

Sales Personnel Changed by NBC

Blue Gets Eastern Division Group; Additions to Red

DIVISION of NBC's sales organization into two distinct departments, each headed by its own vice-president and each devoting itself exclusively to the sales of one of NBC's two networks [BROADCASTING, June 15], has caused a rearrangement of sales personnel of the Red and Blue networks. Several members of the eastern division sales staff have been transferred to the new Blue sales force and four new men have been added to the Red sales staff.

Executive set-up of the Red Network sales department is that which formerly headed all NBC sales: Roy C. Witmer, vice-president; Edward R. Hitz, assistant to Witmer; I. E. Showerman, eastern division sales manager, and George H. Frey, sales service manager. John H. McNeil, James Martin, Walter E. Myers and Reynold R. Kraft remain as salesmen, although the creation of separate sales staffs has necessitated a reassignment of accounts among staff.

Red Sales Additions

Additions to the Red sales force include Gordon H. Mills, formerly of the spot and local sales department; William L. Kost, previously with Life magazine and recently sales promotion manager for the Lennox Co. of Westchester County; Eugene A. Kraemer, a former newspaper space buyer and for four years Eastern advertising manager of Scientific American, and Frederick Horton, who comes to NBC from the Alco-Gravure division of Publication Corp.

Edgar Kobak is vice-president in charge of Blue Network sales. Keith Kiggins, former director of the Blue, is sales manager and Robert Saudek is assistant to Kobak and Kiggins. Blue sales personnel, all transferred from the eastern division staff, are D. R. Buckham, George M. Benson, Paul M. Massman, Charles E. Phelps, Fred M. Thrower Jr., Dudley Rollinson, John G. Hoagland and William Materne. John S. de Russy, formerly in the sales department of KYW, Philadelphia, replaces Gordon Mills in spot and local sales.

Physical separation of the sales force is being completed with the establishment of Blue sales headquarters on the third floor of the RCA Bldg. Red headquarters remain on the fourth floor, with the NBC statistical staff moving from the third to fourth floor into space formerly occupied by the program analysis division, which is now located on the ninth floor.
