LABOR'S POSITION ON PROPOSED WAGE REDUCTIONS

Correspondence Between Prof. Irving Fisher, Political Economist of Yale University and President William Green of the A. F. of L.

Prof. Fisher's Letter

Mr. WILLIAM GREEN, President,
American Federation of Labor,
Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mr. Green:

I am, as you are, greatly concerned about the need to maintain the real incomes and the buying power of the workers. It seems to me that the policy of maintaining wage rates, announced by President Hoover and supported by organized labor, is economically unsound and has not only failed to maintain buying power, but has seriously aggravated and prolonged the industrial depression. Wage rates, to a very considerable degree, have been maintained, but the money earnings of workers have fallen probably 23 per cent. since 1929. Even when the increased purchasing power of the dollar is taken into account, the total real incomes and the buying power of workers have undoubtedly fallen more than 12 per cent.

Unemployment, total and partial, is, of course, responsible for this serious drop in workers' buying power, and maintained money wage rates are doubtless responsible for much of this unemployment. I need scarcely point out that the fall of more than 12 per cent. in the workers' cost of living since July, 1929, has increased the buying power of each dollar of wages about 14 per cent. Freezing money wage rates fast in the face of declining cost of living and general commodity prices has actually increased real wage rates by about 14 per cent. and has caused many employers to discharge thousands of workers.

The attempt then to maintain workers' buying power by maintaining money wage rates has signally failed. Money costs of production per unit have declined little, if at all, while market prices have crashed. High unit costs have retarded production and increased unemployment. The building and construction industries have been, in the past, especially important to tide over depressions and to start business on the upward swing. The great slump in building and construction during 1930-31 is largely due to high unit costs because money wage rates have not declined and the real costs of building have been increased.

Maintained buying power, not maintained money wage rates, is the policy which should have commanded the support of organized workers, employers, the government, and the public. Had this policy been carried out, many thousands of workers who are now unemployed in whole or in part would now be working and the situation would not be so gloomy and discouraging.

Much mischief has already been done by the "maintain-money-wages" policy, but I think it is not yet too late to inaugurate the policy of "maintained-buying-power-wages." I think it would be a great strategic and constructive act if the representatives of organized workers would announce to employers and the public that the workers are unalterably opposed to the permanent reduction in workers' living standards, due to unemployment, and that as a means of helping to maintain those standards and the buying power of the workers in this time of gloom, they are ready to enter into wage contracts providing for wage rates of unchanging buying power.

The wage rates would vary according to the index number of the cost of living, so that if and when the cost of living should again rise, money wage rates would rise in the same proportion, thus maintaining the standard of wages so far as the purchasing power is concerned at the pre-depression level. In making such adjustments, the calculations of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics would, of course, be used.

This would, it seems to me, answer the chief objection which workers have to a reduction of wages, namely, the fear that there would be no restoration of the original money wages when the cost of living later should require it. Of course, over and above the proposed corrections on the basis of the cost of living there could and would be individual adjustments on other grounds.

As you remember, such index number wages, or "Market Basket" wages, were arranged during the war and were considered practicable for millions of laboring men in this country, England and elsewhere, having been found necessary because of the rapid fluctuations in the cost of living. We have the same rapid fluctuations today, although the start-off is in the opposite direction from the first fluctuations in war-time.

I realize that the wage-earner wishes to retain any advantage which he may have received from this depression, but in my opinion, he has received no advantage, and the effort to keep money wages out of line with commodity prices has merely resulted in more unemployment and deepened the depression. You will observe that the idea of maintaining the American standard of living for the working man is the very heart and core of my suggestions. However, we should strive to maintain that standard of living in terms of real incomes and purchasing

William Green, President
Washington, D. C.

PROFESSOR IRVING FISHER,
Department of Political Economy,
Yale University,
New Haven, Connecticut.

My Dear Sir:

Your letter dated August 21st has been received and read with very great interest. For obvious reasons such opinions as you express and such recommendations as you make regarding remedies which you recommend be applied to the distressing situation which prevails, are received with a feeling of sincere and deep appreciation. Notwithstanding the great value which I place upon your judgment and your recommendations, I find myself in definite conflict and in total disagreement with your logic, your conclusions and the remedy you propose for our industrial ills.

In your communication you state that "maintained money wage rates are doubtless responsible for much of this unemployment." You produce neither argument nor facts to substantiate this statement. If this allegation were true, why is it that unemployment continues in Germany and in England where money wage rates have been reduced to a bare subsistence level? Your theory has been accepted and applied in Germany and England and yet unemployment exists in those countries in a most aggravated form. In our own land, in many industrial communities, the wages of helpless workers have been reduced, and notwithstanding this fact they are suffering from unemployment more acute and distressing than existed before the earning power of these workers had been reduced. This is particularly true of the textile, bituminous coal and agricultural industry, as well as other miscellaneous trades.

The facts are against your contention. Reductions in wages have not stimulated or increased buying power. You offer as an argument in support of your proposal that wages be reduced to stimulate buying power that commodity prices and the cost of living have decreased in round numbers 12 per cent. You conclude that this means that the buying power of each dollar earned in wages has increased 14 per cent. You offer these statistical facts as an argument in favor of the imposition of reductions in wages.

One of the chief causes of the present depression was the fact that the purchasing power of the masses of the people had not kept pace with their increasing power of production. Unemployment came upon us because the masses of the people could not buy back in volume the goods their skill, their training and their hands produced. Your proposal would aggravate one of the real causes of the existing industrial depression by reducing further the already limited purchasing power of the masses of the people.

How could we find a market for manufactured goods if buying power, which was already impaired and too low before the depression came, is lowered to a marked and still greater degree?

