Alan Mills' First Play On "Drama in Sound" June 21

by KEN MURPHY

MONTREAL ACTOR - FOLK-SINGER Alan Mills has now added playwriting to his long list of accomplishments and interests in the field of "Canadiana." His first play, Ti-Jean and the Devil, will be presented on the CBC Montreal drama series, Drama in Sound, Wednesday, June 21.

Mills prefers to call the work an "illustrated narrative" rather than a play in the conventional sense, for he unfolds his story of Ti-Jean, a French-Canadian fiddler who makes a bargain with Satan, in the manner of the traditional raconteur. Short dramatized scenes illustrate and highlight the narrative.

The plot of the story is based on a fragment of an old folk legend told him by a fellow Montrealer, Jean Carignan, a fiddler, or "violoneux," who often accompanies Mills in concert appearances.

"Some time ago," Mills explains, "Johnny (Carignan) and I were preparing a new LP album of Canadian folk songs and fiddle tunes for Folkways Records, and I was asked to include a folk legend, or story in the folk tale idiom, just to add something that would be a little different from the other records I've made.

"I thought it would be best to do a story that would involve Johnny's fiddling, but I couldn't find anything suitable in my own collection of folk tales, so I asked Jean if he knew any old stories about fiddlers.

"It turned out that he did remember an old French-Canadian legend about a fiddler making a bargain with the devil (a common theme in the folklore of many countries) but he couldn't recall many of the details. So I just made up a story from the little he did remember, and that's all there was to it."

It was while preparing the tale for his recording, Mills said, that the idea occurred that it might make a good play, so he decided to dramatize it, "just for the fun of it."

"I expected to have difficulty stretching the thing to the usual half hour," he said, "but you know, once I started, it almost began writing itself. All kinds of colorful characters I've known or heard about over the years began pushing themselves into the story, and the problem soon became to confine it to the limited time!"

Montreal drama producer Rupert Caplan accepted the finished script on first reading.

Although Ti-Jean and the Devil is Alan Mills' first play, writing is not new to him. He was a newspaper reporter and feature writer for years before he decided, in the early 1940's, to make a full-time career out of his hobbies—acting and singing.

Since then, he has become widely recognized as one of the leading interpreters of both the English and French folk songs of Canada, recorded hundreds of them on more than a score of LP's, authored or co-authored four song books, sung in over 1,000 radio and television broadcasts, and given many lecture recitals in Canada, the United States and England on what he calls "tuneful Canadiana."

This summer the burly baritone will travel some 10,000 miles to appear in concerts and lecture recitals at folk festivals and universities in California, Ontario, and the Maritimes.

In the CBC production of Ti-Jean and the Devil on June 21, Mills will be featured as the old raconteur, Telescope Coté. Part of the recent Folkways recording Mills made with Jean Carignan will be used to illustrate the tale.

IN REPLY

Excerpts from the CBC Radio program In Reply of May 21, in which J. Frank Willis dealt with press criticism of CBC costs.

WILLIS: . . . I read you an editorial some weeks ago about the so-called "CBC millstone around the neck of the suffering public." A Vancouver In Reply listener has commented on just this type of editorial, and he has some interesting suggestions.

"Out here on the west coast the CBC seems to me to be the object of a never-ceasing vicious campaign with only one end in view, the closing of CBC as a 'money losing' 'terrible burden' on the taxpayer and its substitution by privately owned TV and radio, which are supposed to 'cost the viewer nothing' and 'do the job better' while making handsome profits for all concerned. With a good many others I dissent heartily from this viewpoint, but there is very little way of getting any other viewpoint solidly in front of the public. I think the tempo and intensity of the 'abolish CBC' campaign is increasing all the time and the overall costs of the CBC are certainly increasing. At the same time—the CBC seems to me to be compromising its position a little more every day. In order to do something about the costs, it has had, and is having increasingly, to depend on sponsors for advertising revenue, thereby making itself for a good part of the time almost indistinguishable from privately-owned broadcasting.

"TV is of course the villain of the piece, and colour TV will be even more expensive. And no matter which way CBC plays it will be wrong. If it comes in early it will be confronted at every opportunity with statistics and editorials showing what a frightful waste of money CBC is. If it comes in late, it will be damned for failing to give to viewers what the sponsors of private TV, out of the goodness
(Please turn to page 9)

IN THE CBC'S library lie scripts and recordings of millions of words spoken during broadcasts of talks and interviews over the years. Many have historical significance; many have mellowed and become even more interesting with the passing of time.

Novelist Ron Hambleton recently has dug through the CBC's files of the past 20 years, and has put together a series of broadcasts entitled Worth Repeating, that began June 15 on the Trans-Canada network, and will continue to be heard each Thursday.

His selections include: an interview recorded 10 years ago in which singer Paul Robeson discusses education in the Soviet Union; several talks by the late Dr. Marion Hilliard on the problems of women; and Rex Lambert's description of a court case which took place in Canada in the 1840's, when the United States tried to extradite a runaway slave.

Material is drawn from not only all periods of CBC broadcasting, but from all phases of operation—local, regional and national. If the original discs or tapes exist they will be used. Otherwise, the script will be read by the announcer who read it originally. Scripts will not be "doctored;" they will be heard exactly as they were when first broadcast.

A "BROTHER-AND-SISTER" act is together for the first time in four years in Power by Proxy, a drama to be seen Sunday, June 25, on General Motors Presents. Vita Linder (in a walk-on part) joins her brother, Cec (playing a leading role), who has just returned from Britain where he has developed a successful career on television, stage and screen. They last acted together on CBC-TV four years ago, playing brother and sister roles. Vita Linder is heard every Thursday night on the Dominion Network program Shadows, reading poetry.

IN CONCLUDING an account of the history and development of radio in Canada, the CBC in a booklet just issued, Broadcasting in Canada, restates some of the principles underlying CBC programming policy.

"The general aim in making up CBC domestic program schedules is to arrive at a satisfactory balance of entertainment on one hand, and information and education on the other. Wherever possible, these factors are combined, and presented at suitable hours. All listeners do not like the same things, and there are minority groups whose tastes must be taken into account. But whether a listener likes jazz or classical music, light opera or chamber music, discussion programs, daytime serials or book reviews, CBC feels he should have programs to meet his particular taste somewhere in its schedules.

"The views of specially constituted Advisory Councils are sought in planning programs in connection with Religious Broadcasts and School Broadcasts. Many other organizations act in an advisory capacity for a number of CBC series."

A Case for the Court

The drama of the courtroom returns to the CBC-TV network Monday, June 26, in authentic cases tried before real judges, by actual lawyers. A Case for the Court, one of last summer's most closely-followed series, this year has widened its scope and added features to make it even more popular. (See feature, page 5).

Q for Quest

A Day in the Life of the Scholar Wu

THIS WEEK Q for Quest offers one of the most unusual in its series of off-beat features: A Day in the Life of the Great Scholar Wu, by the brilliant and controversial German playwright, Bertolt Brecht. It was translated and adapted by Rose Kastner of Toronto. "Brecht," says supervising producer Ross McLean, "permits a delightful glimpse of the sad lot of scholars in ancient feudal China, and it proves not too unlike the fate of the contemporary egghead. For all hands, this television version is a reunion. All combined to present Wu on stage in Toronto last year. It was warmly praised."

