PUTTING JACKIN BACKIN HIS BOX

BY CHUCK TAYLOR ILLUSTRATION BY DANIEL GUIDERA

WHAT'S IN A NAME? If it's Jack, Bob, Mike, Simon, Ben, Abe or Charlie, your mission in life is to foster bombastic radio station ratings.

In one recent week, Infinity's classic modern KRQI (K-Rock) Seattle and '80s WXPT Minneapolis both flipped to Jack, the much-discussed format du jour, while what was Entercom's oldies KKSN Portland, Ore., is now known as 97.1-Charlie FM.

The trio joins recent flips to the "we play (almost) anything" mantra in Boston; Philadelphia; Dallas; Los Angeles; Albuquerque, N.M.; Tucson, Ariz.; and Denver. In all, nearly two dozen stations have tossed out their heavily researched, narrowly defined playlists in favor of intentionally slapdash variety that is supposed to outdo an iPod on shuffle.

With all of these Jacks and the like jumping out of the box—some leaning rock, others rhythmic, even country—top 40, AC and rock outlets are re-examining the fundamentals of their format, which is typically based on an average of 300 gold titles and hits that often address a station's lowest common denominator.

But many programmers believe that standing ground and continuing to target a specific audience will keep more defined stations on top, bucking Jack's penchant for a wider demo. Execs also have definite opinions about the long-term potential of a jack-of-all-trades radio station, insisting that the novelty will wear out quickly.

FATTENING UP

But don't think they aren't watching. On the cautionary side, a number of stations of all brands are responding to Jack—or the impending threat of one—by fattening their playlists.

Chicago's modern rock WKQX (Q101), for one, expanded its roster from a mere 200 to 1,000 songs at the beginning of April, as its ratings experienced a downturn. In the just-released winter 2005 Arbitrons, the station posted a 1.6 share, its lowest in a year.

While Q101 hasn't discussed a format change, it is obviously aware of the allure of the Jack approach, since it promoted its library shift as "shuffle." The evidence: Its most-played song six months ago garnered 48 spins; now, 28 is tops in rotation.

Likewise, adult top 40 WPLJ and modern WXRK (K-Rock) New York have admitted to broadening their playlists, saying that the move makes their formats more "flexible."

Other industry watchers testify to a more immediate threat. Mark Ramsey, president of Mercury Radio Research and publisher of broadcasting blog radiomarketingnexus.com, warns, "If you're a Mix-type AC, say goodbye to your 'variety' position. Jack will eat it for breakfast. Jack succeeds not by playing just a few more songs; it plays a lot more songs. Not just a marginally different tone; a very different, irreverent and cleverly produced one. Not just terse DJs—no DJs. Tweak what you will. It will not be as dramatic as Jack."

RENTING ADULTS

Edison Media Research VP of music and programming Sean Ross notes, "In Canada, Jack/Bob had a pretty disastrous effect on top 40—partially because of sharing, but also because a number of mainstream top 40 stations were blown up either to get to the format before anybody else did or because it depleted the adults that top 40 had been renting, but didn't really own. This set off a chain reaction where a handful of rhythmic and urban stations—a new format in Canada—moved into the top 40 hole. So there's still a top 40 format in Canada, although it didn't look good for a while, but now there's virtually no R&B radio."

In the United States, Ross believes that Jack and his brethren will most likely have an impact on adult top 40 and classic hits stations.

"Adult top 40 doesn't have a lot of exciting new music of its own right now, and it's very vulnerable to somebody who comes on playing a lot of 'Oh, wow' records, even when those songs are 'You Sexy Thing' and 'Kung-Fu Fighting,' " he says. "The new format will take from top 40, but only in the sense that it takes from everybody."

Top 40 radio consultant Guy Zapoleon notes that Jack is indeed a real format to be reckoned with. "It's the new oldies station for 25- to 54-year-olds. There is no denying its success."

He attributes the sweep of format switches to three factors: Listeners are weary of radio's tight, repetitive playlists; the music is fresh because it has been off the air for a while; and songs that haven't been heard for some time conjure good memories from the past.

"All of us in radio helped create this void, and I certainly include myself in this," Zapoleon says. "We drove a lot of people to their iPods, satellite and the Internet for a better variety. We did this because our measurement of success is Arbitron's average-quarter-hour game, where it's as much about TSL as it is about cume. In order to do this, you have to build a consensus of a lot of different factions of listeners, which keeps a lot of people happy."

GETTING HI-JACKED

Most PDs, however, vow that standing their musical ground is the best offense, not scampering to adapt playlists to Jack or the potential for such in the market.

"Here in Boston, we've seen the launch of Mike 93.7 and the retooling of Mix 98.5 within the last few weeks," says Candy O'Terry, assistant PD of AC WMJX (Magic 106.7).

"My feeling is that ACs who stay the course in markets where Jack makes an appearance will emerge relatively unscathed, although we do expect some sampling, especially in the first month," she says. "The key for Magic 106.7 is to keep our eye on the ball and to continue what we do best: Play the hits and protect our turf by staying focused on the target."

Ramsey agrees: "The more jittery you are, the more vulnerable you must see your station. That would encourage me to inflict Jack on you, not deter me. The more you tweak, the more urgent it becomes that I hi-Jack you now.

"Adding a Jack flavor to your station may actually backfire and broaden the opportunity for a full-fledged Jack," he adds. "The more Jack-like your appeal, the more apt your listeners will be to switch to the real thing."

BIG DOGS STILL BARK

WHZT (Hot 98-1) Greenville, S.C., PD Fisher doesn't have a Jack in his backyard, but he knows how he would react if he did: "Top 40s need to hold their ground. They are the big dogs in the market and need to not react to this format or any other one until they see how it will affect the market and their audience," he says.

"You need to reaffirm your stance with your audience that you are playing their music and giving them what they want to hear—and that you're the only place to get it."

Fisher stands by his station's reined-in playlist of a crisp 100 songs total, saying, "A tight playlist is a good playlist. When a listener tunes in to your station, they need to know what to expect. If you have a great station now, why screw with the core of it?"

R Dub, PD of KOHT (Hot 98.3) Tucson and host of "Sunday Nite Slow Jams," has a new Jack in the city. Like other programmers, he believes the best defense is a strong offense.

"Successful top 40s shouldn't react. They should stay the course and keep their eye on the ball," he says. "I think for our format and our listeners and their habits, we're doing the right thing by keeping it tight. After all, it's 'top 40.' Classic rock stations' playlists are wide too, and that doesn't mean top 40 should change to top 400."

OFFERING SOMETHING SPECIAL

With his belief that Jacks could pose a threat to other formats, Zapoleon suggests that stations arm themselves with specialty programming to diversify the playlist.

"Tracy Austin had success when she was programming in Hartford [Conn.] a few years back with her 'Wayback Weekends,' where she showcased mostly party music from the past two decades at [top 40] WKSS," he says. "Since Jack will have heavy female appeal, as well as male appeal, upbeat ACs and adult top 40s are the most vulnerable to attack. Highly produced and widevariety 'Whatever Weekends' are a way to get great reaction."

Ross adds, "I think top 40 in some situations has the opportunity to use the library just as boldly as Jack/Bob stations do. At this moment when there aren't a lot of legitimate top 40 hits, there are at least a handful of titles—'Baby Got Back,' 'Sweet Child O' Mine,' 'Pour Some Sugar on Me'—that always seem to resonate with all ages and might deserve a slot or two each hour. I think this particularly makes sense for a top 40 that has some heritage and was playing these songs when they were new."