You have failed to take into account the increased productivity of individual workers when you refer to the fact that commodity prices have declined 12 per cent. The decline in these commodity prices has been practically offset by the increased efficiency and productivity of individual workers. In the decade ending 1929 the productivity of individual workers increased 54 per cent. in manufacturing industries, while real wages increased only 24.3 per cent. Furthermore, Julius Klein, assistant to Secretary Lamont, states that labor costs in manufacturing industries constituted 16 per cent. of the total cost. This being true, a 10 per cent. reduction in wages would reduce total production costs 1.6 per cent.

Let us make some comparison of the application of the old economic theory which you seem to follow that in periods of depression wages must be reduced, with the new modern economic viewpoint that prosperity depends upon the maintenance of a high mass purchasing power. We can do this by making comparison of the policy pursued during the depressed period of 1921 with the industrial policy pursued during the depression of 1930.

In 1930 business activity fell to 24.3 per cent. below normal. In 1921 the lowest point was 18.4 per cent. below normal. It is clear from a comparison of these figures that in 1930 the depression was more severe than in 1921. But in 1930 wage cuts were very few compared to wage cuts in 1921. In 1921 there were 92 wage cuts for every 100 firms reporting to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In 1930 there were 7 wage cuts for every 100 firms reporting. In 1930 workers in factories did not suffer as severely as in 1921. In 1921 the incomes of all workers declined on an average of 33 per cent. from 1920. The trend of public opinion between the years 1921 and 1930 shows that there was a widespread realization of the fact that machinery and power had made imperatively necessary the development of a high and still higher purchasing power on the part of the consuming public if manufactured goods are to find a market which would distribute them and use them in a volume corresponding with the increased facilities of production.

LIMITING THE WEALTH OF INDIVIDUALS

Shall the Wealth of Individuals Be Reduced? Thousands of Thinking Americans Fear for the Future of Our Beloved America.

By GUY W. REID

We shall probably never again see general nor permanent prosperity in America until the wealth of individuals is limited by law; and with the highly mechanized condition of industry, there will never again, aside from an occasional spurt of activity, be jobs enough on full time for our millions of workers.

Lack of employment in the cities and high taxes in the rural districts have been responsible for the loss of hundreds of thousands of homes and small farms, this property eventually adding to the already immense fortunes of an extremely small percentage of our people.

It is true that America owes much of her success and power to capitalists, but corporations composed of the many can accomplish as much. A few greedy individuals have created a dangerous situation which is rapidly bringing about the ruin of the country. Our tax laws do not prevent the pyramiding of fortunes, so it behooves the millions of true Americans to work for a Constitutional Amendment providing for the reduction and limitation of individual wealth of citizens and non-citizens.

It is a fallacy to suppose that the raising of wages alone can cure our economic ills, as no sooner does the worker receive an increase in pay than the price of the product is increased to cover the additional cost, and the worker is no better off than before.

Now, let us suppose that the Constitution was so amended, what should the procedure be?

Let the amendment provide for a commission whose duties would be to—

See that all fortunes are reduced to, say $10,000,000 inclusive of foreign holdings within two years of the date of the amendment, not less than one-third of the surplus to go to the government and the rest of the surplus to be given federal, state and municipal institutions.

Determine every ten years, due to fluctuations in the value of the dollar, the maximum wealth to be allowed an individual.

Receive an itemized annual statement of wealth from all persons possessed of $1,000,000 or more, beginning the second year from the date of the amendment, and receive for the government any excess over the maximum allowed.

Prevent the transfer out of the country, to evade the law, of money or property.

Provide a long term of imprisonment in addition to a heavy fine, or deprivation of citizenship, for falsifying statements or other violations.

Let us consider the benefits of such a law—

The government would be enabled to lighten our tax burden and give other relief, provide better educational facilities, etc.

Wages would be higher, as the millionaire nearing the wealth maximum would rather pass his excess profits on to his employes than to turn them over to the government.

Prices on manufactures, etc., would be lower as he would rather give the public the benefit of his excess profits than to have the government receive them.

With higher wages and lower living costs the wage-earner would work shorter hours, and this would mean more jobs, giving employment again to the millions now out of work.

The farmer, with his tax burden lightened and his expenses lowered, could accept comparatively low prices for his produce, get along comfortably and realize a profit from his labor. Then the thousands of tons of good food that are being destroyed or allowed to rot would feed the thousands of our cities who are practically starving.

In comparison with the per capita wealth of the nation, $10,000,000 is as much as any person should be allowed to possess, whether he has obtained it through inheritance, inventive genius or good business.

Now, dear readers, if you favor such an amendment you must work for it now, every one of you, if you or even your children are ever to receive the benefit of it. Talk about it among your friends; demand it of your Congressmen.

We hear of discontent all over the country and some people even predict revolution and communism, but a bloody revolution would get us nowhere and no sensible American could ever favor communism; so let us be calm and patient, but work earnestly and effectively for a CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO REDUCE AND LIMIT INDIVIDUAL FORTUNES, so as to preserve the American home and the traditions of our ancestors.

Insulted

She came to her husband in tears. "I've been insulted," she spluttered. "Your mother has insulted me." "My mother?" he exclaimed. "But, Alice—she's miles away." "I know. But a letter came for you this morning addressed in your mother's handwriting—and I opened it." He looked stern. "I see. But where does the insult come in?" Alice wept all the more. "In the—the postscript," she answered. "It said: 'Dear Alice, don't forget to give this letter to George'."—Ex.

LABORGRAMS

Repeat: The average trade union wage in the United States is more than double the average of all wages and a great deal more than double the average non-union wage. IT PAYS TO BE A UNION MAN.