In A Day in the Life of the Great Scholar Wu (Tuesday night on CBC-TV) Brecht blends a play from Honan Province with selections from the Chinese Book of Comedies and scenes from several Chinese operas, all written by men whose names have been lost in the shuffle of the centuries. But the points they had to make are timeless in their wisdom and bite, and highly entertaining.

Wu is a scholarly gentleman who thinks he can avoid work and earn his daily bread simply by dropping a few crumbs of knowledge in the paths of more ignorant mortals. "O Knowledge," he breathes gratefully, "thou comforter of the few!"

He brags to the unlettered that he is invited to sup at the best homes, tells them that the first step on the road to culture is learning "how to stretch your legs under the banquet tables of the rich." After that comes practice in the subtleties of flattery and parasitism. Sprinkle a little wisdom (or what passes for it) here and there, he says, and you're off to a plush life and an easy one. In theory, that is.

As the play proceeds we look in on Wu as he tries to treat himself to a free breakfast, as he finds himself done out of a lunch, and as he arrives too late for the dinner he is dying for. It seems that poor Wu is just not wanted in anyone's dining-room. With tummy rumbling unmercifully, Wu suffers a further indignity. He loses his shoes. And he asks himself sorrowfully: "What is knowledge good for if you have no shoes?" As he slips further and

COURTROOM DRAMA RETURNS

A CASE for the Court, rated one of the most popular programs on CBC-TV last summer, will return for a second season on Monday, June 26.

The 12-week series is produced by the CBC in co-operation with the Canadian Bar Association and features actual judges, magistrates and lawyers. Gil Christy will return as host.

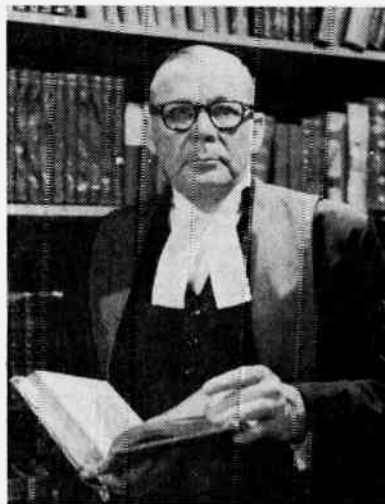

A Case for the Court has an ambitious format for a 30-minute show. Each case opens with Christy talking to witnesses (actors); the scene then shifts to a courtroom, where two lawyers argue the case before a judge or magistrate. Four panelists—representing the public—then discuss the arguments, give their decisions and question the judge. Finally, the judge hands down his own decision.

“The chief aim of the program,” according to producer George Dick, “is to get people thinking about the law.” The success of this is indicated by the fact that last year many viewers wrote that they discussed cases long after the programs ended.

“This country is full of living-room lawyers,” wrote a Toronto critic, “and A Case for the Court is their meat.”

An insurance claims adjuster, a probation officer and a minister were among the viewers who requested transcripts or further information on last year’s series. They felt they could use details of the cases in their respective work.

Variety said this of last year’s series: “. . . for sheer excitement and suspense, A Case for the Court is a sleeper that should prove an outstanding summer replacement for the CBC.”

This season, innovations have been made in an effort to make the program even more successful. The program will feature a larger roster of names, faces and factual situations. One case will be argued as in Quebec courts, to show the difference between French and English Canadian law in some civil aspects. Lawyers from Quebec will present the case, with Justice Roger Ouimet, for the Superior Court of Quebec presiding. There also will be a 90-minute special, which will cover a bank robbery from the hold-up scene to the final verdict.

Justice C. D. Stewart of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who appeared on last summer’s series, will preside over four of the new cases.

The first episode, to be seen June 26, is subtitled, My Son’s Good Name. It concerns a high school principal who publicly accused a student of theft. With the accusation proved false, the question arises as to what extent the principal is responsible for damage to the boy’s reputation. Lawyers Barry Pepper, Q.C., and John Howard—both of Toronto—will argue the case before Justice J. McLennan of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Your living room becomes the jury box as interesting points of law are argued by actual lawyers, with actors playing the parts of witnesses.

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

E. J. Pratt

(Network stations excluding CBWT)

Edwin "Ned" Pratt, professor emeritus of English at Victoria College, known as Canada's unofficial poet laureate, is interviewed by J. Frank Willis. In the interview, filmed last summer in a Toronto park, Pratt recalls his early years when he sold brown sugar and corsets and invested in the "universal lung healer" to earn money to attend the University of Toronto. He also talks about his poetry. (This program is a repeat of the feature of February 7th on Close-Up.)

CBWT—Architecture

Architecture for Recreation. This program examines some of the fresh concepts modern architects are giving to parks, playgrounds and sporting arenas. Many strikingly different centres in Canada, the United States and Europe are shown, including the Olympic Stadium in Rome.

Country Calendar

Included is news of the national convention of the Women's Institutes held June 19, 20 and 21 at the University of British Columbia; the Farm Forum of June 8, 9 and 10; the CSGA at Banff June 21 and 22 and the AIC convention at Regina June 26 to 29. The port of Churchill, Man., is visited, and we see preparations for the 1961 whaling season. Stan Westaway talks about weed and insect problems, and summer routines.

Comedy Playhouse

Bachelor Husband, with Richard Denning and Phyllis Kirk. Two newlyweds, employed by a law firm which forbids marriage between employees, are forced to reveal their marital status when a rich client begins to make advances towards the wife.

Silents Please

Fun Factory. Highlights from Mack Sennett's pictures, starring such all-time comedy greats as Charlie Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Fatty Arbuckle, Marie Dressler and the Keystone Kops.

Men of Action

Sir Brian Horrocks is interviewed by Richard Dimpleby concerning his experiences in peace and war over the past 50 years. Sir Brian has served in the 1919 British force in Russia, and in World War II commanded divisions and corps in the Sahara and Northwest Europe. He holds the Military Cross and the D.S.O.

The Music of Eric Wild

Music arranged and conducted by Eric Wild, with guest artists Florence Faiers, Maxine Ware, Marta Hidy and Edward Ewanko. (This is the final program of the series.)

The orchestra plays Easy to Love, Siboney and Prairie Portrait. Maxine Ware sings I Cover the Waterfront and Just You, Just Me. Florence Faiers sings Ouvre Ton Coeur by Georges Bizet, then violinist Marta Hidy plays Scherzo Tarantella by Wieniosky. Together, Miss Faiers and Edward Ewanko sing songs from Leonard Bernstein's West Side Story.

Web of Life

Shell Game. A program on shell collections and identification, and a study of the animals that wear shells.

Walt Disney Presents

The Wilderness Road. Daniel Boone leads a band of settlers into Kentucky and meets an old enemy, Crowfoot, who attacks the expedition and captures Boone's son.

National Velvet

Donald's Friend. Donald blames his imaginary friend, Willie, when

King disappears, making it necessary for Velvet to prove Willie to be just "make-believe."

The World of Music

Wally Koster presents the world of Canadian music, with guests Denyse Ange and Michel Louvain. The Andy Body Dancers perform the jazz suite by Rudy Toth.

Ed Sullivan Show

Ed's guests include humorist Sam Levenson, musical comedy star Nancy Walker and actor Peter Palmer.

General Motors Presents

Power by Proxy, a television drama by Joe Graham, produced by Paul Almond and starring Leslie Nielsen, Budd Knapp and Toby Robbins, with guest star Cec Linder.