THERE'S NO WAY JACK
IS GOING TO LAST. IT WILL ALL COME BACKTO
WHO PLAYS THE BEST
MUSIC FOR THE
AUDIENCE'S TASTE—
NOT THE BEST VARIETY
FOR EVERYONE! -FISHER

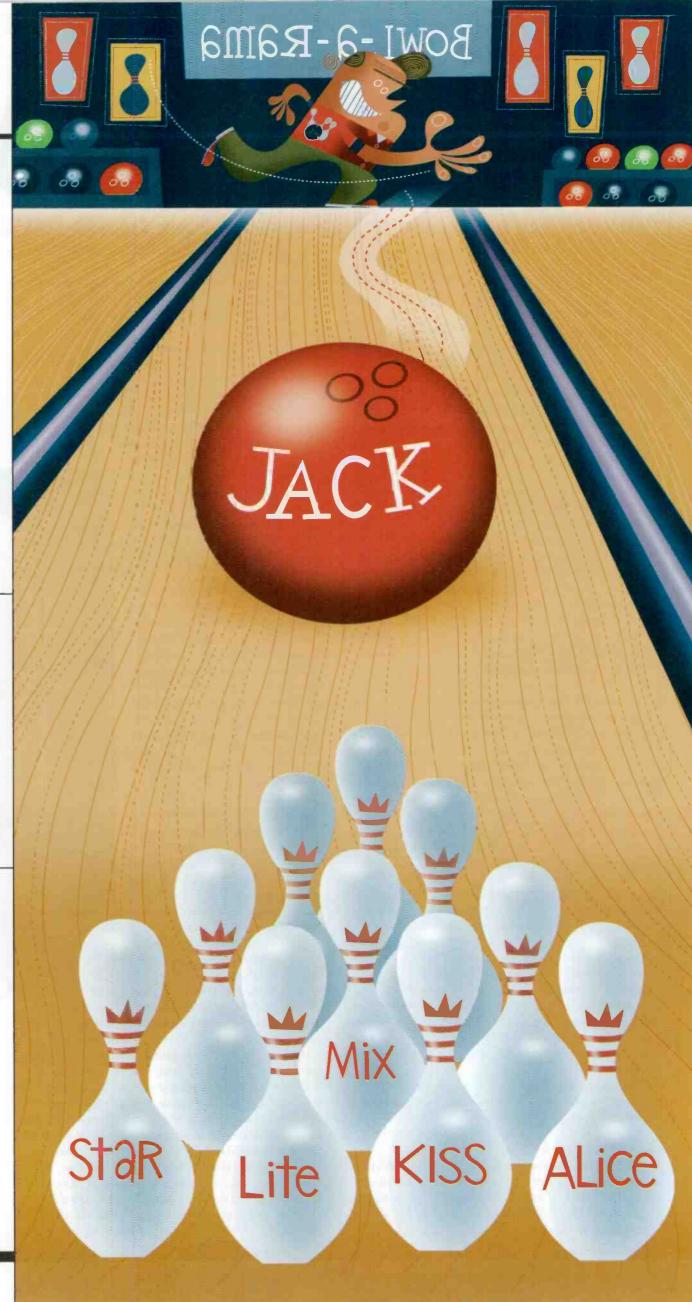

Many also question whether the name game will amount to a solid, long-term format or whether Jack will hit the road once the novelty wears off.

According to Fisher, "It's a knee-jerk reaction to iPods and satellite radio, but what a terrestrial radio station has over them is that we are local, informative and personable. There's no way Jack is going to last. It will all come back to who plays the best music for the audience's taste—not the best variety for everyone."

R Dub concurs. "Remember, one's iPod isn't 1,500 random songs mixed up; it's the owner's favorite songs. What are the chances any radio station can play thousands of titles and every one be on the money for each listener?" he asks. "I think it's too early to predict the format's future. I do, however, think that it might have trouble being someone's favorite station. I see a lot of P2 and P3 listeners—but P1s on this format, I don't know."

The PD adds that top 40 holds the distinction of being young and hip, while "the music and the target of a Jack is really different. I think it's a non-factor when it comes to top 40."

Still, R Dub plans to keep his eyes open for future trends. "I want to be the first to launch a Spanish Jack format," he says. "We'll call it 'Juan.'"

OLD MEDIA CLINGS TO RADIO

BY TONY SANDERS

NEWSPAPERS, TELEVISION AND RADIO CAN STILL GO TOGETHER

THE HISTORY OF BUSINESS is the history of profits: If you're not making money, then you're not running a business, you're running a hobby.

It's no different for radio, and it doesn't matter if the operation is the newest venture run by a neophyte owner or if it has the heritage and tradition of The New York Times' classical WQXR New York or the Tribune Co.'s news/talk WGN Chicago.

But some longtime owners know money can't buy everything. So it was somewhat sad when the family-owned York, Pa.-based Susquehanna Pfaltzgraff announced April 20 it was considering selling its Susquehanna Media division among other properties that include the Pfaltzgraff pottery company. The stated reason, in part, was that no one in the family's younger generation seemed ready to take a major management role. That would involve directing Susquehanna's 33 radio stations, cable TV systems and other businesses.

That announcement cast a spotlight on the rest of radio's Old Guard: the other family-run operations, the stand-alone stations owned by one person for decades and the small cluster of stations that are still part of the founding corporation's business portfolio.

How many of these radio operators will continue to own their stations? In virtually each case, the stations could be sold for enormous sums of money. Why don't they sell?

Part of the answer is straightforward: These radio stations continue to make money for their parent owners. But another part of the answer is a reflection on the intangible value of heritage.

Last year, the Times celebrated 60 years of owning WQXR, bought from its original owners in 1944 for $1 million. The asking price today would run into hundreds of millions.

Times chairman/publisher Arthur Sulzberger Jr. sent a note commemorating the anniversary to WQXR's Tom Bartunek, president/GM of New York Times Radio. In it, according to Bartunek, was this simple, poignant sentence: "It's hard to imagine us apart."

Bartunek tells Billboard Radio Monitor that the Times has renewed its commitment to WQXR by incorporating the station into the editorial operations center of the newspaper. The station has been brought back into the newspaper building. "This is back to the future for us," Bartunek says. "We're back to the heritage as a Times entity. And what makes this especially nice is that there is a terrific business benefit as well."

WQXR is now taking on a new leadership role as the exclusive representative for Interep's Concert Music Network—a group of 22 commercial classical stations across the country. Interep assists the radio industry in sales and marketing efforts. "The advertising-buying marketplace now values multiple platforms with a single visit," Bartunek says. "We walk in with The New York Times and with New York Times Digital and maybe with the International Herald Tribune. We give a dimension to the buy that is distinctive and unique."

The Times also has plans to further develop its radio news product—and it is using WQXR's unique position as a driving force to create a new line of Times-branded news and information services.

GIANTS STILL REMAIN

The Hearst Corp. entered broadcasting with the 1928 purchase of university station WSOE Milwaukee and followed that with the 1931 purchase of WTAE Pittsburgh. News/talk WBAL Baltimore was Hearst's third station, bought in 1935. The company's Baltimore FM, WIYY, went on the air in 1958. It became a rock outlet in 1977 and just celebrated 28 years in the format, according to Ed Kiernan, GM for WBAL and WIYY. The sister TV station, NBC affiliate WBAL was built and launched by Hearst in 1948.

Aside from these original purchases, Hearst didn't buy any more radio stations until the 1998 acquisition of Pulitzer Publishing's five radio stations and nine TV stations.

Hearst still owns its Baltimore cluster, but the other radio stations have been sold. The radio and TV stations are managed by Hearst-Argyle Television, the product of a 1997 merger between Hearst Broadcasting and Argyle Television.

Kiernan says that Hearst-Argyle Television president/CEO David Barrett "feels that one plus one plus one equals four, and if he just owned the TV station that wouldn't be enough. Also, realize that we are competing against Viacom/CBS, and WJZ is WBAL-TV's competitor."

The case for Tribune's continued ownership of its one radio station, WGN, is perhaps even easier to understand. It's part of the company's Chicago foundation, an original building block that includes not just broadcast and newspaper holdings, but "content" as well, in the form of the Chicago Cubs baseball team. (Among its newspaper holdings, Tribune publishes the Chicago Tribune, the Los Angeles Times, The (Baltimore) Sun and New York's Newsday.)

Several years before Tribune bought WGN (its previous calls were WDAP) in 1924, the company had been expanding its reach into other stations and hit the point where it needed a hometown outlet of its own. Tribune's Chicago holdings include WGN-TV, a WB affiliate. Tribune has owned a stake in the WB since the network's 1995 launch.

Established in 1948 and then expanded via satellite delivery into a "superstation" in 1978, WGN-TV has been broadcasting Cubs games from its sign-on. Before that, WGN radio had done the same.

Tribune eventually bought the Cubs team in 1981 for $20.5 million. WGN radio continues to broadcast Cubs games.

Bonneville Broadcasting is another significant player in the radio industry. Its roots are firmly planted in Salt Lake City. Starting in 1922 with KSL (then known as KZN), the group also put its first FM on the air there in 1946. The group now holds KSL-TV and three FMs in its home market: top 40 KQMB, classic hits KRSP and adult contemporary KSFI, along with the Salt Lake Deseret Morning News, first published by Bonneville's parent, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Bonneville's broadcast holdings have expanded, and its most recent commitment to radio was to build KUTR-AM in the Salt Lake City market. That station is due to sign on within the next few weeks and will debut a new format targeting women as a "conversation station"

Aside from the Salt Lake City broadcast properties, Bonneville owns 33 other radio stations, including all-news WTOP and adult top 40 WWZZ/WWVZ (Z104) Washington, D.C. Other major-market holdings include stations in Chicago, San Francisco, Phoenix and St. Louis. The group also has stations in Idaho Falls, Idaho, and St. George-Cedar City, Utah. KSL is its only TV station.

