VOL. XXX

NEWARK, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER, 1932

NO. 4

Relations Toward Enlisted Bands

ARTICLE X, Section 17, was amended with full explanation contained in the law as to where enlisted band services are lawful, as well as to where they are prohibited.

The attention of locals is especially called to the statements contained in the law which provides that a local union shall ascertain as to whether the services of enlisted bands are in order under the law. If so, the local on application is to give such band a release to render such services. However, if it is found that the services are not in order in accordance with the specifications and explanations contained in the law, then the local must refuse such release. If, without a release, enlisted bands do render services on occasions on which such is unlawful, the local is to immediately make a courteous protest to the Commanding Officer who permitted or ordered the use of such band, explain the reasons for the protest, and, at the same time, forward copy of such protest to the President of the American Federation of Musicians as well as the answer of the Commanding Officer as soon as received by the local.

A local which fails to act in accordance with these instructions does so in violation of the laws of the Federation.

The amended law, with explanations, reads as follows:

Section 17. Members of the American Federation of Musicians may participate with musicians of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and of the National Guard when serving in a Federal pay status (designated herein as Service musicians) upon those occasions which, as herein defined, do not involve competition with civilian musicians nor interference with their employment opportunities; and Locals shall take action as herein directed.

The use of Service musicians is regulated by implied limitations upon the use of Federal personnel and by the following statute:

"Hereafter no enlisted man in the active service of the United States in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, respectively, whether a non-commissioned officer, musician or private, shall be detailed, ordered, or permitted to leave his post to engage in any pursuit, business or performance in civil life, for emolument, hire or otherwise, when the same shall interfere with the customary employment and regular engagement of local civilians in the respective arts, trades, or professions." (Sec. 35, National Defense Act; June 3, 1916, 39 Stat. 188).

Regulations Containing Duties and Obligations of Locals in Reference to the Federation Law Concerning the Services of Enlisted Bands.

This prohibition is not confined to performances involving actual competition with civilian musicians, but extends to any performance which interferes with the employment opportunities of civilian musicians to their disadvantage.

The principles of these restrictions are regarded as applicable to the corresponding similar armed forces of Canada.

Occasions and uses of Service musicians are classified as follows:

(A) Strictly military uses and occasions; that is, whenever and wherever Service musicians function as part of the national military and naval forces. Such uses and occasions normally consist of their duties on military and naval posts, stations, reservations, vessels, accompanying troops on the march, in the field, on military and naval parades, and on occasions attended by the President, the Secretary of War or Navy, and officers of the Services in their official capacity, but such occasions do not include social occasions and entertainments given by civilians with such officers as guest or guests of honor.

Such uses and occasions cannot involve the question of competition or interference with civilian musicians; concerning them Locals have nothing to do and upon proper occasion should co-operate.

(B) Patriotic and charitable uses and occasions, national in scope and non-partisan and non-sectarian in character, conducted directly under the auspices of a national patriotic or charitable society recognized as such by the laws of the United States. Such uses and occasions include:

(1) National patriotic occasions conducted by a National patriotic society recognized as such by Federal law; for example, national conventions of the D. A. R., and of the American Legion.

(2) National meetings of organizations composed of the Army, Navy or Marine Corps of the United States and nationally recognized as such; for example, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Spanish War Veterans, the American Legion.

(3) Musical programs at any United States Hospital for the benefit of entertainment of its inmates.

(4) Charities and benefits for members of the Army, Navy or Marine Corps or their families conducted under official auspices or by organizations generally recognized as devoted to such purposes; for example, the Army Relief.

(5) National activities of National non-partisan, non-sectarian organizations devoted to general charity and humanity; for example, the Red Cross.

If the facts and circumstances as known to or ascertained by the Local having jurisdiction, show the occasion to be such as described, the Local shall, when requested, grant a release; but if after careful investigation such is not found to be the case, the Local will deny the release. If, notwithstanding such denial, Service musicians do perform, the Local will immediately make to the commanding officer ordering or permitting such use of the band a written protest in which the reasons for the protest will be stated in respectful terms, and the local will, at the same time, forward to the President of the American Federation of Musicians a copy of the protest and, as soon as practicable, will advise him of any results of such protest.

(C) Prohibited uses and occasions. These consist of all that do not fall within classes A and B. They are non-Federal and non-official; examples of these are:

(1) Civic parades, ceremonies, expositions, community concerts and community center activities; regattas, contests, festivals, athletic games, activities or celebrations, and the like.

(2) Functions for the furtherance, directly or indirectly, of any public or private enterprise, functions by chambers of commerce, boards of trade, and commercial clubs or associations.

(3) Any occasion that is partisan or sectarian in character or purpose.

(4) Functions of clubs, societies, civic or fraternal organizations.

(5) Functions for so-called charitable purposes of local, sectarian or partisan character, or any so-called charity that is not of the National character indicated in B (5).

(6) Any occasion where there will in fact be competition with civilian musicians.

Note: Statements that funds are not available for the employment of civilian musicians, or that if a Service band cannot be had other musicians cannot be or will not be employed, or that the Service band is to play without remuneration of any kind, are all immaterial.

If Service musicians perform upon any occasion not falling in Class A or B, the Local having jurisdiction shall protest to the commanding officer of such Service musicians, in all instances keeping the President of the Federation promptly and fully advised.

Locals, in granting or withholding releases and in making protests to commanding officers and reports to the Federation, will be guided by the principles herein enunciated and by no other consideration, and they shall diligently ascertain and report, fairly and accurately, all obtainable facts and circumstances.

In any case where a Local may be in doubt as to the correct application of these principles, or as to what action it should take in accord with these principles, it shall immediately make report to the President of the Federation and act in accordance with his instructions.

Attest:
WM. J. KERNGOOD, Secretary.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912,

Of International Musician, published monthly at Newark, N. J., for October 1, 1932. State of New Jersey, County of Essex, ss.
Before me, a notary public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared Wm. J. Kerngood, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the publisher and editor of the International Musician, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 411, Postal Laws and Regulations, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:
Publisher: Wm. J. Kerngood, Newark, N. J.
Editor: Wm. J. Kerngood, Newark, N. J.
Managing Editor: None.
Business Managers: None.
2. That the owner is: (If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation, the names and addresses of the individual owners must be given. If owned by a firm, company, or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as those of each individual member, must be given.)
American Federation of Musicians, Jos. N. Weber, president, 1440 Broadway, New York, N. Y.; Charles L. Bagley, vice-president, 205 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif.; Wm. J. Kerngood, secretary, 37-39 William Street, Newark, N. J.; Harry E. Brenton, treasurer, 238 Hemmenway street, Boston, Mass.
3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: None other than American Federation of Musicians.
4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company, but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest, direct or indirect, in the said stock, bonds or other securities than as so stated by him.
5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed through the mails or otherwise to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is 120,000.

WM. J. KERNGOOD.
Sworn to and subscribed before me this 27th day of September, 1932.
RAYMOND F. VANDERHOFF,
[SEAL] Notary Public of New Jersey.
My commission expires December 26, 1934.

This Bestor-Buescher Band!