Bankers are going to loan more than a billion dollars to the United States. Somehow the bankers had no trouble in getting that billion.

Organized workers will not be in this winter's bread lines. Unions care for their unemployed. It is estimated that organized labor is paying at the rate of a million dollars a week for maintenance of unemployed.

It is a hot shot that while A. T. & T. Boss Gifford is directing unemployment relief, Western Electric, A. T. & T. subsidiary, has laid off workers to help swell the army for which Mr. Gifford must raise money. Chickens come home to roost.

Prosperity can be had this winter, IF industry—not politicians, but INDUSTRY—will provide work to do the things and make the things this nation needs and wants.

The constitution authorizes ONLY the government to issue currency and fix the value thereof, but NINETY-SIX PER CENT OF ALL MONEY IS MADE AND ISSUED BY BANKS and these, by inflating and deflating, ALSO FIX THE VALUE TO A LARGE EXTENT. Who said the constitution is supreme?

Farmers, with grain piled high at ruination prices, would grin from ear to ear with happy markets if Volsteadism were knocked out.

Prof. Fisher's Letter

power so far as possible in spite of the depression.

I am suggesting that you make a voluntary reduction. This may seem so unprecedented as to be objectionable, but the very fact that it was voluntary would add enormously in the influence on the depression. The mere announcement that you, or a committee for the A. F. of L., recommended such a reduction as a safeguard against any impairment in the American standard of living would throw an electric thrill through the whole world similar to that which followed Mr. Hoover's proposal for a moratorium. But if the laboring man accepted the proposal, there would be no such recrudescence of pessimism as followed the President's announcement, which was due to the fact that France appeared unwilling to cooperate voluntarily.

For many years I have in published writings suggested the necessity for stable purchasing power of money, in the interests of all concerned, but particularly of labor, whose interests are of the greatest importance.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) IRVING FISHER.

Proper Precaution

A small boy astride a donkey was taking some supplies to an army camp in Texas not long ago. He reached camp just as a detachment of soldiers, preceded by a band, was on parade. The lad dismounted and held the bridle of the donkey tight in his hand. "Why are you holding onto your brother so hard?" teasingly asked one of a group of soldiers who were standing nearby. "I'm afraid he might enlist," replied the youngster, without batting an eyelash.—Garment Worker.

There is another fact in connection with your proposal to which I respectfully call your attention. Price declines have been greatest in raw materials and least in finished products. There has been a decline of 33.6 per cent. in raw materials, 29 per cent. in semi-manufactured goods and 23.1 per cent. in finished goods from the 1929 level. The difference in these declines represents considerable saving in cost to the manufacturer, for if he buys raw materials and manufactures semi-manufactured goods, his price for materials has declined more than his price for his product. If he buys semi-manufactured goods and manufactures finished products, the price he pays for materials has declined more than the price of his product.

You emphasize that you allege is the high wage paid in the building industry. You allege that, "The great slump in building and construction during 1930-31 is largely due to high unit costs because money wage rates have not declined and the real costs of building have been increased." Here, again, in my opinion, your judgment and your conclusions are unsound and erroneous.

What are the facts regarding the building industry? Building costs in June, 1931, were considerably below the 1929 level. In brick construction with wood frame they had declined 16.4 per cent.; in brick construction with steel frame, 15.7 per cent., and in reinforced concrete, 16.4 per cent. Notwithstanding this substantial decline in building costs, building and building construction is less. The facts are that the building decline is due very largely to over-building. In May, 1931, following a two-year period of building decline, Standard Statistics states, "We believe that vacancies in apartments average not far from 15 to 20 per cent." In offices, the National Association of Building Owners and Managers reports that in 41 cities on January 1st, 1931, vacancies averaged 14.7 per cent.

The situation has led to a shrinkage in the value of real estate of from 10 to 50 per cent. Rents for dwelling houses have been decreased 8.1 per cent from October, 1929, to March, 1931. Real estate values have been greatly impaired. Much of this is directly traceable to speculation, to over-capitalization and to faulty financing. Building will not resume its normal trend until the fear and distrust which influence the public have been removed. The bonds of real estate executed by many responsible bonding houses have so declined in value that the security of many of these bonding houses has been seriously impaired and the values of the securities have shrunk to a most serious point. How can the building industry be stimulated and how can building operations be carried on under such circumstances?

The real basis of our trouble regarding building operations is not traceable to the wages paid, which after all constitute but a small part of the cost of building, but is traceable largely to the fact that we have over-built, that speculation and faulty financing have brought financial distress and as a result of this and other corresponding causes the banks and the financiers of the nation will not now finance building operations. Labor is not to blame for this state of affairs.

Permit me to state in conclusion that while I entertain the most profound regard for your expressed opinion and judgment upon economic questions I can not follow your suggestion and recommendation that wages be reduced and that the officers of the American Federation of Labor make a dramatic announcement in favor of a reduction in wages.

Labor has constantly fought against what we regard as a false economic basis, the establishment of wage rates upon a cost of living basis. If we would accept that point of view the door of hope would be closed. We could never build a standard of living higher or above a cost of living basis. We have accepted the other point of view, a new and more sound economic philosophy. We steadfastly maintain that our wage standards and our wage rates must be based upon the increasing power of individual production. We contend that wages must rise not altogether with the cost of living, but corresponding with the increased efficiency and productivity of individual workers, made possible through the introduction of machinery and power.

For your information I enclose a copy of a statement issued by direction and authority of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor when it met on August 6th. This represents the American Federation of Labor point of view regarding wages. The opinions and sentiments expressed in this statement reflect the mature, calm and deliberate judgment of the members of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

I regret I can not concur in your point of view nor accept your recommendation that American labor voluntarily accept a reduction in wages.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) WILLIAM GREEN,
President,
American Federation of Labor.

