A Typical Ludwig Baumann Building
In presenting the third annual edition of "Who's Who on the Air", Ludwig Baumann attempts to introduce you a bit intimately to some of the better known radio entertainers. On the following pages you will find pictures and short stories of many of the more prominent artists of the air so that when they next arrive in your living room through your loud speaker, you will know more about what goes on behind those voices.

No group of celebrities remains so remote as do radio stars. So many of them are just voices to us. Seldom do we see their faces.

Interesting people, these leaders of the newest form of entertainment. Some were successful artists before radio claimed them. Others were restless spirits with pioneering instinct drawn to this new theatre during the early uncertain days.

By their talents and perseverance they have helped to hasten the ultimate success of radio.

A few years ago radio was just a hobby—a maze of technical terms and static. Eager commuters talked glibly of variometers, condensers, and superhetrodynes. Securing reasonably clear reception was such a triumph that little attention was paid to the quality of the program.

Sweeping technical developments have eliminated the sorrows and joys of the amateur. Today perfect reception is only a matter of buying any one of the standard foolproof sets. Countless programs of genuine merit wait for your turn of the dial.

These actors of the air have had the pleasure of meeting you through your fan mail, now you meet them in an intimate way.

Remember there is only ONE

T HE VOICE OF Broadway
By Louis Sobol

Do I need a cane!

Eliner Nunn was the first star, but in the days when there were no-and Craig & Ardell the stars, the vaudeville stage of the Palace eau coupe and office was full. The Pollettes, Pollettes' full Pollettes. Still singing this, best I can.

On the outskirts of St. Louis, the first time an electric light game joined a carnival. A first-rate star with many lights, each light being numbered, and the winner getting a pound of Maxwell House coffee. Spending three hours watching the wheel from a safe vantage point and writing down the numbers as they showed up, and discovering that they ran on a system, which even the owner didn't know. Winning $65 worth of coffee for $5 and being kicked out of the show grounds.

My contract cancelled with Rube Bernstein's 'Cuddling Cuties' because I did.

Assisting J. C. Flippin in Ed Dale's 'Broadway Brevities' at $50 a week. Three weeks before the show closed discovering they were unable to get anybody else and they needed me for bits. I struck for $100 raise, but settled for half. Later on the "Co." with J. C. Flippin & Co. in Ruidesville—being paid off in soft colors. That night at a local boutique hotel, awakening Mr. Flippin by placing a ring-tailed monkey on his headging chest... built a punk.

Supporting Clark & McCullough in Phil Goodman's 'The Ramblers,' and writing in my own part—a hum actor crashing the movies. Stopping the show at the out-of-town opening, but, at subsequent performances, taking hints in the from at 11:15 p.m.

Hired by Texas Guinan to open up the old 20 Club, but unable to pass the doorman at night to get in. Finally settling through finding Guinan so crowded that when a woman fainted it took her an hour and a half to fall down.

Singing "Roll 'Em Girls, Roll 'Em," a terrific parody in 'Bunk of 1926,' about Peaches Browning and Daddy at the Broadhurst Theatre.

The fruit discovering them in the first row, only to have them take a bow at the end of the number!

Traveling to Newark to a 515 club date and being stopped by Eudora Le Maire to go into George Swert's part in "Betty Lou." (George Swert had gone into Hul Skell's part, as Skelly probably wanted to be paid.) Playing role on hour's notice with old agent threatening to run me out of show business if I did. Singing a love duet with Madame Cameron and discovering that in musical comedy the orchestra plays a pitch note till ready—but this punk started singing immediately on note—and with what results!

With Genevieve Tobin, Oscar Shaw and Walter Catlett in "Dear Sir." Getting $25 at end of first week. Instead of contracted $150 and been told contract had been bought from Allan Foster. Immediately resigning, but forced to give a two-weeks' notice. Telling Catlett about giving notice and he begging me to stay. Decide to do so, apologize, a rescinding notice—only to find show a notice on board.

The Palace Theatre where you are supposed to be in fast company—and my surprise in finding all the women on the bills were respectable.