★ That, of course, is just a play on words. Bestor and Buescher sound mighty good together. Anyone, who has ever heard them play their Bueschers will tell you that.

★ Professional musicians! you of the A.F.M., doesn't it "stop" you when you consider how many of the Big Name Bands play Bueschers? Isn't it a possibility that better tone quality, a more sensitive action, finer scale accuracy, might contribute something to your success? Don Bestor will tell you, that's correct.

★ Have you ever tried a Buescher? Have you tried one lately? Have you tried the new Alto and the new Tenor Saxes? Why don't you?

★ For you may find in a Buescher Sax or Trumpet or Trombone the very thing that responds best to your particular ability to play. See your local Buescher Dealer. Try a Buescher "just for curiosity." A little thing like that may lead to something big for you. Do this, at your very first opportunity.

★ If there is no Buescher Dealer near you, write direct for beautiful catalog of YOUR instrument. Easy terms arranged.

Organize

If you would add to the strength of your own union—organize the unorganized workers who come in daily contact with you.
 If you are a building tradesman, see that every other building tradesman first, on your job, second, on every other job—is organized; then use your influence to the end that the laborers who work with you are organized.
 Talk to the grocery, hardware, and other store clerks in your community and urge them to organize, for by united action they can secure many benefits.
 Urge organization on bakers, meat cutters, teamsters, truck and transfer drivers, on all wage-earners, for through organization alone can they establish and maintain betterment.
 Demand and purchase only union labelled merchandise when and where you can secure it—for this is also practical organizing work and will return you permanent dividends.
 Organize your wives, brothers, sisters and other women folk into union label leagues and urge them into active service for the labor movement.
 Organize workers' study classes in your camp or your town; study and prepare yourself for the greater problems that the future will present.

Blew Her Horn, But—

After the locomotive had smashed a flivver at the crossing, a flapper rose from the wreckage, practically uninjured. The engineer and others gathered around. "Why in the world didn't you stop when you saw the train coming?" asked the engineer. The flapper was indignant. "I sounded my horn before you blew your whistle," she told him.—Ex.

"Defeat Your Enemies"

THE two dominant political parties having selected their candidates for President of the United States, it is safe to assume millions of voters will label themselves Republican or Democrat. Of course, a large number of these will be trades unionists, who will display zeal and enthusiasm for the candidate they favor.

This privilege should not be denied them, but it is in order to ask them to compare the benefits they have received from any political party to those which have come to them through the Trade Union Movement and the Union Label.

Every four years, both of these political parties shed great crocodile tears over the workers and when election is over, the victorious party invariably runs true to form or past record.

On the other hand, the Trade Union Movement is on the job continually, making no promises but always striving to advance the cause of the toilers, its success being solely dependent upon the solidarity of the workers and the extent of the co-operation of each and every member.

Because of inactivity in the Labor Movement and the zeal of the workers for a political party and its candidates, we find legislators in state and nation, hostile to human progress, returned to continue their opposition to legislation which has for its object the betterment of all of our citizens.

Of course, the Trade Union Movement is partisan—partisan to the principle of human rights. Loyalty and partisanship to this principle are the basis upon which all of our progress has been made.

Always keep in mind the cause of Trade Unionism IS your cause and when any other movement runs counter to it, your duty, first of all, is to that movement which has improved the conditions of the toilers, protected motherhood and brought about a happier childhood for those who are to be future citizens.

The slogan of the American Federation of Labor, "REWARD YOUR FRIENDS, PUNISH AND DEFEAT YOUR ENEMIES," not only holds good on the political field, but it can be forcefully applied on the economic field by spending union-earned money only for union labeled products and union services.

The Blind Must Not Lead

WITH due caution it may be said that there are signs of improvement "in the air." As a matter of fact it is possible to say, with the same caution and reserve, that they are more than in the air.

There must be improvement or there will be worse—and so, there will be improvement.

But the undertaking of what must constitute real improvement is painfully and shockingly limited.

There are all too few who understand that any real and general prosperity can come only on the basis of a new deal all 'round in industry.

The old 48-hour week is done for. The old rates of pay are done for.

But most employers look for, and expect, prosperity to come back on the old wage terms and with the old hours of work. Nothing like that can happen. It is a physical impossibility.

The foundation fact is that there never again can be jobs for more than a fraction of American workers unless there is general and drastic reduction in the number of hours of work per man per week and unless there is a wage rate that will create an American market.

Thoughts of unloading what has been called the "surplus" on other countries may as well be ditched. That cannot again be done. That chapter, to, is closed, probably never to be reopened. One often overlooked point is that when "backward" nations nowadays get to the point of wanting American machine products they come and buy a few of our machines and then make their own!

But too much of our leadership thinks in terms of going back to the old basis. They are blind leaders and it is time to get rid of blind leaders. They must be retired, wherever they are.

The new dispensation, necessary if there is to be general and genuine prosperity, must envision a grand shake-up in hours and wages and MUST HAVE ORGANIZATION.

Organizations, such as the National Association of Manufacturers, that have fought the organization of labor and that have looked always backward for guidance have done America incalculable harm, they have left America without much of the equipment necessary to readjustment, they have taught their own members to hate the very organizations that now are essential to the team-work that must be had if America is to get out and stay out of the slough of depression.

It will never be possible to know the full damage done by such organizations as the N. A. M., the National Erectors' Association and the Anti-Boycott Association.

In the new day, if there is to be one, THERE MUST BE UNIONS, for organized workers must sit down with organized employers and actually LEGISLATE for industry, so that there may be continuous COMMAND of the industrial situation. No "plan" to "balance" things for long periods in advance will either work or fit the American mind. But America must come to flexible, organized disregard of the whims and tricks of speculators and financial racketeers. And in that day, too, banks must SERVE and cease to give orders.

Thus far only a few leaders see forward. Most of them look backward and see nothing. Labor has repeatedly presented its views and its diagnosis. Labor has proven its intellectual capacity and its right to be heard. Unless labor is heard any so-called recovery from this depression will be nothing more than "a shot with the needle" leading to a relapse that may bring death. The blind must no longer lead. Only those who can see forward have any right to leadership today.

Labor Queries - - -

Questions and Answers on Labor: What It Has Done; Where It Stands on Problems of the Day; Its Aim and Program; Who's Who in the Ranks of the Organized Toilers, etc., etc.

Q.—Does labor favor compulsory military training in schools?

A.—No, labor has opposed such compulsion, much on the same grounds as it opposes compulsion generally, but with the added reason that labor opposes enforced militarism. However, it approves the Citizens' Military Training Camps and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, in which training is the result of voluntary action. Labor is opposed to forced training in schools, but it is not pacifist.

Q.—Has the A. F. of L. ever interested itself in daily newspaper publication?

A.—Yes, and in 1920 the executive council was directed by the convention to look into the possibility of securing control of several dailies to be operated as independent and impartial news channels. The move, however, was finally deemed impractical. Labor regards newspapers and, particularly the labor press, as of vital importance.

Q.—When was the first Pan American labor conference held?

A.—At Laredo, Texas, November 13, 14, 15, 16, 1918. In this meeting the Pan American Federation of Labor was formed. The next meeting was in New York City, July 9, 1919.