THE OLD GUARD ROLL CALL

The radio industry still has many other Old Guard groups.

Larger groups include Atlanta-based Cox, which also has its roots in newspapers and broadcasting.

Other active members of radio's heritage set are: All-Pro Broadcasting (established 1977), Beasley Broadcast Group (1960), Buckley Broadcasting (1949), Clear Channel (1972), Emmis (1979), Entercom (1968), Fisher Broadcasting (1926), Greater Media (1957), Hall (1965), Hubbard Broadcasting (1948), Ingstad Broadcasting (1936), Inner City (1972), Jefferson-Pilot (1945), Journal Broadcast Group (1927), Lotus Communications (1962), Midwest Family Stations (1959), Mount Wilson FM Broadcasters (1959), Buck Owens Broadcasting (1967), Radio One (1980), Renda (1974), Saga (1978), Sandusky (1978), South Central (1948), Susquehanna (1942) and WEAZ-FM Radio (1963).

COMING TO

A MARKET

NEAR YOU

VERY SOON

BABY BY PAUL HEINE STREAM

elax. Radio doesn't suck. At least that's what an overwhelming majority of rock radio listeners say. And don't believe all the gloom and doom headlines from the consumer press Chicken Littles. Actual radio listeners, the people who will ultimately decide its future, say satellite radio and iPods aren't going to eat your lunch.

But before you fire up another 20-song music marathon and call it a day, the 19,263 classic, active/mainstream and modern rock radio listeners who participated in the latest Jacobs Media Web poll have other important messages for you: Half of them say they would listen more if you stream your station online. Belonging to a station e-mail club makes them feel more connected to your station. And if they don't have one already, more than four in 10 are very or somewhat likely to buy an MP3 player, which, like videogames and other tech toys, takes a bite out of their media time.

But new technologies won't take the place of radio.

Of all the Web polls he has worked on since 1999, Jacobs Media president Fred Jacobs says this one tells a story. It makes a statement about new media and technology.

The most practical takeaway from the study? Stream, baby, stream. When presented with the statement, "If this station began streaming, you would ..." nearly three of 10 respondents selected "listen a lot more" while more than two in 10 said "listen a little more." In other words, half the rock listeners surveyed said streaming would cause them to listen more; 42% indicated they would listen the same.

The finding arrives just as many radio companies are in the midst of reviving station streams that went dormant because of high costs and exorbitant talent fees (Billboard Radio Monitor, April 15). Clear Channel, Infinity, Entercom, Greater Media and others are investing money and resources in making their stations available again on the Internet.

"Think of all the things that radio stations spend money on," Jacobs says in a post-survey interview with Billboard Radio Monitor. "These results confirm that streaming is tantamount to erecting a new tower that can reach people who either aren't in positions to be able to listen terrestrially or for whom it's so much more convenient to listen on their computer. Streaming is so critically important and this data urges at least rock stations that aren't streaming yet to give that strong consideration."

Jacobs sees 2005 as "a real turning point" for radio streaming. "It isn't about selling banner ads on your Web site, it's about coming up with a new way for people to listen to your radio station."

THE REVOLUTION WILL BE PODCAST

The Jacobs Media technology poll puts a face on the growing penetration of MP3 players, such as Apple Computer's iPod. According to Apple sales figures, the iPod phenomenon is gaining momentum. The company says it sold 5.3 million iPods in the first quarter of this year, typically a slow selling season. By comparison, 4.5 million iPods flew off the shelves in fourth-quarter 2004, which includes the holiday shopping season.

Many of them appear to have been snapped up by modern rock fans. Three of 10 modern rock listeners and two of 10 active/mainstream listeners surveyed own an MP3 player, while adoption at classic rock stands at 16%. Of those who have them, 18% say they mostly listen to their MP3 player and spend less time with radio, 27% split their time between the two and 29% mostly listen to radio. Nineteen percent of MP3 player owners surveyed say they only listen to radio, and 5% say they listen exclusively to the MP3 player.

stations: "shuffle" is the preferred mode for MP3 player listening.

"The iPod thing is exploding and is not going to stop anytime soon," Jacobs says. "It's becoming a competitive problem." Indeed, when respondents who do not own MP3 players were asked whether they planned to buy one this year, 40% indicated they might.

That the survey participants were mostly radio loyalists underscores the impact the iPod is having on radio. As listeners increasingly integrate MP3 players into their lifestyles, programmers face a dilemma: To reflect listener lifestyles, should they become involved in promotions that feature them? Or do iPods represent competition that should be ignored?

Before you decide, keep in mind that most rock listeners surveyed (44%) disagreed with the statement, "Portable MP3 players will replace radio for music." Another 23% strongly disagreed, 23% were neutral, 8% agreed and 2% strongly agreed.

Jacobs wonders if the iPod phenomenon is too new to project future usage habits. In other words, are consumers spending more time with them now because they're shiny and new? And will they use them less when they're no longer the current buzz device?

Videogames are also eating into rock listeners' media time, especially active/mainstream and modern partisans. Roughly half of them play videogames weekly or more, compared with 31% of classic rock listeners.

The way rock listeners communicate continues to change as well. To no one's surprise, cell phone usage is rampant—87% of the survey's total sample owns one. First embraced by young demos, instant messaging is now used weekly by six of 10 modern rock listeners, five of 10 active/mainstream listeners and more than three of 10 classic rock listeners. Sending text messages via cell phones looks like it could follow a similar adoption curve. Forty percent of modern rock listeners communicate this way weekly, compared with 28% of active/mainstream listeners and 15% of classic rock listeners.

"In general, alternative listeners tend to be much more newmedia-oriented, they jump on things quicker," Jacobs says. "Even though alternative fans tend to be more leading edge, there's a variety of new-media habits like videogame play and IM'ing that show a pretty fair amount of activity [among those age] 35- and 40-plus. Not surprisingly, like so many things, these trends tend to start young and then work their way old."

Much like IM was first embraced by the very young and has spread to older demos, Jacobs believes text messaging may follow a similar curve. It's already becoming popular with 18-34s and modern rock fans. Among those who own a cell phone with text messaging capability, 20% use it daily, 14% once or twice a week and 23% a few times a month. Forty-three percent never use it.

STATE OF RADIO: MIXED RESULTS

Although 79% of the total sample disagreed with the statement "radio sucks," the survey turned up mixed results on the state of local commercial radio. Thirty-four percent think it has gotten better, 26% said worse and 40% said it's the same.

No consensus exists on the state of new music, either. Thirty percent say it's better, 28% say worse and 38% say the same.

New industry initiatives such as clutter reduction and high-definition digital broadcasting were largely unnoticed by respondents. Only 24% were even aware of HD radio. And when presented with the statement "radio is making an effort to reduce the amount of commercials," 43% disagreed, 34% were neutral and 23% agreed.

Jacobs says he was not surprised that listeners have not figured out that radio has cut back on spotloads, because it is so new "or perhaps they're just not even believing some of the claims" being made.

While satellite radio subscriber counts are small compared with terrestrial radio listeners—just 4% of survey takers subscribe to XM and 3% to Sirius—satellite radio owners are over the top about the service. Asked to rate their level of satisfaction, 44% of satellite radio subscribers said they were very satisfied and 34% indicated they were satisfied. Roughly half of satellite radio owners say they split their time between radio and satellite, 26% say they listen mostly to satellite and 17% indicated mostly terrestrial radio.

Still, more than six of 10 rock radio listeners disagreed with the statement "satellite radio will replace commercial radio." Twenty-six percent were neutral and 12% agreed with the statement.

"Of all the new media on the scene, satellite has been the loudest, in terms of how it has manipulated the media," Jacobs says. "They may be the loudest in terms of noise they're making but they're actually the smallest in terms of penetration they're having right now."

Since most of the respondents were members of radio station e-mail database clubs—53 stations participated, with no station contributing more than 4% of the overall sample—radio could well have scored better than it might have in a random survey. Not included in the survey are Americans for whom radio doesn't resonate.