Statement issued by William Green, President, American Federation of Labor, August, 1931, Atlantic City, N. J.

The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor reiterated and reaffirmed its original position in opposition to attempted reductions in wages. It is firmly of the opinion that the distressing unemployment situation can be overcome only through the development of the purchasing power of the masses of the people to its maximum capacity. The facts are overwhelmingly in favor of the position assumed by the American Federation of Labor. The widespread unemployment which prevails throughout the nation is due to a lack of buying power upon the part of the masses of the people. The purchasing power of more than six million wage-earners has been totally destroyed because they have been forced into unemployment. There must be added to this large number many millions more who are working part time only, and who are dependent upon those unemployed and part-time workers. The many millions of dollars which have thus been lost will never be retrieved. The amount of goods this vast army could have bought and consumed if they could have been maintained in reasonably steady employment would have prevented a continuation of the distressing situation which now exists. In the light of these economic facts it is amazing to observe the statements of some who propose a further impairment of the purchasing power of the limited number of workers now employed through the imposition of reduction in wages. Unemployment will continue just as long as the purchasing power of the masses of the people rests below and beneath the ability to produce manufactured goods. Obviously, the consuming market which is very largely made up of the masses of the people must absorb manufactured products and manufactured commodities in a volume corresponding with the production facilities of industry. This can only be accomplished when the consuming power of this great purchasing market corresponds with the productivity and efficiency of industry. Low wages mean unemployment, human distress and human suffering. The present unemployment situation will never be relieved until wages are built up so that men and women can buy and consume. The Executive Council commends very highly those employers and owners of industry who have subscribed to the high wage philosophy enunciated by the American Federation of Labor and who, during this depression, have steadfastly discharged their obligation and kept the promise made to the President of the United States to maintain the wage structure. On the other hand, the Council condemns, in a most vigorous way, the action of those employers who have taken advantage of human distress and human suffering to impose and force wage reductions in spite of the protest of the workers involved as well those who represent them. It is the unflinching purpose of the American Federation of Labor to stand resolutely against reduction in wages. We are sure of our position. We are confident that in assuming this attitude we are contributing toward the highest and best interests of all the people and through such action we are serving as best we can to bring about a restoration of normal conditions at the earliest possible moment.

Axe Was Left at Home

Sambo had found a job for the week on a railroad section gang, and was taking leave of his family when his wife came to the door and shouted:

"Come back heah, Sam. You hasn't cut a stick of wood fo' de stove—and you'll be gone a week!"

The negro turned and looked very much aggrieved.

"Honey," he said in a tone of injured innocence, "what's de mattah? You all talks as though Ah was takin' de axe with me."—Harry Fox.

Advance in your profession

....learn to COMPOSE and ARRANGE MUSIC this twice-as-easy home-study way

NOW it is possible for you to quickly climb the ladder of musical success. Now, through a simplified method, prepared by the celebrated exponent of Harmony and Composition, C. W. Wilcox, and proven successful by more than 50,000 musicians, you can learn Harmony and Composition—thoroughly and practically—right in your own home, in one-half the usual time!

ASTOUNDING as it may seem, in the first lesson you start learning all about chord construction, how to harmonize a scale—how to find the fundamental basses to a melody, etc. You learn to do practical "off-hand" orchestrations, how to arrange for the melody part alone, even without the aid of any instrument! You not only learn how to harmonize music for any size orchestra or band but you also learn how to compose! In the privacy of your own home you learn easily and thoroughly in one-half the usual time, because you spend no tedious hours with dry-as-dust theory—nor is there any unnecessary waiting between these fascinating lessons. Best of all, the cost is only a fraction of that charged by conservatories.

WHY ENVY A HOT PLAYER? BE ONE
You can easily learn to play "hot" with "HOT MELODY SECRETS" New 2nd edition just published, enlarged to 15 professional secrets (formerly "HOT MELODY SECRETS") at no increase in price. Shortest and most practical improvising book on the market today. Successfully taught for ten years. All instruments except piano.
Teaches how to: improvise on sight; improvise in any key; and play hot on melody without use of harmony. Continuous hot style throughout the chorus. All tricks printed with notes.
$3—SPECIALLY PRICED—$3
What users say: J. A. Bkert, Chicago, Ill.—"If you can't play hot after learning these secrets you never will."
We do hottest arranging of all kinds at lowest prices. Write for prices.

The "Money Boys" Got Theirs

WHILE the big boom lasted, the "money boys" were busy cleaning up. Bank dividends soared. Industrial dividends soared.

There were write-ups and split-ups and all kinds of ups for those already up.

Now the United States government needs something over a billion dollars to make up its yawning deficit.

Where does Uncle Sam go for this money?

He goes to the big bankers who got it when the getting was good.

The big bankers knew how to levy taxes that would get the money!

Uncle Sam could do worse than tax some of it away from them; then he wouldn't have to borrow so much.

About Money—Who Has It?

WE are taught that money is a Medium of Exchange.

Under our banking system, money has become a commodity in the markets of the world, with stocks and bonds, subject to combines, pools and corners—and today 6 per cent of the people own or control 90 per cent of the medium of exchange.

Right now 5 billions of dollars in gold is in storage. And nine-tenths of the credit of the country is housed in the great banking centers. When money is static, standing still, hoarded by individuals or great banking corporations, wealth is static and depressions occur.

To facilitate this control of money, international bankers have forced nations to adopt the gold standard—making a gold basis of value for all money, regardless of its source of issue or redemption basis, because it can be easily controlled and manipulated.

Think of the picnic our wheat growers would have if all other commodities had to be redeemed in wheat.