Q.—Does American labor approve fixing wages by law?

A.—In 1921 the A. F. of L. convention declared: "We believe that the fixing by statute of the wages of adult male workers in private employment is unsound and dangerous."—Page 325, Proceedings.

Q.—Is six-hour day agitation new?

A.—By no means. Labor is, foresighted. The miners have just made public a six-hour day resolution of several years ago. In 1919 the A. F. of L. convention declared that many unions doubtless soon would demand the six-hour day and the executive council was directed to assist all such organizations.

Out Beyond the Surf--

Where thought, unhastened by necessity or trepidation, sometimes penetrates to truth. Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

The Daily Worker, organ of communism, has just been going through a spasm of poverty. It has been appealing to the faithful to kick in with the coin, so that the presses of bolshevism might be kept going.

This is magnificent bluff. It is simply swell foolery. International communism will let its principal organ go on the rocks if and when it can use the money better in some other way. And not until then, dear sirs and brothers. Not until then.

Mr. Foster goes rampaging over the front page demanding that the body come across. And somebody comes across, for the Daily Worker marches up to the brink and then does a strategic retreat to financial safety. It is great hokum.

Communism has been rather successful in getting the American people to believe all it says.

It is queer, none-the-less, that a movement devoted to destroying America, and all free nations, admittedly using every weapon that will lead in that direction, should be ever accused of telling the truth for truth's sake.

Chalk this down: The reds never tell the truth for truth's sake. But they do use truth for purposes of deception, just as they use lies for the same purpose.

An incident comes into the record just now to illuminate the childlike hero worship with which American reds regard Moscow. Moscow is where the great idol of world destruction abides. There is to be found the moloch of bolshevism—there hard by the murder stable of the red spy service, the official executioners. There go the faithful to bask in the smeary smile of the great monster.

A recent issue of the Daily Worker describes the death of Ryan Walker in Moscow, whither he had gone after having achieved an ambition to be chosen a delegate to the capital of world revolution.

Ryan Walker went to Moscow and there he died of double pneumonia.

Ryan Walker was, in background, thoroughly American. He was a socialist many years ago. He drew funny pictures for the old New York Call. He had a character, one Henry Dubb, who made fun of the American Federation of Labor and of capitalists. Henry Dubb was a dub worker, so Ryan thought.

Like Robert Minor, Walker drifted leftward after the war, winding up communist. Slight, personable, smiling, he joined the most murderous machine the world has known since the middle ages.

At one time, so it is told of him, he thought the revolution so near he stocked his house with food to last many months.

Funny thing—this implacable movement for war, for revolution, for destruction of all human freedom, snaring into its hideous fold Americans who have lived in freedom, who have moved about in freedom, who have benefitted by all of the institutions of freedom. Ryan Walker owned his home under democracy, and cherished it. But under bolshevism nobody owns a home.

There is something hypnotic in this thing, perhaps, for certain types. They are drawn in and they are used, and mayhap they never know just into what they are drawn or for just what they are used!

And, as the faithful turn toward Mecca, so the faithful turn toward Moscow, in hazy dreams that never can and never will come true.

"Our object from now on should be to raise wages, not reduce them. Only thus can we build up buying power and keep business rising," says the American Federation of Labor monthly survey of business. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that there can be no real recovery as long as wages go down. But it will not be enough merely to stop the downward trend. Wages must come up and up, and with higher wages hours of labor must be sharply reduced. Nothing else is so important at this critical time in the history of the nation.

Modification of the Volstead Act can be brought about in ten days, with Congress in session. In a few weeks Congress will be in session. Announcement is made that a re-submission bill may be enacted this winter. Maybe so. Maybe not. But modification can and should come with the opening of the session. There will be vast unemployment this winter. With one act a great wave of re-employment can be started; a great wave of confidence and good cheer sent rolling across the country. Pound this home to members of Congress and candidates for Congress at the November election.

OVER FEDERATION FIELD

(By CHAUNCEY A. WEAVER)

Chicago musicians, Local No. 10, A. F. of M., are going to have a new home. It is reported that about the middle of December of the current year a "house-warming" will take place as a sort of social dedication of what "will be the finest headquarters occupied by any musicians' union in the country."

Work is already well advanced on a two-and-one-half story building at 173-175 West Washington street. The Chicago Tribune devotes a full column in outlining the story of the enterprise. The account includes an interview with President James C. Petrillo. In declaring that there had never been a better time in which to build, President Petrillo said:

"Costs are down and we'd be foolish if we didn't take advantage of this situation so long as we are going to put up a new home. Besides, we feel we ought to give some work to our friends in the building trades. When times were going good they paid good money to dance while our fiddlers and saxophone artists played for them.

"Our union is in mighty fine shape. We've got about 1,800 members who have regular jobs playing full time in Chicago. Then we have 2,000 members doing two or three jobs a week—play at a wedding one day, maybe at a funeral the next, or make things lively for some of the boys attending a smoker.

"Some 2,000 of our members are not following the profession, but are still holding their cards because of our death benefit. Some of this group fiddled or tooted to pay their expenses while going to school and are now lawyers, or doctors, but I don't think we have any reporters among them. Leaving the sad news to the last, we have about 2,000 of our members out of work and it's a tough job for a musician to keep going when he isn't on a pay roll.

"We have some more reasons why we wanted to get our new home built now. First, the musicians of the country are to hold their annual convention at the Palmer House here next June and we want to have a real headquarters when they get here. Second, there's the World's Fair. There are going to be a lot of visiting cornet players holding cards and they'll expect something or other.

"There is going to be an auditorium in our new building—one that will seat about 1,800.

It is also stated that the building is to occupy a lot 40 by 180 feet. It will be of fireproof construction throughout. The lower story will be of polished Westfield marble, while the upper part will be of Indiana limestone. All metal work will be of polished bronze. The entire building will be mechanically ventilated. The cost of the project is estimated at $100,000.

We think the general verdict will be that this manifestation of enterprise bespeaks an organization bedrock on the part of Local No. 10 pointing to careful management in the past and a high degree of resourcefulness in coping with the precarious times through which we have for some time been passing.

The last returning delegate from the Pacific Coast, so far as we have learned, is Brother Charles Derlin, of Youngstown and Baltimore, who visited our headquarters on September 15. In response to a query as to where he had been, he replied: "To the Los Angeles convention." After many dreams, and longings, and self-made promises about visiting the Far West, he improved the opportunity afforded by another Federation convention. After enjoying the annual reunion with old friends, he proceeded to see the country. He went as far north as San Francisco, penetrated Mexico, scaled the highest mountains, explored the most far-reaching valleys, marvelled at the glories of the Royal Gorge, crossed the threshold of Texas, lost his trunk full of baggage, wandered among the oil fields of Oklahoma, contracted several dizzy spells trying to see the top of the Iowa corn wilderness, and finally climaxed the expedition with a few days of "rest and quiet in Chicago." Derlin is a keen observer and can give a good account of what he has seen and heard during his travels. We enjoyed the day's visit with him.