Playing a benefit at Saranac with Eddie Cantor as master of ceremonies, and Cantor promising me swell booking in New York. Later in New York, meeting Cantor on the street and saying, "Hello, Mr. Cantor—remember me—you told me to see you in town," and Cantor answering, "I'm sorry you." Ben Bernie coming to New York with complete new set of men in his orchestra after gambling with me at the golf links—and losing everything.

With the Four Marx Brothers in "At Last Crackers"—where if there had been another brother, they could have done away with the

HAYTON and SCHUTT
Trick piano arrangements are their specialty and when these boys start tickling the ivories they make the finest melodies sound even better.

LOUIS SOBOL
Famous columnist of the New York Evening Journal, was born in New Haven, Conn., thirty-five years ago. Was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Motor Transport Corps during the war. Has been a newspaper man ever since. The only Broadway columnist with a mustache—doesn't wear spats, or cane, but has his nails manicured because it is the only chance he has to get some sleep. Writes his column between 4 and 6 in the afternoon—then does the rounds of Premieres and night clubs, reaching his home in Elmhurst, L. I., in the wee small hours of the morning. Is married, and has a daughter.
Every Sunday evening at 9 o’clock, LUDWIG BAUMANN presents Louis Sobol’s “VOICE OF BROADWAY”, featuring a galaxy of Broadway’s favorite stars. Merle Johnston’s Orchestra furnishes the delightful dance tunes, and Paul Small, a member of the orchestra, is tenor soloist. Hayton and Schutt, that lively piano team, complete the program with their specialties.

BASIL RUYSDAEL
Announcer of the Ludwig Baumann Program. A Cornell graduate. Sang for eight years in the Metropolitan Opera before entering the Radio field.

MERLE JOHNSTON
Born in Canada, the son of Captain and Mrs. George Johnston, Salvation Army workers, Merle received his initial musical training while learning to play the instruments of the Army band at street meetings. He worked his way through college with his saxophone and graduated as an electrical engineer. This early training in the electrical field has been of great help to him in developing more perfect broadcast music.
BILL HAY

Has been introducing “Amos and Andy, in person” to millions of fans since that famous pair made their first broadcast.

Here are the real “Ruby Taylor and Madam Queen” in the persons of Mrs. Freeman F. Gosden and Mrs. Charles J. Correll.

AMOS 'n' ANDY

As Bill Hay would say, “Here they are”—Freeman F. Gosden (Amos) and Charles J. Correll (Andy) as they would look if you met them outside of the studio. They first went on the air in 1926 as “Sam and Henry” on a small radio station. In 1928 they stepped into their present names and their sketch was supplied to thirty-eight small stations on phonograph records. Then came their tie-up with N. B. C. which is probably the outstanding radio success.

AMOS...

enjoys being a “know nothing” and is happiest when playing four or five characters at one broadcast.

ANDY...

or Andrew H. Brown, President of the Fresh Air Taxicab Corporation of America Incorporated.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
In the early days of Radio, little thought was given to the type of cabinet into which the manufacturer built his set. All effort was put into improving reception, eliminating static, and interference. Today, with those earlier mechanical difficulties completely overcome, the modern electric set makes its appearance in many types of cabinets, each styled to harmonize with the furniture of some authentic period.

In addition, Ludwig Baumann has designed a number of pieces of standard furniture such as desks, tables and secretaries into which you can have mounted any standard radio chassis. This makes it possible for you to have a real custom-made radio to fit into your decorative scheme.

Whether you want a standard cabinet model, or a set in a special piece of furniture, you should visit one of the Ludwig Baumann radio departments, where you can select your Radio by comparison, from the hundreds of makes and models on display. And remember, Ludwig Baumann will give you a liberal allowance for your old radio in exchange for a new model. Then you can arrange to pay-out-of-income with only a small deposit, and a year to pay the balance.
KELVIN KEECH taught the Prince of Wales how to play the ukelele. He was born in Honolulu, married a Russian waitress during the war.

JAMES WALLINGTON was recently married. For eight months he kept the Byrd Antarctic Expedition informed of what was what in the states.

FORD BOND comes from the Blue Grass State. He has a pleasing tenor voice. His parents are still living and he has two brothers.

JOHN S. YOUNG attended Yale University, where he was a classmate of Rudy Vallee. He began his radio career in a New England station.