A recent statement issued by the Federal Reserve Bank based on the volume of business transacted through clearing houses in one day indicated that every dollar in actual circulation turned over 99 times and each time carried a charge of interest for use or discount.

Business pays the cost of use of money for 365 days per year, 24 hours each day—a total of 8,760 hours per year, but really uses it less than 3,000 hours, making the capital cost at least 18 per cent. This cost is eventually loaded on the backs of the ultimate consumer.

Our national wealth is estimated at 260,000 millions, but against this wealth, billions of outstanding liabilities, national, state, county, municipal and individual, must be charged. Interest payments by the people of the United States on public and private debts practically equals the entire income of the people.

Because of this condition the older financiers are entailing their estates in trust companies, removing their money from the realm of active industry. Governor Norman of the Bank of England predicts that if this policy is continued there will be no money in another generation—it will be private property.

Money is a subject little understood by the average man. He has left it to the banker. The unparalleled number of bank wrecks with tremendous losses to depositors show that money is little understood by many of those engaged in juggling it.

Modify the Volstead Act

MODIFY the Volstead Act and meet the tax issue," is the demand of Labor's National Committee for Modification of the Volstead Act, denouncing the proposed sales tax.

"Sales tax proposals are vicious, load an unfair burden upon those least able to pay and merely place a new burden on business generally, as well as upon the wage earners," says the committee, of which Matthew Woll is chairman and I. M. Ornburn is secretary-treasurer.

"To turn to modification of the Volstead Act for revenue, as well as for reduction of crime and restoration of freedom and temperance, is the sane, sensible, American thing to do.

"It is undoubtedly true that every cent of required revenue could be raised by a sales tax, but it also is true that by that method of raising money we should be merely forcing our people, already deeply swamped in unemployment and misery, deeper into the gloom of depression. If the purpose of government is to burden the people beyond all hope, then by all means let there be a sales tax! Load the pennies and dimes of taxation onto the six millions of unemployed. Reduce the masses to the struggling level of the masses of the people of England and Germany. If that is statesmanship, then let us have something less dignified in name, but more sane and sound in purpose!

"The present cost of enforcement is about seventeen million dollars a year. The national, state and local revenue from liquor in the last year before Volsteadism amounted to some 529 millions of dollars. Let us restore that revenue and stop that idiotic outlay of money for so-called enforcement.

"But the combined cost of enforcement and possible revenue from taxation is not all that the government would gain through modification. Vast employment would begin immediately and there would be healthy increases in income taxes. It is not possible to compare the gain through income taxes with the income tax payments of the last pre-Volstead year, but on the face of it the gain would be great, both in individual incomes and in corporate incomes. The money that would flow into every line of business from wages and salaries paid would produce taxable results generally and would, primarily and in addition, increase the buying power of great masses of people and stimulate at least eighty lines of manufacture."

Labor Queries - - -

Questions and Answers on Labor: What It Has Done; Where It Stands on Problems of the Day; Its Aim and Program; Who's Who in the Ranks of the Organized Toilers, etc., etc.

Q.—Who is Holt Ross?

A.—President of the Mississippi State Federation of Labor.

Q.—What school in New York City is named after Samuel Gompers?

A.—The new Samuel Gompers Industrial High School for Boys, which will be finished in February, 1932.

Q.—What were the Combination Laws of 1799 and 1800 in England?

A.—They were laws making it criminal to combine for the purpose of securing an increase in wages, or changes in the hours or conditions of work. They were repealed in 1824.

Q.—How can retail dealers find out where to obtain union-labelled goods?

A.—By asking the Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, 202-204 A. F. of L. Building, Washington, D. C., for a copy of the directory of manufacturers using labels of unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Q.—What famous Illinois Governor said: "Government by injunction is incompatible with republican institutions"?

A.—John P. Altgeld. The quotation is from a speech at Cooper Union, New York City, October 17, 1896. The full quotation follows: "Government by injunction is incompatible with republican institutions, and if it is to be sustained then there is an end to trial by jury in our country, and instead of being governed by law we will be subject to government by judges, and if government by injunction is to be sustained as to federal judges, then we will soon have it on the part of State judges and the very foundations of free institutions will have disappeared."

Out Beyond the Surf--

Where thought, unhastened by necessity or trepidation, sometimes penetrates to truth. Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

There is no security for the masses.

For them there is struggle.

It is battle, battle, battle.

Workers must struggle with employers for a decent wage and for decent conditions of work.

Every now and then a worker plunges from a scaffold, or is killed in a mine.

Most always the wages don't buy the things desired. Always there is a struggle.

Often men say, "What's the use?"

The human frame gets tired; the mind gets tired.

Perhaps that's why the motion pictures draw their crowds, even in hard times.

The race struggles, the while crying for surcease.

BUT IT STRUGGLES ON.

Does it pay? Of course, it pays.

Man has heaved and struggled up out of the very muck.

The serf touched his forelock as the master passed. But for struggle we should still do that.

It was a small thing, but it betokened a status—a position, with the master on one side of a line, the servant on the other, fixed for keeps.

That is, for keeps, had there been no struggle.

We struggle against politicians.

We cry out against crooks and grafters and fools.

But there, too, the struggle has paid.

There are crooks yet, but no crook today is as sure he can get away with it as any crook was fifty years ago.

And we get more good service per officeholder than we used to get.

Through struggle we have left behind a lot of the abuses and tortures of the "good old days."

When you get tired of the struggle, find a quiet seat and think it over—what if everyone had got tired and quit?

George Washington struggled and an army struggled with him.

Samuel Gompers struggled and an army struggled with him.

Pasteur struggled, Walter Reed struggled, Edison struggled.