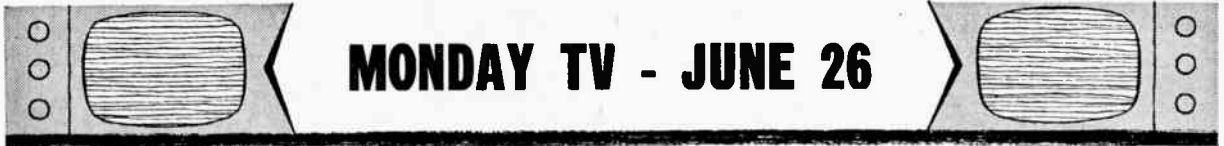

Guy Duncan, a tough young business executive, battles heavy odds to retain control of a big company after the death of its president. His opponents include the late president's daughter, Helen Reynolds, Guy's estranged fiancée.

Cast: Nielsen as Guy Duncan; Knapp as Karl Thurman; Robins as Helen Reynolds; Linder as Bert Kendall; Laddie Dennis as Adele Cummings; Scott Peters as David Reynolds; Douglas Master as Thad Bateson;

PROGRAM NOTES

JUNE 26

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Nursery School Time

Miss Teddy and Hoppy tidy up the nursery school room. Miss Teddy makes a picture of an unusual vacation trip.

Open House

How to Take Pictures of Children. Joan Latchford of Toronto has some ideas for making those snapshots on vacation different and more interesting. She suggests new backgrounds and poses for children.

Reflections

With Gordon Macpherson's orchestra, harpist Phyllis Ensher, soprano Jean Marshall, and violinist Francis Chaplin. From Halifax.

Junior Roundup

The Friendly Giant. Friendly, Rusty and Jerome visit the castle and present their dramatized version of a familiar nursery rhyme.

Host, Murray Westgate. Dave Broadfoot and Jean Templeton conduct games and contests and hold this season's last Telequiz, giving children anywhere in Canada a chance to win prizes. Winners of the last whatisit contest of the season are announced, and magician Michael Roth entertains with interesting magic. George Feyer draws his picture of the week, with the help of youngsters in the studio audience.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Music by Don Messer and his Islanders, with special guests Cy Steele, Rod Dorman and Ron Goodwin, a trio of fiddlers.

The Islanders play St. Anne's Reel and a medley, Flowers of Edinburgh, Rickett's Hornpipe and The London Hornpipe. The Buchta Dancers perform to The Messer Polka and Little Burnt Potato. Marg Osburne sings Terry Town and Vaya Con Dios. Charlie Chamberlain sings There's Nothing Like the Smile of the Irish and Don't Tread on the Tail O' Me Coat, then joins Marg for An Evening Prayer. Pianist Waldo Munro plays a medley of Road to the Isle and Bonnie Lass O' Bon Accord.

Danny Thomas Show

Danny's Uncle Tonoose invests in the Club Copa, and incurs the owner's wrath when he attempts to introduce Lebanese innovations into the club's operations.

GIL CHRISTY

Host for the series A Case for the Court is Gil Christy, who opens each program by talking to witnesses.

The Flintstones

When Wilma and Betty come down with measles on the eve of a television baking contest, Fred and Barney decide to replace them on the program and show their prowess in the kitchen.

A Case for the Court

First show of this summer's series is entitled My Son's Good Name. It concerns a high school principal who publicly accuses a student of theft. With the accusation proved false, the question arises as to the degree to which the principal is responsible for damage to the boy's reputation.

Gil Christy is host, opening the show by talking with the actors who will portray witnesses. The scene then shifts to the courtroom where two real lawyers, Barry Pepper, Q.C., and John Howard, both of Toronto, argue the case before Justice J. McLennan of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Comparisons—

Four Teachers

A National Film Board production, from the Comparisons series. The film shows a typical school day in Canada, Puerto Rico, Poland and Japan. Commentator Gordon Burwash discusses teaching in the four countries with Prof. John R. Seeley of York University and Miss Glenna Reid, a Montreal teacher. Some of the questions dealt with are: How do school environments compare? Is there a difference in student-teacher relationship? Do study courses and extra-curricular activities vary greatly?

of their hearts give the taxpayer for nothing.

"I commend to your attention a recent article by a Vancouver Province columnist. In it he makes a suggestion with which I am very heartily in agreement, since it represents my own views from a good while back. He suggests cutting down the number of hours a day devoted to TV, and improving quality rather than trying to give more quantity. This seems to me to make complete sense. If TV broadcasting did not start before six p.m. each day would it not be possible to

(a) Improve TV quality.

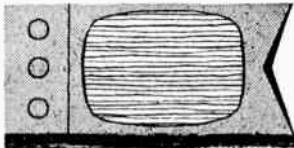

(b) Have a TV system completely free from commercials and therefore completely and delightfully different.

(c) Cut down the overall cost and thereby forestall some of the totally unfair criticism to which the CBC is subjected almost daily.

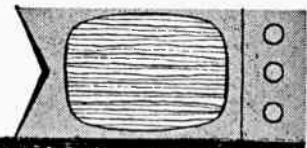

"I would not have bothered to write this letter if I did not feel that the current is setting in fairly strongly against the CBC, and that its downfall, which would be gloated over by the newspapers, would be a first class disaster for Canada."

WILLIS: I think this letter itself indicates where the CBC's best defence would lie if a strong and final defence were needed: and that is with the listeners. But I don't think we have to talk in terms of last stands. Most responsible people and most sections of the press know perfectly well that the CBC gives value for money. People don't always remember that when they're reckoning the value they should include the programs and services that don't happen to affect them personally: the French networks, for instance, or the Northern Service, or the line facilities to relay transmitters. And they like to grumble about what's happening to their taxes. But if there were a serious move to abolish the CBC I think you'd hear from them pretty quickly.

Now I don't mean to discount this Vancouver listener's concern. (Please turn to page 11)

PROGRAM NOTES

JUNE 27

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Nursery School Time

Miss Madeleine and Dick discuss the four seasons of the year, and what they might do during Dick's favorite season, summer. Miss Madeleine reads the story, Baby Susan's Chicken.

Music Break

Florence Faiers is guest today, with Georges LaFleche, host Warren Davis and the Bob McMullin orchestra. Georges sings If Ever I Would Leave You, You Stepped Out of a Dream and a medley of The Song is Ended, Sing a Little Song With Me, and The Song is You. The orchestra plays Les Altenitas and an original by Bob McMullin, Hyrane's Hawkaphone.

Junior Roundup

Maggie Muggins. Maggie is going to the seashore, and Grandmother Frog, Fitzgerald Fieldmouse and Reuben Rabbit try to trick her into taking them.

Host, Murray Westgate. A film is presented from Montreal, and in Toronto, photographer Paul Rockett talks about summer photography. He shows

W. O. MITCHELL

Alberta playwright W. O. Mitchell is interviewed on Close-Up tonight by Pierre Berton, as a prelude to his Jake and the Kid series commencing on CBC-TV.

FLORENCE FAIERS

One of the most consistently popular performers on CBC-TV, Florence Faiers is guest on Music Break, Tuesday. She also appears Sunday on The Music of Eric Wild.

and discusses photos sent in by boys and girls.

Red Skelton Show

George Appleby solves the problem of his wife's constant nagging while he does her housework.

Close-Up

Pierre Berton interviews W. O. Mitchell, as a prelude to the beginning of the television series, Jake and the Kid (Starts Friday, July 7th).