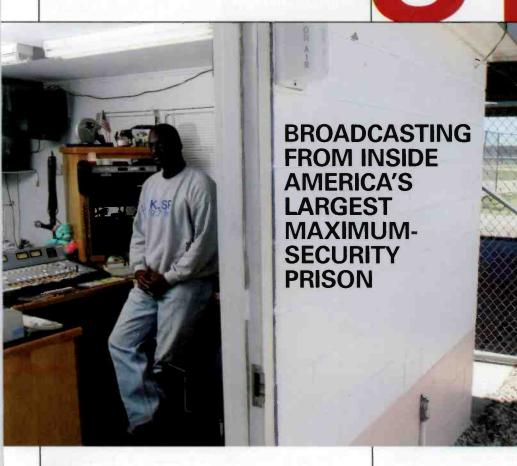

"This is a survey of radio's gold card holders," Jacobs points out. "Even though they don't represent the larger cume, or people who have just jumped ship and moved on to other things, they're really important in terms of understanding where we are with the people who are very actively listening to radio and people who probably have a real propensity to fill out an Arbitron diary, assuming they can get one."

Jacobs is referring to the increasing number of Americans who have cut the cord with landlines, putting them out of Arbitron's reach. (Arbitron uses predictive dialers—devices used to automate outbound calls—when making diary placement phone calls. Federal law prohibits the use of predictive dialers when calling cell phones.) The poll found 33% of 18-29s exclusively use cell phones. The percentage is higher at modern rock, where 37% of 18-29s are cell phone-only. (Arbitron is working on making these cell phone users part of its sample.)

"When you think that these are loyal listeners, they're still being pretty critical of the medium," Jacobs concludes. "There clearly are some troubling signs in the survey in terms of attitudes to commercial radio, but there are also some pretty clear bread crumbs about what stations ought to be doing to make their audiences happy and engaged."

TUNED FOR LIFE TO THE INCARCERATION BY KEN TUCKER

riving north from New Orleans along a network of progressively smaller roads, it's not until about 10 miles from your destination that the first scratchy strains of a gospel song can be heard on the car radio. Passing miles of giant magnolia and oak trees, the road somehow fittingly ends and begins at the Farm, as it is known to its inhabitants.

About five miles from the main gate, the signal gets stronger, and you hear what, on any other channel, would probably be a recorded station ID. Not here.

"You're listening to KLSP 91.7, the Incarceration Station, the only one in the nation, the station that kicks behind the bricks," DJ Shaq says.

Welcome to the 100-watt voice of the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola, the only station of its kind in America.

KLSP is owned and operated by the prison and staffed by inmate DJs. Using equipment donated by televangelist Jimmy Swaggart, the station signed on in 1986 as a 12-hour gospel outlet.

KLSP's signal covers the 18,000 acres of the prison and little else. Its listenership includes 5,108 maximum-security inmates and a prison staff of 1,800. Because the prison is divided into "camps," or clusters of prisoners, when you drive into Angola, you might see inmates working in the fields and wonder where the buildings are located.

As might be expected, KLSP is vastly different from any other radio station. But there are a lot of similarities as well.

Think you've got loyal listeners? For many inmates at the Farm, KLSP is more than likely the last radio station they'll ever hear. Nine out of 10 men incarcerated here will die here. The average sentence is 88.6 years. Roughly 3,200 of the inmates are lifers.

When warden Burl Cain took over at Angola in the mid-'90s, he saw promise in the station, so he upgraded the facility.

"I made it 24 hours a day," he says, "legitimized it, made it new, rebuilt it."

In fall 2002, HIS Radio, a Christian network based in Greenville, S.C., did a radiothon from Angola, raising $120,000 for state-of-the-art equipment for KLSP.

"It's basically a gospel radio station," Cain says, "but we use it for a lot of reasons. It gives me a way to address the inmates and talk to the population."

In fact, a recent visitor witnessed the warden doing just that. After hearing grousing from the prisoners, the prison administration decided to lower the cost of cigarettes at its canteens. Cain made the announcement on-air, then responded to questions from Shao.

The warden is comfortable with the interview format. "About every two months, the inmates send in questions about the prison, anything that affects their lives," he says. "We sit around a table with some inmates and some staff people, and it's almost like a call-in—except they can't call in, they write in—and I answer their questions."

Inmates listen to the station through radios set up in work areas, or they can purchase one at the prison canteen.

They are free to listen to any station they can pick up on their personal radios, but because of the prison's remote location and the preponderance of concrete and steel that surrounds it, KLSP has the only reliable signal.

For Cain, the station offers an essential means of communication. "It's the largest maximum-security prison in America, and I couldn't ever talk to the inmates if I didn't have the radio station," he says, noting that KLSP wasn't originally intended for that purpose.

The station carries music programming from HIS, plus news, talk and religious teaching from the Moody Broadcasting Network. It also picks up programming from well-known preachers like T.D. Jakes and Dr. James Meeks.

But it's the local programming, hosted by prison DJs, that's most interesting to an outsider.

A GOOD JOB TO HAVE

It's not easy to become a DJ, according to chaplain Robert Toney, who oversees the station. A candidate "has to be a class-A trusty with a good disciplinary record, because he's going to be entrusted with speaking to the population," Toney says. "He's also entrusted with sometimes being outside the bars, the perimeters of security. So they're going to be guys that are trustworthy and have been rehabilitated."

Savoris Sutton, who (because of his height and basketball skills honed in another life) is known as Shaq, and Walter Diggs, aka Hootie, are two of the station's DJs. Both are serving life sentences. (Because of prison protocol, Billboard Radio Monitor did not ask what they are serving time for.)

Another DJ, Andrew Joseph, aka Reverend A.J., is currently out of prison on "court order," which means his case is being revisited. Joseph, who is in his 70s, has been in and out of Angola three times since 1948.

Believe it or not, one Angola inmate who worked at KLSP was a DJ on the outside, Cain says, but he "got into a little trouble" and is no longer at the station.

Being a KLSP DJ is probably the best job an inmate can hope for, Toney says. "When a guy gets in this job, he's probably going to stay there," he says, "unless something really bad happens or he makes some really bad choices.

"These are very good jobs in the prison system," Toney continues. "I really don't know a better job you could have, other than cooking for warden Cain at the ranch house."

Toney's job is that of an owner/GM, he says. "Shaq does the work on-site," he says, "I'm just really overseeing our programming and providing him information and getting things for him. I depend on Shaq and Hootie and the other DJs to actually do the work."

Robin Polk, aka Rockin' Robin, is the station's longestrunning DJ, having been on-air since the '80s. "You have to understand that it was 8-tracks and reel-to-reel" when Robin started, Shaq says with a laugh. It was "basically Neanderthal, but it's really modern and up to date now. We really appreciate everything" the station has.

Phil Shappard, a technical manager from Moody, has been to the prison twice to train the men. Calling Shaq "a bright man," he says, "I believe he has a genuine interest in the inmates and the population."

Despite the DJs' surroundings, Shappard says, "these men have chosen to be happy and joyful."

Toney appreciates Shappard's efforts. "We've really moved into the modern-day world with our equipment," he says. "Thank God for Moody."

Five DJs do 12-hour shifts, according to Shaq, who, on the outside, would be considered the station's PD and engineer all rolled into one.

Network programming is interspersed with live and local music and talk shows, though Shaq says the schedule varies "depending on what's going on around the Farm."

As for the music, Shaq says, it's mostly gospel. "But there's a diversity in the inmate population," he notes, "and we do a little jazz, we do a little country, a little rock and some soft R&B."

In addition to the mainly Christian programming, Cain says, Muslims have a show on Friday nights.

All music and recorded programming comes to Toney, who passes it on to the staff. "I check to make sure it's legit and then pass it on to our DJs and our station," he says. "Ministries from all over the world donate to us. Anybody can donate to us."

Toney doesn't act as a censor, he says. "We pretty much pass everything on to [the DJs], unless it's something that's just for women, because we're an all-male institution."

Like any station, KLSP, by the nature of its Federal Communications Commission license, is bound to serve its audience. Of course, any radio station at its best reflects its surroundings. It's about "being aware, being conscious of what's going on in your environment," Shaq says.

He and Hootie maintain this awareness as members of the prison gospel band, which affords them another way to interact with their fellow inmates. "We're always on-site," Shaq says of the band. "We'll have yard ministry and play music. Guys will begin to witness and tell us things about what's on their minds.

"There's so much to talk about, we can never really filter it all," Shaq adds, "but what we try to do is get the most important issues that encompass a larger percentage of the inmate population, and that's what we'll gear our conversations toward."

Talk is also an important part of the Incarceration Station. Shaq says that he and Hootie will discuss topics like "the importance of what it means to be a father while incarcerated. The challenges that kids face."