Treasurer Harry E. Brenton wrote a beautiful and appropriate tribute to the memory of the lamented B. C. McSheehy, long-time president of Local No. 126, and delegate to many national conventions of the American Federation of Musicians. It is known as the Lynn Local, officially, but its jurisdiction embraces also Nahant, Swampscott, Saugus, Peabody, Marblehead, Danvers, Hamilton, Wenham, Middleton and Salem—a cluster of historic and picturesque New England towns in close proximity thereto. Out of long and intimate association Brother Brenton speaks of the kindly thoughtfulness which he always displayed toward others—not something which was merely the impulse of a season—but a perennial outgiving of himself in order that others might know something more of happiness. To the existence of that spirit on the part of "Mac," the writer of these lines can bear earnest testimony. The Federation convention and the Labor convention of 1930 were both held in Boston. Two opportunities were thus afforded to visit New England—an experience long anticipated, but not hitherto realized. We found "Mac" waiting and ready and eager to do his part. Almost by intuition he seemed to know where we wanted to go and what we wanted to see. Outside of convention hours he was an unflinching reception committee. We shall never think of those interesting, informative and pleasurable days without a picture constantly in mind of McSheehy, untiring and happy. In that hour of separation in the closing days of the Los Angeles convention, we thought it simply a case of au revoir. We never dreamed that it meant good-bye!

This seems to be a busy season for the Grim Reaper among members of the American Federation of Musicians. Perhaps it seems that way because the accumulating years increase their harvest amongst an ever-widening circle of friends and acquaintances. We seldom pause to think of the twilight zone which is ever coming on. On September 17, Albert Hays, a charter member of Local No. 75, passed away in Des Moines at the age of 75 years. He organized the band which later came to be known as the Iowa State Military Band and which made a notable career along in the Chicago World Fair period. Brother Hays was one of the most enthusiastic band men we ever knew. He played as long as he lived, and repelled with scorn any suggestion of friends that his strength would not be equal to a long parade. When he passed away we forwarded a newspaper account to his old-time friend, Frank C. Kendall, a member of the band above mentioned, but who for twenty-seven years had belonged to Local No. 325, of San Diego. But a letter from Secretary Wm. J. Meader brought the mournful news that "Kid," as Kendall was known to all his musical friends, had also passed on—just two hours before the arrival of our letter. Kendall was one of the great euphoneum players of the West in the old band days and later played trombone in a San Diego theatre. Secretary Meader says of him—"Kid was a fine musician and loved by all."

"Friend after friend departs,
Who hath not lost a friend!"

The Cleveland Musician announces the death of Carl Pfizenmayer, father of our well-known friend and Federation brother, Henry Pfizenmayer, vice-president of Local No. 4. Mr. Pfizenmayer was eighty-four years of age and was a native of Germany. He passed his later years on a farm. He was engaged in the hotel business many years. He raised a family of seven children—three of whom are musicians.

Before the next issue of the International Musician appears the quadrennial

Harold McDonald, head of the percussion and sound effects department, Paramount studios. On the set of their new picture, "The Big Broadcast," with Nathaniel W. Finston, Paramount's great musical director.

HOLLYWOOD honors Successful drummer

HAROLD R. MCDONALD began his career in a Los Angeles High School Orchestra. For years he starred with Paul Whiteman's Band and other great bands and orchestras. Today he's reached the very pinnacle of success in the drum world as head of the percussion and sound effects department of Paramount Studios in Hollywood.

Such achievement proves unusual talent but it also shows ability to take full advantage of every factor that makes for success. One of the most important of these is choice of the right equipment. McDonald long ago decided that Leedy Drums were a big asset in improving performance and he and his Leedy equipment have climbed the heights together.

Any drummer who wants to make real progress—to win a real job with bigger pay will make no mistake in following the example of McDonald and the host of other top-notch professionals who have chosen Leedy Drums above all others. For more than thirty-five years Leedys have been first choice of the men who know.

And Leedys get better from year to year. New improvements constantly being added. See the latest models now at your music dealer's store and keep posted on the latest developments.

DELAMATER PRACTICAL HARMONY SYSTEM

1650 WARREN AVE., DEPT. "I," CHICAGO, ILL.

national election will have been held and we shall know who is to officially guide the destinies of the republic during the coming four years. It is a mighty interesting study to note the various political campaigns ranging through the century and a half of our national life, summarize the issues which agitated the masses, compare the various types of leadership, and then realize that out of the stress and storm so much of real accomplishment and material advancement has taken place. The people have been tried in a red-hot crucible during the past decade. We predict that out of the wreckage which now strews the national pathway there will come a realization that what is known as the capitalism crowd will be forced to yield larger concessions to the real producers of wealth; that the great gulf existing between poverty and plenty will be bridged, and that the men and women of today will soon find a newer and a richer meaning in life than they have recently known.

Simply because you do not vote a straight ticket does not necessarily mean that you practice crooked political methods.

This is leap-year, but few girls have felt disposed to acquire a husband to support these hard times.

Salesmen, Please Note

The old commercial traveller was relating his experiences to a young man. "And don't forget," he said, "never try to sell an encyclopedia to a bride." "Why not?" asked the young man. The older man smiled cynically. "She always thinks her husband knows everything."—Ex.