And all along, bands of men whose names have never illuminated the pages of books have struggled, unsung heroes, taking the human race forward.

No great good thing has been given. Every great good thing has been taken by men and women who have struggled until they won.

Magna Charta was no gift—it was a victory.

Mankind may get tired, but it must struggle.

Some divine spark in the human heart demands an even better life.

The struggle will go on and, for as we have come, we shall go farther.

A few may tire, but the million cannot halt their forward march.

Over the hill the sun rises in promise. We must be there to see it.

WE MUST GO FORWARD. WE MUST STRUGGLE.

And so, we struggle onward. As it has been, so shall it be. Who, then, can afford to admit weariness while his fellows fight his battle?—C. M. W.

Trade Unions Care for Their Own

ALL over the United States trade unions are taxing their members for relief of their unemployed.

The unemployed who must be cared for by public funds are the UNORGANIZED unemployed.

That is a thought for Mr. Gifford, picked to manage relief work, though he says his job will be to back up local committees raising local funds.

It has been estimated that unions are raising a million dollars a week for relief.

BANKERS gave as much in proportion there would be no problem.

But, at bottom, what is wanted is WORK—not relief. Until INDUSTRY provides work, industry is guilty, GUILTY, GUILTY!

That is a thought for managers and bankers.

If we are ever going to derive the untold benefits that are waiting for us through the widespread use of the union label, it is absolutely necessary for us to shake off mental torpor and do some logical thinking, and then act in accordance with the conclusions that will inevitably result from that thinking. Insist upon the union label.

He who lends aid to an enemy in time of war is regarded as treasonable. Is the union man who from choice buys non-union-made products less so to his fellows even in peace time?

OVER FEDERATION FIELD

By CHAUNCEY A. WEAVER

Announcement is made of the death of Daniel Bruno of Local No. 802, which sad event occurred on the twenty-sixth day of August, 1931, in New York City. Brother Bruno was fifty-two years of age and was a native of the metropolis. He was a loyal supporter of the policies of the American Federation of Musicians. He was regarded as one of the best vaudeville theatre leaders in the city and had held responsible positions in Keith and R. K. O. houses for more than twenty years. Upon the formation of Local No. 802 as successor to Local No. 310, in 1921, he was elected chairman of the Local Trial Board and held the place until the day of his death. In professional life his instrument was the violin. He had been delegate to several national Federation conventions—his last appearance in that capacity being at Boston. Shortly after having been operated upon for appendicitis he was attacked by the strange malady known as sleeping sickness and was a great sufferer during the last eight months of his life. Dan will be greatly missed by the Local which he served so faithfully, as well as by a large number of friends he had made throughout Federation circles.

After having exploited all the mechanical fads which inventive genius can possibly produce perhaps the theatre managers will return to humanly produced music for which the public is already showing a deep desire.

Mahatma Gandhi may not be much of a fashion-plate so far as clothes are concerned, and yet for hot weather apparel he has notions which are positively worth considering.

We sometimes wonder whether a certain type of newspaper men write to disseminate sound ideas or simply to fill space. For a case in point we glean the following editorial from a Racine, Wisconsin, paper:

The capture of the New York hoodlums who kidnaped Charles Rosenthal is said to be due to his identification of orchestra music which he heard while in captivity. The police took him from one club to another, and he recognized the music in one. The apartment in which he had been held, in the neighborhood, was thus located.

Truth in this instance really is stranger than fiction. It takes a discerning ear to tell the difference between the music or the bands in these clubs. There is no harmony and the cadence of all is the same. Most of the organizations are orchestras simply because they have instruments and make loud noises, and they are called orchestras because we have, as yet, no other name for them.

Although the writer uses the plural, the main text of his article would indicate that only one hoodlum was involved. It is not at all strange that with his other hoodlum characteristics this chap may have had an ear for music. Nature occasionally presents in a single personality a strange compound medley of tastes and capabilities. So far as music in New York clubs is concerned, while we have heard but a few, we believe the average "discerning" ear would be able to differentiate. When he states that "most of the organizations are orchestras simply because they have instruments" he ignorantly slanders a large group of professional players whose musical qualifications he is too deficient in culture to understand. It would be interesting to hear a concrete example of what this editor would call a "harmony producing" orchestra.

An interesting news item has recently appeared to the effect that Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who has made her home in France in recent years, has composed a Funeral March which "is entirely different" than the somber dirges with which we are all familiar. "Why," she asks, "should one enter into a new adventure—death—to the strains of the lugubrious, if beautiful, March Funebre by Chopin? Let the passing be a joyous, happy occasion, celebrated with gay, happy music." We have an idea there are "more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of" in Mrs. Belmont's philosophy. It is all well enough for a certain class of people to talk in carefree, indifferent, or even buoyant phraseology about the advent of the Grim Reaper, but the vast majority are not so constituted. Its coming produces shock. The atmosphere it creates is one of gravity. It is only after reflection has helped to mollify the sting and the spirit of resignation is allowed to function that the clouds begin to lift. Chopin had the right conception of a Funeral March, and without having heard Mrs. Belmont's creation we make bold to predict that she will not improve upon the masterpiece mentioned. Who can ever forget that somber introduction? What could be more joyous or uplifting than the majestic swing into the major strain? The latter, however, would lose much of its wonderful effect without the solemn theme with which the number is introduced. Great was Chopin and greater still his enrichment of the literature of deathless music!

Six hitherto unheard of dances by Franz Schubert have been discovered. Our jazz impresarios will doubtless proceed to give them the proper fox-trot swing.