And just like on the outside, listener feedback is important. "We get mail from all around the Farm, basically complimenting the shows or requesting that we play certain music," Shaq says. "It's really exciting, because when you get mail that comes in from guys really appreciating the work you do, it kind of makes it all worth the while."

The station also broadcasts prayer requests. "Recently one of the chaplain's sons was in a car accident, and we put it over the air to allow the inmates to pray" for him, Hootie says.

Warden Cain is a deeply religious man, and Christian ministry is a big part of KLSP and the Farm. The prison is home to dozens of "churches" representing many denominations. It's also a destination for a number of well-known evangelists. "Last night Dr. Joe Jordan with Word of Life ministries out of New York was at Angola preaching, and we were able to do a live broadcast," Cain says.

Shaq and his team are responsible for setting up and tearing down the remote equipment that makes such broadcasts possible.

When a pastor or other special guest is coming to the prison, Shaq says, "we'll air their music and just do a lot of promo to actually get the guys ready and amped up."

Musical acts come, too. "The Brooklyn Tabernacle Choir chorus will be here Aug. 6, and we're going to broadcast from the rodeo arena throughout the prison," Cain says.

THEY'VE GOT GAME, TOO

Speaking of the rodeo arena, the station also broadcasts the popular Angola Prison Rodeo, which twice a year draws tens of thousands of spectators from around the country. In fact, since KLSP does not carry any advertising, some of the proceeds from the rodeo help pay for its network affiliation with Moody.

From prison football (aka the Crunch Bowl) to basketball to boxing, sports are part of KLSP's programming.

Amateur boxing matches sanctioned by the Department of Corrections are not aired live, but are spotlighted by the station staff. The blow-by-blow is recorded on an MP3 device and then taken back to the studio. "We go back and doctor it up and take excerpts out and hit the high points," Shaq explains. "We draw it up with some sound effects and some music and give the guys a kind of play-by-play, blow-by-blow of what really was going on."

Like any great radio station, KLSP is at its best in times of emergency. In spring 1997, when flood waters engulfed parts of the prison, Cain used the station to keep in touch with inmates.

The prison is bordered on three sides by the Mississippi River and on the fourth by the rugged Tunica Hills. His frequent radio broadcasts during the emergency helped calm the populace, he says. "I talked to them all the time," Cain says. "This is what we're doing today, this is where the river is today, this is what kind of protection we're doing.' This kept the whole population calm, and they worked like dogs doing sandbags to fight that river back.

"If you're locked in a cell or [behind] a fence, and you think that the Mississippi is fixing to flood and you're going to drown, you get desperate," Cain says, explaining his frequent updates. "You're going to try to escape."

At the height of the flooding, 3,500 inmates were evacuated in one night. "We told them on the air, 'We're coming to get you,'"

Every inmate is allowed to listen to the radio station if they choose, according to Toney. "Even guys on death row, who stay in their cell 23 hours a day," he says. "They have headphones and a little radio, and they can be participating in a service by the live remote broadcast. Even with the boxing and basketball and football games . . . they get to be part of the community by the radio.

"The station gives Angola a way to communicate with our population in just a matter of seconds," Toney adds. "News here spreads like fire."

Shaq calls the station the "heartbeat" of the prison. "We carry information around the Farm," he says.

Given the amount of live broadcasts KLSP does, Billboard Radio Monitor, momentarily forgetting the circumstances, asked if there is a station van. "No," Shaq says with a laugh.

"They're subject to all security rules," Toney quickly points out. "They're transported by security—security plays a big part in the success of this station."

With the Farm being a maximum-security prison, Toney says there are four types of inmates: murderers, rapists, armed robbers and habitual offenders.

In such a facility, it's hard to imagine planning for the future, but Toney says there's always hope: "This station is on all the time, and it has a message that it sends out.

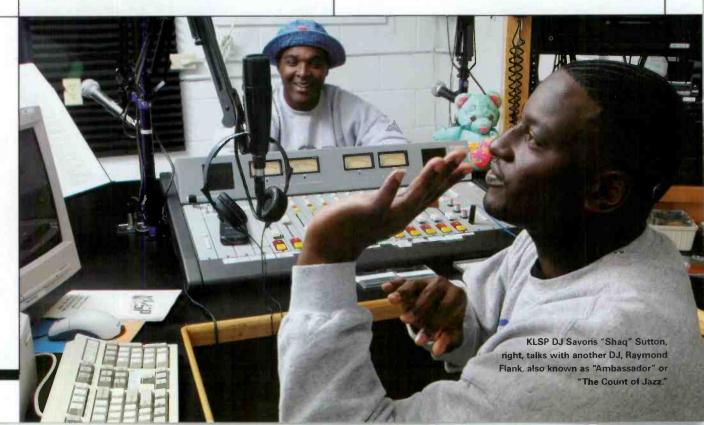

"We try to keep sound doctrine and sound teaching on our station," Toney continues. "We believe that it has greatly influenced and affected our population. What they think, what they do, encouraging them, keeping somebody from committing suicide, keeping somebody from losing all hope. We're praying for them."

Though the station is not powerful in terms of wattage, Cain, Toney and the prison staff—plus a handful of inmates—believe it reaches a far more important target: the souls of the men incarcerated there.

"It's a place where they can feel connected," Toney says, "because it's run by guys that are incarcerated, too. These guys are sharing their heart. They're ministering. It's a great tool of ministry. It's not something that we take lightly."

ROCK OVER CHICAGO

BY BRAM TEITELMAN

assion. That word comes up repeatedly when Chicago's rock PDs talk about their listeners' affinity for music. With four of the top 10 markets losing a rock station in the past six months, the Windy City is the only one left with a mainstream rock (WLUP), an active rock (WZZN) and a modern rock (WKQX). Factor in a well-performing triple-A (WXRT), a classic hits (WDRV) and a Jacklike station (WRZA), and Chicago might just be America's best big city for rock on the dial.

In the winter 2005 Arbitron book, ABC's WZZN (the Zone) notched its first book as Chicago's leading rock station, an achievement that PD Bill Gamble attributes to the music. "As we see radio stations around the country go to the 'surprise' format, where you never know what you're going to get, we're a little contrarian," he says. "We think listeners hitting our button and knowing they're going to get a hard-rock song every single time they tune in is what drives the ratings. It's a function of time and marketing." Gamble also cites a billboard campaign for helping raise awareness.

Emmis showed its commitment to the rock genre by acquiring heritage rock WLUP (the Loop) from Bonneville to pair with its modern, WKQX (Q101).

For its new property, Emmis brought in veteran programmer Tim Dukes, most recently regional VP of programming for Clear Channel in Atlanta. Dukes says the two markets are vastly different: "While Atlanta is a Southern town, it's a very affluent and cosmopolitan market—it's not redneck whatsoever. Because of that affluence, there's not that much of a blue-collar base, which might surprise some people. Chicago, on the other hand, has a tremendous blue-collar base. It has attracted many people from all walks of life and from all across the country. There's a prevailing blue-collar mentality and a tremendous work ethic on the parts of people here, which is a great environment to program a rock station. I'd venture to say that this is a healthier rock market than any other market in the top 10."

Meanwhile, WKQX has begun embracing its position as Chicago's heritage modern rock station. Taking a page from Apple Computer's iPod, Q101 is running promos saying it's "on shuffle" as it has increased the amount of gold. "Q101 has been all about bringing back the heritage of the radio station," Emmis VP of programming in Chicago/WKQX PD Mike Stern says. "We've now widened out the radio station, so that the gold now really encompasses everything that Q101 has ever played and anything that has been deemed modern rock over the years. It stretches from early Clash records through the Cure and Depeche Mode, through U2 and the '90s grunge music and the Korn and Godsmack era. We still expose a ton of current music, but we've really widened out the gold so you get a real variety on the station."

HEALTHY ROCK APPETITE

One main reason Chicago has a thriving rock radio scene is that the genre has always played well in the Midwest. Stern chalks it up to the DNA of the market. "Chicago is the biggest Midwestern, blue-collar rock town in America, and I think that gives the format and the genre better legs here than a lot of other places," he says. "There's more of an appetite here than there is on the coasts."