FAMOUS BANDMASTERS

PATRICK SANSFIELD GILMORE

By HENRY WOELBER

During the week of April the 8th, 1931, the convention of the American Association of Bandmasters was held at Boston. Twenty world-renowned leaders acted as guest conductors for the annual benefit concert given by the Boston Musicians Mutual Relief Society, at Mechanics Hall, April 12. The late John Phillip Sousa made his last Boston appearance at that time. His death recalls many incidents connected with the development of the American band. The past few years have seen a growth in our public schools throughout the land, never approached before, in the study of band instruments, and in the formation of school bands. Just as Von Bulow was the originator of the modern system of orchestral conducting, so was Gilmore the father of the American band. Born December 25, 1829, in County Galway, Ireland, he became a member of the regimental band at Athlone County, Westmeath, in 1845, and, in 1849, went to Canada with an English band of which he was a member. Shortly after, at the age of 26, he went to Salem, Massachusetts, with the determination to start a band there. His native interest for music and his great enthusiasm on the subject soon drew to him a class of young men more or less proficient in the art of music. In a few months he gathered around him a band of twelve, which became known as the Salem Band. At all times he was a pioneer as a bandsman, and thus was formed the means by which real melody was brought to the ears of the masses. After some years of practice and drilling, during which he enlarged the band to 20 pieces, he moved the organization to Boston in 1855, and thereafter called it Gilmore's Band, which became distinguished for its fine playing, the result of his training. Boston received him kindly, and his concerts were always well attended, until the Civil War broke out in 1861. Gilmore had at this time become very popular in Boston for his rendition of martial music and military airs, marches and war songs. It seemed his particular delight to have his band play them, so it is no wonder at the outbreak of the war he was seized with the spirit which was always strong in him to play the songs and marches of the battlefield. He joined the 24th Massachusetts Volunteers as bandmaster, and a number of his band went with him. In the camp his band became famous for its excellent music, and in 1863, General Banks placed him in charge of all the bands in the department of Louisiana. At New Orleans, in 1864, he gave a festival with a monster aggregation made up of the army bands, and startled the audience with some novelties, one of which was the firing of guns by electricity, making the report come on the first beat of the bar, as though they were great drums. This effect was reserved for the performances of patriotic music. It was then that the idea of being at the head of a really great band, of symphonic proportions, took possession of him, and he followed it out to the day of his death. After the war he returned to Boston, in 1865, to reorganize the Gilmore Band, and here, after drilling this larger and better band, his widest reputation, not confined to the United States, was earned by his success in organizing the two immense festivals in Boston—one in 1869, known as the National Peace Jubilee, to commemorate peace between the North and South, 1,000 musicians played, and a chorus of 10,000 sang. Americans heard for the first time an immense band, and chorus, play and sing in unison. The second festival was called the World's Peace Jubilee, held in Boston, in 1872, to emphasize the ending of the Franco-German War. This time 2,000 musicians played for the chorus of 20,000. On each occasion a powerful organ, chimes of bells, anvils and artillery were added to the orchestral resources, and a huge shed was built for the concert room. In 1873, Gilmore was appointed bandmaster of the 22nd Regiment, New York, a distinction given a Bostonian which well might have been bestowed by our own First Corps Cadets, of Revolutionary fame. Now, thoroughly established, Gilmore played every city, town or village having a theatre in the U. S. and made two European trips. In those days a band was a band, used mostly for parades or sports, but Gilmore, with a keen ear for balance, succeeded in producing popular as well as classical music, bordering on the orchestral style. No doubt he got this idea from the marvelous Guard Republic Band of Paris, and the Grenadier Guard Band of London. Both played at the second festival, and set a pattern for all bands to copy. Gilmore was the first to introduce vocal soloists on a band program. One season he featured Campanini, the Schneeloch sisters, and Mahoney, in solos and quartettes. Mahoney, with his resonant bass voice, sang "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" as an encore. The band, of course, played the accompaniment. In the last two bars Mahoney descended to the lower B flat, in unison with the bassoon, adroitly and skilfully, with the most amazing, even comical, effect. In hundreds of small towns people heard the bassoon, even a large band, the very first time. Gilmore introduced such famed players as Levy, Arbuckle, Bagley, Bent, and Clarke, cornetists; Innes and Clarke, trombonists; Raffayolo, euphonium; De Carlo, piccolo; Lefevre, saxophone; Matus, E flat clarinet, and many others. He featured Matus on this petit clarinet, and photographed him on an extensive bill-board three-sheet, challenging any clarinetist in the world to match this fellow in a set of variations which he played on this shrill instrument. Probably no such facility of execution has since been heard. Gilmore always carried some musician who also was clever with a pen, to adapt band parts for any emergency. A popular overnight hit was thus made ready for the next afternoon concert by this arranger. For vocal accompaniment, especially, the regular band parts are too heavily scored, so this man, by eliminating most of the brass instruments, used the large number of reed instruments of about 40, the clarinets taking the violin parts, the bass clarinets, the bass saxophone, and surzophone, together with the small E flat brass, bass tuba, well taking the parts of the cellos, and string basses. This tuba player, Eldon Baker, is still alive in Boston. While in Salem, Gilmore married Miss Helen J. O'Neal, in 1849. She followed him in all his career. Twenty years later, their only child, Minnie, who achieved some fame as a writer, was born. Many are the anecdotes told of his wonderful band experiences. A faithful follower of his Manhattan Beach concerts wrote: "I don't like to be a telltale, but I notice whenever you play Schuman's Traumerel, the minute you turn to the left directly all your attention to the reed instruments, the men on the right, the brass players, 'lay down' on you." The idea was that Gilmore had many arrangements for reed band, the brass parts being tacit.

As an after-dinner speaker Gilmore was a rival of Chauncey Depew.

A man said to me: "Mr. Gilmore, I notice that in the seating arrangements of your 65 players, the six Irishmen you have are distributed about one to ten foreigners. How is that?" "I'll tell you," said Gilmore, "it takes one Irishman to hold down ten Germans, or Italians."

He was a man of convivial habits, and was not averse to "sitting in" for a little game with the 400 of all our large cities, the men who promoted big affairs such as food fairs, corn and cotton expositions and electric shows, where his band was to play. He more than got his losses back when a young lady had a coming-out party, or a millionaire's daughter was married.

Gilmore died September 24, 1892, while playing at St. Louis. He was 63. The funeral services were held from St.

Xavier's Church, New York, September 28. One of his favorite band numbers was Handel's Largo, a violin piece, but in his band the clarinets played the melody, so at the services Nahan Franko, eminent violinist, rendered that great masterpiece with organ accompaniment. Tears rolled down the cheeks of thousands as far as the strains of the music could be heard in the street.

Thus ended the career of America's first great band leader, a man whose life and teachings are a lesson to us all.

"The Moving Finger Writes"

About Labor Events

FAILURES FEWER—Commercial failures are occurring less frequently throughout the United States, according to reports compiled by R. G. Dun & Co.

A reduction in the number of insolvents has been reported each week for five weeks.

HOME OWNING GAINS—Home-owning families now number 46.8 per cent of all families in the United States. This proportion, just announced by the U. S. Census Bureau, is the result of a door-to-door count of the entire country. The number of home-owning families is growing faster than the number of all families. In 1920, the proportion of home-owning families was 44.6 per cent.

MINE SAFETY GAINS—Safety and accident-prevention work at coal mines in Pennsylvania during the calendar year 1931 were effective in reducing the accident rates for both anthracite and bituminous coal mines, especially the latter, according to reports which the United States Bureau of Mines received through the co-operation of the mining companies and the Pennsylvania Department of Mines. As compared with 1930, the accident rate in 1931 was reduced 2 per cent at anthracite mines and 9 per cent at bituminous coal mines. In other words, the anthracite mining companies lowered their accident-frequency rate for each million man-hours of exposure from 131 in 1930 to 128 in 1931 and the bituminous coal-mining companies reduced their rate from 100 to 91 per million man-hours. The record for anthracite mines included a rate of 1.84 for fatalities and 126.55 for non-fatal injuries, while that for bituminous mines included a fatality rate of 1.29 and an injury rate of 89.40.

WOMEN WETS GAIN—Over 100,000 women voters have joined the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform during the past two months, bringing the total membership of the women's wet organization to well over 1,112,000. Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national chairman, announced. "Incomplete State reports already show an increase of 100,000 members," Mrs. Sabin said. "The organized women wets have now almost double the highest membership claimed by the Women's Christian Temperance Union."

CHICAGO TYPOS SIGN UP—A wage agreement has been signed between Typographical Union 16, Chicago, and job printers, ending a strike in 40 shops affecting 700 men. An arbitrary order for a 15 per cent pay cut forced the union men out. It is understood they now go back at the old $1.29½ scale, but with some reduction to come.

LABOR PRAISES APPOINTMENT—The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, in a statement issued at Harrisburg, warmly commends appointment of Miss Charlotte Carr, deputy secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry, to head the Bureau of Inspection in the same department, in addition to her own duties. Harry D. Immel, formerly head of the Bureau of Inspection, has been transferred to the Highway Department.

Unparalleled Opportunity For Vast Rebuilding Just Ahead

Great Obstacles to Regeneration Declared Being Moved Out of Pathway, While Huge Enterprises in Building and Manufacturing Await Courage.