Q for Quest

A Day in the Life of the Great Scholar Wu. Drama affording a glimpse at the sad lot of scholars in ancient feudal China which proves not too unlike the fate of the contemporary egghead. Starring Ted Follows as Wu, with Norman Welsh as Tsai, Bill Brydon as Shiao, Lew Davidson as Lao Da and Edith Elgey as Mother.

There is a good deal of specious criticism of the CBC, and it shouldn't go unanswered.

One answer, of course, is for the CBC to make more noise about what it does: to say a little more often and a little more loudly that it operates five networks and broadcasts in two languages; that it produces thousands of program hours at a lower average cost than any comparable broadcasting system in the world, whether public or private; that most people who've had a chance to compare program quality have far more praise than blame for CBC productions—and we have the international awards to prove it. We could point out that the taxpayer and the consumer are the same man, and that this man pays for broadcasting whether it's public or private. We could produce our own facts and figures to show that neither system could survive alone in this country and give national coverage. For instance, while you're thinking about what the CBC costs, you might picture our 1959-60 season if we had had only that 38 million dollars in commercial revenue to finance our operations—radio and television, remember, French and English, over 4,000 miles. Remove the 50 million or so that came from public funds, and imagine if you can what programs and services you'd

JUNE 28

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Nursery School Time

Miss Teddy is washing Hoppy's clothes and Hoppy is ironing. Miss Teddy reads The Little Swimmers.

Open House

At the Movies. Clyde Gilmour makes his last appearance of the season, making an assessment of current films.

On the Map. Another Open House regular making his final appearance of the season is political economist Paul Fox of the University of Toronto. He comments on a story in the news.

Our Miss Brooks

Miss Brooks faces a new day with enthusiasm, knowing she has a date with Mr. Boynton. But after she acquires a four-leaf clover, her luck changes from good to bad.

The Verdict Is Yours

Starting today, People vs. Lassoff. The co-owner of a furrier business is accused of arson and first-degree murder after his partner dies during a fire in their plant.

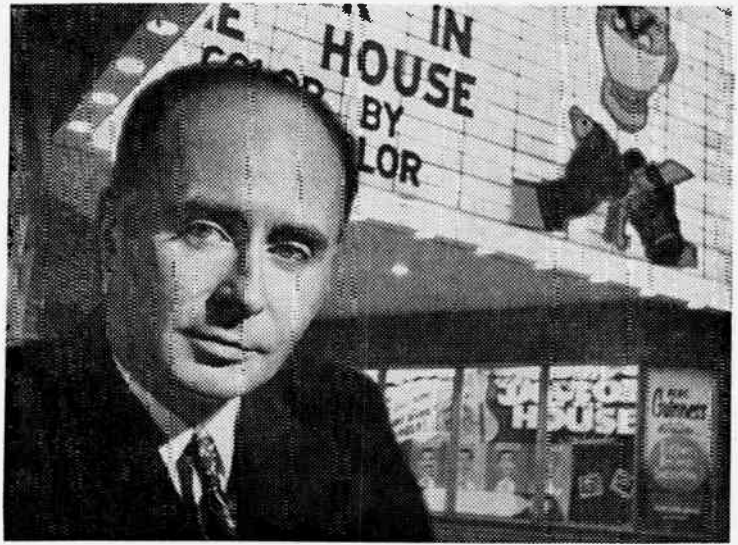

Junior Roundup

The Friendly Giant. Friendly reads the story, Over the Meadow.

Host, Murray Westgate. From Halifax comes Sea Songs and Shanties, with Old Tom and the Shantymen. The Shantymen sing songs of the sea, Annie Farge and Marshall Thompson star as Mr. and Mrs. Smith on the comedy series Angel, seen Wednesday on CBC-TV.

Clyde Gilmour reviews movies on Open House Wednesday for the last time this season.

and Old Tom tells the true story of two ships, the Chesapeake and the Shannon. From Winnipeg, The Outrider, with Stu Phillips. Stu talks about his cowboy friend, Curley, who carried a gold pan around with him on his ranch rounds. From Toronto, Harry Freedman brings us more about music.

CBWT-Swim Time

Jim Mitchell is host of a program filmed at the Central YMCA, Winnipeg, in which a group of youngsters are given elementary instruction in swimming. Special guest is Sid Glensk, physical director at the Central Y. Boys and girls used in the demonstration are Susan Howe, 10, Wendy Boak, 11, Nancy Hallett, 10, Keith McDonald, 10, Jerry Caneilia, 10, and David Coverly, 10.

Countrytime

The new relief milking service is investigated and discussed.

Angel

Johnny sends Angel's father in Paris $500 so that he can send it back as the dowry that Angel demands be paid.

My Three Sons

Steve Douglas invites a general, a potential client, to dinner and ends up driving him around in his son's hotrod.

St. Lawrence North

A film interpreting the ways of the people who live in the old farms and villages in the valley of the Whirlpool River is presented this week.

Explorations

Some Family Arguments Taking Place in French Canada Today, part III. The families discuss politics. Few subjects are so thoroughly discussed today in French Canada as that of Quebec's relationship to the outside world. There are strong feelings about Confederation; some influential French Canadians are holding up banners of ultra-nationalism and separatism.

CBWT-Director's Choice

A young married woman's life is in danger when she is blackmailed by a former boyfriend.

FRANK GALLOP

One of Perry Como's hecklers during his regular season, Frank Gallop hosts the Kraft Mystery Theatre series during the summer months.

Junior Roundup

Sing Ring Around. The last visit with Donna Miller and Cheeky as they sing songs and teach musical dances and stories.

Host, Murray Westgate. Murray presents the conclusion of the film Matti, the story of a boy who leaves Scotland on his own to find his way back to his native Finland. Murray shows another film, Energetically Yours, an amusing look at man's progress in harnessing nature.

Roy Rogers

Roy has Pat Brady take boxing lessons from an instructor who is under suspicion.

CHARLES LAUGHTON
Distinguished actor Charles Laughton plays a guest role Thursday on Checkmate, on CBC-TV.

Alex McKee, Tom Harvey and Aileen Seaton star Thursday on Summer Circuit's presentation of Overlaid, a warm story of a farmer who plans a fling in New York.

CBWT—Stop, Look and Listen

In this final program of the season, Hobby Page editor Geoff Spurr winds up his puppet series with a gay performance on the marionette stage, using all the separate elements previously prepared.

Jack Robbins, photography editor, has as his guest Neil Campbell, who demonstrates how commercial photographers take pictures for advertisements.

Editor-in-chief and host Warren Davis presents a film entitled Making a Decision. Teenagers often resent being told what to do, says the film; but have they the resources for making their own decisions? Finally, Warren reviews some of the items covered on the series, and talks of future plans.

From CBC Winnipeg. Produced by Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBWT—Father Knows Best

Betty Anderson tells her father that her class has agreed that all people's actions are motivated by selfishness. Father sets out to counter this belief.

Live a Borrowed Life

Guest panelist is actress and interviewer Anna Cameron, joining regulars Bill Walker, Danica D'Hoedt and Elwy Yost. Moderator is Charles Templeton.

Checkmate

This week, a British-born missionary arrives in the United States from China and seeks the help of Checkmate Inc. to protect a man from assassination. Guest stars are Charles Laughton, Lisa Lu and Dale Ishimoto.