Dukes says ratings methodology might have led to the lack of rock signals in other top 10 markets. "[One thing] different about Chicago is that the population isn't as ethnic as it is in New York and Los Angeles," he says. "To look at those markets and say that there's no room for a mainstream, [an] active and [a] modern station is crazy. There's absolutely room in all those markets. The difference is that as long as Arbitron continues to handle ethnic households like they do, it's going to be tough for rock stations to get the ratings they need to survive. As long as it remains a ratings-based game, and as long as Arbitron continues to do a less-than-satisfactory job of surveying 18- to 34-year-old men, you're going to have markets like New York and L.A. where it seems like it's a bad rock market. In reality, there are millions of people in both markets that listen to rock, but Arbitron has done a lousy job of finding them."

While Emmis has made moves with both stations since purchasing WLUP, the biggest change was the musical broadening of WKQX. It will take at least several months for the impact to be felt, as the station didn't relaunch until April 1, the day after the winter book ended.

Stern says Q101 on shuffle hinges more on inclusion than exclusion. "It has been about bringing it back," he says. "The toughest line for us to draw is that Q101 played Alanis Morissette's first CD, so it probably makes sense, but by the second CD she was a pop artist and we passed on it, so the question for someone like her is 'Does this fit or not?'"

The Loop, on the other hand, has tightened its playlist. "We've made moves at the Loop to actually make it sound more focused," Stern says. "It was a rock station that was getting into a lot of territory musically that it didn't need to get into. So we made some adjustments there [to] some things on the station that kept it so broad that, in this landscape, you really didn't know where the Loop fell. I think we've made it more focused, so that it really shines through as being Chicago's heritage rock station." Translation: No more Supertramp, Foreigner or Journey.

Dukes says WLUP is "a tad" more current than it was when Emmis took it over, but that will fluctuate with the quality of new music: "If there was enough good current music for the Loop to be 30% current, then we'd be 30% current. But at the moment, there are not that many bona fide across-the-board smashes, so we use the currents more tactically than anything right now and hope the ones we are on do develop into something that will elicit a lot of passion."

MORNING MOVES

One thing all three rock stations need to differentiate themselves is a strong morning show. WKQX has the most established with Erich "Mancow" Muller's "Mancow's Morning Madhouse," which recently expanded into syndication. Stern believes last year's indecency crusade had a positive effect on "Madhouse." "I think the show's better than it has ever been," he says. "The show has gotten much more centered on entertainment and pop culture and away from the old, reliable 'Hey, we'll bring a stripper in.' The show has really moved out of that realm, and it's a much better show for it. It's a much more entertaining, mainstream, mass-appeal show, and I think that helps his syndication efforts immensely."

WLUP has begun a hunt for its next morning show by advertising not just in the national trades but in local newspapers as well. Through the years the station has been personality-intensive, counting Steve Dahl, Jonathan Brandmeier and Sky Daniels among its alumni. Dukes says his morning-show hunt is one way to get back to being more talent-driven.

"If we were to locate and recruit suitable performers from outside of radio, that would be fine with us," Dukes says, citing the success of similar efforts at Emmis' R&B/hip-hop WQHT (Hot 97) New York and rhythmic top 40 KPWR (Power) Los Angeles.

"There are a lot of people here, and a lot of performers, not the least of which is [the] Second City [troupe]," he says. "Whether we hire a show or assemble a group of people from other backgrounds related to performance, we would be comfortable with that. Going that route comes with the chance of it being a rough transition. But if we were to find a morning show in another market that had been dominant for a number of years, that doesn't translate into guaranteed success in Chicago—or anywhere else, for that matter. Maybe we'll wind up hiring a familiar name, but if we don't, then it will be because we've found someone that we believe is going to chart our future for the next 10-plus years."

The impending departure of Howard Stern, heard on Infinity talk WCKG in Chicago, will undoubtedly affect the morning radio landscape. WZZN just launched a morning show anchored by former WKQX middayer Sludge, and Gamble believes Stern's departure will mean more shares for everyone. "If Howard has a 10 share and all those listeners migrate to satellite radio—even though I don't think that's going to be the case—that means that the 90% that was remaining gets plussed up by 10%," he says. "It will be interesting to see how many people convert. Whenever a major talent leaves, everybody picks up and samples around. The shows that are good get listeners, and the ones that aren't go away."

Mike Stern agrees that more than one station will benefit when the other Stern moves to satellite. "It will definitely kick some shares back into the market, but where they're going to fall is a good question," he says. "Stern brings in such a diverse audience that I don't think you'll see it go to any one place."

CAN SO MUCH ROCK CO-EXIST?

Although Chicago and the Midwest in general still have a healthy rock appetite, the changes in Miami, Houston, Philadelphia, New York, Washington, D.C., and San Jose, Calif., in the past six months prove rock radio is going through a difficult period. However, change isn't likely to hit Chicago in the near future.

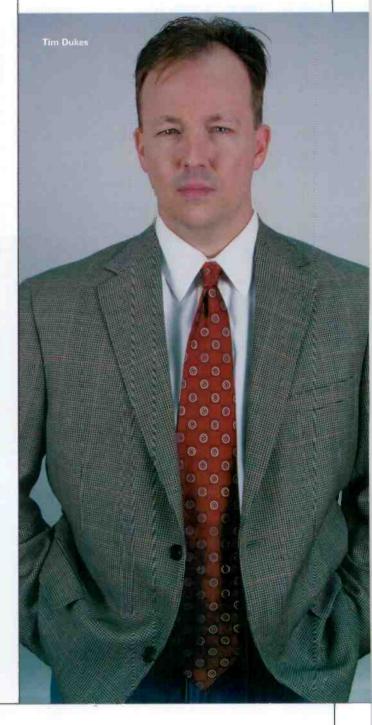

Emmis and ABC appear to be engaged in a healthy competition for the largest chunk of the rock pie. "Q101 and the Loop are both heritage brands in the market, which gives me confidence that our brands are going to remain strong," Stern says.

Dukes says, "You'd probably be better asking ABC how long they want to be part of the rock battle here. If ever two stations were created that were meant to be together and be complementary to each other, it's Q101 and the Loop. Our plan is to use the two to not only grow revenues for Emmis, but [add to] the share of both radio stations."

Regardless of who has the biggest market share, the real winner in the Emmis-ABC battle of the rockers is listeners.

"The more choice on the dial that they have, the better," Gamble notes. "If you're a rock listener, this is a great town to be in. You've got classic rock stations like the Drive and the Loop and WXRT, to some extent, and you've got the Zone being the hard-rock station, and Q101 moving out of playing rock records and moving closer to being a true alternative station. There have been hard-rock listeners here since the late '70s. Historically, there's just too much passion."

1'D VENTURE TO SAY THAT THIS IS A HEALTHIER ROCK MARKET THAN ANY OTHER MARKET IN THE TOP 10.' —TIM DUKES

ARISIS BEHINDTHE MIC

WHAT DO TRICK DADDY, Jermaine Dupri, newcomer Grafh, Mobb Deep and DJ Premier have in common?

The five are part of a steadily growing group of hip-hop artists, past and present, who are tackling the radio market from a different angle—that of on-air personality.

An increasing number of terrestrial and satellite radio signals are affording the very artists that flood their airwaves the opportunity to host their own radio shows. Radio One VP of operations Zemira Jones feels that it's a matter of communication.

"They understand the language of the audience already," Jones says. "They get the culture and they get what's important to the audience."

While the practice is far from new, the introduction of satellite radio seems to have led the charge for a new wave of artists eager to step out of the recording studio and into the broadcast booth. Between the two contenders in the satellite market, XM and Sirius, more than 10 hip-hop artists and DJs moonlight as radio personalities.

Miami-based rapper Trick Daddy is the latest artist to join the ranks, thanks to XM. His show, "Dunk Rider Radio With Trick Daddy," debuted April 15 on the uncut hip-hop channel Raw (channel 66). During the hourlong show that is recorded at his Miami home studio, the Atlantic Records artist plays his favorite tracks, hosts live performances and interviews guests.

Although Trick Daddy has no experience in radio, Raw PD Leo G. says it was a no-brainer to bring the rapper on.

"XM takes hip-hop seriously and so does Trick—[it was] something he noticed immediately on his first visit to our studios—so it made sense to have him as a part of the growing artist family here," Leo G. explains.

Trick Daddy joins a roster that includes Blackhand/Roc-a-Fella artist Grafh, Swisha House's DJ Paul Wall and Mobb Deep featuring Prodigy and the Alchemist.

Leo G. says the artists with whom XM has partnered reflect the satcaster's dedication to hip-hop. "Raw is the truest representation of the culture, lifestyle and music of hip-hop. This is why Trick Daddy and others in our growing artist family are coming over to us."