By B. C. CLARKE

Work in vast quantities is waiting to be done in this country, and business and industry have an opportunity now to go ahead with reasonable certainty and assurance and regain momentum. The country is in need of manufactured goods and the people are in need of work.

Everywhere business and industrial leaders have an unparalleled opportunity to take up their tasks and go ahead with them. They have had ample time to look over their field and map their course. The effects of depression can be removed now as easily as they can at any time in the future.

Stocks of goods and the supply of merchandise are at the lowest ebb they have been in years. Goods are moving slowly only because of reduced buying power, and with the credit resources that have become available during the summer, nothing is to be gained by undue hesitancy and waiting other than a continuation of the sweeping losses that have been suffered through lost wages, reduced buying power and lessened consumption of goods.

Obstacles Are Disappearing

Business men have been standing still in the face of what they described as appalling handicaps—scarcity of capital, failing banks, uncertainty in legislation, soaring taxes, and surpluses of unconsumed goods.

Most of these obstacles, with the exception of high taxes, have largely disappeared. Bank failures have become inconsequential; no legislation is in immediate prospect which may cause worry to any industrial leader. The surpluses of goods no longer exist. Banks have adequate funds to assist industry to a start in every producing center. People are in need of supplies which they will buy just as soon as they have the resources in wages to do so.

New times are ahead, but how quickly business and industry regain momentum will be gauged largely by the energy and virility of the men at the helm. Some of today's problems will quickly vanish when the minds of the people and the credit resources are forced upon creative activities and there is a will and determination to bring things back to a normal balance.

The road along which industry will go ahead is as old as industry itself, but it is doubtful if the country will return to exactly the same conditions as before the depression. That has not been the history of other depressions. The country will face new conditions, new demands and new opportunities.

In looking over the country there are to be seen everywhere in large and small towns developments that remain to be swept away with the approach of new conditions. Ancient pavements, obsolete buildings, and outgrown factory plants, which should have been torn down years and years ago, are still found at every turn. There is no overbuilt condition; there are not too many houses, stores, schools or churches.

Accumulation of Rebuilding

The railroads after two years of inactivity have an accumulation of rebuilding and rehabilitation on their hands. The manufacturer who is wide-awake enough to replace his obsolete plant has a large opportunity and market before him; if he waits, he will have largely missed his chance.

Quality is just as great a factor in goods today as it was before the depression. Many firms that slashed wages are trying to sell at low prices to attract buyers with reduced incomes, and are bringing cut-throat competition into the situation. The markets have quantities of cheap and shoddy goods, but there is probably a lot of grief in store for these products.

Good prices based on good qualities can be obtained today, because the country is full of sound and legitimate firms anxious to perform good work at prices that are the lowest consistent with quality.

High Quality Today's Need

Business and industry should avoid settling down to mere mass production, and turn its attention to goods of quality and measure supply by demand. There is every indication that the day of mere mass production is gone from American industry and will not return. Business men of constructive foresight have learned well its ruinous lesson of depression and economic breakdown.

People should be put to work and at wages at which they can maintain their standards of living. Progressive towns and cities all over the country could realize this, and are taking advantage of the large opportunity in the business and industrial field, and to march in the front rank of recovery. And recovery is much nearer than a great many people seem to realize.

LABOR'S HISTORIC PEN

Was Used by Cleveland to Sign National Labor Law—Still Kept by A. F. of L.

When the bill making Labor Day a national holiday passed Congress in 1894, Amos J. Cummings was a member of the House of Representatives from New York City. He had introduced a bill himself with this object in view, but it was supplanted by a bill which passed the Senate before the House reached the Cummings bill. After it was signed by President Cleveland, Representative Cummings wrote the following letter to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor:

"Washington, D. C., June 29, 1894.

"Samuel Gompers, Esq., 14 Clinton Place, New York City.

"My dear Gompers—Yesterday I took the bill making Labor Day a national holiday, which had been passed by both houses of Congress, down to the President and he signed it. Thinking that you would like to have a memento of the passage of a law elevating labor, which will probably remain on the statute books as long as the Republic lasts, I send you the pen and holder which the President used in signing the bill.

"Yours sincerely,
"AMOS J. CUMMINGS."

President Gompers sent the following reply:

"New York, July 3, 1894.

"Hon. Amos J. Cummings, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir and Friend: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 29th, informing me that you took the bill making Labor Day a national holiday to the President, that he signed it, and that you sent me the pen and penholder which the President used in signing the bill.

"I also received the pen and holder, and assure you that I esteem it, not only as a valuable souvenir in connection with the passage of the law, but also as a high compliment expressive of your attitude toward the great movement for the elevation of labor . . .

"Very truly yours,

"SAMUEL GOMPERS, President, American Federation of Labor."

New Jersey Grants First Pensions.

As New Jersey inaugurated its law providing for old age pensions and granted aid to the first group of about 5,000 aged indigent citizens, state campaigns to secure the adoption of old age security laws are being launched in Ohio, Missouri, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and other commonwealths, according to the monthly "Old Age Security Herald," published by the American Association for Old Age Security, just out.

The New Jersey law, enacted last year, went into effect on July 1, 1932. County Boards, upon investigation, approved 4,254 applications by August 1, and pensions were accordingly paid. The State reimburses the counties three-fourths of the pension payments.

"The favorable effects of the operation of the new law have already been felt and much human suffering is being alleviated," the Herald declared. So impressed have officials and the press been with the stark need revealed by the investigations that the desirability of the act has been universally conceded.

"William J. Ellis, State Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies, found that 'there has never been a period when relief needs have been so acute, and the Old Age Relief Law provides very definitely for a group which has always been a serious relief problem!'"

Campaigns in Missouri and Ohio

A well-organized effort is being made in Missouri to secure the voters' approval in November of a constitutional amendment permitting the payment of old age pensions. The Republican and Democratic parties of the State have endorsed the amendment.

A mammoth petition is being circulated in every county in Ohio for the purpose of initiating a law in the next Legislature.

The Herald reviewed the effects of the New York State law, whose second anniversary was celebrated on Labor Day. The number of pensions is approximately 51,000 persons. "Broome County reported that its poorhouse population had decreased by forty during the year ending June 1, 1932. This result is attributed to the beneficent operation of the pension law by County Commissioner Floyd McCombs, who also disclosed that the operation of the pension system resulted in a saving of $2,000 in expenditures for home relief in June, 1932, as compared with the preceding month."

Investigations in many parts of the State testified to the efficient administration of the act. Commissioner Frank J. Taylor, head of the New York City Department of Public Welfare, said in the annual report of his department: "The elimination of the mental strain and anguish that would have been incurred during the past year by our aged persons had this law not been in effect, and the realization of the improvement in their health and contentment, due to its enactment, should alone be sufficiently compensating to warrant its universal adoption."

The Herald reported recent figures showing that 16,163 indigent aged have been pensioned in Massachusetts, 11,710 in California, 1,560 in Delaware and 738 in Idaho.