Mr. Damrosch is credited with the prediction that America will grow more and more musically conscious until at the end of fifty years we shall have 50,000 small-town bands practicing every night from Maine to California. To all of which the Baltimore Sun is moved to respond:

What a swelling volume of discord this prophecy upholds before the imagination of all who have been within the range of a small-town band at practice. The neighbor's boy learning to play the saxophone is not a circumstance to the small-town band when its members first began to pick out the "Double Eagle March." Loud speakers for blocks around cannot disturb the summer air to such frenzied vibrations as those for which the bass horn and the slide trombone can be responsible in the preliminary stages of their collaboration.

Mr. Damrosch seems to believe he is picturing an America brightened and enlivened by music. As a matter of fact, he is picturing a country deadened by noise. Against the fate he has reserved for us the Maxim silencer would seem to be our only protection. There is just time to equip every small-town house from Maine to California with the new appliance before the trouble begins.

We have an idea that both Mr. Damrosch and the Sun editor have given undue play to their individual imaginations. The town bands are not nearly as numerous as they used to be; but the high school bands are multiplying rapidly. If bands become sufficiently numerous and windjammified to drown out the automobile honking and other barbarous noises incidental to urban existence they may prove a blessing which even the apprehensive editor of the Baltimore Sun will be glad to approve.

October is also the month for payment of your last quarterly dues.

After four months of weather too hot in which to dance that particular line of business depression should begin to evaporate.

It is reported that the government has ordered the pay of Washington scrub women cut $1.25 per week. Something had to be done to recoup the Farm Board losses.

A Doctor Should Advertise
A small boy called on the doctor one evening. "Say, Doc, I guess I got the measles," he said, "but I can keep it quiet."

The doctor looked puzzled.
"Aw, get wise, Doc," suggested the small boy. "What'll you give me to go to school and scatter it among all the kids?"
—Ex.

THE ROBOT: "Take it, dear, it's genuine music."

WISE CHILD: "It's only more of that old canned sound, and I'm tired of it."

It's "Toned"

By New Secret Process

Tone! That illusive achievement of the stellar trumpeter! After months of research we have discovered a secret process for restoring to the finished instrument all of the rich, resonant tone of the original brass. This treatment of the metal is applied after all of the forming, brazing, jointing, and soldering, in the process of manufacture, are complete.

The result of this secret toning process is a tone quality unusually beautiful; brilliant, yet not brassy; rich and resonant, without losing the characteristic trumpet quality.

For musicians extremely critical in their judgment of tone this No. 222 Buescher Aristocrat Special "Toned" Trumpet has been particularly designed. It is perfectly voiced for the soloist and has an especially free blowing high register.

Valves are of the standard Buescher improved type, with short action, equipped with nickel silver pumps and Duo-Cone Non-Tilting Springs. Springs are located at the lower end of the valve under the piston.

Pitch, Bb only. However, a special slide with rotary valve for converting the instrument into a Bb and A model can be supplied upon special order at nominal cost.

First performers on this new Buescher True "Toned" Trumpet will create a sensation. It has just the right amount of resistance for perfect professional work, and promotes both tonal achievement and execution hitherto unattained.

Be the first to take possession of this wonderful new discovery. Go, at once, to your local Buescher dealer and make special test of the new 222 Buescher Special Aristocrat, "Toned" — by new secret process. Or write direct for special information and prices. This is a "scoop." Get it first.

Take a Tip from Successful Drummers

THE difference between a "pretty good drummer" and a real star is often merely a difference in equipment. Until you play Leedy drums you'll never know how good you are.

America's leading professionals insist on Leedy Drums. For more than 35 years Leedy has been the pass word to drum success—the acknowledged leader among "big-time" players.

mers is glad to tell you that Leedy Drums help them to play a better job.

Take a tip from men who know. Give yourself the advantage of Leedy Drums. Try one at your dealer's now. Note the split-second response and sustained brilliance of tone. You'll know immediately that here is just the drum you need to insure your success.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly

Labor Day has gone. Labor remains—for those that can get it.

Another year is ahead, before another Labor Day.

A year ago prophets were saying, "times will be better soon."

Today they say the same thing, parrots of their own fallibility.

But, even so, what we call good times are inevitably nearer than they were a year ago.

That's a trite thing to say, but trite things have a way of intruding themselves, despite watchfulness.

But mark this down: When the best an economic order can say to millions of hungry people is that good times are coming nearer, it's a pretty mess!

Why should there ever have been bad times?

Go ask your banker WHY?

What a lot of reasons are conjured up. What a lot of tripe!

Involved drivel about credits and currency and this and that.

Of course currency is involved in the smash. Credits have been abused and manipulated. Lots of things have been thrown into the big crusher out of which came this mangled state of affairs.

All right—so be it. And after it's all been threshed over and tortured out of all original form this remains true: Our production has increased; Employment has diminished steadily since 1923; Profits of banks, factories and utilities have gone up.

Now you can mix those facts up with all the sophistry and hooey in the world, but they cannot be destroyed.

Whatever may be the legerdemain of apologists, those facts stand, a merciless challenge to management and finance!

Labor Day has gone. The parades have been held, the speakers have taken trains and have gone home. The holiday bunting has been put away and the temporary grandstands have gone into kindling or into storage.

The jobless plod the sidewalks and walk their weary way down country roads.

The bread lines are lining up in closer formation and the unemployment relief committees are digging in for their ballyhoo work. Chairmen will cover themselves with glory, though a lot of them may run factories that have contributed their share to unemployment.

On Labor Day speakers pounded out the message: ORGANIZE!

More than is written in all the books depends upon how the workers heed that terse advice.

Had there been twenty million organized workers there would have never been any depression.

When we get twenty million organized workers there will never be another depression.

