

ENGINEERING INTEGRITY

ARTICLE XII CANONS OF ETHICS

Foreword

"Honesty, justice and courtesy form a moral philosophy which, associated with mutual interest between men, constitutes the foundation of ethics. The engineer should recognize such a standard, not in passive observance, but as a set of dynamic principles guiding his conduct and way of life. It is his duty to practice his profession according to those Canons of Ethics.

"As the keystone of professional conduct is integrity, the engineer will discharge his duties with fidelity to the public, his employers and clients, and with fairness and impartiality to all. It is his duty to interest himself in public welfare, and to be ready to apply his special knowledge for the benefit of mankind. He should uphold the honor and dignity of his profession and also avoid association with any enterprise of questionable character. In his dealings with fellow engineers he should be fair and tolerant.

THE ASSOCIATION has adopted the seal shown here and provided that it may be used by members on their letter-heads and in their professional cards to attest their membership in the Association and their acceptance of the obligations imposed thereby.