PROGRAM NOTES

JUNE 30

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Nursery School Time

Miss Teddy and Hoppy visit Miss Madeleine and Dick in their nursery school room for this last program of the series. They sing songs, play games and talk about their vacation plans.

Open House

The studio takes on a holiday mood for the last program of the season. Madame Benoit prepares a picnic lunch. Cartoonist Harry Harley shows some of the hazards of outdoor eating when the man of the house insists on taking over as chef. There is music for a summer day, and Lorraine Thompson reminds us that hot weather is no excuse for neglecting our exercises. Jean Lewis presents some beauty hints for keeping cool, and Margaret Stewart advises us on our holiday reading.

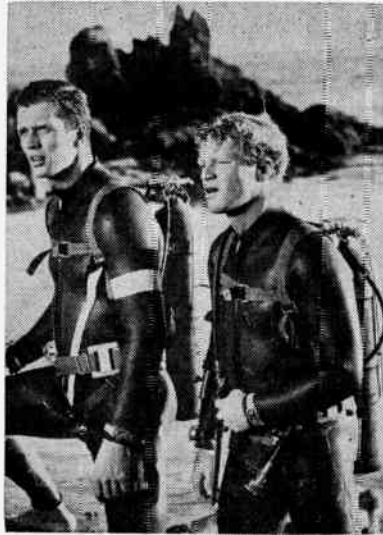

Junior Roundup

The Friendly Giant. Friendly sees a camping site on his way to the castle. He reads a book called Jeff and the 14 Eyes, about a boy who went camping by himself.

Host, Murray Westgate. From Vancouver, the last episode in the series Eyes West, about life in British Columbia. In Toronto, another newscast about Your World This Week brings young Canada up-to-date on the latest happenings. Murray reads and answers letters from the Roundup mailbag.

On Safari in Asia

Dolphins and Dragons, a visit to the zoo in Tokyo and Marineland in Mike Madison and Larry Luhr are the daring skindivers who are central figures in the Aquanauts each Saturday on CBC-TV.

Hiroshima. The cameras also see the dressing of a classical doll in a studio, Japanese fishermen using cormorant birds for fishing and a festival in which ceremonial dragons are dragged through the streets.

Perry Mason

Case of the Calendar Girl. Perry Mason turns calendar art photographer to prove his point in defending a building contractor against a homicide charge.

Danger Man

John Drake goes to the Middle East to find a beautiful girl who is wanted for espionage, possibly high treason.

Have Gun, Will Travel

This week Paladin goes to the assistance of a sheriff of a small town, only to discover that the sheriff is a rifle-toting woman.

further into poverty, rejected and miserable, he plumbs the depths of his soul as he asks: "What is the good of knowledge at all, in times like these?" At the end, this perplexed scholar is unkempt, unwanted, unhelpful. And the lesson he teaches is handled with razor-sharp satire within the terms of Oriental drama.

Author Bertolt Brecht, who died in 1956, is the author of The Threepenny Opera, a musical play on which he collaborated with composer Kurt Weill, when he (Brecht) was a little-known playwright in Germany. After its premiere in 1928 he became a celebrity. (Not long ago, after a five-year run in New York the same show topped the record Oklahoma! peak of 2,248 performances, and one of the show's songs, Mack the Knife, made the hit parade).

But by 1933 Brecht was no longer the fair-haired boy in Germany. The Nazis exiled him and he spent the next 15 years writing (which he does standing up at a lectern) and living quietly in Denmark, Sweden, Finland, France and Hollywood. In 1947, after a scuffle with the Un-American Activities Committee, he went back to Germany, where he founded the famous state-owned stage company, the Berliner Ensemble.

Probably Brecht's greatest work was his Mother Courage, which a Berlin reviewer said "throbbed with the heartbeat of all mankind." Through various locales and moods his theme is always man selling his fellow man. His dramas are like the medieval miracle and morality plays, rude or crude in a folksy way as they teach a lesson as plain as their language.

Annie Farge, star of CBC-TV's "Angel" series, plays much the same role in real life as on TV. A product of the Comedie Francaise, Annie gave up her acting career in Paris to follow her husband Dick Sanders, a dancer-choreographer to the United States. She was discovered by the brilliant producer-director Josh Logan.

FRENCH TELEVISION HIGHLIGHTS

Channel 6—CBWFT

Communaute Radiophonique

More details are now available regarding the Special Variety Program announced last week in the CBC Times (page 33) with reference to the 18th session of the Community of French Broadcasters in Montreal.

A number of Canadian artists, both in the operatic and popular fields, participated in the program, broadcast June 15th on both the AM and FM radio networks and on the French Television Channel, and recorded for presentation in Switzerland, Belgium and France. The program which comes to Winnipeg with one week's delay, will no doubt appeal to a great number of viewers, English and French alike. It will be seen on

RICHARD VERREAU

Channel 6 from 9:00 to 11:00 p.m., Thursday, June 22.

Among the celebrities participating in the program are Canadian troubadour Félix Leclerc, whose world-wide success is due in part to the European French public which first heard him and "took to him" from his very first song, an original ballad titled "Moi mes souliers"; Muriel Millard, French Canada's Miss Music-Hall on radio and television, and a young artist from St. Jean Port-Joli, Quebec, Monique Miville-Déchènes, who composes as well as sings country ballads inspired from the Canadian folklore. French singer Georges Guétary will also be featured.

In the operatic field, duettists Pierrette Alarie and Léopold Simoneau, of the International Festivals, (Please turn to page 29)

Venture

We Investigate the Investigators

*The history of Royal Commissions in Canada is probed Sunday
by CBC Radio's Venture*

ROYAL COMMISSIONS are sober inquiries into economic, social and cultural problems of our time which the cabinet feels can best be investigated that way. The inquiries are made by earnest, well-informed citizens for whom sifting and assessing a staggering amount of evidence and giving an unbiased opinion is an onerous, challenging job.

There have been royal commissions in Canada ever since 1870. And for years people have been complaining that they are only a delaying tactic in helping the government evade responsibility, that they are a confession that the government has lost touch with the people, and that nothing ever happens after their reports are tabled.

Probably not too many people have a clear idea of how royal commissions are appointed, how they operate, and what good they really do. The whole thing will be explained Sunday afternoon on CBC Radio's Venture, from the first commission 91 years ago through the now-famous Massey, Gordon and Borden reports to the current MacPherson and O'Leary Commissions on Transportation and Publications.

Prepared by Peter Stursberg, edited by Dita Scholtz and produced by Hugh Webster, the program will have the Right Honourable Louis St. Laurent as special speaker. Other speakers include Walter Gordon, who discusses the commission he headed on Canada's Economic Prospects; M. A. MacPherson, who talks about work involved in the Transport Commis-

FOUR TEACHERS

How does our education system compare with that of other countries? This special Monday on TV will try to find out

"TOMORROW'S CITIZEN of the world — today's child: volatile, eager, pulsing with life; avid for experience, for excitement, for pleasure; avid for knowledge—who and what am I, how does it work, what does it mean? — a thousand questions and needs, demanded of those who so largely shape the minds of children—their teachers."

Thus begins an hour-long film entitled Four Teachers to be seen this Monday on CBC-TV. It is one of the National Film Board's Comparisons programs and consists of vignettes of education in Japan, Puerto Rico, Poland and Canada.