Last year Sirius partnered with rapper Eminem, his Shady Records imprint and parent label Interscope to develop the first artist-branded radio channel. Eminem serves as co-executive producer of Shade 45, a 24-hour outlet that plays uncut hip-hop with few restrictions

"This channel gives me a direct outlet to the streets and our audience. We have the opportunity to go straight to our fans with whatever we want, where we find it. No middleman, no playlists, no bullshit," the rapper says in a statement on the Sirius Web site.

MORE PREVALENT THAN EVER

While terrestrial radio has indulged the trend for decades, the concept is more prevalent than ever. Def Jam rapper Joe Budden just completed a brief stint as morning show co-host at R&B/hip-hop WQHT (Hot 97) New York. Even rapper/producer and Virgin Records president of urban music Jermaine Dupri has gotten in on the action, hosting his own show, "So So Def Radio," on R&B/hip-hop WVEE (V-103) Atlanta.

Contemporary artists aren't the only ones making themselves at home at radio stations across the country. Hip-hop pioneers such as Dana Dane, Monie Love, Ed Lover, Kool DJ Red Alert, Marley Marl and Kurtis Blow have all kept their careers thriving by hosting radio shows.

Lover and Marl call R&B/hip-hop WWPR (Power 105.1) New York home, while Red Alert, Dane and Blow are resting comfortably at Sirius. In December, R&B/hip-hop WPHI (the Beat 100.3) Philadelphia welcomed Monie Love to morning drive.

To Blow, who is best-known for his 1980 hit "The Breaks," it isn't that farfetched for rappers to cross over into radio.

"The real thing about rapping and MC'ing is that it comes from radio. We were mimicking the guys on radio when we first started rapping. We would rock the house as orators and just entertain the people. We bring that same skill to radio," he says.

Jones agrees. "Teaching [rappers] the radio business is usually the easiest part because the hard part . . . they already get—how to communicate."

PART OF THE IMPACT OF HIP-HOP

The increase in the number of hip-hop artists dabbling in radio comes at a time when hip-hop culture has a firm grip on main-stream society. Hip-hop's influence has touched nearly every aspect of everyday life ranging from commercials and TV programming to clothing.

"Hip-hop is more general market than any other type of music," Emmis Broadcasting senior VP Barry Mayo says.

So does the influx of hip-hop talent on the airwaves translate into big bucks for the artists and the stations that host them?

"Indirectly it does," Jones says. "Usually the advertisers don't really understand the impact [of the artists] until they're already on the air, unless the artist is already a household name. The artists bring equity to the show and the advertisers flock to it. It definitely shortens the learning curve with advertisers if we go that route."

Inner City Broadcasting president/COO Charles Warfield echoes this sentiment. "It certainly gives us more credibility with the buying community when you have that association with the artists that are creating the culture. It also makes us more credible with our audiences, so it's a win-win situation for us in this industry."

'ANYTIME YOU CAN GET A PERSONALITY ON THE AIR, IT WILL BRING MORE ATTENTION TO EVERYONE INVOLVED.' -RICH RUSSO

Rich Russo, senior VP/director of broadcast services at JL Media, feels that the artist can definitely come out on top in this situation. "It definitely makes them more viable," he says, adding that it can create more partnerships down the line for the artist, which in turn can translate to more money.

Russo also feels it benefits the artists because it gives them a chance to share their extensive music pool with listeners. "These artists have access to music that the general public would probably never hear," he says. "When they host their own shows, it gives them a platform to program what they'd like to hear. Just look at Eminem on Sirius radio. With his station, he can control what the listeners get to hear."

From the standpoint of the radio station, Russo thinks that such a partnership also has positive repercussions. If the artist is successful and popular, the station can attract the attention of more advertisers with greater budgets. "Anytime you can get a personality on the air, it will bring more attention to everyone involved," Russo says.

All parties insist that it isn't completely about the money; the bottom line is connecting to their listeners.

"It's all about how can we better relate to our audience," Warfield says. "And who better to relate to our audience than the artists that are making and developing the music, have the image that is being projected in the videos and who the audiences are hearing coming out of their radios?"

A sampling of some of the artists who are gracing today's terrestrial and satellite radio broadcasts:

CAN MODERN ROCK RADIO BRIDGE THE NEW DIGITAL DIVIDE?

ypically, when the "digital divide" is discussed, we think of the lack of Internet access among the poor and geographically remote.

But there is a burgeoning online youth culture that most major media conglomerates have largely ignored. With the Recording Industry Assn. of America engaged in its second major legal offensive targeting college students and other illegal downloaders, the major labels are facing a near-total alienation of this generation of potential music buyers.

Judging from the breathtaking drop in recorded-music sales in first-quarter 2005, much of the damage may already have been done. Oddly enough, one of the biggest casualties of this super-storm may be modern rock radio.

One of the RIAA's most common refrains in 2004 was that the modest recovery that recorded-music sales made was a direct result of their lawsuits against users of peer-to-peer networks. The refrain continued that P2P was on the run and people (kids especially) were back in music stores because of the specter of litigation. The press by and large concurred, and victory was claimed.

But if the above is true (and of course it isn't, since P2P made a 20% gain last year without even including new P2P giant Bittorrent), then the RIAA should own responsibility for the prodigious downturn of 2005. The logic must then follow that those once cowed into compliance are now simply tired of being bullied and have stepped off from the industry for good. But how does this turn into friendly fire on modern rock?

First, let's dispel a common myth about today's kids.
Because they spend so much time on the Internet using instant messaging, e-mail, P2P and playing games, adults often assume that kids are retreating from society and live in their own isolated little worlds.

Nothing could be further from the truth. When a kid is logged on, you can bet she has multiple chat windows open, is reading e-mail, checking out her favorite community Web sites and sending files of pictures, videos, text and, of course, music to her friends.

And because she lives in the always-connected world, she instantaneously finds out new things about her friends (like the ones who went to the Hawthorne Heights show last night, for instance). Now all she has to do to get the music is have a friend IM it, e-mail it or download it from eDonkey, Bittorrent, IRC, Usenet, purevolume.com, downloadpunk.com or a friend's homemade Web page, blog or MySpace page. If you don't know what most of those things are, you occupy the space on the other side of the digital divide from today's youth.

In the time it took you to read Rolling Stone, get some money, buy a record and tell your friends about how great it is the next day at school, today's kids have discovered 10 new bands and turned on all their friends.

Why is modern rock radio critically important? One of my favorite major-label promotion people said it perfectly when she was describing her struggle to get an important station to "feel it from the street."

Modern rock playlists, like all commercial radio formats, largely comprise major-label artists. And the top downloaded artists as a rule come from independent labels that don't really see a whole lot of airplay.

So "the street" may be all about A Thorn for Every Heart, the Honorary Title and the aforementioned Hawthorne Heights, but you won't find them much in heavy rotation, if any, at modern.

Unable to hear many of their favorites over the airwaves, kids simply opt for the Web and Internet radio to get their music. What is worse is, since they fear the RIAA coming to their college and slapping them with another bill their parents will doubtless have to pay, they are being weaned off majorlabel product altogether.

I've heard many kids say, "Any band that would let their label sue me because I like their music is a band I'm over." Hell, they say it in the press now.

Some modern rockers are beginning to experiment with some of the great new music like Kasabian, Muse, Kings of Leon (all on majors) and my new favorite U.K. act, Kaiser Chiefs, now signed to Universal Music Group.

This trend is truly the spirit of alternative radio. It made

Los Angeles modern rocker KROQ the super-power it is today. It makes stations like San Francisco's KITS (Live 105); WBRU Providence, R.I.; and CIMX (89X) Detroit (word up for its commitment to indie band Straylight Run) a joy to listen to

BY JOE FLEISCHER

And just maybe, if it ever embraces the burgeoning "Emo Nation" that lives on absolutepunk.net, MySpace and others, modern rock will truly reflect the street and kids won't be able to do without it. Just like I felt about it in high school and college. I didn't have to worry that my love for certain artists might bounce me out of school and into a courtroom. To paraphrase Princess Leia of "Star Wars": "Help us, modern rock. You're our only hope."

Joe Fleischer is a principal of Big-Champagne, a California-based company that tracks downloads. His opinions are entirely his own.

THE STREEK IN DATA. For complete charts, there's always more at www.BillboardRadioMonitor.com

LEGEND TO CHARTS

Charts are ranked by detections except for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country charts which are based on audience impressions, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener, data.

Songs showing an increase in detections caugience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Countryl over the previous well, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive abullet if its percentage loss in detections faudience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Countryl, does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. Exempting the Country chart, a song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, every if it registers an increase in detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country). Country titles which distilling in audience but increase a bullet if the total audience erosion for the week does not exceed 3%.

