attendance.

The Chambersburg (Pa.) Street Fair, held Sept. 18 to 20, went off with a whirl. The attractions were good, and tremendous crowds were in attendance.

The movement for establishment of a fair at Platteville, Wis., is likely to be successful. The plan is to organize with not less than $10,000 cash capital.

The Macon (Ga.) Street and Agricultural Fair opened Sept. 21 with bright prospects. The week was filled up with numerous amusements to entertain the crowd.

The Yarmouth (N. Y.) Agricultural Society held their annual fair last week. One of the special attractions was Prof. Hampton and his troupe of trained dogs and cats.

The Willimantic (Conn.) Fair, Sept. 23 to 27, was largely attended. The business men failed to take interest in the fair this year, so it was not so attractive as in former years.

Preparations for the horse show to be given by the Orange Riding and Driving Club in the club house on Halsted street, East Orange, N. J., on Oct. 25 to 27, are now in progress.

Representatives of social organizations of Illinois outlined plans for the horse show to be held at the Coliseum, Chicago, Ill., Oct. 29 to Nov. 3. Headquarters will be opened at the Leland Hotel.

The forty-sixth annual session of the International Typographical Union is now a part of history. We now begin to gather matter for the forty-seventh, which will be held in Birmingham, Ala., in August, 1901.

The Elks' carnival and street fair at Memphis, Tenn., last week was a gigantic success, financially and artistically. The New England Carnival Company supplied the Midway attractions, and played to $15,000 on the week.

Col. I. N. Fiske, the well-known street fair promoter, has entirely recovered from the surgical operation he underwent at Toledo, O. He lost thirty-seven pounds, but still looks fine. He was a "Billboard" caller Oct. 6.

A sportsmen's carnival will be held at Chicago, Ill., early in February. Some of the most prominent business men of Chicago are backing the project. The idea is to have a great exhibition of game, fish and sportsmen's goods.

The directors of the Palestine (Tex.) Fair Association met recently and perfected arrangements for the coming fair to be held there Oct. 16 to 19. Numerous prizes were offered for the races, which will be the best seen in East Texas.

A large mineral display will be made at the Alabama State Fair, to be held in Birmingham, Nov. 1 to 10, and it is intended to preserve the display and send it to Buffalo next year for exhibition at the Pan-American Exposition in that city.

The Nashville (N. Y.) Street Fair and Fall Carnival, Oct. 9 to 20, promises to be the best ever held there. L. C. Garrabrant is chairman of arrangements for the Retail Merchants' Association, and he is sparing no pains or expense to have the best attractions obtainable.

Al Zeno, a contortionist engaged in playing county fairs, and a girl named Daisy Cole, whom he had induced to leave her home in Athens County, were arrested at Chillicothe, O., and taken to Athens, where he will be made to explain his conduct and relations with the girl.

The Piedmont Horse Show, Street Fair and Carnival will be held at Winston, N. C., Oct. 29 to Nov. 2. No expense is being spared to make it even a greater success than that of last year. Several good attractions have been secured for the Midway and carnival. G. E. Wehh is secretary.

Geo. D. Benson, director general of the Danville (Vt.) Street Fair and Carnival, writes under date of Oct. 5, saying: "The fair here has been a great success. Crowds unprecedented." Mr. Benson will take charge of the Savannah (Ga.) Carnival exclusively. The dates are Nov. 5 to 17.

The people of Johnston, Pa., celebrated the centennial anniversary of their city, October 6 to 8, and great crowds were in attendance. The daylight entertainments comprised thanksgiving services, loan exhibits, speeches and parades, while the nights were made pleasant with music and fireworks.

The Jacksonville (Fla.) carnival week in November promises to be the greatest affair that city has ever had. Ten thousand dollars will be spent in entertaining the people. Great attractions in the way of special Midway shows, etc., have been promised, and there will be many interesting features.

Dr. De Garmo Gray, of the International Exhibition Company, has contracted malarial fever at Memphis, and will go to Hot Springs, Ark., for a rest, after a short visit to his home in Kansas City. S. C. Haller will represent his interests in the International Exhibition Company in its Southern circuit.

The Elks' lodge of Savannah, Ga., has about completed preliminary arrangements for the big street carnival and fair to be given in Savannah in November. Nearly all the space in the fair building, which will be located in the park extension, has been taken, and many new and interesting features are promised.

Everything goes to show that the second annual fair and exposition to be held under the auspices of the San Antonio International Fair Association, at San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 20 to Nov. 2, will be one of the largest expositions ever held in the South. Preparations for the big event will be complete when the gates are thrown open.