Actually, the program includes six teachers. Besides the ones seen in the four countries, two of the three commentators are educators: Professor John R. Seeley of Toronto's York University, a social scientist and educator whose research, lectures and writing are internationally known and respected; and Glenna Reid of Montreal, whose teaching career is temporarily suspended while she completes a degree course in education at McGill University.

The other commentator is Gordon Burwash who discusses with Professor Seeley and Miss Reid the various aspects of teaching as shown in the four countries.

Comparisons are made of school environments; differences, if any, in teacher-student relationship; the courses of study and interests in extra-curricular activities.

Film of a typical school day in Japan, Poland and Puerto Rico was produced for the NFB by film

Treasures from a $1,000,000 collection of jewellery were shown recently on CBWT's Three's Company. Bill Guest and Mary Liz Bayer admire a beautiful elephant, carved from ivory and encrusted with some $10,000 worth of gems, a showpiece of the collection of Ganeshi Lall and Son which passed through Winnipeg while returning from Vancouver where it was on display. Also pictured is a jewel box and items of personal jewellery. Highlight of the fabulous collection is a $500,000 rug studded with 18,000 precious and semi-precious stones, which could not be shown on the program due to security restrictions.

CBC Wednesday Night

Music of the Sun King

Works of three composers of the court of Louis XIV are featured this week on CBC Wednesday Night

DURING HIS REIGN of 73 years, the longest in European history, Louis XIV, the Sun King, had a highly civilizing effect on France and the rest of Europe, despot though he was. He built a setting for himself at Versailles that was like a miniature Louvre and Tivoli Gardens rolled into one, with a touch of fairyland and Hollywood. Every bit of botanical beauty and rarity, every exotic sample of European art that money or guile could buy, were there, and it had literally taken a cast of thousands to produce this splendid monument to the glory of France. As many as 30,000 soldiers worked on it at a time (when they could be spared from one war or another) at a cost that would make even Hollywood gasp: $112 millions.

Night after night the court at Versailles glittered elegantly in the winking light from dozens of candle-lit chandeliers strung through its elaborately decorated salons and corridors. The swell of violins putting some new work through its première for the pleasure of the Sun King, the skip of dancing feet or laughter at the sally of a comic actor would often drift through the windows and over the spreading tapis vert, to the famous Orangery, the Swiss Lake, the magnificent fountains and groves. For Louis, besides being a scented, lace-and-satin-decked Commander of the Faithful, was an artist of some merit, and, from his early teens, a staunch supporter of the arts. He loved music, and under his wing several important composers developed and prospered.

On CBC Wednesday Night CBC Radio presents Music of the Sun King, 90 minutes of music written for the court of Louis XIV. A CBC Montreal orchestra is conducted by Jean Beaudet, a chorus is directed by George Little, and soloists are soprano Rene Maheux, contralto Fernande Chiocchio, tenor Jean-Louis Pellerien, and bass Napoleon Bisson. Three selections will be heard: the suite from L'Europe Galante by Andrew Campra, Concert dans le Gout Theatrical by François Couperin, and Te Deum by J. B. Lully.

Of the three, Lully had the most colourful career, was close to the King for a longer period, and enjoyed the most remarkable strokes of luck that swept him from obscure poverty to great wealth. He was the first of a number of distinguished foreign composers who settled in Paris and had considerable influence on French music.

Giovanni Battista Lulli (he changed the spelling of his name later) was the son of a humble Florentine. A Franciscan friar taught the boy to read and to play the guitar, and then Lully taught himself to play the violin. He used to join the strolling players at carnival time, dancing, singing, playing his violin and cutting up.

Professor Seeley, like so many education authorities in this country, believes there is room for considerable improvement in the calibre of Canadian teachers as a whole. While he feels that a higher salary scale would help improve the general standards of teaching, Professor Seeley thinks a greater factor is "interest and intensity in the teaching profession—a greater urge to know more, to accomplish more."

"So many conditions are required to bring this about," he says. "More concentrated study, possibly longer courses, possibly many more bursaries and scholarships; so on and so on. One key factor, I feel, have been left with. Work out any sort of system you like, and you'll find that either the service isn't the one you have now, or it's simply being paid for with money from another pocket.

This is one kind of answer, as I said. And I think myself that there's more point in showing people what they're getting for their money than in cutting back established services just to forestall unfair criticism in certain sections of the press. But in the end it's our programs and services that speak best for us to the listener, and very often it's the listener himself who answers the extravagant criticisms in some (only some) sections of the press. I think I have just time to read you part of a letter that was published some weeks ago in Saskatoon. I think it will show our Vancouver listener that he is not alone in his feelings: Here is one listener's answer:

"Many of those who continually rail against the existence of the CBC should familiarize themselves with the meaning of the word 'intolerance.' One rarely finds CBC fans, much less the CBC, campaigning for the abolition of private broadcasting; why, then, can't CBC opponents be content to allow us to have the kind of program we enjoy? It is no argument that those who never listen to the CBC are still compelled to support it as taxpayers, because it is equally true that those who never partake of commercial radio and television are still compelled to support it as consumers. In any case the CBC does not confine itself to Rawhide, Bertrand Russell and the National Ballet; it also features Front Page Challenge, NHL hockey, and Don Messer. If these critics can find nothing in this whole spectrum to suit their tastes, one can be pardoned for wondering what it is, indeed, that they do want."

SATURDAY TV NOTES

McCarthy, 21-year-old Toronto folk-singer, makes his first TV appearance, singing Mary Anne, Wabash Cannonball, and an Argentine song, Viva Ju Ju. Ten dancers, directed by Alan Lund, do selections from two modern ballets: a western ballet, to the music of Aaron Copland; and a Spring ballet, to excerpts from William Walton's Facade.

CBWT—Horse Opera

Today's movie is Border Saddlemates, starring Rex Allen and Jane Richards.

World of Sport Presents
Le Mans Grand Prix

Some of the top auto racers in the world take part in this international race at Le Mans, France, 115 miles southwest of Paris. The 24-hour race takes place on an irregularly shaped track, 8.3 miles in length. CBC presents an edited BBC kine of the high-lights.

United Church Ordination

Films of the ordination of ten United Church ministers by the Rev. T. R. Davies, president of the Hamilton Conference, at Westdale United Church, Hamilton, Ont. The Very Rev. Angus J. McQueen, past moderator of the General Council, preaches the sermon.

Enthronement of the Archbishop of Canterbury

Films of ceremonies enthroning The Most Rev. Arthur Michael Ramsey, former Archbishop of York, as the new Archbishop of Canterbury. Dr. Ramsey, nominated by the Queen to the See of Canterbury several months ago, was elected by the Chapter of Canterbury and confirmed in St. Paul's Cathedral. The actual enthronement, taking place June 27th, will make him the 100th Archbishop of Canterbury.

Folk Songs with Ed McCurdy

A new summer series of songs and informal chat with Ed McCurdy. He introduces songs by telling their meaning, and how he discovered them. Each week he sings a special song for the children, and occasionally introduces one of his own compositions.

Dennis the Menace

Mr. Wilson's ex-boss asks him to rejoin the firm to help an out-of-town office out of trouble. The problems of moving to another city are compounded when Wilson again is victimized by one of Dennis' good deeds.

The Aquanauts

Larry finds he is teaching skin-diving to an ex-convict intent on revenge. (Originally scheduled for June 17th).