MILTON CROSS formerly a church choir singer. His most popular broadcasts are the “Children’s Hours” and “Slumber Hour.”

GEORGE HICKS hails from Tacoma, Washington. He assists on many of the important broadcasts of sporting events as well as studio programs.

GRAHAM McNAMRE still packs a wallop with his announcing. He won immediate fame as an announcer in 1924 and has headed the list ever since.

EDWARD THORGERSEN is 26 years old, tall, and handsome. He may be heard any evening on the big commercial programs.

LEE CRONICAN comes from Washington, D.C. He joined WOR’s staff last December.

JOHN GAMBLING fought with the English army during the World War. After that he became a wireless operator in the merchant marine.

ANNOUNCERS...
a handsome lot of young men, often heard, but seldom seen. Haven’t you often wondered what they looked like? Well, here they are.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
A. L. Alexander, head man at WMCA and winner of the Daily Mirror's popularity contest, is a master of the King's English.

William Melia is king of the night club announcers. You can hear Bill any night or morning over WMCA.

Kenneth Roberts went from a stock company in Hoboken to chief announcer at WLTH, Brooklyn is now on the Columbia staff.

Frank Knight, a tall distinguished, British-accented announcer, comes from St. John's, Newfoundland. He was wounded in battle of "Seine".

Ted Husing may be announcing a football game at Yale Bowl or a yacht race at Miami. He remains a favorite sports announcer.

George Beuchler has a fine baritone voice that foretells a career as a singer. He has specialized in ad lib announcing of concert programs.

Harry Von Zell, a professional boxer from Los Angeles selected an easier way of making a livelihood by choosing announcing.

Don Ball plays any kind of string instrument. He is a graduate of Brown, with a Ph.D. and is Columbia's youngest announcer.

Louis Dean just a chap from way down on the farm in Alabama. He served in the Navy during the war.

John Mayo saw action on the Mexican border and was an aviator ace in France during the war. A corking good announcer.

RADIO presents a VAUDEVILLE SHOW in Six Star Acts

SISTERS of the SKILLET
Edward East and Ralph Dumke hail from the Middle West and have become a helping pair to which many hundreds of harassed housewives have turned for help and enjoyment.

BRAD BROWNE and AL LLEWELYN
Stirring, mixing and boiling down a great potpourri of songs and laughter, Brad Browne is also creator of the "Nit Wits." He was once put out of a Y. M. C. A. dormitory for causing, with his antics, the same uproarious laughter that he now receives a sizeable salary to produce.

COLONEL STOOPNAGEL and BUDD
Several years ago, two attache's of radio station WMAK at Buffalo were called upon at a moment's notice to fill in a program. Their hastily made up comedy was so successful that they were given a permanent place on the program. Their fame spread to the big chain stations where they now fill an important part of the program. F. Charles Taylor takes the part of "Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagel," and Willard Budd Hulick is "Budd".

MILLER and LYLES (below)
Long ago, Miller & Lyles attained fame as vaudeville comedians from coast to coast. Their entry into the realm of broadcasting has been equally successful.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio's Best
WEBER and FIELDS

For over fifty years these famous comedians have been entertaining the American Public in vaudeville theatres from coast to coast. The characters of "Mike and Meyer" were almost a myth that only our parents and grandparents had the privilege of knowing until radio snatched this memory of the past and brought it to life in the act that is now making Weber and Fields as famous to radio fans as their vaudeville act was to theatregoers in the days of Koster & Beils.

Weber and Fields made their first appearance on the stage as black-face comedians at the old Bowery Music Hall. The act was not well received so it was taken off, but the manager gave them a chance to reappear as a Dutch Comedy act, which won immediate approval and placed Weber and Fields among the foremost entertainers.

The GOLDBERGS

The success of this program is credited to Gertrude Berg, who is the originator, writer and creator of the character, Molly Goldberg. The part of Jake is played by James R. Waters a veteran actor who played in "Abie's Irish Rose." Sammy and Rosie are played by Alfred Corn and Rosalyn Silver who made their radio debut with Children's Hour.

KATE SMITH
Twenty-two and still growing; this big girl from Washington, D.C. Kate was featured in "Hit the Deck" and "Flying High." She played the Palace for the record time of 8 weeks. She was co-lyricist with Howard Johnson on her theme song "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain."