The Colorado mandatory pension law has been declared constitutional in an important test case. A mandatory pension law to take the place of the present optional act is being demanded by many voters and organizations in Minnesota. In Connecticut the official commission is at work completing its report on aged indigence in that State as a basis for pension legislation. The Herald listed drives launched by organized labor in its effort to obtain additional pension laws throughout the country.

VOTING BY EVERY TRADE UNIONIST VITAL THIS YEAR

Non-Partisan Campaign Committee Declares That Conditions of Last Three Years Make It Imperative Friends of Labor Be Given United Support.

Organized labor and its friends should take a deep and real interest in the coming election for President, Vice-President and members of Congress, the American Federation of Labor National Non-Partisan Political Campaign Committee declares in placing before labor and the nation the labor planks of the Republican and Democratic parties and the records of the candidates for President and Vice-President on labor issues.

"The conditions for the past three years make it imperative that all members of organized labor and those who sympathize with them shall go to the polls election day and vote for friends of Labor and the people," the committee says.

The report of the committee is submitted in a 24-page pamphlet which gives the planks of the two platforms pertaining to labor and the records of the candidates for President and Vice-President. The records of the candidates for the United States Senate and House will be sent to the labor organizations in their respective states and districts, the committee announces.

In ending the report, the committee urges that every trade unionist and every trade union should take a real interest in the election. "Those who do not vote are neglecting to discharge their duties as American citizens," the committee says. "It must be remembered that the American Labor movement is not partisan to political party. It is partisan to principles—the principles of righteousness, freedom and justice."

The report recalls the political policy of labor: "Stand faithfully by our friends and elect them. Oppose our enemies and defeat them; whether they be candidates for President, for Congress, or other offices; whether executive, legislative, or judicial."

Watchwords of Labor should be, the committee says:

We will not vote for a candidate for Congress who is in favor of the sales tax.

We will not vote for a candidate for Congress who will vote to reduce the wages of underpaid Government employees.

We will not vote for a candidate for a State Legislature who is not in favor of protecting the nation's children from industrial exploitation.

We will not vote for a candidate who is opposed to remedial legislation urged by Labor.

We will vote only for those candidates who are known to be the friends of the people and who place the interests of all above the selfish demands of the few.

The report is signed by Labor's National Non-Partisan Political Campaign Committee, as follows: William Green, chairman; Frank Morrison, secretary; Thomas A. Rickert, Matthew Woll and Martin F. Ryan.

It Might Be Worse

A friend met a cheerful Irishman who had plainly suffered some hard knocks. "Well, Pat, how are you getting along now?" he inquired.

"Oh, Oi'm still hard up, but Oi've a fine job in Jamaikee, and fare paid. Oi'll be home tomorrow."

"Sure, man, you'll never be able to work there. The temperature is a hundred in the shade."

Pat had endured too much cheerfully to be discouraged. "Well," he replied hopefully, "Oi'll be workin' in th' shade all th' time."—Ex.

A SHORT CUT METHOD!

Learn to

COMPOSE and ARRANGE

this simple home-study way

Here's good news to every musician who wants to get out of the "pit"—who is anxious to give up "small time" orchestra work.

Now, through a highly successful short cut method devised by the distinguished Harmonist, C. W. Wilcox, you can learn chord construction—the secrets of Harmony—how to make original arrangements for any size orchestra or band—how to compose melodies.

And you learn all this in the privacy of your own home—in half the usual time. No teacher—no bothersome details to slow you up. Only practical fundamentals from start to finish. So inexpensive, too. The cost averages only a few cents a day.

Enjoy the prestige that comes with musical leadership. Share in the liberal royalties collected by composers of modern classical music. THE COMING WINTER

The fourth winter of unemployment draws closer. The number of unemployed has grown steadily larger since last January. Those in industry was one and a half millions. Workers' incomes have been reduced by wage cuts and part-time work; their reserves, savings and investments have been heavily taxed or exhausted; equities in homes and insurance have been lost by inability to continue payments. What to do for next winter when expenses will be higher is the question that confronts many workers.

Depression has reduced the incomes from which we previously had taxes and contributions to the community chest. Over 70 per cent of relief at the present time is coming from government sources. Not only are local agencies forced to operate within restricted borrowing limits but the sum which Congress appropriated for relief is relatively small. The alternative is jobs. There should be a national policy to conserve all work opportunities and to plan all undertakings so as to create the greatest number of jobs possible. For example, if the loans approved by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for private industrial enterprises were for payrolls only, Federal relief would be used consistently to maintain our citizens—our nation itself. The financing of the material side of industry would be left to the banks that have already been helped so that they might perform the functions for which they were chartered. Despite the millions that has been provided them from the Federal Treasury, there is still lacking any evidence of expansion of credit by the members of the Federal Reserve System.

The administration has tried to relieve business depression by working from the top down. But artificial stimulation of prices and pools to peg the market can not produce sustained gains unless increased business activity puts real content into the gains.

In the past decade we seemed to have forgotten that men create wealth, and that speculation and manipulation add nothing to intrinsic values. Security can rest only on production. By putting the unemployed to work we can make it possible for each to earn his way, and thus bring rising prices for securities and commodities without artificial restoratives.

The shorter work-week and the shorter work-day would give jobs to all and would put the whole social structure on a sound basis. Now is the strategic time for national leadership for instituting the five-day week and for regional co-operation to make the five-day week effective. No other policy for the coming winter can prevent starvation and despair on a wide scale.—American Federationist.

When the course of events got beyond the control of men, the return to normal conditions began.

We Are Learning to Live

Recreation Is Becoming a "Big Business"

By GILBERT E. HYATT

Shortening of hours is coming. It is coming in the same way that all other humanitarian reforms have come, not because we wanted to put them into effect, but because we had to.

The obvious fact, bluntly stated, is that we have so perfected processes of production that less people can produce the needed supplies and there is a constantly increasing number to do the work. With 11,000,000 idle and an estimated 25,000,000 in want, the speed with which we substitute lip service for action in this direction constitutes one heat in that race between intelligence and disaster upon the winning of which, H. G. Wells says, depends the permanency of our civilization.

One of the most gratifying signs of progressive acceptance of this necessity is the complete squelching of that pompous nitwit who immediately rushed into print, when any discussion of shortening hours of labor arose, to inveigh against such a dastardly attempt to undermine the sterling virtues of industry, sobriety, etc.

Bleaters True to Form

These bleats run in stereotyped form.

The noble but irresponsible working man would dissipate his substance in idleness and dissipation. With time on his hands for which he was (according to this benevolent and usually non-productive pessimist) not sufficiently intelligent to make good use, he would resort to the dram shop, the gambling house, and worse.

Sloth would replace diligence. Business would stagnate, morals would decline, family life would be destroyed, etc., the coming disasters being admitted only by the imagination or the blatancy of the particular self-appointed guardian of mankind.

The only virtue which could be ascribed to such outbursts is that of consistency. They were logical manifestations of that "Jehovah" complex which particularly afflicts a certain type more blessed with good fortune than intellect.

According to this theory, the average human being is of such inferior mentality and character as to make it unsafe to allow him to run at large. For the protection of his own soul and body, and for the preservation of society, it was necessary to herd him into some factory as early as possible in the morning, and keep him at hard labor and under strict supervision until such time in the evening as left no interval for anything but the snatching of a meal and the sleep of exhaustion.