The first chance Chicago (Ill.) Society has had to show itself at a horse show in three years is to be given this fall, and if elaborate arrangements count for anything, nothing will be lacking to insure an excellent exhibition. Arrangements have been completed and officers have been chosen who mean to put their hearts and souls into the show.

Those who are bending their best energies towards the success of the sixth annual Kansas City (Mo.) Horse Show are meeting with gratifying encouragement, and there is an early and enthusiastic interest shown, not only among horsemen, but the public generally, which betokens the largest and best event of the kind that has been given in the West.

The sixth annual exhibit of the Sycamore Fair Company, of Sycamore, O., Oct. 16 to 19, promises to eclipse all past efforts of the organization. Each succeeding year the Sycamore fair has shown marked improvement over its predecessor, and although only five annual exhibits have been given the company has gained a wide reputation for its ability to successfully entertain the crowds.

The Elks of Jackson, Tenn., are making elaborate preparations for a street fair, to be held Oct. 15 to 20. A press committee has been appointed to take care of and entertain visiting newspaper men, and a royal good time is promised them. Mads of honor representing Nashville and other cities will be appointed, and this fact should elicit the interest of citizens generally and especially the Elks.

The National Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers of America will hold its annual convention in Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 23. The convention will last about four days, and the delegates will represent about 15,000 workers. About thirty-two locals are affiliated with the national association, and there are ten locals throughout the county that have announced their intention to affiliate with the convention, especially Chicago, which is one of the largest in the country.

The Inter-State Fair at Trenton, N. J., under the management of the new secretary, Mahlon Margera, closed its most successful meeting Sept. 28. The vaudeville features were particularly strong and consisted of the Monte Myro Troupe, Dave Meirs, the Dillworth Family, Walkedo Diving Horses, Wolf and Millon, Moultrie Sisters, Speck Brothers, the Flying Wernitz Family, Ryder and Dryver, Fourchere, Harrison and Hill's Sweet Iron Band. This part of the fair was under the management of William Tayler.

As the time approaches for the big Montgomery (Ala.) Street Fair—Oct. 15 to 20—things are taking on a lively hue. The board of directors of the association meet every week, and the various chairmen of committees are busily at work in the line of their business. Every day some new feature of interest develops, and there can be no question that the fair will gather together the largest attendance this year of any Southern State, excepting only the Mardi Gras carnival in New Orleans.

Great interest in social and general circles attends the announcement of the big horse show that is to be held in Chicago, Ill., this fall in the new Coliseum Building on Wabash avenue, the dates finally selected being Oct. 29 to Nov. 3. Not only have assurances been received of the hearty and unanimous cooperation and participation of local society, owners of fine horses and equipages and many social-sporting organizations, but word has been received by the promoters from many people in different parts of the country announcing their intention of making exhibits and attending the exhibition.

The World's Fair at Chicago, the Nashville Exposition, the Paris Exposition and the active efforts in behalf of the Pan-American show at Buffalo in 1901 have not taken the honors of the Queen City from her. The people in a very large radius of territory look to Cincinnati for their autumn entertainment. The Fall Festival, which came to a close last Saturday night, and which embraced exposition features, has been a pre-eminent success. It attracted many thousands of visitors and interested the people of Cincinnati themselves. The crowds in attendance have been very large. It has stood the severe test of business judgment. It has made money. Or, rather, it has easily produced a surplus as a nucleus for a bigger and better show in the future. It has imposed obligations on the active men of Cincinnati which they will joyfully redeem in the future. Cincinnati is no less enterprising because it is conservative.

Arrangements are already being talked over by the business men of Cincinnati for an enormous Fall Festival next year, and it is safe to say that the world will hear more of Cincinnati in the next year than it ever heard before. Already the people, who, in the beginning, did not favor the Festival, have changed their minds. They have climbed into the band wagon in order not to be left, and will work shoulder to shoulder with those who are responsible for the remarkable affair just ended. The decision of the Festival Directors to withdraw has been the subject of a great deal of favorable comment, because of the magnanimity of their action, and has had a good effect on the others, but everybody feels that they should remain and lend their efforts again. Everybody is now pulling together, and past jealousies and bickerings have been forgotten. Altogether the opinion prevails on every hand that the outlook for Cincinnati is better in every way than it has been for ten years.

Broken Bric-A-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.
The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $1.75 a pound and another costs $2.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid and in some cases altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless material.
Major's cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty five cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.
The profit on Major's cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising which now amounts to over $300 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876.
Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist.
If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and with Major's Leather Cement.
And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save.
If your druggist can't supply you, it will be forwarded by mail, either kind. Free of postage.