When twenty million workers are organized the great bankers will be forced to stop draining off the enormous loot that leaves workers penniless while banks and private fortunes bulge beyond reason or usefulness.

The hope of the whole future of the race is in the organization of Labor.

Never mind what the cash box philosophers and the highly paid and highly spiced "economists" say about it.

That is the TRUTH!

AS THEY AWAKE AND USE THEIR POWER WISELY AND WITHIN THE STRUCTURE OF DEMOCRACY WE SHALL MOVE TOWARD ECONOMIC SOLVENCY AND DECENCY.

SHORT STORIES ON WEALTH

By IRVING FISHER
Professor of Economics, Yale University

HOW TO STABILIZE

In previous short stories we have seen that the purchasing power of the dollar has never been stable. Although it had been nearly so for the seven years ending in 1929 there loomed then the danger of a gold shortage with deflation and depression. How can the dollar be kept stable? The answer is: Through credit control and gold control. We have already discussed credit control.

The most easily understood plan which has been suggested for gold control is one which has been proposed by several economists but especially by the late Professor R. A. Lehfeldt of South Africa. This plan provides simply an international governmental control of the gold mines, through, say, the League of Nations. A policy would be instituted such that when there is too little gold to support the credit structure required by the business of the world gold should be produced if at a loss; while, on the other hand, when there is too much gold its production should be curtailed.

Another plan has been proposed by several economists, including myself in my book, Stabilizing the Dollar. According to this plan we would let gold production alone and merely change, from time to time, the weight of the dollar. Gold would then be left to follow its natural value so far as it does today, but the dollar would be preserved constant in buying power. Gold would circulate only in the form of gold bullion dollar certificates. A hundred-dollar certificate would be redeemable in a hundred dollars of gold bullion at whatever the legal weight might be at the time of redemption. Periodically this weight would be changed, as prescribed by an index number, to make the buying power of the dollar always the same. Such a plan is called a "compensated dollar" on the analogy of a compensated pendulum.

This plan has been proposed in Congress through the Goldborough Bill. Extensive hearings were held on this bill. It makes little difference which of the two plans, the Lehfeldt plan or the compensated dollar plan, as in the Goldborough Bill, is selected or whether some other plan, more readily acceptable, shall be brought forward, so long as we obtain our object, stabilization of the dollar.

The only alternative to gold control seems to be to abandon the gold standard altogether as has been done in England. We should then have to stabilize entirely by a "managed currency," as proposed by Keynes and others, or else by providing for redemption of all money in commodities. The latter plan has been worked out by Professor Gilbert Lewis of the University of California.

In at least three ways, then, we may meet the inevitably impending gold problem: (1) We may control the gold mines, operating them, as central banks are being operated, for public service instead of for private profit; (2) We may vary the weight of the gold dollar, or other monetary unit, in such a way as to compensate for the variation in the value of gold per grain thus making the value of the dollar stable; (3) We may give up the gold standard altogether, either substituting redemption in commodities or relying on a managed currency. Any one of these three methods would require government action to effect.

If we can place the responsibility for our unstable dollar anywhere it rests on the government, not only in the sense of its neglect to stabilize but also even in the sense of its complicity in destabilizing.

No new principle is involved. We have stabilized every other unit as fast as we have devised instruments for measuring and fixing them. There is now no excuse for failing to stabilize the one unit left, the unit of money; for now we have the instrument for measuring and fixing it, in the index number.

As the Worker Sees His World

Summary and Digest of Important Events Here and Abroad.

Formation of a national savings bank to give security to the savings of laborers is announced by the government of Colombia.

Resolutions calling for a $10,000,000 "prosperity" loan by the Federal Government were unanimously adopted recently by the Chicago Federation of Labor.

The cost of relief for the unemployed in New York City for the year ending October 31 is put at $40,000,000, in an analysis of relief expenditures made recently.

National guardsmen were called out in Cedar County, Iowa, when farmers on September 21 resisted attempts to enforce the state law for the tuberculin testing of cattle.

Confronted with demands for wage cuts, actors, opera singers and concert artists of Poland recently went on strike, closing virtually every theatre in the country.

Charging that unemployed men started forest fires to make work fighting the fires, Governor Ross of Idaho on August 30 placed four counties under martial law.

Book sales have largely increased this summer over the same period last year and the book industry looks forward to a year of prosperity, the New York Times reports.

Under a plan adopted in Pickens County, Ga., every able-bodied unemployed man accepting aid from the county will be required to work on county roads or some other public labor and pay will be in food and clothes for the man and his family.

Wages of Arkansas State officials and employes were cut 10 per cent, effective September 1.

As a result of the killing of one man and injury of three others in a clash between workers and civil guards, the workers of Saragossa, Spain, called a general strike on September 1.

Cuban cigar and tobacco factories have notified their workers that unless they accept a wage cut which will bring their wage scale to the level in effect before the 1918 increase in wages, the factories will be closed on September 14.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians of New York State in convention at Niagara Falls on August 27 asked President Hoover to call a special session of Congress to relieve unemployment and to repeal the Volstead Act.

Charity is not the answer to unemployment, Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York declared in a recent speech, in which he said work must be provided for the jobless by Federal, State and city governments.

Kansas City bakers, millers and grain companies are considering a plan to avert suffering among the city's unemployed this winter by the free distribution of between 10,000 and 25,000 loaves of bread daily.

David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford University, California, and internationally known as an educator, scientist and advocate of peace, died on September 19 at Palo Alto, Calif., at the age of 80.

If farmers and city workers would realize that they have a common interest, each group supplying the market for the other's products, and would act unitedly, they could gain "economic control" of the nation, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania declared at Sedalia, Mo., in an address before the Missouri Farmers' Association.