But Facts Intrude

Like all other "scourged to his dungeon concepts of human relations," this fails to stand up in the light of cold facts. Nothing contains more promise for that day of normally healthful, happy and secure life toward which we are struggling than the good use made by the average man of his growing leisure.

Among other interesting things is that he is visibly reflecting the effects of such leisure, security and material sufficiency as he has gained. Ethnologists tell us that the young men and women of the present generation in America average two inches taller than their grandparents. Increased height in a race or class is, according to these same scientists, the inherited result of sufficient food and good living conditions over a period of several generations.

Of course, this gain, hoping that the scientific gentlemen are correct, will be found only among those fortunate youths who grow up in the comparatively pleasant places of our land. The slum child, the underprivileged and undernourished, is still visibly a less pleasing and effective expression of humanity than we like to contemplate. School health statistics forbid conclusions that these benefits are inclusive of all classes.

Tall Boys of Harvard

Recently, as a case in point, a survey of the students of Harvard University disclosed them to be the tallest group concerning which accurate figures have been collected, with the exception of certain unusually vigorous tribes in Africa. Comparison of the same figures with those of New Haven factory workers would undoubtedly be revealing and unpleasant.

For a long time, the American has been slowly and painfully learning to play. Recently, we ran some highly interesting figures as to the increase in recreational and cultural activities in the United States and Canada. Those showed that, in 1,010 cities, attendance at indoor recreation centers increased 63 per cent in 1930 and 1931. During the same period outdoor attendance increased 17 per cent. In addition to this is the tremendous increase in private recreational activities such as canoeing, tennis, hiking, etc. We are becoming a nation of swimmers through thousands of artificial or natural varieties of the "Ol' Swimmin' Hole." Even golf is attracting more and more as its expense is lessened by public links.

How Recreation Grows

We are told that the summer camp movement, feebly launched some fifty years ago, now takes care of more than 7,000,000 school children during the vacation period.

Along with this wise use of leisure in athletics has gone an equally outstanding expansion in educational and cultural avocations.

Recently, the Department of Commerce issued a statement that:

"Demands for library service have exceeded all previous high marks in library history, the secretary of the American Library Association states.

"It is evident," he reports, "that the greater use of books in the past two years has been largely by adult readers, and that it is directly related to conditions arising from the present economic situation. Enforced leisure, and the desire to fit oneself for other positions or new vocations has sent many men and women to libraries for books on business, trade and technical subjects.

"A newly awakened interest in industrial and social problems would seem to account for the unprecedented demand by library users for books and other material on economic planning, unemployment insurance, gold standard, business cycles, and suggested methods of recovering prosperity."

At the request of the President's Organization on Unemployment Relief, the United States Office of Education collected information as to special school activities for the unemployed. Replies indicated that these activities ranged "from studies of the classics to learning to mend the family's shoes and reupholster the home furniture."

Leisure Wisely Used

Much of this recent striking development is caused by compulsory leisure from unemployment, but the interesting fact remains that wise and constructive use is being made of even this involuntary spare time.

Bringing the subject into that realm of decimal points and dollar signs which the American assumes to be the last word on any question, it appears that supplying the demands of leisure has become an important economic factor.

We have already pointed out that bond issues for recreation purposes totaled over $4,000,000,000 last year and that the combined expenditures of all reporting cities amounted to over $36,000,000 in spite of a curtailment of $2,500,000 from the previous year. This is putting ciphers behind the figures with typical American expansiveness.

A Real Big Business

Not long ago, Business Week pointed out that an increasing portion of the consumer's dollar was being spent for private transportation, health, education, personal service and recreation. It was estimated that 13.6 cents out of every dollar of consumer expenditures now goes for these necessities of a good life.

The average American is eagerly and wisely making the preservation of "sound mind in a sound body" a "big business." He will succeed if some of him is not worked too much and others not at all. The world is a pleasanter place in the degree to which this is true.

COMMENT AND CRITICISM OF WORLD AFFAIRS

News just comes that the Lidgewood Manufacturing Co., Elizabeth, N. J., has been awarded the contract to make electric cableway for installing power machinery at Hoover Dam.

The Lidgewood Company, working on government contracts, was until recently working a 12-hour day. It is reported now to be working nine and one-half hours a day, in spite of unemployment and of great efforts to spread work by reducing the work-week.

John P. Frey, testifying before a Congressional committee, revealed Lidgewood's 12-hour day operations.

The issue is the recent Ottawa agreement on Empire trade.

American workers and British workers alike seek protection of their standards against competition of low-wage workers. In the MacDonald cabinet split some famous characters pass out, led by Philip Snowden, now a viscount, once just Philip Snowden, Socialist.

John Sharpe Williams is dead in Mississippi. A famous character he was. Twenty-eight years in the Senate, ten in retirement.

Williams typified the old south and its aristocracy. He was of an earlier day. Possessed of a thirst for knowledge, he died surrounded by books.

Never hot on the trail of benefits for the workers, but always hot on the trail of what looked like justice to him, he was an outstanding marker of a type and a day. The intellectual integrity for which he stood could be repeated with great gain in many men now in public life.

Illinois coal fields remain strife-torn. Rebellion against their own union has sent miners on the march and on the rampage, lured by false ideas.

Communists are never far from such scenes.

In the end the miners must come into unity in their own bona fide union.

Sticking to Rules

Mrs. Simpleton was under medical attention for her eyes.

One day she called at the doctor's office. "I say," she said falteringly to the medical man, "I forgot to ask you about that eye lotion you sent me."

The doctor gazed at his patient in a puzzled way.

"Well, what have you done about it?" he asked.

"Nothing yet," she replied. "Do I drop it in my eyes before or after meals?"—Ex.

Prof. Knew

Wife (to absent-minded professor) —
"Your hat is on the wrong way, dear."
Prof. — "How do you know which way
I'm going?" — Arizona Kitty-Kat.

Profitable Handicap

"There you are, sir," said Dr. Knobbs to his patient. "My bill for improving your hearing comes to exactly $25."
The patient shook his head. "Did you speak, doctor?" he asked. "If so, I didn't hear a word that you said."
"Hm," sniffed the doctor, "perhaps I'd better make it $10."
"That's better, doctor," said the patient readily enough. "That's all right." — Ex.

Revenge is Sweet

A crowd had gathered around the poor man who had been bitten by the mad dog. A doctor was administering first aid.
Presently the patient sat up. "Doctor," he said in a hoarse whisper, "give me a piece of paper."

The doctor placed a kindly hand on the man's shoulder.

"Tut, tut, my good fellow!" he said.
"You're all right; you needn't worry about making your will so soon."

"I don't want to make a will," said the victim, with a slight smile. "I want to make a list of the people I'm going to bite." — Ex.

Nothing Funny About It

She insisted on taking innumerable frocks with her, and they arrived at the station loaded with luggage.

"I wish," said the husband, though-fully, "that we'd brought the piano."

"You needn't try to be sarcastic," came the frigid reply. "It's not a bit funny."

"I'm not trying to be funny," he explained sadly. "I left the tickets on it."
— Labor.