GUS VAN
Van was formerly the motorman on a Brooklyn, New York, trolley on which his partner, the late Joe Schenck, was conductor. They formed a vaudeville team which played for nineteen years until Schenck's death.

JESSICA DRAGONETTE
Was born in Calcutta, India, and was educated in Georgian Court Convent at Lakewood, N.J. She sang the only solo part in "The Miracle" and later was featured in "The Student Prince."

RUDY VALLEE
Born at Westbrook, Maine, July 28, 1901. Father French Canadian. Mother Irish. Attended Yale. Learned to play on a mail order saxophone. Now also plays the clarinet. Was married to Fay Webb in June, 1931, his second marriage; his first wife was Leonie McCoy.

HENRY BURBIG
After a turn at vaudeville, Henry was stationed at a New York Hotel as director of the hostelry gym. He was induced to fill in on a program one day so he recited "Levinsky's Wedding." It clicked, so did Burbig.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
GRANTLAND RICE
is one of the country's best known sports writers, his articles appearing in the leading magazines and newspapers from coast to coast. His talks on current sports are brought to you weekly over a large chain.

HARRIET LEE . . .
. . . is assured of a permanent place in the radio world now that television has demonstrated that her face matches the charm of that husky contralto voice that has captivated radio listeners. Miss Lee was crowned "Miss Radio" at the Radio World's Fair this year.

FLOYD GIBBONS
Has been hunting headlines and capturing them for over twenty years. He lost that eye while reporting the battle of Belleau Wood from the trenches. He retired from newspaper work in 1928, after a career that took him through every known part of the globe.

RUSS COLUMBO
Tall, dark, handsome—and unmarried. He is one of radio's best dressed men. Hails from Calistoga, Cal., where he started his career as a violinist. When fourteen he was playing solos in the Imperial Theatre in San Francisco. However, his mellow baritone won out.

FORD FRICK
Comes from the Hoosier State. After graduating from college in Indiana he went to Colorado where he taught high school and played semi-professional baseball. Frick and his thirteen-year-old son are keen disciples of all sports.

RUTH ETTING
Ruth was born on a farm near David City, Neb., and used to imitate the various sounds made by the birds and fowl around the farm so well that she was called upon to give her imitations at many church socials. Now she is one of Mr. Ziegfeld's brightest stars.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio's Best
PAUL WHITEMAN and his BAND

Organizing his first band in San Francisco, the "King of Jazz" has won fame and fortune. He has had under his direction, as many as thirty-five orchestras at one time. He was born in Denver, Colorado, where his father directed a conservatory of music.

COON-SANDERS

That danceable band heard from the "New Yorker" is directed by Carleton Coon and Joe Sanders formerly of Kansas City. Joe is the ever smiling blues singing fellow at the piano and "Coonie" bangs away at the drums.

BEN BERNIE

After several years at Columbia University, Bernie decided to take his fiddle and go into vaudeville. Here he teamed up with Phil Baker and they played vaudeville theatres from 1910 until the war separated them. Then Ben took up the baton and from it comes the finest of dance music also breezy pungent wisecracks.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio's Best
B. A. ROLFE...

... was one of the first dance orchestra leaders to amass a large fortune, which he lost when he tried his hand at making movies. However, you can’t keep a good man down—and Rolfe proved it when he dusted off his trumpet and started all over again.

VINCENT LOPEZ

Started broadcasting in 1921 and his famous “Lopez Speaking” is remembered by every veteran radio fan. Vincent started studying to be a priest, but gave that up to enter business. Directed a small band in a cabaret until Pat Rooney, the actor, discovered him.

WILL OSBORNE...

popularized the slow, soft music for which he is noted. His first orchestra was made up of musicians he had heard play in various theatres.

The LOMBARDO BROTHERS

Guy Lombardo insists that each member of his orchestra be a Canadian and just to be sure, he is fast filling it up with members of his own family. Here are the four Lombardo boys, Lebert, Victor, Guy, and Carmen.