Great Movies

Northwest Passage, with Spencer Tracy, Walter Brennan and Robert Young. A 1939 historical adventure in which Tracy battles Indians in search for the northwest passage between the Atlantic and Pacific.

Juliette

This is Juliette's final program for the season, and she appears without a guest.

CBWT—I Love Lucy

Lucy soaks up plenty of local colour when she tramples grapes to set the mood for a role in an Italian movie.

from the peak period between 1911 and 1920 when we had an average of seven a year. Britain's peak was the 1850's, when she averaged eight a year, and Joshua Toulmin Smith, in his book Government by Commission, Evil and Pernicious, declared that "they would, in fact, put the whole earth in commission and deliver over the whole human race saved from the flood." Now Britain's average is down to two. In both countries this peak period coincided with the sort of conditions royal commissions appear to thrive on: crises, growth and development, and adjustment—social and economic—after growth. Some people claim that Canada has "commissionitis." There have been well over 1,200 federal inquiries since Confederation, and anywhere from 10 to 25 per cent of them are described as royal commissions.

Many of these commissions have been investigations of questions of great historical importance, and the variety of their subject matter is flabbergasting. Just about the only thing royal commissions haven't looked into is themselves.

Roughly there are three kinds of commissions. One examines disasters such as fire, flood or accident, or looks into scandals or supposed scandals. Examples are the Quebec Bridge inquiry of 1908, the loss of the Empress of Ireland in 1914, the Parliament Buildings fire of 1916, the Bren machine-gun contract of 1939, the Canadian forces at Hong Kong in 1942, and the Halifax riots on VE Day. Another kind of commission, which usually contributes something of lasting value to the community, looks into social and cultural aspects of our way of life, such as the cost of living, industrial relations, broadcasting, the penal system, and the development of our arts, letters and sciences.

The third important group deals with aspects of Canadian economics, an outstanding example being the Rowell-Sirois commission on Dominion - provincial relations, in 1940. Nearly all our basic industries and occupations have been investigated at some time or another, some of them several times.

CBW-LATE CONCERT

Another in the series of 99 commissioned works by the Louisville Symphony Orchestra. Ben Horch, producer. Tonight's program includes:

A. The Mirror Felix Borowski

The composer describes this as "a reflection of the soul of the beholder who, looking into the mirror, sees something which moves him to emotions that are vivid and disturbing" without the work becoming program music.

B. The Louisville Symphony No. 7 Henk Badings

Badings, speaks of this as a symphony based on "dodecaphonic features within a framework of octophonic and hexaphonic tonality, and linear lines shaped in antiphonic phrases with changing rhythms of three and two alternating crotchets."

C. Prelude and Passacaglia. Opus 42 Ben Weber

The composer molds into one long movement two distinct forms that

Festival National De Musique

The National Festival of Music, a yearly event taking place on a nationwide scope over the French radio and television networks, will be seen on Channel 6, Sunday June 25th, from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. It will feature winners from all across the country.

Expeditions

The series Expeditions, presented on the French network on Tuesday evenings at 9:30, can be considered among TV's most fascinating tools of learning, and stands out as one of the more popular and interesting documentaries, with adults as well as with students.

The series, which originated in the United States, was designed primarily for some 175,000 professors and 9,000,000 students who could follow the program with the help of text books. Only one month after the origination however, some 96,000 more professors and students had written for more details and the accompanying manuals and teaching guides.

Expéditions is more than a documentary; it is the real-life adventure story of prominent researchers and explorers. Although some find it easy to discredit documentaries generally as dull and hardly informative, they generally agree that the series Expéditions is an exception. It has done much to discourage prejudices and intolerance among students and other persons who see it, as well as to encourage scientific research, the love of art and the knowledge of geography.

Here are the titles of some of the forthcoming programs in this series: June 27: "The Last Nomads of the Arctic," a documentary by Per Host, Norwegian photographer and explorer; July 4: "The War Tribes of the Amazon," comments by James Marshall; July 11: "The Ovbos," a report on a musk-ox hunt by doctors Lange Kech, and Christian Vibe; July 18: "The Lost World of the Kalaharis," first of a two-part program on a caravan conducted by Colonel Laurens Van der Post in Africa; July 25: "The Last Inhabitant of the Bush-Country," a continuation of the previous documentary.

SCIENCE REVIEW

Tenth in a series of broadcasts by scientists about the life in science. In popular terms, scientists describe their work, their interests, and the ideas which have prompted their research. Editor and host is Lister Sinclair.

This week - "Faster Than Light."

The famous glow around the radium flasks which Madame Currie saw when she went into her laboratory one night, was not explained until recent times when it became the special study of Cherenkoff in Russia. The radiation was named for him and he received the Nobel Prize for his work. Cherenkoff showed that this radiation was originated by particles passing through a medium, faster than the speed of light in the medium. The application of this work and its meaning to physics, are the themes of the program. Speakers: A. D. Misener, director of the Ontario Research Foundation; M. Bercovitch, general physics division, Atomic Energy of Canada, Limited; F. A.

antics caught the attention of the Chevalier de Guise, who was passing through Florence on his way to Paris from Malta. To please his niece, cousin of the French King, who wanted to learn Italian, the Chevalier took Lully home with him to France.

Once there, however, Lully found himself relegated to the kitchens as a scullion. In his free time he learned the songs of the day and played them on his violin with an engaging charm. A visiting Count chanced to hear him one day, and before long Lully had been given a place in the Princess' Band at the Palace d'Orleans. There he quickly outdistanced the other musicians, but his mischievous habit of writing sarcastic poems and setting them to music got him into trouble with the Princess. He wrote a song poking fun at her, she got wind of it, and dismissed him in disgrace. Fortunately, King Louis XIV, who was the same age as Lully, around 14, had taken a fancy to him. On one occasion Lully's comical behaviour on stage in a court comedy had been so exaggerated that he fell into the orchestra pit and shattered the harpsichord. The King had never laughed harder, and when he heard that the boy was "at liberty" after the incident with the Princess, he made him a member of his private orchestra, the King's Twenty-Four Violins, as well as ballet dancer and composer of music for the elaborate entertainment Louis favoured.

Soon Lully persuaded the King to let him form his own orchestra, Les Petits-Violons du Roi, which became known as one of the seven wonders of artistic Europe. All this was before either Lully or his patron were out of their teens.

In the centre of court lavishness and intrigue, in Paris and later at Versailles, Lully was in his element. Being a cunning, energetic, resourceful young man he soon realized that he needed more study to make the most of his opportuni-

CRITICAL YEAR

Last in a series of four programs surveying past season's films, visual arts, music and drama. This week — Music. A recent CBC Times article quoted Alfred Frankenstein, music and art critic of the San Francisco Chronicle, as saying that the gap between the composer and his audience is 300 years old. This unfortunate state of affairs, what is being done about it and what could be done to close the gap, will be discussed by Richard Johnston of the Faculty of Music, University of Toronto, and music reviewer for CJBC Views the Shows; John Beckwith, composer, broadcaster, journalist, and member of the Faculty of Music, University of Toronto, whose CBC radio show, The World of Music, has been a long-time favourite on Sunday nights; and John Adaskin, conductor, director of the Canadian Music Centre, and a member of one of Canada's most distinguished musical families. They will also discuss composing in Canada, ties, and he began to perfect himself as a solo player and conductor, took harpsichord and organ lessons from the best masters, and was well on his way to becoming an outstanding composer by his early twenties. He let nothing and nobody stand in his way. He could be quite ruthless, didn't give a hoot for morals, and lost no opportunity for ingratiating himself with those in authority. If other people's heads or jobs fell by the wayside, that mattered little to him. Above all, he studied how to amuse and please the King, the Queen, and later the royal mistresses, who were the chief influences at court.