AIRPOWER: awarded to songs appearing in the top20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Airpower awards do not appear on the Latin and Christian, gospel charts.

GREATEST GAINER:
awarded to the song
with the largest increase in detections audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country.

MOST AIRPLAY ADDS: awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time, this week.

TIES: A song with a gain in detections (audience-for-Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week is placed first liftied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) or each losing detections (audience for Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country), the song being played on more stations is placed first.

RECURRENT RULE:

(top 15 for adult top 40, AC, modern AC, adult R&B, heritage fock and dance) become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks. Country titles move to recurrent after 20 weeks if they rank below No. 15 and are losing audience.

Nielsen BDS certification for airplay of 100,000 detections on all monitored stations, including satellite and national networks, across the U.S. and Cagada. Numeral following symbol indicates multiple level of 100,000 detections.

Indicates title earned Hit-Predictor-status in-research data provided by Promosquad.

Playlists are listed in order of TSA weekly cume, beginning with the highest-cuming station. Cumes are updated twice yearly following the release of the spring and fall Arbitron surveys.

A+ AIRPLAY ADDS
denotes songs with 6 or more detections at station for first time this week

IMPACT! Songs at Airpower level and below with a gain in detections or with a percentage loss in detections equal to or better than the monitored downtime in the format.

INITIAL IMPACT: Indicates song's first appearance on the Impact! page,

'DAMN' BREAKS FOR MESSINA

Jo Dee Messina collects her first chart-topping single in more than three years with "My Give a Damn's Busted" (Curb). It is the country chart's first No. 1 by a solo female since Sara Evans reigned for one week with "Suds in the Bucket" last October. Messina's most recent No. 1 was "Bring On the Rain" (with Tim

"Bring On the Rain" (with Tin McGraw) in March 2002.

With a 5-1 hop, "Busted" is the first title to jump at least four spots to No. 1 since Terri Clark's "Girls Lie Too" did so in Sept∋mber 2004.

Hot on the trail of Messina's breakout is Gretchen Wilson's "Homewrecker" (Epic), which rises 6-2. The chart has not seen a pair of female artists in the top two slots since the Feb. 9, 2001, issue when Jamie O'Neal's "There Is No Arizona" led the chart and was followed by Messina's "Burn."

While jumps of four or more positions to No. 1 are rare on this chart (only three this decade), it's more unusual to have the top two songs on the list ascend so dramatically. The last time the top two slots have been overtaken with such force occurred in December 1993, when Garth Brooks' "American Honky-Tonk Bar Association" and Martina McBride's "My Baby Loves Me" made 5-1 and 6-2 jumps, respectively.

IT'S 'LONELY' AT THE TOP FOR THOMAS

Certainly no stranger to the top slot on the Adult Top 40 chart, Rob Thomas makes his first No. 1 appearance there as a solo artist with "Lonely No More" (Atlantic). As a member of Matchbox Twenty, Thomas topped the chart a record four times; his most recent was an 18-week stay with "Unwell" starting in May 2003.

Foo Fighters Add To Their Modern Top 10 Total

The Foo Fighters' "Best of Me" (RMG) moves 12-6 at Modern Rock where it earns the chart's Greatest Gainer award. It's the 11th top 10 track for the group which outnumbers the seven top 10s Dave Grohl earned as a member of Nirvana. With 18, Grohl now has the second most number of top 10 tracks at the format behind U2's 22.

"Best" also earns Greatest Gainer and Most Airplay Adds honors for a second straight week at Active Rock (21-9) and Heritage Rock (28-15) and adds Airpower stripes on each list as well.

CLARKSON ROLLS A SEVEN AT MAINSTREAM TOP 40

Kelly Clarkson holds her lead atop the Mainstream Top 40 chart for a seventh week with "Since U Been Gone" (RMG), which marks the longest-running No. 1 by a female at the format since Avril Lavigne's "Complicated" in 2002. Clarkson's "Breakaway" (Hollywood), meanwhile, holds the top of the Adult Contemporary chart for a 10th week; that is the longest run at No. 1 for a female there since Faith Hill's "Cry" in 2002.

Clarkson's reign at Mainstream Top 40 looks as though it will come to an end next issue as Gwen Stefani earns Greatest Gainer honors for a second week in a row with "Hollaback Girl" (Interscope) and jumps 7-2. "Hollaback" is the only track so far this year at Mainstream Top 40 to improve by more than 1,400 spins two weeks in a row.

SUPERSTAR DEBUTS AT ADULT R&B

R. Kelly ties Mary J. Blige as the artist with the most charted singles at Adult R&B as "Trapped in the Closet (Part 1 of 5)" (Zomba) debuts at No. 38, becoming his 28th song to hit the list. Other debuts: veteran artists Anita Baker with "Serious" (Virgin) at No. 27 and Smokey Robinson with "My World" (UME) at No. 39. It is his first appearance at Adult R&B since "Sleepin' In" in 2000.

Mariah Carey also joins the debut parade with "We Belong Together" (IDJMG) at No. 34. The track is Carey's 20th to hit the chart, which ties her with Whitney Houston for second behind Blige among female artists at the format.

"Together" continues to move up various charts, including Mainstream Top 40 (37-26), Rhythmic Top 40 (8-5) and R&B/Hip-Hop (16-9). The track marks the first top five at Rhythmic Top 40 for Carey since "Heartbreaker" in 1999 and her first top 10 at R&B/Hip-Hop since 2000's "Thank God I Found You."

BILLBOARD CHART MANAGER WANTED

VNU Business Media publishes over 50 business publications, stages more than 50 trade shows and conferences and operates approximately 200 business-to-business electronic products. We operate around the globe, covering some of the most powerful industries in the world including entertainment, retail, media, travel and design.

Billboard And Billboard Radio Monitor, two VNU Publications, are currently seeking an individual to manage the R&B/ Hip-Hop, Rhythmic and Reggae charts in our New York office. This chart manager will be responsible for all aspects of those genres in Billboard Radio Monitor and on the magazines' respective web sites. Qualified individual will be the Billboard and Billboard Radio Moritor representative to the R&B, Rhythm, Reggae, and Gospel label, radio station, and retail communities, and act as a liaison for those formats with our data providers, Nielsen Broadcast Data Systems and Nielsen SoundScan. The chart manager also co-writes a weekly chart column in Billboard Radio Monitor and weekly chart tems in Billboard. Must also pen chart items for daily format emails.

The Ideal candidate will be a self starter, and have a minimum of 3 years of professional experience working either in journalism, the radio business, the record business or some related field. Must be able to speak the language of radio programmers and understand their issues and challenges as well as have strong radio and industry relationships. Bachelors degree in a relevant area of study required. Prior published writing experience a plus.

Please send résumé and a cover letter including salary requirements to: att: HR Dept - Ig, Email: entertainrecruit@vnubuspubs.com. Visit our website: www.vnubusinessmedia.com.

Only candidates selected for interviews will be contacted. No phone calls or agencies please. VNU Business Media offers a competitive salary with excellent benefits. VNU is an equal opportunity employer.

HitPREDICTOR column

GREEN DAY'S "Holiday" debuts at mainstream top 40 and continues the pand's string of hits. This is the fourth song to earn HitPredictor status from its Grammy Award-winning "American Idiot" album. Because the band continues to score in multiple formats, those four songs have amassed seven HitPredictor picks.

Newcomer D.H.T. lands a spot on the mainstream top 40 chart this issue with a cover of Roxette's "Listen to Your Heart." Remakes of hits from the '80s have been scoring big lately. D.H.T. joins No Doubt, the Goo Goo Dolls, the Ataris and other acts that have exhumed songs from the not-too-distant past.

Eminem is another artist who has kept the hits coming from his latest album. Every single he has released has gone top 10, and they all have been HitPredictor picks. His latest, "Ass Like That," jozus their ranks this issue at rhythmic top 40.

John Legend follows the R&B/hip-hop hit and HitPredictor pick "Ordinary People" with a rhythmic top 40 HP pick as his "Number One" debuts at that format. Speaking of R&B/hip-hop hits, Lil Jon is set for another after his chart-topping "Lovers and Friends." New single "Get Crunk" debuts at R&B/hip-hop this issue.

Jack Johnson, Kelly Clarkson and Coldplay all add their latest singles to the adult top 40 column. None are strangers to the format. The same cannot be said for new Warner Bros, band Dark New Day. The act makes its debut on the HitPredictor charts with first single "Brother.