LARRY FUNK

The son of skilled musicians, Larry has a natural aptitude for tunes and a memory that contains many more than the thousand melodies he boasts of.
Here are just a few of the many prominent artists who appeared in the Ludwig Baumann hours last year. The complete roster of our guest stars reads like a "Who's Who on Broadway." This season our broadcast is headed by that famous columnist Louis Sobol who knows Broadway in and out. He brings you the latest gossip and also introduces the guest star of the evening. Merle Johnston’s orchestra enters upon its third season with us, playing those delightful dance tunes which have made him so popular. Hayton and Schutt, that versatile team, play lively piano selections. Paul Small, tenor soloist, tells you the words while you dance to the Music. Basil Ruysdael announces the program.

Tune in WOR every SUNDAY EVENING at 9 o’clock
ARE YOU LISTENIN'? . . .

... says Tony Wons as he introduces Morton Downey and Jacques Renard in their quarter hour of delightful songs and music. Tony Wons is also famous for his morning program, "Tony's Scrap Book." He started his famous Scrap Book while convalescing in a hospital after the war.

THE JESTERS

Wamp Carlson, Guy Bonham and Dwight Latham all celebrate their birthdays on the twenty-fourth of the month. They were formerly insurance clerks in Hartford, Conn. This trio write the dialogue for their broadcasts and play fourteen instruments between them.

CLARA, LU and EM

Here they are, those three young girls from the Middle West, who are becoming so popular on their nightly broadcasts. These girls first brought life to the characters of Clara, Lu and Em in their sorority house at the University of Michigan, from whence they came to the radio world.

THE THREE BAKERS

Ye goode olde spirit of '76 in the person of the "Three Bakers," Jack Parker, first tenor, Frank Luther, second tenor, and Darrel Woodyard, baritone are heard in songs and sketches each Sunday evening accompanied by music of Billy Artz's orchestra.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio's Best
The BOSWELL SISTERS

Smiling at you are Connie, Vet and Martha. Eight years ago they made their first broadcast in their home town, New Orleans, and they have been at it ever since. Besides their radio program, the Boswell Sisters have attained great success in Vaudeville.

LANDT TRIO and WHITE

This is that “Old Gang of Yours.” You remember the boys who used to hang out on the corner and put “Sweet Adeline,” and “Down by the Old Mill Stream” to close harmony. Carl, Jack and Dan Landt do the singing, and Howard White accompanies on the piano. Their favorite corner was in Scranton, Pa., until they migrated to New York, where they received instant recognition at the N.B.C. Studios. They appear on several large programs, but probably their best known broadcast is “on the 8:15.”

All of the boys are single, and all live together in a home that is wired like a studio for the purpose of rehearsing. Howard White is unable to read a note of music, but is matchless as an accompanist.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
LILY PONS

Ma and Seth Parker in a cozy spot in their Jonesport, Maine, home, as they broadcast a Sunday Evening Program

PHILLIPS H. LORD who is to "Sunday at Seth Parker's" what Brown is to "Real Folks," knows more about New England life than possibly any other radio actor. He has seen the rural resident "all dressed up in his Sunday clothes," and he has lived with him at home. It is the home-life that Lord attempts to portray in his "Seth Parker" presentations. He writes the hymns that are a part of each broadcast, as well as the manuscript.

ARTHUR ALLEN is a widely known radio actor coming to radio after a stage career. He appears in Soconyland Sketches and the "Stebbins Boys" as well as many other broadcasts.

PARKER FENNELLY a native of Maine, takes the part of John in the "Stebbins Boys," and has also appeared in many other sketches with Mr. Lord and Mr. Allen.

SNOOP and PEEP
Those "demon dee-tec-tives" are Charles Finan and Paul Winkopp, recently recruited from "three a day." Winkopp also had a turn at banking while Finan sailed the high seas as an able bodied seaman.

BREEN and DeROSE
May Singhi Breen, "The Ukelele Lady" and Peter DeRose, pianist and song writer, have been entertaining radio fans for over seven years, and rank among the real old timers on the air. They met in the studio, and after several years of broadcasting together, they decided to team up permanently and get married. Their's is a real radio romance.