No festival or court celebration was complete without Lully's music. He and the King often danced side by side in the numerous court ballets he composed. There were over 30 of them between 1658 and 1671. These soon became more like operas with ballet interludes, as Lully grew intrigued with the opera form, and when he began collaborating with the great comic writer Molière in 1664, Lully raced ahead in style and royal favour. By 1671 he had persuaded the King to grant him the exclusive right to organize operatic performances in Paris. Thirteen years later this prerogative was extended to the whole French kingdom.

After Molière's death, Lully began a profitable 14-year collaboration with the poet Quinault. They wrote 20 operas and firmly established French opera tradition for many years. Even Lully's church music was operatic in style.

Lully's death, at the height of his fame and power, in his mid-fifties, was the result of an accident that sounds as if it came straight from one of his own comic-ballets. Conducting a festive Te Deum one night to celebrate the King's recovery from a severe illness, Lully accidentally struck his foot with his baton. An abscess formed, Lully consulted a quack who only aggravated the sore, it went septic, and he died in one of the four elegant homes he owned in Paris.

Postmark U.K.'s Host

Sam Pollock Pays a Visit

AFTER BROADCASTING from Britain to Canadians for 10 years on Postmark U.K. (Sunday mornings on CBC radio), Sam Pollock finally has come over to say hello. His popular weekly newsletter about life in Britain brought him so much mail from listeners describing life in Canada that he decided to come and see the country for himself.

Although he has travelled on business and pleasure all over the world — Germany, China, France, Spain — he had never set foot in North America until the end of May, in spite of his 10-year liaison with thousands of listeners across Canada. "Many of them would look me up in London, even if only for a cup of coffee," he said, "and describe the beauties of Canada so eloquently that I just had to come and see for myself. I've been trying to arrange a trip for quite a while, and decided that Postmark U.K.'s 10th anniversary, June 4, would be as good a time as any. I'm going to look up some of the friends I've made through the program, as well as a brother in Hamilton, other relatives in Calgary, and I must see Montreal before the end of my five-week visit."

Pollock is just the way he sounds — informal and friendly. When we met him, a couple of days after he landed in Toronto, he said he was busy seeing the city—on foot, a fact which completely astonishes nearly everyone he asked for directions. "They could tell me how to get there by bus or subway, but walking? Unheard of!"

In 1943 Pollock wrote and broadcast a CBC radio talk called Where are you going to, my pretty maid?, in which he urged British women to stand up and fight for their rights. That was the start of his long career in broadcasting. He's a man of strong personal views, like most Irishmen, and he doesn't hesitate to state them forcefully. The BBC has given him a completely free hand, ever since he joined the staff in 1945 as a producer of industrial programs offering career guidance to ex-servicemen and war workers. He produced BBC talks and public affairs programs until he began to freelance in 1950.

Shortly afterwards he started broadcasting his human and pithy reports on the British scene, particularly industrial and economic aspects, for the BBC's Overseas Service. The CBC first presented them the following year, with a companion piece by Arthur Bush, under the title of Postmark U.K. Bush offers recorded visits to places and people of interest around Britain, a feature that has become so popular that he now has a staff of four other broadcasters who roam the United Kingdom recording bits of nostalgia for Britons abroad.

Both of the overseas commentaries are prepared in London and flown to Canada a few days before each broadcast. We asked Pollock how he puts his show together. He began to laugh. "I use a devious method. I watch the news carefully through the week for something that will remind me of something else. . . . My BBC producer claims that she can never tell by the way I start my script what I intend to talk about. For instance, one script about umbrellas led off with a reference to the fact that I'd noticed that a new taxi service had opened in the streets of London."

CBC producer John Reeves, who has been involved with Postmark U.K. in Toronto since 1952, says "one of Pollock's favourite approaches to life is to puncture the balloon of pomposity. He treads on the odd corn or two, but he does it with such charm, wit and good humour that it's obvious he has no wish to give offence."

Pollock receives quantities of fan mail, not only from Britons in Canada but from native-born Canadians who enjoy his spirited slant on things in the U.K. "Listener reaction is almost entirely favourable, thank goodness," he says. "And when people do occasionally check me on something I've said, they are usually very generous about it. An Ottawa woman wrote to say I'd been implying that Toronto was the capital of Canada and she felt she should set me straight. A funny thing — I've found that Canadians tend to be more English than the English. If I make a playful but kindly reference to British aristocracy, they write in indignantly to say 'long may our aristocracy live.'"

Pollock tells us that early in his Postmark U.K. days he was almost inundated with food parcels from listeners in Canada. "They seemed to think we were living under almost siege conditions, and probably said 'we must ship off some vitamins to poor old Pollock to keep him from starving'. To offset this I began broadcasting such glowing accounts of life in Britain that an Englishman, Tom Sloan, who was BBC representative in Canada, packed up and went home! Now he's head of BBC-TV light entertainment."

Brings Back Memories

• Listening to Red River Jamboree of Saturday, May 27th, I was delighted to hear some of the songs composed by the late Inez Bower. Mrs. Bower was a very good friend of ours in Humboldt, Sask.

We have quite a regard for the program, having lived in Winnipeg some 40 years ago. It has many nice memories. . . .—Mrs. E.B., Victoria

"Most Informative and Helpful . . ."

• Enclosed please find a money order to cover a subscription to the CBC Times to be sent to . . . the Radio, TV and Film convener of the local Catholic Women's League. We find this magazine most informative and helpful ourselves, and have recommended it to our Parish Council of the Catholic Women's League . . . to help with the ratings in our weekly Parish Bulletin. — Mrs. N.F.C., Wymark, Sask.

Likes "Flintstones"

• On reading the Times for June 4 to 10, I notice that someone in Medicine Hat objects to The Flintstones and wants a change. For my part, I rather like that item. . . . Life has so much sadness in it, that anything to induce laughter is, to me, a good thing. . . .—P.G.C., Winnipeg

New Program a Hit

• May I take this opportunity to express the appreciation of my family and visitors for the fine program we enjoyed (Sunday, June 4th) under the direction of Mr. Eric Wild. We were thrilled with the entire program, but must specially mention the artists . . . they were splendid, and made us proud to be Canadians.

We shall be looking forward to hearing Mr. Wild and these artists again, as the program was one of the finest we have heard in a long time; in fact, I cannot recall its equal. —G.O.B., Saint John, N.B.

• I should not let another day pass without letting you know how thoroughly I enjoyed the singing on The Music of Eric Wild this Sunday (June 4). I have a preference for good "beefy" voices and I heard a couple of fine ones that day, to be sure. Miss Faiers walked off with the acting honors, however. There appears to be a lot of talent wrapped up in that little lady and it is to be hoped that the CBC will continue to use it well.—A.M., Winnipeg

$4.00 Well Spent

• Mr. Ouimet's statement on CBC Finances in your issue of June 11th-17th certainly counters much of the unjust criticism of the CBC appearing in the press. When I consider that my personal share of CBC costs is only $4.00 per year, I feel my money is being well spent. G.R.B., Winnipeg