GENE and GLENN
These boys reigned supreme at station W T A M, Cleveland, before selling their wares at N.B.C. Gene Francis Carroll was born in Chicago and Glen Rowell is from Pontiac, Mich. Both have had lots of experience in vaudeville and musical comedy. They met in Cincinnati at Station W L W.
THE MILLS BROTHERS

These boys have had the fastest rise to success in radio history. They are John, 21; Herbert, 19; Harry, 18; and Donald, 17; of Piqua, Ohio. Veteran musicians and orchestra leaders refused to believe that with only their voices they could simulate such musical instruments as the tuba, clarinet, saxophone and trombone. Yet nothing but a guitar accompanies the singing of the Mills brothers.

JULIA SANDERSON and FRANK CRUMIT

Frank Crumit and his charming wife, Julia have been theatrical headliners for years. Miss Sanderson stepped into fame, when the star of “Winsome Winnie” whom she had been understudying suddenly became ill, Julia was called upon to take the lead, and success was immediate. Frank began his stage work while at the University of Ohio. They played together in “Tangerine”, “Moonlight”, “Oh Kay”, “Queen High”, and others. Both had to be coaxed to make a Radio debut.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
Little Jack Little  Often known as the “speakeasy baritone.” His real name is John Leonard, who when broadcasting sings close into the microphone with his peculiar voice, half talk and half melody.

Mitzi Rich  Is a blues singer over W O R but her talent does not stop there. She is a composer, a pianist, an actress and a writer.

Lowell Thomas  An adventurer and explorer of the far north. He has written several novels which are as interesting as his news chats.

Ann Leaf  This little lady, an organist, makes about fifteen broadcasts a week, including the dreaming Nocturne program every night at bedtime.

Bing Crosby  A handsome crooning baritone of twenty-seven years has appeared in many theatres throughout this country, Mexico and Canada since 1926.

Verna Osborne  Soloist of W O R, is a tall blonde haired miss who won first place in the Atwater Kent Contest of 1929.

Is just twenty-nine years old, but his lyric tenor voice has been heard on more than nine hundred programs. Ben was born on a farm in the West Virginia hills and went to college in Alderson, W. Va.

PHIL COOK
Has more voices than Solomon had wives. He takes off eight or ten characters at each broadcast. A good ukelele player, writes his own sketches and is married to his high-school sweetheart.

EDDIE CANTOR
The country's next President—Eddie says so himself and we think that he is beginning to believe it. Eddie Cantor rates as one of the country's leading wits and humorists.

HEADLINERS of the AIR

HARRY HORLICK
Was a soldier in the Imperial Russian Army during the Red Revolution. He played in oriental cafes in Constantinople before coming to America, and many of the tunes played in his "Gypsies" programs are memories of those days in Turkey.

WILL ROGERS
Presidents, ex-Presidents, Kings and Barons of Business all look alike to him when he starts poking fun. He is rated America's foremost humorist and the nation-wide appreciation of his wit has made him one of the highest paid entertainers.

VAUGHN De LEATH
Hers was the first woman's voice to go on the ether. She's a real radio pioneer. Graduating from Mills College in 1919 she came to New York to make Phonograph records and in 1920 made her first broadcast to a handful of crystal set owners.

HOLD IT PLEASE!
A group of your favorites giving the radio editors and writers the merry ha-ha at a party held at the Hotel New Yorker last September 23rd. They are, front row left to right, Bud Hulick, Jack Smart, Nat Brusloff; standing, left to right, Ted Bergman, Jacques Renard (dressed in cellophane) and F. Chas. Taylor, better known as Colonel Stoopnagle.

FOUR!
"Daddy," Nick Dawson shows "Rollo," Master Donald Hughes how to make a cushion shot for the 16th hole.

SHIP A'HOY
Skipper Rolfe and his first mate, Bum, have just set out to spend a quiet day on the high seas.

RUDY SIGNS
Who said sailors are not sentimental. Rudy Vallee puts his "John Henry" in an autograph book for a gob.

MAC FOLLOWS THRU
Take it from Graham McNamee's smile that he made a "birdie" or maybe just beside the flag on the green. Well, he does play a good game.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio's Best
Due to a new ruling, newspapers no longer list radio programs under the sponsor's name. This often makes it difficult to identify a program in the regular newspaper listings. We have therefore provided this convenient schedule for you to fill in with your favorite program.
